ſix hundred ſhekels of gold by weight] 2 Sam.24.24. it is, So David bought the threſhing-floor and the oxen for fifty ſhekels of ſilver. There is a great difference between theſe two prices, For fifty ſhekels of ſilver amount but to ſix pounds five ſhillings ſterling; but ſix hundred ſhekels of gold, to ſeven hundred and fifty pounds. See 1 Kin. 10.16. The leſs price was paid onely for the oxen, inſtruments and threſhing-floor; but the greater for all Ornans land and houſes thereabouts. Or it may be that Ornan priced all that David deſired onely at fifty ſhekels of ſilver, but David of his royal bounty would give him ſix hundred ſhekels of gold by weight. It is ſaid of Solomon, 1 Kin.10.13. that he gave unto the Queen of Sheba all her deſire whatſoever ſhe asked, beſides that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty: And ſo might David here do to Ornan.

V.26. And David built there an altar unto the Lord] This he did upon the direction of the Angel, v. 18.

and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings] See 1 King.3.15. He added theſe offerings to his confeſſion of ſin and craving of pardon, v.8. to ſhew that all we can do is nothing without that ſatisfaction which Chriſt hath made for our ſins.

and called upon the Lord] Prayer muſt be joyned with all other warrantable ſervices; for by it a bleſſing on all is obtained from the Lord. Therefore it is ſaid, 2 Sam.24.23. that the Lord was entreated for the land.

and he anſwered him from heaven by fire, &c.] See 1 King.18.24. 2 Chro.7.1. The fire wherewith ſacrifices were to be burned was at Gibeon, where the Altar for burnt-offerings then was, ch. 16.40. But thither none durſt go becauſe of the plague, v.30. and with no ordinary fire might a ſacrifice be offered, Lev.10.1,2. therefore David prayed for fire from heaven, and the Lord ſent it: In which reſpect it is ſaid that he anſwered him from heaven by fire.

V.27. And the Lord commanded the Angel] That Angel mentioned v.16. The Lord hath a command over deſtroyers, to put them on, or to reſtrain them, as he pleaſeth.

and he put up his ſword again into the ſheath thereof] This hath relation to the drawn ſword, v.16. As that phraſe ſet out deſtruction by the plague, ſo this imports a ceaſing to deſtroy. And thereupon it is ſaid, 2 Sam.24.25. the plague was ſtaied from Iſrael. This ſhews that the reſtraint noted v.15. is to be referred to this place, and that it followed upon Davids offering and calling upon the Lord.

V.28. At that time] Or, after that time. For this hath reference to further actions of David.

when David ſaw that the Lord had anſwered him] V. 26.

in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite] See v. 18.

then he ſacrificed there] He did not onely offer up thoſe ſolemn burnt-offerings, v. 26. upon that extraordinary occaſion, but alſo afterwards on other occaſions he there ſacrificed. This was a place ſanctified of old by Abrahams building an Altar there, Gen. 22. 2,9. and afterwards, 2 Chr. 3.1.

V. 29. For the Tabernacle of the Lord which Moſes made in the wilderneſs] See Exod.36.8, &c. and the Altar of the burnt-offering] See Exod.38.1, &c.

were at that ſeaſon] When this plague was inflicted.

in the high place at Gibeon] See ch.16.39. 1 King.3.4.

V. 30. But David could not go before it to enquire of God] The Tabernacle was the place where the Prieſts attended; and by the Prieſts both the King and others uſed to enquire of God: but the Tabernacle being at Gibeon, David could not go thither.

for he was afraid] Even as Ornan and his ſons were, v.20. For the plague when it rageth maketh all of all ſorts afraid.

becauſe of the ſword of the Angel of the Lord] i. e. The plague. See v.14,15,16. It appears by this that many fell by the plague at Gibeon.

CHAP. XXII.

Verſ.1. THen David ſaid] When God had teſtified his acceptation of his ſacrifice, both by fire from heaven, and alſo by removing the plague, ch. 21.26,27.

This is the houſe of the Lord God] i. e. The place where the Temple is to be built. God had of old declared that he would have an eſpecial houſe for his ſervice, Deut.12.11. and had alſo told David that his ſon ſhould build that houſe, ch.17.12. And now by the fore-mentioned evidences of Gods accepting his ſacrifice in this place, together with the charge the Prophet gave him to erect an Altar there, ch.21.18,19. he gathered that there muſt be the houſe of God. And this he might the rather do by calling to mind the Altar which Abraham erected in this place, and the ſacrifice which he thereupon offered, Gen. 22.2,9,13. Beſides, being a Prophet, he might have ſome ſpecial revelation of Gods mind concerning this. Or Gad might from the Lord declare it to him.

and this is the Altar] i. e. In this place ſhall an Altar be built. For Solomon made another Altar, 2 Chr.4.1.

of the burnt offering for Iſrael] Whereon the people of God ſhall time after time offer all their burnt-offerings.

V.2. And David commanded to gather together the ſtrangers that were in all the land of Iſrael] i. e. Such as were not deſcended from Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, but were of other Nations, and dwelt among the Iſraelites, and were tributary unto them. See 1 King.9.20,21. Among theſe, Sidonians and Tyrians are eſpecially meant. See 1 King.5.6,18. The imploying of ſtrangers about building of the Temple was a type of the calling of the Gentiles unto the Church of Chriſt.

and he ſet Maſons to hew wrought ſtones] Heb. ſtones of cutting. See 1 King.5.15,17,18.

to build the houſe of God] See 1 King.3.1. David was not to build the Temple himſelf, ch.17.4. but he prepared fit materials for his ſon to build it withal.

V.3. And David prepared iron in abundance] For there is great uſe of iron in all ſorts of building.

for the nails for the doors of the gates] The gates here meant were at the entrances into the Courts. For the doors of the Moſt Holy and Holy places were hung on hinges of gold and ſilver; of which metal were the nails alſo, 1 King.7.50. 2 Chr.3.8.

and for the joynings] Hereby are meant ſuch hinges as the leaves of the doors did hang and turn upon.

and braſs in abundance without weight] i. e. The braſs provided for the houſe of God was laid up and committed to over-ſeers without weighing it. For it would have been too great a task to have weighed all, and too great a charge to have been accountable for all by weight. See 1 King.4.47. 2 King.25.16.

V.4. Alſo Cedar-trees in abundance] The greateſt part of the timber uſed about the Temple was of Cedar. See 1 King.5.6.& 6.9.

for the Zidonians and they of Tyre brought much Cedar-wood] Lebanon, where Cedars grew, was in the dominion of the King of Tyre. See 1 King.5.6. to David] For Hiram, the King of Tyre and Zidon, was ever a lover of David. See 1 King.5.1. 2 Sam.5.11.

V.5. And David ſaid] This might be an holy Soliloquie betwixt David and his own ſoul. Or otherwiſe he might ſay it to ſuch a congregation as is mentioned ch.29.1.

Solomon my ſon is young and tender] In what reſpect he is ſaid to be young, ſee 1 King.3.7. He is ſaid to be tender in regard of the mildneſs and meekneſs of his diſpoſition, and in that he had not been accuſtomed to war or any great imployments.

and the houſe that is to be builded for the Lord] For his honour, the evidences of his preſence, and means of worſhipping him. See 1 King. 3.1.

muſt be exceeding magnifical] Heb. to make great, to be above. Such as may appear to be very great indeed, excelling all others. Thus it was in the ſervice it ſelf, and in the ornaments appertaining thereunto. It was one of the worlds wonders. It was far more excellent then the Tabernacle: for that was but cloth, this of hewn ſtone; and this in all dimenſions far exceeded that: So the Cherubins, Sea, and other things in the Temple were much larger and fairer then thoſe in the Tabernacle. See 1 King.6.23,&c. and 7.23. Beſides, there were in the Temple ten Tables and ten Candleſticks to one in the Tabernacle, 1 King.7.49. 2 Chron. 4.8. As for the other buildings, though there might be ſome higher, or longer, or wider, yet there was never any that had ſuch coſtly materials, ſuch curious workmanſhip, ſuch divine ſervices, ſuch repreſentations of Gods Majeſty and mercy, as this; and which prefigured ſuch myſtical, ſpiritual and celeſtial truths as this did.

of fame] Heb. for a name. To be highly accounted of all, and to be of greater repute then any other building.

and of glory] Or, and for ornament. Some joyn this epithet with the former, q. d. a moſt glorious name. He meant ſuch an excellency as by words could not be ſufficiently expreſſed, and therefore heapt up theſe many epithets one upon another.

throughout all countries] He would have it ſuch an houſe as ſhould not onely be admired by the Iſraelites, among whom it was, but alſo among other nations, to whom the report thereof ſhould come. The fame of this houſe ſpread abroad throughout all nations. See 1 King.8.41,42. It was one thing that ſtruck the Queen of Sheba into a great amazement, 1 King.10.4.

I will therefore now make preparation for it] See v. 2. Becauſe it was to be ſuch an houſe as is before deſcribed, he thought it would be too great a task for his ſon both to prepare materials, and alſo to build it. Therefore he doth the former, and this was a point of great prudence and zeal.

So David prepared abundantly before his death] He had not onely purpoſes to do ſuch a thing, but while he had time he indeed did what he purpoſed.

V.6. Then he called for Solomon his ſon] It may be he ſpake this to Solomon alone, that ſo he might give the more heed to his words.

and charged him to build] He left it not to his ſons choice, but laid an expreſs command upon him, that he might not fail to do it.

an houſe for the Lord God of Iſrael] See v.5. & 1 King.8.15.

V.7. And David ſaid to Solomon, My ſon] This title uttered by a father is an evidence of great favour; and thereby draweth his ſon to attend to him the more diligently. Some read it in the third perſon, to Solomon his ſon: but the former reading hath the greater emphaſis.

as for me] This ſheweth how greatly he deſired if he might have had his own will, to have done it himſelf.

it was in my mind to build an houſe] See ch. 17.1. This he maketh known to his ſon, to move him the rather, to do that which he himſelf could not do, though he deſired it.

unto the name of the Lord] See 1 King.5.3.

my God] See ch.13.2. 1 King.8.28.

V.8. But the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying] This hath reference to ch.17.3,&c.

Thou haſt ſhed blood abundantly] This is not expreſſed in that anſwer which Nathan brought to David, but is implyed by the mention of thoſe enemies which were cut off before him, ch.17.8. The blood here ſaid to be ſhed abundantly is not upbraided unto David as a matter of injury or cruelty, but alledged onely as a reaſon of his unfitneſs to build the Temple. Saul and Ahab for ſparing loſe their Kingdomes, 1 Sam. 15. 23. 1 King.20. 32. 42. David for ſhedding blood may not build the Temple; yet the Levites for their fact, Exod. 32. and Phinehas for his, Num.25. have the Prieſthood ſettled on them. See Photius Epiſt. 219.

and haſt made great wars] No King of Iſrael fought more battels, nor had more mighty enemies then David. He began with a Giant, 1 Sam.17.50. and he ſubdued all the nations round about him, ſee ch.14.8, &c. & 18.1, &c. & 19.1, &c. & 20.1, &c.

thou ſhalt not build an houſe to my name] See v.7. ch.17.4. This inference implyeth that a man of war, who ſheddeth much blood, is not, in that reſpect, fit to do that which ſhould typifie Chriſt our peace.

becauſe thou haſt ſhed much blood upon the earth in my ſight] Either this is ſet down as a repetition of the ſame thing, and ſo it addes much emphaſis: See 1 King.8.13. Or it hath reference to another kind of blood-ſhed, namely, to ſhedding of innocent blood: of which David was guilty, 2 Sam.11.15,16,17. and this clauſe, upon the earth in my ſight, may ſeem to intend as much; It being oft uſed to ſet forth an over-great boldneſs in ſin, without any fear of the preſence of God, in whoſe ſight it is committed, 2 King. 21. 20, 25. At leaſt hereby is implyed, that albeit juſt war and juſt execution of death on capital malefactors be lawful, yet God taketh not delight in ſhedding of blood, ſimply and indefinitely conſidered. See on Numb. 31.19.

V.9. Behold, a ſon ſhall be born to thee] This hath reference to the promiſe made before Solomon was born, 2 Sam.7.12,13. For at this time Solomon was preſent before him.

who ſhall be a man of reſt] Free from wars and all moleſtation of enemies; for by reſt peace is here meant.

and I will give him reſt from all his enemies round about] It is God that cauſeth wars to reſt, and ſettleth peace in a land, Pſal. 46.9.

for his name ſhall be called Solomon] That is, Peaceable. Queſtionleſs this name was given him in relation to the peace of the land in his time. David gave it him, 2 Sam.12.24. but by a Prophetical Spirit.

and I will give peace and quietneſs unto Iſrael in his dayes] This promiſe was verified, 1 King.4.25. In regard of this peace Solomon was a fit type of Chriſt the Prince of peace, Iſa.9.6. and fit to erect that Temple which was a type of the Church, the proper ſubject of peace, whoſe true members are all peace-makers, in which the glad tidings of peace is preached, and wherein we are brought to eternal peace.

V.10. He ſhall build an houſe for my Name] See v.8. & chap. 17.12.

and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will be his father] See ch.17.13.

and I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom over Iſrael for ever] See ch.17.12. & 1 King.9.5.

V.11. Now my ſon] See v.7. Hitherto David hath related what God ſaid to him concerning the building of a Temple: Now he directeth his ſpeech to Solomon, by way of prayer and advice.

the Lord be with thee] By his gracious favour and aſſiſtance. This phraſe ſets out the fountain of all good ſucceſs, ſafety and ſecurity, Rom.8.31.

and proſper thou] The word ſignifieth good ſucceſs in the things a man undertaketh, Gen.39.3. Deut.29.9. Joſh.1.7. 1 King 2.3. And, as here uſed, it implyeth both a prayer for good ſucceſs, and alſo a prophecy that Solomon ſhould have good ſucceſs.

and build the houſe of the Lord] This alſo may be taken as an exhortation to do his beſt, or as a promiſe of Gods enabling him to do it.

thy God] David putteth his ſon in mind of that ſpecial relation that was betwixt God and him, both to quicken him up the more to do that work, and alſo to ſtrengthen his faith in God.

as he hath ſaid of thee] As he hath foretold thou ſhouldſt do, ch.17.12.

V.12. Onely the Lord give thee] This word onely is not to be taken excluſively, as if David deſired nothing elſe from God; but by way of excellency, q.d. Above all. And he directs his prayer to God, becauſe he knew God onely could give thoſe gifts which were requiſite for ſuch a work, Eccl.6.2.

wiſdom and underſtanding] It may be Solomon from hence learned to aſk theſe gifts of God, 2 Chron.1.10. See 1 King.3.9,12. As theſe graces were in general neceſſary for ordering the affairs of his eſtate, ſo in ſpecial for building of the Temple, wherein not onely much humane art and skill was to be uſed, in appointing curious matters to be made and fitly ſet one by another, but alſo Divine knowledge in the myſteries of godlineſs, for making things fit for the preſent worſhip of God, and alſo to be pertinent types of future truths.

and give thee charge concerning Iſrael] Here David extendeth his prayer further then the building of the Temple, namely, to the good of his whole Kingdom. By giving him charge he means Divine direction and counſel, with which he deſires his ſon may be ſo furniſhed as thereby to inſtruct and direct all his people.

that thou mayſt keep the law of the Lord] Here is a prayer for Solomon, that he may keep the Law; and a direction to him how to proſper, namely, by keeping the law; together with an incitation to do it.

thy God] See v.11.

V.13. Then ſhalt thou proſper] See v.11.

if thou takeſt heed to fulfil the Statutes and Judgments] See 1 Kin. 2.3.

which the Lord charged Moſes with] Which God firſt revealed to Moſes, with a charge that he ſhould declare them to others, Deut.5.31. Mal.4.4.

concerning Iſrael] David teacheth his ſon to apply in particular to himſelf the laws which were given to all the people of God.

Be ſtrong, and of good courage] The former word implyeth a putting forth all the ſtrength he had to that work whereunto he was ſet apart; the other, a confident and undaunted ſpirit. See ch.19.13. 1 King.2.2.

dread not, nor be diſmayed] Theſe negatives added to affirmatives directly oppoſit and contrary to them, ſhew that corruptions and infirmities muſt be removed, for the more kindly work of grace in us. The former phraſe dread not, may have relation to oppoſitions that might be met withal; the other, nor be diſmayed, to the difficulty of the work.

V.14. Now behold, in my trouble] Or, in my poverty. The Hebrew word is uſed for any kind of trouble or affliction, and here implyeth thoſe continual moleſtations which David had by wars with enemies abroad, and by rebellions in his own land; as a long while againſt the houſe of Saul, 2 Sam.3.1. his ſon Abſalom, 2 Sam.15.11, &c. and Sheba, 2 Sam.20.1, &c. The three years famine alſo, 2 Sam.21.14. and the plague, ch.21.14. may be compriſed under this word. It is uſed Gen. 29.31. Deut.26.7. Exod.3.7.

an hundred thouſand talents of gold, and a thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver] Becauſe all eſtimations muſt be according to the ſhekel of the Sanctuary, Lev.27.25. the Shekel is fitteſt to be the rule of all accompts. Our Engliſh word ſcale ſeems to be thence derived; שקל ſhakal, ſignifying to weigh. Many make two kinds of Shekels; one ſacred, the other common. The ſacred was as much more as the common, and is for the moſt part meant in Scripture. The Shekel contained two Bekahs, Exod. 38.26. and weighed three hundred and twenty barley-corns; i. e. half an ounce of Troy-weight; and was worth two ſhillings and ſix pence. Now the Talent contained three thouſand ſhekels, as may be collected from Ex.38.25,26. where ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty men being taxed by the poll at a bekah or half-ſhekel for a man, the whole ſumme of the tax was an hundred talents and a thouſand ſeven hundred threeſcore and fifteen ſhekels. A ſhekel then being half an ounce, three thouſand ſhekels of ſilver amount to three hundred ſeventy five pound ſterling at five ſhillings the ounce, which is the value of a talent in ſilver. Now the Hebrews valuing gold at ten times the rate of ſilver, a talent of gold with them was worth three thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty pounds: which proportion of ten to one is evident in this verſe: The hundred thouſand talents of gold and the thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver are ten for one, and both of one value, namely, three hundred ſeventy five millions, or three hundred ſeventy five times a thouſand thouſand pounds. And both ſums of ſilver and gold together, amount to ſeven hundred and fifty millions. Gold is now in Chriſtendom at a higher rate; after which if the Talent ſhould be reckoned, the ſum would be ſo much the greater. We do not read elſewhere of ſo great a treaſure laid up upon any occaſion: So that David herein ſhewed the exceeding great reſpect that he bare to God and his ſervice.

and of braſs and iron without weight] That which was before v.3. ſpoken of braſs, is here alſo ſpoken of iron.

for it is in abundance] There was ſo much of thoſe metals prepared as they exceeded all weight.

timber alſo and ſtone have I prepared] For theſe materials alſo were requiſite.

and thou mayſt add thereto] He ſuppoſed that, notwithſtanding the great proviſion he had made, yet ſomething might be wanting, and therefore he adviſeth his ſon to add more as he ſhould ſee occaſion.

V.15. Moreover there are workmen with thee] Heb. doers of the work. Under theſe are compriſed all that might do any ſervice thereabout.

in abundance] David had as great a care about the multitude of workmen as about the abundance of materials.

hewers] This is applyed to hewers of timber, 2 Chr.2.10. and alſo to hewers of ſtone, 2 King.12.12.

and workers of ſtone and timber] That is, Maſons and Carpenters. Such as might not onely ſquare and otherwiſe fit theſe materials, but alſo carve and grave them.

and all manner of cunning men] Which might work all curious works that were requiſite.

for every manner of work] For there was great variety of workmanſhip about the things of the Temple, 1 King. 7.17, 24, &c.

V. 16. Of the gold, the ſilver, and the braſs, and the iron there is no number] What was ſaid before of braſs and iron v. 14. is here alſo ſaid of gold and ſilver, to amplifie the proviſion that David made.

Ariſe therefore] This is a phraſe of quickning. See 1 King.14.2.

and be doing] This implyeth that he ſhould take the firſt opportunity of ſetting upon that great work. Such abundance of materials being provided, he would not have his ſon wanting in his endeavour.

and the Lord be with thee] See v. 11.

V. 17. David alſo commanded all the Princes of Iſrael to help Solomon his ſon] He knew the work was too great for one mans head and hands, and therefore taketh care that all that were of place and parts might be helpful to his ſon.

V.18. Is not the Lord your God with you?] He uſeth that word of relation to them, your God, both to ſhew that they had as great reaſon to add their help as he and his ſon had, and alſo to aſſure them that God would be aſſiſtant to them if they uſed their endeavour and put forth their ſtrength.

and hath he not given you reſt on every ſide?] Freedom from all enemies; ſo as they were not like to meet with any impediments. See v.9. Theſe interrogatives are ſtrong affirmations, and add much emphaſis.

for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand] So as they are ſubject to my government, and not forced to ſerve others.

and the land is ſubdued before the Lord] It is freed from all enemies; ſo as it may freely give it ſelf to Gods ſervice, and to his work.

and before his people] So as Gods people may peaceably and quietly enjoy their own poſſeſſions.

V.19. Now ſet your heart and your ſoul to ſeek the Lord your God] In general to learn to do his Will; and in particular to pray for his grace and ayd. See ch.16.10. & 28.9.

ariſe therefore] See v.6. and the holy veſſels of God] Such as Moſes made, and ſuch as were afterwards to be made by Solomon. See 1 King.8.4.

into the houſe that is to be built to the name of the Lord] See 1 King.5.3.

CHAP. XXIII.

Verſ.1. S*O when David was old and full of dayes*] See ch.25.28. 1 King.1.1.

he made Solomon his ſon king over Iſrael] He declared or appointed him to be his ſucceſſor after his death. See ch.28.5. This verſe is to be referred to the former chapter, and that as a reaſon of the charge which David gave both to his ſon Solomon, and alſo to all the Princes, ch.22.6,17. For thoſe things that follow concerning the Officers of Church and State were ſet down at ſundry times before the forementioned charge. See ch.28.1.

V.2. And he gathered together all the Princes of Iſrael] Theſe were Governours of the civil ſtate, and had ſundry offices committed unto them, ch.21.1, &c. Beſides, David would have them to be witneſſes of ſuch things as he gave in charge to the Prieſts and Levites: for they alſo were to come to their Temple, to bring their ſacrifices and to ſee them offered up in a right manner.

with the Prieſts and the Levites] Moſt of the things given in charge concerned the Prieſts and Levites, who were to attend the ſervices of the houſe of God. Prieſts were ſuch as deſcended from Aaron; Levites, all the others that deſcended from Levi, who in their ſeveral functions attended upon the Prieſts, v. 28.

of thirty years] According to the law, Num.4.3. At thirty years they were capable of an office, but at five and twenty they might come into the Temple, and do inferiour ſervices therein, Num.8.24. See v.24.

and upward] Some take this without any limitation, as if they were numbred to the uttermoſt of their age. But the law reſtrains it to fifty years, Numb.4.3. After which age, having attained to good experience and maturity of judgment, they went to their Cities in the ſeveral tribes, and there tryed and judged matters brought before them: For Levites were well experienced in the judicial laws. So as the Law of ceaſing to work in the houſe of God might well be obſerved in Davids time, and after alſo.

man by man] This phraſe is an expoſition of the former. This numbring of the Levites was not as the numbring of the people ch.21.2. out of pride or curioſity, but piety and prudence, and that by a Divine inſtinct. See 2 Chr.2.92,5. The end thereof was, that knowing the number of the perſons, he might the better diſtribute them into ſeveral orders.

was thirty and eight thouſand] This was the total ſum; the diſtribution whereof followes.

V.4. Of which twenty and four thouſand were to ſet forward] Or, to over-ſee.

the work of the houſe of the Lord] Theſe attended about ſacrifices, lights, waſhings, and other things to be done in the Temple.

and ſix thouſand were Officers and Judges] Theſe had a charge over others, ch.26.29. Of theſe ſome might be ſuch as were ſent abroad into the land to hear and determine cauſes, Deut.16.18. 2 Chron.19.11.

V.5. Moreover four thouſand were porters] Of their office, ſee ch.9.17. of their orders, ch.26.1, &c.

and four thouſand praiſed the Lord with inſtruments] Theſe were Muſicians. The ſubject of their muſick was Divine Pſalms and Hymnes, which ſet forth the praiſe and glory of God. They are called ſingers, ch 9. 33. and ſingers with inſtruments of muſick, ch.15.16. For they praiſed God both with vocal and inſtrumental muſick. See the Orders of theſe ch.25.1,&c. The twenty and four thouſand Over-ſeers, the ſix thouſand Officers, the four thouſand Porters, and the four thouſand Muſicians make up the thirty eight thouſand Levites, v.3.

which I made (ſaid David) to praiſe therewith] David was a skilful Muſician from his youth, 1 Sam.16.18,23. and as he increaſed in other endowments, ſo in this skill: and being a man filled with the zeal of Gods glory, he turned all his skill in muſick to the ſetting forth of Gods praiſes. Witneſs the book of Pſalms. In this reſpect he is ſtiled the ſweet Pſalmiſt of Iſrael, 2 Sam.23.1. What he did in this kind, he did by the inſtinct of Gods Spirit, 2 Sam.23.2. 2 Chron.29.25.

V.6. And David divided them into courſes] Heb. diviſions. They were ſo divided into certain ranks and diſtinct functions as every one might know what work he had to do, and what time he ought to wait. David did this as a Prophet, and that alſo by advice and counſel with two other Prophets, Nathan and Gad; and all by Gods command, 2 Chron.29.25. The courſes or orders here ſet down Solomon his ſon punctually retained, 2 Chron. 8. 14.

among the ſons of Levi] For they onely were to attend the ſervice in the houſe of God, Num.1.5. namely, Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari] Exod. 6.16. ch.6.1, &c.

V.7. Of the Gerſhonites] Ch.26.21. That general which was before ſet down of the Levites courſes begins here particularly to be applyed to the ſeveral ſons of Levi.

and Shimei] There were two of this name living together, and neer of kin: One was Laadans brother, whoſe poſterity is ſet down, v. 10. the other Laadans ſon, whoſe poſterity is ſet down, v. 9.

V.8. The ſons of Laadan] i.e. The poſterity of Laadan living in Davids time. So is the word ſons to be taken in the verſes following. See v.17. & ch. 26.22.

the chief was Jehiel, and Zethem, and Joel, three] This word chief, Heb. head, is to be applyed to every of theſe three. Every of them were heads in their ſeveral families.

V.9. The ſons of Shimei] This Shimei was either one of the three ſons of Laadan mentioned v.8. one man having two names; or elſe he was a fourth ſon of Laadan.

Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three. Theſe were the chief of the fathers of Laadan] He means the families that came from Laadan, whereof thoſe three were the heads. By this it appeareth that Laadans ſtock was divided into two ſorts of families, one ſprouting out from himſelf, another from Shimei.

V.10. And the ſons of Shimei were Jahath, Zina] Or, Ziza, v. 11.

and to bleſs in his name for ever] Hereof ſee Num.6.23.

V.14. Now concerning Moſes the man of God] Of this title, Man of God, ſee 1 King.13.1. Of all that were called men of God

Moſes had the greateſt honour, eſpecially in regard of the ſundry laws which by him God gave to his people, which are in that reſpect called the Laws of Moſes, Lev.26.46. See 1 King.2.3. Beſides, God never ſpake with any man ſo familiarly as he did with him, Num.12.8. See Ezra 3.2.

his ſons were named of the tribe of Levi] Though Moſes were a Prince, Acts 7.35. and inſtead of God to Aaron, Exod.4.16. yet his ſons were inferiour to Aarons. For Aarons ſons were Prieſts, but Moſes his ſons ordinary Levites, ch.26.24,25. They were not named of Moſes, but of Levi.

V.15. The ſons of Moſes were Gerſhom and Eliezer] See Exod.2.22. & 18 3,4.

V.16. Of the ſons of Gerſhom] The eldeſt ſon of Levi had a name very neer to this, difering onely in the laſt letter v.6. yet ſometimes this very name Gerſhom is given to him, ch.6.17,20.

Shebuel was the chief] This implyeth that Gerſhom had more ſons then Shebuel, though he onely be mentioned.

V.17. And the ſons of Eliezer were Rehabiah the chief] Or, the firſt. Under this word ſons grand-children and other poſterity muſt be meant. Divers of theſe are by name ſet down ch.26.25.

and Eliezer had no other ſons] This confirms the former note.

but the ſons of Rehabiah were many] Heb. were highly multiplied. God in this made a kind of compenſation to Eliezer. Though he had but one ſon, yet that one ſon had many ſons.

from the age of twenty years and upward] Of other tribes, all that went forth unto the war were numbred from twenty years old and upward; but Levites were not admitted into the Tabernacle till they were at leaſt five and twenty. See v.3. Indeed we read that the number of them was taken from a moneth old and upwards, Numb.3.15. but this was onely to know how many there were of that tribe, and to conſecrate them to Gods ſervice: But now it may be that David, guided by Gods Spirit, ſaw cauſe to admit them into the houſe of God at twenty years old, either becauſe their ſervices required not ſo great ſtrength when the Temple was built, as they did when the Tabernacle and all the holy things belonging thereto were to be carried upon mens ſhoulders from place to place. See ch.6.31. or becauſe now more were put into ſervice then in former times. Or, David might ordain that the Levites at twenty years old ſhould be admitted into the Temple to behold the ſervice of the Lord, and ſo to acquaint themſelves the better therewith; and from five and twenty till thirty to aſſiſt elder Levites in their ſervices, and after thirty to bear offices. See on Num.3.15.

that they may dwell in Jeruſalem] Or, and he dwelleth in Jeruſalem. The former reading implyeth that the children of Iſrael were now ſo ſettled as they ſhould not be forced to go from place to place, and to carry the Ark with them; the other, that the Ark of God, and other repreſentations of his preſence were ſo ſettled in Jeruſalem as not to be removed thence: In this reſpect God himſelf is ſaid to dwell there. From both readings the ſame thing may inferred, namely that Levites of twenty years old and upward might be admitted into the Temple.

V.26. And alſo unto the Levites] Here muſt ſomewhat be ſupplyed to make up the ſenſe, namely, that which is in the beginning of v.25. David ſaid, q.d. And alſo David ſaid unto the Levites.

they ſhall no more carry the Tabernacle, nor any veſſels of it, for the ſervice thereof] This hath reference to their cuſtome in the Wilderneſs, and afterwards, Num.4.5,&c.

V.27. For by the laſt words of David] Hereby is meant Davids laſt ordinance about ſettling the Levites in their ſeveral courſes: And mention is here made thereof, becauſe the thing next following was then new, and had not been done before.

the Levites were numbred] Heb. the ſons of Levi were a number. They were taken into the catalogue of Levites that were admitted into the houſe of God.

from twenty years old and above] See v.24.

V.28. Becauſe their office was to wait on the ſons of Aaron] Heb. their ſtation was at the hand of the ſons of Aaron. A like phraſe is uſed Neh.11.24. The Levites were to fit and prepare ſuch things as belonged unto the Prieſts. Sundry particulars are mentioned in the words following wherein they were to attend the Prieſts.

for the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord] Such publick ſervices as were done in the Temple are here meant, as preparing oyl for the lamps, bringing incenſe to the Prieſts, together with the Cenſers, and the like.

in the courts] See 1 King.6.36.

and in the chambers] See 1 King.6.5.

and in the purifying of all holy things] Waſhing and cleanſing all ſuch things as were uſed in Gods houſe, is here meant.

and the work of the ſervice of the houſe of God] This general ſpecified in the beginning of this verſe, is here repeated as an head of thoſe particulars which follow in the next verſe.

V.29. both for the ſhew-bread] See ch.9.32. 1 King.7.48.

and for the fine flour for meat-offering] See ch.9.29. Lev.2.1,&c. Of meat-offerings ſee 1 King.3.15.

and for the unleavened cakes] See Exod.12.39. Lev.2.4,5. and for that which is baked in the pan] Or, flat-plate. See Lev.2.5. & 6.21.

and for that which is fryed] See Lev.7.9,12. Theſe were ſeveral kinds of meat-offerings; whereof ſome were baken in the oven, others on a ſlice, others in a frying-pan, Lev.2.4,5,7.

and for all manner of meaſure and ſize] The former word in Hebrew is put for ſuch a meaſure as declareth the quantity of things, whether dry or liquid. It is uſed for a meaſure of water, Ez.4.11,16. The latter is put for ſuch a meaſure as declareth the length or breadth of a thing: It ſets out the meaſure of the curtains, Exod.26.2. & 36.9. Tall men are in Hebrew called men of meaſures, ch.20.6. Numb.13.32. Where there is difference made of meaſures, the former of theſe words is tranſlated meaſure, in diſtinction from weights and mete-yards; and the latter is tranſlated mete-yard, Lev.19 35. Here is implyed that the Levites were to ſee that all things were done with a fit proportion; as ſo much flour, ſo much wine, ſo much oyl; yea alſo ſuch a length or breadth of all things that uſed to be meaſured with a mete-yard. All manner of things appertaining to the houſe of God were to be tried and proportioned by the meaſures and ſizes which the Levites kept; and theſe were called the meaſures of the Sanctuary. Whether the Levites had the ordering of civil meaſures and ſizes, or no, is uncertain.

V.30. And to ſtand every morning] At the time of offering the morning-ſacrifice, Ex.29.39.

to thank and praiſe the Lord] See v.5.

and likewiſe at even] When the evening-ſacrifice was offered, Exod.29.39. Yea ſometimes they did ſolemnly praiſe the Lord in the night-time, Pſal.134.1.

V.31. And to offer all burnt-ſacrifices unto the Lord in the Sabbaths] The Prieſts were to offer them on the Altar, Lev.1.5, &c. yet the Levites were to fit and prepare all to their hands. Of burnt-offerings ſee 1 King.3.15. Of offerings on the Sabbath, ſee Num.28.9,10.

in the new-moons] Of offerings on the new-moons ſee Numb.28.11,&c. New-moons were the beginnings of moneths, and uſed to be feſtival. See Numb.10.10. Pſal.81.3. 2 King.4.23. 2 Chron.2.4. & 8.13.

and on the ſet feaſts] Of the ſeveral ſolemn feaſts under the law, ſee Lev.23.4,&c.

according to the order] This hath relation to the ſeveral ranks courſes and orders which David hath ſet down, in every of which there was a ſet number that waited and did the ſervice belonging unto them. See v.6.

commanded unto them] David ſet down the order, and commanded it to be obſerved from time to time, both in and after his dayes, but by warrant from the Lord. See v.6.

continually] That is, every day, morning and evening, conſtantly, and at other times appointed. See ch.16.6.

before the Lord] In the houſe of the Lord before the Ark.

V.32. And that they ſhould keep the charge] That they ſhould obſerve that duty and place which was given them in charge. See 1 King.2.3. Lev.8.35. Num 1.53.

of the Tabernacle of the Congregation] See 1 King.8.4. The ordinances which the Levites were to obſerve were given by Moſes, and they were to be obſerved in the Tabernacle which he made, and therefore it is ſaid, the charge of the Tabernacle; but that charge was alſo to be kept in Solomons Temple.

and the charge of the holy place] The word place is not in the Hebrew. Many therefore apply it to holy things; q.d. the charge which was to be kept about holy things.

and the charge of the ſons of Aaron] That was to be helpful to the Prieſts about thoſe things which they did, Num.3.6,9. See v.28.

their brethren] This hath relation to Levi, from whom came both Prieſts and Levites, and in that reſpect were all brethren.

in the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord] See v.28.

CHAP. XXIV.

Verſ.1. NOw theſe are the diviſions of the ſons of Aaron] In the former chapter the number, courſes and ſervices of the Levites being ſet down in general, in this the orders of the Prieſts and Governours of the families of the Levites are diſtinctly regiſtred. By the diviſions he means the diſtinct orders or courſes whereunto they were divided; and they were in number four and twenty, ver. 18. The ſons of Aaron were all of them Prieſts.

The ſons of Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar]Ex.28.1. Num.26.60. Theſe four ſons are ſet down by couples. The firſt couple died together, Lev.10.1,2. The younger couple lived long toge- execute the Prieſts function, v.2.

V.2. But Nadab and Abihu died] An extraordinary death, or offering incenſe with ſtrange fire.

before their father] While their father lived. Thus it is ſaid that Haran died before Terah his father, Gen. 11.28. See Num. 3.4. Lev.10.3.

and had no children] Num.3.4. Anon after they were conſecrated Prieſts, Exod.28.1. even when they were young men, before they were married they were taken away.

therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the Prieſts office] They alone with their father, while he lived, and after their death, their poſterity onely, were Prieſts. Had not Nadab and Abihu died without iſſue, their poſterity had been Prieſts as well as Eleazars and Ithamars. Yea Nadab, if he had lived, had been high Prieſt after the death of his father. Mention is here made of theſe two, Eleazar and Ithamar, becauſe all the Prieſts in Iſrael throughout their ſeveral generations deſcended from them.

V. 3. And David diſtributed them] i. e. The poſterity of Eleazar and Ithamar; particularly, ſuch of them as were in Davids time. David is ſaid to do this, becauſe by his appointment and in his preſence it was done. See v.6. 31.

both Zadok of the ſons of Eleazar] Zadok was the eldeſt at that time of Eleazars poſterity. His ſons were diſtributed.

and Ahimelech of the ſons of Ithamar] Ahimelech was the eldeſt, then living of the poſterity of Ithamar. And his ſons were then diſtributed. See 2 Sam.8.17.

according to their offices in their ſervice] There were ſundry Offices belonging to the Prieſts. There was ever one high Prieſt, whoſe office it was to offer incenſe, and to go into the moſt holy place, Lev.16.3,12,13. Heb.9.7. The other Prieſts offered all manner of ſacrifices, Heb. 1. 5. dreſſed the lamps, ſet the ſhewbread in order, Lev. 24. 3, 6. and did other ſervices in the holy place, Heb. 9.6.

V.4. And there were mo chief men] Heb. for heads. Such as were fit to be Governours over others.

found of the ſons of Eleazar then of the ſons of Ithamar] More of Eleazars poſterity were living together in Davids time then of Ithamars.

and thus they were divided] According to the number of the chief men of either ſtock.

Among the ſons of Eleazar there were ſixteen chief men of the houſe of their fathers] Governours of the families deſcended from Eleazar.

and eight among the ſons of Ithamar according to the houſe of their fathers] But half ſo many as the other.

V.5. Thus were they divided by lot] This means was uſed to take away matter of envy from thoſe that did divide, and matter of diſcontent from thoſe that were divided: For by lot Gods mind and will thereabout was manifeſted. See ch. 6.6.

one ſort with another] Or, one from another. They were preſented all together before the Lord, but by lot were divided one from another. The diſtinction and diſtribution of the perſons was referred to the Lord, which ſhould be firſt, ſecond, third, &c.

for the governours of the Sanctuary] The word tranſlated Sanctuary properly ſignifieth holineſs, Exod.28.16. It is ſometimes put for a place of holineſs, or an holy place, Exod.25.8. ſometimes for a thing of holineſs, or an holy thing, Ezek. 22.26. See ch.9.29. Being thus taken here it may the more fitly be diſtinguiſhed from the next clauſe, the houſe of God. And in this ſignification the governours here meant were ſuch as had the charge and over-ſight of holy things.

and Governours of the houſe of God] The word houſe is not in the original; onely God is expreſſed, thus, governours of God: which ſome expound, about divine things; others appointed of God.

were of the ſons of Eleazar, and of the ſons of Ithamar] Some of Eleazars, others of Ithamars poſterity.

V.6. And Shemaiah the ſon of Nathanael] Other Levites were called Shemaiah; as, the ſon of Haſhub, ch.9.14. the ſon of Elizaphan, ch.15.8. the ſon of Obed-Edom, ch.26.4. But this was the ſon of Nathanael.

one of the Levites] This diſtinguiſheth him from Shemaiahs of other tribes, as 1 Chron.4.37. & 5.4.

wrote them] Theſe diſtributions of Prieſts and Levites were matters of publick concernment: And ſuch things uſe to be put into publick records.

before the King] He was the chief both for Eccleſiaſtical and Civil affairs.

and the Princes] They were under the King for affairs of State.

and Zadok the Prieſt, and Ahimelech] Theſe were chief about the affairs of the houſe of God. See v. 3.

the ſon of Abiathar] See ch.18.16.

and before the chief of the fathers of the Prieſts and Levites] There were ſundry orders of Prieſts and Levites, diſtinguiſhed into families; which families had over-ſeers or governours: And there were ſome over theſe who are here called the chief. It was a great honour to the Scribe to have ſuch honourable witneſſes of the thing he recorded.

one principal houſhold] Heb. houſe of the father. Or, family. Under this phraſe ſo many were compriſed as were ſet apart to one of the four and twenty diviſions.

being taken for Eleazar] To be accounted in the number of thoſe that deſcended from Eleazar.

and one taken for Ithamar] In this latter clauſe the word tranſlated taken is twice ſet down together, thus, taken, taken: Which doubling of the word hath its emphaſis. See 1 King.8.13. It implyeth that as great reſpect was had to Ithamars poſterity as to Eleazars. There were not onely taken for Eleazar, but alſo, and in like manner, for Ithamar. The emphaſis uſeth to be thus expreſſed, one taken, I ſay, one taken for Ithamar.

V. 7. Now the firſt lot came forth to Jehoiarib] Lots uſed to be mingled, and put into a veſſel all together, and thence taken out one by one. In which reſpect the lot is ſaid to come forth. This Jehoiarib may be he that is mentioned ch.9.10.

the ſecond to Jedaiah] Jedaiah is ſet before Jehoiarib, ch. 9.10.

V.8. The third to Harim] Frequent mention is made of this mans poſterity after the captivity, Ezra 2.32,39. & 10.21,31. Neh. 3.11. & 10.5,7.

the fourth to Seorim, &c.] We find no other mention of this man, nor of the three next following, namely, Malchijah, Mijamin, and Hakkoz.

V.10. The eighth to Abijah] By this mans name the long continuance of theſe courſes is manifeſted. For it is ſaid of Zacharias the father of John the Baptiſt, that he was of the courſe of Abijah, Luk.1.5. See Neh.12.4,17.

V.18. The four and twentieth to Maaziah] The number of the courſes was four and twenty, twice as many as the moneths in the year. The courſe here intended is called ἐφημερία, Luk.1.5. which according to the notation of the word importeth a daily attending upon one work while his courſe or turn laſteth.

V. 1. Theſe were the orderings of them] This hath reference to the four and twenty courſes ſet down in the verſes going before.

in their ſervice to come into the houſe of the Lord] When they were to perform thoſe ſervices which particularly belonged unto them according to their diſtinct families, they came ſeverally in their courſes into the Temple.

according to their manner] Their manner or cuſtome was to come upon a Sabbath-day, and to continue their attendance in the Temple a whole week together. Afterwards they went to their City, and the next company or courſe ſucceeded them in that ſervice. See ch.9.25. 2 King. 11.5.

under Aaron their father] As Eleazar and Ithamar did their ſervices in the houſe of God under their father Aaron, ſo the poſterity of Eleazar and Ithamar did their ſervices under that ſon of Aaron which was high Prieſt in their time.

as the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

had commanded him] That courſe which the inferiour Prieſt obſerved under the high Prieſt, was no humane invention, but Gods appointment.

V.20. And the reſt of the ſons of Levi were theſe] The Prieſts reckoned up v.7, &c. were all ſons of Levi. They that follow were alſo ſons of Levi, yet no Prieſts, and therefore are ſaid to be the reſt. Or, whereas there were three ſons of Levi, Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari, ch.23.6. and the poſterity of Gerſhon were before ſet down, ch. 23.7, &c. therefore the poſterity of Kohath and Merari, who eſpecially attended upon the Prieſts, may be compriſed under this phraſe, the reſt of the ſons of Levi.

of the ſons of Amram, Shubael] Or, Shebuel, ch. 23.16. Amram was the father of Moſes, Moſes of Gerſhom, Gerſhom of Shebuel; ſo as Amram was the great-grandfather of Shebuel.

of the ſons of Shubael, Jehdeiah] This was another Jehdeiah, then he, ch.27.30. for they were of ſeveral tribes.

V.21. Concerning Rehabiah] Mentioned ch.23.17.

of the ſons of Rehabiah, the firſt was Iſſhiah] He was the chief.

V.22. Of the Izharites, Shelomoth] Or, Shelomith, ch.23.18.

of the ſons of Shelomoth, Jahath] He was alſo one of the chief.

V.23. And the ſons of Hebron, Jeriah the firſt] Hebron is not in the original, but well ſupplyed out of ch.23,19. & 26.31. Neither is this phraſe, the firſt, in the original, but well ſupplied by reaſon of the words of number following. The three other perſons following are before ſet down, ch. 23.19.

V.24. Of the ſons of Uzziel, Michah] Michah is ſaid to be the firſt, and a ſecond added to him, ch. 23.20.

V.25. Of the ſons of Iſſhiah] Heb. The ſons of Iſſhiah. The particle of is well ſupplied by our tranſlators. See ch.2.8. From v.20. to v.26. is ſet down the poſterity of Kohath: Among whom there were four heads or chief fathers; I. Amram; under whom were Shubael, Jehdeiah, and Iſſhiah, v. 20, 21. II. Izhar; under whom were Shelomoth and Jahath, v.22. III. Hebron; under whom, Jeriah, Amariah, Jahaziel and Jackmeam, v. 23. IV. Uzziel; under whom, Michah, Shamir, Iſſhiah, and Zechariah: thirteen in all.

V.26. The ſons of Merari were Mahli and Muſhi] In this and the verſes following the poſterity of Merari is ſet down.

the ſons of Jaaziah, Beno] Either he had more ſons, or the plural number is put for the ſingular. See ch.2.8. It is ſuppoſed this Jaaziah deſcended from Mahli. Of Beno ſee v.27.

V.27. The ſons of Merari by Jaaziah, Beno] Beno may be taken appellatively: So it ſignifieth his ſon, and may be thus tranſlated, The ſons of Jaaziah his ſon, (namely, the ſon of Merari) were chief. So in the former verſe, Jaaziah his ſon.

and Shoham, and Zaccur, and Ibri] Beno being taken appellatively, onely three deſcended from Jaaziah, who had no ſons] See ch.23.22.

V.29. Concerning Kiſh] The ſecond ſon of Mahli, ch.23.21.

the ſon of Kiſh was Jerahmeel] Heb. the ſons of Kiſh. The word ſons is here taken as v. 26.

V.30. The ſons alſo of Muſhi] Muſhi was the ſecond ſon of Merari, and ſons are here put for poſterity.

Mahli, and Eder, and Jerimoth] See ch. 23.23.

Theſe were the ſons of the Levites] Theſe hath reference to all ſet down from v.20. to this place; whereof there were thirteen Kohathites, v.25. and eleven Merarites; in all four and twenty heads of Prieſts, v.7, &c.

after the houſe of their fathers] See v.4.

V.31. Theſe likewiſe caſt lots] Their courſes were diſtinguiſhed by lot, as the Prieſts were, v.5.

over againſt their brethren the ſons of Aaron] See ch. 23.32. The Levites before mentioned were divided into courſes as the Prieſts had been, that the firſt courſe of Levites might attend upon the firſt courſe of Prieſts; the Levites coming into the Temple when the Prieſts did, and leaving their attendance when the Prieſts went out.

in the preſence of David the King, and Zadok, and Abimelech, and the chief of the fathers of the Prieſts and Levites] See v. 6.

even the principal fathers over againſt their younger brethren] Heb. the chief againſt his younger brother. The ſingular number is in Hebrew oft uſed for the plural, and implyeth every one of ſuch and ſuch a rank. The meaning of this latter clauſe is, that elder and younger, all, of all ſorts, were choſen by lot to the places wherein they ſerved.

CHAP. XXV.

Verſ. 1. Moreover] There were three general functions appertaining to the Levites. One was, to attend the Prieſts, and to be helpful unto them in their ſeveral ſervices. Of thoſe there were ſundry orders ſet down ch.23, & 24. The ſecond, to ſolemnize the ſervice of God with all manner of muſick. Their orders are ſet down in this chapter. The third was to be Porters. Of whom ch.26.

David and the Captains of the hoſt] By Captains of the hoſt are meant heads and chief commanders amongſt the Levites. This title Captains is given them in relation to the word hoſt; for the company of Levites were as an holy hoſt. I, Becauſe as ſouldiers, they had their watches and wards in and about the houſe of God, Num.1.17. & 4.5, &c. II. Becauſe there were many companies of them, as there uſe to be of an army. III. Becauſe they were mighty men of valour, at leaſt many of them, ch.12.26,27,28. & 26.6. IV. Becauſe they were ready, as occaſion was offered, to execute the judgment of the Lord, Exod.32.26,&c. 2 Chron.26.17. This title Captains is oft given to the heads of Levites, as ch.12.28. 2 Chron.23.1,9. Theſe Captains of the hoſt are joyned with David to ſhew that the King did nothing about the courſes of the Levites, without the advice of the chiefeſt of them. See ch.24.6.

ſeparated to the ſervice of the ſons of Aſaph, and of Heman, and of Jeduthun] Theſe three were maſters of muſick, and oft joyned together, as 2 Chr.5.12. & 35.15. The two former had many of the Pſalms committed unto them, to put into a fit tune, as Pſal. 73.1. & 74.1. & 88.1. See on 1 Sam.8.2. The diviſion of theſe was made by lot, as the diviſions of others, v. 8. But being ſo divided, they were put on to their ſervice by David and theſe Captains.

who ſhould propheſie] They are ſaid to propheſie, I. in regard of the matter of their muſick, which was Divine prophecies or predictions of things to come. II. In regard of the manner, in that their muſick was acted with an holy zeal, ſuch as Prophets in their prophecies uſed.

with harps, with pſalteries, and with cymbals] See ch. 13.8.

and the number of the workmen] Heb. men of work. i.e. men ſkilful and fit for the taſk whereunto they were put.

according to their ſervice, was] There were different taſks appointed to ſeveral orders. Some were to ſound with ſounding inſtruments, others to play on ſtringed inſtruments, others to ſing with the voice; every of theſe exerciſed their ſkill about that taſk which was impoſed upon them.

V.2. Of the ſons of Aſaph, Zaccur, and Joſeph, and Nethaniah, and Aſarelah] Otherwiſe called Jeſharelah, v. 14. Their courſes did not fall out by lot according to the precedency one before another, as here they are ſet down. For Zaccur was of the third rank, v. 10. Joſeph of the firſt, v.9. Nethaniah of the fifth, v. 12. Aſarelah of the ſeventh, v. 14.

the ſons of Aſaph under the hands of Aſaph] Theſe four being ſons of Aſaph were by their father ordered to ſing or play what Pſalms and after what manner he ſaw meet.

which propheſied] See v.1.

according to the order of the King] Heb. by the hand of the King. See 1 King.8.53. King David appointed what Pſalms ſhould be ſung, and what muſical inſtruments ſhould be uſed by Aſaph and ſuch as were under him; and Aſaph appointed ſuch particular men as ſhould obſerve the Kings rules.

V.3. Of Jeduthun; the ſons of Jeduthun, Gedaliah] This is an Hebraiſm, which may thus plainly be expreſſed, Concerning Jeduthun, his ſons were Gedaliah. Of Jeduthun ſee v. 1. Gedaliah was of the ſecond rank, v. 9.

and Zeri] Or Izri. He was of the fourth rank, v. 11.

and Jeſhaiah] He was of the eighth rank, v. 15.

Haſhabiah] He was of the twelfth rank, v. 19.

and Mattithiah] He was of the fourteenth rank, v.21.

ſix] With Shimei mentioned v. 17. who was of the tenth rank: For without him there are ſet down but five ſons of Jeduthun.

under the hands of their father Jeduthun] As the ſons of Aſaph were under him, v.2. ſo the ſons of Jeduthun under him.

who propheſied with a harp] See v. 1.

to give thanks, and to praiſe the Lord] See ch.23.5.

V.4. Of Heman; the ſons of Heman] See v.3.

Bukkiah] He was of the ſixth rank, v.13.

Mattaniah] He was of the ninth rank, v.16.

Uzziel] Or, Azareel. He was of the eleventh rank, v. 18.

Shebuel] Or, Shubael. He was of the thirteenth rank, v. 20.

and Jerimoth] He was of the fifteenth rank, v.22.

Hananiah] He was of the ſixteenth rank, v.23.

Hanani] He was of the eighteenth rank, v. 25.

Eliathah] He was of the twentieth rank, v. 27.

Giddalti] He was of the two and twentieth rank, v. 29.

and Romamti-Ezer] He was of the four and twentieth rank. Some divide this word, and make it two names. But we find it ſet down for one perſon, v. 31. And if ſo be it ſhould make two names for two perſons, there would be more then four and twenty ranks.

Joſhbekaſhah] He was of the ſeventeenth rank, v. 24.

Mallothi] He was of the nineteenth rank, v.26.

Hothir] He was of the one and twentieth rank, v. 28.

Mahazioth] He was of the three and twentieth rank, v. 30.

V.5. All theſe were the ſons of Heman] The fourteen mentioned v. 4.

the Kings Seer] See ch. 9.22. & 21.9. 2 King.17.13.

in the words of God] Or, matters of God. He was, as a Prophet, to declare the will of God.

to lift up the horn] This phraſe is added to ſhew that he was appointed to ſet out the mighty acts of God, and the great conqueſts that he had given to Iſrael. Such things are compriſed under the metaphor of an horn; becauſe that in horns the ſtrength of horned beaſts lieth, 1 Sam.2.1,10. Luk.1.69. Some think that Heman is called a Seer, becauſe he was imployed about ſuch Pſalms as ſet forth predictions of future things and times, and that concerning the ſtability of Davids kingdom, and the power of Chriſt; in which reſpect he is ſaid to lift up the horn. Others take this for lifting up a muſical inſtrument called a horn.

and God gave to Heman fourteen ſons and three daughters] This is added to ſhew Gods bleſſing on Heman: He had more ſons then both Aſaph and Jeduthun, v. 2,3.

V.6. All theſe were under the hands of their fathers] See v.2.

for ſong in the houſe of the Lord] To ſing with voice, and play on inſtruments.

with cymbals, pſalteries, and harps] See ch.13.8.

for the ſervice of the houſe of God] Such ſervice as belonged to their particular function, which was muſick.

according to the Kings order] Heb. by the hand of the King. See v.2.

to Aſaph, Jeduthun, and Heman] David gave inſtructions to them, and they to ſuch as were under them.

V.7. So the number of them] Namely, of the four and twenty ſons of Aſaph, Jeduthun and Heman.

with their brethren] He means in general ſuch as were of the tribe of Levi, but particularly the twelve that were in each of the four and twenty ranks.

that were inſtructed in the ſongs of the Lord] All that were trained up to ſing, or play on inſtruments, ſuch Pſalms as were indited by the Spirit of the Lord, and ſet forth to his honour.

even all that were cunning] That excelled others in the art of muſick, and had more then ordinary skill therein. For of ſuch as were not ſo cunning as theſe, (at leaſt, of whom there were many not ſo cunning) there were four thouſand, ch.23.5.

was two hundred fourſcore and eight] Twelve in every of the four and twenty ranks make up ſo many.

V.8. And they caſt lots] i. e. David and the Captains, v. 1. See ch. 24.5.

ward againſt ward] By ward is meant a diſtinct company or claſſis: So as hereby is implied that the ſeveral companies ſtood together, ſome on one ſide, ſome on another; and according to the drawing forth of the lot they were ſet in their ſeveral orders or ranks. Or this may have reference to the four and twenty orders of the Prieſts, ch.27.4, &c. anſwerably to which theſe Muſicians were placed; as the ranks of other Levites were before, chap. 24.31.

as well the ſmall as the great] In the lot there was no partiality at all, nor reſpect to greatneſs. Whatſoever they were, great or mean, they were ranked as the lot fell upon them.

the teacher as the ſcholar] That that is ſaid of great and mean is alſo to be applied to inſtructers and learners.

V.9. Now the firſt lot came forth for Aſaph to Joſeph] Joſeph was Aſaphs ſecond ſon, v.2. He with his brethren and ſons made twelve, as all the reſt that follow did; or elſe the ſumme of two hundred fourſcore and eight, v.7. cannot be made up.

the ſecond to Gedaliah] He and all the reſt that follow to v.31. were the ſons of Aſaph, Jeduthun and Heman, v. 2, &c.

V.31. The four and twentieth] There were juſt as many companies of Muſicians as there were of Prieſts, ch. 24.18. and of Levites attending on the Prieſts and helping them, ch.24.31.

CHAP. XXVI.

Verſ.1. Concerning the diviſions] This was the third kind of diviſion of the Levites. See ch.25.1. of the porters] The notation of a Porter in Hebrew, Greek, Latine and Engliſh, beſides other languages, is taken from a door, or gate: And the phraſe uſed implieth that they were for the gates. Now there being many gates appertaining to the Temple, Porch, and ſeveral Courts, theſe the Porters were to ſhut and open at ſeaſonable times. They were alſo to wait and watch at the gates, to keep out all unclean perſons and things, that nothing might enter or be brought in but ſuch as by Law might. See 2 Chr.23. 4,5,6,19. & 35.15. They were likewiſe to keep peace and to prevent tumults; and in caſe any were, to thruſt the tumultuous perſons out of the courts of Gods houſe. Porters alſo had the charge of the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, v. 20. Their work was a work of great induſtry and diligence, and therefore they had their times of waiting, as well as other Levites.

Of the Korhites] The Korhites deſcended from Kore, and he from Korah the ſon of Kohath the ſecond ſon of Levi, See ch. 6. 1,22. & 9.19.

was Meſhelemiah]. Or, Shelemiah, v. 14.

the ſon of Kore] Of him before.

of the ſons of Aſaph] Or Abiaſaph, ch.6.37. & 9. 19. The different functions ſhew that this Aſaph was not the ſame that is mentioned ch.25.1.

V.2. And the ſons of Meſhelemiah were Zechariah, &c.] Theſe ſeven ſons of Meſhelemiah were heads of ſo many diviſions of Porters.

V.4. Moreover the ſons of Obed-Edom] This was he in whoſe houſe the Ark reſted for a time; whereupon God is ſaid to bleſs his houſe, chap. 13. 14. For he himſelf was a Porter, ch.15.18. & 16.38.

were Shemaiah, &c.] Theſe eight ſons of Obed-Edom were alſo heads of other diviſions of Porters.

V.5. For God bleſſed him] i. e. Obed-Edom. This inference implyeth that the bleſſing here meant was his numerous progeny. For beſides eight ſons of his own, he had alſo ſix grand-children, named in the verſes following. They were in all fourteen, and all called the ſons of Obed-Edom, v. 8. Yet without queſtion other bleſſings are intended ch.13.14. then this of children.

V.6. Alſo to Shemaiah his ſon were ſons born] Shemaiah was Obed-Edoms ſon; ſo as the ſix following, though reckoned in the number of Obed-Edoms ſons, were his grand-ſons.

that ruled throughout the houſe of their father] Or, were like to the houſe of their father. The former reading implieth that they were Governours over all thoſe that were of their courſe, ſuch as their uncles were: The latter, that they were of ſuch valour as their progenitors were.

for they were mighty men of valour] See ch.5.24. 2 King. 24. 14. This is brought in to ſhew wherein they were like their fathers. Of all the Levites the Porters did moſt need valour; for they might oft meet with affronts.

V.7. The ſons of Shemaiah, Othni, &c. whoſe brethren] Whoſe hath reference to the four ſons of Shemaiah before mentioned.

were ſtrong men] Heb. men of ſtrength. Strong in their limbs, and couragious in Gods cauſe, and in executing their office. It being before ſaid of all Shemaiahs ſons that they were mighty men of valour, and here concerning two of them, that they were ſtrong men, it is implied, that they herein were more excellent then their brethren.

Elihu and Semachiah] Theſe are the brethren that were ſo ſtrong.

V.8. All theſe of the ſons of Obed-Edom] The fourteen before mentioned are here meant.

they, and their ſons, and their brethren] Brethren is here taken in a large ſenſe for kindred, or ſuch as were of the ſame family.

able men for ſtrength] Heb. men of valour in ſtrength. i. e. Very valiant and ſtrong.

for the ſervice] They were the more fit for the duties of their function by reaſon of their great ſtrength and valour.

were threeſcore and two] Theſe were under thoſe before mentioned.

of Obed-Edom] The threeſcore and two laſt mentioned, as well as the fourteen before, deſcended all from Obed-Edom.

V.9. And Meſhelemiah] This was the ſon of Kore, v. 1.

had ſons and brethren] Brethren is here to be taken as v.8.

ſtrong men] See v.7.

eighteen] Thoſe ſeven v.2,3. help to make up theſe eighteen.

V.10. Alſo Hoſah of the children of Merari] Hoſah was one of the Porters appointed to be before the Ark, ch.16.38.

had ſons] Namely four, which hereafter are named.

Simri the chief] There was ſome excellency in Simri that made his father preſent him before his brethren; and it may be alſo ſome fault in the elder that moved their father to prefer the yonger: for by the Law the firſt-born was to be the heir, and to have the preeminence. See Gen.4.7. Deut. 21.16.

for though he was not the firſt-born] He was not chief by the ordinary courſe of law, but upon ſome ſpecial and extraordinary reaſon.

yet his father made him the chief] He thruſt not himſelf into the higheſt place, but his father ſo diſpoſed it.

V.11. Hilkiah the ſecond] Here are four ſons of Hoſah ſet down, every of which were chief in their courſe or diviſion, though Simri had by his father a preeminence given unto him.

all the ſons and brethren of Hoſah] Brethren are here taken as verſe 8.

were thirteen] Theſe thirteen, as the threeſcore and two, v.8. and the eighteen, v. 19. were under ſuch as were called chief.

V.12. Among theſe were the diviſions of the Porters] i. e. Such diviſions, as were before noted of thoſe that attended on the Prieſts, ch.24.31. and of the Singers, ch.25.31.

even among the chief men] Such as were heads over others in their ſeveral diviſions. The chief men here meant were thoſe before named; ſeven ſons of Meſhelemiah, v. 2,3. eight of Obed-Edom, v.4,5. ſix of Shemaiah, v.7. and four of Hoſah, v. 10,11. All theſe make five and twenty: but becauſe Shemaiah who is reckoned one of the ſons of Obed-Edom, v. 4. was the father of thoſe ſix, v.7. he is to be reputed, as Meſhelemiah, v.2. and Obed-Edom, v.4. and Hoſah, v.10. to have been an head, not over one diviſion, but over all the diviſions whereof his ſons were heads; as a Colonel is over all the Captains and Companies in his Regiment. And thus the number of courſes among the Porters will be juſt four and twenty.

having wards one againſt another] Heb. againſt their brethren. This phraſe admits a double interpretation: I. That the Porters had their diviſions for warding as the Singers and other Levites, their brethren, had; namely, four and twenty diſtinct diviſions. II. That the Porters in warding ſtood one company againſt the other, ſome at one door, ſome at another.

to miniſter in the houſe of the Lord] To do thoſe ſpecial ſervices that belonged to their function, in the Temple and the courts thereof.

V.13. And they caſt lots] See ch.24.5.

as well the ſmall as the great] Or, as well for the ſmall as for the great. See ch. 25.8.

according to the houſe of their fathers] See ch.24.30.

for every gate] Heb. for gate and gate. Some at one gate, others at another gate; and that both in the Temple it ſelf, and alſo in all the courts appertaining thereunto.

V.14. And the lot Eaſtward] At the entring in of the Temple; for they entred in at the Eaſt.

fell to Shelemiah] Or, Meſhelemiah, v. 1. He was the father of the firſt ſeven Porters, named v.2,3.

Then for Zachariah his ſon] His eldeſt ſon, v.2.

a wiſe Counſellour] Heb. a giver of counſel with wiſdom. This is another commendation given to a Porter of the houſe of God. It was ſaid of ſome of them, that they were mighty men of valour, men, v.6,7. Here it is ſaid of another, that he was wiſe; and to ſhew that he uſed his wiſdom not onely about his own affairs, he is alſo ſaid to be a Counſellour. He did with others conſult about publick matters; yea, he gave counſel and advice to others.

they caſt lots] See ch.25.8.

and his lot came out Northward] That was on the left hand as they entred into the Temple.

V.15. To Obed-Edom, Southward] On the right hand.

and to his ſons the houſe of Aſuppim] Heb. gatherings. Becauſe they were places for gathering together and laying up the treaſures and utenſils of the houſe of God, and alſo for men to aſſemble together in. This phraſe is diverſly taken by Expoſitors. Some take it for a Treaſury, where the treaſures of the Temple were laid up. To this they are the rather induced, becauſe it is ſaid, 2 Chr. 25.24. that all the gold and ſilver veſſels appertaining to the houſe of God were with Obed-Edom, i. e. under the keeping and charge of his poſterity. Others take it for a Convocation-houſe, where the chief Senators of the Kingdom, or chief Governours of the houſe of God, uſed to meet together to conſult about publick affairs. For this ſenſe Neh. 12. 25. is noted, where it is ſaid that Porters were keeping the ward at the threſholds of the gates. The word Aſuppim is there tranſlated threſholds; but in the margin, treaſuries, or aſſemblies. Many underſtand ſuch aſſemblies as were before ſpoken of: And ſuch uſed to be at the gates of places. See 2 King.10.8. Such a word is put for aſſemblies, Eccl.12. 11. And the Verb, whence the Noun is derived, is put for gathering men together, Num. 11. 16. 2 Sam. 6.1. Gen.49. 1. Our Engliſh tranſlators take it for a proper name, and ſo tranſlate it Aſuppim.

V.16. To Shuppim and Hoſah] We read of a Benjamite called Shuppim, ch.7.12,15. but we find not this name elſewhere given to a Levite. Some take Shuppim in this place for the father of Hoſah; others, for his brother, and conceive that the families were united in one, and in that reſpect onely one lot given to them both.

the lot came forth] See ch.24.5,7.

Weſtward] At the Weſt-end of the Temple was the Moſt holy place, and into it there was no gate: Neither was there any gate Weſtward in any of the Courts, except the Court of the Gentiles: So as they who were under Shuppim and Hoſah had that gate committed unto them.

with the gate Shallecheth] This word taken for the name of a place is no where elſe uſed in Scripture. It ſignifieth a caſting out; and it is taken for a gate out of which they caſt or carried away alll manner of rubbiſh, ſweepings, aſhes, and other ſoyl that was not fit to remain in the houſe or courts of the Lord. Some hold this gate was diſtinct from that which is before ſaid to be Weſtward. See v.18.

by the cauſey of the going up] The Temple being on the ſide of an hill, they went up to it: And at this gate there was a fair cauſey, by which not onely paſſengers, but alſo ſuch things as were brought in or carried out of the Temple, did paſs up and down. And in this ſenſe it may be called the cauſey of going up. There is mention made of a cauſey, 1 King.10.5. & 2 Chron.9.4. which in both places is tranſlated an aſcent: But that was from the Kings houſe towards one of the fore-gates of the Temple; ſo as this cauſey cannot be thought to be that. There is another cauſey mentioned 2 King.12.20. and tranſlated Silla. That and this may imply one and the ſame common-way.

V.17. Eaſtward were ſix Levites] The Royal gate, through which the Prince paſſed, and where he ſat, Ezek. 44. 1, 3. was Eaſtward. More therefore attended at this gate then at others.

Northward four a day, and Southward four a day] The gates on theſe two ſides were of like uſe, and had like attendants.

and toward Aſuppim] See v.15.

two and two] Some expound this of waiting in courſe, two one day, two another. Others, that two out of thoſe that waited at the North and South-gates, were taken to wait here. Or rather it may be taken, that two waited without, and two within; ſo as there might be as many at this Weſtern gate as at the North, or South-gate. Or, if there were two gates Weſtward, as ſome hold, ver. 16. then two might wait at one, and two at the other.

V.18. And Parbar Weſtward] Some take this to be another gate then that which is called Shallecheth, v.16. Others take the word appellatively, for a place where ſundry things belonging to the Temple were laid up. It is a Chaldee word, and compounded, and ſignifieth the outward part; and thus it may well agree to that which was before ſpoken of the gate Shallecheth, being ſet Weſtward.

four at the cauſey] Theſe were the two and two mentioned v. 17.

and two at Parbar] Which was the other gate or place that ſtood Weſtward.

V.19. Theſe were the diviſions of the Porters] See v.12.

and among the ſons of Merari] See v.10.

V.20. And of the Levites] The Levites here intended and hereafter mentioned were queſtionleſs Porters, as well as thoſe before mentioned. For make thoſe Porters to be as many as the Singers were, namely, four and twenty courſes of them, and twelve in a courſe, they amount onely to two hundred fourſcore and eight, as ch.25.7. But there is mention made of four thouſand Porters, ch.23.5. So as there muſt be many more then thoſe four and twenty courſes; among which theſe that follow are to be reckoned.

Ahijah] Here others of the poſterity of Merari are ſet down; Some were mentioned v. 10. Ahijah is ſet down as an head over others, and thoſe others are compriſed under him. For he alone was not over all the treaſures mentioned in this verſe.

was over the treaſures of the houſe of God] There were ſundry ſorts of treaſures of the houſe of God. There was a treaſury wherein ſacred veſſels and all manner of utenſils for the Temple were laid up; 1 King.7 51. There was a treaſury for all ſuch things as were freely given and dedicated to the Lord. Yea, likewiſe there was a treaſury for ſuch money as was upon occaſion gathered for repairing and maintaining the Temple. See 2 King. 12.4. There was need therefore of many treaſurers.

and over] Some make this that followeth to import the ſame treaſury with that which goeth before; and thus tranſlate it, even over. Others turn the copulative and into the disjunctive or.

the treaſures of the dedicate things] Heb. holy things. See 1 King. 15.15.

V. 21. As concerning the ſons of Laadan] Or, Libni, chap. 6.17.

the ſons of the Gerſhonite Laadan] Laadan is called a Gerſhonite, becauſe he deſcended from Gerſhon the eldeſt ſon of Levi, ch.23. 6,7. The word ſons is to be taken for poſterity.

chief fathers] Such as had power and authority over others, and were heads of companies.

even of Laadan the Gerſhonite] It is an Hebrew pleonaſme, thus to redouble the ſame words and phraſes. The meaning is, that they which follow deſcended from Gerſhon by Laadan his ſon.

were Jehieli] Or, Jehiel, ch.23.8.

V. 22. The ſons of Jehieli, Zetham, and Joel his brother] All theſe three are ſaid to be the ſons of Laadan, ch.23.8. but there ſons is taken for poſterity. All three were of the poſterity of Laadan, but by two deſcents; Jeheli his ſon, one; Zetham and Joel his grand-children, another.

which were over the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord] This office was attributed to Ahijah v.20. But there were many chiefs over thoſe treaſures: beſides, there were many treaſures: So as theſe two might well be collegues and joyned in the ſame truſt.

V.23. Of the Amramites, &c.] Kohath the ſecond ſon of Levi had four ſons, Amram, Izhar, Hebron, Uzziel, ch.23.6,12. Of thoſe four came theſe here named, Amramites, Izharites, Hebronites, and Uzzielites. Theſe here ſet down were Porters, but imployed about the treaſuries.

V.24. And Shebuel the ſon of Gerſhom the ſon of Moſes] This relation is here added to diſtinguiſh this Gerſhom from another Gerſhom, or Gerſhon, the eldeſt ſon of Levi, ch.23.6. Of Shebuel ſee ch.23.16.

was ruler of the treaſures] This implieth that Shebuel had ſome authority over thoſe that had a charge of the treaſures, namely over thoſe hereafter mentioned.

V.25. And his brethren by Eliezer] Eliezer being Gerſhoms brother, ch. 23. 15. his ſon and ſons ſons are here called Gerſhoms brethren in a large extent, being his kindred.

Rehabiah his ſon] Rehabiah was Eliezers onely ſon, chap. 23.17.

and Jeſhaiah his ſon, &c.] Rehabiah, Jeſhaiah, Joram, Zichri, and Shelomith are ſome of the brethren intended in the beginning of the verſe; being all of the poſterity of Eliezer.

V.26. Which Shelomith and his brethren were over all the treaſures] Theſe were other treaſures then thoſe mentioned v.22.

of the dedicate things] See v.20.

which David the King] See ch.18.11. 1 King.7.51.

and the chief fathers] Heb. heads of the fathers. Or, heads of families; Princes and great men.

the Captains over thouſands and hundreds] i. e. Colonels over Regiments, and Captains over companies.

and the Captains of the hoſt] Generals.

had dedicated] All that had any command in war did uſe, in way of thankfulneſs for ſuch ſucceſſes as God had given them, to return and conſecrate, as holy to the Lord, ſomething of what they had gotten by war. See Num.31.50.

V.27. Out of the ſpoils won in battels] Heb. out of the battels and ſpoils. Spoils belonged to the ſouldiers that took them from the enemy. Among them they had many times gold, ſilver, precious jewels, and other commodities of worth, Judg. 8.21,24,26. 2 Chron.20.25. And of theſe they did uſe voluntarily to give a portion to the Lord.

did they dedicate to maintain the houſe of the Lord] Heb. to confirm, &c. See 2 King.12.6. This ſhews one end why they gave ſpoils to the Lord. There were alſo other ends, as ſacrifices, and other ſervices appertaining to Gods houſe.

V.28. And all that Samuel the Seer] See ch.9.22. 2 King.17.13. Samuel was a Judge as well as a Prophet, and great victories over the enemies were obtained in his regency, 1 Sam.7.10, &c. he might therefore well conſecrate ſpoils to God.

and Saul the ſon of Kiſh] He alſo had ſundry victories, 1 Sam.11. 11. & 14.20, &c. & 15.5,&c. & 17.52,&c.

and Abner the ſon of Ner] General of Sauls hoſt, 1 Sam.14.50. & 17.55.

and Joab the ſon of Zeruiah] General of Davids hoſt, chap. 11.6.

and whoſoever had dedicated any thing] This implieth that many others had brought treaſures, and conſecrated them to the Lord, beſides thoſe before mentioned.

it was under the hand of Shelomith, and of his brethren] This ſheweth in what reſpect Shelomith and his brethren are ſaid to be over the treaſures, v.26.

V.29. Of the Izharites] See v.23.

Chenaniah and his ſons] There was one Chenaniah a maſter of muſick, ch.15.22,27. but this was of another function.

were for the outward buſineſs] i. e. Such things as in the countrey were to be done, gathered and prepared for the houſe of God and for the ſervice thereof; as all manner of proviſion of wood, coal, oyl, wine, tithes, firſt-fruits, with the like. See Neh. 11.16. 2 Chr.34.13.

over Iſrael] Such Iſraelites as dwelt in the countrey up and down. By comparing v. 32. with this we may gather that their juriſdiction was on this ſide Jordan. Though the number of them that were for theſe outward works be not expreſly ſet down, yet by comparing v.30,32. with ch.23.4. we may gather what their number was, namely a thouſand ſix hundred. For this number added to a thouſand ſeven hundred, v.30. and two thouſand ſeven hundred, v.32. maketh up the ſix thouſand, ch.23.4.

for officers] To overſee the outward buſineſſes before mentioned.

and Judges] To hear complaints, reſolve doubts, determin caſes, right wrongs, and to order to every one his own. Now the Iſraelites being governed by the Judicial law, and the Levites beſt-exerciſed therein, therefore they were ſent abroad among the ſeveral tribes to be Judges, Deut.16.18. 2 Chron. 17.8,9. & 19.11.

V.30. And of the Hebronites] Theſe were the poſterity of Hebron the third ſon of Kohath. See v.33.

Haſhabiah and his brethren] By brethren are meant ſuch as were of his kindred and office.

men of valour] See v.6,7.

among them of Iſrael] See v.29.

on this ſide Jordan Weſtward] This is oppoſed to that part which the Reubenites and others inherited on the other ſide Jordan, v.32.

in all the buſineſſes of the Lord] Such as were counted Eccleſiaſtical, and appertained to the houſe of the Lord and the ſervices thereof.

and in the ſervice of the King] This may be taken for Civil affairs. Such a diſtinction betwixt the matters of the Lord and of the King is made 2 Chro.19.11. Or this phraſe may imply the Kings appointing them to ſuch and ſuch buſineſſes of the Lord, which they doing upon the Kings command are ſaid to do the ſervice of the King.

V.31. Among the Hebronites was Jerijah the chief] See v.10.

In the fourtieth year of the reign of David] This was the laſt year of Davids reign, 2 Sam.5.4. when he was ſeventy years old.

they were ſought for] At this time David deputed Solomon to be his ſucceſſor, and thereupon appointed diſtinct orders among the Levites and others, for the well ordering of Church and Commonwealth; and having aſſembled them together he declared his mind to them, ch.28.1,&c. In this reſpect they are ſaid to be ſought for, namely, to come together.

and there were found amongſt them mighty men of valour] See v.6.

CHAP. XXVII.

Ver. 1. NOw the children of Iſrael after their number] In the four chapters immediately before this the orders of the Levites are ſet down; herein David ſhewed his piety: In this chapter the Militia of the Kingdom is ſet down; and here his prudence is demonſtrated. He had vanquiſhed all his enemies abroad, and ſuppreſſed ſundry inſurrections at home; yet he knew that new wars and conſpiracies might be raiſed: therefore in this time of peace he ſo ſetleth his Souldiery as they might be in a readineſs on all occaſions to defend the Kingdom. This firſt clauſe hath reference to the laſt words of the verſe.

to wit, the chief fathers] Heb. heads of fathers, or families.

and Captains of thouſands] Theſe we call Colonels of Regiments.

and hundreds] Theſe are moſt uſually with us called Captains of Companies. According to the laſt notation they are called Centurions.

and their officers] Such as were under them, as Lieutenant-Colonels, Majors, Lieutenants, and divers others.

that ſerved the King] Theſe attended the Court, where the King was, they guarded his perſon, they were ready to be ſent out at his command. See 2 Chr.17.19.

in any matter of the courſes] In any imployment that belonged to their function, for the time that their ſeveral Companies were to wait in their courſe.

which came in and went out moneth by moneth] They that had waited a moneth, returned to their own houſes to follow their particular imployments, and then another courſe or company came in their ſtead to wait.

throughout all the moneths of the year] There were twelve companies or courſes, v.15. each of which attended one moneth, and went about their own imployments eleven moneths.

of every courſe (or, of each courſe) were twenty and four thouſand] There being twelve courſes, the totall number ariſeth unto two hundred eighty eight thouſand.

V.2. Over the firſt courſe for the firſt moneth] From hence to verſe 16. is a particular exemplification of that which was generally noted of the laſt clauſe of the former verſe.

was Jaſhobeam the ſon of Zabdiel] This was that worthy Captain whoſe acts are ſet forth ch.11.11.

and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand] See on v.1.

V. 3. Of the children of Perez] Or, Pharez. He was the ſon of Judah, Gen.30.29.& 46.12. This hath relation to Jaſhobeam, v.2. who was of the poſterity of Pharez.

was the chief of all the Captains of the hoſt for the firſt moneth] In every courſe there were ſundry companies, which had their Captains, but he was the general Commander over them all.

V. 4. And over the courſe of the ſecond moneth was Dodai an Ahohite] Or, Dodo, ch.11.12. 2 Sam.23.9. His ſon was one of Davids Worthies.

and of his courſe was Mikloth alſo the Ruler] He was a chief Commander over the ſecond courſe after the death of Dodo; or elſe he was a Lieutenant-Colonel or ſome other officer under Dodo.

V.5. The third Captain of the hoſt for the third moneth was Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada] This man was a great Commander in the beginning of Davids reign, 2 Sam.8.18. and continued faithful to David all his dayes, and to Solomon alſo, 1 King.1.36,38. He was made General in the room of Joab, 1 King.2.33. This relation, the ſon of Jehoiada, diſtinguiſheth him from another of Davids Worthies, who was a Pirathonite, ch.11.31. and from certain Levites, ch.15.18. 2 Chr.20.14.

a chief Prieſt] Or, principal Officer. See ch.4.2.

V.6. This is that Benaiah who was mighty among the thirty, and above the thirty] See ch.11.24,25. 2 Sam.23.20,22,23.

and in his courſe was Amizabad his ſon] This is here to be taken as that was which is noted of Mikloth v.4.

V.7. Aſahel the brother of Joab] See ch. 2.16. & 11.26.

and Zebadiah his ſon after him] Aſahel was ſlain in the beginning of Davids reign, 2 Sam.2.1,8,23. After his death his ſon was ſubſtituted in his room: but becauſe Aſahel was a valiant man, brother to Joab and Abiſhai, and of kin to David, his name is put both into the catalogue of Davids Worthies, ch.11. 26. and here, into the catalogue of chief Commanders.

V.8. Shambuth the Izrahite] Some take this man to be the ſame that is called Shammoth, ch. 11. 27. and Shammah, 2 Sam. 23. 25. But they were of different families. He that is ſet down in the catalogue of Davids Worthies was an Harodite; but this man was an Izrahite. There was alſo another called Shammah in the catalogue of Davids Worthies, but an Hararite, 2 Sam.23.33.

V.9. Ira the ſon of Ikkeſh the Tekoite] Ch.11.28.

V.10. Helez the Pelonite] Or, Paltite, 2 Sam.23.26.See ch.11.27.

of the children of Ephraim] This is added to diſtinguiſh him from another Helez, who was of the tribe of Judah,ch.2.39.

V.11. Sibbecai the Huſhathite] Ch.11.29. & 20.4. of the Zarhites] Theſe deſcended from Zerah, who came from Simeon, Num.26.13.

V.12. Abiezer the Antothite] See ch.11.28.

V.13. Maharai the Netophathite] See ch.11.30.

of the Zarhites] There was ſuch a family of the tribe of Judah, Num.26.20. Joſh.7.17.

V.14. Benaiah the Pirathonite] See v.5. & ch. 11.24,31.

V.15. Heldai the Netophathite] Or, Heled, ch. 11. 30. or Heleb, 2 Sam.23.29.

of Othniel] The firſt Judge of Iſrael after Joſhua was Othniel, Judg.3.9. If this be the Othniel here intended, his ſtock continued many generations.

and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand] This is the twelfth time that this clauſe is repeated. See v.1.

V.16. Furthermore over the tribes of Iſrael] Hitherto the orders and courſes of Commanders in war, with the Companies under them, are ſet down. In the following part of the chapter ſuch Governours as were over the ſeveral tribes in times of peace are diſtinctly ſet down. There were thirteen Rulers, though but twelve tribes, and Gad and Aſher are left out: For Gad bordered upon Reuben, ſo as theſe two tribes were ruled by one Governour; and Aſher was governed by the ſame Ruler that the tribe adjoyning to it was governed by. There were thirteen Governours, becauſe Joſephs ſons made two tribes, Ephraim, and Manaſſeh; and Manaſſeh being divided by Jordan into two parts, each part had its Governour, v. 20, 21. And the Prieſts and Levites were ſo diſtinguiſhed as they had two ſeveral Governours, v. 17.

the Ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer the ſon of Zichri] There were many in ſeveral tribes called Eliezer, but this relation, the ſon of Zichri, diſtinguiſheth this Governour from them all.

Of the Simeonites, Shephatiah the ſon of Maachah] This parentage diſtinguiſheth this Governour from the ſon of David, 2 Sam. 3.4.

V. 17. Of the Levites, Haſhabiah the ſon of Kemuel] This may be he who is mentioned ch. 26.30. He was the third Governour.

Of the Aaronites, Zadok] Zadok was the chief Prieſt, and ſo over the other Prieſts, called Aaronites; for all Aarons ſons were Prieſts.

V.18. Of Judah, Elihu, one of the brethren of David] Called Eliab 1 Sam.16.6. This was the fifth Governour. of Iſſachar, Omri the ſon of Michael] This parentage diſtinguiſheth him from another Omri the ſon of Becher, ch. 7.8.

V.19. Of Zebulun, Iſhmaiah the ſon of Obadiah] See ch. 12. 4. This was the onely Iſhmaiah that we read of.

of Naphtali, Jerimoth the ſon of Azriel] This might be of thoſe valiant men that came to David in Ziklag, ch.12.4.

V.20. Of the children of Ephraim, Hoſhea the ſon of Azaziah] He that conquered Canaan was of this name, Deut. 32. 44. But beſides the time wherein they lived, their parentage doth diſtinguiſh them.

of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh] Namely, on this ſide Jordan.

Joel the ſon of Pedaiah] His parentage diſtinguiſheth him from ſundry other Joels mentioned in Scripture.

V.21. Of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh in Gilead] Gilead was on the other ſide of Jordan, Joſh.17.1,5.

Iddo the ſon of Zechariah] There were many called Iddo, but they were of other parentage. This was the eleventh Governour.

of Benjamin, Jaaſiel the ſon of Abner] Abner the General of Sauls hoſt was of the tribe of Benjamin, 1 Sam.14.50,51.

V. 22. Of Dan, Azariel the ſon of Jeroham] There was another of this name, chap. 12. 6. But we read of no other of the tribe of Dan. Azariel was the thirteenth Governour.

Theſe were the Princes of the tribes of Iſrael] See v. 16.

V.23. But David took not the number of them from twenty years old and under] The law where it ſpeaketh of numbring people, brings it to this limitation, twenty years old and upward, Numb. 1.18, &c. & 26.2.

becauſe the Lord had ſaid] Though David in the pride of his heart commanded the people to be numbred, ch.21.2. yet he retained ſo much faith as to believe Gods word.

he would increaſe Iſrael like to the ſtars of the heavens] See Gen. 15.5. This is here brought in as a reaſon why David would not have the people numbred under twenty years, leſt thereby he might ſeem to doubt the promiſe of God, Gen.22.17. & 26.4. See on Numb.1.2.

V.24. Joab the ſon of Zerviah] See 1 Chr.2.16.

began to number] See ch.21.4, &c.

but he finiſhed not] Ch.21.6. & 2 Sam.24.5, &c.

becauſe there fell wrath for it againſt Iſrael] While Joab was numbring the people, a great plague, which was the effect of Gods wrath fell among them, which was one cauſe that kept him from finiſhing the work he had begun, ch.21.14. Of wrath ſee 2 Chr. 26. 13.

neither was] Heb. aſcended.

the number of the account put into the Chronicles of King David] After David was ſenſible of his ſin, and diſcerned how diſpleaſing it was unto God, to ſhew his deteſtation of the fact, he would not ſuffer the number that was taken to be put into his civil records, which were the publick Chronicles of thoſe times. But God, for inſtruction to future ages, cauſed it to be put into an holy record, which is the ſacred Scriptures. The Hebrews here ſet down this word חצי, whereby they ſignifie that this is half of the Book, namely of the whole hiſtory of the Chronicles: which is true in regard of the verſes.

V.25. And over the Kings treaſures] David had before ſet down orders for ſafe keeping and well uſing the treaſures of the houſe of God, ch.26.20,&c. That was an act of piety; after that he took care of his own treaſures, which was an act of prudence. Treaſuries and treaſures are not unlawful.

was Azmaveth the ſon of Adiel] The treaſures here meant were ſuch as were in Jeruſalem the chief city, or in the Kings court. For theſe treaſures are diſtinguiſhed from ſuch commodities as were abroad in the countrey.

and over the ſtore-houſes in the fields] The King cauſed ſtore-houſes to be built up and down, even in the fields, that ſuch commodities as belonged to him might be laid up neer the place where they did ariſe.

in the cities] In ſeveral tribes, diſtinct from Jeruſalem.

and in the villages] Theſe were leſs places, ſmall towns.

and in the caſtles] Strong places where the garriſons were kept.

was Jehonathan the ſon of Uzziah] He had the chief care and truſt of ſuch commodities committed unto him.

V.26. And over them that did the work of the field for tillage of the ground] Which were to plow, ſow, dung, fence, or any other way look unto the Kings land.

was Ezri the ſon of Chelub] He was over farmers, husbandmen, and ſuch other perſons, to ſee that they were diligent and faithful.

V. 27. And over the vineyards] Theſe being a great commodity in thoſe dayes, care was to be had to ſee them well planted, dunged, pruned, fenced, and other needful things done to them.

over the increaſe of the vineyards] Heb. over that which was of the vineyards. Hereby is meant gathering of grapes in time of vintage, preſſing of them, and making good wine.

for the wine-cellars] That the Kings wine might be carried into them.

V.28. And over the olive-trees] What care was had of Vineyards v.27. muſt alſo be had of Olive-trees: for from thence they had their oyl.

and the Sycamore-trees that were in the low plains] See 1 King. 10.27.

was Baal-hanan the Gederite] Though Sycamores were but ordinary trees, ſuch as grew in hedg-rowes, yet the King would have one take care there ſhould be no ſpoil made of them.

and over the cellars of oyl was Joaſh] As David had ſome to ſee oyl beaten out, ſo he had others to take care of it when it was brought into cellars.

V.29. And over the herds that fed in Sharon] Sharon was very fertile, Cant.2.1. Eſa.3.39. & 35.2. and ſo a fit place for herds of cattle to feed in; for there were very good paſtures. Some take it to be a plain champain countrey lying along by Libanus, even from Baſhan, ch.5.16.

was Shetrai the Sharonite] He might have this epithet Sharonite given him from Sharon.

and over the herds that were in the valleys] Theſe were other paſture-grounds beſides Sharon.

was Shaphat the ſon of Adlai] See ch.5.12.

and over the Aſſes] See 1 King.2.40. & 13.13. 2 King.7.7.

V.31. And over the flocks] Theſe were of ſmaller cattle, as of Sheep, Goats, and other ſuch like.

All theſe were the Rulers of the ſubſtance which was King Davids] The particulars before mentioned ſhew there were Officers to look to all manner of commodities that belonged to the King throughout his whole dominion. See Ezra 4.22.

V.32. Alſo Jonathan Davids uncle] This Jonathan was Davids brothers ſon, 2 Sam.21.21. ſo as he was onely Davids kinſman or nephew, and David was his uncle: but the word uncle is here taken in a large ſenſe, for couſin.

was a counſellor] One of whom David uſed in weighty matters to take counſel.

a wiſe man] This ſheweth that he was able to give good counſel.

and a Scribe] Or, Secretary. To be a Kings Secretary and of his privy-Counſel is a very honourable place. See 1 King. 4. 3.

and Jehiel the ſon of Hachmoni (or, Hachmonite) was with the Kings ſons] He was as a tutor to give them good breeding, and to inſtruct them in learning. Some joyn Jonathan and Jehiel in this office.

V.33. And Ahithophel was the kings Counſellor] He was ſo wiſe as his counſel was accounted an Oracle, 2 Sam.16.23. yet for all his wiſdom he hanged himſelf, 2 Sam.17.23. That which is here ſpoken of his being Davids Counſellor was before Abſaloms conſpiracy, 2 Sam.15.31.

and Huſhai the Archite was the kings companion] Or, friend, 2 Sam. 15.37. He was ſuch an one to David as we now call the Kings Favourite. And he was a moſt faithful Favourite, 2 Sam. 17.7,&c.

V.34. And after Ahithophel] Namely, after his death.

was Jehoiada the ſon of Benaiah] This was not that Jehoiada who was the father of the valiant Benaiah, v. 5. but rather that Jehoiada who among the valiant Prieſts came to David in the beginning of his kingdom, ch. 12.27.

and Abiathar] This might be he that conſpired with Adonijah, 1 King. 1. 7. or his father who was called both Ahimelech and Abiathar. See ch. 18.16. Theſe two were of the Kings privy-Counſel.

and the General of the kings army was Joab] See ch.11.6.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Ver.1. AND David aſſembled] This hath reference to the beginning of ch.23. For all that is regiſtred from ch.23. 3. to ch.8.1. containeth a narration of things that were done before the aſſembly here mentioned was gathered together.

all the Princes of Iſrael] Thoſe Princes are eſpecially here meant that are ſet down ch. 27.

the Princes of the tribes] Set down ch.27. 16, &c. and the Captains of the Companies] i. e. Of thoſe Companies that ſerved in their ſeveral courſes, ch. 27. 2, &c.

that miniſtred to the King by courſe] See ch.27.1. and the Captains over the thouſands, and the Captains over the hundreds] See ch.27.1.

and the ſtewards over the ſubſtance and poſſeſſion of the king] Or, cattle of the king. The Hebrew word is ſometimes taken for the one, ſometimes for the other. The particular charge of theſe ſtewards is expreſly ſet down ch.27.25, &c.

and of his ſons] This in the Hebrew is ſo ſet down as if hereby were meant the ſtewards of the ſubſtance of Davids ſons; and ſo our Engliſh will well carry it. Others make theſe a part of the aſſembly; q. d. David aſſembled the Kings ſons, as well as the Princes and others.

with the Officers] Or, Eunuchs. See 1 King.22.9.

and with the mighty men, and with all the valiant men] Theſe were they who are ſet down ch.11.12. and others like to them.

unto Jeruſalem] This hath reference to the firſt clauſe of this verſe, q. d. David aſſembled unto Jeruſalem all the Princes, &c.

V.2. Then David the king ſtood up upon his feet] Many take that which followeth to be done after Adonijahs conſpiracy, and Davids declaring Solomon to be King, 1 King.1.5, &c. and that David in ſo great a buſineſs as this was gathered his ſpirits together, and roſe up in reverence to God, whoſe cauſe he had in hand; as Jacob in a like caſe did, Gen.47.38. and as Eglon did, Judg.3.20. They who take this aſſembly to be before David was ſo weak, ſay that he ſtood upon his feet partly to teſtifie his good reſpect to that aſſembly, and partly that he might be the better heard of them all.

and ſaid, Hear me] By this phraſe he ſtirreth up their attention. So Gen.23.6. & 49.2.

my brethren] This phraſe he uſeth in relation 1. to God and the Church, in which reſpect King and Subjects are as brethren; 2. to their father Jacob, from whom he as well as his Subjects deſcended; 3. to the common condition, they were all fleſh.

and my people] This hath relation to that Soveraignty and charge which God hath given him over them. By theſe two phraſes he inſinuateth himſelf into their hearts.

As for me, I had in mine heart to build an houſe] See ch. 17.1, &c.

for the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord] See 1 King.8.1. and for the foot-ſtool of our God] This is a deſcription of the Ark, which is oft ſtiled Gods foot-ſtool, as Pſal.99.5. & 132.7. Lam.2.1. and that in theſe reſpects: I. God being ſaid to dwell between the Cherubims, and to ſpeak from between them, Exod.25.22. Numb.7.89. 2 King.19.15. 1 Chron.13.6. the Ark being under the Cherubims, is ſaid to be his foot-ſtool. II. To ſhew that though the Ark were a repreſentation of his preſence, yet it was but as his Foot-ſtool on earth; his Throne was in heaven, Act.7.49. Matth.5.34,35. III. To ſhew that they were not to reſt in that evidence of Gods preſence which was but his Foot-ſtool, but from thence to raiſe up their hearts higher, even unto heaven, which was his Throne. See v.18.

and had made ready for the building] What preparations David had made for this purpoſe may be ſeen ch.22.2,3,4,14, 15, 16.

V.3. But God ſaid unto me] Namely by his Prophet Nathan. See on 2 Sam.7.5.

Thou ſhalt not build an houſe for my name] Ch.17.4.

becauſe thou haſt been a man of war] See ch.22.8.

and haſt ſhed blood] Heb. bloods. The plural number implyeth much blood. It is thus expreſſed ch. 22. 8. Thou haſt ſhed blood abundantly.

V.4. Howbeit the Lord God of Iſrael] See ch.8.15.

choſe me before all the houſe of my father] Before all my brethren, 1 Sam.16.12.

to be king over Iſrael for ever] This may be taken either of Davids own perſon; and ſo it extendeth to the continuance of his life on earth, as Exod.26.1. Or it may be extended to his ſeed, and thus it is to be taken of the politie of the Jews; ſo long as it continued: Or to Chriſt; and ſo the word ever is properly taken. See ch.17.12.

for he hath choſen Judah to be the Ruler] Among the tribes he choſe Judah, that out of it a King ſhould be taken to rule over Iſrael, Gen.49.8. Pſal.78.68. David here ſets down a gradation of four ſteps, wherein he doth exemplifie Gods free grace in making choice of whom he will: 1. the tribe of Judah; 2. the houſe of Jeſſe; 3. David; 4. Solomon. None of theſe, before God choſe them, was the chief. Judah was the fourth ſon of Jacob, Gen. 29.35. The houſe of Jeſſe was none of the greateſt families of Judah. See 1 King.12.16. David was the youngeſt of Jeſſe's eight ſons, 1 Sam.16.11. and Solomon had at leaſt ſix brethren elder then himſelf; See ch. 3.4,5. and of the houſe of Judah, the houſe of my father] Chap. 2. 3, 12, 15.

and among the ſons of my father he liked me] This is to be taken of Gods free grace and meer good pleaſure, not of any deſert of David.

to make me king over all Iſrael] This hath reference partly to the beginning of Davids reign, at which time he was King onely over Judah, and partly to Rehoboams loſs of ten tribes, ch.14.2. 1 Kin. 14.16.

V.5. And of all my ſons (for the Lord hath given me many ſons)] Nineteen ſons of David are reckoned up together, ch.3.1, &c.

he hath choſen Solomon my ſon] See ch.22.9,10.

to ſit upon the throne of the kingdom] A throne is a proper ſeat for a King; and to ſit upon it is to reign as a King.

of the Lord over Iſrael] Iſrael was Gods peculiar people, Exod.19.5,6. and Gods onely Church at that time, and in that reſpect called the kingdom of the Lord. For though the whole world be Gods univerſal kingdom, yet the Church is his ſpecial and peculiar kingdom, over which he hath the greateſt care. See ch.29.23.

V.6. And he ſaid unto me, Solomon thy ſon] This hath reference to 2 Sam.7.13. where Davids ſon is indefinitely mentioned, but Solomon not named; yet by the deſcription of that ſon there ſet down it may well be gathered that Solomon is intended.

he ſhall build my houſe] The Temple which conſiſted of the Moſt holy place, Holy place and Porch, is moſt properly ſtiled Gods houſe. See 1 King.3.1.

and my courts] See 1 King.6.36. In theſe courts were ſundry gates, walls, partitions and other buildings; in which reſpect this phraſe of building the courts is properly uſed.

for I have choſen him to be my ſon] It was Gods free grace and love to Solomon that advanced him above his brethren, God choſe him.

and I will be his father] See ch.17.13.

V.7. Moreover I will eſtabliſh his kingdom for ever] See chap. 17.14.

if he be conſtant] Heb. ſtrong. The word hath eſpecial relation to that courage of mind which cauſeth an unalterable reſolution, whence followeth conſtancy. The manner of ſetting down this inference ſheweth that there be conditions to be obſerved on mans part for obtaining Gods promiſes.

to do my Commandments and my Judgments] See 1 King.2.3.

as at this day] By this it appeareth that Solomon had been well inſtructed by his father in the Commandments and Judgments of God, and that he had in his fathers life-time well obſerved them. See 1 King.8.61.

V.8. Now therefore in the ſight of all Iſrael] He meaneth the repreſentative body of Iſrael there preſent, v. 1. and to them he directeth this his exhortation: So as he makes all of them, one to another, witneſſes of the charge he gave them, that they might be the more careful in obſerving it.

the Congregation of the Lord] This ſetteth out the Church of God, as that phraſe, the kingdom of the Lord, v. 5. and this maketh the witneſſes to be of greater account, and the charge more weighty.

and in the audience of our God] Heb. in the ears, i.e. Who heareth this charge that is given, and who is in ſpecial manner our God. This addeth more weight to the charge.

keep and ſeek] Theſe words are of the plural number, and ſpoken to all the people. And they imply that the people muſt keep what they knew, and ſeek to be inſtructed in what more belonged to them.

for all the commandments] We muſt labour both to be inſtructed in the whole will of God, and alſo to endeavour to keep all his precepts.

of the Lord your God] See ch.22.18.

that you may poſſeſs this good land] i.e. The land of Canaan in which they dwelt. It was a very pleaſant and fertile land, abounding with all manner of needful commodities; in which reſpect it is ſaid to be a land flowing with milk and honey. Exod.3.8. Deut.26.9. See 1 King.14 15.

and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you] God had given that land to Abraham and his ſeed for an inheritance, Gen.15.7. Deut.3.21,38. but it was upon condition of obſerving Gods commandments. Deut.4.1,26. Therefore David calleth upon the people to obſerve that condition, as they did deſire to leave that land to their children.

V.9. And thou] The exhortation v. 8. was made to the whole kingdom, but now David turneth to his ſon, and giveth him his charge.

Solomon my ſon] David ſweetly inſinuateth himſelf into the heart of his ſon, by calling him by his proper name, and by expreſſing that ſpecial relation which was betwixt them, in this phraſe, my ſon, as if he had been his onely ſon.

know thou the God] Knowledge of God is the ground of all other duty, without which all obedience is but blind obedience.

of thy father] David hereby meaneth himſelf. Now David had taken the true God for his God, and that God had exceedingly bleſſed David. In which reſpect he here maketh mention of that relation betwixt God and him, to quicken up his ſon thereby.

and ſerve him] As this word in general compriſeth all manner of obedience of God, ſo in ſpecial it intendeth his worſhip, Exod. 10.7.

with a perfect heart] See 1 King. 8.61.

and with a willing mind] Forced ſervice is not acceptable to God.

for the Lord ſearcheth all hearts] This is added as a reaſon to move Solomon to ſerve God ſincerely and willingly, becauſe the Lord doth not onely obſerve the outward ſervice that is done, but alſo trieth the very diſpoſition of the ſoul, and knoweth with what intent and after what manner it is done.

and underſtandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts] i.e. The firſt motions of the ſoul, which ſet men on to do what they do.

if thou ſeek him] To ſeek God is either generally taken for the uſe of all means wherein and whereby we may come to the knowledge of him, Iſa.51.1. or elſe in particular for the calling upon his name, Pſal.34.10. It may be here taken in both ſenſes. See ch.16.10,11.

he will be found of thee] By careful uſing of right means we may attain to the right knowledge of God; in which reſpect he may be ſaid to be found. Or when he heareth our prayer, and granteth our requeſt, he is found.

but if thou forſake him] They eſpecially are ſaid to forſake God who having once known and profeſſed him do turn from their holy profeſſion unto idolatry or any other impiety or iniquity. See 1 King.18.18.

he will caſt thee off for ever] He will renounce thee, and not acknowledge thee to be his, as Matth.7.23. See 2 King.23.27. This phraſe for ever implyeth that the forſaking of God before mentioned is meant of a total final apoſtaſie.

V.10. Take heed now] This phraſe implyeth a diligent circumſpection over a mans heart and life.

for the Lord hath choſen thee] See v.5,6.

to build an houſe for the Sanctuary] The Hebrew word may be applied to a holy place, or to a holy thing. It is oft put for the Tabernacle, and for the Temple. Here it is put for the Ark, which was the moſt holy repreſentation of Gods preſence that the Jews had. See ch.9.29. & 1 King.6.19.

be ſtrong] This hath eſpecial relation to courage of mind.

and do it] They who take courage to themſelves, will much better accompliſh what they undertake. See ch. 22. 13. 1 King.2.2.

V.11. Then David gave to Solomon his ſon the pattern] Though David were not ſuffered himſelf to build the Temple, yet his heart was ſo ſet upon it as he meditated thereon continually, and in himſelf conſidered what kind of houſe it ſhould be, what parts thereof, what partitions therein. And queſtionleſs he oft called upon God to direct him therein: and we cannot but think God heard his prayer, and by his Spirit enlightned his underſtanding, (for ſo it is expreſly ſaid, that he had a pattern of all by the Spirit, v. 12. & 19.) ſo as he came to diſcern in every particular what kind of houſe it ſhould be; and anſwerably he ſet it down in a plat-form, which is here called a pattern, and delivered it to his ſon. That this pattern was made by Divine inſtinct, is evident v. 12. By this means Solomon had ſuch an help as Moſes had, Exod.25.40.

of the porch] The porch is here ſynecdochically put for the whole Temple, as the particulars following, which are ſaid to appertain thereunto, do evidently demonſtrate. Of the Porch in particular ſee 1 King.6.4.

and of the houſes thereof] Hereby may be meant the diſtinct parts of the Temple, which were within the Porch, and into which the Prieſts went through the Porch, and alſo the rooms built round about the Temple. Of which ſee 1 King.6.5, &c.

and of the treaſuries thereof] See ch.9.26. & 26. 20, 22, &c.

and of the upper chambers thereof] See 1 King.6.5.

and of the inward parlors thereof] Under this phraſe ſuch rooms as were within the walls of the Temple for the Prieſts uſe may be compriſed.

and of the place of the mercy-ſeat] This was called the Oracle, and Moſt holy place, 1 King.6.5,16. The Mercy-ſeat is here ſynecdochically put for the Ark and all things appertaining thereunto. The word tranſlated mercy-ſeat ſignifieth a cover: for it covered the Ark. It is in Latine called propitiatorium, a place or means of being appeaſed. It was called a Propitiatory or a Mercy-ſeat, becauſe there God ſhewed himſelf appeaſed, merciful and gracious to his people. In the Ark was the moral Law, which denounced a curſe againſt all mankind, becauſe they were ſinners: This cover kept the Law within the Ark, that it ſhould not be produced againſt us, and in that reſpect it might well be called a propitiatory, or mercy-ſeat. God was ſet forth in his glorious Majeſty between the two Cherubims, ch. 13.6. 2 King.19.15. Now this cover of the Ark was betwixt the Law, and the Divine Majeſty; and it typified Chriſt, who is that Mediator that keepeth us ſafe from the curſe of the Law, and preſenteth himſelf before Gods glorious Majeſty for us. It is called mercy-ſeat, becauſe God in Chriſt ſits on a ſeat of mercy and throne of grace. See 1 King. 6. 19.

V.12. And the pattern] See v. 11.

of all that he had] Heb. of all that was with him. i.e. Of the main buildings, and ſeveral rooms appertaining to them, and of all the things that were therein to be imployed about Gods ſervice.

by the Spirit] The Divine Spirit is here meant, which inſtructed Davids ſpirit, and inwardly ſuggeſted unto him how all things ſhould be made. See v.19.

of the courts of the houſe of the Lord] See 1 King.6.36. Here David beginneth to exemplifie in particular that which in general was compriſed under this phraſe, all that he had.

and all the chambers round about] See ch.6.5, &c. of the treaſuries of the houſe of God] See v. 11.

and of the treaſuries of the dedicate things] See ch.26.20,26,27.

V.13. Alſo for the courſes of the Prieſts and the Levites] Or, of the courſes: For this hath reference to v.12. David gave the pattern of theſe things as well as of others. Of theſe courſes ſee ch. 23, 24, 25, & 26.

and for all] Or, of all. For this depends on the word pattern v.12.

the work of the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord] What work the Prieſts ſhould do, what the Levites, what alſo was to be done of the people who were to bring ſacrifices, and who were to be made clean.

and for all] Or, of all.

the veſſels of ſervice in the houſe of the Lord] Such as were uſed in any ſervice in the Temple. Of theſe ſee 1 King.7.40, &c.

V.14. He gave of gold by weight] Having ſet down what things ſhould be made of gold, he weighed out ſo much as might be ſufficient for them all.

for things of Gold] All the things in the Moſt holy place, yea and moſt of them that were in the Holy place, were of gold. See 1 King.7.48, &c.

for all inſtruments of all manner of ſervice] Heb. of ſervice ſervice. The Hebraiſm is well expreſſed in our Engliſh tranſlation. By inſtruments of ſervice he meaneth not onely veſſels before mentioned, but alſo hinges, locks, keyes, and what elſe was uſed in the Temple. The fore-mentioned clauſe may thus be read, even of the gold for all inſtruments of all manner of ſervice. If it be ſo read, the firſt words in this verſe, he gave, need not be prefixed; for this verſe alſo hath reference to v. 12.

ſilver alſo for all inſtruments of ſilver] There were ſundry things in the Temple made of ſilver, v.15,16,17. So in the Tabernacle, Ex.36.30,36. & 38. 10, &c.

by weight for all inſtruments of every kind of ſervice] i. e. Such as were to be made of ſilver; as before he meant ſuch inſtruments as were made of gold.

V.15. Even the weight for the candleſticks of gold] Solomon made ten ſeveral candleſticks of gold, 1 King. 7. 49. In the Tabernacle there was but one, and that of a talent of gold, Ex. 25. 31,39. But every of Solomons ten candleſticks was far greater then that one which Moſes made; ſo as there needed a great deal of gold for the candleſticks, beſides other things.

and for their lamps of gold] i.e. Thoſe veſſels whereinto the oyl and wyke of the lamps were put, and ſet upon the branches of the candleſticks. See 1 King.7.49.

by weight for every Candleſtick, and for the lamps thereof] David did proportion out the very matter and quantity for every of the holy things, as well as the faſhion of them.

and for the Candleſticks of ſilver] The Candleſticks of gold were very great ones, and had many branches, and conſtantly remained in one place, 1 King.7.49. 2 Chr.4.7,20. Exod.25.31, &c. But there was uſe of Candleſticks to be carried up and down, in the courts and chambers where the Prieſts and Levites were to be: and theſe were of ſilver.

by weight both for the Candleſticks, and alſo for the lamps thereof] It appeareth that they uſed oyl, wher of lamps were, and no candles in the houſe of God, yea, and in the chambers of the Prieſts.

according to the uſe of every Candleſtick] Whether conſtantly ſettled in one place, or carried up and down.

V.16. And by weight he gave gold] He gave is not in the Hebrew, and may well be left out. For he continueth to ſpeak of a pattern, not of the gift it ſelf. See v.11,12,13,14.

for the tables of ſhew-bread] See 1 King.7.48.

for every table] There were ten tables, 1 King.7.48. 2 Chron. 4. 8.

and likewiſe ſilver for the tables of ſilver] There were tables in the Prieſts courts to lay thoſe things thereon which they there uſed; and theſe were of ſilver. It may be alſo the tables in the treaſuries and Prieſts chambers were of ſilver.

V.17. Alſo pure gold] See 1 King.10.21. 2 Chr.4.20.

for the fleſh-hooks] The proper uſe of fleſh-hooks was to take meat out of the pan, or any other veſſel, wherein any part of a ſacrifice was ſod, 1 Sam. 2.13, 14. We read of fleſh-hooks of braſs, Exod.27.3. 2 Chr.4.16. but no where of gold, except this place.

and the bowls, and the cups] Cups and bowls were for the ſame uſe. See 1 King.7.50.

and for the golden baſons] See 1 King.7.50.

he gave gold by weight] See v. 14,16.

for every baſon] For they uſed many baſons; Ezra 1. 9. Neh.7.70.

and likewiſe ſilver by weight for every baſon of ſilver] They uſed ſilver baſons in the courts and chambers appertaining to the Temple.

V.18. And for the Altar of incenſe] See ch.6.44.

refined gold by weight] Refined gold is that which is again and again tried in the fire, Zech. 13.9. Mal.3.1,3. It is called pure gold, v.17. and fine gold, 2 Chr.3.5,8. See 1 King.9.28.

and gold for the pattern of the chariot of the Cherubims] Becauſe God is ſaid to ſit between the Cherubims, Pſal. 99. 1. and to dwell betwixt them, 13. 6. and to be carried or to ride upon them, Pſal. 18. 10. this phraſe, chariot of the Cherubims, is uſed; which ſetteth forth the majeſty of God ſitting or riding in a chariot. It alſo might give them to underſtand that God might ride away from them if they were not careful to give him good entertainment.

and covered the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord] See 1 King. 6.9. Here, as the Ark it ſelf, ſo the Mercy-ſeat that covered it, and the ſmaller Cherubims which Moſes made, and were faſtened to that cover, Exod.25.18. are meant. For all theſe were covered with the great Cherubims mentioned in this verſe.

V. 19. All this, ſaid David, the Lord made me to underſtand in writing] His meaning is, that God ſo inſpired him, and gave him ſo full underſtanding of all the things before mentioned, as he could diſtinctly ſet them down by writing, and ſo leave them as a pattern to direct his ſon how to make all. For David was a man of God, 2 Chr.8.14. and he did what he did herein by the Spirit of God. v.12. Or the pattern ſet down in writing might be brought him by ſome Prophet, 2 Chr.29.25.

by his hand upon me] By the hand of God may be meant the Spirit of God. Or this phraſe may be uſed in alluſion to Moſes his receiving a pattern of the Tabernacle from the hand of God himſelf, Exod.25.40.

even all the works of this pattern] All thoſe mentioned before, and ſundry others not here ſet down in particular.

V. 20. And David ſaid to Solomon his ſon] After he had given him direction what to do, he invites him to be diligent in doing it.

Be ſtrong and of good courage, and do it] See v.10. & ch. 22.13.

for the Lord God] By this phraſe he putteth him in mind of the power of God, who would enable him to do his work.

even my God] By this he putteth him in mind of Gods ſpecial favour towards him, and promiſe made to him, ch.17.8,11,&c.

will be with thee] See ch.22.11.

he will not fail thee, nor forſake thee] See Joſh.1.5. i.e. God would not ceaſe to favour, aſſiſt and bleſs him. They who make a promiſe to a friend to do this and that for him, but do it not, are ſaid to fail him; God will not do ſo. They who having begun to afford ſome help, but ceaſe to help before the work be done, are ſaid to forſake him; neither will God do ſo.

untill thou haſt finiſhed all the work] Though this principally imply that God would afford him his aſſiſtance and bleſſing continually to the very end of his work, yet it doth not determine Gods preſence with him onely till that time: for the word until is oft uſed for Perpetuity; God will never forſake thee. See 2 Sam.6.23. Matth. 1.25.

for the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord] See v. 13.

V. 21. And behold] That which followeth, concerning all ſorts of people to be ready to aſſiſt Solomon, was a matter remarkable.

the courſes of the Prieſts and the Levites] See ch. 23,24,25, & 26. The meaning is, that all the Prieſts and Levites in their ſeveral courſes ſhould do as followeth.

even they ſhall be with thee] Aſſiſtant to thee by affording their beſt counſel and aid.

for all the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord] See v. 13.

and there ſhall be with thee for all manner of workmanſhip] About things of gold, ſilver, braſs, wood, or any other materials.

every willing and ſkilful man] Theſe two things are requiſite for affording of good help, and for well effecting a thing, skill or ability, and willingneſs and readineſs of mind. Without the former a man can do no good, without the latter he will do none.

for any manner of ſervice] Sundry kind of ſervices were requiſite for building the Temple, and making the things appertaining thereunto; but David here implyeth that there ſhould be men fit for every thing.

alſo the Princes] Such are noted v. 1.

and all the people] They of inferiour rank and ſort.

will be wholly at thy commandment] They will be ſo far from rebelling againſt thee, or hindring thy work, as they will do what thou ſhalt appoint them.

CHAP. XXIX.

Verſ. 1. F*urthermore, David the King ſaid unto all the Congregation*] The firſt word ſheweth, that David turneth his ſpeech to thoſe that were preſent before him. This was ſuch a congregation as is mentioned ch.13.2.

Solomon my ſon whom alone] Heb. one. q.d. My one ſon. One is put for one alone, or for an onely one.

God hath choſen] See ch.28.5. The particle one hath reference to this word choſen; for David had many ſons, but God choſe onely Solomon to be King, ch. 28.5.

is yet young and tender, and the work is great] See ch.22.5.

for the palace is not for man] A Palace uſeth to be the faireſt of buildings. It is a title given to the royal houſe of a King. In that he ſaith it is not for man, he implieth that it was more magnificent and excellent then might be made for any man. In what reſpect it was ſo, ſee ch.22.5.

but for the Lord God] For his name, for his glory; to ſet forth the excellency of his Son Chriſt, and the many benefits that might be expected from him.

V. 2. Now I have prepared] David reckoneth up what he himſelf had conferred towards the building of the Temple, and for all things appertaining thereunto, not for oſtentation, to boaſt of what he had done, but in an humble acknowledgment of Gods goodneſs in beſtowing upon him what he had given towards that work, and alſo in giving him a heart to return it unto God for his ſervice, v. 14, 16. and thereupon he bleſſed the Lord, v. 10. Beſides, he maketh mention before his Princes of what he had done, to ſtir them up to do the like according to their places and means: For after this, they alſo offered to the houſe of the Lord, v. 6.

with all my might] This hath reference both to the willingneſs and cheerfulneſs of his ſpirit, and alſo to the uttermoſt of his ability, in regard of that portion of treaſure which God had beſtowed upon him.

for the houſe of my God] This ſhews the reaſon of his bountifulneſs, that ſpecial relation which was betwixt God and him. See ch.28.10.

the gold for things to be made of gold, and the ſilver for the things of ſilver] See ch.28.15, &c.

the iron for things of iron] See ch.22.3.

and wood for things of wood] Mention is made of Cedar-trees in abundance, ch 22. 4. But queſtionleſs David prepared other kind of wood alſo which was needfull, as wood of Olive-trees, and Fir-trees; for of theſe were ſundry things made, 1 King.6. 23,24. 2 Chr.3.5.

Onyx ſtones] See Exod. 28.9. This ſtone uſeth to be reckoned up among ſuch ſtones as are accounted moſt precious, Gen.2.12. Exod. 35.9,27. Job 28.16. Ezek.28.13.

and ſtones to be ſet] For ornament and glory; ſuch ſtones as uſe to be ſet in Rings.

gliſtering ſtones] Heb. ſtones of ornament. Theſe are ſuch as are called ſtones of fair colours, Iſa.54.11. The clear and bright glittering of a precious ſtone adds much to the eſteem thereof.

and of divers colours] The word is applyed to garments, Judg.5.30. and to birds alſo, Ezek.17.3. Here it implyeth moſt choyce ſtones which gliſtered with variety of bright colours.

and all manner of precious ſtones] There are twelve diſtinct kinds ſet down, Exod.28.17, &c. Lev.21.19,20. Ezek.28.13. and it may be David provided ſtore of all of them, and others too.

and marble-ſtones in abundance] Marble is an hard laſting ſtone, which being made ſmooth glittereth alſo. Many of them are very maſſie, ſo that tables, pillars, monuments for the dead, uſe to be made of them. Some are white, ſome black, ſome ſpeckled and have variety of colours, Ezek.1.6. It may be the coſtly ſtones laid for a foundation, 1 King.5.17. were marble.

V.3. Moreover] This word implyeth an addition to that which was before noted; which is further cleared by theſe words over and above in the end of the verſe.

becauſe I have ſet my affection] Heb. in my affection. Or good pleaſure. This ſhews the cauſe of his bounty, the love which he bare to, and the delight which he had in the houſe of God.

to the houſe of my God] See v.2.

I have of mine own proper good] Heb. there is to me a treaſure. Beſides the publick treaſure of the kingdom, and the treaſure of the houſe of God, he had a treaſury to himſelf proper to his own uſe.

of gold and ſilver which I have given to the houſe of my God] Or, out of which I have freely given towards the building of the houſe of God, and towards the making of ſuch things as are to be for the ſervice of God.

over and above all that I have prepared] David hereby meaneth that which he had gotten by war, or which was otherwiſe laid up in a publick treaſury.

for the holy houſe] Or, the houſe of the ſanctuary. It was called ſanctuary, becauſe it was dedicated as holy to God.

V.4. Even three thouſand talents of gold] i.e. eleven millions, two hundred fifty thouſand pounds ſterling Here he declareth what he had given out of his own proper treaſure: for out of it, and other treaſures, and by other means he had prepared a far greater ſum, ch.22.14.

and ſeven thouſand talents of refined ſilver] i.e. Two millions, ſix hundred twenty five thouſand pounds ſterling. See ch.22.14. Of refined metall ſee ch.28.18.

to overlay the walls of the houſes withall] This hath reference both to the gold and ſilver. Eor the walls in the Moſt holy place and the Holy place were overlaid with beaten plates of gold, and other walls with plates of ſilver.

V.5. The gold for things of gold, and the ſilver for things of ſilver] See v.2. He gave his own ſilver and gold to the ſame uſe to which he gave the ſilver and gold out of the publick treaſury.

and for all manner of work to be made by the hands of artificers] Theſe artificers are called cunning men, ch.22.15. Of every manner of work ſee ch. 22.15.

And who then is willing] This interrogative ſhews that he propounded his own example to incite his Princes and people to be bountifull alſo, according to their places and means, towards the houſe of the Lord; and what they did, to do willingly and cheerfully. Herein he followed the example of Moſes, Exod. 35.5.

to conſecrate his ſervice] Heb. to fill his hand. Namely, with gifts for the houſe of the Lord. See 1 King.13.33.

this day] Preſently, without further delay.

unto the Lord] To the honour and glory of God. For the building of the Temple, and making the things appertaining thereunto made much to the honour of God.

V.6. Then the chief of the fathers] See ch. 27.1.

and the Captains of thouſands and of hundreds] See ch.28.1.

with the Rulers over the Kings work] Such as were over-ſeers and had the diſpoſing of ſuch things as were to be done for the King.

offered willingly] V.7. is noted the quantity of what they offered; which was an evidence of their bounty. This phraſe ſetteth out the manner of what they did; which made their bounty the more acceptable: for God loveth a cheerfull giver, 2 Cor.9.7.

V.7. And gave for the ſervice of the houſe of God] See ch. 28. 13,21.

of gold, five thouſand talents] Eighteen millions, ſeven hundred and fifty thouſand pounds ſterling. See ch.22.14.

and ten thouſand drams] The Hebrew word אדרכנים Adarchonim is once more uſed, Ezr.8.27. and another like it, Ezr.2.69. Neh.7.71,72. Namely דרכמונים Darchemonim. The Septuagint tranſlate both words δραχμὰς. A Dram is the fourth part of a ſhekel, whereof ſee ch.22.14. in value ſeven pence half-peny, of ſilver; of gold, ſix ſhillings three pence. For a Shekel contained twenty Gerahs, Exod.26.13. and one Gerah was three half-pence in ſilver. So then half a ſhekel, (whereat every one was rated, Exod. 30.13.) was fifteen pence. This tribute for the ſervice of the houſe of God Cæſar took to himſelf. Hereupon this queſtion was propounded to Chriſt, Mat.22.17. Is it lawfull to give tribute unto Cæſar, or no? This tribute was a double dram, in Greek δίδραχμον Mat. 17.24. The drams here mentioned were of gold, and amounted to three thouſand one hundred twenty five pounds ſterling.

and of ſilver, ten thouſand talents] i.e. three millions, ſeven hundred and fifty thouſand pounds, The whole ſum of gold and ſilver here offered by the Princes amounts unto two and twenty millions, five hundred and three thouſand and one hundred twenty five pounds. Add to this Davids offering, v.4. which is thirteen millions, eight hundred ſeventy five thouſand pounds, and the totall will be thirty ſix millions, three hundred ſeventy eight thouſand, one hundred twenty five pounds ſterling.

and of braſs eighteen thouſand talents, & one hundred thouſand talents of iron] Talents of braſs and iron are to be accounted according to their weight rather than their worth. In weight a Shekel made half an ounce; and three thouſand ſhekels made a Talent: After which account one talent contained a hundred twenty five pound Troy weight, twelve ounces going to one pound. Thus the eighteen thouſand talents of braſs amounted unto two millions, two hundred fifty thouſand pound, and the hundred thouſand talents of iron, to twelve millions five hundred thouſand pound Troy weight. This was counted a bountifull gift; but if it be compared with Davids ch.22.14. we ſhall find that David gave more talents of gold and ſilver then all the Princes and people gave in gold, ſilver, braſs and iron.

V.8. And they with whom precious ſtones were found] i.e, They who had precious ſtones lying by them, or laid up in their treaſuries. Under this word precious ſtones all ſorts of precious ſtones may be compriſed; every one brought ſuch as they had. This phraſe is uſed of the Iſraelites contributing to the Tabernacle; Every one brought of ſuch things as were found by him, Exo. 35. 23, &c.

gave them to the treaſure of the houſe of the Lord] See ch. 26.20, 26, &c.

by the hand of Jehiel the Gerſhonite] See ch.26.21,22.

V.9. Then the people rejoyced] This ſheweth that under thoſe that are reckoned up v.26. many of the people are compriſed.

for that they offered willingly] See v.6. A cheerful performing of a good thing revives the ſpirits of them that do it.

becauſe with perfect heart] See 1 King.8.6. What they did, they did not for oſtentations ſake, nor to pleaſe David or any other man, nor in ſhew of piety, but ſincerely, to help on the building of Gods houſe.

they offered willingly to the Lord] That which was given to the Lords houſe, was to honour God thereby, and in that reſpect it was given to the Lord.

and David the King alſo] Here we ſee the King diſtinguiſhed from his ſubjects, called the people in the beginning of the verſe.

rejoyced with great joy] See 1 King.1.40. Davids heart was inflamed with ſuch a zeal of Gods glory, that not onely the things which himſelf did, but alſo thoſe which his people did to that end, exceedingly cheered his ſpirit.

V.10. Wherefore David bleſſed the Lord] He could not ſuppreſſe his inward joy within himſelf, but muſt needs expreſs it outwardly by yielding ſolemn praiſe to God.

before all the congregation] See 1 King.8.22. David thought it not enough in his own heart, or privately, to praiſe the Lord; but becauſe the occaſion was publick, he doth it publickly, in a great aſſembly.

and David ſaid, Bleſſed be thou Lord God of Iſrael our father] See 1 King.8.15. In the beginning of the chapter David directed his ſpeech to his ſubjects, to ſtir them up to help on the building of the Temple. Here he turnes it to God, after he had ſeen their forwardneſs to do what he deſired, and he gives the praiſe thereof to God.

for ever and ever] See ch.16.36.

V.11. Thine, O Lord, is the greatneſſe] This form of praiſing God ſheweth what is true praiſe, namely, to acknowledge that to be Gods which is his, Mat.6.13. Greatneſſe attributed unto God in the abſtract ſheweth that he is great and wonderfull in every thing that belongeth unto him.

and the power] All power is in God. As his power is an almighty power, ſo what power ſoever is in any creature, cometh from him.

and the glory] This word ſetteth forth the excellency of every thing that is in God.

and the victory] As God vanquiſheth all his enemies, ſo he giveth victory to thoſe that overcome their enemies.

and the Majeſty] This ſets out Gods Royal dignity.

for all that is in the heaven and in the earth] All things that be are compriſed under theſe two, heaven and earth. They are in the one, or in the other.

is thine] Belongeth unto thee.

thine is the kingdome, O Lord] This ſetteth forth the Soveraignty of God. To him all things are ſubject as to their King.

and thou art exalted] This is to be taken of Gods manifeſting his dignity: For he cannot be exalted or lifted higher then he is. It is alſo taken of mens acknowledging his high dignity; in which reſpect men are oft exhorted to exalt God, Pſal. 34.3. & 99.5,9.

as a head above all] God is reſembled to an Head, as he is higher then all, as he quickeneth and preſerveth all, and as he governeth all.

V.12. Both riches and honour come of thee] Heb. from thy face. Theſe two particulars ſhew that whatſoever a man hath he receiveth from God. It is the bleſſing of God that maketh rich, Prov.10.22. and it is God that ſetteth up whom he will, Pſ.75.6,7.

and thou reigneſt over all] In regard of Gods abſolute Soveraignty and power he reigneth over all; by his ſpeciall grace he reigneth over his Church.

and in thine hand is power and might] It is God that giveth ſtrength and power to whom he will.

and in thine hand it is to make great] To advance ſome above others.

and to give ſtrength unto all] To enable all to do what he ſeeth meet.

V.13. Now therefore, our God] Here David ſheweth the reaſon why he acknowledged what he had done concerning God.

we thank thee] Heb. we confeſs to thee. Namely, all that hath been declared to be moſt due to thee. And this is to thank God.

and praiſe thy glorious name] Heb. the name of thy glory. By Gods name is meant God himſelf, even his Divine Eſſence; and alſo whatſoever it is wherein and whereby he maketh himſelf known to us: In all which there is an excellency and glory; and that David would ſet forth, and therein praiſe God.

V.14. But who am I, and what is my people] David having in the former verſes aſcribed all to God, that he might further ſhew that all glory doth wholly and intirely belong unto him, he here puts away all the glory of what was done, from himſelf, and from his people. So Pſal.115.1. The interrogative adds much emphaſis; and ſheweth that he and his people compared unto God were nothing at all. So 1 Cor.3.5.

that we ſhould be able] Heb. retain or obtain ſtrength. Hereby he ſheweth that it was God that enabled them every way to do what they did.

to offer ſo willingly after this ſort] Not onely ability to do good, but alſo the very will and mind to do after a right manner, is of God, Phil.1.13.

for all things come of thee] Both the goods we have to beſtow, v.12. and alſo the mind to beſtow them.

and of thine] Heb. of thine hand. Of that which thou haſt given us.

have we given theee] That which is given towards Gods worſhip and ſervice, is given to God.

V.15. For we are ſtrangers before thee and ſojourners] Pſ. 39.12. 1 Pet.2.11. This hath relation to the condition of the Saints here on earth. All men are ſtrangers and ſojourners; but Saints beſt diſcern it, and moſt freely acknowledge it. They are called ſtrangers in relation to a countrey of their own in another place, namely, Heaven: And they are ſojourners, or pilgrims, in regard of their travel towards that countrey. Here, at leaſt in their mind and diſpoſition, they have no abiding place, Heb. 13.14. David was a King, and very well ſetled in his Kingdome, when he uttered this, and his people lived quietly in their own poſſeſſions; yet, in regard of their unſetled abode in this world, and of that inheritance they expected in heaven, he thus ſpeaketh of himſelf and of his people.

as were all our fathers] He alludeth to that which Jacob profeſſeth, Gen.47.9. and to the condition wherein Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob were while they ſojourned in Canaan, and to the condition of the Iſraelites while they were in Egypt, and when they paſſed through the wilderneſſe into Canaan. See Heb.11.13.

our dayes on the earth are as a ſhadow] This metaphor ſetteth out the ſhortneſſe, frailneſſe, changeableneſſe of mans life. A ſhadow is quickly gone; it hath no ſolidity in it; it altereth with every motion. See Job 14.2. Pſal.102.11. & 109.23. & 14.44. Eccleſ.6.12. & 8.13.

and there is none abiding] Heb. expectation. Nothing on earth can be expected firm and ſure. David thus ſets forth his own and his peoples mortal condition, to ſhew that they had good cauſe to give unto the Lord what they could here, becauſe they had no better way to diſpoſe of what they had. Seeing they were not long to continue on earth, and had the uſe of the goods of this world but as ſtrangers, they could no better beſtow them then on him who could give them an eternall inheritance.

all this ſtore that we have prepared] This hath relation to v.2,3,4, 8. ch.22.14.

to build thee an houſe for thine holy Name] Of building an houſe for Gods Name ſee 1 King.8.44,48. Of Gods holy Name ſee ch.16.10,35.

cometh of thine hand, and is all thine own] See v.14.

V.17. I know alſo, my God] That relation unto God which he had before extended to himſelf and to his people, v.13. he doth here in particular apply to himſelf.

that thou trieſt the heart] ch. 28.9. 1 Sam.16.7. This is a ſingular comfort, and matter of ſtrong confidence to thoſe that are of an upright heart, that God can and doth diſcern the integrity thereof. This moved David, when his integrity was queſtioned by men, to appeal unto God, Pſal.7.8,9. & 26.1,2. 2 King. 20.3.

and haſt pleaſure in uprightneſs] Pſal.51.6. God prefers an upright heart before all manner of outward ſervices.

As for me] A man may more ſecurely and ſafely judge of his own ſincerity then of anothers.

in the uprightneſs of mine heart I have willingly offered all theſe things] An honeſt upright heart makes men do good cheerfully. Uprightneſs of heart and cheerfulneſſe of ſpirit accompany one another.

and now have I ſeen with joy] A good man that is forward to do good himſelf, much rejoyceth at the good which others do: but evil men envy thereat.

thy people which are preſent here] Heb. found. For all that could be found, and were fit to be there, were preſent.

to offer willingly unto thee] Though the willing doing of a thing conſiſteth eſpecially in the inward diſpoſition of the heart, yet by the manner of doing it may eaſily be diſcerned.

V.18. O Lord God of Abraham, Iſaac, and of Iſrael our fathers] Theſe were the three great Patriarchs from whom the children of Iſrael deſcended, and to whom the promiſes that tended to the good of that people were made. To ſtrengthen their faith in thoſe promiſes this title is oft uſed. See 1 King.18.36. Exod.3.6,15,16. & 4.5. Seven times at leaſt in this ſhort form of praiſing God are theſe titles, Lord, God, uſed. See ch.17.27.

keep this for ever] David well knew holy zeal might wax cold, and that men might fall from good beginnings, and leave their firſt love; and therefore he calls upon God to preſerve and increaſe that good grace and holy zeal which he had obſerved in his people.

in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people] Thoſe are as it were the ſpring from whence all good or evil floweth from man. The purpoſe and deſire of a man is ſet forth under this phraſe. What proceeds from a true purpoſe of heart, uſeth to be ſound and conſtant. Barnabas therefore exhorteth them that were converted that they would with purpoſe of heart cleave unto the Lord, Acts 11.23. To like effect tendeth this prayer. See ch. 28.9.

their heart unto thee] Where the heart is well prepared and ſtabliſhed or ſet to do a thing, there is great hope of a thorow doing it, and of conſtancy therein.

V.19. And give unto Solomon my ſon a perfect heart] David did not content himſelf with giving directions and exhortations to his ſon, as ch.28.8,9,10. but earneſtly prayed to God for him. For well he knew that all the preparations he had made, and all the counſel he had given would do him no good, except the Lord added his aſſiſtance and bleſſing, Pſ.127.1,2.

to keep thy commandements, thy teſtimonies, and thy ſtatutes] See 1 King.2.3.

and to do all theſe things] The former phraſe of keeping may imply a holy inward diſpoſition; this latter of doing, an outward anſwerable converſation. Or all theſe things may be referred to ſuch injunctions as he gave him in charge; and then it implyeth that his heart firſt muſt be ſeaſoned with piety to God before he could do ſuch things as his father enjoyned him.

for the which I have made proviſion] David made proviſion by purchaſing a place where the Temple was to be built, ch.21.25. by providing materials, ch.22.14. & 29.2, &c. and by preſcribing a pattern, ch.28.11.

V.20. And David ſaid to all the Congregation] See v.10.

Now bleſs the Lord your God] He contenteth not himſelf that he had bleſſed God, as v.10. but ſtirreth up alſo his people to do the ſame, Pſ.103.1,2,20, &c. This argueth that his ſpirit was filled with a zeal of Gods glory. Of your God ſee ch.22.18.

And all the Congregation bleſſed the Lord] They quickly took the exhortation. For their hearts alſo were filled with a zeal of Gods glory.

God of their fathers] The fathers mentioned v.18. See 2 Chron. 11.16.

and bowed down their heads] This was a rite of religious worſhip when it was done to God, Gen.24.26. Exod.4.31. See on Gen.48.12.

and worſhipped the Lord] With divine honour and reſpect.

and the King] With civil reverence. Some apply this to Solomon, whom David appointed to be King: But it may be as well applied to David himſelf. The ſame word is oft attributed to God and man, but in a different reſpect, as Exod.14.31. 2 Chron. 31.8.

V.21. And they ſacrificed ſacrifices unto the Lord, and offered burnt-offerings unto the Lord] See 1 King.3.15.

on the morrow after that day] Queſtionleſs upon the ſight of each others liberality and alacrity they agreed together to make the next day a ſolemn day of rejoycing: And ſuch was their zeal as they would put it off no longer then till the morrow.

even a thouſand Bullocks, a thouſand rams, and a thouſand lambs] All theſe were clean creatures, and appointed for offerings under the Law, Numb. 7.15. Of the multitude of ſacrifices ſee 1 Kings 8.63.

with their drink-offerings] See 1 King.3.15.

and ſacrifices in abundance for all Iſrael] Under this clauſe other ſacrifices are compriſed then thoſe before mentioned. And theſe they brought in greater abundance, that there might be ſufficient for all of all ſorts there preſent to eat, and that in a liberal manner.

V.22. And did eat and drink] At a great feaſt, as 1 King. 8.65.

before the Lord] Before the Ark. See ch.17.16. 1 King. 8.62. & 9.25.

on that day with great gladneſſe] See v.9. Nothing works greater joy in a mans heart then duties of piety zealouſly performed.

and they made Solomon the ſon of David King the ſecond time] This queſtionleſſe hath relation to 1 Kings 1.38,39. For then was Solomon ſolemnly proclaimed King. In reference to that this is ſtiled the ſecond time. That firſt making of Solomon King was on a ſudden, by reaſon of Adonijahs conſpiracy, and to ſuppreſſe that faction. Neither can it be thought that the Iſraelites aſſembled from all parts unto that ſolemnization, which was ſo haſtily done: onely all that were then in Jeruſalem and heard of what was done gathered themſelves together, and gave their acclamations, 1 King.1.39,40. But at this ſolemnity they were aſſembled from all the tribes of Iſrael, ch. 28. 1. Whether this were in Davids dayes is queſtionable. They that think ſo gather their conjecture from the words immediately going before in this and the former verſes, and alſo from the mention of Davids death after this act, v.26. But becauſe this ſolemnity of Solomons being made King was many wayes like the other, eſpecially in reſpect of ſacrifices and feaſting, it was not unfit to joyn them together. They which hold this inauguration was after Davids death, produce theſe arguments; That Zadok was made Prieſt, that Solomon ſat on the throne inſtead of David, and that all the ſons of David ſubmitted themſelves to Solomon.

and anointed him] This anointing was for further ratification of the former, 1 King.1.39.

unto the Lord] He was by vertue of this anointing after a ſolemn and ſacred manner devoted and bound to the ſervice of the Lord.

to be the chief governour] Under God, over his people.

and Zadok to be Prieſt] The inference of this after the word anointed implyeth that Zadok alſo was ſolemnly anointed to be Prieſt, as Aaron, Exod.29.7. And this was the rather here done becauſe there was a change of the Prieſthood to another family, 1 King.2.35.

V.23. Then Solomon ſat on the throne of the Lord] A Royal throne is in general called the throne of the Lord, becauſe all kingdomes are the Lords, Pſal.22.28. He is the King of Kings, 1 Tim.6.15. All Kings bear his image, and govern under him. Beſides, God in ſpeciall manner choſe Solomon to ſit upon this throne, ch.28.5. And the people who were governed by him were in ſpeciall manner the Lords people, Exod.19.5,6. Yea, the law by which he was to govern was expreſly given by the Lord, Deut.17.18. And (which is the chief) this throne was an eſpeciall type of the throne of the Lord Chriſt, Luk.1.32.

as king, inſtead of David his father] We do not read that he did this before the death of his father. See 1 Kings 1.30,35. & 3.7. and proſpered] This ratified the prayers of David, ch.22.11.

and all Iſrael obeyed him] See ch.18.14. & 28.21. This is ſet down as an evidence of their acknowledging Solomon to be their Soveraign. David had not this honour in the beginning of his reign, 2 Sam.2.4,10.

V.24. And all the Princes] See ch.28.1.

and the mighty men] i.e. all that had any command over ſouldiers, and all that were eminent for honour, wealth, &c. Or that were in any great office. Sundry heads of theſe are mentioned ch. 28.1.

and all the ſons likewiſe of king David] Of theſe ſee ch. 3.1, &c. David had ſo clearly made known the mind of the Lord concerning Solomons ſucceeding him on the throne, as that after the death of Adonijah, all his ſons, even thoſe who were born of more royall mothers, and were alſo elder in years, yielded to the will of God therein.

ſubmitted themſelves unto Solomon the king] Heb. gave the hand under Solomon the king. This Hebraiſm implyeth that they engaged themſelves by ſome externall rite, as giving the hand, to yield fealty and ſubjection unto him. See Gen.24.2. Job 17.3. and on Eccleſ.8.2.

V.25. And the Lord magnified Solomon exceedingly] This hath relation to that wiſdom, wealth, honour, peace, and other excellencies that God beſtowed upon Solomon according to his promiſe, 1 King.3 12,13. whereby his fame ſpread abroad into all nations, 1 King. 10, 23, 24. Many particulars hereabout are recorded 1 King.4.2, &c.

in the ſight of all Iſrael] So as all the people well diſcerned that reſpect which the Lord had ſhewed him, and that bleſſing which he had beſtowed on them in eſtabliſhing him King over them.

and beſtowed upon him ſuch royal majeſty] Here is meant the extent of his Dominion, 1 King 4.21. his glorious Palace and other buildings, 1 King.7.1, &c. his magnificent Throne, 1 King. 10, 18, &c. and thoſe other things which the Queen of Sheba ſo admired, 1 King.10.4,5. together with his wiſdom, and other extraordinary endowments, 1 King.4.29, &c.

as had not been on any king before him in Iſrael] Neither on Saul, nor on David; no, nor on any after him, 1 King.3.13. 2 Chr.1.12. Herein the deſire of the people in Davids time was accompliſhed, 1 King.1.37,47.

V.26. Thus David the ſon of Jeſſe] This phraſe is ſometimes uſed in contempt; ſometimes for honours ſake, ch.12.18. See 1 King. 12.16. Here it is uſed in the beſt ſenſe.

reigned over all Iſrael] Namely, the greateſt part of his reign. See 2 Sam. 2.10,11.

V.27. And the time that he reigned, &c.] See 1 King.2.11.

V.28. And he dyed in a good old age] Theſe two words good & old are uſed in relation to the many years that he lived, even ſeventy, 2 Sam.5.4. and to the integrity which he retained all his dayes, even in his old age.

full of dayes] For he lived till his ſtrength was waſted, 1 King. 1.1. and withall he was ſatisfied in mind with that time God had afforded him, and was now willing to dye. See ch.23.1. & Gen. 25.8.

riches and honour] That which he contributed toward Gods houſe, ch.22.14. giveth evidence of his riches; and the glorious victories he got over all the nations round about him, and the great reſpect his ſubjects bare him give evidence of his honour.

and Solomon his ſon reigned in his ſtead] See v.23.

V.29. Now the acts of David the king, firſt and laſt] His acts from his youth, before he was King, in the beginning of his reign, and all along to the end of his reign are compriſed under theſe words firſt and laſt.

behold, they are written in the book] Or, hiſtory. For he meaneth a book of Chronicles.

of Samuel the ſeer] See ch.9.22. & 26.28.

and in the book] Heb. words. The books of the Chronicles are in the Hebrew ſtiled words of dayes. See the Title of this Book.

and in the book of Gad the Seer] See ch.21.9. Theſe three, Samuel, Nathan, Gad, as is ſuppoſed, one after another, wrote the two books which carry the title of SAMUEL. And who more fit to write that Hiſtory then theſe holy men, who were αὐτόπται eye-witneſſes of many things, and whoſe help and counſel was made uſe of in matters of greateſt moment? So the ſame Nathan, Ahijah, Iddo and Shemaiah are thought to have written the beginning of the firſt book of Kings. See 2 Chron. 9.29. & 12.15. & 13.22.

V.30. With all his reign] i.e. all the paſſages of his reign, whether proſperous or adverſe. For David exceedingly proſpered in many things, and many troubles alſo befell him.

and his might] Both thoſe valiant acts that he did himſelf, and alſo the great victories that were obtained under him.

and the times that went over him and over Iſrael] The various occurrents that fell out either to himſelf or that people, whether good or evil, in his dayes.

and over all the kingdoms of the countreys] This hath eſpecial relation to thoſe kingdoms which David ſubdued, and thoſe alſo which were in league with him, yea, and all the kingdomes with which he had any thing to do.

ANNOTATIONS

On the ſecond Book of the CHRONICLES.

THE ARGUMENT.

THis Book containeth an Hiſtory of four hundred ſeventy two years, from the beginning of Solomons reign to the Jews return from Captivity. It regiſtreth the ſtate of the Kingdome of Judah under nineteen Kings of Davids poſterity, and Athalia the Uſurper. And ſometimes the affaires of the Kingdome of Iſrael, wherein the two Kingdomes had to do one with another, are intermingled. See the Notes on the Title of the firſt Book of the Chronicles.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd Solomon*] From hence unto ch. 10. thoſe generall points of Solomons excellency noted 1 Chr.29.23,24,25. are particularly and diſtinctly exemplified. Of this name Solomon ſee 1 Chr.22.9.

the ſon of David] This is added for honours ſake. See 1 King.8.15.

was ſtrengthened in his kingdom] This hath relation to that ſubmiſſion which the Princes, mighty men, and ſons of David yielded to Solomon, 1 Chr.29.24. See 1 Chr.11.10. See alſo ch.11.17. It may have alſo relation to Adonijahs conſpiracy, which was now clean quaſhed. See 1 King.2.12,46.

and the Lord his God was with him] See 2 King.18.7. 1 Chr.22.11. 2 Sam.5.10.

and magnified him exceedingly] See 1 Chr.29.25.

V.2. Then Solomon ſpake unto all Iſrael] See 1 Chr.11.1. As David had done before, ch.28.1. & 29.1. ſo did Solomon now.

to the captains of thouſands, and of hundreds] See ch.28.1. and to the Judges] See 1 Chr.23.4. & 26.29. Both Levites and men of other tribes alſo were Judges, ch.19.5,8.

and to every governour in all Iſrael] There were Governours of tribes, of families, over many people, over few; all here compriſed under this particle every.

the chief of the fathers] See 1 King.8.1. 1 Chr.29.6.

V.3. So Solomon and all the Congregation with him] See 1 Chr.29.1.

went to the high place that was at Gibeon] See 1 King.3.4.

for there was the tabernacle of the Congregation of God] See 1 King.8.4.

which Moſes the ſervant of the Lord] Of this ſtile ſee 1 King.3.6.

had made] God firſt gave the pattern of the Tabernacle to Moſes, Exod.25.40. and Bezaleel with others were the workmen that made it; yet becauſe Moſes was the viſible miniſter that ſet the men on work, and gave directions to them how to make it, he is ſaid to make it. Thus Solomon is ſaid to make and build the Temple, 1 King.6.2,4.

in the wilderneſſe] Where the Iſraelites ſojourned fourty years.

V.4. But the ark of God] See 1 King.6.19.

had David brought up from Kiriath-jearim] See 1 Chr. 13.5. & 15.15.

to the place which David had prepared for it] See 1 Chr.15.1. & 16.1.

for he had pitched a tent for it at Jeruſalem] The place where David pitched a tent for the Ark was the city of David which was Zion, 1 Chr.11.5. & 15.1. But Zion was within the circuit of Jeruſalem, and therefore without any contradiction it may be ſaid to be in Zion and at Jeruſalem.

V.5. Moreover the brazen Altar that Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, &c.] Of the parentage of Bezaleel ſee Exod.35.30. Of the brazen Altar ſee Exod.38.1,&c. The inward matter of that Altar was Shittim-wood, but it was laid all over with plates of braſs, and in that reſpect called the brazen Altar.

he put] Or, was there. i.e. it was there placed.

before the Tabernacle of the Lord] There was a Court round about the Tabernacle called the Prieſts court: there was the brazen Altar for burnt-offerings placed. See 1 King.6.36.

and Solomon and the congregation ſought unto it] There they offered their ſacrifices, and worſhipped God, who there manifeſted his preſence; and ſo they are ſaid to ſeek unto it.

V.6. And Solomon went up thither] Here that which in general was ſaid of ſeeking unto the Altar is particularly expounded.

to the brazen Altar] See v.5.

before the Lord] This is ſaid in regard of the manifeſtation of Gods preſence in the Tabernacle: So as what was done before the Tabernacle was done before the Lord.

which was at the Tabernacle of the Congregation] The Altar was there. See v.3.

and offered a thouſand burnt-offerings upon it] See 1 King.3.4.

V.7. In that night did God appear,&c. See 1 King.3.5.

V.8. And Solomon ſaid unto God, Thou haſt, &c.] See 1 King.3.6.

and haſt made me to reign in his ſtead] See 1 Chron. 28.5. & 29.23.

V.9. Now, O Lord God, Let thy promiſe unto David my father be eſtabliſhed] Solomon here prayeth for the extent of Gods promiſe, which was, that Davids kingdome ſhould be eſtabliſhed not onely for his time, but for ever; and that Solomon ſhould build Gods houſe, 1 Chr.17.11,12. The beginning of that promiſe was already accompliſhed; for Solomon was made King and ſetled upon the Throne, v.1. Therefore it is ſomewhat more that he here prayeth for.

for thou haſt made me king] Solomon aſcribeth to God that honour which he had.

over a people like the duſt of the earth in multitude] Heb. much as the duſt of the earth. Nothing more innumerable. Gen.13.16. & 28.14. Num.23.10. See this phraſe explained 1 King.3.8.

V.10. Give me now wiſdome and knowledge] See 1 King.3.9.

that I may go out and come in before this people] See 1 King.3.7.

for who can judge this thy people that is ſo great] See 1 King.3.9.

V.11. And God ſaid to Solomon] See 1 King.3.11.

Becauſe this was in thine heart] This implyeth that Solomons deſire was not raſhly and ſuddenly conceived, but pondered in his heart before; which God well knew, Pſal.139.2.

and thou haſt not asked riches, &c.] See 1 King.13.11.

but haſt asked wiſdome and knowledge for thy ſelf] He meaneth not that Solomon asked them for himſelf alone, but that being indued with thoſe graces he might uſe them for the good of his people.

that thou maiſt judge my people] To judge in generall ſignifieth well to govern; in particular, to order to every one his own.

over whom I have made thee king] God makes Kings, Prov.8.15.

V.12. Wiſdom and knowledge is granted unto thee] See 1 Kings 3.12.

and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and honour] This God added as an advantage. See 1 King.3.13.

ſuch as none of the kings have had] This hath relation to all the things before promiſed.

that have been before thee] See 1 Chr.29.25.

neither ſhall there any after thee have the like] See 1 King.3.12.

V.13. Then Solomon came from his journey to the high place that was at Gibeon] The journey here meant was his going to Gibeon v.3. where he lay that night wherein God appeared to him.

to Jeruſalem] i.e. He came from Gibeon to Jeruſalem.

from before the Tabernacle of the Congregation] At Gibeon, v.3.

and reigned over Iſrael] He continued to reign and govern the people, being ſetled on his throne, 1 Chr.29.23.

V.14. And Solomon gathered chariots and horſemen] See 1 King. 10.26.

and he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen, which, &c.] See 1 King.4.26. & 10.26.

V.15. And the king made] Heb. gave. By giving of it ſo liberally as he did he made it to be accounted as is here ſet down.

ſilver and gold at Jeruſalem] That was the Royal city, and there was the Kings palace, and thither was the greateſt part of his treaſure brought.

V.17. And they fetch'd up,&c.] See 1 Kings 10.27.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd Solomon determined*] Heb. ſaid. He ſaid in his heart, or with himſelf. After David had informed Solomon and others that it was Gods mind that Solomon ſhould build him an houſe, 1 Chr.28.6. it was preſently in the heart of Solomon ſo to do, and anſwerably he determined it. See 1 King.5.5.

to build an houſe for the name of the Lord] See v.4. 1 King.5.3.

and an houſe for his Kingdome] This was his royal palace, 1 King. 9.1. It is ſaid to be for his Kingdom, becauſe it made much for the glory thereof, and for the uſe of the ſubjects of his Kingdom.

V.2. And Solomon told out, &c.] See 1 King.5.15, 16.

V.3. And Solomon ſent to Huram] Or, Hiram.

the King of Tyre] 1 King.5.1. It is ſaid that Hiram firſt ſent to congratulate Solomons ſitting upon the throne.

ſaying, As thou didſt deal with David my father] 1 King. 5.1. it is ſaid that Hiram was ever a lover of David: Solomon therefore preſſeth that argument to move him to ſhew kindneſs to him, who was Davids beſt beloved ſon.

and didſt ſend him Cedars] See 1 Chr.14.1.

to build him an houſe to dwell therein] This did Hiram in the beginning of Davids reign, before he thought of building an houſe to the Lord, 2 Sam.5.11.

even ſo deal with me] Theſe words be not in the Originall, yet are fitly ſupplied to make up the ſenſe, and to adde an application to that note of compariſon, As thou didſt deal, &c. The Hebrew oft leaveth ſuch neceſſary conſequences to be underſtood.

V.4. Behold] It is a very remarkable matter that followeth, and Solomon would have Hiram well obſerve it.

I build an houſe to the name of the Lord] Or, to his honour. See 1 King.8.16.

my God] See 1 King.3.7. & 8.28.

to dedicate it to him] To ſet it apart for his worſhip. See 1 King. 8.63.

and to burn before him ſweet incenſe] Heb. incenſe of ſpices. See 1 King.9.25.

and for the continuall ſhew-bread] See 1 King 7.48.

and for the burnt-offerings morning and evening] See 1 King. 3.15.

morning and evening] See Exod.29.38, &c. Numb.28.3, &c. on the Sabbaths] See Numb.28.9, &c. and on the new-moons] See Numb 28.11, &c.

and on the ſolemn feaſts of the Lord our God] See Numb. 28.16. & 29.1.

This is an ordinance for ever to Iſrael] See 1 King.8.13.

V.5. And the houſe which I build is great] See 1 Chr.22.5.

for great is our God] See 1 Chr.16.25. We muſt endeavour to order the things wherein we have to do with God anſwerably (ſo far as we can) to his excellency and greatneſſe.

above all gods] i.e. ſuch as are counted Gods by ignorant and idolatrous perſons. There is but one true God, who is infinitely above all that are falſly counted Gods. In this reſpect he is ſtiled the God of gods, Deut.10.17. Joſh.22.22.

V. 6. But who is able] Heb. who hath retained, or obtained ſtrength. It is by ſome ſtrength or other that any is able to do what he doth.

to build him an houſe] See 1 King.8.27.

ſeeing the heaven, and heaven of heavens cannot contain him] See ch. 6.18.

who am I then that I ſhould build him an houſe] If any man might do it, ſurely Solomon might, who far excelled all others in wiſdom, knowledge, riches, honour, and other excellencies, ch.1.12.

ſave onely to burn ſacrifice before him] That which was before ſaid might ſeem to import that it was a needleſs thing to build an houſe for him whom no houſe could contain; but this clauſe ſhews the reaſon of building an houſe to God. It was not to contain him, but to perform ſervice to him in. See v.4.

V.7. Send me now therefore a man] There were more curious workmen in Tyre then in Iſrael; therefore Solomon ſends to Hiram for one. This hath reference to v.3. It may be Solomon had heard of Hiram deſcribed 1 King.7.13, 14. and ſent for him.

cunning to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs, and in iron] There were curious works to be wrought in all theſe metals. See 1 King.7.14, 45, &c. Of things of iron ſee 1 Chr.22.3.

and in purple, and crimſon, and blue] Theſe were for the Vail, ch. 3.14 other hangings, Prieſts veſtments, and ſundry other like things.

and that can skill to grave] Heb. grave gravings. This hebraiſm carrieth emphaſis with it. See 1 King.8.13.

with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jeruſalem] Though there might be one man or two or three in Tyre that had extraordinary skill in curious works, yet there were alſo very cunning men among the Jews. There were ſuch in Moſes his time, Exod.36.1. and ſo afterwards in other generations, Iſa.3.3.

whom David my father did provide] See 1 Chr.22.15.

V.8. Send me alſo Cedar-trees] See 1 Chr.5.6.

and Algum trees] Or, Almuggim-trees. See 1 King.10.11.

for I know that they ſervants can skill to cut timber in Lebanon] It was every-where known abroad that the Sidonians were expert therein. Therefore Solomon writing to the King of Tyre ſaith thou knoweſt, 1 King.5.6. and here, I know.

and behold] This word Solomon addeth to aſſure Hiram that he would not fail to perform his promiſe.

my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants] See 1 King.5.6.

V.9. Even to prepare me timber in abundance] This is added as a reaſon why Solomon would ſend his ſervants to be aſſiſtant in the work, leſt the burden might be thought too heavy for the Sidonians alone.

for the houſe which I am about to build ſhall be wonderfull great] See v. 5.

V.10. And behold, I will give to thy ſervants, &c.] That which is here promiſed to be given to Hirams ſervants, is promiſed to Hiram himſelf, and ſaid alſo to be given unto him, 1 King.5. 6, 11. It was given to Hiram to diſtribute to his ſervants as he pleaſed.

V.11. Then Huram the King of Tyre anſwered in writing] See 1 King.5.7.

which he ſent to Solomon] The King of Tyre and the King of Iſrael were each in their ſeveral Dominions, and ſo abſent one from another, ſo as they were forced to declare their mind one to another by letters and meſſengers. This proved every way as effectual as if they had ſpoken together.

Becauſe the Lord hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them] Hiram took notice of Solomons prudence and piety, and in that reſpect judged him fit to be a King: and he knew that Iſrael was Gods peculiar people, and thereupon inferred that it was Gods love to Iſrael that moved him to provide ſuch a King for them.

V.12. Huram ſaid moreover] Apprehenſion of Gods mercies quickly raiſeth heavenly ejaculations in the hearts of ſuch as are piouſly affected.

Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.5.7. & 8.15.

that made heaven and earth] Particular bleſſings bring to mind Gods general and common bleſſings. See 2 King.19.15.

who hath given to David the king a wiſe ſon] Huram loved David, 1 King.5.1. and therefore for honours ſake ſtileth this wiſe King the ſon of David.

endued with prudence and underſtanding] Heb. knowing prudence and underſtanding. i.e. one that well underſtood what was beſt to be done, and anſwerably could order the ſame to the beſt advantage; which is an eſpecial point of Prudence.

that might build an houſe for the Lord, and an houſe for his Kingdome] See v.1.

V.13. And now I have ſent a cunning man] As was deſired v.7.

endued with underſtanding] By this his skil and cunning might be the better improved.

of Huram my fathers] One that was ſervant to my father Huram. The preſent King of Tyre and his father were both called Huram, or Hiram. So was the workman which was ſent, and his father alſo, called Huram, or Hiram, ch.4.16.

V.14. The ſon of a woman, the daughter of Dan, &c.] Of the difference betwixt this deſcription and that 1 King.7.14. ſee on that place.

skilfull to work in gold, &c.] Such an one in particular is ſent for v.7. But here is further added that he was skilfull to work in ſtone, and in timber, and in fine linnen. All the particulars ſhew that he was skilfull in any work whatſoever.

alſo to grave any manner of graving] See v.7.

and to find out every device which ſhall be put to him] He could not onely work exactly according to a pattern ſet before him, but could alſo invent other curious works fit for that he undertook.

with thy cunning men] See v.7. As Solomon had many materials more then his father left him, ſo had he alſo many cunning workmen.

and with the cunning men of my Lord David thy father] See 1 Chr. 22. 15. This title my Lord ſheweth that Huram was a tributary King to David, at leaſt had an honourable eſteem of him.

V.15. Now therefore the wheat and the barley, &c.] See v.10.

let him ſend unto his ſervants] Huram acknowledgeth Solomon, as David before, to be his Lord, and his ſubjects to be Solomons ſervants: Which was an evidence if not of fealty and homage, yet ſurely of a very high eſteem of Solomon.

V.16. And we will cut wood out of Lebanon as much as thou ſhalt need] Heb. according to all thy need. In Lebanon there was enough to ſatisfie his deſire to the full.

and we will bring it to thee in flotes by ſea to Joppa] Or Japho. See 1 Kings 5.9.

and thou ſhalt carry it up to Jeruſalem] From Joppa, which was an haven town of the tribe of Dan, ſuch things as were brought by ſea might conveniently be conveyed to Jeruſalem.

V.17 And Solomon numbred all the ſtrangers] Heb. the men the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael] That dwelt amongſt the Iſraelites, and ſubmitted to their laws.

after the numbring wherewith David his father had numbred them] This hath relation to that which is noted 1 Chron. 22.2.

and they were found an hundred and fifty thouſand and three thouſand and ſix hundred] This makes up the ſumme ſet down v. 2.

V. 18. And he ſet threeſcore and ten thouſand, &c.] See v.2.

where the Lord appeared unto David his father] Or, which was ſeen of David is father. Lord is not in the Original, and that maketh the ambiguity. This hath relation to 1 Chron. 21. 15,&c. In this place the Angel that deſtroyed the Iſraelites upon Davids numbring the people ſtood, and there God commanded him to ceaſe. Thereupon David built an Altar, and offered offerings thereon; and the Lord anſwered him by fire from heaven upon that Altar. On theſe grounds David appointed that place for the houſe of the Lord.

V.3. Now theſe are the things] The things is not in the Originall, whereupon ſome thus ſupply it, theſe are the meaſures, or, theſe are the diviſions.

wherein Solomon was inſtructed, &c.] Heb. founded. He that is well inſtructed in a thing hath a good foundation laid for a further progreſſe therein. Some thus turn it, there was a foundation, namely,thoſe meaſures or dimenſions which Solomon uſed in building the Temple. If we take it as here tranſlated, Solomon was inſtructed, it may have relation to that wiſdome which God gave him, ch. 1.12. Or to ſome inward inſpiration of the Spirit, or to the direction which his father gave him, 1 Chr. 28.11, &c. or to that counſel which the skilfull workmen gave him about building the Temple.

The length by cubits after the firſt meaſure]This was the ſacred meaſure, which was the greateſt, and which David left as a pattern, 1 Chr.28.11.

and he over-laid the upper chambers with gold] Of theſe ſee 1 Kin. 6.5.

V10. And in the moſt holy place he made two Cherubims of image-work] Or, as ſome think, of moveable work, i.e. he made them of many parts that were ſet together, and might be taken aſunder: which was ſo ordered by reaſon of the greatneſſe and heavineſs of them. Others take it to be a work that carried the faſhion of Boyes. See 1 King.6.23.

and over-laid them with gold] With plates of gold.

V.11,12. And the wings of the Cherubims, &c.] Of the wings of the Cherubims, and their ſtretching forth from one ſide of the houſe to the other, ſee 1 King.6.24,&c. where alſo the height of them is noted.

V. 13. And they ſtood on their feet] Their feet reſted upon the floor, and ſo they ſtood bolt-upright.

and their faces were inward] Heb. toward the houſe. They did not look one towards another, as the two little Cherubims faſtned to the mercy-ſeat, Exod.25.20. but both of them one way, towards the Holy place, which is called the greater houſe, v.5.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ.1. MOreover he made an Altar of braſs] Frequent mention is made of this Altar in Solomons time, and of the offerings offered thereon, as 1 King.8.22,31,54,64. & 9.25. but in the book of Kings there is no mention of making it. This Altar of burnt-offerings far exceeded that Exod.27.1. for the Temple far exceeded the Tabernacle. See 1 Chr.22.5.

twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof] It was ten yards at leaſt ſquare. It was ſo large, becauſe they uſed to offer many oxen and other great beaſts upon it.

and ten cubits the height thereof] It was at leaſt fifteen foot high: and there was a plain aſcent like an hill to go up and offer on it. In this reſpect the Prieſt is ſaid to come down from the altar Lev. 9.22. By ſteps they might not go up to an altar; unleſs that inhibition were temporary. See on Exod.20.26. It was ſo high to the end that the people in the courts might all ſee the offerings laid upon the altar, and by the ſight of the ſmoke and flame aſcending up be moved to raiſe up their hearts unto heaven, and by ſight of the burnt-offering be put in mind of their ſins, and of the ſacrifice of Chriſt to expiate the ſame. This altar was ſet in the Prieſts court; whereof ſee 1 King.6.36.

CHAP. V.

Verſ.1. THus all the work that Solomon made, &c.] See 1 King. 7.51. The gold and ſilver put into the treaſures was over and above that which was laid out upon the Temple.

V.2. Then Solomon aſſembled the Elders of Iſrael] From hence to the end of the chapter, is ſet down the ſolemn bringing of the Ark into the Moſt holy place, and ſetting it there. And this ſtory not onely for matter and ſubſtance, but alſo for words and phraſes is in 1 King.8.1—11.

V.3. In the ſeventh moneth] Called Ethanim 1 King.8.2.

V.4. The Levites took up the Ark] They were ſuch Levites as were alſo Prieſts, v.5. See 1 Chr.15.2.

V.5. Theſe did the Prieſts and the Levites bring up] The Prieſts onely did bear the Ark; the Levites carried the other things, Numb.4.15.

V.6. Sacrificed ſheep and oxen] This was an uſual manner of teſtifying holy joy and thankfulneſs unto God, 1 Chron. 29. 21.

V.7. unto his place] The place appointed for it.

V.9. And there it is unto this day] Or, they are there, 1 King.8.8. If Ezra was the pen-man of this book, this phraſe cannot be taken of the time wherein he lived. For we meet with no mention of the Ark after the burning of the Temple. Therefore it muſt here be taken as a common proverbial ſpeech. See 1 King.8.8.

V.10. when the Lord] Or, where the Lord. For this may have reference both to the place and alſo to the time.

V. 11. for all the Prieſts] That which we have from hence to v.14. is not at all mentioned where the former ſtory is ſet down, 1 King.8. This with that that follows is added as a reaſon why all ſorts of Prieſts went into the Moſt holy place.

that were preſent] See 1 Chr.29.17.

were ſanctified] See 1 Chr.15.14.

and did not then wait by courſe] There were certain courſes appointed by David, which the Prieſts in their order obſerved, 1 Chron.24.3,&c. But now all of them being imployed together about that extraordinary work, obſerved not thoſe diſtinct courſes.

V.12. Alſo the Levites which were the ſingers] i. e. Chief and principal Muſicians, Maſters of Muſick.

all of them of Aſaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun] See 1 Chron, 25.1,&c.

with their ſons and their brethren] i. e. Their poſterity and kindred. Theſe are by name ſet down 1 Chr.25.2,&c.

being arrayed in white linen] With ſuch garments were ſuch as ſerved in the houſe of the Lord clad, to put them in mind of that righteouſneſs and integrity which becomes ſuch as appear before the Lord, and ſerve him, Rev.7.13. & 15.6.

having cymbals, and pſalteries, and harps] See 1 Chro.13.8.

ſtood at the Eaſt-end of the Altar] i. e. The Altar of burnt-offering. The Eaſt-end was at the entrance into the Prieſts court.

and with them an hundred and twenty Prieſts] It muſt needs be loud muſick that was made by ſo many, though they ſounded in courſe.

ſounding with trumpets] This belonged to the Prieſts, 1 Chr.15. 24. & 16. 6.

V. 13. It came even to paſs as the trumpetters and ſingers were as one] They were as one in the matter which they ſung, in their melodious harmony, and in the time wherein they continued.

to make one ſound to be heard in praiſing and thanking the Lord] This is one particular wherein they were as one.

and when they lift up their voyce with the trumpets and cymbals] i. e. When they ſounded aloud with the trumpets and cymbals.

and inſtruments of muſick] Theſe might be other wind-inſtruments, as Cornets, and Sackbuts; or elſe ſtringed inſtruments, whereon ſome played while other ſounded.

and praiſed the Lord, ſaying, For he is good, &c.] See 1 Chron. 16.34.

that then the houſe was filled with a cloud] See 1 King.8.10.

even the houſe of the Lord] i. e. The Temple.

V.14. So that the Prieſts, &c.] See 1 King.8.11.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ.1. THen ſaid Solomon] There are two parts of this chapter; I. Solomons ſolemn bleſſing of God for the houſe that was built, to v. 12. II. Solomons prayer to God for the houſe, v. 12--42. Both are ſet down almoſt word for word as here 1 King.8.12, &c.

V.2. I have built] This word is doubled 1 King.8.13. which addeth much emphaſis.

an houſe of habitation for thee] Or, I have built thee an houſe to dwell in, 1 King.8.13.

and a place for thy dwelling for ever] Or, a ſettled place for thee to abide in for ever, 1 King.8.13.

V. 3. turned his face] Or, turned his face about, 1 King. 8. 14.

V. 4. who hath with his hands fulfilled that which he ſpake with his mouth to my father David] Or, which ſpake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, 1 King. 8. 15.

V.5. my people] Or, my people Iſrael, 1 King.8.16.

neither choſe I any man to be a ruler over my people Iſrael] This is not to be taken ſimply, (for God God choſe Saul, 1 Sam.9.16. and Judges, Judg.2.16,17.) but reſpectively to David. God never choſe ſuch a ruler as David, who was an eſpecial type of Chriſt, and in whoſe ſeed a Royal ſucceſſion was eſtabliſhed till Chriſt, Gen.49.10. 2 Sam.7.16.

V.6. But I have choſen Jeruſalem, that my Name might be there]

This is not mentioned 1 King.8.16. See 1 King. 11.13. Gods Name is ſaid to be in Jeruſalem,becauſe the Temple and other types of his preſence were there.

V.10. And am ſet on the throne] Or, ſit on the throne. The former phraſe ſheweth that he was ſet on his throne by God: The latter implyeth an eſtabliſhment thereof.

V.11. In it have I put the Ark] Or, I have ſet there a place for the Ark, 1 King.8.21. This latter phraſe notes his preparation for the Ark; the other, the accompliſhment of what he had prepared.

that he made with the children of Iſrael] Or, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt, 1 King.8. 21. This ſheweth of which of the children of Iſrael he ſpeaketh, and to what time he hath reference.

V.12. and ſpread forth his hands] Toward heaven, 1 King.8.22. So v.13.

V.13. For Solomon had made a brazen ſcaffold] This verſe is here inſerted by way of parentheſis, but not mentioned 1 King. 8. That whereon he ſtood is called a ſcaffold, becauſe it was erected higher then the ground whereon the people ſtood.

of five cubits long, and five cubits broad] Heb. the length thereof five cubits, &c. Two yards and a half ſquare.

and three cubits high] A yard and half from the ground. Thus he might the more eaſily be ſeen of all the people, being ſo much higher then they..

and had ſet it in the midſt of the Court] The great Court mentioned ch. 4.9. This remained there long after this, for Kings to ſtand on before the people.See 2 King.11.14.

and upon it he ſtood, and kneeled upon his knees] After he had given praiſe unto God, which he did ſtanding, then he kneeled to make the ſupplication following. See 1 King.8.22,54.

before all the Congregation of Iſrael] The great Congregation that was then aſſembled.See 1 King.8.5.

and ſpread forth his hands toward heaven] See 1 King.8.22.

nor in the earth] Beneath. Theſe two words above and beneath are added 1 King.8.23. And they are oft added, where mention is made of heaven and earth, as Exod. 20. 4. Jer. 31. 37. Act.2.19.

which keepeſt covenant, &c.] See 1 King.8.23,24.

V.16. There ſhall not fail thee a man] There ſhall not be a man cut off. The meaning is, All his poſterity ſhould not be clean cut off, but there ſhould be an heir left him.

to walk in my law] This is an interpretation of the phraſe walk before me, 1 King.8.25. For they which ſet God before them, make Gods law their rule; and they who make Gods law their rule, walk before God, and ſo carry themſelves as they who know they are ever in Gods preſence.

V. 17. O Lord God] This title Lord is left out, 1 King. 8.26.

let thy word be veriſied] I pray thee is inſerted 1 King.8.26.

thy ſervant David] my father is added 1 King.8.26.

V.18. dwell with men on the earth] with men is left out, 1 King. 8.27.

V.19. prayeth before thee] to day is added 1 King.8.28.

V.20. which thy ſervant prayeth towards this place] Or, which thy ſervant ſhall make in this place, 1 King.8.29.

V.21. which they ſhall make] Heb. pray.

V.22. And an oath be laid upon him] Heb. *and he require an oath of him.*Namely, if his neighbour require an oath.

V.23. from heaven] Or, in heaven, 1 King.8.32.

by requiting the wicked] Or, condemning the wicked, 1 King. 8. 32.

V.24. be put to the worſe] Or, ſmitten, 1 King.8.33.

before thee in this houſe] Or, unto thee in this houſe, 1 King. 8. 33.

V.25. from the heavens] Or, *in heaven,*1 King.8.34.

which thou gaveſt to them and to their fathers] to them is left out 1 King.8.34.

V.26. when the heaven is ſhut up] 1 King.17.1.

when thou haſt taught them the good way] Or, that thou teach them, 1 King.8.36.

V.28. in the cities of their land] Heb. in the land of their gates. Gates by a ſynecdoche are put for cities. See 1 King.8.37.

V.29. when every one ſhall know his own ſore] Or, the plague of his own heart, 1 King.8.38.

and his own grief] Grief is here put for that which doth or ſhould cauſe grief, namely, ſin.

in this houſe] Or, towards this houſe, 1 King. 8.38.

V. 30. And forgive] 1 King.8.39. is added and do, namely, what was prayed for; grant that to him that prayeth.

unto all his wayes] all is left out 1 King.8.39. The plural number is equal to a general.

for thou onely] thou is doubled 1 King.8.39.

of the children of men] all is inſerted 1 King.8.39. See 1 Chro. 28.9.

V. 31. So long as they live] Heb. all the dayes which they live.

in the land] Heb. upon the face of the land. For men tread upon the uppermoſt part of the earth, which is the face of it.

V.32. which is not of thy people Iſrael] Joh.12.20. Act.8.27.

and thy mighty hand, and thy ſtretched-out arm] Or, for they ſhall hear of thy great name, and of thy ſtrong hand, and of thy ſtretched-out arm. Theſe words are inſerted in a parentheſis 1 King.8.42. and ſhew the reaſon why a ſtranger comes to, or prayes towards the houſe of the Lord.

if they come and pray in this houſe] Or, when he ſhall come and pray towards this houſe, 1 King. 8.42.

V.33. Then hear thou from the heavens] Or, hear thou in heaven, 1 King.8.43.

and may know that this houſe which I have built is called by thy Name] Heb. thy Name is called upon this houſe.

maintain their cauſe] Or, their right. i. e. their righteous cauſe.

V.36. There is no man which ſinneth not] Prov.20.9. Eccl. 7.20. Jam.3.2. 1 Joh.1.8.

and deliver them over before their enemies] Or, and deliver them to the enemy, 1 King.8.46.

and they carry them away captives] Heb.they that take them captives, carry them away.

unto a land far off or neer] Or, unto the land of the enemy, far or neer, 1 King.8.46.

V.37. Yet if they bethink themſelves] Heb. bring back to their heart. When men conſider their ſin, and repent, they are ſaid to bring it back to their heart.

in the land of their captivity] Or, in the land whither they were carried captives, 1 King.8.47.

V.38. In the land of their captivity] Or, in the land of their enemy, 1 King.8.48.

V.39. Their cauſe] Or, right. See v.35.

which have ſinned againſt thee] See what is added 1 King.8.50, 51,&c.

V.40. Now, my God, let, I beſeech thee, thine eyes be open, and let thine ears be attent] See 1 King.8.29.

unto the prayer that is made in this place] The ſenſe of the Hebraiſm is well given in our tranſlation.

V. 41. Now therefore ariſe] Pſal. 132. 8. This is ſpoken to God after the manner of man. For when we would have any do a thing readily and cheerfully, we uſe to ſay, Ariſe. See 1 King.14.2.

O Lord God] See 1 King.8.15,53.

into thy reſting place] i. e. The Temple, where the Ark was ſetled. See 1 Chron.28.2. Solomon hereby entreateth God to take poſſeſſion of that houſe which he had built for him, and to dwell and abide therein for ever.

thou, and the Ark] Becauſe God was wont to manifeſt his preſence over the Ark, God and the Ark are joyned together. See 2 King.19.15.

of thy ſtrength] This epithet is attributed to the Ark, becauſe by it God did manifeſt his mighty power at Jordan, Joſh.3.15, 16. at Jericho, Joſh.6.4. and among the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.5.4,6. See Pſal. 78.61.

Let thy Prieſts, O Lord, be clothed] Let them be adorned as with a garment, Iſa.61.10.

with ſalvation] Under Salvation ſuch graces are compriſed as might bring ſalvation to the Prieſts themſelves and to others, 1 Tim.4.16.

and let thy Saints rejoyce in goodneſs] By goodneſs is meant that favour and kindneſs which God ſhewed to them.

V.42. O Lord God, turn not away the face] Reject not the prayer, ſee 2 King.2.16,17,20. Of ofuſing theſe titles Lord God ſee 1 Chr.17.27.

of thine anointed] He means this of himſelf, whom God ordained to be King, and who was thereupon anointed twice. See 1 Chr.29.22.

Remember the mercies of David thy ſervant] i. e. The promiſes which Gods mercy moved him to make to David, yea, and under him to his poſterity.See 1 Chr.17.11, &c.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ.1. NOw when Solomon had made an end of praying] From hence to v.4. a viſible approbation of Solomons prayer is ſet down. But 1 King.8.55, &c. Solomons ſolemn praiſing of God and bleſſing the people are inſerted before this.

the fire came down from heaven] This was one evidence of Gods accepting Solomons prayer. See 1 Chr.21.26.

and conſumed the burnt-offering and the ſacrifices] See 1 King 3. 15. The conſuming of theſe ſhewed that God accepted them, Lev. 9.24. 1 King.18.38.

and the glory of the Lord filled the houſe] By the glory of the Lord is meant a thick cloud, which ſet out the incomprehenſible glory of God; which if it had ſhined forth in its brightneſs would have utterly dazled and confounded the beholders. It was therefore covered with a cloud, to ſhew that it was there preſent, but could not by mans mortal eye be diſcerned. After ſuch a manner God dealt with Moſes, Exod. 33.22. when he covered with his hand Moſes his face. See 1 King. 8.10.

V.2. And the Prieſts could not enter into the houſe of the Lord,&c.] See 1 King.8.11. This cloud was another evidence of Gods approbation.

V.3. And when all the children of Iſrael ſaw how the fire came down] This viſible manifeſtation of Gods good pleaſure wonderfully wrought upon the people. We read the like 1 King. 18.39.

and the glory of the Lord upon the houſe] The cloud which filled the Houſe within did alſo cover it without, whereby it came to paſs that not onely the Prieſts but alſo the people diſcerned it. We read the like Exod.40.34.

they bowed themſelves with their faces to the ground] See 1 Chron. 29.20.

upon the pavement] i.e. The floor of the great court. See 1 King. 6.36.

and worſhipped] As they teſtified their reverence by bowing themſelves, ſo they did alſo inwardly adore and worſhip God. Head and Heart moved together.

and praiſed the Lord] They did alſo with their tongues ſet forth the glory of God.

ſaying, For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever] See chap. 5.13.

V.4. Then the King and all the people offered ſacrifices before the Lord] 1 King.8.62. inſtead of all the people is put all Iſrael.

V.5. And King Solomon offered a ſacrifice] The kind of ſacrifice, namely, peace-offerings, is ſet down 1 King.8.63. and there is added which he offered unto the Lord.

of twenty and two thouſand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep] The greateſt offering that we read of. See 1 King. 8.63.

So the King and all the people] Or, the children of Iſrael, 1 King. 8.63. dedicated the houſe of God] 1 King.8.63. the Lord.

V.6. And the Prieſts waited on their offices] Every one in this ſolemn ſacrifice did what belonged to his courſe, as they were in general appointed by the law, Lev.1.2, &c. and particularly by David, 1 Chr.24.3.

the Levites alſo with inſtruments of muſick] Such as are expreſſed 1 Chr.15.16, &c. of the Lord] Compoſed to his honour. Or, whole inſtruments.

which David the King had made] Or, cauſed to be made.

to praiſe the Lord] David had ordained them to ſing and ſet forth the praiſe of God.

becauſe his mercy endureth for ever] By this clauſe the whole 136 Pſalm is meant: for this is the cadency, ſtaff, or latter part of every verſe in that Pſalm: and that Pſalm was wont to be ſung at all ſolemn praiſings of God. See ch.5.13.

when David praiſed by their miniſtery] Heb. by their hand. See 1 King. 8.53,56.

and the Prieſts ſounded trumpets before them] The Prieſts here meant were thoſe hundred and twenty mentioned ch.5.12.

and all Iſrael ſtood] This is an evidence of their reverent attention to what they ſaw and heard.

V.7. Moreover, Solomon hallowed] This hath reference to v. 5. and may reſolve a doubt about the multitude of ſacrifices there mentioned. They were too many to offer on one altar, but this place ſheweth what other means Solomon uſed.

the middle of the court, &c.] See 1 King.8.64.

burnt-offerings, and the fat of peace-offerings] Betwixt theſe meat-offerings are inſerted 1 King.8.64. which are alſo mentioned in the end of this verſe.

becauſe the brazen altar which Solomon had made] Or, that was before the Lord, 1 King.8.64.

was not able] Or, was too little, 1 King.8.64.

and the fat] Of the peace-offerings, 1 King.8.64.

V.8. Alſo at the ſame time] When he offered ſo ſolemn a ſacrifice, as is noted v.5. For he had great ſtore of proviſion.

Solomon kept the feaſt ſeven dayes, &c.] This is meant of that extraordinary feaſt made at the dedication of the Temple, which began on the eighth day of the ſeventh moneth, which in part anſwered to our September. On the fifteenth day of that moneth began the feaſt of Tabernacles, Lev. 23.34. and thereof mention is made in the latter end of the next verſe. In relation to theſe two feaſts it is ſaid that they kept the feaſt ſeven dayes, and ſeven dayes, even fourteen dayes, 1 King.8.65. It is there alſo ſaid that they held this feaſt before the Lord their God.

V.9. And in the eighth day they made a ſolemn aſſembly] Heb. a reſtraint. namely from ſervile works. This was the eighth day from the beginning of the firſt feaſt, mentioned v.8. and the firſt day of the other feaſt, the feaſt of Tabernacles, and the fifteenth day of the moneth, Lev.23.34.

for they kept the dedication of the Altar] Becauſe the Altar was the principal thing about the Temple, and the ſervice of God, being that whereon all their offerings were laid, it is here ſynecdochichally put for the whole houſe of God and for all things appertaining thereunto: Therefore it is ſaid that they dedicated the houſe of the Lord, v.5. & 1 King.8.63. ſo alſo concerning the ſecond Temple, that they kept the dedication of that houſe, Ezr.6. 16,17. This dedication of the houſe and of the altar ſet out one and the ſame thing. Unleſs it ſhould be imagined that there were two dedications, one of the Temple, another of the Altar. And we read of a ſolemn dedication of the altar that Moſes made, Numb.7.10,11,84,88. and of a continuance of a feaſt ſtiled the feaſt of the Dedication, Joh.10.22. which is ſuppoſed to have had relation to the dedication of an Altar, 1 Mac.4.59.

and the feaſt ſeven dayes] Theſe were other ſeven dayes immediately following upon the former. In theſe latter ſeven the feaſt of Tabernacles was kept.

V.10. And on the three and twentieth day of the ſeventh moneth] This is ſaid to be the eighth day, 1 King.8.66. namely the eighth from the beginning of the feaſt of Tabernacles, which began on the fifteenth of the ſeventh moneth, Lev.23.34. And thus it falls out juſt on the three and twentieth day.

he ſent the people away into their tents] i. e. Their ſeveral habitations. See 1 King.8.66. & 12.16.

glad and merry in heart] they went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart, 1 King.8.66.

for the goodneſs] Or, all the goodneſs. See 1 King.8.66.

that the Lord had ſhewed unto David] Or, had done for David his ſervant, 1 King.8.66.

and to Solomon] This is left out 1 King.8.66. but is compriſed under the former clauſe. For the ſpecial kindneſs here intended unto David had relation to Solomon; for it was a kindneſs to David that his ſon proſpered ſo as he did. And herein the good promiſe made to David, 1 Chron.17.11, &c. is compriſed.

and to Iſrael his people] The whole land had a benefit by Gods bleſſing of Solomon.

V.11. Thus Solomon finiſhed the houſe of the Lord] Or it came to paſs, when Solomon had finiſhed the building of the houſe of the Lord, 1 King.9.1. and the Kings houſe] i. e. The Royal palace in Jeruſalem, wherein the Kings of Judah had their chief reſidence, generation after generation. It ſeems to have been a very ſtately houſe; for Solomon was thirteen years in building it, 1 King.7.1.

and all that came into Solomons heart] Or, all Solomons deſire which he was pleaſed to do, 1 King.9.1.

to make in the houſe of the Lord] This hath reference to all manner of things appertaining to the Temple and to the courts thereof, moveable or immoveable.

and in his own houſe] This hath as large an extent as the former.

he proſperouſly effected] He finiſhed with very good ſucceſs, according to his fathers charge, 1 Chron.22.11. and his own deſire.

V.12. And the Lord appeared unto Solomon by night] This was a ſecond time, 1 King.9.2. God firſt appeared unto him in the beginning of his reign, before he began to build the Temple, ch.1.7. and now again, after all is finiſhed. This God did to give teſtimony of his accepting his prayer, and to return a gracious anſwer thereunto.

and ſaid unto him, I have heard thy prayer] and thy ſupplication that thou haſt made before me, 1 King.9.3. Of the difference betwixt prayer and ſupplication ſee 1 King.8.28.

and have choſen this place] Or, I have hallowed this houſe which thou haſt built, 1 King.9.3.

to my ſelf] Or, to put my name there for ever, 1 King.9.3.

for an houſe of ſacrifice] Therein alone ſacrifices were to be offered up, which were then a principal part of Gods ſervice.

V.13. If I ſhut up heaven that there be no rain] This hath reference to that petition ch.6.26. whereof ſee 1 King.8.35.

or if I command the locuſts to devour the land] This hath reference to ch.6.28. See 1 Kin.8.37. Under Locuſts are compriſed Caterpillers and all other like hurtful creatures; and under land, whatſoever fruit groweth out of the earth.

or if I ſend peſtilence among my people] This alſo hath reference to ch.6.28. See 1 King.8.37.

V.14. If my people which are called by my name] Heb. upon whom my name is called. i. e. Such as God choſe to be of his houſhold and family, i. e. his Church, whoſe God and Lord he profeſſed himſelf to be, and who profeſſed Gods name, acknowledging thereby that he was their Lord and they his people, Deut. 28. 10. Amos 9.12.

ſhall humble themſelves] This is very acceptable in the ſight of the high God, Eſa.57.15. 1 Pet.5.6.

and pray] This is the means which God hath ſanctified both for obtaining bleſſings, Matth. 7.7. and removing judgments, Pſal.50.15.

and ſeek my face] i. e. My favour and grace. See 1 King.13.6. This is the ground of all true confidence in them that pray.

and turn from their wicked wayes] All the other means without this are nothing at all. Repentance is a grace neceſſary for ſuch as deſire Gods favour, Lam.3.40.

then will I hear from heaven] See ch.6.21. When men are once rightly qualified and duly prepared by their afflictions for mercy, God will ſoon hear them. Now becauſe heaven is the throne of God, and petitioners uſe to come to a King ſitting on his throne when they prefer their petitions unto him, God is ſaid to hear from heaven.

and will forgive their ſin] Sin makes us ſo odious in Gods ſight as till that be forgiven he will grant no true mercy. See 1 King. 8.30,34. Matth.9.2.

and will heal their land] This is a metaphor taken from the bodies of living creatures. When ſores or wounds therein are ſo dreſſed as that all putrefaction and anguiſh is removed, and the fleſh brought to be as it was before, they are ſaid to be healed: So when judgments, which are the ſores or wounds of a land, are removed, the land is ſaid to be healed.

V.15. Now mine eyes ſhall be open] This phraſe is alſo metaphorical. When men will not ſee or regard a thing, they uſe to ſhut their eyes; but when they have a mind to behold it, and to do good to it, they will open their eyes upon it. See 1 King. 8.29.

and mine ears attent unto the prayer that is made in this place] Heb. to the prayer of this place. See ch. 6. 40. They who have a mind to grant what is deſired, will with their ears diligently attend to it.

V.16. For now have I choſen and ſanctified this houſe, &c.] See 1 King.9.3.

V.17. And as for thee] This phraſe importeth a ſpecial and particular direction to Solomon himſelf, and is uſed to make him the more attentive thereunto.

if thou wilt walk before me as David thy father walked] 1 King. 9.4. is further added, in integrity of heart and in uprightneſs.

and do according to all, &c.] See 1 King.9.4.

V.18. Then will I eſtabliſh the throne of thy kingdom] 1 King.9.5. upon Iſrael for ever, is added.

according as I have covenanted with David thy father] Or, as I promiſed to him, 1 King.9.5. See 2 Sam.7.12. 1 Chr.22.10.

to be Rulers in Iſrael] Or, upon the throne of Iſrael, 1 King. 9.5. This ſheweth that he meaneth by Ruler a Soveraign King.

V.19. But if you turn away] Or, if you ſhall at all turn from following me, 1 King.9.6. And there is added, you, or your children.

and forſake my ſtatutes and my commandments which I have ſet before you] Or, will not keep my commandments and my ſtatutes, &c. 1 King. 9.6. Lev.26.14. Deut.28.15.

and ſhall go and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them] See 1 King. 9.6.

V.20. Then will I pluck them up by the roots out of my land] This metaphor is taken from briars, thorns, and all manner of noyſom weeds, which men uſe to root out of their grounds; and it ſignifieth an utter deſtruction of them. It is thus expreſſed 1 King.9.7. then will I cut off Iſrael out of the land.

which I have given them] See 1 King.8.36.

and this houſe which I have ſanctified for my name, will I caſt out of my ſight] See 1 King.9.7.

and will make it to be a proverb] Or, Iſrael ſhall be a proverb, 1 King. 9.7.

and a by-word among all nations] Or, among all people, 1 King. 9.7.

V.21. And this houſe which is high, ſhall be an aſtoniſhment to every one that paſſeth by it] Or, at this houſe which is high, every one that paſſeth by it ſhall be aſtoniſhed, and ſhall hiſs, 1 King. 9.8.

ſo that he ſhall ſay] Namely, every one, or any one. Or, and they ſhall ſay, 1 King.9.8.

Why hath the Lord done thus unto this land, and unto this houſe?] See 1 King.9.8. Deut.19.24. Jer.22.8,9.

V. 22. And it ſhall be anſwered] Or, they ſhall anſwer, 1 King.9.9.

which brought them forth out of the land of Egypt] Or, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, 1 King.9.9. If their fathers had not been brought out of Egypt, their children, generation after generation, might have been bond-ſlaves there. So as by bringing their fathers out of Egypt they who are here ſpoken of were brought thence.

and laid hold on other gods, and worſhipped them, and ſerved them] See 1 King.9.9.

therefore hath he brought all this evil upon them] Or, therefore hath the Lord brought upon them all this evil. 1 King.9.9.

Verſ.1. A*Nd it came to paſs*] Hitherto hath been declared how Solomon ſetled the matters of the houſe of God, and his ſervice. The affairs of the State are ſet down in this chapter.

at the end of twenty years, &c.] See 1 King.9---10.

V.2. That the cities which Huram had reſtored to Solomon] This Huram did becauſe the cities given him by Solomon pleaſed him not, 1 King.9.12.

Solomon built them] He cauſed them to be repaired and fortified. See 1 King.9.17.

and cauſed the children of Iſrael to dwell there] Solomon made them uſeful for his people, though the King of Tyre regarded them not.

V.3. And Solomon went to Hamath-Zobah] This appertained to the king of Zobah. See 1 Chr.18.3. and prevailed againſt it] David had overcome the king of Zobah, but it may be Hamath was not then taken by him: Or if it were, it revolted after Davids death, and thereupon Solomon fought againſt it, and got it by force.

V.4. And he built Tadmor in the wilderneſs] So 1 King 9.18.

and all the ſtore-cities] See 1 King 9.19.

which he built in Hamath] Hamath being taken from the enemy, Solomon built therein places for ammunition, for the better defence thereof.

and chief of his captains, and captains of his chariots and horſemen] Or, and his ſervants, and his Princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horſemen, 1 King.9.22.

V.10. And theſe were the chief of King Solomons Officers] Or, theſe were the chief of the officers that were over Solomons work, 1 King 9.23.

even two hundred and fifty] 1 King.9.23. five hundred and fifty. See on that place.

that bare rule over the people] 1 King.9.23. is added that wrought in the work.

V.11. And Solomon brought up the daughter of Pharaoh out of the city of David] Or, but Pharaohs daughter came up out of the city of David, 1 King 9.24.

unto the houſe that he had built for her] Solomon at firſt placed his wife in the city of David 1 King.3.1. upon neceſſity, becauſe he had not elſewhere a place fit for ſuch a Princeſs: But after he had built the Lords houſe and his own, he built a fair Palace for her, 1 King.7.8. into which he removed her from the city of David.

for he ſaid, My wife ſhall not dwell in the houſe of David king of Iſrael, becauſe the places are holy] Heb. holineſs. This reaſon was ceremonial. Hereby it appears that he reſerved the place where the Ark formerly ſtood for ſome holy uſe, or at leaſt left it void. But if Pharaohs daughter had ſtill continued in the place where ſhe was before, Solomon muſt have taken in the place where the Ark was, to make a Palace for his wife.

whereunto the Ark of the Lord hath come] This ſhews the reaſon why that place was counted holy. The Ark was counted the moſt holy type that the Jews had, and the principal evidence of Gods preſence. Solomon therefore ſanctified that place, where God was pleaſed to manifeſt his preſence ſo ſolemnly.

V. 12. Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings unto the Lord] Then hath reference to a continual cuſtome which Solomon conſtantly uſed, as is evident 1 King.9.25. And three times in a year did Solomon offer burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings.

on the Altar of the Lord] Or, upon the Altar which he built unto the Lord, 1 King.9.25.

which he had built before the Porch] The Porch was at the Eaſt-end of the Temple, 1 King 6.3. and there were wide doors at the entring into it out of the Prieſts court, and at the entring out of it into the Holy place, which being opened, the Prieſts and people might ſee the Moſt holy place. Now this Altar is ſaid to be built before the Porch, to ſhew 1. that it was in the Prieſts court; 2. that it was placed directly before the Ark; for the Porch was before the Holy place and the Moſt holy place.

David is called a man of God, becauſe he was choſen of God, Pſal.78.70. and inſpired by God, 2 Sam.23.2. and a man after Gods own heart, 1 Sam.13.14. Act.13.22.

V.15. And they departed not from the commandement of the King unto the Prieſts and Levites] i.e. the Prieſts and Levites did carefully and conſcionably obſerve thoſe things which Solomon had given them in charge.

V.16. Now all the work of Solomon was prepared] Whatſoever was requiſite for the effecting of any thing that Solomon appointed to be done, was provided and well ordered.

unto the day of the foundation of the houſe of the Lord] Till he began to build, and to do what he intended to do about the houſe of the Lord.

and untill it was finiſhed] From time to time till all was ended. Some read it thus, Whatſoever was requiſite for beginning and perfecting all, from laying the foundation even untill all was finiſhed, was prepared.

ſo the houſe of God was perfected] See 1 King.9.25.

V.17. Then went Solomon to Ezion-Geber, and to Eloth] Or, to Elath, Deut.2.8. See 1 King.9.26. In theſe two places Solomon had a Navy of ſhips made, in which reſpect he is ſaid to go thither, that he might take the better notice of them.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ.1. AND when the Queen of Sheba] In the twelve firſt verſes of this chapter an eſpecial evidence of the ſpreading of Solomons fame far and neer is given, by the coming of a Queen from the uttermoſt parts of the earth] Mat.12.42. to be an eye and ear-witneſs of the things reported of Solomon in her own and other Dominions.

heard of the fame of Solomon] Concerning the name of the Lord, 1 King.10.1.

and their apparel] The apparel of Solomons Miniſters is expreſſed 1 King.10.5. but this phraſe is not there applyed to his Cup-bearers, yet here expreſſed, becauſe ſeveral Officers had their ſeveral apparel fit for their functions. The Miniſters had their diſtinct apparel, and the Cup bearers theirs.

V.5. And ſhe ſaid unto the king, It was a true report] Heb. word. See 1 King. 10.6.

which I heard in mine own land, of thy acts, &c.] Or, ſayings. See 1 King.10.6.

V.6. Howbeit, I believed not their words] Or, the words. See 1 King. 10.7.

the one half of the greatneſs of thy wiſdome was not told me] The greatneſſe of thy wiſdome is not ſet down 1 King. 10.7. for mention is made of Solomons wiſdom in the next clauſe of that text.

for thou exceedeſt the fame that I heard] Or, thy wiſdom and proſperity exceedeth the fame which I heard, 1 King.10.7.

V.7. Happy are thy men. &c.] See 1 King.10.8.

V.8. Bleſſed be the Lord thy God, which delighted in thee, to ſet thee on his throne] Or, on the throne of Iſrael. Why it is called the throne of Iſrael, ſee 1 King.10.9. and why the throne of the Lord, 1 Chron. 29.23.

to be king for the Lord thy God] This ſhews one reaſon why it was called the throne of the Lord. Solomon is ſaid to be King for the Lord, as in general becauſe God is the high ſupreme King, and Kings on earth bear his image and are his Vice-gerents; ſo in particular becauſe Iſrael, over whom Solomon reigned, was Gods peculiar people, Exod.19.5. Of thy God ſee 1 King.13.6. & 17.12. & 18.10.

becauſe thy God loved Iſrael] Or, becauſe the Lord loved Iſrael for ever, 1 King. 10.9.

therefore made he thee King over them] Over them is here added to ſhew that herein the love of God to Iſrael was manifeſted, not ſimply in that Solomon was a King, but in that he was a King over Iſrael.

V.9. And ſhe gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold] See 1 King. 9.14.

and of ſpices great abundance] Or, of Spices very great ſtore, 1 King. 10,10.

Neither was there any ſuch ſpice as the Queen, &c.] Or, there came no more ſuch abundance of ſpices as theſe, 1 King.10.10.

V.10. And the ſervants alſo of Huram, and the ſervants of Solomon] Or, and the Navy alſo of Hiram, 1 King.10.11. By ſervants are meant Mariners, ch.8.18. And Solomons and Hurams ſervants went together in a Navy: Therefore under ſervants the Navy is compriſed; and under Navy, ſervants.

which brought gold from Ophir, brought Algum-trees] Or, the navy that brought gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir great plenty of Almug-trees, 1 King.10.11. See there.

V.11. And the king made of the Algum trees terriſes, &c.] Or, ſtairs: Heb. high wayes. See 1 King. 10.12.

And there were none ſuch ſeen before in the land of Judah] Or, there came no ſuch Algum-trees, nor were ſeen unto this day, 1 Kings 10.12.

V.12. And king Solomon gave to the Queen, &c.] See 1 Kings 10.13.

Beſides that which ſhe had brought unto the king] It is ſaid v.1. that the Queen of Sheba brought ſpices, gold in abundance, and precious ſtones; theſe ſhe gave to the king, v.9. He therefore either in ſuch or ſome other kinds of gifts returned to her full as much in value; and this by way of recompenſe. But beſides, he gave her alſo of his royall bounty other rare and precious preſents: And if ſhe liked any thing in his kingdom that ſhe ſaw, upon manifeſtation of her deſire he gave her it alſo.

ſo ſhe turned and went away, &c.] See 1 King.10.13.

V.13. Now the weight of gold that came, &c.] See 1 Kings 10.14.

V.14. Beſides that which chap-men and Merchants brought] Or, beſides that he had of the Merchant-men, and of the traffick of the Spice-merchants, 1 King.10.15.

and all the kings of Arabia, and governours of the country] Or, Captains of the country. See 1 King.10.15.

brought gold and ſilver to Solomon] This was an eſpecial means of that abundance that Solomon had.

V.15. And king Solomon made two hundred targets, &c.] See 1 King. 10.16.

V.16. And three hundred ſhields] See 1 King.10.17.

three hundred ſhekels of gold went to one ſhield] Shekels is not in the original, neither can it be properly here underſtood. Indefinitly here are meant pieces of gold, and that of ſuch a quantity as an hundred of them made a pound. And thus three hundred pieces of gold here agree with three pound of gold, 1 King.10.17.

and the king put them, &c.] See 1 King.10.17.

V.17. Moreover the king made a great throne of ivory and over-laid it with pure gold] Or, the beſt gold, 1 King. 10.18.

V.18 And there were ſix ſteps to the throne] Or, the throne had ſix ſteps, 1 King.10.19. but the Hebrew in both places is the ſame.

with a footſtool of gold] There is a little difference betwixt the deſcription of this throne here and 1 King.10.19. Here mention is made of a footſtool; there, of a top: And the throne had both a cover and a footſtool; and the one is mentioned in the one place, the other in the other.

which were faſtned to the throne] This hath reference to the ſteps. For the word is of the plural number.

and ſtayes on each ſide] Heb. hands on this and that ſide. They were ſuch ſtayes as a man might reſt his hands upon; or, by which a man might be helped up, as by an hand.

V.19. And twelve lions ſtood there, &c.] See 1 King.10.20.

V.20. And all the drinking veſſels, &c.] See 1 King.10.21.

V.21. For the kings ſhips went to Tarſhiſh with the ſervants of Huram] Or, the king had at Sea a navy of Tarſhiſh, with the navy of Hiram, 1 King.10.22. See v.10.

V. 22. And king Solomon paſſed all the kings of the earth in riches and wiſdom] See 1 King. 10.23. There is more difference in the Tranſlation betwixt theſe two places then in the Originall.

V.23. And all the kings of the earth] Or, and all the earth, 1 King. 10.24.

ſought the preſence, &c.] Heb. face.

V.24. And they brought every man, &c.] See 1 King.10.25.

and rayment, harneſs] Or, garments, and armour, 1 King.10.25. The ſame Hebrew words are in both places.

and ſpices, &c.] See 1 King.10.25.

V.25. And Solomon had] Or, Solomon gathered together chariots and horſemen, 1 King.10.26.

heard it] This hath reference to the beginning of the verſe, q. d. when Jeroboam heard it. In the Hebrew they are ſo joyned together.

that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt] This is not mentioned 1 Kin. 12.2. but is neceſſarily implied by that which followeth.

V.3. And they ſent and called him] See 1 King.12.3.

ſo Jeroboam and all Iſrael came, &c.] Or, and Jeroboam and all the Congregation of Iſrael came, 1 King.12.3.

V.4. Thy father made our yoke grievous, &c.] See 1 King.12.4.

Now therefore eaſe thou ſomewhat the grievous ſervitude of thy father, &c.] There is a little difference betwixt this place and 1 Kin. 12.4. in the Tranſlation, but not in the Original.

V.5. And he ſaid unto them, Come again unto me after three dayes, &c.] Or, Depart yet for three dayes, then come again to me, &c. 1 Kin. 12.5. Here where he ſaith, come again, he implieth they ſhould depart for that time, that ſo he might take advice in their abſence.

V.6. And king Rehoboam took counſel with the old men] Or, conſulted, 1 King.12.6.

that had ſtood before Solomon, &c.] There is greater difference in the tranſlation of this verſe and of 1 King. 12.6. then in the Hebrew.

V.7. And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, If thou be kind to this people] Or, If thou wilt be a ſervant unto this people this day, and wilt ſerve them, 1 King.12.7. Theſe two places expound one another. For he that ſeeks to ſatisfie the deſire of others after a kind manner doth therein ſeem to be a ſervant unto them.

and pleaſe them, and ſpeak good words unto them, &c.] By ſpeaking good words to them he might pleaſe them. See 1 King. 12.7.

V. 8. But he forſook the counſel which the old men gave him, &c.] Here alſo is a greater difference in the tranſlation betwixt this verſe & 1 King.12.8. then in the Hebrew.

V.9. And he ſaid unto them, what advice give ye, &c.] This verſe in the Hebrew agreeth with 1 King.12.9. word for word.

V.10. And the young men that were brought up with him, &c.] This verſe alſo agreeth with 1 King.12.10. in the Hebrew; onely there are two different words which ſignifie one and the ſame thing.

V. 11. For whereas my father put an heavy yoke upon you, &c.] Heb. laded you. This alſo in Hebrew agreeth with 1 King.12.11. in ſenſe and words.

but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions] I will chaſtiſe you is not in the Hebrew, but well ſupplied out of 1 King.12.11.

V. 12. So Jeroboam and all the people came, &c.] See 1 King. 10.12.

V.13. And the King anſwered them roughly] Or, and the King anſwered the people roughly, 1 King.12.13.

and King Rehoboam forſook the counſel of the old men] Or, forſook the old mens counſel that they gave him, 1 King.12.13.

V.14. And anſwered them after the advice of the young men, &c.] See v.11.

And they obeyed the words of the Lord] Or, They hearkened therefore to the words of the Lord, 1 King.12.24.

and returned from going againſt Jeroboam] Or, and returned to depart, according to the word of the Lord, 1 King. 12.24.

V.5. And Rehoboam dwelt in Jeruſalem] Jeruſalem was the faireſt and ſtrongeſt city in all Judah and Benjamin, and there Solomon had built a Royal Palace; therefore Rehoboam there ſetleth his habitation. See 1 King.12.18.

and built cities for defence in Judah] Eſpecially in the uttermoſt coaſts, bordering opon the kingdom of Iſrael.

V.6. He built] Here are fifteen cities reckoned up, moſt of which were built before; ſo as by building is here meant repairing, fencing, fortifying. So 1 King.12.25.& 15.17.

even Bethlehem] There was one Bethlehem in Zebulun, Joſh. 19.15. another in Judah, where Chriſt was born, Ruth 1.3. Matth.2.1,5,6. and where David was firſt anointed king, 1 Sam. 16.1,13.& 17.12. This latter is here meant.

and Tekoa] See 1 Chr.2.24.

V.7. And Beth zur] See 1 Chr.2.45.

and Shoco] This was alſo a city of Judah. It was one of thoſe which the Philiſtims took from Ahaz, ch.28.18.

and Adullam] The chief city of one of thoſe kings which Joſhua took, Joſh.12.15. It was in Judah, Joſh.15.35. See on Joſh. 10.3.

V.8. And Gath] See 1 Chr.18.1.

and Ziph] A city of Judah, Joſh. 15. 24, 55. See 1 Chron. 2. 42.

V.9. And Adoraim] This city is no where elſe mentioned; but it ſeemeth it was within the compaſs of Judah or Benjamin.

and Lachiſh] See 2 King.14.19.

and Azekah] This was in Judah alſo, Joſh.15.35. See Jer.34.7.

V.10. And Zorah] A city of Dan, Joſh. 19.41. made famous by the birth of Samſon, Judg. 13. 2, &c. and alſo by his burial, Judg.16.31.

and Aijalon] See 1 Chr.6.69.

and Hebron] See 1 King.2.11.

V.11. And he fortified the ſtrong holds] i.e. Caſtles and other Forts.

and put captains in them] Under captains are compriſed their ſouldiers alſo. He placed ſtrong garriſons in thoſe cities, to keep them ſafe from attempts of enemies. Theſe Captains are ſuppoſed to be his ſons; for it is ſaid that he diſperſed his children unto every fenced city, v.23. Herein he dealt prudently, for in his own ſons he might ſecurely confide.

and ſtore of victual] That he might keep together his garriſon-ſouldiers, and the better encourage them to ſtand out againſt their enemies, if they were beleaguered.

and of oyl and wine] Theſe were not onely for neceſſity, but alſo for delight. He did the rather furniſh theſe places with theſe refreſhments, becauſe his ſons and other great men were there. Of the uſe of Oyl ſee 1 King.17.12. 2 King.4.2. Wine is known to be a generous drink, whereby the heart of man is much refreſhed and cheered, Judg.9.13. Pſal.104.15. Prov.31.6. Wine and Oyl amongſt other ſorts of proviſion were prepared for David and ſuch as took part with him, 1 Chr.12.40. and theſe did Solomon ſend as a preſent to Hiram, ch.2.10.

V.12. And in every ſeveral city] Heb. city and city.

he put ſhields and ſpears] Under theſe two kinds all manner of warlike ammunition is compriſed. He prepared theſe before-hand, that they might not be to ſeek in time of need.

and made them exceeding ſtrong] i.e. The places which he fortified.

having Judah and Benjamin on his ſide] For they revolted not with the other tribes from the houſe of David.

V.13. And the Prieſts and the Levites that were in all Iſrael] Here is declared how the kingdom of Judah was ſtrengthened, to wit, by ſuch as out of other tribes came to them.

reſorted to him] Heb. preſented themſelves to him. Herein they ſhewed much courage and zeal in Gods cauſe; like their predeceſſors, Ex.32.26.

out of all their coaſts] Out of ſuch cities as belonged to the Prieſts and Levites in any of the tribes of Iſrael.

V.14. For the Levites left their ſuburbs and their poſſeſſion] They left both their houſes and hereditaments that belonged to them.

and came to Judah and Jeruſalem] To dwell in ſuch places throughout Judah and Benjamin as ſhould be allotted them, and to do the ſervice of the Lord in the Temple at Jeruſalem.

For Jeroboam] He was the chief and principal.

and his ſons] They were Governours in ſundry places, (as the ſons of Rehoboam, v.23.) and were forward to put their fathers deſign againſt the Prieſts in execution.

had caſt them off] See ch.14.9.

from executing the Prieſts office unto the Lord] The Prieſts and Levites office was to inſtruct the people in the law of the Lord, and to go in their accuſtomed courſes unto the Temple to do the ſervices thereof. See a main reaſon of caſting them off inferred hence, 1 King.12.27. And ſurely another reaſon was, to poſſeſs their cities and lands. This appears to be ſo, in that Jeroboam did not ſettle other Prieſts and Levites in the cities of thoſe that were caſt out, but made Prieſts of the meaneſt of the people, 1 King. 12.31.& 13.33.

V.15. And he ordained him Prieſts] Such as are mentioned 1 King. 13.33.

for the high places] Such as himſelf built, 1 King. 12.31. idolatrous high places. Of high places ſee 1 King.3.4.

and for the devils] The word ſignifieth hairy, horrid things. As Satyrs, Iſai.13.21. In ſuch ſhapes many idols were wont to be ſet out as affrighted the beholders. And devils for the moſt part uſe to appear in horrible ſhapes. The word שרים Sharim, Deut.32. 17. which ſetteth out the ſame things, ſignifieth waſters or deſtroyers; as Rev.9.11. Idolaters are ſaid to do ſervice to devils, becauſe they do what they do by the inſtigation of devils, and becauſe ſuch piety and devotion as is not done to the true God is done to devils; there is no mean betwixt them, 1 Cor.10.20,21. out of all the tribes of Iſrael] Even ſuch as had revolted from the houſe of David. See ch.10.19.

ſuch as ſet their hearts to ſeek the Lord] That abhorred Jeroboams idolatry, and being inſtructed in the Law, and thereby knowing Jehovah to be the onely true God, heartily deſired to ſerve him according to his own direction.

unto the Lord God of their fathers] i.e. Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, to whom God made ſpecial promiſes for the good of their poſterity. See 1 Chron.29.18. This God is oppoſed to Jeroboams Idols, to whom the Iſraelites ſacrificed.

V.17. So they ſtrengthened the kingdom of Judah] i.e. The Prieſts, Levites, and others who left their habitations in other tribes, and came to Judah, added their power to the Kingdom of Judah, being ready to do what they could for defence thereof; yea, and added their prayers alſo.

and made Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon ſtrong] The ſtrength of a King conſiſts in the power of his Kingdom.

three years] So long as God is pleaſed to bleſs, means will be prevalent, but no longer.

for three years they walked in the way of David] David all his dayes remained faithful, and maintained the true worſhip of God.

and Solomon] This muſt be meant of Solomons former times, before his apoſtaſie, and of the time of his repentance and returning unto the Lord afterwards.

V.18. And Rehoboam took him Mahalath] Rehoboams domeſtick affairs are here ſet down, and that about his wives and children. Iſhmaels daughter whom Eſau married was alſo called Mahalath, Gen.28.9.

the daughter of Jerimoth the ſon of David to wife] None of Davids ſons 1 Chr.3. are called by this name. But it is ſaid 1 Chro. 3.9. that the nineteen ſons before mentioned were all the ſons of David, beſide the ſons of the concubines: ſo as this Jerimoth might be a ſon of David by a concubine.

and Abihail] and is not in the Original; therefore ſome read, Rehoboam, beſides Mahalath, took Abihail. Both readings agree in ſenſe. Abihail was alſo a mans name, 1 Chron.5.14. Eſth. 2. 15.

the daughter of Eliab the ſon of Jeſſe] 1 Sam.16.6. 1 Chr.2.13.

V.19. Which bare him children] Which hath reference to Abihail, the ſecond wife.

Jeuſh, and Shamariah, and Zaham] We read nothing elſe of theſe three but this, that they were Rehoboams ſons.

V. 20. And after her, he took Maacah] This was his third wife.

the daughter of Abſalom] See 1 King.15.2.

which bare him Abijah] Or, Abijam. This ſon ſucceeded his father Rehoboam in the throne, 1 King.15.1. and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith] Neither do we read any more of theſe three.

V.21. And Rehoboam loved Maacah the daughter of Abſalom] It may be her beauty or ſome other outward matter moved him ſo to dote on her. Abſalom himſelf was very beautiful, and ſo was his daughter Tamar, and his ſiſter Tamar alſo, 2 Sam.13.1. & 14. 25,27. Certainly it was not piety nor any ſuch endowment that moved him to love her; for ſhe was a deteſtable Idolater, 1 King. 15. 13.

above all his wives and his concubines] That whereupon a man ſets his heart uſeth to be preferred before all other things.

for he took eighteen wives and threeſcore concubines] When reins are let looſe to luſt, it groweth into exceſs: See 1 King.11.3.

and he begat twenty and eight ſons and threeſcore daughters] He might well have ſo many children of the multitude of wives and concubines he had.

V.21. And Rehoboam made Abijah the ſon of Maachah the chief] The love that he bare to the mother above his other wives made him love her ſon above his other children.

to be ruler among his brethren] He was not onely preferred in dignity above them, but alſo had authority over them.

for he thought to make him King] That authority before mentioned Rehoboam in his life-time gave him, that he might be the better fitted to reign after him.

V.23. And he dealt wiſely] The prudence here intended was his diſpoſing of his children in his life-time.

and diſpoſed of all his children throughout all the countries, &c.] See on v.11. He might have two ends in thus diſperſing his children; 1. to keep ſuch ſubjects as yet ſtood with him from revolt; 2. to keep his children from falling out among themſelves, Prov.18.19. So did Abraham, Gen.25.6. and Jehoſhaphat, ch.21.3.

and he gave them victual in abundance] See v. 11.

and he deſired] Heb. asked for. i. e. With deſire he enquired after; or, ſought to take.

many wives] Heb. a multitude of wives. It is not expreſſed whether his deſire of many wives were for himſelf or for his ſons. The Hebrew word asked for implyeth that the many wives were for his ſons. But it may be without reſtraint taken, that he ſought many wives both for himſelf and for his ſons.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ.1. AND it came to paſs] In this chapter is ſet down Rehoboams revolt from the Lord, and his return unto him.

when Rehoboam had eſtabliſhed the kingdom] He was over-confident in his power, and did not duly conſider that it was the Lord that ſettled his kingdom, and gave him that peace that he had.

and had ſtrengthened himſelf] See ch.11.17.

he forſook the law of the Lord] Of forſaking the Lord, ſee 1 King. 9.9. The Lord by his law declareth his will unto us; and they who order not their life, eſpecially their courſe of piety and Divine ſervice, according to the law of God, but follow either their own or other mens inventions, forſake Gods law. See 1 King.9.9. & 18. 18.

and all Iſrael with him] By Iſrael are meant in this place no other then thoſe who uſually are intended under this title Judah; as 2 Chron.15.15. They are here called Iſrael, not in oppoſition to Judah, as ch.13.15,16. but in relation to the common father of all the twelve tribes, which was Iſrael, Gen.49.2,28. This inſtance ſheweth that ſubjects are prone to follow their Soveraign, eſpecially in evil courſes.

V.2. And it came to paſs that in the fifth year of Rehoboam] Three years Rehoboam and his ſubjects walked in the way of David, ch.11.17. in the fourth year they revolted from the law of the Lord, whereby they provoked his wrath againſt them. The Lord therefore ſtirreth up the ſpirit of the king of Egypt againſt them, and he making preparations in that fourth year, in the fifth comes againſt Judah.

Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem] See 1 King. 14.25.

becauſe they had tranſgreſſed againſt the Lord] Judahs particular tranſgreſſions are ſet down 1 King.14.22,23,24.

V.3. With twelve hundred chariots] Of the uſe of chariots ſee 1 Chr.18.4. & 1 King.9.19.

and threeſcore thouſand horſemen] Theſe alſo are of great uſe in war. For in regard of the ſtrength and ſwiftneſs of their horſes they have a great advantage over footmen.

and the people were without number that came with him out of Egypt] This innumerable company it may be were footmen of all ſorts, and thoſe out of all countreys that came with him, or in particular thoſe mentioned in the words following.

the Lubims] Theſe bordered on Egypt. They are joyned with the Cuſhites ch.16.8. Nah.3.9.

the Sukkiims] So called becauſe they dwelt in tents, as the notation of the word importeth. They were alſo called Nomades. Some ſay they are they who are called Troglodytes, and ſuppoſed to be wild men living in Caves.

and the Ethiopians] Called Cuſhites. They uſed to gather together in great multitudes. See ch.14.9. 2 King.19.9.

V.4. And he took the fenced cities which pertained to Judah] Thoſe mentioned ch.11.5,8. which ſtood in his way as he was marching to Jeruſalem.

and came to Jeruſalem] With that great hoſt v.5.

V.5. Then came Shemaiah the Prophet] See 1 King.12.22.

to Rehoboam, and to the Princes of Judah] They all had ſinned againſt the Lord, and therefore both the fault and judgment is declared to them all.

that were gathered together to Jeruſalem] Jeruſalem was their ſtrongeſt city, and they took it to be their ſafeſt refuge.

becauſe of Shiſhak] They gathered themſelves together to conſult and prepare as well as they could againſt the king of Egypts army that he had brought into the kingdom as far as Jeruſalem.

and ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 King.12.24.

Ye have forſaken me] See v.1.

and therefore have I alſo left you in the hand of Shiſhak] Had God been with them, Shiſhak could no more have prevailed againſt Rehoboam then Zerah did againſt Aſa, ch. 14. 9. But the Lord leaving them, they ſoon fell into Shiſhaks power. This ſhews how dangerous it is to forſake the Lord.

V.6. Whereupon the Princes of Iſrael] Iſrael is here taken as v. 1. and by Princes of Iſrael are meant ſuch as were within Rehoboams dominions.

and the king humbled themſelves] Whether this humiliation were hearty or no is queſtionable; for at the cloſe of this ſtory it is ſaid of Rehoboam, that he did evil, becauſe he prepared not his heart to ſeeke the Lord, v.14. Yet God might have reſpect to their outward humiliation, as he had to Ahabs. See on 1 King.21.29.

the Lord is righteous] Not onely the upright and ſuch as fear God may by judgments be brought to acknowledge Gods juſt and righteous proceeding with them, as Dan.9.14. but alſo wicked ones, as Pharaoh Ex.9.27. So as this acknowledgment is no infallible evidence of an entire reſpect to God, ſeeing judgments may outwardly work upon hypocrites and obſtinate ſinners.

V.7. And when the Lord ſaw that they humbled themſelves] The Lord taketh notice both of mens inward diſpoſitions and alſo of their outward carriage.

the word of the Lord came to Shemajah] God uſeth his Miniſters to carry joyful tidings as well as doleful.

ſaying, They have humbled themſelves, therefore I will not deſtroy them] Humiliation for ſin and acknowledgment of Gods juſt dealing is very prevalent with God to remove a judgment, ch.33.12, 13. or to prevent a judgment, Jon.3.10. or to delay a judgment, ch.32.26. Yea, external humiliation is of force to remove an outward judgment, Exod.9.27,&c. 1 King.21.29.

but I will grant them ſome deliverance] Or, for a little while deliverance. The word tranſlated a little while is the ſame that is uſed Pſal. 2. 12. This limitation of deliverance hath relation to v. 8. where is implied that the land of Judah and the inhabitants thereof were in a kind of ſubjection to the king of Egypt.

and my wrath ſhall not be poured out upon Jeruſalem by the hand of Shiſhak] God would not ſuffer this enemy utterly to deſtroy Jeruſalem, as he threatned Deut.28.62. and executed ch.36.17, &c. The metaphor of pouring out wrath is taken for the executing of full vengeance, no part thereof being kept in. The utter deſtruction of the Jews by the Babylonians is ſet forth under this phraſe of pouring out Gods wrath, ch.34.21,25. So we read of pouring out of Gods fury, Ezek.7.8. his indignation, Ezek.21,31. the fury of his anger, Iſai.42.25. and his fierce anger, Lam.4.11. and of pouring out a curſe, Dan.9.11. This is further ſet out by another metaphor, of a Vial full of wrath. Such a vial is ſaid to be poured out when there is nothing left in it. Commonly the dregs of liquour lie in the bottoms of veſſels: therefore when they will ſhew that all is poured out they uſe to ſay, the dregs are poured out. Thus mention is made of the dregs of the cup of Gods fury, Iſa.51. 22. Here is implied that God would refrain his wrath, and not deal according to the uttermoſt extremity.

V. 8. Nevertheleſs they ſhall be his ſervants] i. e. The men of Judah ſhall be forced to yield fealty and tribute unto Shiſhak, and accept what conditions he ſhall put upon them.

that they may know my ſervice, and the ſervice of the kingdoms of the countreys] By that hard tax which the king of Egypt would lay upon them they might eaſily diſcern what difference there was betwixt ſerving God and ſerving enemies, Deut.28.47,48. Iſai. 26. 13. God bleſſeth with all manner of bleſſing ſuch as faithfully ſerve him, but enemies ſpoil and oppreſs whom they get under their ſubjection. By the kingdomes of the countreys he meaneth heatheniſh nations, which had neither knowledge nor fear of God.

V. 9. So Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem] See v. 2.

and took away the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord] We are not to think that he had thoſe veſſels of gold and ſilver that were uſed in the houſe of the Lord, but rather ſuch gold and ſilver and other precious things as were laid up for repairing the Temple, or other ſacred uſes. Neither are we to think that Shiſhak came into Gods houſe to take theſe, but that laying a great ſum of money upon the king and people of Judah, they were forced to take the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord to make it up; which Shiſhak took and carried away. The like is noted of Hezekiah 2 King.18.14,15. Of the treaſures of the houſe of God ſee 1 Chro. 26.28.

and the treaſures of the kings houſe] That which is ſaid of the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord in the former Note may be applyed to the treaſures of the Kings houſe alſo. Kings of Judah had their peculiar treaſures; and theſe uſed to be rich ones, 2 King. 16.8. & 18.15. & 20.13,15. In this reſpect David ſaith that of his own proper goods he gave towards the houſe of God. Thoſe goods were laid up in his own treaſury, and amounted even to many millions, 1 Chr. 29. 4.

he took all] The King of Egypt took of the King of Judah all that he gave him: and to ſatisfie him, the King of Judah gave him moſt if not all the treaſures that were in his own and in the Lords houſe.

he carried away alſo the ſhields of gold which Solomon had made] 1 King.10.16,17. See 1 King.14.26.

V.10. Inſtead of which king Rehoboam made ſhields of braſs, &c.] Or, and king Rehoboam made in their ſtead brazen ſhields, 1 King. 14.27.

V.11. And when the king, &c.] See 1 King.14.28.

V.12. And when he humbled himſelf] See v.7.

the wrath of the Lord turned from him] The Lords wrath was the cauſe of Shiſhaks coming againſt him; and his departure was an evidence that the wrath of the Lord was turned from him.

that he would not deſtroy him altogether] Heb. to conſumption. Though the King of Egypt made great ſpoil in ſundry cities of Judah, and had the treaſures of the Lords houſe and the Kings houſe, yet Judah remained ſtill to be a Kingdom, and the King and people thereof abode ſtill therein; which was not ſo in Zedekiahs time, 2 King.25.21.

and alſo in Judah things went well] Or, and yet in Judah there were good things. According to the firſt reading this may be the ſenſe, Notwithſtanding all the evil that Shiſhak had done, the ſtate of Judah continued as before; they enjoyed their liberty of ſerving God, the benefit of their own laws, with peace & proſperity. According to the other reading this may be the ſenſe; Gods Ordinances were duly obſerved, judgement and juſtice was executed, and there were many of the Princes and people in whom good things were found, as is ſaid of Jeroboams ſon, 1 King. 14. 13. Beſides, there was in Judah the law of God, the ſeals of his Covenant, the miniſtery of his Prophets, Prieſts and Levites, ordinary and extraordinary ſacrifices, and many perſons that had not conformed to the ſins of the Kingdom: Theſe and many other like were the good things in Judah.

V.13. So king Rehoboam ſtrengthened himſelf in Jeruſalem] Though he were much weakened by the ſpoil which Shiſhak had made in his Kingdom, yet by the Lords freeing of him from his enemy he recovered ſtrength again, and repaired and fortified the cities of his Kingdome, as ch.11. 5,11. and thus he ſtrengthened himſelf.

and reigned] As King. He continued to be Soveraign in his Kingdom, notwithſtanding his ſervice to the king of Egypt, mentioned v.8.

for Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign] See 1 King.14.21.

V.14. And he did evil] This may have reference both to the fourth and fifth years of his reign, after he was freed from Shiſhak. That which is here noted of the King of Judah is indefinitely applyed to Judah, namely, to the Princes and people thereof, 1 King. 14.22.

becauſe he prepared not] Or, fixed not. Preparation is an eſpecial means to bring a man on to that which is good, but want of it makes one run into evil: And a through ſetled reſolution to do that which is good is a great preparation thereunto: but when ſuch a reſolution is wanting, evil will quickly creep on a man.

his heart] The heart is the ſpring out of which floweth good and evil.

the battel in array] Prepared his ſouldiers, and ſet them in good order, that they might be ready to fight with the enemy.

with an army of valiant men of war] Not onely the Commanders but all the ſouldiers are compriſed under this word army. This epithet valiant ſets out the courage of their minds and ſtrength of their bodies. This phraſe men of war ſhews that they were exerciſed in military diſcipline.

even four hundred thouſand] This was a very great army, conſidered in it ſelf. We count fifty thouſand a Royal army, but here were eight times ſo many. Yet this great army was but half ſo big as Jeroboams.

choſen men] Not vagrants, or preſſed in the ſtreet, but choſen for that purpoſe.

Jeroboam alſo ſet the battel in array againſt him with eight hundred thouſand choſen men] Jeroboam had two to one.

being mighty men of valour] See 1 Chr.5.24. Theſe two armies, being all of the children of Iſrael, amounted to twelve hundred thouſand, all valiant men. Had they been, as brethren, united, they had been the greateſt hoſt that we have read or heard of by expreſſe number to be aſſembled together in the field. See ch.14.9. Indeed there is in Davids time mention made of fifteen hundred thouſand, and threeſcore and ten thouſand that drew ſword, beſides Levi and Benjamin, which were not counted among them, 1 Ch.21.5,6. but theſe were not all drawn out into the field together. See ch.17.14.

V.4. And Abijah ſtood up] It is to be ſuppoſed, that while the armies were ſet one againſt the other, before the fight, Abijah deſired and obtained a parle or treaty, and thereupon choſe a fit place where he might beſt be heard. It was ever uſual with prudent Commanders before the battel to deſire a treaty, thereby to ſhew the juſtneſſe of their cauſe, and perſwade the enemy to deſiſt, if it might be. This was enjoyned by the Law, Deut. 20. 10. So did Jephthah, Judg.11.12. and ſo did Abijah here.

upon mount Zemaraim, which is in mount Ephraim] A city of this name was in Benjamin, Joſh.18.22. The city and mount might both border on mount Ephraim, by the out-coaſts of Benjamin. Some conceive the name to be taken from Zemari, Gen. 10.18.

and ſaid, Hear me thou Jeroboam, and all Iſrael] He directeth his ſpeech, as to Jeroboam, who had the chief command of the army, ſo to other Commanders under him, who queſtionleſſe were now upon the aforeſaid deſire of treaty aſſembled together to hear what Abijah would ſay. And theſe eſpecially are compriſed under that phraſe all Iſrael. Yet withal it was Abijahs deſire that as many of the ordinary officers and ſouldiers as could might hear his voice; as Rabſhekah, 2 King.18.28.

V.5. Ought you not to know] So clear was the caſe he propounded as he ſuppoſed they could not be ignorant thereof; at leaſt they might and ought to have known it.

that the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15. He uſeth this phraſe to ſhew that the Lord was not onely the God of Judah, but of all the twelve tribes; and to move them the rather to obſerve that which their God had covenanted.

gave the kingdom over Iſrael to David for ever] Under this word David David himſelf and his poſterity is compriſed. See 2 Sam.7. 12,13,16.

even to him and to his ſons by a covenant of ſalt] By this metaphor of ſalt a perpetuity is ſet forth. For Salt makes things laſt. In this reſpect Lots wife was turned into a pillar of ſalt, Gen.19.26. that ſhe might remain a perpetual ſpectacle. The covenant therefore here is declared to be a perpetual covenant, not to be abrogated or nulled. In this reſpect theſe two phraſes a covenant of ſalt and for ever are joyned together, Numb.18.19. Some take this metaphor to be uſed in relation to their manner of making their covenant, with a ſacrifice, on which ſalt was alwayes ſprinkled, Lev.2. 13. And thereby is implyed that this was a moſt ſolemn covenant, not to be violated. Both ſenſes tend to the ſame purpoſe.

V.6. Yet Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] See 1 King.11.26.

the ſervant of Solomon] This title is here uſed to aggravate Jeroboams rebellion, in that being a ſervant he would preſume to uſurp his maſters throne.

the ſon of David] This ſhews the right that Solomon and his ſon had to the Kingdome by reaſon of the forementioned covenant v. 5.

is riſen up] This alſo, implyes an uſurpation above that which was meet.

and hath rebelled] Notwithſtanding God foretold that Jeroboam ſhould be King, 1 King.11.35. and the people choſe him, 1 King. 12.20. Yet he came to the kingdom with a proud, aſpiring, rebellious diſpoſition. It is therefore ſaid that he lift up his hand againſt the King, 1 King.11.26.

againſt his Lord] He rebelled both againſt Solomon, whoſe peculiar ſervant he was, 1 King.11.26. and alſo againſt Rehoboam, whoſe ſubject he was, 1 King. 12.16, &c.

V.7. And there are gathered unto him vain men] i. e. inconſtant, raſh and heady, not well underſtanding what they did.

the children of Belial] See 1 King.21.10. Certainly they were ſuch men as put on Jeroboam to do what he did; and in that particular act of ſetting him up to be king, they ſhewed themſelves to to be ſuch men. But they among the ten tribes which ſet their hearts to ſeek the Lord would not conſent thereto, ch.11.16.

and have ſtrengthened themſelves] By mutual conſent and joynt conſpiracy, and alſo by building cities and caſtles of defence, 1 King.12.20,25.

againſt Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon] This is ſaid to ſhew the right that Rehoboam had to the kingdom, and to aggravate their Rebellion. In this reſpect Solomon is ſtiled the ſon of David, v. 6.

when Rehoboam was young] Not in age, (for he was one and fourty years old when he came to the Crown, ch.12. 13.) but in underſtanding and diſcretion, 1 Cor.12.20. He was as a young man that wanted experience, and in that reſpect fooliſh. Thus is this word taken, Eccleſ.10.16. Iſa.3.4. See Eccleſ. 4.13. Or he may be called young in regard of his breeding: He was trained up in a delicate manner under a Prince of peace, and had no experience of war, nor was exerciſed in military diſcipline: and in this reſpect he was as a young tree that might eaſily be plucked up. He was no old beaten ſouldier, but a young and freſh one.

and tender-hearted] i.e. ſoon daunted. This is oppoſed to courage and magnanimity. He wanted ſtoutneſſe of ſpirit.

and could not withſtand them] This is added as the effect of his folly and fearfulneſſe. Beſides it implieth that the conſpiracy made againſt him was very great.

V.8. And now ye think] Heb. ſpeak, or, ſay. They did ſpeak in themſelves; and this is to think. See 1 King.5.5. & Gen.20.11.

to withſtand the kingdom] Heb. to ſtrengthen your ſelves in the face of the kingdom. i.e. with a ſtrong and mighty power to oppoſe it.

of the Lord] Why the kingdom of Judah was called the kingdom of the Lord, ſee ch.9.8. 1 Chr.28.5. This Epithet is here added to aggravate Jeroboams folly in oppoſing againſt that which was the Lords. See Act.5.3,9 in the hands of the ſons of David] For God had given the kingdome unto them. See 1 Chr.17.14. & 28.4,&c.

and ye be a great multitude] They were ten tribes to two, and their army as big again as Abijahs, v.3. This he alledgeth as the ground of their confidence, but a vain ground. See Iſa.30.1,2,3. & 31. 1,2,3.

and there are with you golden calves] This alſo is mentioned as another ground of their confidence, but to aggravate their folly therein. For what help could calves, without life, made of metals, afford them? Some conceive they brought the golden calves with them into the camp, becauſe it is ſaid, there are with you. So did the Iſraelites in ſuperſtition carry the Ark into the camp, 1 Sam.4.5. and the Philiſtims their Gods, 1 Chr.14.12.

which Jeroboam made you for Gods] 1 King. 12. 28. This is a greater aggravation of their folly, in that they placed confidence in ſuch things as a mortall man had made to be Gods.

V.9. Have you not caſt out the Prieſts of the Lord] ch.11.13,14. They did not onely truſt to falſe Gods, but alſo rejected the true God, in his Miniſters and Prieſts, by caſting them out.

the ſons of Aaron] This hath reference to Gods chuſing them onely to be his Prieſts, Exod.29.9. Num.3.10. and is here alledged in oppoſition to Jeroboams practice, who choſe any ſorts of perſons to be Prieſts, 1 King.12.31.& 13.33.

and the Levites] Theſe alſo were Miniſters of the Lord, though under the Prieſts, Num.3.9,12. And by adding theſe he diſcovereth the extent of Jeroboams impiety. It extended againſt all the Miniſters of God.

and have made you Prieſts after the manner of the nations of other lands] Not after Gods preſcript, according to which none but Aarons ſeed ſhould be Prieſts; but as other Nations that knew not God, nor had the light of his word for their guide. Theſe had no ſtock or family or ſucceſſion of men, from fathers to ſons, to be Prieſts; neither had the Iſraelites any, but choſe whom they pleaſed.

ſo that whoſoever cometh to conſecrate himſelf] Heb. to fill his hand. See 1 King. 13.33.

with a young bullock] This was enjoyned under the Law for the manner of conſecrating a true Prieſt, Exod.29.1. Hypocrites can obſerve ſome outward rites preſcribed by God.

and ſeven rams] The Law required but two rams at the moſt, Exod.29.15,19. But Idolaters and hypocrites in external rites oft exceed Gods preſcript, Num.23.1. Mich.6.7. Mar.7.4.

V.10. But as for us, the Lord is our God] Heb. and we, the Lord our God. The ſenſe of the Hebraiſm is well expreſſed in our tranſlation. This is to be taken of their outward profeſſion of the true God. For Abijahs heart was not upright, 1 King. 15.3.

and we have not forſaken him] As the ten tribes did, in forbearing to go to the Temple, and ſetting up the calves for their Gods, 1 King. 12.28,29,30.

and the Prieſts which miniſter unto the Lord are the ſons of Aaron] This was according to Gods Word, and contrary to the Iſraelites practice, v.9.

and the Levites wait upon their buſineſſe] They obſerve thoſe courſes and do thoſe ſervices which in ſpecial belong to them.

V.11. And they burn unto the Lord] To the honour of God, to do that ſervice to him which he hath appointed, to make atonement with him, and to ſeek his favour.

every morning and every evening] Heb. morning and morning, evening and evening. This hath relation to Exod.29.41,42.

burnt-ſacrifices] One in the morning, and another in the evening. Exod.29.39. Theſe were conſtantly offered up. There were alſo other ſacrifices upon occaſion offered up mornings and evenings, Num.28.10,15,23,24.

and ſweet incenſe] See ch.2.4. 1 King.9.25.

the ſhew-bread alſo ſet they in order upon the pure table] Of this alſo ſee ch.2.4. The table was covered with gold, and conſecrated for that purpoſe, and in that reſpect called pure.

and the candleſtick of gold] This and the other phraſe may have relation to the Tabernacle, wherein was but one Table, and one Candleſtick, Exod.25.23,31. Or by a ſynecdoche the ſingular number may be uſed for the plural. For there were ten Tables and ten Candleſticks in the Temple, ch.4.7,8.

with the lamps thereof, to burn every evening] See ch. 4.20. Levit. 24.3. Evening is here ſynecdochically put for morning and evening.

for we keep the charge of the Lord our God] We obſerve thoſe ordinances which the Lord hath preſcribed and given us in charge.

but ye have forſaken him] See ch.12.5.

V.12. And behold, God himſelf is with us] See 1 King.8.57. He produceth this as the ground of their confidence: And it is a ſure ground, Rom.8.31.

for our captain] Herein he may have relation to the Lords appearing unto Joſhua, Joſh.5.13,14. And he implyeth that the Lord would go before them, and fight for them; and in that reſpect they might have aſſurance of victory.

and his Prieſts with ſounding trumpets to cry alarm againſt you] This hath expreſs relation to an ordinance which God made for his people when they went out to battel, and to his promiſe thereupon, Numb.10.9. & 13.6.

O children of Iſrael] This title Abijah giveth to his enemies by way of inſinuation, to put them in mind of the mutual brotherhood betwixt the two parties: They were all children of the ſame father. Such an argument uſeth Abraham Gen.13.8.

fight ye not againſt the Lord] A ſtrong motive to ſtir them up to deſiſt: for who ever prevailed againſt the Lord? See 2 Kings 19.22.

God of your fathers] See ch.11.16.

for you ſhall not proſper] Hereby he ſheweth that they who are againſt the Lord cannot look for any good ſucceſs, Job 9.4. This oration which Abijah made is a very pithy one, every ſentence compriſing a ſtrong argument to diſſwade Jeroboam and ſuch as took part with him from fighting againſt the men of Judah. All the arguments may be drawn to two heads; 1. the diſhonour that Jeroboams party had done to God; 2. the honour which the men of Judah had done to him.

V.13. But Jeroboam cauſed an ambuſhment] While Abijah was dealing fairly and friendly with Jeroboam, Jeroboam deals treacherouſly with him, and takes advantage from his treating to ſurpriſe him at unawares. The Hebrew word tranſlated ambuſhment is put for a lurking-place, Pſ.10.8. Our Engliſh word ambuſhment implyeth a lying in wait, or a ſudden and unexpected coming upon men. See Joſh.8.2, &c. Judg. 20.33,34.

to come about behind them] This implyeth a ſecret conveying of the ſtratagem.

ſo they were before Judah] The main battalia of the Iſraelites ſtood ſtood face to face before the men of Judah.

and the ambuſhment was behind them] Such as lay in wait to fall upon the rear while the other were in fight.

V.14. And when Judah looked back, behold, the battel was before and behind them] They were compaſſed about by the multitude of their enemies, and that unawares; for they ſaw not them that were behind them till they looked back.

and they cryed unto the Lord] Some underſtand this of an outward clamour and great ſhout which the men of Judah gave as it were with one voyce to affright the enemy. We read of the like done 1 Sam.4.5. But this is afterwards noted to be done by them, v.15. Others underſtand a ſtrong fervency in prayer to the Lord for ſuccour in that dangerous caſe. Thus is this phraſe uſed ch.14.11. Exod.14.15. 1 King.22.32.

and the Prieſts ſounded with the trumpets] To ſtrengthen their faith in the Lords promiſe, Numb.10.9. and to encourage the ſouldiers.

V.15. Then the men of Judah gave a ſhout] The whole Army together hollowed out aloud, and made a great acclamation.

and as the men of Judah ſhouted] Queſtionleſs their hearts were lift up to God together with their loud voyce.

it came to paſs that God ſmote Jeroboam] This word ſmote is oft put for ſlew, 1 King.15.29. 2 King.3.24. & ch.9.24. But as it hath relation to Jeroboam, it implyeth onely an affrighting of him, ſo as to make him flee.

and all Iſrael] i.e. the army of the Iſraelites gathered together in the field. They were affrighted as well as their King, and overthrown.

before Abijah and Judah] Abijah and his army, here called Judah, might purſue the Iſraelites, but it was God that affrighted them and made them flee.

V.16. And the children of Iſrael fled before Judah, &c.] This is an expoſition of what went before.

V.17. So there fell down ſlain of Iſrael five hundred thouſand] So as the men of Judah ſlew more then every one his man. See v.3.

choſen men] See v.3. As the number, ſo the quality of thoſe that were ſlain, much amplifieth the victory.

V.18. Thus the children of Iſrael were brought under at that time] He ſaith at that time, becauſe they gathered ſtrength afterwards, ſo as they maintained war againſt Aſa, 1 King.15.16.

and the children of Judah prevailed, becauſe they relyed upon the Lord] God fails not thoſe who truſt in him.

God of their fathers] See ch.11.16.

V.19. And Abijah purſued after Jeroboam, and took cities from him] This was a point of wiſdome, to follow the advantage he had gotten, and having ſlain many of them that ſtood againſt him, and put others to flight, to ſurpriſe their cities. See Joſh.10.19.

Bethel] There was one of the golden calves ſet up, 1 Kings 12.29.

with the towns thereof] Bethel was a fair city, and ſuch uſed to have towns belonging to them. See 1 Chr.2.23. & 7.28.

and Jeſhanah, &c.] This City was not far from Bethel.

and Ephraim, &c.] Called Ophrah, Joſh. 18.23. It was in Benjamin. Some take it to be that place whereof mention is made Joh. 11.54.

V.20. Neither did Jeroboam recover ſtrength, &c.] See on v.18.

and the Lord ſtrook him, and he dyed] i.e. Jeroboam. Though he lived a year or two after Abijah, 1 King.15.9. yet his death is here ſet down, to conclude his ſtory. This phraſe, the Lord ſtrook him, implyeth that he dyed by a ſpecial hand of God, not by an ordinary death, as 1 Sam.25.38. Ezek.24.16.

V.21. But Abijah waxed mighty] The rather by reaſon of that great conqueſt he got over Jeroboam.

and married fourteen wives] This is not to be reſtrained to the time after he got that victory, nor to the time of his reign (for he reigned but three years, v.2.) but to be extended to the whole time of his life wherein he was marriageable. For he married ſome of theſe wives, if not all of them, in his fathers dayes.

and begat twenty and two ſons, and ſixteen daughters] See ch.11.21.

V.22. And the reſt of the acts of Abijah] See 1 King.11.42.

and his wayes] Or courſe of life.

and his ſayings] This may have reference to his oration v.5,&c. Or it may be he uttered many ſentences that were thought worthy the regiſtring, as his grandfathers Proverbs were, 1 King.4.32,33. & 11.41.

are written in the ſtory] Or commentary, or chronicle.

of the Prophet Iddo] See ch.12.15.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ.1. SO Abijah ſlept with his fathers, &c.] See 1 King.2.10.

And Aſa his ſon reigned in his ſtead] 1 King. 15. 8, &c. Aſa was the third King of Judah after the diviſion. His hiſtory is recorded in this and the two next chapters. In this two things are noted; 1. the proſperous continuing of his reign ten years, to v.9. 2. a memorable victory againſt a mighty enemy, v.9,&c.

ten years] From hence it may be inferred that after ten years there were open wars between him and his enemies. It is not expreſſed what enemies troubled the land before the Cuſhites, v.9. Yet this limitation of peace to ten years implyeth there was ſome other enemy that diſquieted them: for it may be gathered from that which is noted of their offering unto the Lord of the ſpoyl they had taken from their enemies in the fifteenth year of Aſa, ch. 15.10,11. that the Cuſhites were overthrown in that year. There might before that be war betwixt Judah and Iſrael, or betwixt Judah and other nations. Whereas it is ſaid 1 King.15.16. there was war betwixt Aſa and Baaſha all their dayes, it is to be taken of the skirmiſhes on the borders of the Kingdoms, as 1 King. 14.30.

V.2. And Aſa did that which was good,&c.] See 1 Kings 15.11.

V.3. For he took away the altars of the ſtrange gods] Such haply as remained in the cities which his father took from Jeroboam, ch.13. 19. This was according to the Law, Deut.7.5.

and the high places] i.e. idolatrous high places. For others were not put down. See 1 King.15.14. Of high places ſee 1 King 3.4. and brake down the images] Heb. ſtatues. See 1 King.14.23.

and cut down the groves] See 1 King.16.33.

V.4. And commanded Judah] Heb. ſaid to Judah. The matter being about religion, he layeth a command upon his ſubjects, 2 King 10.26.

to ſeek the Lord] See 1 Chr.16.10.

God of their fathers] See ch. 11.16. 1 Chr.29.18,20.

and to do the law and the commandement] See 1 King.2.3.

V.5. Alſo he took away out of all the cities of Judah] This implyeth that the reformation v.3. was of cities of Iſrael.

the high places] See v.3.

and the images] Heb. ſun-images. Some conceive theſe were made in the likeneſſe of an Orb or round Compaſſe with rayes about it, to repreſent the Sun, which ſome accounted to be a God. Others ſay they were made in the ſhape of a man with rayes about his head, to repreſent the Sun, as before. From the word חמן Chaaman it is inferred that it was an image of Jupiter Hammon. It is uſed in the plural number, as ch.34.4,7. Lev.26. Iſa.17.8. & 27. 9. Ezek.6.4,6 By this it appeareth how the people of God followed the faſhions of the heathen.

and the kingdom was quiet] This was the fruit of eſtabliſhing true religion. It may be ſome ſuggeſted unto Aſa that the deſtroying of thoſe things which his predeceſſors had ſet up would cauſe tumults and wars: but contrary to that conceit it is here ſaid, the kingdom was quiet.

before him] He living and ſeeing it.

V.6. And he built] i.e. repaired. See ch.11.6.

fenced cities] Heb. cities of fence. Such as are ſet down ch.11. 6,&c.

in Judah] And Benjamin.

for the land had reſt] See v.1. He made the right uſe of his peace, preparing againſt future danger.

and he had no war in thoſe years] This ſhews in what reſpect the land is ſaid to have reſt.

becauſe the Lord had given him reſt] The peace which kingdoms enjoy is from the Lord, Pſal.46.9.

V.7. Therefore he ſaid unto Judah] He ſtirreth up his ſubjects to do what he thought meet to be done.

Let us build theſe cities] Theſe hath reference to cities then ſtanding; ſo as building muſt be taken for repairing and fortifying.

and make about them walls] Being unwalled before, and ſo open to enemies, for their ſafety he compaſſeth them about with walls.

and towers] Towers uſed to be in the walls of cities, to ſet watchmen thereon to deſcry dangers. See 2 Kings 19.17. They uſed alſo therein to put warlike ammunition to keep off and annoy enemies.

gates and bars] Gates were for paſſage, and to ſhut upon all occaſions of fear. Bars kept the gates being ſhut ſo faſt as they could not eaſily be broken open.

while the land is yet before us] While it is quiet under our government, not ſurpriſed or diſturbed by enemies, but poſſeſſed by our ſelves in peace.

becauſe we have ſought the Lord our God] Prudently and piouſly he aſcribeth to God the peace they had.

we have ſought him, and he hath given us reſt] The aſſurance of what he ſaid before, and his zealous deſire of giving all glory to God, makes him repeat the ſame again.

on every ſide] In every part of the land, from all ſorts of enemies.

ſo they built and proſpered] With good ſucceſs they accompliſhed what they undertook. See 1 Chr.22.11.

V.8. And Aſa had an army of men] Ready prepared on all occaſions to be uſed.

that bare targets and ſpears,&c.] Theſe two particulars are ſynecdochically put for all kind of armour and weapons, offenſive and defenſive, as ch.11.12.

that bare ſhields] Of the difference between Targets and Shields ſee 1 King.10.16,17.

and drew bows, &c] Heb. which trod the bow] See 1 Chr.8.40.

two hundred and fourſcore thouſand] There were as many out of Benjamin as out of Judah within twenty thouſand.

all theſe were mighty men of valour] See ch.13.3.

V.9. And there came out againſt them] The cauſe of this invaſion is not ſet down. Some ſuppoſe it was Aſa's denying to yield that homage and tribute to the King of Egypt which his grandfather covenanted. See ch.12.8.

Zerah the Ethiopian] Or Cuſhite. This Zerah was King of the Cuſhites, who bordered upon Egypt. And either he was at that time alſo King of the Egyptians, or ſo favoured them as to undertake their quarrel.

with an hoſt of a thouſand thouſand] This is the greateſt army we read of in Scripture. See ch.13.3. They had queſtionleſs auxiliaries out of other nations, as the Lubims, ch.16.8. and it may be alſo the Philiſtims. See v.14.

and three hundred chariots] Some here ſupply a thouſand, q.d. three hundred thouſand chariots, becauſe they are ſaid to have had very many chariots and horſemen, ch.16.8.

and came to Mareſhah] A city in Judah, Joſh.15.44. See ch. 11.8. 1 Chron. 4.21. The enemy came to the very land of Judah.

V.10. And Aſa went out againſt him] Prudently did Aſa go out to the confines of his own countrey, to prevent the plundering and ſpoiling of his ſubjects.

and they ſet the battel in array] i.e. the men of Judah. See ch.13.3.

in the valley of Zephathah] See Judg.1.17. It is ſuppoſed this valley was ſufficient for Aſa's army, but ſo ſet with banks and hills on each ſide as the enemy with his exceeding great number could not compaſs him in. Great advantage may be gotten by a fit place to pitch an army in.

at Mareſhah] See v.9.

V.11. And Aſa cryed unto the Lord] See ch.13.14.

his God] This relation was the ground of his fervency.

and ſaid, Lord] He directeth his prayer as it were face to face to God, which implyeth an holy familiarity with him.

it is nothing with thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power] Heb. it is not with thee to help betwixt the mighty and him that hath no power. i.e. There is no difference with God, but to him it is all one to help thoſe that are many in multitude and every way well furniſhed, and to help ſuch as are but few and weak. God is able to ſtrengthen the weak, and to give victory to a ſmall army, as well as to a great one. See 1 Sam.14.6.

help us] Upon the forementioned ground he craves Gods ſuccour.

O Lord our God] He mentioneth this relation to ſtrengthen his faith.

for we reſt on thee] God uſeth not to fail thoſe that place their whole truſt in him: This therefore Aſa here pleads. See ch.16.8.

and in thy name] Some hence gather that God being conſulted did encourage Aſa and the men of Judah to go againſt that great army, as in a like caſe he encouraged David, 1 Chr.14.10. This phraſe in thy name further implyeth that they went forth for Gods glory, calling upon him, and truſting in his aid, as 1 Sam.17.45. See 2 King.2.24.

we go againſt this multitude] Faith in God encourageth againſt the greateſt armies.

O Lord thou art our God] His faith riſeth from degree to degree. Firſt he uſed this title Lord; then, with addition of a particular relation, O Lord our God; laſtly, with a confident aſſeveration of the ſame, O Lord thou art our God. See 1 Chr.17.27.

let not man prevail againſt thee] The word tranſlated man ſignifieth a mortall, weak, miſerable man. Thus he ſpeaketh to ſtrengthen his own faith and the faith of his army againſt the enemy, and withall to imply that it would be a diſhonour to God for ſuch an one to prevail.

V.12. So the Lord ſmote the Ethiopians before Aſa and before Judah] As he ſmote Jeroboam and all Iſrael, ch.13.15.

and the Ethiopians fled] They who are affrighted by God cannot ſtand. See ch.13.16.

V.13. And Aſa and the people that were with him] i.e. his army.

purſued them] See ch.13.19.

unto Gerar] A city of the Philiſtims, Gen.20.1.

and the Ethiopians were overthrown, that they could not recover themſelves] Heb. there was no reviving to them. So many were ſlain, and the reſt ſo routed, as they could not rally again nor make a head to ſtand againſt their enemies.

for they were deſtroyed] Heb. broken. They came in a great body with all their forces united, but they were as it were pull'd aſunder limb from limb.

before the Lord] God was with the men of Judah for their captain, as ch.13.12. and in that reſpect the Ethiopians were deſtroyed before him.

and before his hoſt] Being Gods people, and going out in Gods name, v.11. they are counted Gods hoſt.

and they carried away very much ſpoil] i.e. Aſa and his people. Their enemies brought much treaſure with them, as Jehoſhaphats did, 2 Chr.20.25. but they were forced to leave it behind them, ſo as the men of Judah took it away.

V.14. And they ſmote all the cities round about Gerar] It is very probable that the men of Gerar and the Philiſtims round about aided the Ethiopians; and ſo Judah might well account them their enemies, and deal with their cities accordingly. By ſmiting the cities is meant a deſtruction of their inhabitants.

for the fear of the Lord came upon them] i.e. a great terrour which the Lord caſt into their minds, wherewith they were exceedingly affrighted, ſo as they durſt no longer ſtand againſt the men of Judah. So ch.17.10. & 20.29. Gen.35.5.

and they ſpoiled all the cities] Took what was worth carrying away.

for there was exceeding much ſpoil in them] It is probable that the Ethiopians laid up their treaſures in Gerar and the cities thereabouts: and ſo the goods that the Philiſtims themſelves had in their cities, and that which the Ethiopians brought thither muſt needs afford very much ſpoil to the Conquerour.

V.15. They ſmote alſo the tents of cattel] The Arabians bordered on the Philiſtims, and ſo might be moved to joyn with them in aiding the Ethiopians. They dwelt in tents, which they might remove from place to place, and find out good paſture for their cattel whereof they had great ſtore: for they lived upon breeding and fatting catel. See 1 Chr.4.41. Theſe affording aid to Iudahs enemies, Iudah had juſt cauſe to ſpoil their tents, and take away their cattel.

and carried away ſheep and camels in abundance] Under theſe two kinds all other cattel that uſe to be kept on paſture are compriſed, as Oxen, Kine, Calves, Goats, Kids, &c.

and returned to Jeruſalem] There to divide the ſpoil, and to render praiſe to God. See ch.20.27.

CHAP. XV.

Verſ.1. AND the Spirit of God came upon Azariah] This phraſe is uſed of ſuch as have ſome extraordinary inſpiration, revelation, gift or grace conferred upon them, and that for ſome ſpecial employment: And it is oft ſpoken of wicked men and hypocrites as well as of pious men. See Numb.24.2. 1 Sam. 10.10. Judg.14.6, 19. See ch.20.14. ch.24.20.

the ſon of Obed] See v.8. & ch.9.29.

V.2. And he went out to meet Aſa] Heb. before Aſa. As Aſa was coming to Ieruſalem, ch.14.15. with a great aſſembly of his ſubjects, this Prophet came before his face, and thereupon may well be ſaid to meet him.

and ſaid unto him] God having given a great evidence of his fatherly care over Iudah, not onely by long peace, ch.14.1. but alſo by a great victory, ch.4.12. a Prophet by divine inſpiration ſtirs them up to make a right uſe of thoſe mercies by cleaving to the Lord, and renewing their covenant with him.

Hear ye me] By this Preface he ſtirreth up their attention to what he ſhould ſay.

Aſa, and all Juda and Benjamin] This phraſe implyeth that there was a very great aſſembly, partly of thoſe who returned from the victory, and partly of thoſe who went out to congratulate them. The Prophet ſpeaks to them all.

the Lord is with you] Preſent among you, to take care of you, to provide for you, to protect you, and every way to do you good. See v.9. ch.13.12. & 32.8. & 36.23. 1 King.8.57. 1 Chr.22.18.

while you be with him] While you carry your ſelves as in his preſence, fear him, ſerve him, truſt in him.

and if ye ſeek him, he will be found of you] See v.15.& 1 Chr.28.9.

but if ye forſake him] See 1 Chr.28.9.

he will forſake you] See 2 King.21.14.

V.3. Now for a long ſeaſon] This hath reference to the ten tribes firſt revolt from the houſe of David, and from the houſe of God and all his ordinances. And compare ch.12.13. & 13.2. & 14.1. and you find thirty years from the Diviſion till this time.

Iſrael] the ten tribes that revolted, 1 King.12.16.

hath been without the true God] They ſet up idols inſtead of the true God, 1 King.12.28. See Judg.5.8.

and without a teaching Prieſt] The ſons of Aaron, who were the onely true Prieſts, were ſo trained up in the law of God as they could well teach and inſtruct the people therein. But theſe were caſt off by the ten tribes, ch.11.14. and in their ſtead they choſe the meaneſt of the people, very Ignaro's, 1 King. 12. 31. & 13.33.

and without law] They alſo caſt out the Levites that ſhould have inſtructed them in the Law. ch.11.14. neither regarded they any of the ordinances of the Law.

V.4. But when they in their trouble did turn unto the Lord] We do not read that the Iſraelites after their revolt did ever turn unto the Lord: but this is here to be taken by way of ſuppoſition, If they had turned, as Deut 4.29. or it muſt be referred to the times before their apoſtaſie. In the book of the Judges we have many inſtances of Iſraels turning to the Lord in their trouble, Judg.3.9, 15.& 10.10,16. 1 Sam.7.4, &c.

God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

and ſought him, he was found of them] See v.2.

V.5. And in thoſe times there was no peace] For beſides the war that the ten tribes had with other nations there was war betwixt Jeroboam and Rehoboam all their dayes, 1 King.14.30. ſo alſo betwixt Jeroboam and Abijah, ch.13.2, &c. and betwixt Aſa and Baſha, 2 Kin. 15.16. See Judg.5.6.7.

to him that went out, nor to him that came in] Which way ſoever a man went, either abroad or homewards, he was in great danger, and ſubject to many troubles.

but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countreys] Many troubles befell the Iſraelites whereſoever they were in any of their tribes, and thoſe ſuch as much vexed and perplexed their ſpirits.

V.6. And nation was deſtroyed] Heb. beaten to pieces. For in wars and all manner of diſſenſions men do what they can to pull one another in pieces.

of nation] Nation is put for Kingdom; Kingdom did riſe againſt Kingdom. Iſrael roſe againſt Judah in Rehoboams time, ch. 10. 16. and Judah againſt Iſrael in Abijahs time, ch.13.2, &c. Beſides forrain enemies might annoy them.

and city of city] When there was no general war againſt the nation, the bordering cities of each nation annoyed one another.

for God did vex them with all adverſity] God is the principal author of judgements, though men be the inſtruments, Iſa.10.5,6. Am.3.6.

V.7. Be ye ſtrong therefore] Judgements on thoſe that forſake the Lord ſhould move us to be couragious in removing corruptions, and renewing our covenant with God. See of this phraſe be ye ſtrong 1 Chr.22.13.

and let not your hands be weak] The hands are the chief inſtruments whereby men do this or that; and if they be weak, nothing can be well done. But this is metaphorically to be taken and applyed to the mind. Hereby the Prophet dehorteth them from being fearful, or negligent, or too much dejected, 2 Sam.4.1. Heb. 12.12.

for your work ſhall be rewarded] It is a great encouragement to ſtir up a mans ſpirit and make him diligent, to know that his labour ſhall not be loſt, 1 Cor.15.58. The reward here promiſed is not upon deſert or merit, but upon Gods free grace and mercy.

V.8. And when Aſa heard theſe words] It appears he diligently heeded them, in that he was careful to make a right uſe of them.

and the prophecy of Oded the Prophet] This queſtionleſſe hath reference to the prophecy immediately going before. Indeed it is v. 1. that Azariah the ſon of Oded was the man who uttered that prophecy. But he might have two names, Azariah, & Oded. The ſame name might be given to the father and the ſon, and both called Oded. See the like 1 Chr.18.16. Or ſome former prophecy might be uttered by Oded the father, and this have relation thereunto. Or it may refer to Ahijahs Prophecy, 1 King.14.10, &c. which Oded wrote and put into the Chronicles; in which reſpect it may be called the Prophecy of Oded.

he took courage] He gathered his ſpirits together, and laid aſide all fear of danger that might follow upon reformation.

and put away the abominable idols] Heb. abominations. We read of great reformation before made by Aſa, ch.14.3,4,5. But it appeareth by this, that all abominations were not taken away. He now ſearcheth more narrowly from houſe to houſe, and redreſſeth many things that lay hid before. So did Jacob, Gen. 35.2,3,5. Of abominations ſee 1 King.11.5. 2 King.23.24.

out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin] Of theſe he had an eſpecial care, becauſe they had never revolted.

and out of the cities which he had taken from mount Ephraim] i.e. the cities which his father took, ch.13.19. & 17.2. or other cities which himſelf had taken.

and renewed the altar of the Lord] i.e. the great brazen Altar in the Prieſts Court; whereon fire being kept continually, Lev.6.12. and every day ſacrifices offered, could not but in time decay, and need reparation. Aſa therefore renewing his covenant with God ſolemnly, and intending to offer a great ſacrifice, v.11. repaired and beautified that altar. And herein he ſhewed a mind ſeaſoned with piety and inflamed with zeal.

that was before the porch of the Lord] See ch. 8.12. 1 Kings 8.22.

V.9. And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin] Beſides thoſe compriſed under this phraſe v.2. he ſent up and down throughout theſe two tribes to aſſemble his ſubjects unto that ſolemn covenant which he intended, v.12.

and the ſtrangers with them] Such of the ten tribes as were in Judah after the revolt were counted ſtrangers: For they ſeparated themſelves from the houſe of David and kingdom of Judah, yea, they forſook the true religion, and ſerved idols, and ſubjected themſelves to other Kings and other laws. See ch.30.25.

out of Ephraim and Manaſſeh] Under theſe two tribes are compriſed the other tribes that revolted.

and out of Simeon] The greater part of Simeon was within the compaſs of Judah, Joſh.19. and held with the houſe of David. See 1 King.11.13. But that part which bordered on Iſrael revolted with the reſt. Of theſe there came many, and joyned themſelves to Judah, and theſe are here called ſtrangers out of Simeon.

for they fell to him out of Iſrael in abundance] They voluntarily left their own habitations, and came to Judah, as others before them had done at the firſt revolt, ch.11.16.

when they ſaw that the Lord his God was with him] They ſaw this by the continuing of the Kingdom of Judah in Davids line, by the great victory his father had got over the Iſraelites, ch.13.17. and by that which himſelf had got over the Ethiopians, and by that long peace he had enjoyed; hereby they knew that the true God whom he worſhipped did proſper and bleſs him. On the other ſide they obſerved how Jeroboam, that forſook the Lord, never proſpered, but that he and his whole poſterity was at this time clean rooted out. This reaſon ſheweth that they were not forced to come to Judah, but that piety and the fear of God brought them.

V.10. So they gathered themſelves together at Jeruſalem] i.e. thoſe mentioned v.9. The King having ſent for them, they readily come and aſſembled together at the great city where the Temple was.

in the third moneth] Anſwering in part to our May, and in part to June. In it the great feaſt of Weeks, commonly called Pentecoſt, was celebrated, wherein all the males were to appear before the Lord, Exod.23.14,16. Deut 16.16. This moved the King the rather to ſend for them, and them to come to Jeruſalem.

in the fifteenth year of the reign of Aſa] This was anon after the great victory over the Ethiopians. So as they came long after thoſe ten years mentioned ch.14.1.

V.11. And they offered unto the Lord the ſame time] Heb. in that day. Whereon they were aſſembled together, the day of Pentecoſt.

of the ſpoyl which they had brought] There was a law, that when Gods people had obtained a victory over their enemies, part of the ſpoyl ſhould be given to the Lord for offerings, Numb.31.28, &c. See 1 Chr.26.27,28. Saul makes this a pretenſe of his keeping the cattel which he brought from the Amalekites, 1 Sam. 15.15.

ſeven hundred oxen, and ſeven thouſand ſheep] This conſidered in it ſelf was a very great offering, but a very ſmall one, if compared unto that 1 King.8.63. This gave great evidence of their pious and zealous and thankful ſpirits.

V.12. And they entred into a covenant] To bind themſelves more firmly to a due ſerving of the Lord. See 2 King.11.4. to ſeek the Lord] To call upon his name, to worſhip and ſerve him, to depend on him, to cleave cloſe unto him. All duties of piety are compriſed under this phraſe. See 1 Chr.16.10. Iſa.55.6.

ſhould be put to death] This is not to be taken of every failing in that duty of Seeking the Lord, but of an obſtinate refuſal to be ſubject to him, and of ſeeking to other Gods. This was according to the Law, Deut.13.9.

whether ſmall or great, whether man or woman] There muſt be no partiality in executing judgement, Deut. 13.6. & 33.9. nor reſpect of perſons in his cauſe who reſpecteth no perſon, Deut. 10.7.

V.14. And they ſware unto the Lord] To make the covenant more inviolable on their part. For an oath is a curb to conſcience. This oath was an imprecation againſt themſelves if they ſhould break the covenant, as Neh.5.13. The Jews were wont, when they made a ſolemn covenant, to cut a beaſt in ſunder, and one part being laid on one ſide and the other on the other, to paſs betwixt thoſe parts; implying thereby that they deſired to be dealt with as that beaſt was if they did not keep their covenant. See Gen. 15.10. Jer. 34.18.

with a loud voyce] Not whiſperingly, as if they feared, or were aſhamed of the matter, and would not have others to know it; but audibly and boldly, ſo as they would have all to take notice of it.

and with ſhouting] This was a loud joyning of their voyces together, which ſouldiers uſe in war to affright their enemies. See ch. 13.15. 1 Chr.15.28.

and with trumpets, and with cornets] Of Trumpets ſee 1 Chr.13.8. of Cornets, 1 Chr.15.28. Theſe were expreſſions of much cheerfulneſſe and joyfulneſſe in what they did, v.15. 2 Sam.6.15. Ezra 3.11.

V.15. And all Judah rejoyced at the Oath] They were ſo far from backwardneſs in binding themſelves to God as they rejoyced therein.

for they had ſworn with all their heart] Without any diſſimulation or by-reſpect. That which cometh from the heart is willingly and cheerfully done.

and ſought him] See v.12.

with their whole deſire] It was not other mens perſwaſions, not outward motives, but the inward motion of their own ſpirit, and deſire of their own hearts that ſtirred them up to that which is here ſet down.

and he was found of them] The Lord heard their prayers, granted their deſires, accepted what they did, and proſpered their endeavours. See v.2. Iſa.55.6.

and the Lord gave them reſt round about] i.e. peace. After the Ethiopians were overthrown they had no more war, neither with the Iſraelites, nor with any other nation.

V.16. And alſo concerning Maachah, &c.] See 1 King.15.13.

and Aſa cut down her idol, and ſtamped it, &c.] This he did out of his great indignation againſt ſuch an abomination. See 1 Kings 15.13.

V.17. But the high places were not taken away out of Iſrael] Iſrael is here put for Judah, as ch.12.12. See ch.15.3,5.

V.18. And he brought into the houſe of God &c.] See 1 King.15.15.

V.19. And there was no more war] Or, there had been no war. i.e. betwixt Judah and Iſrael in Aſa's time. q.d. Till this year the king of Iſrael made no war againſt Judah. For this hath relation to ch.16.1. where it is ſaid that the king of Iſrael came up againſt Judah.

unto the five and thirtieth year] This account muſt begin from the diviſion betwixt Iſrael and Judah, and ſo this be taken not of the five and thirtieth but fifteenth year of Aſa's reign. See ch.16.1. That this was the five and thirtieth year from the Diviſion, is thus evident; Rehoboam, at the beginning of whoſe reign the Diviſion began, ch.10.1, &c. reigned ſeventeen years, ch.12.13. Abijah three years, ch.13.2. to theſe add fifteen years of Aſa his reign, and the five and thirty years will be made up. There is a like computation from the beginning of the Diviſion, ch.22.2.

of the reign of Aſa] Or, in the reign of Aſa. This acception of the prepoſition helpeth the former expoſition.

came to Aſa king of Judah, and ſaid unto him] Faithful Prophets dare come even to Kings to tell them the Lords mind.

Becauſe thou haſt relyed on the king of Syria] For children of God to place their confidence on men, on thoſe eſpecially who are out of the Church, is highly diſpleaſing to God.

and not relyed on the Lord] Confidence on man draweth away our confidence on God, Iſa.31.2.

thy God] This ſpecial relation betwixt God and Aſa aggravated his diffidence.

therefore is the hoſt of the king of Syria eſcaped out of thine hand] This may have reference to that which might have fallen out. If the King of Syria had come againſt Judah, being in league with Baaſha, God would have delivered both thoſe Kings into his hands, as he did Zera the Ethiopian, ch. 14.14. But Aſa by making an agreement with Benhadad prevented that occaſion, and ſo ſuffered Benhadad to eſcape out of his hands. Or it may have reference to Benhadads falſe play and deceitful dealing with Aſa. For howſoever at this time he hearkened to Aſa, yet after this, when Baaſha annoyed Aſa, he offorded him no ſuccour at all. In this ſenſe this phraſe, the king of Syria eſcaped out of thine hand, implieth thus much, He is ſo gone as in future diſtreſſe he ſhall afford thee no help. The Syrians were ſuch implacable enemies of Iſrael and Judah as it had been far better for Aſa to have ſtood out at diſtance then to have ſought friendſhip with them. For this therefore is Aſa juſtly reproved.

whoſe heart is perfect towards him] Who are upright and ſincere in heart. See 1 King.8.61. Hereby the Prophet implyeth that the heart of Aſa was not perfect, at leaſt in that for which he is reproved. See 1 King.15.14.

Herein haſt thou done fooliſhly] Like a fool, that conſidereth not what may afterwards fall out, but only doteth upon the preſent. See 1 Chr.21.8.

therefore from henceforth thou ſhalt have wars] That which is noted 1 King.15.32. that there was war between Aſa and Baaſha all their dayes, verifieth this threatning.

V.10. Then Aſa was wroth with the Seer] This manifeſteth great corruption in Aſa's heart. See ch. 26. 19. His ſon Jehoſhaphat made a better uſe of Jehu's reproof, ch.19.2, &c. This epithet Seer much aggravateth Aſa's ſin. See 2 King.17.13.

and put him in a priſon-houſe] Heb. he gave him to the houſe of ſubverſion. Some expound it a noyſom priſon, a priſon wherein ſuch were laid as could expect nothing but death. Others take it to be a priſon wherein he was manicled and fettered. He was dealt with as Jer. 20. 2. & 29.26. This Hebrew word is uſed in thoſe two places. The King dealt with him as with a traitor. So dealt Ahab with Micaiah, ch. 18.26.

for he was in a rage with him becauſe of this thing] The reaſon why Hanani the Seer was ſo dealt withall, was not any deſert on his part, but the undue wrath and fury of the King. Great men will not endure to be told of their faults.

And Aſa oppreſſed] Heb. cruſhed, or trampled upon.

ſome of the people the ſame time] His cruelty extended to all ſorts; he was impious againſt God, and injurious to men. This was a great fall.

V.11. And behold, the acts of Aſa, firſt and laſt] Before his fall and after. See ch.12.15.

lo, they are written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael] They are briefly ſet down in ſacred Scripture, as 1 King. 15.9,&c. and largely in civil Chronicles; in the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah, becauſe he was a King thereof; and of the Kings of Iſrael, becauſe he had much to do with the Kings of Iſrael.

V.12. And Aſa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign] This was many years after his making a league with Benhadad, v.2,3.

was diſeaſed in his feet] He was troubled with the gout, which in the extremity thereof is very painfull.

yet in his diſeaſe he ſought not to the Lord] He neither turned to the Lord by unfeigned repentance, nor called upon him for help, nor ſought to know his will by any of his Prophets. See 1 Chron. 10. 14.

but to the Phyſicians] It is lawful to uſe the skill of Phyſicians, and to ſeek for help by their means; but ſo as we depend on the Lord for his bleſſing on the means. Aſa committed two ſins; He was too careleſſe and negligent of the Lord, and too confident in man. Theſe he committed before, v. 2, 7. As in war, ſo in ſickneſſe, he put too little confidence in God, too much in man.

V.13. And Aſa ſlept with his fathers] See 1 King.2.10.

and died in the one and fourtieth year of his reign] This was the longeſt time that any King hitherto had reigned; onely two after him reigned longer then he, namely Uzziah, whoſe end was much like Aſa's, ch.26.26. and Manaſſeh, ch.33.1.

It was denied to wicked Jehoram, ch. 21. 19. but afforded to Zedekiah, Jer.34.5. though he dyed in a ſtrange land: For he was their laſt King. It may be this was done by thoſe that ſurvived Aſa, in memorial of his former acts, and the good things that he had done for Judah. Or it may be that at length he repented, and out of a good reſpect to him thereupon was thus honoured. Or this might be done by ſome ſpecial friends and favourites of his; or by his own appointment before his death.

CHAP. XVII.

Verſ.1. A*Nd Jehoſhaphat his ſon reigned in his ſtead*] 1 King.15. 24. Jehoſhaphat was the fourth King of Judah from the Diviſion, the fifth from David, the beſt ſince the Diviſion. His hiſtory is related in this and the three next chapters. In this his care in reforming Religion and ſetling his Kingdome is ſet down.

and ſtrengthened himſelf againſt Iſrael] Ahab reigned in Iſrael when Jehoſhaphat began his reign, 1 Kings 22.41. and he was a mighty Prince; yet we read not that he did any hoſtile act againſt Judah, but yielded to joyn affinity with Jehoſhaphat, ch. 18.1. It is probable that he ſaw the Kingdom of Judah too ſtrong for him to oppoſe. Jehoſhaphat is here ſaid to ſtrengthen himſelf, by preparing warlike proviſion againſt all attempts that the men of Iſrael might make againſt him. Some apply this word Iſrael to ſuch as out of the ten tribes had ſubjected themſelves to the Kingdom of Judah, ch. 15.9. yea, and to other of his own ſubjects: He ſetled his dominion ſo ſtrongly over them as he held them firm unto him.

V.2. And he placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah] He put ſouldiers and needful ammunition in them. See v.19. ch.11.6,&c.

and ſet gariſons in the land of Juda] i.e. Governours with companies of ſouldiers, throughout the whole land; in other places, as well as in fenced cities.

and in the cities of Ephraim which Aſa his father had taken] See ch. 15.8.

V.3. And the Lord was with Jehoſhaphat] See ch.15.2.

becauſe he walked in the firſt wayes of his father David] Or, in the wayes of David, and in the firſt wayes of his father. The former reading hath relation to thoſe times of David wherein he kept himſelf free from ſuch ſcandalous crimes as he fell into in his latter time, as his Adultery with Uriahs wife, his Murdering of Uriah, and his Numbring of the people. In the latter reading relation is had to Aſa's former times, before he made a league with Benhadad, ch. 16.2,&c.

and ſought not unto Baalim] Of Baal properly taken ſee 1 Kings 16.32. Here it is indefinitely taken for any manner of idol. Jehoſhaphat gave not himſelf to any manner of idolatry.

V.4. But ſought to the Lord] See ch.15.4.

God of his fathers] fathers may have reference to David, mentioned v.3. or to Aſa, who in his former time did that which was good and right in the eyes of the Lord his God, ch.14.2. And it is an amplification of his piety, that he was a pious ſon of a pious father.

and walked in his commandements] He made Gods commandments the rule of his life. See 1 Kings 2.3.

and not after the doings of Iſrael] As this hath relation to the idolatry of Iſrael in worſhipping the golden calves, 1 King.12.28,&c. ſo alſo to other evil practiſes of theirs, 1 Kings 12.31,&c. & 14.9.

V.5. Therefore the Lord ſtabliſhed the kingdom] See 1 King.2.12.

in his hand] Under his government, while he ſat upon the throne and ſwayed the ſcepter.

and all Judah] i.e. all the ſubjects of Jehoſhaphat.

brought] Heb. gave. What they did they did freely.

to Jehoſhaphat preſents] As ſtrangers uſed to ſend preſents to ſuch Kings as they honoured, 1 King.4.21. ſo alſo did natives and proper ſubjects, in teſtimony of their grateful, cheerful and joyful ſubjection. See the contrary 1 Sam.10.27.

and he had riches and honour in abundance] Theſe were bleſſings which God conferred on Solomon, as an abundant remuneration of his pious petition, 1 King.3.9,13.

V.6. And his heart was lift up] i. e. was encouraged. It was not puffed up with vain-glory and ſelf-conceit by reaſon of his honour and riches, as the heart of Hezekiah was, ch. 32. 25. but it was made free, cheerfull, undaunted.

in the wayes of the Lord] In doing ſuch things as God required, and were pleaſing and acceptable to him. This he counted his higheſt honour, and in that reſpect may be ſaid to be lift up.

moreover he took away the high places and groves out of Judah] We read how Aſa twice made ſuch a reformation, ch.14.5. & 15.8,16. therefore there were ſome high places and groves that he overſlipped, or elſe the people being too much addicted unto them ſet up ſuch things again in his latter years, eſpecially after he fell into his diſeaſe, ch.16.12. Of high places ſee 1 Kin.3.4. of groves, 1 Kin. 16.33. of the different kinds of high places, ch.14.5. & 15.17.

V.7. Alſo in the third year of his reign] It ſeems the reformation before mentioned was before his third year, ſo as he began betimes.

he ſent to his Princes] Or, with his Princes. According to the former reading theſe Princes were ſuch as were Governours in ſeveral places of the land. According to the latter they were ſuch as were about the Court whom the King judged to be able and faithful in that whereabout he ſent them. Hereupon ſome read it thus, He ſent his Princes.

even to Ben-hail, &c.] Here are five Princes reckoned by name.

to teach in the cities of Judah] i.e. to command and admoniſh in the Kings name all the people that were up and down in the cities of Judah, to hearken to thoſe inſtructions that the Prieſts and Levites ſhould give them concerning the law of God, and anſwerably carry themſelves: ſo as theſe Princes were ſent, or ſent unto, to make way for the Prieſts and Levites by their authority.

V.8. And with them he ſent Levites] Levites and Prieſts were in their turns among the people in cities and countries, to inſtruct and teach them, as well as do the ſervices of the temple. Levites were to read and expound the law, Neh.8.7.

even Shemaiah, &c. Here are nine Levites ſet down by name, as there were five Princes, v.7.

and with them Eliſhama, and Jehoram, Prieſts] Prieſts alſo were ſent to reſolve doubts, and to decide controverſies, Deut.17.8,9. Mal.2.7.

V.9. And they taught in Judah] In thoſe ſeveral places whither they were ſent, and where there was need.

and had the book of the law of the Lord with them] That they might thereby demonſtrate the truth of what they taught, and ſhew the very text to ſuch as made any queſtion about any thing. See Act.17.11.

and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people] This explains the general noted in the beginning of the verſe.

V.10. And the fear of the Lord] See ch.14.14.

fell] Heb. was.

upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah] For they might beſt hear of the goodneſs of the Lord towards Jehoſhaphat, and of his mighty power in protecting him; yea, and of that great reſpect which all his ſubjects ſhewed him, and of the ſtrong defences that he had made in his land.

ſo that they made no war againſt Jehoſhaphat] Where God ſtriketh mens hearts with terrour, they dare not ſtir nor make any oppoſition. See Gen.35.5.

V.11. Alſo ſome of the Philiſtims] Theſe were moſt deadly enemies of the Iſraelites.

brought Jehoſhaphat preſents] See 1 King.4.21. This they did out of deſire of his friendſhip, and in teſtimony of their homage.

and tribute-ſilver] For Aſa had ſubdued a great part of them, ch. 14.14.

and the Arabians brought him flocks] Theſe alſo were ſubdued by Aſa, ch.14.15. Their chief calling being to feed cattel, they brought ſuch preſents and tribute to him.

ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred rams, and ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred he-goats] Theſe were fit both for meat and for ſacrifices; for they were all clean cattel. See the like of Moab, 2 King. 3. 4.

V.12. And Jehoſhaphat waxed great exceedingly] Heb. he was going and encreaſing. He encreaſed more and more. This word great is here to be taken in a large extent, great in riches and honour, v.5. great in power, v.13,&c. great in name and eſteem, v.5.11.

and he built in Judah caſtles] Or, palaces. Fair, ſtrong places.

and cities of ſtore] Places for ammunition and proviſion.

V.13. And he had much buſineſs in the cities of Judah] He took great care himſelf and ſet others on work about ſuch things as might be fit for a Kingdom in times of peace and war.

and the men of war] See 1 King 9.22. 1 Chr.12.8.

mighty men of valour] See 1 Chr.5.24.& 7.7.

were in Jeruſalem] This was the greateſt city of the Kingdom, and the ſafeſt place for the King: Here was the Temple, here was the Kings court, where he and his chief Princes did moſt reſide, and therefore here were ſuch men placed.

V.14. And theſe are the numbers of them] All made up eleven hundred and threeſcore thouſand. See v.18. & ch.13.3.

according to the houſe of their fathers] See 1 Chr.5.13,24.

of Judah, the captains of thouſands, Adnah the chief] Or, in Judah, of the captains of thouſands, Adnah the chief. He was above all thoſe that are hereafter named.

and with him mighty men of valour three hundred thouſand] All theſe were under his command, whether Officers or Souldiers.

V.15. And next to him] Heb. at his hand. He that is next to one is at his hand.

was Jehohanan the captain, and with him two hundred and fourſcore thouſand] Theſe were ſuch as in the general are deſcribed v.13,14. mighty men of valour.

V.16. And next him was Amaſiah the ſon of Zichri] Zichri was a man of note: for honour therefore is he ſet down.

who willingly offered himſelf unto the Lord] Of his own accord, cheerfully and readily he put himſelf on to fight the battels of the Lord, or to do ſervice for the honour of God and ſafety of Gods people. Some expound it that he devoted himſelf a Nazarite to the Lord; and the Hebrew word may bear as much.

and with him two hundred thouſand mighty men of valour] See v. 13,14.

V.17. And of Benjamin] The former Commanders and companies were of Judah; thoſe that follow, of Benjamin; in which two tribes ſtood Jeruſalem, wherein all theſe companies were, v.13.

Eliada a mighty man of valour, and with him armed men with bow and ſhield, &c.] With offenſive and defenſive weapons. The Benjamites were very well exerciſed in the bow, ch.14.8. 1 Chr.12.2.

V.18. And next him was Jehozabad, and with him, &c.] Theſe were the laſt company. All the number of Benjamin was three hundred and fourſcore thouſand; of Judah ſeven hundred and fourſcore thouſand. See v.14.

ready prepared for the war] As they were trained up in military diſcipline and fit for war, ſo were they alwayes well furniſhed to be ſent forth to the war upon any occaſion.

Theſe waited on the King] It is not probable that ſo many thouſands ſhould continually attend on the King, or be together at Jeruſalem; but in courſes they came thither, ſome at one time, ſome at another.

beſides thoſe whom the king put in the fenced cities throughout all Judah] V.2

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſ.1. N*Ow Jehoſhaphat had riches and honour in abundance*] See ch.17.5,12. In this chapter a great fault of Jehoſhaphat, who was much commended ch.17. is ſet down, namely his helping of the ungodly, ch.19.2.

and joyned affinity with Ahab] i.e. Jehoram Jehoſhaphats ſon married Athaliah Ahabs daughter, 2 King.8.18.

V.2. And after certain years] Heb. at the end of years. i.e. ſuch as were paſſed over from the beginning of the league betwixt Jehoſhaphat and Ahab. Now this was the laſt year of Ahabs riegn and life, v.34. and about the ſeventh of Jehoſhaphats reign. See 1 King.22.51.

he went down to Ahab to Samaria] Upon complement to teſtifie his reſpect to him, and to continue the league and amity. Hereupon Ahab took occaſion to require his aſſiſtance in the following war.

and Ahab killed ſheep and oxen for him in abundance] This he did to ſhew how welcom Jehoſhaphat was, and the more to endear himſelf unto him. Friends uſe to teſtifie their mutual good reſpect by feaſting one another.

and for the people that he had with him] Jehoſhaphat came as a King, in royal eſtate and great pomp, as the Queen of Sheba did, 1 King. 10.2. And by that which follows it appears that he came accompanied with bands of ſouldiers. Therefore that all his train might be liberally entertained, it was requiſite that Ahab ſhould kill abundance of ſheep and oxen.

and perſwaded him to go up with him] Ahab by his royal entertaining of Jehoſhaphat and his fair ſpeech worketh on him, and prevaileth with him to do what he deſired.

to Ramoth Gilead] See 1 King.22.3. where this ſtory is ſet down almoſt word for word as it is here.

V.3. And Ahab king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat King of Judah] As their names ſo their kingdoms are diſtinguiſhed: Which at this time differed in religion, though they were of all the poſterity of Jacob.

Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-Gilead?] This queſtion he propounds to try Jehoſhaphats mind to him.

and he anſwered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people] 1 King.22.4 is added, my horſes as thy horſes.

and we will be with thee in the war] We wil be aſſiſtant unto thee, and as helpful as if we were thine own ſubjects.

V.4. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid,&c.] See 1 King.22.5.

V.5. four hundred men] Or, about four hundred men, 1 King. 22.6.

Shall we go to Ramoth, &c.] Or, Shall I go againſt Ramoth, 1 King. 22.6.

V. 6. Is there not here a Prophet of the Lord beſides] Heb. yet, or more. Though there were many Prophets, yet Jehoſhaphat asked if there were not any more; not ſimply, as if he thought four hundred not enough, but becauſe he diſcerned they were idolatrous Prophets, and thereupon ſuſpected their anſwer, and would therefore be informed by another kind of Prophet, even a Prophet of the true God Jehovah.

that we might enquire of him] See 1 King.22.7.

V.7. There is yet one man, &c.] His name and parentage is ſet down 1 King.22.8. Micaiah the ſon of Imlah.

but alwayes evil] Heb. all his dayes.

the ſame is Micaiah the ſon of Jimlah] Here is ſupplyed his name and parentage, which was before omitted.

And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo] See 1 King.22.8.

and ſaid, Fetch quickly, &c.] Heb. Haſten. See 1 King.22.9.

V.9. And the king of Iſrael, &c.] See 1 King.22.10.

V. 10. With theſe thou ſhalt puſh Syria] Or, the Syrians, 1 Kings 22.11, untill they be conſumed] Heb. untill thou conſume them. Or, untill thou have conſumed them.

V.12. And the meſſenger that went, &c.] See King.22.13.

V.13. Even what my God ſaith,&c.] Or, what the Lord ſaith, 1 King. 22.14.

V. 14. And when he was come to the king, &c.] See 1 Kings 22.15.

ſhall we go to Ramoth-Gilead, &c.] Or, ſhall we go againſt Ramoth-Gilead, 1 King. 22.15.

or ſhall I forbear?] Or, ſhall we forbear?

And he ſaid, Go ye up, and proſper] Or, Go, and proſper, in the ſingular number, 1 King.22.15.

and they ſhall be delivered into your hand] Or, for the Lord ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king, 1 King.22.15.

V.15,16. And the King ſaid, &c.] See 1 King.22.16,17.

V.17. but evil] Or, but for evil.

V.18. Again he ſaid, &c.] i.e. Micaiah.

ſtanding,&c.] Or, ſtanding by him, &c. 1 Kings 22.19.

V.19. Who ſhall entice] Or, Who ſhall perſwade, or deceive, 1 King. 22.20. The ſame Hebrew word is in both places. So v.20,21.

V.21. Then there came out, &c.] See 1 King.22.21,22.

V.22. Of theſe thy Prophets, &c.] of all theſe thy Prophets, 1 Kings 22.23.

againſt thee] Or, concerning thee, 1 King.22.23.

V.23,24,25. Then Zedekiah,&c.] See 1 King.22.24,25,26.

V.26. until I return in peace] until I come in peace, 1 King.22.27.

V.27. If thou certainly return in peace, &c. Or, If thou return at all in peace, 1 King.22.28. The Hebrew word is doubled, If returning thou return. See 1 King.8.13.

Hearken all ye people] Or, Hearken, O people, every one of you, 1 King. 22.28. The Hebrew is the ſame.

V.28. So the king of Iſrael,&c. See 1 King.22.29.

V.29. And the king of Iſrael ſaid,&c.] See 1 King.22.30.

they went to the battel] Or, he went into the battel, in the ſingular number, 1 King.22.30.

V.30. Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him,&c.] Or, But the king of Syria commanded his thirty and two captains, that had rule over his chariots, &c. 1 King.22.31.

V.31. It is the king of Iſrael] Or, Surely it is the king of Iſrael, 1 King. 22.23.

therefore they compaſſed about him to fight] Or, they turned aſide to fight againſt him.

but Jehoſhaphat cryed out] See 1 King.22.32.

and the Lord helped him, and God moved them to depart from him] This is not mentioned 1 King.22.32. The firſt clauſe ſheweth how ready the Lord is to help them that call upon him; the latter, that the hearts of enemies are in his power to turn them as it pleaſeth him, Prov.21.1.

V.32. For it came to paſs that when, &c.] See 1 King.22.33.

from purſuing him] Heb. from after him.

V. 33. And a certain man drew a bow, &c.] See 1 Kings 22.34.

therefore he ſaid to his chariot-man, &c.] See 1 Kings 22.34.

V.34. And the battel increaſed that day] See 1 King.22.35.

howbeit the king of Iſrael ſtayed himſelf up in his chariot againſt the Syrians] Or, the King was ſtayed up, &c.

untill the even] Or, and dyed at even, 1 King.22.35.

and about the time of the ſun going down he dyed] This expreſly ſheweth what time of the even is meant. There followeth more about Ahab 1 King.22.35,&c. but the main ſcope of the Pen-man of this hiſtory being to ſet forth ſo much as concerned Jehoſhaphat, he here ceaſeth.

CHAP. XIX.

Ver.1. A*Nd Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah returned to his houſe in peace to Jeruſalem*] Though he were in great danger, and the King with whom he went to battel were ſlain, ch.18.30--34. yet he returned in peace, not ſlain, not wounded, no nor the enemy ſtirred up againſt him.

V.2. And Jehu the ſon of Hanani the Seer] Of this Jehu ſee 1 Kings 16.1. Of Hanani the Seer ſee ch.16.7.

went out to meet him] When Jehoſhaphat returned from the war in which Ahab was ſlain, then this Prophet met him. See ch. 15.2.

and ſaid to king Jehoſhaphat] Though his meſſage were very ſad, and that to a King, yet boldly he declareth the mind of the Lord.

Shouldeſt thou help the ungodly] i.e. Ahab, and the Iſraelites, who were Idolaters, and in that reſpect very ungodly. And this was the more unlawful becauſe the Iſraelites were apoſtates and revolters from the true religion, and Ahab himſelf was one of the worſt kings, if not ſimply the worſt of all the kings of Iſrael. See 1 Kings 16.30. By the help he afforded him (whereof ſee ch.18, 3,&c.) he ſeemed to give countenance to his idolatry. It is not ſimply unlawful to afford aid to Idolaters of other nations in external politick mutual defence againſt enemies; but revolters are to be deteſted.

and love them that hate the Lord] Here two circumſtances plainly demonſtrate Jehoſhaphats fact to be a ſin, and alſo aggravate the ſame. 1. He loved the ungodly, and that not onely in a politick reſpect, but with an inward entire affection. 2. The ungodly are ſo deteſtable to the Lord, as they who love them profeſs a hatred of him.

therefore is wrath upon thee from before the Lord] This may be taken 1. of Jehoſhaphats deſert: He had deſerved wrath. 2. of the danger wherein he was, ch.18.31. God manifeſted his wrath upon him in bringing him to that danger, becauſe he would help and love the ungodly. 3. of ſome judgement that hung over his head, as that conſpiracy of Moab, Ammon and others, ch.20.1,&c. See on that place.

V.3. Nevertheleſſe, there are good things found in thee] This hath reference to ch.17.3,&c. God taketh notice of that grace that is in his children, ſo as to ſpare them, out of his own grace, when they treſpaſſe. Theſe are ſaid to be found in Jehoſhaphat, becauſe they were evidently manifeſted to be him, Neh.9.8.

in that thou haſt taken away the groves out of the land] See ch.17.6. and haſt prepared thine heart to ſeek God] In the beſt manner he could, he did conſult and adviſe with himſelf how he might beſt ſerve the Lord. See Ezra 7.10. The contrary is noted of Rehoboam, ch.12.14.

V.4. And Jehoſhaphat dwelt at Jeruſalem] i. e. quietly continued ed there. Some apply this to his giving over the government to his ſon, 1 King. 1. 57. and ſo remaining quietly in his Palace.

and he went out again] Heb. he returned and went out. As he had done before, ch.17.7. ſo now he did again.

through the people] Throughout the whole nation. In teſtimony of his true repentance for his ſin he endeavoured to bring all his people to the true worſhip of God.

from Beerſheba to mount Ephraim] From one end of his Kingdom to the other. Beerſheba was the South-border, Mount Ephraim the North-border of Judah in Aſa's time. See 1 King. 19.3. ch.15.8,9. and brought them back to the Lord] It ſeemeth divers of the kingdom of Judah, eſpecially in the out-coaſts, had revolted from the true religion. In this reſpect Jehoſhaphat is ſaid to bring them back to the Lord.

God of their fathers] See 1 Chr.29.18.

V.5. And he ſet Judges in the land] What theſe were, See v. 8, &c.

throughout all the fenced cities of Judah] Leſt ſouldiers ſhould abuſe their power unto violence and wrong, he ſets Judges in the cities where they were, to ſee juſtice and right done.

city by city] In every city.

V.6. And ſaid to the Judges] He doth not onely appoint Judges, but alſo incite and direct them to do juſtice.

Take heed what you do] Judges, that are in place to right others wrongs, had need to be very circumſpect.

for ye judge not for man] Not ſimply in the name, or by the authority of Man. Though all civil publick affairs were done in the name of the King, yet the King tells them that, comparatively to Gods, their Kings name was not to ſway them this way or that way.

but for the Lord] The Lord is that ſupreme King to whom they muſt give an account, and therefore they ought to have an eye eſpecially unto him.

who is with you in the judgement] Heb. in the manner of judgement. Judges ſit in the place of God, and bear his image, and therefore muſt be very circumſpect about the judgement they give.

V. 7. Wherefore now let the fear of the Lord be upon you] Stand in aw of God and be afraid to do any thing that may offend him.

take heed, and do it] Do that which is right. Unleſs men be very obſervant over themſelves, they will ſoon be brought to do wrong.

for there is no iniquity with the Lord our God] He will no way do that which is unjuſt, but render to every one what is juſt and equal.

nor reſpect of perſons] Deut.10.17. Job 34.19. Act.10.34. Rom. 2.11. Epheſ.6.9. Col.3.25. 1 Pet.1.17. God regardeth not any outward thing in thoſe which come before him, to move him to do this or that.

nor taking of gifts] God will not be bribed to do any thing.

V.8. Moreover in Jeruſalem did Jehoſhaphat ſet] He had an eſpecial care over this his chief city, to keep it in good order, as well as the garriſon-towns where ſouldiers were.

of the Levites] To inſtruct the people.

and of the Prieſts] To reſolve caſes, ch.17.8.

and of the chief of the fathers of Iſrael] To ſee juſtice and good judgment executed, Deut.16.18. At Jeruſalem there was a great and high Court, conſiſting of Prieſts and Levites and Elders of the people. Before theſe were great and weighty cauſes brought, and appeals from other Courts were made to them.

for the judgement of the Lord] For cauſes Eccleſiaſtical.

and for controverſies] Doubtful and diſputable caſes about civil matters, as bargains, contracts, &c.

when they returned to Jeruſalem] Heb. and they returned. They who were ſent abroad, returned; or they who had cauſes to be judged, as v.10. Some take this to be ſpoken of ſuch Judges in the countrey and cities abroad as by reaſon of the obſcurity and difficulty of cauſes came to Jeruſalem to adviſe with the Court there. See Exod.18.26. Deut.1.17. & 17. 8.

V.9. And he charged them, ſaying] He thought it not enough to exhort them to duty, but in the name of the Lord he layeth an expreſs charge upon them.

Thus ſhall ye do in the name of the Lord] Setting God before your eyes, take heed of provoking him.

faithfully] Doing no wrong, not ſeeking advantage to your ſelves.

and with a perfect heart] Uprightly. See 1 King. 8.61.

V.10. And what cauſe ſoever ſhall come to you] The ears of Judges muſt be open to every cauſe of any perſon whatſoever.

of your brethren] Judges and common people came all from the ſame ſtock, and in that reſpect were all brethren: This is ſpoken to move Judges readily to hear them.

that dwell in their cities] Theſe were other then Jeruſalem.

between blood and blood] i. e. The kindes of murder, whether wilful or no.

between law and commandment, ſtatutes and judgements] See 1 King. 2.3. The meaning is, In caſe one take a law, or commandment, or ſtatute, or judgment one way, another, another way, the Iudges endeavour ſhould be to inform and reſolve thoſe who miſtake, and to declare the true ſenſe thereof.

ye ſhall even warn them that they treſpaſs not againſt the Lord] By miſ-interpreting the Law, and doing otherwiſe then it intendeth.

and ſo wrath come upon you] i. e. Some judgement that is an effect of Gods wrath, Num.16.46. This might fall upon them for not warning or directing the people, Ezek.3.18.

this do, and you ſhall not treſpaſs] If thoſe that have a charge over others be conſcionable in directing them aright, and warning them of their ſins, they ſhall neither treſpaſs againſt God, whoſe charge they keep; nor againſt their brethren, whoſe good they ſeek.

V.11. And behold, Amariah the chief Prieſt] There were divers high Prieſts of this name, 1 Chr.6,7,11.

is over you in all matters of the Lord] i. e. Eccleſiaſtical matters, concerning religion and the ſervice of God, which were to be decided by the law of the Lord.

and Zebadiah the ſon of Iſhmael, the ruler of the houſe of Judah] This man was a Prince, and Governour of State.

for all the kings matters] i. e. Civil affairs, concerning peace and juſtice betwixt man and man, depending on the Kings laws, and to be decided by the ſtatutes of the Kingdom.

alſo the Levites ſhall be officers before you] Such as are mentioned 1 Chr.26.29. who were up and down in ſeveral cities, to ſee laws put in execution, according to the directions that ſhould be given them from the great Court at Jeruſalem.

Deal courageouſly] Heb. Take courage and do. Judges have need of courage that they be not daunted with peoples murmurings and gainſayings.

and the Lord ſhall be with the good] He will be with ſuch as are careful and conſcionable in doing that which is juſt and right, to aſſiſt them, to protect them, and every way to bleſs both their perſons and endeavours.

CHAP. XX.

Ver.1. IT came to paſs after this alſo] From hence to v.21. is ſet down a very great deliverance which God gave Jehoſhaphat from many and mighty enemies. This firſt clauſe is a tranſition from that which was noted ch. 19. to that which follows here. It may have a particular reference to the judgement denounced ch.19.2. and ſo it giveth inſtance of Gods wrath upon Jehoſhaphat, in ſuffering enemies to invade him; and alſo of Gods reſpect to the good things found in him, ch.19.3. in preſerving and delivering him. In relation to his care of reformation noted ch. 19. 4, &c. it ſheweth that notwithſtanding the good things found in Gods children he ſuffereth them to be tried, but ſo as their trial turns to their greater glory.

that the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon] Theſe two nations were of the poſterity of Lot, Gen. 19.37,38. yet alwaies bitter and mortal enemies to the children of Iſrael.

and with them other beſide the Ammonites] Theſe other are ſuppoſed to be the Syrians, v.2. and Edomites, v.10,22. Some take them to be Amalekites, who in habit and language feigned themſelves to be Ammonites. Others read, and with them of the Hameniar; a people diſtinct from the Ammonites.

came againſt Jehoſhaphat to battel] The cauſe of this invaſion is not ſet down, but imagined to be that aid which Jehoſhaphat afforded Ahab againſt the Syrians, ch.18.3, &c. If ſo, then it further confirmeth what is ſaid of Gods wrath upon Jehoſhaphat for helping Ahab, ch.19.2. Kings oft bring judgements upon their whole lands. See v.22.

V.2. Then there came ſome that told Jehoſhaphat, ſaying] Theſe were either ſome ſcouts that he had abroad, or ſome of his own ſubjects that occaſionally were out of their countrey, or meſſengers from ſome neighbouring Princes that wiſhed well unto him.

There cometh a great multitude againſt thee] Had it not been a great multitude indeed, Jehoſhaphat, that was ſo well prepared, ch. 17. 19. would not have been caſt into ſo great a fear as is intimated v.3,12.

from beyond the Sea on this ſide Syria] This is that ſea called Aſphaltites, or the Dead ſea, or Salt ſea. The people here mentioned came from thereabouts. See Gen.14 3,7. This ſea was the Eaſt-border of Judah, Joſh.15.5.

and behold, they be in Hazazon-tamar] See Gen. 14.7.

which is Engedi] See Joſh.15.62.

V.3. And Jehoſhaphat feared] This was both a natural fear in regard of his many enemies, and alſo a pious fear in relation to God.

and ſet himſelf] Heb. ſet his face. See 2 King.12.17.

to ſeek the Lord] This phraſe in general implieth a care to ſerve God, and to obtain reconciliation with him, ch. 11.16. and in particular, prayer to God for protection and aſſiſtance, Iſai. 55.6.

and proclaimed a faſt] This was an ordinary means uſed by Gods people, and alwaies joyned with extraordinary prayer, when they either would obtain ſome ſpecial bleſſing, or being in any great danger deſired deliverance from it. See Judg.20.26. 1 Sam. 7.6. Ezra 8.21,23. Neh.1.4. & 9.1. Eſth.4.3. Hereby they did the better fit themſelves for prayer, and gave evidence of the earneſtneſs of their deſire, together with an acknowledgement of their unworthineſs: for they did voluntarily forbear the uſe of ordinary food and all manner of refreſhing their bodies, to teſtifie that they thought themſelves altogether unworthy of any mercy.

throughout all Judah] The danger was publick and concerned the whole Kingdom, and therefore he ſent proclamations abroad into all parts, that they might all joyn in ſupplication to God, and ſo their prayers prove the more prevalent.

V.4. And Judah] Benjamin alſo, and all that were under Jehoſhaphats juriſdiction are here compriſed under Judah.

gathered themſelves together] Such as uſed to come to publick aſſemblies at Jeruſalem are here intended.

to ask help of the Lord] This ſhewed their faith in God.

even out of the cites of Judah] Cities are here put for towns and villages and houſes in the countrey.

they came to ſeek the Lord] To pray unto him. For that end they came to Jeruſalem and the Temple, where the evidence of Gods preſence was. See v.3.

V.5. And Jehoſhaphat ſtood in the congregation of Judah and Jeruſalem] As Solomon did before the congregation of Iſrael, 1 King. 8. 22.

in the houſe of the Lord] i. e. That great court, ch.4.9. where the people uſed to aſſemble, and pious Kings to pray, 2 King. 19.14.

before the new court] This was the court of the Prieſts, which was before the houſe of the Lord, 1 King.8.64. It is ſtiled new, in that it was newly repaired and beautified. We read ch. 15.8. that Aſa renewed the Altar of the Lord, which ſtood in this court: He might then alſo repair the whole court, and thereupon this title New be given it. Or it may be Jehoſhaphat himſelf did it. Now the King ſtood before this court, namely before the entrance into it, both becauſe the great altar ſtood there, and alſo becauſe through it he might ſee into the Holy place, yea, and unto the Moſt holy place where the Ark was. See 1 King.8.22.

V.6. And ſaid, O Lord God of our fathers] See ch. 11.16.

art not thou God in heaven?] This place of Gods glory putteth him in mind of his Soveraignty and Almighty power. See 1 King. 8.23,30.

and ruleſt thou not over all the kingdoms of the heathen?] Though God be in heaven, yet his juriſdiction extendeth to the earth; and though by his word, Spirit and ſpecial grace he governeth the Church, yet his power manifeſteth it ſelf thorowout the whole world.

and in thine hand is there not power and might] Meditation on Gods power much ſtrengtheneth faith in the greateſt ſtrait.

ſo that none is able to withſtand thee] He oppoſeth Gods power to the power of his enemies, that he might be the leſs affrighted with their great preparations.

V.7. Art not thou our God] This hath reference to Gods promiſe and covenant, Gen.17.7. As in the former verſe he pleaded Gods power againſt his enemies, ſo here he pleadeth his covenant and mercy to his people.

who didſt] Heb. thou didſt.

drive out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Iſrael] Hereby he juſtifieth Iſraels holding that land, by Gods caſting out the Canaanites to make way for his people, Num.35.51,52,53.

and gaveſt it to the ſeed of Abraham] By ſeed is meant poſterity. And here is the right they had to enjoy their land, Gods gift. Gen.15.7,18.

thy friend] This title is three times given to Abraham; here, Iſai.41.8. & Jam.2.23. and that in regard of the mutual relation betwixt God and him. God did really favour Abraham as his friend, and Abraham entirely loved God as one friend loves another. Thus Chriſt ſtiled Lazarus friend, Joh. 11. 11. and all his Diſciples, Joh.15.15.

for ever] This hath relation to the land which God gave to Abrahams ſeed for an everlaſting inheritance, Gen.17.8. & 48.4. See 1 King. 8. 13. The many negative interrogatives in theſe two verſes add much emphaſis, and are equivalent to ſtrong affirmations.

V.8. And they dwelt therein] Iſrael dwelt in Canaan.

and have built thee a Sanctuary therein] By Sanctuary is meant the holy Temple. See 1 Chr.9.29. & 22.19. & 28. 20.

for thy name, ſaying] See 1 King.5.3. & 8.16,17.

V.9. If when evil cometh upon us] 1 King.8.37, &c.

as the ſword] Or, war. For the ſword is a ſpecial inſtrument in war.

judgement] Judgement may here indefinitely be taken for any effect of Gods wrath. But becauſe there is no disjunctive particle betwixt ſword and judgement, ſome thus tranſlate it, the ſword of judgement, ſuch a ſword as God in juſt judgement doth ſend.

or peſtilence, or famine] Theſe three, War, Plague, and Famine, are arrows of Gods wrath, which he uſeth to ſhoot at thoſe with whom he is offended.

we ſtand before this houſe] The people came not into the very Temple, but ſtood in the great court before it when they made any publick ſolemn prayer to God.

and in thy preſence] God did after a ſpecial manner manifeſt his preſence in the Temple, eſpecially in the Moſt holy place, by the Ark.

for thy name is in this houſe] See 1 King.8.29.

and cry unto thee in our affliction] Earneſtly pray unto thee for help. See ch.14.11.

then thou wilt hear and help] See 1 King.8.29,30.

V.10. And now behold, the children of Ammon, and Moab, and Mount Seir] See v. 1, 2. Of mount Seir ſee Deut. 2. 4. Hereby are meant the inhabitants of mount Seir, i. e. the Edomites, Gen. 32. 3.

whom thou wouldſt not let Iſrael invade] See Deut. 2.5,9,19.

when they came out of the land of Egypt] And were in the Wilderneſs.

but they turned from them, and deſtroyed them not] Num. 20. 21.

V.11. Behold, I ſay, how they reward us] Jehoſhaphat pleads the ingratitude of his enemies, to move the Lord the rather to help him.

to come to caſt us out of thy poſſeſſion] He ſhews that the enemy wronged God, by ſeeking to diſpoſſeſs thoſe whom he had put in poſſeſſion.

which thou haſt given us to inherit] This ſhews the reaſon of that phraſe, thy poſſeſſion.

V.12. O our God] See ch.14.11. Before he pleaded the relation betwixt God and their fathers, v.6. here he comes neerer to their own intereſt in him.

wilt thou not judge them?] He refers the whole caſe to God, and leaveth it to him to recompenſe their evil. To judge is to revenge or puniſh, Ezek.24.14.

for we have no might] This is to be taken comparatively, in regard of the mighty power of their enemies; and in reference to God, without whom inded they had no might at all.

againſt this great company that cometh againſt us]. See v.2.

neither know we what to do] In regard of humane means.

but our eyes are upon thee] We reſt onely on thee and expect help from thee, Pſal. 123.1. See 1 King.1.20.

V.13. And all Judah ſtood before the Lord] i. e. Before the Temple and Ark. Or, round about the King, praying unto God. Some from every place of Judah were there preſent.

with their little ones, their wives, and their children] This in thoſe dayes was uſual in common calamities, to move God to pity them the more, or rather to ſtir up their own ſpirits more earneſtly to call upon him, Jon.3.5. This was according to the law, Deut. 29. 11. & 31.12. Joel 2.16.

V.14. Then upon Jahaziel the ſon of Zechariah, &c.] The parentage of Jahaziel is diſtinctly ſet forth by ſundry generations, both for honour to him and his predeceſſors, and alſo for diſtinction from another Jahaziel, 1 Chr.23.19.

a Levite of the ſons of Aſaph] See 1 Chron.15.19. & 16. 5.

came the Spirit of the Lord] On a ſudden he was endued with an extraordinary gift of Prophecy. See ch.15.1. Numb.11. 25, 26.

in the midſt of the congregation] There he ſtood, that he might be the better heard of all.

V.15. And he ſaid, Hearken ye all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and thou king Jehoſhaphat] See ch.15.2.

Thus ſaith the Lord unto you] See 1 King.12.24.

Be not afraid, nor diſmaid] See 1 Chr.22.13. & 28.20.

by reaſon of this great multitude] Many and few are all one to God, ch.14. 11.

for the battel is not yours, but Gods] This is ſpoken in regard of Gods undertaking it. God would not ſo much as uſe them for inſtruments in fighting that battel.

V.16. To morrow go ye down againſt them] God would have them thus to do, both to try their faith and courage, and alſo to make them eye-witneſſes of that which he intended to do.

behold, they come up by the cliff of Ziz] Heb. aſcent of Ziz. This was a place where they might well ſee all their enemies.

and ye ſhall find them at the end of the brook] Or, valley.

before the wilderneſs of Jeruel] Or, in the front, or entrance. Theſe places were well known to Jehoſhaphat and the reſt of the Iſraelites.

V.17. Ye ſhall not need to fight in this battel] For they were all ſlain one of another, before Jehoſhaphat with his army could come at them. See v.22,23,24.

ſet your ſelves] Compoſe your ſelves quietly to expect the deliverance which God will provide for you.

ſtand ye ſtill] Neither flie upon your enemies, nor flie from them.

and ſee the ſalvation of the Lord with you] Well mark that kind of deliverance which the Lord will give you. See Exod. 14. 13.

O Judah and Jeruſalem] He means the inhabitants of thoſe places.

fear not, nor be diſmaid] See v. 15. They were prone to fear; therefore he doth again and again inculcate this dehortation.

to morrow go out againſt them] He would have them reſt quiet that night, and expect the time of Gods deliverance.

for the Lord will be with you] See ch.15.2.

V.18, And Jehoſhaphat bowed his head with his face to the ground] See ch.7.3. 1 Chr.29.20.

and all Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem] See v.15.

fell before the Lord] Proſtrated themſelves with their faces towards the Moſt holy place, where the Ark was.

worſhipping the Lord] See 1 Chr.29.20.

V.19. And the Levites of the children of the Kohathites] Theſe deſcended from Kohath by Korah, and were Singers., 1 Chron. 6.33.

and of the children of the Korhites] Theſe came from Kore, and were Porters in the Temple, 1 Chr.26.1, &c. There were alſo of theſe that could ſing.

ſtood up] To teſtifie their reverence, to ſtir up their ſpirits, and to be heard the better.

to praiſe] This was the end of their ſinging. See 1 Chr.23.5.

the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

with a loud] Heb. a great.

voice on high] With a very high and loud voice. See ch. 15.14. and the title of Pſal. 120.

V.20. And they roſe early in the morning] This ſhews their faith in Gods promiſe, v.16. and their earneſt deſire to ſee the accompliſhment thereof. For this was the morning of the morrow, v.16.

and went forth into the wilderneſs of Tekoa] The cliff of Ziz v.16. was betwixt this Tekoa and Jeruel.

and as they went forth, Jehoſhaphat ſtood, and ſaid, &c.] This good King believing the word of the Lord ſtirred up his whole army to do ſo too, that they might more cheerfully and couragiouſly go on.

Believe in the Lord your God] Faith is an eſpecial means of obtaining Gods promiſes, Iſai.7.9. Heb.6.12.

ſo ſhall you be eſtabliſhed] By faith the mind is ſettled, and kept from fear and doubting, Iſai.28.16.

believe his Prophets] Give credit to that word which they deliver you from the Lord. Believing in relation to God implieth truſt and confidence in him; in relation to his Miniſters, a giving credit to what they deliver.

ſo ſhall you proſper] You ſhall find the word of God true, and ſhall have good ſucceſs in your going forth. See ch.13.12. & 1 Chr. 22.11,13.

V.21. And when he had conſulted with the people] With the army then preſent, eſpecially with the Commanders. See 1 Chron. 13.1.

he appointed ſingers unto the Lord] Levites, who ſhould be ready by ſinging to advance the glory of the Lord.

and that ſhould praiſe] Heb. praiſers.

the beauty of holineſs] By beauty is meant majeſty, or glory: Beauty of holineſs is moſt holy majeſty. This tranſcendent deſcription of God, or of the Ark, did the more quicken up their ſpirits in the duty they performed. See Pſal.29.2. & 26. 9.

as they went out before the Army] They believed the truth of what God had promiſed as ſtedfaſtly as if they had ſeen it accompliſhed, therefore they triumphed therein before they ſaw the iſſue.

and to ſay, Praiſe the Lord, for his mercy endureth for ever] This is the beginning of the 136. Pſalm, and the cloſe of every verſe in it. And that Pſalm was ſung on all occaſions of publick rejoycing. See ch.7.3. & 1 Chr.16.34.

V.22, And when they began] Heb. in the time that they, &c. This circumſtance is noted to ſhew that God by his providence ordered that which fell out, and accepted that duty which they ſo cheerfully performed.

to ſing and praiſe] Heb. in ſinging and praiſe, or, by ſinging to praiſe.

the Lord ſet ambuſhments] See ch.13.13. It is probable that ſome among the enemies being incenſed againſt others, did ſecretly lie in wait, and took their advantage to riſe up and deſtroy the army on a ſudden; whereupon there was a confuſion amongſt them, ſo as they fought one againſt another, and deſtroyed one another, as is ſet down v.23. Some take this metaphorically, of Gods ſtirring up their minds one againſt another, as if an ambuſhment had been laid on a ſudden to riſe upon them. Others underſtand it of Angels, who came upon them unexpectedly, and ſlew them; and then one nation of theſe enemies ſuppoſing one of the other nations had ſlain them, fell upon that nation: and ſo they deſtroyed one another.

which were come againſt Judah] Ver.1. it is ſaid that they came againſt Jehoſhaphat; but this place ſheweth that their quarrel was not a perſonal quarrel againſt Jehoſhaphat alone, but a common publick quarrel, againſt Jehoſhaphat and his whole Kingdom. See ver.1.

and they were ſmitten] Or, they ſmote one another. They deſtroyed one another. See v. 23. Judg.7. 22. 1 Sam.14.20. Of ſmiting in this ſenſe ſee 2 King.9.7, 27.

V.23. For the children of Ammon and Moab] Ammon and Moab, the progenitors of theſe nations, were brethren, both children of Lot, Gen,19.37,38.

ſtood up againſt the inhabitants of Mount Seir] Theſe deſcended from Eſau, Gen.32.3 See v.19.

utterly to ſlay and deſtroy them] God put ſuch a ſpirit into them as made them executioners of his vengeance to the uttermoſt.

and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir] This implieth that that part of the army was utterly deſtroyed.

every one helped to deſtroy another] Heb. for the deſtruction of another. They were carried with ſuch a ſpirit of rage and fury that no man ſpared his neighbour, but each one deſtroyed him that was next him.

V.24. And when Judah came toward the watch-tower] This was on the cliff of Ziz, v.16.

in the wilderneſs] Of Jeruel, v.16.

they looked unto the multitude] The great formidable army before mentioned is here meant. See v.2.

and behold, they were dead bodies fallen to the earth, and none eſcaped] Heb. there was not an eſcaping. They were all ſlain before they could think of flying.

V.25. And when Jehoſhaphat and his people came to take away the ſpoyl of them] It is uſual with armies for the conquerour to ſpoyl the ſlain.

they found among them in abundance] See 1 Chron. 18.7, 11. & 20.2.

both riches with the dead bodies, and precious jewels] As rings on their fingers, chains about their necks, jewels in their ears, or in ſome other place about them. Heb. things of deſire. Such things as were much deſired and eſteemed, Prov.3.15.

which they ſtript off for themſelves, more then they could carry away] For there were many more of the enemies then of the Iſraelites. Beſides, they brought much wealth on their beaſts, and in carts or wagons.

and they were three dayes in gathering of the ſpoyl, it was ſo much] Thus God did not onely free them from their enemies, but exceedingly enriched them by their enemies ſpoyl.

V.26. And on the fourth day they aſſembled themſelves in the valley of Berachah] That is, Bleſſing. This was in the wilderneſs of Jeruel, ver.16.

for there they bleſſed the Lord: therefore the name of the ſame place was called the valley of Berachah] This is thought to be that place which is called The valley of Jehoſhaphat, Joel 3.2,12. By giving this name to the place the memorial of that wonderful great deliverance was continued.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13. & 12.19.

V.27. Then they returned every man of Judah and Jeruſalem] All that went to that valley.

and Jehoſhaphat in the fore-front of them] Heb. head of them. Jehoſhaphat herein did as David did at the removing of the Ark, 2 Sam.6.14,15.

to go again to Jeruſalem with joy] At Jeruſalem they made their prayer, v.5. and in Jeruſalem they would render their praiſe.

for the Lord had made them to rejoyce over their enemies] They aſcribe their ſucceſs to God. See Neh.12.43.

V.28. And they came to Jeruſalem with pſalteries, and harps, and trumpets] Of theſe muſical inſtruments ſee 1 Chr.13.8.

unto the houſe of the Lord] That there they may offer up the more ſolemn praiſe and ſacrifices.

V.29. And the fear of God was on all the kingdoms, &c.] See ch.14.14.

when they had heard that the Lord fought againſt the enemies of Iſrael] Report of Gods mighty works makes all ſorts of people far and neer to fear, Joſh.2.10,11.

V.30. So the Realm of Jehoſhaphat was quiet] See ch.14.1.

for his God gave him reſt round about] The Lord being in an eſpecial manner the God of Jehoſhaphat, who was his faithful ſervant, made all nations round about him forbear all oppoſition againſt him; in which reſpect he had reſt and freedom from war.

V.31. And Jehoſhaphat reigned, &c.] See 1 King.22.41,42.

V.32. And he walked in the way of Aſa, &c.] Aſa's firſt courſe of life is here meant. See ch.16.11. & 17.3. & 1 King.22.43.

V.33. Howbeit the high places were not taken away] See 1 King. 22.43.

for as yet the people had not prepared their hearts, &c.] Some outward reformation they had yielded unto, but yet their hearts lingred after their old ſuperſtitions. See ch.15.17. 1 Chr.29.18.

V.34. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoſhaphat firſt and laſt] See ch.16.11.

who did very wickedly] Jehoſhaphats ſin was the greater because he had been reproved for the like, ch.19.2.

V.36. And he joyned himſelf with him to make ſhips to go to Tarſhiſh] It is ſaid 2 King.22.49. that Jehoſhaphat would not go with the ſhips of Ahaziah: therefore it is probable that though at firſt he did indeed joyn with Ahaziah, yet after being reproved for it, v.37. he refuſed to go.

and they made the ſhips in Ezion-Geber] See 1 King.22.48.

V.37. Then Eliezer the ſon of Dodavah of Mareſhah] There were more of this name, as Abrahams ſervant, Gen.15.2. Moſes his ſon, Ex.18.4. and ſundry others.

propheſied againſt Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, Becauſe thou haſt joyned thy ſelf with Ahaziah] We ſee how good men may fall again into the ſame fault. See ch.19.2. Compare alſo Gen.12.13. with 20.2.

the Lord hath broken thy works: and the ſhips were broken that they were not able to go to Tarſhiſh] God will not proſper the evil undertakings of his children. See 1 King.22.48.

and Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead] An impious ſon ſucceeded a pious father. Grace is not propagated by nature.

V.2. And he had brethren the ſons of Jehoſhaphat, Azariah, &c.] Here are ſix expreſſed by name, and it may be they were all he had living. Our Engliſh tranſlators give the ſame name to the firſt and the fourth, but in the Hebrew there is a little difference: For the name of the fourth is Azariahu.

All theſe were the ſons of Jehoſhaphat] This is repeated, that the unnaturalneſs of Jehoram v.4. might be the more manifeſted.

king of Iſrael] See ch.12.1. & 15.17. Jehoſhaphat coming from David by lineal deſcent had a right to the whole Kingdom of Iſrael, but he held onely a part thereof: So that here is a Synecdoche. So v.4.

V.3. And their father gave them great gifts] He ſhewed a fatherly reſpect towards them, in providing bountiful gifts for them, but he would not impair his eldeſt ſons inheritance by giving them part thereof.

of ſilver and of gold, and of precious things] Under precious things are compriſed jewels, pearls, precious ſtones, ſilks, fine linen, with the like.

with fenced cities] Jehoſhaphat placed his ſons in thoſe cities, becauſe he moſt confided in them for defenſe of the land, and that they alſo might be the better ſecured againſt their enemies. Rehoboam did the like, and it is ſaid that he did wiſely therein, ch.11.23.

in Judah] Under Judah Benjamin alſo is compriſed. See ch.11.1.

but the kingdom gave he to Jehoram]. It is probable that Jehoram carried himſelf fairly while his father lived: for he committed the government of the Kingdom to him when he went out to war with Ahab. See 2 King.1.17. & 8.16.

becauſe he was the firſt-born] This he did according to the law, Deut.21.17. This priviledge God of old gave the firſt-born, Gen.4.7.

V.4. Now when Jehoram was riſen up to the kingdom of his father] This is not to be taken of his governing as Vice-roy in his fathers life, but of his ſitting upon the throne when his father was dead, and the Kingdom ſettled in him alone.

he ſtrengthened himſelf] See ch.12.1,13. He ſought to make himſelf ſtrong (as Jeroboam did, ch.13.7.) that he might the better effect his miſchievous intents.

and ſlew all his brethren with the ſword] It might be his brethren were pious men, and ſet themſelves to maintain the true worſhip of God; Jehoram therefore, being a great idolater, took them out of the way, that they might be no eye-ſore nor obſtacle unto him. See v.13. Judg.9.5.

and divers alſo of the Princes] The ſame reaſon might move him to ſlay the Princes that moved him to ſlay his brethren.

of Iſrael] Iſrael is here put for Judah, as v.2.

V.10. So the Edomites revolted, &c.] See 2 King.8.22.

becauſe he had forſaken the Lord God of his fathers] See ch.13.10. & 15.2. This is added to ſhew that the Lord ſtirred up thoſe Edomites, as his ſcourge, to puniſh this idolatrous King. This was not the reaſon that moved the Edomites to revolt: it was their own deſire of freedom from being ſubject to a forreign Prince that moved them thereto: Yet by his idolatrous and wicked courſes and by his cruelty to his brethren and Princes they might gather that the Lord would forſake him, and thereupon take advantage and occaſion of revolting.

V.11. Moreover he made high places in the mountains of Judah] See 1 King.3.2,4. Thus this wicked King reſtored thoſe impieties and idolatries which his father and grand father had deſtroyed, ch.14.15. & 19.3.

and cauſed the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to commit fornication] Spiritual fornication is here meant, i. e. Idolatry, v.13. See 2 Kin.9.22.

and compelled Judah thereto] He contented not himſelf to draw the inhabitants of that city where himſelf dwelt unto idolatry, but he drew alſo his whole Kingdom thereunto, and that by force, raiſing perſecution againſt ſuch as refuſed.

V.12. And there came a writing to him from Elijah the Prophet, ſaying] Without all queſtion Elijah was before this tranſlated. For while Jehoſhaphat was living, enquiry being made about a Prophet of the Lord in Iſrael, anſwer was returned that there was Eliſha who poured water on the hands of Elijah, 2 King.3.11. by which it appeareth that Eliſha was then famous for a Prophet; but this was not till after Elijah was taken away, 2 King.2.10. Hereupon a great doubt ariſeth, How a writing ſhould come from Elijah, who was now in heaven, unto Jehoram, who was on earth. Some rather cut then untie the knot, denying that this was that Elijah whoſe ſtory is recorded 1 King.17.1, &c. and ſaying that another man might bear this name; Or that Eliſha might be called Elijah as John the Baptiſt was, Matth.17.12,13. becauſe the ſpirit of Elijah was in him, Luk.1.17. But a more ready and probable reſolution of the doubt is this, That the true and famous Elijah had written that which is here ſet down before his rapture, even while he was on earth, and left it behind him to be delivered to Jehoram after he ſhould have committed the forementioned abominations. We read 1 King.13.2. that a man of God propheſied of Joſiah by name long before his birth. So did Iſaiah of Cyrus, Iſai.45.1. The like might Elijah do of Jehoram. This might the rather be done, becauſe this impious King would not endure a living Prophet to declare the truth unto him; and that he might be the more convinced and confounded of and for his wickedneſs, when he ſhould ſee a writing brought to him from one that was then in heaven.

Thus ſaith the Lord God of David thy father] This deſcription of God is a great aggravation of his ſin and his ingratitude againſt him.

And his people made no burning for him, like the burning of his fathers] See ch.16.14. The great ſins he committed againſt God, the wrongs he did to man, and the judgments he brought upon the land turned the hearts of his ſubjects from him; ſo that though he had been a King, yet little reſpect was ſhewed him when he was dead.

Becauſe he was the ſon of David, and a King, they buried him in the city of David: but to ſhew that he deſerved neither the honour of a King nor of a ſon of David, they would not lay his corps in that place where his Predeceſſors lay. And this is added as an evidence of his ſubjects diſeſteem of him.

CHAP. XXII.

Verſ.1. And the inhabitants of Jeruſalem made Ahaziah his youngeſt ſon king in his ſtead] It ſeems Jehoram being for two years together miſerably perplexed with a tormenting diſeaſe, took little care about his ſucceſſor; therefore the inhabitants of Jeruſalem took that care upon them, it being the chief city and ſtrongeſt hold of the Kingdom, and the reſt of the land having been extremely ſpoiled by the enemy, ch.21.17. By the inhabitants of Jeruſalem the Sanhedrin or great Councel of the Kingdom may be meant. Yet others alſo gave their conſent.

for the band of men that came with the Arabians to the camp had ſlain all the eldeſt] Chap.21.17. This was the reaſon why they made the youngeſt ſon King; he was the onely ſon of Jehoram then living.

So Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah reigned] 2 King.8.24. In this chapter is ſet down the ſhort reign and miſerable end of Ahaziah, and the evil conſequence thereof; namely, Athaliah, a woman and a ſtranger, to be an uſurper of the Crown, v.10.

V.2. Fourty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign] This place ſeemeth to contradict two others, one whereof ſaith that Jehoram, the father of this Ahaziah, was thirty and two years old when he began to reign, and that he reigned eight years, ch.21.5. the other, that this very Ahaziah was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, 2 King.8.26. By the former, Ahaziah's father was but fourty years old when he died; how then could his ſon be two and fourty? can a ſon be elder then his father at the ſame time? By the latter, one and the ſame man ſhould be two and twenty and two and fourty years old at once. To reconcile theſe places ſome ſay that Jehoram being two and thirty years old when he began to reign, lived eight and twenty after that; of which, Jehoram himſelf reigned but eight, and Ahaziah governed the Kingdom twenty years in his fathers life-time: ſo as they make Ahaziah two and twenty years old when he began to govern as Viceroy, and two and fourty when he began to reign alone after his fathers death. But beſides that there is no ground of Scripture for this reconciliation, it croſſeth all the circumſtances of the hiſtory; in particular, it interrupteth the ſeries of the genealogy of Kings, and eſpecially the Chronology of the reigns of the Kings of Judah and of Iſrael. There is therefore a fairer way of ſolving the forementioned doubts; namely, That the two and twenty years 2 King.8.26. be taken properly of Ahaziah's age at that time, but the two and fourty years here of the continuance of Omri's pedigree, from whom Ahaziah deſcended by his mother Athaliah, 2 Kin.8.18,26. For Omri, great grandfather to Ahaziah, reigned ſix years as ſole King, 1 King.16.23. Ahab, his grandfather, two and twenty, 1 King.16.29. Ahaziah his Uncle, two; 1 King.22.51. Joram, another Uncle, twelve; 2 King.3.1. Theſe make up juſt fourty two years. We have a like computation from the beginning of the Diviſion of the two Kingdoms, ch.15.19 & 16.1. And this may the better be born, becauſe the Hebrew thus expreſſeth it, A ſon of fourty and two years was Ahaziah in his reigning. I will not deny but that Hebraiſm is oft uſed of a Kings age when he began to reign, but it may alſo be taken of the continuance of a ſtock. To make this interpretation the more clear, ſome putting the laſt clauſe of this verſe in the beginning (which is called a Trajection) thus read it with part of the former verſe, So Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah reigned: his mothers name alſo was Athaliah the daughter of Omri. He was fourty and two years old when Ahaziah began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem, &c. See 1 King.8.26.

for his mother] She was grandchild to Omri, and daughter of Jezebel a moſt wicked woman. See 1 King.16.31. & 18.4. & 19.2. & 21.5. &c. & 2 King.9.22. And this daughter was no better then her mother, if not worſe, v.10.

But this is alſo to be taken as a ſpecial motion of the Spirit in them, to teſtifie Gods reſpect to his ſervant Jehoſhaphat.

CHAP. XXIII.

Verſ.1. AND in the ſeventh year] This hath relation to the ſix years ch.22.12. Here is ſet down the reſcuing of this Kingdom from Athaliah the Uſurper, to the houſe of David.

Jehoiada ſtrengthened himſelf] Athaliah uſurping the Crown had got ſo many on her ſide, and ſo deſtroyed and weakened thoſe that ſtood for the houſe of David, as that Jehoiada (of whom ſee 2 King.11.4.) durſt not oppoſe himſelf openly and publickly: yet from time to time he got as many as he could to take part with him, and laid what weapons and ammunition he could within the courts and chambers of the houſe of God, and ſo ſtrengthened himſelf.

and took the captains of hundreds] Or, ſent and ſet the rulers over hundreds, with the captains and the guard, 2 King.11.4. The ſame word is here tranſlated captains, and there rulers.

Azariah, &c.] The parentage of theſe Captains here named declares that they were Levites.

into covenant with him] 2 King.11.4. it is added, that he brought them to him into the houſe of the Lord, and alſo, that he took an oath of them in the houſe of the Lord, and ſhewed them the Kings ſon.

V.2. And they went about in Judah] Whereſoever any Levites had their abode.

and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah] Not onely thoſe whoſe courſe it was at that time to ſerve in the houſe of the Lord, but others alſo.

and the chief of the fathers of Iſrael] Theſe might be other then Levites, namely, Governours in the Common-wealth of Judah and Benjamin: for ſo is Iſrael here to be taken, as ch.12.1. & 21.2.

and they came to Jeruſalem] That there they might combine together, and aid Jehoiada in that great work which he intended.

V.3. And all the Congregation made a Covenant with the King] This was a mutual ſtipulation betwixt the King and them, That the King ſhould maintain the true worſhip of God, the peace of the Kingdom, and priviledges of the ſubjects; and that the people ſhould maintain the King, and yield unto him his due.

in the houſe of God] The Courts wherein the Prieſts and Levites offered ſacrifices and did other ſervices, and wherein the people ſtood to behold and hear them, are oft ſtiled the houſe of God; ſo in this place.

and he ſaid unto them, Behold, the Kings ſon ſhall reign] This he ſpeaks in regard of the right the King had to the Crown, being the former Kings ſon, ch.22.11. and of Gods promiſe to David and his poſterity for ever, 1 Chr.17.14. and of his confidence that God would proſper their endeavours.

as the Lord hath ſaid of the ſons of David] 2 Sam.17.12. 1 King. 2.4. & 9.5. ch.6.16. & 7. 18.

V.4. This is the thing that ye ſhall do, a third part, &c.] See 2 Kin. 11. 5. of the Prieſts and of the Levites] This hath reference to the third part, implying that it was taken out of ſuch and ſuch Prieſts and Levites.

ſhall be porters of the doors] Heb. threſholds. See 2 King. 12. 9. Some of them being by their ordinary office Porters of the doors of the houſe of God, had at this time a ſpecial charge for the gate behind the guard, 2 King.11.6.

V.5. And a third part at the Kings houſe] i. e. The gate that opened to the Kings houſe: And they are ſaid to be keepers of the watch of the Kings houſe, 2 King.11.5.

and a third part at the gate of the foundation] This was alſo called the gate of Shur, 2 King.11.6.

and all the people ſhall be in the courts of the houſe of the Lord] The great court, ch.4.9. where the people ſtood, was divided into ſundry parts, and thereupon the plural number, courts, is here uſed. See 1 King.6.36.

V.6. But let none come into the houſe of the Lord] i. e. The court of the Prieſts, ch.4.9. See v.3.

ſave the Prieſts] For they were to offer ſacrifices there.

and they that miniſter of the Levites] Such Levites as were attendant upon Prieſts, and therein were diſtinguiſhed from Singers and Porters, 1 Chr.24.20. & 25.1.

they ſhall go in, for they are holy] Heb. holineſs. They were not onely holy by profeſſion, as all Gods people were, but alſo by ſpecial function, being ſet apart to holy ſervices.

but all the people ſhall keep the watch of the Lord] They ſhall ſtand in the great court, and there abide, without thruſting themſelves into the Prieſts courts; as the Lord of old enjoyned. Or, they ſhall keep all but Prieſts and Levites from entring into the Prieſts courts. Or, they ſhall obſerve that ordinance which God hath appointed to them in their own court.

V.7. And the Levites ſhall compaſs, &c.] See 2 King.11.8.

and whoſoever elſe cometh into the houſe he ſhall be put to death, &c.] Or, he that cometh within the ranges let him be ſlain, 2 King.11.8.

V.8. So the Levites and all Judah] Or, the captains over hundreds 2 King.11.9. Theſe captains were Levites. See v.1. By Judah others of the people may be meant. They are called all the people, v. 6.

did according to all things, &c.] See 2 King.11.9.

for Jehoiada the Prieſt diſmiſſed not the courſes] Prieſts and Levites had their courſes to ſerve, which when they had executed, they were uſually permitted to go to their houſes; but at this time they were not permitted ſo to do.

and Jehoiada and his ſons anointed him] Jehoiada himſelf might poure oyl upon his head, and his ſons ſtand cloſe by him, and give him the veſſel wherein the oyl was, and alſo take it away again. It is ſaid that Zadok and Nathan anointed Solomon, 1 King.1.34. There ſee more of anointing Kings. It is very probable that Zechariah the ſon of Jehoiada was one of thoſe that are here ſaid to anoint Joaſh; which doth much aggravate the ingratitude of Joaſh in ſtoning him, ch. 24.21,22.

and ſaid, God ſave the King] Heb. Let the king live. See 1 King. 1.39. Not onely the Prieſts who anointed Joaſh, but alſo all the people preſent made that acclamation.

that Joaſh was minded to repair] Heb. it was in the heart of Joaſh to renew.

the houſe of the Lord] All the parts of the Temple and ſeveral things therein are compriſed under this word houſe; as Aſa renewed the Altar of the Lord, ch.15.8. The reaſon of the need there was to repair the houſe of God is rendred v. 7.

V.5. And he gathered together the Prieſts and the Levites] To theſe eſpecially did the care of the houſe of the Lord belong.

and ſaid to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah] Under Judah Benjamin and ſo much of other tribes as were under the government of Joaſh are compriſed.

and gather of all Iſrael] Iſrael is here to be taken in no larger extent then Judah before was. See ch.12.1. & 21.2.

money to repair the houſe] By money all things needful to ſuch a purpoſe might be prepared.

of your God] The Lord was in ſpecial manner the God of the Prieſts and Levites, by reaſon of their ſpecial attendance in his houſe and upon his ſervice. This relation is here added to make them the more diligent and faithful.

from year to year] From time to time as need ſhould require. This is added, 1. becauſe the work was great and could hardly be perfected in a year. 2. becauſe the manner of collecting the money and providing materials would be long. 3. becauſe the Collectors were ſomewhat negligent. 4. becauſe as one thing was repaired, another thing might need reparation; and that year after year.

and ſee that ye haſte the matter] This he added to ſhew his earneſt deſire to have the work done, and to prevent ſuch inconveniences as by delay might fall out.

howbeit the Levites haſtened it not] For in the three and twentieth year of King Joaſh the Prieſts had not repaired the breaches of the houſe, 2 King 12.6.

V.6. And the King called for Jehoiada the chief] And for the other Prieſts, 2 King.12.7.

and ſaid unto him] The Kings ſpeech is in ſpecial directed to the high Prieſt.

Why haſt thou not required of the Levites] The high Prieſt had ſpecial command over the Levites.

to bring in out of Judah and out of Jeruſalem] Out of countrey and city.

the collection according to the commandment of Moſes] Ex.30.12, 13,14. Heb. collection of Moſes. the other words are inſerted to make up the ſenſe. The commandment which Moſes gave thereabout was from the Lord. There were two kinds of collections enjoyned by Moſes; One voluntary, what every one would give of his own good will; ſee Ex.25.2,&c. The other impoſed on every one as a ranſome for his ſoul, Exod.30.12,&c. Either of theſe, or both, may be meant. In the former collection of Moſes, gold, ſilver, braſs, blue, purple, ſcarlet, fine linen, and ſundry other things might be contributed, but here onely money, v.5.

the ſervant of the Lord] A title frequently given to Moſes, ch. 1. 3. Num.12..7. Deut.34.5. Joſh.1.1. See 1 King.3 6.

and of the congregation of Iſrael] Or, even of the congregation of Iſrael. Which Moſes commanded to receive of the congregation.

for the Tabernacle of witneſs] That which Moſes built was ſtiled the Tabernacle of witneſs, Num.17.7,8. & 18. 2. in regard of the Ark and the Tables of ſtone within it, which contained the covenant betwixt God and his people, and was a witneſs between them. Theſe being in the Tabernacle, it was called the Tabernacle of witneſs. The end of mentioning this here is to ſhew that as Moſes had a collection for the Tabernacle, ſo in like caſe a like courſe was to be taken for the Temple.

V.7. For the ſons of Athaliah that wicked woman had broken up the houſe of God] Or, Athaliah dealing wickedly, her ſons had broken up the houſe of God. Q. Athaliah had no ſons but by Jehoram, and he had no ſons left but his youngeſt, ch.21.17. how then could the ſons of Athaliah do that which is here ſaid to be done by them? R. Her ſons might break up the houſe of God before they were taken and ſlain by the enemy. Or ſons may by Synecdoche be put for ſon, and Ahaziah onely be meant; who might break up the houſe of God; for he was a very wicked King, ch.22.3,4.

and alſo all the dedicate things of the houſe of the Lord] This was their end of breaking up the houſe of God, that they might take away ſuch treaſures as had been dedicated to Gods ſervice, and laid up there.

did they beſtow upon Baalim] Baalim may here properly be taken for that idol which Ahab worſhipped, 1 King.16.31. or indefinitely for all manner of idols, as ch. 17.3. This aggravateth their impiety, in that they did not onely rob God, but alſo beſtowed that which was his upon idols.

V.8. And at the Kings commandment they made a cheſt] The King being very careful that all that was gathered for the Temple ſhould be reſerved for that uſe, would have a cheſt made for that end. This was by Jehoiada's advice, 2 King. 12.9.

and ſet it without at the gate of the houſe of the Lord] In the great court, beſide the altar on the North-ſide, as they went into the Prieſts court. It was here ſet, becauſe ſo far the people might come, and no further. See 2 King.12.9.

V.9. And they made a proclamation] Heb. and they gave a voice. By the voice of a Crier or Herald they cauſed it to be proclaimed. See 2 King.15.22.

thorow Judah and Jeruſalem] Countrey and City, as v. 6.

to bring in to the Lord] i. e. To the houſe of the Lord, for the Lords ſervice.

the collection that Moſes the ſervant of God laid upon Iſrael in the wilderneſs] Where and when the Tabernacle was building. See v. 6.

V.10. And all the Princes and all the people rejoyced] Even as they did upon a like occaſion in Davids time, 1 Chr.29.9.

and brought in] Willingly and cheerfully.

and caſt into the cheſt] Or, put in. For the cheſt had a hole in the lid of it, 2 King.12.9.

untill they had made an end] Of giving what they intended. Or, they continued their contributions till all that needed repairing was finiſhed.

V.11. Now it came to paſs, that at what time the cheſt was brought] Or, at what time he brought the cheſt. Namely he to whom the charge thereof was given.

unto the Kings office] A place appointed by the King for taking out and telling the money.

by the hand of the Levites] Who had the charge thereof.

and when they ſaw that there was much money, the Kings Scribe, and the high Prieſts officer] The high Prieſt himſelf is ſaid to do this, 2 King.12.10.

came and emptied the cheſt] It is added 2 King.12.10. and they put up in bags, and told the money that was found in the houſe of the Lord.

and took it and carried it to its place again] That it might be ready for more money to be put into it.

thus they did day by day] Not that every day the cheſt was emptied, but time after time, ſo oft as it was full.

and gathered money in abundance] This ſheweth that the people willingly offered to the houſe of the Lord.

V.12. And the king and Jehoiada] The King was in ſuch things counſelled by Jehoiada, and did what he would have him do.

gave it to ſuch as did the work of the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord] They gave it, being told, to ſuch as had the overſight of the houſe of the Lord, 2 King.12.11.

and hired Maſons, and Carpenters, &c.] i. e. Such as had the overſight of the houſe hired theſe workmen, or laid out the money to them, 2 King.11.12. See there the difference betwixt Maſons and Carpenters.

and alſo ſuch as wrought iron and braſs, &c.] i. e. Smiths and Braſiers; for both iron and braſs were uſed about the Temple. See 1 Chron.22.3.

V.13. So the workmen wrought] Every one in that which belonged unto him.

and the work was perfected by them] Heb. the healing went up upon the work. This is a metaphor, whereby the ruines of the Temple are reſembled to the wounds of a body, and the repairs of thoſe ruines to the healing of wounds.

and they ſet the houſe of God in his ſtate] Even as it was before it was broken up, v.7.

and ſtrengthened it] So as they kept it from further decay.

V.14. And when they had finiſhed it] This hath reference to the workmen, and importeth as much as the metaphor v. 13.

they brought the reſt of the money, &c.] i. e. The Over-ſeers who had the charge of receiving and disburſing the money. See v. 12.

whereof were made veſſels for the houſe of the Lord] i. e. Such as were made by Solomon, 1 King.7.50. For Athaliah had taken away ſuch as were in the Temple before, v. 7.

even veſſels to miniſter] For ſuch ſervices as were done in the Temple.

and to offer withal] Or Peſtils, or Mortars. Some take theſe veſſels for Incenſe-cups, or Cenſers.

and ſpoons] See 1 King.7.50.

and veſſels of gold and ſilver] The veſſels before mentioned and alſo others were made of thoſe metalls.

and they offered burnt-offerings in the houſe of the Lord] This is ſynecdochically put for all the worſhip and ſervice appertaining to the Temple. When they had made the Temple fit for ſervice, and done all other things that were requiſite, they performed ſuch worſhip to God therein as was preſcribed.

continually] Every day, day after day.

all the dayes of Jehoiada] After his death they left the houſe of the Lord, v.18.

V.15. But Jehoiada waxed old] It was a great bleſſing to that Kingdom that he continued till he was old.

and was full of dayes when he died] See 1 Chron.23.1. He was ten or eleven years old at Solomons death, and lived in the reign of eight Kings of Judah.

an hundred and thirty years old was he when he died] Heb. a ſon of an hundred and thirty years. This was an extraordinary old age for thoſe times.

V.16. And they buried him in the city of David among the Kings] This was a great honour. See 1 King.2.10.

becauſe he had done good in Iſrael] By Iſrael is here meant the Kingdom of Judah, as ch.12.1. & 21.4. He reſtored that Kingdom to the houſe of David, as it is at large ſet down ch.23.

both towards God] In reſtoring his worſhip, v. 14. and cauſing his promiſe to be accompliſhed, ch.23. & v. 3.

and towards his houſe] Becauſe mention is before made both of David and alſo of God, the relative his is by ſome referred to David, by others to God: He did good to Davids houſe, or ſtock, by preſerving it from utter deſtruction; or, he did good towards Gods houſe, by cauſing it to be repaired, and procuring true worſhip to be performed therein.

V. 17. Now after the death of Jehoiada] The death of a wiſe, godly and zealous Governour is a great loſs to a Kingdom.

came the Princes of Judah] Certainly theſe Princes were hollow-hearted that could conceal themſelves while Jehoiada lived, and as ſoon as he was dead manifeſted their impious mind.

and made obeiſance to the King] They made pretenſe of doing honour unto him, that ſo they might perſwade him to idolatry.

then the King hearkened unto them] Flatterers much prevail with Kings. Though Joaſh had been well inſtructed, and thereby addicted to worſhip the Lord in the Temple as he had preſcribed, yet the Princes by their flatteries alluring him to uſe his regal authority according to his own mind and luſt, yea even in matters of religion, brought him to yield to their counſels.

V.18. And they left the houſe of the Lord] It ſeemeth they were weary of coming to the Temple, and ſo deſired that they might every one worſhip God in ſuch places and after ſuch manner as themſelves thought meet.

God of their fathers] See ch.13.12. This relation betwixt God and their fathers much aggravated their impiety.

and ſerved groves and idols] i. e. Idols in groves. See 1 King.16.33. Leaving the houſe of the Lord, they did every one in their ſeveral places worſhip God as they pleaſed. Yea alſo they worſhipped falſe gods compriſed under this word idols.

and wrath] Judgements the effect of Gods wrath. See chap. 28.13.

came upon Judah and Jeruſalem] Upon Countrey and City and all the inhabitants therein.

for this their treſpaſs] Sin, eſpecially idolatry, is the cauſe of judgement.

V. 19. Yet he ſent] Though they deſerved judgement upon their firſt apoſtaſie, yet the Lord in great patience ſent his Miniſters to declare their ſin to their faces, and to foretell them of judgements hanging over their heads, thereby to bring them to repentance. So dealt he with the ten tribes, 2 King.17.13. and with the men of Judah after this, ch.36.15.

Prophets to them] Extraordinary meſſengers, and not one onely, but Prophets, many of them, time after time, one after another.

to bring them again unto the Lord] This is the main end of Gods ſending Miniſters to his people, either to bring them back from their wicked courſes to the Lord, or to hold them cloſe with the Lord.

and they teſtified againſt them] They plainly declared that they had deſerved judgement, and that God would bring judgement upon them if they did not repent. See 2 King.17.13,15. Neh. 9. 26,29.

but they would not give ear] This manifeſted a moſt obſtinate diſpoſition, which is the fore-runner of vengeance. See ch.36.15, 16,17. 2 King.18.14, &c.

V.20. And the Spirit of God came upon] Heb. clothed. See ch. 15.1. Judg.6.34.

Zechariah the ſon of Jehoiada the Prieſt] This Zechariah was he of whom Chriſt ſpeaketh Matth.23.35. & Luk.11.51. The murder there mentioned was after ſuch a manner as the murder of this man, between the Temple and the Altar, implied in this phraſe, In the court of the houſe of the Lord, v.21. If it be objected that that Zachary was the ſon of Barachias, I anſwer, that the father of this man might have two names, Jehoiada, and Barachias; as ſundry in Scripture had two, yea three names, ch. 21.17. 1 Chr.3.15. yea Prieſts alſo, 1 Chron.18.16. Or Barachias might be grandfather to this Zechariah, and called his father, as grandfathers uſed to be. Thus Reuel, grandfather to Moſes his wife, was called her father, Exod.2.18. Num.10.29. and Iddo the grandfather of Zechariah, who propheſied after the captivity, Zech.1.1. is made the father of Zechariah, Ezra 5.1. Or this name Barachias might be given to Jehoiada for honours ſake, as Jedidiah was to Solomon, 2 Sam.12.25. For Barachiah ſignifieth Bleſſed of the Lord, and Jehoiada might well have that title; for he was wonderfully bleſſed of the Lord. This being ſo, Chriſt himſelf giveth evidence of the blood of this man lying upon the Jews generation after generation.

which ſtood above the people] In a place higher then they, that he might be the better heard.

and ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith God] He premiſeth this preface to make his meſſage the more regarded; and if not regarded, to aggravate their ſin the more. See 1 King.12.24.

Why tranſgreſs ye the commandments of the Lord] Gods commandments declare what he would have men obſerve. To tranſgreſs them is to oppoſe the revealed will of God, which is plain rebellion. See ch.12.2. 1 King.8.50. 2 King.18.12. 1 Chr.5.25.

that ye cannot proſper] Rebellion againſt God keepeth men from all bleſſing and good ſucceſs. See ch. 13. 12. 1 Chron. 22. 11.

becauſe ye have forſaken the Lord] See 1 King.11.33. ch.12. 5. & 15.2.

he hath alſo forſaken you] They renounced God from being their Lord, and ſerved falſe gods; therefore God renounced them from being his people, and gave them over into the hand of their enemies. God deals with men according to their dealing with him, 2 Sam.2.30.

V.21. And they] The idolatrous Princes, v.17. and the people that were like them.

conſpired againſt him] See 1 King.15.27. & 16.9. They conſulted together how they might deſtroy him, as Mar.3.6. and ſtoned him with ſtones] This kind of death they put ſuch as they accounted heinous malefactors unto, as Num.15.36. Joſh. 7. 25. 1 King.21.13.

at the commandment of the King] It is probable that they who conſpired and conſulted together went to the King to know his mind; and that he being asked, commanded that Zechariah ſhould be ſtoned.

in the court of the houſe of the Lord] Zechariah was in the Prieſts court; the King, Princes and people, in the great court. See 1 King.6.36. The altar of burnt-offerings being at the entrance of the Prieſts court, and Zechariah ſtanding by it, they might there ſtone him; and in that reſpect be ſaid to ſlay him between the Temple and the Altar, Matth.23.35.

V.22. Thus Joaſh the King remembred not the kindneſs which Jehoiada his father had done to him] This act of the Kings was more then monſtrous ingratitude.

but ſlew his ſon] Jehoiada had preſerved Joaſh from death, nouriſhed him in the Lords houſe till he ſet him upon the throne, inſtructed him, and been a means of many bleſſings unto him; and yet he unjuſtly and cruelly ſlew his ſon, onely for giving him good counſel, and that in the houſe of God.

and when he died, he ſaid] That which he ſaid at the time of his death was by ſpecial inſtinct: nor may we think that ſo holy a man would end his dayes with a revengeful imprecation in his mouth. For we read the contrary not onely of Chriſt, Luk.23.34. but alſo of Stephen, Act.7.60.

The Lord look upon it, and require it] i. e. take ſpecial notice of this cruel act, and require juſt vengeance of the blood ſo unjuſtly ſhed on the ſhedders thereof. See Gen.9.5. Pſal.9.12. Some tranſlate it in the future tenſe, as a propheſie or prediction, The Lord will look upon it, and require it.

V.23. And it came to paſs] From hence to v.27. is ſet down Gods ſore vengeance upon the King and his people for the foreſaid ſin.

at the end of the year] Heb. in the revolution of the year. When kings uſed to go out to battel, 1 King.20.22. This may have reference either to the death of Zechariah, that this judgement fell out in the ſame year; or to a former invaſion which Hazael made into the land of Judah, 2 King.12.17.

that the hoſt of Syria came up againſt him, and they came to Judah and Jeruſalem] Through the whole land of Judah, even to Jeruſalem, the chief city, where the Kings palace was. This ſheweth that this was another invaſion then that, 2 King.12.17,18. For then Hazael onely ſet his face to go to Jeruſalem, and Joaſh by a great bribe moved him to return from him.

and deſtroyed all the Princes of the people from among the people] Theſe Princes had firſt ſeduced the King, and drawn him to ſin againſt his God; therefore the judgement firſt cometh on them. The enemies were herein directed by God.

and ſent all the ſpoyl of them] Them hath reference to the King and Princes. The enemies ſpoyled them of their goods.

unto the king of Damaſcus] Heb. Dameſek. Hazael having ſlain Benhadad, 2 King.8.15. and reigned in his ſtead, ſundry Kings after him were named Hazael; one whereof made the firſt invaſion againſt Joaſh 2 King.12.17. And that Hazael might be the King here mentioned. For though upon the great gift given him he went away at firſt from Jeruſalem, 2 King.12.18. yet he might be ſtirred up again to ſend his men againſt it. Some hold that that Hazael was now dead, and another King in his room, who regarded not the conditions which his Predeceſſor had made.

V.24. For the army of the Syrians came with a ſmall company of men] The King of Syria was very confident in the prowesſ and valour of his men, who had before this entred into Judah, 2 King.12.17. and he had alſo obſerved the timorouſneſs of the men of Judah, who gave ſo great a preſent to the Syrians to depart out of their countrey, 2 King.12.18. or elſe he would never have been ſo imprudent as with ſo ſmall an army to attempt ſo great a matter. But without queſtion God put ſpirit into him, and ſtirred him up hereunto, as the words following imply. See Deut.32.30.

and the Lord delivered a very great hoſt into their hand] Multitudes of men, where God taketh away ſpirit, can no do good at all. See Lev.26.37.

becauſe they had forſaken the Lord God of their fathers] God forſakes them who forſake him, v. 20. and they that are forſaken of God cannot ſtand againſt their enemies. See v.18.

So they executed judgement againſt Joaſh] This implyeth that God made the Syrians his inſtruments to execute his judgement on Joaſh.

V.25. And when they were departed from him] This was an evidence of Gods patience, who ſuffered theſe Miniſters of his juſtice to depart from that wretched King, whereby he had a breathing-time and an opportunity of repenting.

for they left him in great diſeaſes] They had wounded him ſore, and maladies ariſing from wounds are called diſeaſes or ſickneſſes, 1 King.22.34. 2 King.8.29. ch.35.23. Some ſuppoſe that the enemies had put him to ſome great tortures.

his own ſervants conſpired againſt him] Certainly Joaſh made not that uſe of the enemies departing from him that he ſhould have done: Behold therefore a more heavy judgement, and that by his own ſervants, which is a great aggravation. Joaſh conſented to thoſe that conſpired againſt Zechariah, v.21. and God ſuffers his ſervants to conſpire againſt him.

for the blood] Blood is a crying ſin, Gen.4.10. and here noted as one of the moſt proper cauſes of the judgements on Joaſh.

of the ſons of Jehoiada the Prieſt] We read but of one ſon ſlain, but it may be their rage extended againſt other ſons alſo. Or, as they ſlew Zechariah, ſo they might afterwards ſlay his ſons, (as Naboths ſons were ſlain with him, 2 King.9.26.) and theſe being grandchildren of Jehoiada might be called his ſons. Or, by a Synecdoche the plural number may be put for the ſingular.

and ſlew him on his bed, and he dyed] Theſe ſervants of the King did not depart from him after they had wounded him, as the Syrians did, but clean deprived him of life. Becauſe other judgements prevailed not with him, God ſuffered him to be clean cut off.

and they buried him] To wit, ſuch friends as he had about him, or the people of the land.

in the city of David] See 1 King.2.10.

but they buried him not in the ſepulchres of the kings] So they dealt with his wicked grandfather, ch.21.20.

V.26. And theſe are they that conſpired againſt him] As men that have done famous acts uſe to be regiſtred by name for honours ſake, ſo are many that commit wicked facts, for their greater infamy and diſgrace.

Zabad] Or, Jozachar, 2 Kings 12.21.

the ſon of Shimeath an Ammoniteſs] Or, Shimeah, 2 Kings 12.21.

and Jehozabad the ſon of Shimrith] Or, Shomer, 2 King.12.21.

a Moabiteſs] Theſe two though ſtrangers by parentage might be incorporated into the Common-wealth of Judah: Or though their predeceſſors came from Ammon and Moab, (of whom ſee ch.20.1.) yet they might be born in the Kingdom of Judah, and ſo become ſervants to Joaſh. No particular cauſe of their anger againſt their maſter is ſet down, but certainly they were Miniſters of Gods juſtice, though they acted out of private revenge.

V.27. Now concerning his ſons] Namely, how many he had, by what wives, to what age they grew, what offices they had, what was their life, and what their death, with other like circumſtances.

and the greatneſs of the burdens laid upon him] This may be applyed to that which he gave to the King of Syria, 2 King.12.18.

and the repairing of the houſe of God] Heb. founding. It may be the foundation of the Temple was in ſome place decayed, and thereupon repaired by him.

behold, they are written in the ſtory] Or, Commentary.

of the book of the Kings] Some of theſe things are regiſtred in that part of Scripture which is called The book of the Kings. But becauſe other things are not mentioned therein, ſome civil records muſt here be meant.

And Amaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Like his father, he began his reign well, but ended it impiouſly, and had himſelf a miſerable end.

CHAP. XXV.

Verſ.1. AMaziah was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, &c.] See 2 King.14.2. This Amaziah made ſhew of ſome good things, but at laſt he ſhewed himſelf to be a plain hypocrite. From hence to v.6. are ſome good things of him noted, but afterwards ſins and judgements.

V.2. And he did that which was right, &c.] See 2 King.14.3.

but not with a perfect heart] This phraſe noteth his hypocriſy, 2 King.14.3. it is thus explained, yet not like David his father. See 1 King.11.4. This is added 2 King.14.3. He did according to all things as Joaſh his father did.

V.3. Now it came to paſs when the kingdom was eſtabliſhed to him, &c.] Heb. confirmed to him. See 2 King.14.5.

V.4. But he ſlew not their children, &c.] See 2 Kings 14.6. Jer.31.30.

V.5. Moreover Amaziah gathered Judah together] i.e. the Kingdome of Judah, compriſing under it Benjamin as well as Judah.

and made them captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds] See 1 Chron.13.1. He gathered all ſorts of his ſubjects together, but of ſome choyce ones among them he made captains.

according to the houſes of their fathers] He diſtinguiſhed the companies which he ſet under Captains according to the families in the tribes.

throughout all Judah and Benjamin] Through his whole Kingdom, that every part might be ſecured againſt enemies.

and he numbred them from twenty years old and above] According to the law, Numb.1.18.

and found them three hundred thouſand choyce men] i.e. ſuch as had greater courage, ſtrength and experience then the common ſort. 1 Chr.7.4. & 19.10.

able to go forth to war] Theſe were ſuch as are ſaid to be skilfull in war, and that went out to the war, 1 Chr.5.18. and fit to go out for war, and apt to the war, 1 Chr.7.11,40.

that could handle ſpear and ſhield] Theſe two by Synecdoche are put for all warlike inſtruments, 1 Chr.12.8,33.

V.6. He hired alſo an hundred thouſand] Theſe joyned with the three hundred thouſand, v.5. made as great an Army as that of Abijahs, ch.13.3.

mighty men of valour] See 1 Chr.5.24.

out of Iſrael] i.e. the ten tribes revolted from the houſe of David.

for an hundred talents of ſilver] i.e. thirty ſeven thouſand five hundred pound ſterling. See 1 Chr.22.14. So every Regiment conſiſting of a thouſand had a Talent of ſilver, i.e. three hundred ſeventy five pounds.

V.7. But there came a man of God to him, ſaying] See 1 Kings 13.1.

O King] This man being ſent of God fears not to declare his Meſſage plainly to the Kings face.

let not the army of Iſrael go with thee] Help is not to be ſought of ſuch as forſake God, and revolt from his worſhip.

for the Lord is not with Iſrael] He had been with them before their revolt; but they having forſaken the Lord, the Lord had forſaken them. See ch.24.20.

to wit, with all] Or, with any, Pſal.103.2.

the children of Ephraim] Ephraim is here put for the ten tribes, as Judah for the other two, Hoſ.6.4. So Jer.7.15. For Ephraim had the priviledge of the firſt-born, Gen.48.19. & it was the greateſt tribe of the ten, Joſh.17.14,17. Out of it the firſt King of Iſrael aroſe, 1 Kings 21.26. To ſhew that their revolt was the cauſe of Gods not being with them, mention is here made of Ephraim.

V.8. But if thou wilt go] If thou wilt follow thine own mind rather then Gods will, and truſt in the arm of fleſh. This he addeth to deterre the King of Judah from entertaining the men of Iſrael.

do it] This is an ironical conceſſion, like that ch. 18.14.

be ſtrong for the battel] This alſo is ſpoken ironically, implying that all the preparations he could make would be in vain.

God ſhall make thee fall before the enemy] Notwithſtanding all thy preparations the enemy ſhall prevail againſt thee.

for God hath power to help, and to caſt down] Succeſs in war (as in other things) is wholly ordered by God. See ch.14.11.

V.9. And Amaziah ſaid to the man of God] The King was ſomewhat wrought upon by the meſſage of the Prophet.

But what ſhall we do for the hundred talents] He knew not well how to recover them from ſuch a numerous company without much blood-ſhed and great hazard; and this troubled him.

which I have given to the army of Iſrael] Heb. band of Iſrael. They had the promiſed reward in hand, and the King well knew they would not eaſily let it go.

And the man of God anſwered, The Lord is able to give thee much more then this] It is Gods bleſſing whereby men get, Prov.10.22, and without his bleſſing nothing proſpers, Pſal.127.1,2.

V.10. Then Amaziah ſeparated them] They were ſet in rank with the men of Judah, but now he ſevereth them.

to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim] Here Ephraim is put for all the ten tribes of Iſrael, as v.7.

to go home again] Heb. to go to their place. Every one to his home from whence he came.

wherefore their anger was greatly kindled againſt Judah] For they took themſelves to be ſcorned, as if their aid had not been worth the having: therefore though they had their hire to the full, yet that ſatisfied them not, by reaſon of their conceit of ſcorn. See the like 2 Sam.19.41,42,43.

and they returned home in great anger] Heb. in heat of anger. Thus much is manifeſted by the revenge they took v.13.

V.11. And Amaziah ſtrengthened himſelf] With his own men, the three hundred thouſand mentioned v.5.

and led forth his people] He himſelf as a General went before his Army.

and went to the valley of ſalt] See 2 King.14.7.

and ſmote of the children of Seir] Or, of Edom. See ch.20.10.

ten thouſand] See 2 King.14.7.

V.12. And other ten thouſand left alive] Namely, in the battel, and not ſlain in the field.

did the children of Judah carry away captive] For Amaziah routed the whole army of the Edomites, and ſo took captives ſuch as were not ſlain out-right.

and brought them unto the top of the rock] Some tranſlate it Petra, and take it for the proper name of a place, and ſay it is the ſame that is called Selah, which Amaziah in this expedition took by war, 2 King. 14.7.

and caſt them down from the top of the rock] The reaſon why the children of Judah thus dealt with the Edomites, may be, becauſe having been ſubdued by David and made tributaries, 1 Chr.18.13. in the dayes of Joram ſon of Jehoſhaphat they rebelled, notwithſtanding they were then deſtroyed with a great ſlaughter, 2 Kings 8.20,21,22.

that they all were broken in pieces] Their brains were daſht out, and their bones broken, and it may be their arms and legs violently rent from their body.

V.13. But the ſouldiers of the army which Amaziah ſent back] Heb. the ſons of the band which he ſent back, v.10.

that they ſhould not go with him to battel] This is added, as the reaſon why they were ſent back.

fell upon the cities of Judah] To wit, ſuch as were on the frontires, and bordered on the Kingdom of Iſrael.

from Samaria even unto Beth-horon] All along the breadth of Judah. Beth-horon was in the tribe of Benjamin. See 1 Kings 9.17.

and ſmote three thouſand of them] i.e. of the inhabitants of the cities. The ſlaughter of ſo many ſheweth their wrath was great, as is noted v. 10.

and took much ſpoyl] To wit, out of the cities which they invaded, and out of the country of Judah all along.

V.14. Now it came to paſs, after that Amaziah was come from the ſlaughter of the Edomites] This ſlaughter which he made after he had ſent away the hundred thouſand hired ſouldiers, ſhould have raiſed his heart up to God, of whom the man of God put him in mind, v.8,9. but he made no ſuch uſe of it.

that he brought the gods of the children of Seir] David would not do ſo, but burnt the gods of his enemies which he took, 1 Chr.14.12. Theſe children of Seir were the Edomites, ch.20.10.

and ſet them up to be his gods] This was extreme impiety and monſtrous idolatry in it ſelf; but the greater, becauſe done by him who had done that which was right in the ſight of the Lord, v.3. and had obeyed the voyce of the Lord, v. 7, 10. and had received a great deliverance from the Lord, v.11,12.

and bowed down himſelf before them] This was Divine worſhip which he gave unto idols. See Numb.25.2. 1 Chr.29.20.

and burned incenſe unto them] Such ſervices as God enjoyned to be performed unto himſelf, Idolaters did to their Idols. See 1 Kin. 13.1.

V.15. Wherefore the anger of the Lord was kindled againſt Amaziah] See 2 King.22.13,17. & 23.26.

and he ſent unto him a Prophet] Though Gods anger were juſtly incenſed, and he might have deſtroyed Amaziah on a ſudden, yet through his patience and long-ſuffering he ſent a Prophet unto him, to try if he might bring him to repentance.

which ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou ſought after the gods of the people] By people are here meant ſuch nations as had no knowledge of the true God, Pſal.147.20. And this aggravated Amaziah's idolatry; The true God was made known to him, and yet he imitated thoſe that knew him not.

which could not deliver their own people out of thine hand] This is another aggravation. He left Jehovah that true God who had given him a great victory, and worſhipped ſuch Gods as could not deliver thoſe that had worſhipped them.

V.16. And it came to paſs as he talked with him, that the King ſaid unto him] Amaziah was ſo far from well heeding what the Prophet ſaid, as he was wroth with him.

Art thou made of the Kings counſel?] Becauſe himſelf had not choſen this Prophet to be of his counſel, he refuſed to hearken to that counſel which was ſent from God. A very impious diſpoſition. See on Gen.19.9.

forbear] He would have him to ſpeak no more in Gods name, becauſe it was againſt his own wicked mind.

why ſhouldeſt thou be ſmitten?] Heb. why ſhould they ſmite thee? This is a menacing ſpeech, implying that his guard or others that attended him would deſtroy him if he continued to upbraid the King with what he had done.

Then the Prophet forbare] When means of reclaiming men from ſin and preventing judgement are deſpiſed, God will withhold thoſe means, that they may be no longer abuſed.

and ſaid, I know that God hath determined] Heb. counſelled. For Gods determinations are not raſh, but upon good adviſe and counſel.

to deſtroy thee] Refuſing to hear Gods meſſengers is the ready way to deſtruction. See ch.24.19. & 36.16. 1 Sam.2.25.

becauſe thou haſt done this] This hath reference to v.14. where Amaziahs idolatry is ſet forth.

and haſt not hearkened unto my counſel] He ſpeaketh this as a Prophet of the Lord, from whom he brought that counſel which he gave to the King.

V.17. Then Amaziah King of Judah took advice] Hee took advice with ſuch counſellors as Rehoboam did, ch.10.9. who obſerving the Kings diſpoſition flattered him, and gave ſuch counſel as was moſt agreeable to his humour.

and ſent to Joaſh, &c.] Or, he ſent meſſengers to Joaſh, 2 Kings 14.8.

V.18. And Joaſh king of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah, &c.] See 2 Kings 14.9.

The thiſtle, &c.] Or, fur-buſh, or thorn. He meaneth ſuch low plants as are contemptible, at leaſt in compariſon of a tall Cedar.

and there paſſed by a wild beaſt, &c.] Heb. a beaſt of the field. Such beaſts as uſed continually to abide in the field.

V.19. Thou ſayeſt, Lo, thou haſt ſmitten the Edomites] This is ſet down 2 Kings 14.10. as a matter granted, Thou haſt indeed ſmitten Edom.

and thine heart lifteth thee up to boaſt] Or, and thine heart hath lifted thee up, 2 King.14.10.

abide now at home, &c.] Or, glory of this, and tarry at home, 2 King. 14.10.

V.20. But Amaziah would not hear] See 2 King.14.11.

for it came of God] See 1 King. 12.24.

that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies] God oft ſuffereth evil doers to pull judgements on their own pates.

becauſe they ſought after the Gods of Edom] Though God gave victory to Amaziah, yet he abuſing the victory unto groſſe idolatry, he raiſed up other enemies to be his ſcourge, and to puniſh him for it. See v.14.

V.21. So Joaſh the king of Iſrael went up, &c.] See 2 Kings 14.11.

V.22. And Judah was put to the worſe, &c.] See 2 King.14.12.

V.23. And Joaſh the king of Iſrael took Amaziah, &c.] See 2 King. 14.13.

the ſon of Joaſh] Or, of Jehoaſh.

the ſon of Jehoahaz] Or, the ſon of Ahaziah. This man had three names. See ch.21.17.

at Beth-ſhemeſh, and brought him to Jeruſalem, &c.] See 2 Kings 14.13.

from the gate of Ephraim to the corner-gate] Heb. the gate of it that looketh. At a corner-gate men may look divers wayes.

V.24. And he took all the gold, &c.] See 2 King.14.14.

with Obed-Edom] Obed-Edom was a Porter of the houſe of God in Davids time; and he had many ſons deputed to that function, 1 Chr.13.13. & 16.38. & 26.4,15. So as the poſterity of Obed-Edom is here meant.

V.25. And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh, &c.] See 2 King.14.17.

V.26. Now the reſt of the acts of Amaziah, firſt and laſt] Both the good things in the beginning of his reign, and his apoſtacy in the end. See ch.12.15. & 16.11. & 20.34.

behold, are they not written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael?] Both Kingdoms had their publick Records or Chronicles. And becauſe there were tranſactions and wars betwixt Amaziah and the King of Iſrael, therefore Amaziahs acts were regiſtred in the Chronicles of both Kingdoms.

V.27. Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away from following the Lord] Heb. from after the Lord. That was, when he ſet up the Gods of the Edomites to be his gods, v.14.

that made a conſpiracy] Heb. conſpired a conſpiracy. It ſeemeth the people of the land deteſted that monſtrous idolatry, and thereupon conſpired, And though their conſpiracy broke not forth before the King of Iſrael had ſpoyled Jeruſalem, yet it began before.

againſt him in Jeruſalem] See 2 King.14.19.

V.28. They brought him upon horſes] See 2 King.14.20.

and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah] i.e. the city of David, as it is 2 King.14.20.

CHAP. XXVI.

Verſ.1. THen all the people of Judah took Uzziah, &c.] Or, Azariah, 2 King.14.21. He was the ninth King of Judah after the Diviſion. The former part of his reign was good: whereof there is relation from hence to v.16. But he fell away. His revolt, together with the puniſhment thereof, is ſet down v.16, &c.

V.2. He built Eloth, &c.] Or, Elath. See 2 King.14.22.

V.3. Sixteen years old was Uzziah, &c.] See 2 King.15.2.

V.4. And he did that which was right, &c.] See 2 King.15.3.

V.5. And he ſought God in the dayes of Zechariah] Of ſeeking God ſee 1 Chr.16.10,11. Zechariah was queſtionleſs a faithful Prophet of the Lord, and careful to inſtruct and direct the King as long as he lived; and the King was guided by him, as Joaſh was by Jehoiada, ch.24.2.

who had underſtanding in the viſions of God] Or, who made to underſtand in the fear of God. He might teach both the King and others ſuch things as belonged to the fear of God. By viſions of God may be meant ſuch as God had made known. For things revealed are ſpiritually ſeen. Zechariah, being a Prophet, might ſee viſions of God, as other Prophets, being called Seers, did: See 2 King.17.13. Or he might have an eſpecial gift to interpret the viſions and revelations of Prophets or other men; as Joſeph did, Gen.41.15. and Daniel, Dan. 1.17. & 2.19. & 10,1.

and as long as he ſought the Lord, God made him to proſper] See 1 Chr.22.11,13. God uſeth to deal with men according to their dealing with him: while they honour him, he bleſſeth them, 1 Sam.2.30. See ch.11.17. & 15.2.

V.6. And he went forth and warred againſt the Philiſtims] They were ever deadly enemies to Iſrael. See 1 Chron.1.12. & 10.1. & 14.18.

and brake down the wall of Gath] Gath was one of the five principal cities of the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.6.17. See on Amos 6.2. and the wall of Jabneh] This alſo was a city of the Philiſtims, but not mentioned elſewhere in Scripture.

and the wall of Aſhdod] See on Iſa.20.1. & Zeph.2.4.

and built cities about Aſhdod] Or, in the country of Aſhdod. Aſhdod was the name of a city, and alſo of a great part of the country round about it.

and among the Philiſtims] He much prevailed over them, ſeeing he had power to build cities and place garriſons among them. See 1 King.20.34.

V.7. And God helped him againſt the Philiſtims] This was the true ground of that ſucceſſe he had againſt his enemies. See 1 Chr. 5.20.

and againſt the Arabians] See ch.17.11. & 21.16. 1 King.10.15.

that dwelt in Gur-baal] Or, the plain of Gur. See 2 King.9.27.

and the Mehunims] Or, Hamonims. See ch.20.1. Some take theſe to be alſo people of Arabia, who by reaſon of their dwelling in tents are called Scenites. See 1 Chr.4 41. Theſe nations all borded upon Judah; the Philiſtims, Weſt; the Arabians, South; the Ammonites, or Hamonims, Eaſt.

V.8. And the Ammonites gave gifts to Uzziah] See ch.17.11.

and his name ſpread abroad] Heb. went. Was divulged abroad. See v.15.

even to the entring in of Egypt] Throughout all countreys betwixt Judah and Egypt: So as by Gods bleſſing on him the very heathen round about feared and honoured him, as 1 Chr.14.17. & ch. 17.10.

for he ſtrengthened himſelf exceedingly] This he did by thoſe means which are ſet down in the verſes following.

V.9. Moreover, Uzziah built towers in Jeruſalem] On or by the city-walls which the King of Iſrael had demoliſhed, ch.25.23.

at the corner-gate] See ch.25.23.

and at the valley-gate] See Neh.2.13. & 3.13.

and at the turning of the wall] Or, upon Mikeſoa. This is the Hebrew word: and ſome take it to be a proper name. Mention is made hereof Neh.3.19,24. It is ſuppoſed it was a Tower or Fort in the higheſt place of Zion.

and fortified them] Or, repaired them. This hath reference to all the particulars before mentioned.

V.10. Alſo he built towers in the deſert] This deſert is taken to be the wilderneſſe of Arabia. And this place Uzziah the rather fortified, that he might keep the Arabians from ſuch invaſions as they had made in Jehorams time, ch.21.16,17.

and digged many wells] Or, cut out many ciſterns. They had not ſuch ſtore of Rivers in the land of Judah as we have in theſe countreys. Thereupon they uſed what means they could to get and keep freſh water for all needful uſes, even for man and beaſt.

for he had much cattel] By this means plenty of victuals was preſerved.

both in the low country, and in the plains] By the low country may be meant marſh-grounds and medows; by plains, champion grounds that were not hilly.

husband-men alſo] This hath reference to the verb he had.

and vine-dreſſers in the mountains] They uſed to plant their vines on mountains, for the better ripening of their grapes.

and in Carmel] Or, in fruitfull fields. See 1 King.18.19.

for he loved husbandry] Heb. ground. He took great delight in ſeeing fruitful places well tilled and manured, and the various fruits that grew thereon.

V.11. Moreover Uzziah had an hoſt of fighting men] i.e. ſuch as are called mighty men of valour, ch.17.13. Herein he imitated Jehoſhaphat, ch.17.14,19.

that went out to war by bands] They were to be ready on all occaſions to go forth to battel.

according to the number of their account] He had his diſtinct Captains and ſouldiers under them divided into Regiments and Companies, which were regiſtred. See 1 Chr.27.1.

by the hand of Jeiel the Scribe] Of the office of a Scribe ſee 1 Kin. 4.3. Scribes uſed to regiſter ſuch things.

and Maaſiah the ruler] This was an officer that had the care of matters to be well ordered.

under the hand of Hananiah, one of the Kings captains] Or, under his command. This hath reference to the hoſt before mentioned.

V.12. The whole number of the chief of the fathers of the mighty men of valour, were two thouſand and ſix hundred] He muſt needs have a very great hoſt that had ſo many Commanders therein.

V.13. And under their hand] Or, under their command.

was an army] Heb. the power of an army. An army that had great power, or was very valiant.

three hundred thouſand and ſeven thouſand and five hundred] This was indeed a very great army, yet not like that which Jehoſhaphat had, ch.17.14. &c. The Kings of Judah and Iſrael trained up many ſouldiers in their dayes.

that made war with mighty power] This is to be taken rather of their ability then of any particular act.

to help the king againſt the enemy] When any enemy ſhould invade the land, or when the King would ſend them forth againſt an enemy.

V.14. And Uzziah prepared for them throughout all the hoſt] He took care to have them well furniſhed with ſuch armour and weapons as were requiſite for their places.

ſhields] For defenſe.

and ſpears] Both for defenſe and offenſe.

and helmets] To cover their heads.

and habergeons] Armour for back and breaſt.

and bows] To ſhoot arrows. See 1 Chr.5.18. & 12.2.

and ſlings to caſt ſtones] Heb. ſtones of ſlings. He provided both ſlings and ſtones, as we do Muskets and Bullets. Slings were much uſed by the Iſraelites in war; and the Benjamites were eſpecially skilful therein, Judg.20.16. 1 Chr.12.2.

V.15. And he made in Jeruſalem engines invented by cunning men] Heb. inventions by the invention of the inventor. This is an emphatical Hebraiſm, the meaning whereof is well ſet forth by our Tranſlatours. Theſe were for ſuch uſes as our great pieces and cannons, to annoy enemies afar off, or to batter down ſtrong walls and forts.

to be on the towers and upon the bulwarks]] So they might do the greater annoyance to an enemy, and that the farther off.

to ſhoot arrows] Theſe certainly were great and maſſy arrows, and many of them ſhot out of an engine together.

and great ſtones withall] Theſe were other kind of ſtones then they they v. 14. as great, if not greater, then our great cannon-bullets.

and his name ſpread far abroad] Heb. went forth. He was far and neer reported to be a puiſſant Prince, ſuch an one as enemies durſt not oppoſe. See v.8.

for he was marvellouſly helped] Namely, from God. See v.7.

till he was ſtrong] Till he came to be every way ſo well furniſhed and prepared againſt enemies as is before mentioned, and till he waxed ſo inſolent as is hereafter noted.

V.16. But when he was ſtrong] See v.15. Here begins his falling away from God.

his heart was lifted up] See ch.25.19. Men are prone to abuſe Gods bleſſings and that power they have to pride and ſelf-confidence.

to his deſtruction] Pride is the fore-runner of ruine. It maketh men attempt ſuch things as provoke Gods wrath againſt them.

for he tranſgreſſed againſt the Lord] In doing ſuch things as he had expreſly forbidden.

his God] This was a great aggravation of his ſin, that God having ſo many wayes ſhewed himſelf his God, he notwithſtanding ſhould ſo ſin againſt him.

and went into the temple of the Lord] Whereinto none but Prieſts and Levites might enter, Numb. 18.6,7. to burn incenſe] See 1 King.9.25. & 13.1.

upon the altar of incenſe] That golden Altar which was ſet cloſe to the entring into the Moſt holy place, Exod.30.6. This ſheweth the height of Uzziahs impiety and monſtrous preſumption. He went through the Prieſts court, the high porch, and the Holy place, even to the uppermoſt part thereof; into none of which places he ought at all to have gone. Then he offered incenſe, which none but Prieſts might do, v.18. Finally, he offered it upon the Altar of incenſe, which none but the high Prieſt might do, Exod.30.7,8. Lev.16.13.

V.17. And Azariah the Prieſt] He was then high Prieſt, v.20.

went in after him] It ſeems the King had not made known his mind to the Prieſts before he went in, or elſe they would have oppoſed him and not ſuffered him to go in at all, rather then have followed him.

and with him fourſcore Prieſts of the Lord] The ſpirits of other Prieſts as well as of the high Prieſt were ſtirred up againſt his impiety. And the high Prieſt taketh ſo many with him the more to daunt the King.

that were valiant men] Men of great courage and great ſtrength.

V.18. And they withſtood Uzziah the King] It ſeems the King had taken the golden cenſer into his hand to burn incenſe thereon, v.19. but they would not ſuffer him to go on.

and ſaid unto him] They labour by words to diſſwade him from that he was about to do.

It appertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah] Kings muſt not venture on ſuch things as belong not to them.

to burn incenſe unto the Lord] See Numb.16.40. & 18.7.

but to the Prieſts the ſons of Aaron, that are conſecrated to burn incenſe] This was one ſpecial duty for which Prieſts were ſet apart and appointed to be for men in things appertaining to God. See Exod. 30.7.

Go out of the Sanctuary] i. e. the Holy place. It was in Gods cauſe and in Gods name that he uſed ſo peremptory a charge to a King.

for thou haſt treſpaſſed] See v.16.

neither ſhall it be for thine honour] No ſin, though men have it in high eſteem, can be to a mans honour, but is his ſhame and diſhonour. This is ſpoken in oppoſition to Uzziahs high proud thoughts.

from the Lord God] God reſiſteth the proud, Jam.4.6. Acts of pride bring therefore ſhame and diſgrace from God, not honour.

V.19. Then Uzziah was wroth] As Aſa, ch.16.10. Theſe two, Aſa and Uzziah, ſeemed to be very good Kings for the greateſt part of their reign; but both of them fell foully. In both examples we ſee how much great men ſcorn to be checkt for their ſins, and how little Gods ſervants are regarded by them in their heat of ſinning.

and had a cenſer in his hand] See 1 King.7.50. It ſeemeth he had ſnatcht it up ſo ſoon as he came to the Altar.

to burn incenſe] This ſhews his intent: but withall it implies that he had not done the fact; for he was prevented by the hand of God.

and while he was wroth with the Prieſts] His wrath againſt the Prieſts did the more incenſe Gods wrath againſt him.

the leproſie even roſe up in his forehead] There it ſuddenly manifeſted it ſelf. And the ſudden riſing of the leproſie on his face ſhewes that it was a judgement from the Lord; as Numb.12.10.

before the Prieſts in the houſe of the Lord] While they were ſtanding againſt him, v.18. This is here noted to ſhew that the Lord took their part, and thereby encouraged them to perſiſt in reſiſting him.

from beſide the incenſe-altar] Or, from upon the incenſe-altar. This being referred to the judgement, implyeth that ſome viſible evidence of Gods wrath appeared at the Altar, whereby he made it appear that the judgement was inflicted by him. See Lev.10.2. The earth-quake mentioned Amos 1.1. Zach.14.5. to be in Uzziah's time ſome ſuppoſe was now.

and all the Prieſts looked upon him] For they ſtood oppoſit againſt him, face to face.

and behold, he was leprous in his forehead] The ſuddenneſs of this judgement made it the more remarkable.

and they thruſt him out] Their office, their holy zeal, and Gods manifeſting his indignation againſt the Kings fact, v. 19. made them thus couragious.

from thence] From that holy place whereinto he had preſumptuouſly entred.

yea, himſelf alſo haſted to go out] As Eſth.6.12. Shame and grief forced him to make the more haſt.

becauſe the Lord had ſmitten him] He now diſcerned that the Lord himſelf was diſpleaſed with him.

V.21. And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death] See 2 King.15.5.

and dwelt in a ſeveral houſe] Heb. free.

being a leper] For the law enjoyned lepers to live by themſelves, Lev. 13.46.

for he was cut off from the houſe of the Lord] He might not go ſo much as to the court of the people. He that preſumed to go further into the houſe of the Lord then he ſhould, excluded himſelf from that liberty that before he had.

and Jotham his ſon was over the kings houſe, &c.] See 2 Kings 16.5.

V.22. Now the reſt of the acts of Uzziah, firſt and laſt] See ch.12.15. & 16.11. & 20. 34.

did Iſaiah the Prophet the ſon of Amoz] See Iſa.1.1.

write] Iſaiah in his Propheſie hath ſundry paſſages concerning Uzziah and the eſtate of Judah in Uzziahs dayes. So that this may have reference to that Propheſy. Or, Iſaiah might be a penman of ſome part of the ſecond book of Kings. Or, Iſaiah might write ſome records of the Kings in whoſe dayes he lived, which are not now extant.

and they buried him with his fathers] See 2 King.15.7.

in the field of the burial which belonged to the Kings] This field was within the city of David; whereof ſee 1 King.2.10. It is ſaid to belong to the Kings becauſe it was their inheritance. But whether it were that field wherein the ſepulchres of David, Solomon and other Kings of Judah that were honoured in their burials were, is queſtionable. Some hold that it was the ſame field, but that Uzziah was buried in a remote place thereof, where none of the other Kings ſepulchres were. So was wicked Jehoram buried, ch. 21,20. and that notorious apoſtate, Joaſh, ch.24.25.

for they ſaid, He is a leper] This is the reaſon why they afforded him not ſuch honour in his funeral as had been done to many of his predeceſſors. As in his life, v.21. ſo in his death he was ſeparated from others.

and Jotham his ſon reigned in his ſtead] See 2 King.15.7.

CHAP. XXVII.

Verſ.1 JOtham was twenty and five years old, &c.] See 2 King.15. 32, 33. Jotham was the tenth King of Judah from the Diviſion. His hiſtory is briefly regiſtred in this chapter; And nothing but good is related, except the peoples doing corruptly in his time, v.2.

V.2. And he did that which was right,&c.] See 2 King. 15.34.

Howbeit he entred not into the temple of the Lord] This was his father Uzziah's great ſin, ch.26.16, &c. And Jothams forbearing of that is here expreſſed to ſhew that he was not like his father in the evil which he did, but in the good onely.

And the people did yet corruptly] This general is thus explained 2 King.15.35. The people ſacrificed and burnt incenſe ſtill in the high places. And this is ſet down as a fault in Jothams government. It is thereupon ſaid, The high places were not removed: Had he removed them, he might have prevented the peoples corruption therein.

V.3. He built the high gate, &c.] See 2 King.15.35.

and on the wall of Ophel] Or, tower thereof. See 2 King.5.24.

he built much] Ophel was a place for defenſe, and might be decayed in Jothams time; and ſo he might beſtow much about the repair thereof. For ſuch things as are well repaired are in Scripture-phraſe ſaid to be built. See ch.11.5,6. Or, he might build Fortreſſes thereabouts.

V.4. Moreover he built cities in the mountains of Judah] i. e. ſuch hilly places as were not inhabited. In theſe he built cities, both for the increaſe and better defenſe of his Kingdom.

and in the foreſts he built caſtles and towers] Foreſts alſo uſed to be places not inhabited; but they were accounted pleaſant places, as the Foreſt of Carmel, 1 King. 19. 25. the Foreſt of Lebanon, 2 Chr.9.16. In theſe he built caſtles and towers againſt invaſions of enemies. Some tranſlate the word here turned caſtles, palaces, fair and ſumptuous buildings: but the former is more pertinent to this place. This very word is uſed ch.17.12. and there fitly tranſlated, as in this place, Caſtles.

V.5. He fought alſo with the king of the Ammonites] See ch.20.1. Whether they invaded Judah, or Jotham went out to ſubdue them in their own country, is not expreſſed.

and prevailed againſt them] This is added for commendation of his valour, and demonſtration of Gods bleſſing on him.

And the children of Ammon gave him the ſame year] He brought the Ammonites ſo under his juriſdiction as he made them tributaries to him.

an hundred talents of ſilver] i.e. thirty ſeven thouſand five hundred pound ſterling. See 1 Chr.22.14.

and ten thouſand meaſures of wheat] Heb. Cors. See 1 Kings 4.22.

and ten thouſand of barley] If the quantity of the meaſure here ſet down be duly weighed, we ſhall find the tribute of wheat and barley that the Ammonites paid to the King of Judah to be very great.

So much] Heb. much. Or, this.

did the children of Ammon pay unto him both the ſecond year and the third] For the three firſt years Jotham exacted ſo much yearly of the Ammonites. This time being here expreſly ſet down, it is probable that afterwards he eaſed them.

V.6. So Jotham became mighty] See ch.13.21.

becauſe he prepared] Or, eſtabliſhed. As he began ſo he continued.

his wayes] i.e. his counſels, his actions, yea, and the whole courſe of his life.

before the Lord his God] So as he approv'd himſelf unto the Lord; the rather becauſe the Lord had given him many evidences that he was in ſpecial manner his God. See ch.14.2,11.

V.7. Now the reſt of the acts of Jotham] See 1 King.11.41.

and all his wars] This implyeth that he waged more wars, and that with ſucceſs, then are here ſet down.

and his wayes] See v.6.

lo, they are written in the book of the Kings, &c. See ch.16.11.

V.8. He was five and twenty years old, &c.] See 2 King. 15.33.

V.9. And Jotham ſlept, &c.] See 1 King.2. 10.

and Ahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead] An impious ſon ſucceded a pious father. He was the eleventh from the Diviſion.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Verſ.1. A*Haz was twenty years old*, &c.] See 2 King. 16.2. In this chapter the hiſtory of one of the moſt impious Kings that Judah had is ſet forth.

V.2. For he walked in the wayes, &c.] See 2 King.16.3.

and made alſo molten images for Baalim] See 1 King. 16.31. & 18. 18. ch. 24.7. They thought it an honour to their idols to make repreſentations of them, and to conſecrate images unto them. They called their idols Baalim, becauſe they accounted them their Lords.

V.3. Moreover he burnt incenſe] Or, offered ſacrifice. See 1 King. 9. 25.

in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom] See 2 King.16.3.

and burnt his children in the fire, &c.] Lev.18. 21. Or, made his ſons to paſs through the fire, 2 King.16.3.

V.4. He ſacrificed alſo, &c.] See 2 King.16.4.

V.5. Wherefore the Lord his God] See ch.26.16. Though in regard of the people over whom he was King, and the place where his throne was, the Lord is ſaid to be his God, yet he ſeverely puniſheth his iniquity.

delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria] Rezin, 2 Kings 16.5.

and they ſmote him] To wit, the army or Souldiers under Rezin; and that when they took Elath, 2 King.16.6.

and carried away a great multitude of them captives] This was before Rezin and Pekah had come up to Jeruſalem to beſiege it; for then they could not overcome Ahaz, 2 King. 16.5. Beſides, Rezin was forced to go from Jeruſalem to defend Damaſcus, beſieged by the King of Aſſyria. There Rezin was ſlain, 2 King.16.9.

and brought them to Damaſcus] Heb. Darmeſek. See on Iſa.7.8. and he was alſo delivered into the hand of the king of Iſrael] To wit, Pekah, v.6. This alſo was after the foreſaid attempt.

who ſmote him with a great ſlaughter] See ch. 13.17.

V.6. For Pekah the ſon of Remaliah] See 2 King.15.27.

ſlew in Judah an hundred and twenty thouſand in one day] At one battel, in the fight and purſuit. See 1 King.20.29.

which were all valiant men] Heb. ſons of valour. This Hebraiſm addeth much emphaſis, and ſheweth that they were full of courage and of great ſtrength from their youth, becauſe they had forſaken the Lord] See ch.21.10. & 24. 20,24.

God of their fathers] See 1 Chr.5.25. Deut.32.30.

V.7. And Zichri a mighty man of Ephraim] This was a man of more then ordinary ſtrength and courage, and therefore here named.

ſlew Maaſeiah the kings ſon] i.e. the ſon of Ahaz King of Judah. And it may be he was then his eldeſt ſon.

and Azrikam the governour of the houſe] He that had the chief command under the King in the Court or Royal Palace: we call ſuch an one Lord high Steward of the Kings houſe.

and Elkanah that was next to the king] Heb. the ſecond to the King. This was a man in ſuch place and of ſuch authority as Joſeph was in Egypt, Gen.41. 40, 43, 44. Theſe three that were ſlain are thus ſet down to magnifie the valour of Zichri: For queſtionleſſe theſe three great perſonages had many to guard them.

V.8. And the children of Iſrael carried away captive of their brethren] This title brethren hath relation to the common ſtock whence both the children of Judah and the children of Iſrael came. See ch.11.4.

two hundred thouſand women, ſons and daughters] Theſe ſons and daughters were queſtionleſſe young children. This is noted to aggravate the cruelty of the Iſraelites, who ſpared neither ſex nor age. Or, ſons and daughters may imply Orphans, whoſe fathers were ſlain in the war; which is alſo an aggravation of their cruelty.

and took alſo away much ſpoyl from them] See v.15.

and brought the ſpoyl to Samaria] See 1 King.16.24.

V.9. But a Prophet of the Lord was there] God afforded Prophets to his people in the worſt times, to try if he might reclaim them.

whoſe name was Oded] There was a Prophet of this name in the dayes of Aſa, about two hundred years before this.

and he went out before the hoſt that came to Samaria] This Prophet met the hoſt of Iſrael before they entred into Samaria.

and ſaid unto them, Behold, becauſe the Lord God of your fathers] Though they had caſt off the God of their fathers, yet he had not caſt off them; therefore his Prophet uſeth this title to the idolatrous Iſraelites; and that in relation to the ancient Patriarchs from whom they came. See ch.13.12. 1 Chr.29. 18.

was wroth with Judah] Becauſe of their abominable idolatry, v.2,3,4.

he hath delivered them into your hand] This ſheweth that God overthrew the children of Judah, and gave victory to the children of Iſrael.

and ye have ſlain them in a rage] Enemies may in envy and malice proceed further againſt thoſe whom God giveth into their hands then he would have them, Zech.1.15. Iſa.47.6.

that reacheth up unto heaven] This is an hyperbole, implying the uttermoſt extremity of rage. For heaven is the higheſt part of the world. See Gen.11.4. Deut.9.1. Yea further it implyeth that the cry of their cruelty came up to heaven, where God was. See Ezra 9. 6. Gen. 4. 10. Certainly this extreme rage aroſe from the long diſagreement betwixt Iſrael and Judah, and the many wars that had been betwixt them, and the victories that the men of Judah had oft had over the Iſraelites.

V.10. And now you purpoſe] Heb. you ſay. Namely, within your ſelves. When men intend a thing, they uſe to reaſon with themſelves thereabouts. See 1 King.5.5.

to keep under the children of Judah and Jeruſalem for bond-men and bond-women unto you] The Jews were expreſly forbidden to make any of their brethren bond-ſervants, Lev.25.39,42.

but are there not with you, even with you] He ingeminates the point, to make them the more ſeriouſly conſider their own wayes, and to dive into their own hearts, ſins againſt the Lord] Though God have made you his ſcourge to puniſh Judah, yet if you well weigh your own wayes, you may find that you have given him juſt cauſe to ſtir up others to puniſh you.

your God] This he addeth to move them the rather to take heed of provoking the Lord againſt them by their unmercifulneſſe.

V.11. Now hear me therefore] The Prophet having declared their ſin, giveth good advice for preventing judgement.

and deliver the captives again] This was the beſt evidence of repentance that they could give, to ſhew mercy to thoſe with whom they had dealt unmercifully. See Iſa.58.6,7.

which ye have taken captive of your brethren] See v.8.

for the fierce wrath of God] Unmercifulneſs and cruelty exceedingly provoke Gods anger, Jam.2.13. See v.13.

is upon you] Doth hang over your head, and will aſſuredly fall upon you, if you continue to add ſuch cruelty as you have begun to uſe to the heap of your other ſins.

V.12. Then certain of the heads of the children of Ephraim] Either theſe were Commanders in the army, or ſuch Governours as remained in Samaria, to which city the army was now marching with their captives. They were for certain ſuch as had a command, and to whom the Prophet gave the forementioned advice. Ephraim is here put for all the ten tribes. See ch. 25.10.

Azariah, &c.] Here are four of thoſe Commanders ſet down by name, and deſcribed by their parentage, becauſe that which they did made much to their honour.

ſtood up againſt them that came from the war] They ſtood againſt the ſouldiers that brought the captives of Judah along with them, to keep them from proceeding any farther.

V.13. And ſaid unto them, ye ſhall not bring in the captives hither] Namely, into Samaria. Theſe commanders ſtood betwixt that city and the army.

for whereas we have offended againſt the Lord already] Heb. it will be for, or into, guilt of the Lord upon us. By guilt of the Lord a moſt grievous or hainous guilt is meant. The Hebrews, when they would ſet forth the excellency of a thing, uſe to ſay it is of God: See 1 Chr.12.22. So when they would aggravate the hainouſneſs of an evil, they uſe to affix the title of God unto it. Or, it may be ſaid to be a guilt of God, becauſe it was a ſin againſt the law, by which they ſtood guilty before him.

ye intend] Heb. ye ſay. See v.10.

to add more to our ſins] The idolatry of the whole land, and ſundry other notorious ſins common among the Iſraelites were ſo evident as they could not but know and acknowledge them; Which made them afraid of adding other ſins to them.

and to our treſpaſs] Heb. treſpaſſes. Some apply this word to the guilt that followeth upon ſin, and ſo diſtinguiſh it from ſins.

for our treſpaſs is great] They accounted it a very fooliſh and mad thing, to increaſe that evil which was very great before.

and there is fierce wrath againſt Iſrael] Hereby they imply that they had juſt cauſe to fear that ſome heavy judgement was hanging over their head. By wrath is here meant the anger of the Lord: for ſo great is his wrath as comparatively it alone may be called Wrath. So Numb.1.53. & 18.5. Joſh.22.20. 1 Chr.27.24 ch.24.18. Fierce, becauſe, as a fire, it may fiercely flame forth and conſume much, Ezra 10.14. 2 King.23.26. 2 Chr.30.8.

V. 14. So the armed men left] Though they were armed with power, yet they were moved by the arguments which were alledged.

the captives and the ſpoyl] See v.8.

before the Princes] Thoſe that are mentioned v.12.

and all the congregation] By this it appeareth that there were many people that accompanied the Princes, which are here called the congregation.

V.15. And the men which were expreſſed by name] v.12.

roſe up] This phraſe implyeth a ready and ſpeedy enterpriſing of a thing. See 1 King.14.2,4.

and took the captives[The women, ſons and daughters, v.8.

and with the ſpoyl clothed] Under the word ſpoyl all manner of commodities worth carrying away are compriſed, as quick cattel, ſilver, gold, other metals, all kind of houſhold-ſtuff, cloth both linen and woollen, apparel, and other like things. With theſe latter they clothed their captives.

all that were naked among them] Souldiers uſe to ſtrip many of thoſe whom they take captives.

and arrayed them, and ſhod them] They gave apparel and ſhooes to ſuch as wanted them.

and gave them to eat and to drink] For captives, eſpecially when they are led in a march, uſe not to be well provided for.

and anointed them] This kind of refreſhing was of old uſed to ſuch as were wearied. Or it may be that this anoynting was for ſuch as were wounded. See Luke 10.34.

and carried all the feeble of them upon aſſes] There being among the captives many women and children, v.8. ſome of them muſt needs be ſo weak and weary, and others ſo wounded, as they were not able on foot to go back again. This therefore was a great work of mercy.

and brought them to Jericho] Jericho was not far from Jordan, and it was at the borders of Judah.

the city of Palm-trees] See Deut.34.3. Joſh. 2.1. to their brethren] Namely, the men of Judah. Here the word brethren is more ſtrictly uſed then v. 8. for thoſe that were of the ſame Kingdom and under the ſame government.

then they returned to Samaria] i.e. Thoſe of Iſrael which were appointed to conduct the captives to the land of Judah, and there to leave them.

V.16. At that time] When the Kings of Syria and Iſrael diſtreſſed Ahaz, 2 King.18.5,6,7.

did king Ahaz ſend unto the kings of Iſrael to help him] One King of Aſſyria to whom Ahaz ſent is expreſly ſet down by name, Tiglath-Pilneſer, 2 King.16.7. and it may be he onely is meant, and the plural number, Kings, by Synecdoche put for the ſingular. So ch. 32.4. Or the plural is uſed for excellencies ſake, becauſe he being a great Monarch was inſtead of many Kings. Or there might be many Kings of Aſſyria under Tiglath-Pilneſer, and Ahaz might ſend to them all.

V.17. For again the Edomites] The Edomites might before annoy him, though no mention be made thereof. Or again may imply as much as alſo, q.d. Not the Iſraelites onely but alſo the Edomites ſmote him. עוד Gnod properly ſignifieth as yet, hitherto, to this time.

had come and ſmitten Judah] Amaziah had deſtroyed twenty thouſand of the Edomites, ch. 25.11,12. Yet here they make head again, and doe much miſchief to Ahaz.

and carried away captives] Heb. a captivity. The abſtract implyeth a multitude of captives.

V.18. The Philiſtins alſo had invaded] Whereas good Kings of Judah had brought under all the nations round about them, ch. 17.10. they much annoy this wicked King.

the cities of the low country] Where good paſtures were, and ſtore of cattel. See ch.26.10.

and of the ſouth of Judah] Theſe cities lay towards the countrey of Edom. See Joſh.15.21.

and had taken Bethſhemeſh] Of this city ſee 2 King.14.11.

with the villages thereof] Great cities uſed to have villages appertaining to them, as 1 Chr.4.32,33.

and Timnah with the villages thereof] Joſh.5.10,57.

Gimzo alſo and the villages thereof] There is no mention made of this city elſewhere, but it ſeemeth it was one of the bordering cities of Judah.

and they dwelt there] i.e. in all the ſix Cities here ſet down. The Philiſtims much prevailed againſt Judah, ſeeing they did not onely plunder them, but alſo continued to dwell in their cities.

V.19. For the Lord brought Judah low] By the multitude of valiant men partly ſlain, and partly taken captive, v. 5,6. by the great ſpoyls made, v 8. Yea, alſo by reaſon of the many cities taken, v. 18. and other miſeries that befell them.

becauſe of Ahaz] Wicked Kings bring judgements on their people.

king of Iſrael] Iſrael is here put for Judah, as ch. 12.1. & 21.2.

for he made Judah naked] This metaphor implyeth that they were ſtript and ſpoyled of their beauty, glory, wealth, and all manner of commodities; but eſpecially of Divine grace, favour and ſuccour, as Exod.32.25. Others read, he withdrew in Judah the worſhip of God; or, he drew Judah from the worſhip of God, Exod. 5.4.

and tranſgreſſed ſore againſt the Lord] Heb. by tranſgreſſing he tranſgreſſed. Of that Hebraiſm ſee 1 King.8.13. Sins againſt God ſtrip men of that which is precious unto them.

V.20. And Tilgath-Pilneſer king of Aſſyria] See 2 King.16.20.

came unto him] For Ahaz ſent for him, 2 King.16.7.

and diſtreſſed him] I. He laid a heavy tax upon him, to pay which he was forced to take the ſilver and gold that was found in the houſe of the Lord, and in the treaſures of the Kings houſe, 2 King.16.8. II. Though he took great gifts to free Ahaz from the Kings of Syria and Iſrael, yet he ſuffered the Syrian to take away a great city from Judah, namely Elath, 2 King.16.6. III. He reſtored not to Ahaz any thing that his enemies had taken away. In theſe and other reſpects Ahaz was much diſtreſſed by the King of Aſſyria, though he took Damaſcus, and ſlew the King thereof, and made great ſpoyls in Iſrael, 2 King.15.29. & 16.9.

but ſtrengthened him not] Afforded him no aid againſt his enemies.

V.21. For Ahaz took away a portion out of the houſe of the Lord] Or, he took away the ſilver and gold that was found, 2 King.16.8.

and out of the houſe of the King] Or, that was in the treaſures of the Kings houſe, 2 King.16.8.

and of the Princes] He did not onely ſpoyl the Lords houſe and his own, but alſo the houſes of his ſubjects.

and gave it unto the king of Aſſyria] Or, ſent it for a preſent, 2 King. 16.8.

but he helped him not] See v.20.

V.22. And yet in the time of his diſtreſs did he treſpaſs yet more againſt the Lord] This argued an obdurate heart and impudent diſpoſition, Iſa.1.5. For judgements are wont to turn men from their ſins, and to make them afraid of perſiſting therein, Hoſ. 5.14,15.

This is that king Ahaz] Of all men this man is to be marked for an obſtinate ſinner, who was no whit wrought upon by afflictions, but even under judgements continued to ſin, and thereby ſhewed an irreclaimable diſpoſition. Note him with a black coal. Some read, he was ſtill the ſame. So is this phraſe uſed, Pſal.102.27.

V.23. For he ſacrificed unto the gods of Damaſcus] Heb. Dameſek. Idolaters, who forſake the true God, are prone to follow after all ſorts of gods.

which ſmote him] This was Ahaz his opinion of them. Of the Syrians ſmiting Judah ſee v.5. & 2 King.16.6.

and he ſaid] The wicked pretend reaſons of their wickedneſſe, though moſt abſurd.

Becauſe the gods of the Kings of Syria help them] Ahaz accounteth the idols of Syria to be gods, and to help thoſe that worſhipped them, herein ſhewing himſelf like the heathen, Judg. 16.23,24. Hab.1.11.

therefore I will ſacrifice to them] Idolaters give the ſame worſhip to falſe gods that is due to the true God, Exod.3. 18. & 5.3.

that they might help me] Idolatry ſo blindeth mens eyes as it maketh them truſt to vain helps. God had helped Ahaz when two Kings came againſt Jeruſalem, Iſa. 7. 3,4, &c. yet he was not thereby moved to ſacrifice to the Lord.

but they were the ruine of him and of all Iſrael] Thereby they provoked God to give them over to their enemies. See ch.25.14,15.

V.24. And Ahaz gathered together the veſſels of the houſe of God] This was ſacriledge; for theſe were conſecrated veſſels. See 2 King. 16.8.

and cut in pieces the veſſels of the houſe of God] That they might never again be uſed to Gods ſervice. If they had remained whole, they might again have been returned to Gods houſe, as Ezra 1.7, &c. This therefore aggravateth his impiety.

and ſhut up the doors of the houſe of the Lord] That none might enter thereinto to do the ſervices of the Lord. It ſeemeth they were ſhut till the end of his dayes; for his ſonne in the beginning of his reign opened the doors of the Lord, ch. 29.3.

and he made him altars in every corner of Jeruſalem] By corners are meant the heads of ſtreets, where divers wayes meet. So that which was done might be the more ſeen of paſſengers, as Mat.6.5. He prohibited the true ſervice of God, and exceeded in idolatrous worſhip.

V.25. And in every ſeveral city of Judah] Heb. in every city and city. He ſet up idolatry not onely in the Royal city, but diſperſed it throughout his whole Kingdome.

he made high places] See 1 King.3.2,4.

to burn] Or, to offer.

V.27. And Ahaz ſlept with his fathers] See 1 King.2.10.

CHAP. XXIX.

Verſ.1. H*Ezekiah began to reign*, &c.] See 2 King.18.1,2. Hezekiah was the twelfth and the beſt King from the Diviſion. His Hiſtory is recorded in four chapters.

and his mothers name was Abijah] Or, Abi, 2 King.18.2.

V.2. And he did that which was right, &c.] See 2 King.18. 3.

V.3. He in the firſt year of his reign, in the firſt moneth] Yea, and the firſt day of that moneth, v.17.

opened the doors of the houſe of the Lord] For Ahaz his father had ſhut them up, ch.28.24.

and repaired them] Heb. ſtrengthened them. When any thing is decayed and out of repair, it is weakened; but when it is repaired, it is ſtrengthened. Some refer them to the doors; but by a Synecdoche it may be referred to all parts of the Temple. Some refer it to the Prieſts and Levites mentioned v.4. q. d. the King ſtrengthened and encouraged them. Howſoever the phraſe be taken, it implyeth that Hezekiah's heart was ſeaſoned with piety, and that in his fathers dayes, ſeeing the very firſt work he began with after he was crowned was reformation of religion. A worthy pattern.

V.4. And he brought in the Prieſts and the Levites] Idolatrons Ahaz had forced them to abide in their own Cities and Suburbs, and ſhut them out of the houſe of God; but now Hezekiah aſſembleth them together for Gods ſervice.

and gathered them together in the Eaſt-ſtreet] i.e. the ſtreet before the great door or entrance into the houſe of God. For that entrance was at the Eaſt.

V.5. And ſaid unto them, Hear me] He inſtructeth and directeth them before he ſets them on work. This was the part of a pious and prudent King.

ye Levites] The Prieſts alſo are compriſed under this title; for they deſcended from Levi, Deut 17.9,18. Joſh.3. 3. & 21.4. and they, as well as Levites, obſerved the direction, v.16.

ſanctifie now your ſelves] See 1 Chr.15.12,14. They who are ſet apart to ſanctifie other things muſt themſelves be firſt ſanctified.

and ſanctifie the houſe of the Lord] See 1 Chr.23.13.

God of your fathers] See 1 Chr.29.18.

and carry forth the filthineſſe] i.e. all idols, and all thoſe things which idolaters uſed in their ſervices, yea, and other things that were brought into the Temple to pollute the true worſhip of God. Hereby it appeareth that the ſanctifying of the houſe before mentioned ſignified eſpecially cleanſing it, v.18. though divers rites alſo were uſed at the ſanctifying of holy things, whereof ſee Exod.40. 9,&c. Lev. 8.10,11.

out of the holy place] Of the holy place here meant ſee v.7.

V.6. For our fathers have treſpaſſed] This good King looketh back to the ſins not onely of his father, but alſo of other his predeceſſors.

and done that which was evil in the eyes of the Lord our God] They regarded not that knowledge which God had of their ſins. And this their obſtinacy lay the more heavy upon Hezekiahs heart, becauſe of the ſpecial relation betwixt God and them, implyed in this phraſe, our God.

and have forſaken him] See ch.12.5. 1 King.11.33.

and have turned away their faces] A ſign of ſcorn and diſdain. For men uſe to turn their faces from that which they cannot endure to look upon. See Jer.2.27. Ezek.8.16.

from the habitation of the Lord] i.e. the houſe of the Lord, where he manifeſted his preſence under ſundry types; in which reſpect he is ſaid to dwell there. See 1 Kings 8.13. This place is ſtiled an houſe of habitation for the Lord, and a place for his dwelling for ever, ch.6.2.

and turned their backs] Heb. given their neck. Our Engliſh phraſe of turning the back is an aggravation of the former of turning away the face. See Jer.2.27.

V.7. Alſo they have ſhut up the doors of the porch] Of the entrance into the Temple. See 1 King. 6.3. and put out the lamps] They ſuffered them not to burn continually, as it was enjoyned by the Law, Lev.24.2,3.

and have not burnt incenſe] This alſo was every day to be offered, Exod.30.7,&c. and was an eſpecial type of reconciliation betwixt God and his people.

nor offered burnt-offerings in the holy place] Theſe were likewiſe daily ſervices to be performed, Exod.29. 38, &c. Lamps were lighted and incenſe burnt in the middle part of the Temple next to the Moſt holy; but burnt-offerings were offered in the Prieſts court: therefore holy place here muſt indefinitely be taken for the Temple and the courts appertaining thereto.

unto the God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15. This is added to aggravate the former impiety. All the foreſaid ſervices were withheld from the God of their ancient father from whom they had their name, and from the God of his poſterity, of which they themſelves were.

V.8. Wherefore the wrath of the Lord, &c.] See ch.24.18.

and he hath delivered them to trouble] Heb. commotion. See ch. 28. 5, &c.

to aſtoniſhment] See ch.7.21.

and to hiſſing] See 1 King.9.8.

as you ſee with your eyes] This ſpeech was made by Hezekiah in the very beginning of his reign, v.3. and the miſeries here ſpoken of were in his fathers dayes: They therefore to whom he ſpake ſaw them with their eyes.

V.9. For lo, our fathers have fallen by the ſword] See ch.28.6.

and our ſons, and our daughters, and our wives] He ſpeaketh as the Head of the Kingdom, and therefore uſeth the firſt perſon, our.

our captivity] See ch. 28.5.

for this] This may have relation either to the ſins of their fathers, v.6,7. or to the deſtruction of their fathers, in the former part of this verſe. The men being deſtroyed by the ſword, their wives and children were taken captives.

V.10. Now it is in mine heart] See 1 King.8.17.

to make a covenant] See 2 King.11.4.

with the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

may turn away from us] Reformation is a ſpecial means of removing Gods wrath.

V.11. My ſons] This title intimateth the Kings affection to the Prieſts and Levites, and their ſubjection to him.

be not now negligent] Or, be not now deceived. The Hebrew word moſt commonly is uſed for living quietly and ſecurely. It is oft tranſlated to proſper, Jer.12.1. Lam.1.5. When it is put for deceiving one, as 2 King.4.28. it ſignifieth to make one ſecure or careleſs. Hereby the King implyeth that the work whereabout he ſet them was great and weighty, and that therefore they ſhould not be deceived in thinking it might eaſily be done, and thereupon be careleſſe and negligent.

for the Lord hath choſen you] Numb. 8. 14. & 18. 2, 6. Deut. 10.8. to ſtand before him] To remain in the houſe where he manifeſted his preſence.

to ſerve him, and that you ſhould miniſter unto him] By performing the ordinances of his houſe.

and burn incenſe] Or, offer ſacrifice. See 1 King.3.4,15. & 9.25.

V.12. Then the Levites aroſe] This phraſe implyeth a ready and ſpeedy enterpriſing of a matter, and ſheweth that the Levites were moved with the Kings ſpeech, and were glad of the opportunity they had had to reſtore the ſervice of the Lord.

Mahath the ſon of Amaſai, &c.] Here are fourteen deſcribed by their names, parentage and families, that ſet themſelves to this work.

V.15. And they gathered their brethren] See v.34. 1 Chr.5.13. By brethren are meant Levites.

and ſanctified themſelves] Not onely the fourteen v.12, &c. but alſo the reſt of the Levites that were gathered together, ſanctified themſelves. Hereof ſee v.5.

and came according to the commandment of the King] Not onely the thing it ſelf, but the very will of the King moved them to do it.

by the words of the Lord] Or, in the buſineſs of the Lord. The word properly ſignifieth words, yet it is oft put for things or buſineſſes, Exo.28.26. it is tranſlated cauſes. Ex.5.23. works. In the former reading it implyeth that the Levites were moved to do what the King required, the rather becauſe his charge was grounded on the word or law of the Lord; in the latter, that the Kings word prevailed the more with them becauſe it was the buſineſſe and work of the Lord which he enjoyned.

to cleanſe the houſe of the Lord] See v.5.

V.16. And the Prieſts that went into the inner part of the houſe of the Lord.] i.e. that which was called the Holy place, where the golden Altar for incenſe, the golden candleſtick, & the golden tables were. Some underſtand the Moſt holy place, where the Ark was. Others, that which is called the inner court, 1 King. 6. 36. where the great brazen Altar ſtood. Certainly that which they began firſt to cleanſe is here eſpecially intended, to wit, the Holy place, if not alſo the Moſt holy.

to cleanſe it] As v.15.

and brought out all the uncleanneſs that they found in the temple of the Lord] That which is called filthineſs v.5. is here called uncleanneſs. And by the Temple of the Lord is meant both the inner part before mentioned, and alſo the Prieſts court.

into the court of the houſe of the Lord] Some underſtand the outermoſt court, where unclean perſons and ſtrangers ſtood.

And the Levites took it] The Levites being to attend upon the Prieſts, and to do the moſt ſervile works appertaining to the Temple, took ſuch filthineſſe as the Prieſts had brought into the outward courts.

to carry it out abroad into the brook Kidron] See 1 King.2.37. & 2 King.23.6, 12. No doubt but they brake the images and other like things to pieces, yea, and ſtamped them to duſt, before they caſt them into that brook; as Exod.32.20.

V. 17. Now they began on the firſt day of the firſt moneth] On this day the King gave his charge to them, v.3,5. and on the ſame day they began the work; which is an evidence of their willingneſſe and readineſſe to do it.

to ſanctifie] See on v.5.

and on the eighth day of the moneth] Much filthineſſe in the dayes of Ahaz was brought into the houſe of the Lord; which made them ſo long in cleanſing it.

came they to the porch of the Lord] i.e. the entrance into the Holy place, deſcribed 1 King.6.3. ſo as they were eight dayes in cleanſing three parts of the Temple, the Moſt holy, the Holy place, and the Porch.

ſo they ſanctified the houſe of the Lord in eight dayes] The houſe of the Lord is here ſtrictly taken for that great building of ſtone commonly called the Temple, conſiſting of thoſe three parts before mentioned.

and in the ſixteenth day of the firſt moneth] Beſides the forementioned eight dayes they ſpent other eight dayes in cleanſing the courts appertaining to the houſe of the Lord.

they made an end] This hath reference not onely to the places which they cleanſed, but alſo to the holy things in thoſe places, mentioned v.18,19. Yea it farther implyeth both removing all manner of uncleanneſs from them, and alſo uſing ſuch rites as God had appointed for ſanctifying holy places and holy things, Exod.40.9,&c.

V.18. Then they went in to Hezekiah the king] They knew their meſſage would be welcome to the King, and therefore ſo ſoon as ever the work was done they give him notice thereof.

and ſaid, we have cleanſed all the houſe of the Lord] Both the Temple it ſelf, and the courts appertaining thereunto.

and the altar of burnt-offering] This ſtood in the Prieſts court. And thereon was all manner of ſacrifice offered.

with all the veſſels thereof] Or, appertaining thereunto; as the Sea and other Lavers to waſh holy things in, Beſoms, Baſons, Tongs, with the like. See 1 King.7.43, &c.

and the ſhew-bread-table] See 1 King.7.48.

with all the veſſels thereof] The inſtruments of gold appertaining to the Holy place uſed to be laid on tables of gold. See 1 King.7.50. Theſe are the veſſels here meant.

V.19. Moreover all the veſſels which king Ahaz in his reign did caſt away] Ahaz cut ſome veſſels in pieces, and ſent them to the King of Aſſyria, ch.28.21,24. Others he reſerved whole, and took them out of the Temple, and either put them to idolatrous uſes, or laid them aſide in other places; and in that reſpect he is ſaid to caſt them away. Theſe are here meant.

in his tranſgreſſion] This hath eſpecial reference to his Idolatry, which God accounteth a moſt grievous tranſgreſſion.

have we prepared and ſanctified] Prepared for uſe, and ſanctified to their proper holy uſe.

and behold, they are before the altar of the Lord] There all the holy veſſels were ſet together, that they might be ſeen to be prepared and ſanctified; and then removed to their ſeverall proper places.

V.20. Then Hezekiah the king roſe early] Betimes in the morning of the next day. And hereby he ſhewed his zeal of Gods glory, and his earneſt deſire of reconciliation betwixt God and his people.

and gathered the rulers of the city] Before he gathered the Prieſts and Levites onely, v.4. becauſe it belonged to their office to ſanctifie holy places and things. Now he aſſembleth the repreſentative body of the kingdom, which were heads of places and families. For under this word city the Kingdom of Judah is compriſed.

and went up to the houſe of the Lord] This was the place where reconciliation was to be made.

V.21. And they brought ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams] See 1 Chr. 15.26.

and ſeven lambs, and ſeven he-goats] Thus they brought of all ſorts of clean beaſts enjoyned under the law, becauſe their offering was not onely for conſecrating of the Temple and holy things, but alſo for all kind of ſacrifices, and for all ſorts of people, for King and Princes, for Prieſts and Levites, and the common ſort, even for the whole Kingdom.

for a ſin-offering] See 1 King.3.15. The end of the ſin-offering was to make an atonement for ſins committed againſt God. Sometimes bullocks were offered, ſometimes goats, ſometimes lambs, Lev. 4. 3, 23,32. ſometimes rams, Lev.5.15.

for the kingdom] i.e. ſuch as governed the Kingdom. And thus this word kingdom is diſtinguiſhed from Judah following.

and for the ſanctuary] Sanctuary is here to be taken in as large a ſenſe as all the houſe of the Lord v.18.

and for Judah] i.e. the common people therein.

and he commanded the Prieſts the ſons of Aaron] To them onely it belonged to offer ſacrifices; Lev.1.5,7,8. 1 Chr.6.49.

to offer them on the altar of the Lord] It is enjoyned that offerings be burnt upon the Altar, Lev.1.9,13,17. And the altar ſanctified the gift, Mat.23.19. and in this reſpect God is ſaid to ſanctifie the altar, Exod. 29.44.

V.22. So they killed the bullocks] Others then Prieſts might kill the ſacrifices.

and the Prieſts received the blood, and ſprinkled it on the altar] This act was proper to the Prieſts, Levit.1.5. By it was typified the application of Chriſts ſacrifice for the remiſſion of ſins. See 2 King. 16.13.

likewiſe when they had killed the rams, they ſprinkled, &c.] The ſame rite was to be obſerved, whatſoever kind of beaſt was offered: for all the ſacrifices typified Chriſts blood, and the application thereof for pardon of ſin, Heb.9.21,22. Lev.1.5,11.

V.23. And they brought forth] Heb. neer. Namely, to the Altar. The relative they hath reference to the Prieſts.

the he-goats for the ſin-offering] Sometimes one bullock, or one goat, male or female, or one lamb, was ſufficient for a ſin-offering, as Levit.4.3,14,23,28,32. but that was for one particular ſin; but here a ſin-offering was to be made for King, Princes, Prieſts, and the whole land, and that for many moſt heynous ſins many years together committed, namely all the dayes of King Ahaz; and therefore ſeven goats are offered, and all of them males.

before the king and the congregation] By congregation all ſorts of ſubjects great and mean, Prieſts and others are meant.

and laid their hands upon them] This was a rite enjoyned Lev.1.4. & 4.15. The end of it was to teſtifie an acknowledgement of their ſins, and that the ſacrifice was offered up in their ſtead; and thus was their faith in Chriſt nouriſhed.

V.24. And the Prieſts killed them] After the congregation had laid their hands on them.

and they made reconciliation with their blood, &c.] This was a type of the reconciliation betwixt God and believers by the blood of Chriſt, Col. 1.20.

to make an atonement] See 1 Chr.6.49.

for all Iſrael] Iſrael is here put for Judah, as ch.12.1,6.

for the king commanded that the burnt-offering and the ſin-offering ſhould be made for all Iſrael] It is not probable that the King himſelf had yeilded to the idolatry committed in his fathers dayes; yet he well knew that the whole Kingdom had yielded thereto, and therefore his care was that reconciliation might be made for all, that ſo the plaiſter might be as large as the ſore.

V.25. And he ſet the Levites in the houſe of the Lord] No doubt but he placed Porters and other officers in thoſe places that properly belonged to them, but his ſpecial care was to have the praiſes of the Lord ſolemnly ſet forth: therefore the Levites here meant were ſuch as ſung praiſes to God.

with Cymbals, with Pſalteries and with harps] See 1 Chr,13.8.

according to the commandment of David] See 1 Chr. 16.4. & 25. 1, &c.

and of Gad the kings Seer] See 1 Chr.21.9.

and Nathan the Prophet] See 1 Chr.17.1. David, Gad and Nathan were all inſpired by Gods Spirit, and joyned their counſels together about the worſhip of God.

for ſo was the commandment of the Lord] Heb. by the hand of the Lord. This is ſpoken of God after the manner of man. Men do what they do by their hands; ſo what is done or ſaid by God, is ſaid to be by his hand.

by his Prophets] Heb. by the hand of his Prophets. See 1 King 8. 53.56, By this it appeareth that God ſent directions to David by his Prophets about the ordering of his worſhip.

V.26. And the Levites ſtood with inſtruments of David] i.e. ſuch as David by Gods Spirit appointed. See 1 Chr.13.8. & 23.5. and the Prieſts with the trumpets] See Numb.10.8. 1 Chr.15.24. & 16.6.

V.27. And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt-offering upon the altar] Good Kings of old, being well inſtructed in the law, gave directions to Prieſts and Levites in ſundry circumſtances what to do.

and when] Heb. in the time.

the burnt-offering began] When it was laid on the Altar upon the wood, and the flame and ſmoke began to ariſe.

the ſong of the Lord began alſo] The 136. Pſalm, which is a ſolemn ſong of praiſe, every verſe whereof endeth with ſetting out the mercy of God, is here meant, and by an excellency called the ſong of the Lord. See ch.7.3.

with the trumpets] They ſounded while the ſingers ſung with their voice.

And with the inſtruments, &c.] Heb. hands of inſtruments. Parts of a mans body are metaphorically applied to ſenſeleſs inſtruments, becauſe they ſeemed to act this and that. They had variety of muſick, voice, trumpets, and other inſtruments, to quicken up their ſpirits the more in praiſing God.

V.28. And all the congregation worſhipped] See ch.7.3.

and the ſingers ſang] Heb. the ſong ſang. Some here underſtand the Maſter of muſick. But by a Metonymie the effect may be put for the actor, ſong for him or them that ſang.

and the trumpeters ſounded] See v.26.

and all this continued untill the burnt-offering was finiſhed] Every one continued to teſtifie his thankful heart and cheerful ſpirit till the fire had conſumed the ſacrifice on the Altar.

V.29. And when they had made an end of offering] This was their moſt publick ſervice, whereby they were directed when to begin, and when to end.

the king and all that were preſent with him] Heb. found with him. See ch.5.11. & 1 Chr.29.17.

bowed themſelves and worſhipped] See ch.7.3.

V.30. Moreover Hezekiah the king, and the Princes] In matters of worſhip expreſly preſcribed the pious King joyns himſelf with the people; in matters of direction he taketh advice with his Princes.

commanded the Levites] They did not command that which for matter was not preſcribed, but they commanded Gods Miniſters to do their duty.

to ſing praiſe to the Lord] Beſides that praiſe mentioned v.27. For this was after the offering was ended.

with the words of David and of Aſaph the Seer] See 2 King. 17. 13. By this title it appears that Aſaph was inſpired by God. Some Pſalms carry the title, Of Aſaph, ſo as if he indited not the matter, yet he put the words into a meet and melodious tune. See 1 Chr.6. 39. & 16.5.

and they ſang praiſes with gladneſs] Both the ſingers themſelves, and they that heard them, rejoyced.

and they bowed their heads and worſhipped] See v.28,29. This they did after their ſecond ſolemn praiſing of God.

V.31. Then Hezekiah anſwered, and ſaid] So full of zeal was this good Kings heart, as he contented not himſelf with all that was done before, though it were very much, but ſtirred them up to further praiſing of God.

Now you have conſecrated, &c.] Or, filled your hands. See 1 King. 13.33.

come neer, and bring ſacrifices, &c.] He had before given directions and exhortations to the Prieſts and Levites, now he calls upon the people to do their duty. Sacrifices were for expiation of their ſins; thank-offerings, to teſtifie their grateful acknowledgment of Gods mercy to them.

And the congregation brought in ſacrifices and thank-offerings] They were wrought upon by the Kings exhortation, and readily did what he required.

and as many as were of a free heart] This is ſpoken comparatively; ſuch as were of a more free and forward ſpirit then the reſt.

burnt-offerings] There was more reſpect to God manifeſted in bringing burnt-offerings then in the reſt. For in the other the offerers themſelves had a part, but in theſe they had none; for all was burnt upon the Altar. See 1 King.3.15.

V.32. And the number of the burnt-offerings which the Congregation brought] This word Congregation is diſtinguiſhed from the King, v.23. But here it compriſeth King and all under it: but we may not think that the King brought no free offerings.

was threeſcore and ten bullocks, &c.] This was a very great offering, but not comparable to ſundry others. See 1 King.8.63. But ſo ſoon after the whole land had apoſtatized it was a wonder the people ſhould be ſo forward.

V.33. And the conſecrated things] i. e. Such gratulatory ſacrifices as they had by voluntary vows conſecrated to the Lord. Others take them to be ſuch ſacrifices as were now conſecrated, but reſerved to be offered at another time.

were ſix hundred oxen, and three thouſand ſheep] This added much to the number mentioned v.32. and much amplified their zeal.

V.34. But the Prieſts were too few] Some delayed to come, and others to uſe the rites of conſecration, either out of ſhame for their former idolatry, or for want of through repentance.

ſo that they could not flay all the burnt-offerings] To ſlay and flay beaſts, and to cut them in pieces, and lay them on the Altar, were works proper to Prieſts. See on Lev.1.5,6.

wherefore their brethren the Levites] Prieſts and Levites came all from the ſame father, Levi, and in that reſpect are ſtiled brethren, v.15.

did help them] Heb. ſtrengthened them. The Levites by undertaking part of the work did enable thoſe few Prieſts that were there the better to hold out. This they did in this particular caſe, being ſomewhat extraordinary. For the Levites were given as an help to the Prieſts. till the work was ended] i. e. The offering up of thoſe ſacrifices.

and untill the other Prieſts had ſanctified themſelves] This implieth that the Levites continued at other times alſo to help the Prieſts. Of ſanctifying themſelves ſee v. 5.

for the Levites were more upright in heart to ſanctifie themſelves then the Prieſts] Perſons of lower rank may be more hearty, zealous and forward in the work of the Lord then their ſuperiours.

V.35. And alſo the burnt-offerings were in abundance] See v. 32. This is added as another reaſon why the Levites helped the Prieſts, becauſe the ſacrifices of all ſorts were very many.

with the fat of the peace-offerings] See 1 King 8.64. The fat was every where to be pulled off and burnt. Ex.29.13. which cauſed much more work.

and the drink-offerings for every burnt-offering] Or, with every burnt-offering. See 1 King.3.15.

So the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord was ſet in order] i. e. The daily ſervices to be performed time after time. The doors of the Temple were ſhut up in the dayes of Ahaz, and the ſervices thereof clean omitted, but now ſettled in their due courſes again.

V.36. And Hezekiah rejoyced, and all the people] So did David and his people, 1 Chr.29.9.

that God had prepared the people] That he had put ſuch grace and zeal into their hearts as before ſet down. It is God that prepares the heart to good.

for the thing was done ſuddenly] i. e. Very ſpeedily, ſooner then could have been expected. They had long been blinded and led aſide to idolatry; therefore to have their hearts ſo ſoon and ſo thorowly changed was an extraordinary work of Gods Spirit; and the conſideration thereof did much quicken and revive their ſpirits.

CHAP. XXX.

Verſ.1. AND Hezekiah] Here is ſet down a ſolemn celebration of the Paſſeover in this good Kings time.

ſent to all Iſrael and Judah] i. e. To all under his command, namely the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and alſo thoſe who out of other tribes had come and joyned themſelves with the Kingdom of Judah. See ch. 12.13,16. To theſe Hezekiah ſent Meſſengers.

and wrote letters alſo to Ephraim and Manaſſeh] Under theſe two tribes are compriſed ſo many of the ten tribes as the King of Aſſyria had left in the land of Iſrael. For he had carried many of them away captives into other lands, 2 King.15.29. Theſe being the chief of the ten tribes, are put for all the reſt. By letters he invites theſe that they might the better accept thereof.

that they ſhould come to the houſe of the Lord at Jeruſalem] For there that great feaſt whereunto he invited them was to be kept, Deut. 16. 5,6.

to keep the Paſſeover] This was a ſolemn feaſt to be kept every year by the Iſraelites in memorial of Gods delivering their anceſtors from bondage in Egypt, and of his paſſing over the Iſraelites when he deſtroyed all the firſt-born in Egypt, as the notation of the word ſheweth, Exod.12.12,13,14. It was alſo one of their ordinary Sacraments till the coming of Chriſt, of whoſe ſacrifice the Paſchal Lamb was an eſpecial type, 1 Cor.5.7.

unto the Lord] See 2 King.23.21.

God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15. He here ſets out God by this relation t[illegible]ive them to underſtand that they were the children of that father whoſe God the Lord was in ſpecial manner, and to whoſe ſeed he extended his promiſes, Gen.28.14. & 35.10,12.

V.2. For the king had taken counſel, and his Princes, and all the Congregation in Jeruſalem] Under theſe are compriſed that aſſembly which ordinarily met about matters of Church and State, and was the repreſentative body of the whole Kingdom. At Jeruſalem this Aſſembly uſed to meet together.

to keep the Paſſeover in the ſecond moneth] The firſt moneth was appointed Exod.12.2, &c. yet in ſome extraordinary caſes it was permitted to keep it in the ſecond, Num.9.11.

V.3. For they could not keep it at that time] Namely, in the firſt moneth.

becauſe the Prieſts had not ſanctified themſelves] See ch.29.5.

ſufficiently] This may have reference either to the number of the Prieſts: There were but few that had ſanctified themſelves, ch.29.34. ſo as there were not enough to offer that great Paſſeover which was intended. Or, to the rites of ſanctification: They had not fully obſerved all. This was one reaſon of putting off the Paſſeover.

neither had the people gathered themſelves together to Jeruſalem] See v. 1. This was another reaſon of putting off the Paſſeover. Two ſuch reaſons as are here ſet down are alledged where the diſpenſation is granted, Num.9.10,11.

V.4. And the thing] Or, this thing. Namely, that the Paſſeover ſhould be put off to the ſecond moneth.

pleaſed the King] Heb. was right in the eies of the king. That which ſeemeth right in good mens eyes, pleaſeth them. A like phraſe is applied to God 1 King. 3. 10.

and all the Congregation] Under this word Congregation the Princes alſo are compriſed, who are diſtinguiſhed from it v.2.

V 5. So they eſtabliſhed a decree to make a proclamation throughout all Iſrael] All the twelve tribes are here meant. See 1 King. 15.22.

that they ſhould come to keep the Paſſeover, &c.] See ver.5.

for they had not done it of a long time in ſuch ſort as it was written] According to the preſcript of the law, Exod. 12. 1, &c. The ten tribes after their revolt from Judah clean caſt off the law of the Lord, and Judah had neglected it all the dayes of Ahaz. If they kept the Paſſeover, they kept it not according to the Law: for the doors of Gods houſe were ſhut up, ch. 28. 24.

V.6. So the Poſts went with the letters] For more ſpeed.

from the king] Heb. from the hand of the king. By his appointment.

and his Princes] To ſhew their conſent with the King.

throughout all Iſrael and Judah] See v.1.

and according to the commandment of the king] The commandment hath reference to the Poſts whom the King ſent, and commanded to make all ſpeed. They of Iſrael were invited and entreated as the words following ſhew.

ſaying, Ye children of Iſrael] This is a friendly compellation and pithy inſinuation.

turn again unto the Lord] They had revolted from the Lord, therefore he adviſeth them to repent, and turn to him.

God of Abraham, Iſaac and Iſrael] See 1 Chr.29.18.

and he will return] In grace and mercy, Pſal. 90. 13. Zach.1.3. God deals with men according to their dealing with him, 1 Sam. 2.30. Jer.18.8,10.

to the remnant of you, that are eſcaped out of the hand of the kings of Aſſyria] i. e. Such as remained in the land after it was ſubdued by Pul and Tilgath-pilneſer, who carried many captives away, 1 Chr.5.26. 2 King.15.29. Shalmaneſers invaſion 2 King. 17.3,6. was after this: For this Paſſeover was in the firſt year of Hezekiah, and that captivity in the ſixth, 2 King.18.10.

V.7. And be not like your fathers] By fathers are meant ſuch Iſraelites as revolted from Judah, from the beginning of the Apoſtaſie till thoſe preſent times. Hezekiah would not have thoſe to whom he wrote to continue in the idolatry of their fathers, nor to be obſtinate as they were, Zach.1.4.

and like your brethren] i. e. Such Iſraelites as lived in thoſe times.

which treſpaſſed againſt the Lord] By continuing in their fathers ſteps.

God of their fathers] See ch.13.12. & 24.18.

who therefore gave them up to deſolation] 2 King.15.29.

as ye ſee] See ch.29.8.

V.8. Now be ye not ſtiff-necked, &c.] Heb. harden not your necks. See 2 King.17.14.

but yield your ſelves] Heb. give the hand. By giving the hand willing ſubjection is teſtified.

unto the Lord] For they had forſaken him by their apoſtaſie from the houſe of God and from the houſe of David, 1 King. 12.26, &c.

and enter into his Sanctuary] See ch. 20.8.

which he hath ſanctified for ever] See ch.7.16.

and ſerve the Lord your God] Under this word ſerve all Divine worſhip and obedience to God is compriſed. That particular relation, your God, is a ſtrong motive to enforce the duty.

that the fierceneſs of his wrath may turn away from you] See ch. 29. 10. & 28.11,13. 2 King.23.26.

V.9. For if ye turn again unto the Lord] See v. 6. 1 King.8.33.

your brethren and your children] True penitency of ſome may prove beneficial to others, Joſh.6.23.

ſhall find compaſſion before them that lead them captive] See 1 King. 8. 50.

ſo that they ſhall come again into this land] i. e. The land of Iſrael. God can ſo work upon enemies as to move them to let their captives go free, ch.28.14,15.

for the Lord your God is gracious and merciful] See Exod. 35.5. and will not turn away his face from you] This is attributed to God after the manner of man. When a man is angry with one, or ſcorns him, or will not grant his requeſt, he uſeth to turn away his face. By not turning away the face is implied a gracious acceptance, and a readineſs to hear and to do good.

if ye return unto him] Repentance in a ſinner is an evidence of Gods mercy to him, ch.7.14.

V.10. So the Poſts paſſed from city to city] Many meſſengers went ſeveral wayes, and that with ſpeed, leaving their meſſage in every place they paſſed by.

of the killing of the Paſſeovers] i. e. Both the Paſchal lambs and kids, which were the moſt proper offerings at that feaſt, v. 15. and other ſacrifices alſo, which were then offered in great abundance, v.24. When firſt the Paſſeover was inſtituted, every houſe or family was to offer a lamb or a kid, Exod.12.3,5. But after the Law enjoyned all the families to go up to the houſe of the Lord, there to celebrate the Paſſeover, Deut.16.6,16. many lambs or kids were to be offered. Hence the plural number, paſſeovers, is uſed.

for every one that was not clean] The Levites that were ſanctified offered the Paſſeover inſtead of them that were not ſanctified, and ſhould have done that work if they had been ſanctified.

Verſ.1. NOw when all this was finiſhed] i. e. Hezekiah's repairing and ſanctifying the houſe and things of God, ch.29.3, &c. and his ſolemn celebration of the Paſſeover, ch.30.1, &c. In this chapter his care in ſetling the courſes of the Prieſts and Levites, and providing maintenance for them, is related.

all Iſrael that were preſent] Heb. found. See ch.30.21.

went out to the cities of Judah] i. e. The other cities of the Kingdom of Judah, beſides Jeruſalem.

and brake the images in pieces] Heb. ſtatues. That which is aſcribed to Hezekiah 2 King.18.4. is here aſcribed to the people. The King was the principal author and commander of what was done, but the people were the immediate actors.

and cut down the groves] See 1 King.16.33.

and threw down the high places] Idolatrous high places are here meant. See 1 King.3.3,4. and the Altars] Such as had been built by Idolaters. See chap. 30.14.

out of all Judah and Benjamin] Theſe places were under his own dominion.

in Ephraim and Manaſſeh] Such cities in thoſe tribes are here meant as the Kings of Judah had formerly taken from Iſrael, ch.13.19. & 15.8. and ſuch as of their own accord had joyned themſelves to the Kingdom of Judah. And by reaſon of the many troubles in Iſrael many in that Kingdom did ſubmit themſelves to the King of Judah.

untill they had utterly deſtroyed them all] Heb. until to make an end. Which Hebraiſm is well explained by our tranſlators. The reformation was not partial, or by halves, as we ſpeak, but a thorow reformation.

Then all the children of Iſrael] All that came to the Paſſeover both out of Judah and Benjamin, and alſo out of other tribes, ch.30.11.

returned every man to his poſſeſſion into their own cities] They had done that at Jeruſalem for which they came, and therefore returned home to their own callings.

V.2. And Hezekiah appointed the courſes, &c.] See ch.8.14. 1 Chr.23.6. & 24.1.

the Prieſts and Levites for burnt-offerings and for peace-offerings] See 1 King.3.15. In offering theſe the Levites were helpful to the Prieſts, and therefore are here joyned with them.

to miniſter] By doing the ſervice which belonged to their places.

and to give thanks, and to praiſe] See 1 Chr.25.3.

in the gates] The Levites uſed to ſtand with their muſical inſtruments at the entrance into the Prieſts court, here called the gates, that ſo the people might not onely hear but alſo ſee their comely order in giving ſolemn praiſe to God.

of the tents of the Lord] i. e. The Temple, or houſe of the Lord. For the Prieſts and Levites there kept watch and ward, as ſouldiers uſe to do in their camp. In this reſpect they which did the ſervice in the Temple are ſtiled an hoſt, Num.4.3. Beſides, all the people aſſembled thither at ſundry times, as ſouldiers to their camp, or to their tents therein. Or this metaphor may be here uſed in alluſion to the former houſe of God, which was a tent or tabernacle, Exod.35.11. Tents are here mentioned in the plural number in regard of the ſeveral courts that appertained to the Temple, (ſee 1 King.6.36.) or in regard of the ſeveral chambers and other places that were as tents in a camp.

V.3. He appointed alſo the kings portion of his ſubſtance, for the burnt-offerings] The people were wont to bring burnt-offerings to the Prieſts upon ſundry occaſions, Levit.1.2, &c. & 22.18, &c. but by the in-roads of enemies in the time of Ahaz they were ſo impoveriſhed that now they could not. Therefore that the ſervice of the Lord might not be neglected, the King took order that out of his own ſubſtance, even that which was proper to himſelf, there might be ſupply made from time to time of that which was requiſite for the ſervices of the Temple. And this he did the rather, becauſe the treaſures of the Temple were exhauſted by his father, ch.28.21,24. Herein he ſhewed himſelf like unto David, 1 Chr. 29.3.

to wit, for the morning and evening burnt-offerings, &c.] See Num. 28, & 29.

as it is written in the law of the Lord] This was the good Kings rule, and he held cloſe thereto.

V.4. Moreover he commanded the people that dwelt in Jeruſalem] Thoſe that dwelt in that royal city and the places adjacent might think themſelves priviledged and exempted from allowing any thing to the ſervices of the Temple: Wherefore to prevent ſuch conceits, the King layeth a ſtrait command upon them. Or by Jeruſalem may be meant all the kingdom of Judah, as Samaria is put for the kingdom of Iſrael, 1 King.18.2.

to give the portion of the Prieſts and the Levites] Such maintenance as belonged to them by law, Num.18.8, &c.

that they might be encouraged in the law of the Lord] Having their maintenance provided and brought in by the people, they were freed from care and pains about their livelyhood, and ſo might more willingly and cheerfully ſpend their time about ſuch ſervices as the law of the Lord required of them.

V.5. And as ſoon as the commandment came abroad] Heb. brought forth, or broke forth. Was publickly made known.

the children of Iſrael] See v. 1.

brought in abundance] Heb. multiplied. Two circumſtances note out the peoples holy zeal in maintaining the ſervice of the Lord; 1. Their quick and ſpeedy doing what they did, even ſo ſoon as they had any notice that they ſhould do it. 2. Their plentiful and bountiful doing of it.

the firſt-fruits of corn, wine, and oyl] Theſe were expreſly commanded to be given to the Prieſts and Levites, Deuter. 18. 1, 4.

and honey] Or, dates. The Hebrew word is oft uſed for honey. It is alſo indefinitely put for ſweet fruits. And we do not read that honey was brought to the houſe of the Lord for an offering: but on the contrary, the Jews were forbidden to offer any honey, Lev. 2.11. The Hebrews therefore underſtand here dates, or indefinitely trees which did bear ſweet fruits, called honey by reaſon of their ſweetneſs. And they compriſe it under this phraſe, the fruit of the tree, Lev.27.30. the tithe whereof was holy unto the Lord.

and of all the encreaſe of the field] Many other commodities grew out of the earth beſides thoſe before mentioned, therefore this general phraſe is here uſed, which compriſeth them all.

and the tithe of all things, &c.] Which were by law enjoyned. There were tithes of cattle, and ſundry other things, beſides the fruit of the ground. The tithes were the tenth of all their encreaſe, and an offering diſtinct from the firſt-fruits.

V.6. And concerning the children of Iſrael and Judah, that dwelt in the cities of Judah] i. e. Here and there in the countrey. For theſe cities ſeem to be diſtinguiſhed from Jeruſalem, v.4.

which were conſecrated unto the Lord] This ſheweth the reaſon why they were called holy things. Such things are ſaid to be conſecrated unto God, as God ordained to be brought to his houſe, and given to the Prieſts and Levites, or ſuch as were by vow or other free gift given to the Lord.

their God] This relation betwixt God and them was a ſtrong bond to bind them to do what they did, Exod. 10.7.

and laid them by heaps] Heb. heaps, heaps. i. e. Many heaps, great abundance. This much affected the King. v.8.

V.7. In the third moneth] See ch.15.10. Then began their firſt harveſt.

they began to lay the foundation of the heaps] They brought in the tithe of ſuch corn as they firſt reaped or gathered-in, and ſo began to make the heaps.

and finiſhed them in the ſeventh moneth] This anſwereth in part to our September, and is the beginning of Autumn. Then uſe the fruits of trees to be gathered: and it is counted the laſt of harveſt. Thus they continued from the beginning of harveſt to the end, from the reaping of the firſt corn, to the gathering-in of the the laſt fruit, (which in that reſpect is ſtiled the end of the year, Ex.23.16.) to bring-in their tithes to the houſe of the Lord, and they brought-in of all ſorts.

V.8. And when Hezekiah and the Princes came and ſaw the heaps] Which were many, and thoſe great ones.

they bleſſed the Lord] For ſtirring up the people ſo cheerfully and abundantly to bring in their tithe. Thus did David 1 Chron. 29.13, 14. It is probable that the Lord gave that year a plentiful encreaſe of the land, which was the occaſion of that great abundance, and that Hezekiah and the Princes in that reſpect bleſſed God.

and his people Iſrael] This phraſe is here taken as children of Iſrael, v.1. The King and Princes commended theſe, and in that reſpect are ſaid to bleſs them. The ſame word is oft applied to God and man, yet in different reſpects, Gen.14.19, 20. 1 Sam.25.32, 33. Exod.14.31. 2 Chron.20.20.

V.9. Then Hezekiah queſtioned with the Prieſts and the Levites concerning the heaps] Two things he might enquire thereabouts; 1. how there ſhould be ſo many and ſo great heaps: 2. how ſo much ſhould remain, ſeeing there were many Prieſts and Levites to ſpend the ſame. The anſwer v.10. ſeemeth directed to the latter queſtion.

V.10. And Azariah the chief Prieſt, of the houſe of Zadok] Heb. the head of the houſe of Zadok. The like phraſe is uſed 2 King.25.18. And he is called Ruler of the houſe of God, v.13. He is ſaid to be of the houſe of Zadok, becauſe Zadok was made high Prieſt in the room of Abiathar, 1 King.2.35. Some think that there ſtill continued two high Prieſts, one of the houſe of Eleazar, another of the houſe of Ithamar, and that Zadok, of the ſtock of Eleazar, is here mentioned to diſtinguiſh him from the other chief Prieſt.

anſwered him, and ſaid, Since the people began] i. e. From the beginning of harveſt in the third moneth, till this time, which was at leaſt four moneths. See v.7.

for the Lord hath bleſſed his people] Both by the plentiful encreaſe which he hath given, and alſo by working on the peoples hearts.

and that which is left is this great ſtore] i. e. The remainder, over and above that which was eaten by them.

as well to the great as to the ſmall] Every one was to have what was ſufficient for him.

V.16. Beſides their genealogy of males from three years old and upward] Theſe words being included in a parentheſis, the verb to give v.15. may fitly be referred to that which follows in this verſe; As if it were thus read, Eden and Miniamin, &c. were to give to their bre- brethren by courſes, as well to great as to the ſmall, (beſide their genealogy of males from three years old and upward) even unto every one, &c. The meaning is, that there was proviſion made for all that belonged to the Levites, not onely to ſuch as did ſervice, but alſo to their young ones, even from three years old and upward. Thus this verſe is an expoſition of the laſt clauſe of the former, as well to the great as to the ſmall. Mention is made of males, becauſe none were admitted into the Temple but ſuch. And of theſe many were trained from three years old and upwards to the ſervices of the houſe of God, 1 Sam.1.24,25.& 2.11. and therefore were to be maintained thereby. Other males of Levites under three years, and females alſo, were to be maintained by tithes and ſuch other dues as belonged to the Levites, v.18, but ſuch as came into the houſe of the Lord might partake of ſuch oblations as were offered there. See 1 Chr.23.24.

for their ſervice in their charges] In recompenſe of their pains in the places where they were ſet.

according to their courſes] See 1 Chr.23.6.

V.17. Both to the genealogy of the Prieſts by the houſe of their fathers] Here is particularly exemplified that which in general was ſaid before. By the genealogy of Prieſts ſuch Prieſts were meant as were put into the genealogy, and that as they deſcended from ſuch and ſuch anceſtors. See 1 Chr.4.33.

and the Levites] Such as were under the Prieſts, but yet to be maintained as well as Prieſts.

V.18. And to the genealogy of all their little ones, their wives, and their ſons and their daughters] Becauſe the Prieſts and Levites wholly attended the ſervice of God, and had no time to provide for themſelves, their wives and children, therefore not onely they themſelves but alſo theirs were maintained by the offerings of God.

through all the congregation] i. e. Of Prieſts and Levites.

for in their ſet office they ſanctified themſelves in holineſs] They having ſanctified themſelves in their diſtinct offices for the holy things of the Temple, their wives and children were provided for. Or, by reaſon of the faithfulneſs of ſuch as were ſanctified thereto, wives and children of Prieſts and Levites were provided for.

V.19. Alſo of the ſons of Aaron] Or, to the ſons of Aaron. This verſe as well as the three former, depends on the verb to give, v.15.

V.21. And in every work that he began in the ſervice of the houſe of God] For ſetling all things after a right manner.

to ſeek his God] By taking care how he might be beſt honoured.

he did it with all his heart] This implieth both ſincerity and zeal.

and proſpered] See 1 Chr.29.23. 2 King.18.7.

CHAP. XXXII.

Verſ.1. After theſe things] i. e. The things regiſtred ch.29,30, & 31. about the worſhip of God. In this chapter ſuch matters as concerned the civil State are recorded; particularly, the deliverances which God gave Hezekiah from a potent enemy and from a mortall ſickneſs, together with his ingratitude and repentance.

and the eſtabliſhment thereof] Or, and the truth, or faithfulneſs. The former reading implieth Hezekiah's conſtancy about the ſervice of God, till he had eſtabliſhed all according to the law; the latter, his truth and faithfulneſs in what he did. Some apply this to the faithfulneſs of the Pen-man of this hiſtory, who regiſtred things as they were indeed done.

Sennacherib king of Aſſyria came] 2 King.18.13, &c. Iſa.36.1, &c.

and entred into Judah] Into the Tribe, or Kingdom of Judah.

and encamped againſt the fenced cities] See 2 King.18.13.

and thought to win them for himſelf] Heb. to break them up. To batter down their walls, enter into them, plunder them, and make them ſubject to him. This he ſuppoſed he ſhould have done; and indeed he did take ſome of the fenced cities of Judah, 2 King. 18.13. but partly by a bribe, 2 King.18.14. and partly by Gods reſtraining of him, v.21. he did not accompliſh all he thought to do.

V.2. And when Hezekiah ſaw that Sennacherib was come] That he was entred into his Kingdom with a mighty army.

and that he was purpoſed to fight againſt Jeruſalem]. Heb. his face was to war againſt it. A mans turning his face to a thing, and going toward it, declareth his purpoſe.

V.3. He took counſel with his princes and his mighty men] The caſe being of great concernment he prudently adviſeth with Counſellors of State and men experienced in war thereabout.

to ſtop the waters of the fountains which were without the city] The City ſtood on an hill, and there were ſundry Spring heads without the walls, whence abundance of water was brought into it. Theſe the enemy might have refreſhed his army with: thereupon it is agreed that thoſe Fountains ſhould be ſtopped ſo as no water ſhould flow forth for the enemies uſe, v.4. and yet enough be conveyed into the city by water-pipes under ground. See Iſa.22.9,11. 2 King.20.20.

and they did help him] The work being great, the King, Princes, Commanders in war, and other ſubjects, all joyn together to bring it to paſs. They were helpful one to another.

V.4. So there was gathered much people together] The danger was common, and concerned great and mean; therefore many aſſembled together to do what they could to prevent the enemy.

who ſtopt all the fountains] Though theſe were very beneficiall to all ſorts in time of peace, yet to prevent the enemies uſe thereof they are content to ſuffer ſome dammage themſelves.

and the brook] Gihon by name v.30.

that ran thorow the midſt of the land] Heb. overflowed. A ſweet full current flowed from Gihon by many parts of that Kingdom.

ſaying, Why ſhould the Kings of Aſſyria] There is mention made onely of one King of Aſſyria, namely Sennacherib: But the plural number is uſed, becauſe haply many Kings took part with him, as we read of two and thirty Kings which joyned with the King of Syria againſt Iſrael, 1 King.20.1. Or the Princes of Sennacherib may be called Kings: ſo Sennacherib himſelf calls them, Iſa.10.8. See ch.28.16.

come and find much water] It is a point of prudence to cut off all conveniencies from an enemy, and to leave nothing to refreſh or further him.

V.5. Alſo he ſtrengthened himſelf] He thought it not enough to do what he could to the prejudice of his enemy, but he alſo did what he could for his own advantage.

and built up all the wall that was broken] Joaſh King of Iſrael in Amaziah's time brake down a great part of the wall of Jeruſalem ch.25.23. And it may be that breach was not fully repaired and ſtrongly fortified till now.

and raiſed it up to the towers] He made the walls ſtrong and high to keep the city more ſafe from the enemies ſhot.

and another wall without] Namely without the wall to be for out-works. Of the two walls that compaſſed Jeruſalem ſee 2 King. 25.4.

and repaired Millo in the city of David] See 1 King.9.15.

and made darts] Or, ſwords, or, weapons.

and ſhields] Under theſe two kinds are compriſed all manner of offenſive and defenſive weapons. See ch.26.14.

in abundance] The enemies being many, he would have ſtore of preparation againſt them.

V.6. And he ſet captains of war over the people] Commanders in war are as neceſſary as multitudes of ſouldiers.

and gathered them together to him] That ſo he might direct and encourage them all together.

in the ſtreet of the gate of the city] This was a fair broad ſtreet within the walls of the City, but at the very entrance thereinto.

and ſpake comfortably unto them] Heb. to their heart. See chap. 30.22.

V.7. Be ſtrong and courageous] See 1 Chr.22.13.

be not afraid nor diſmaid for the king of Aſſyria] He was at that time the greateſt Monarch and the moſt formidable enemy in the world; yet God being with them, they need not be afraid of him. See 1 Chr.22.13.

nor for all the multitude that is with him] See 2 King.19.35.

for there be moe with us then with him] More in multitude; 2 King. 6.17. Pſal. 34.7. & 91.11. Heb. 12.22. 2 King.19.35. Rom. 8.31.

V.8. With him is an arm of fleſh] He meaneth all his men and horſes, which were of fleſh, and weak and frail, Iſa.31.3. Jer.17. 5. Arm importeth power; fleſh, weakneſs.

but with us is the Lord our God] Lord noteth Gods Soveraignty and almighty power; our God, his ſpecial grace and favour towards his people.

to help us, and to fight our battels] To defend us, and to ſubdue our enemies.

and the people reſted themſelves] Heb. leaned. They by faith ſo relied on God as a man uſeth to lean upon a ſtrong ſtaff when he leapeth over a water.

upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah] By Hezekiah's exhortation the people were moved ſo to believe in God as they were not afraid.

V 9. After this did Sennacherib king of Aſſyria ſend his ſervants to Jeruſalem] This hath reference to v.1. See 2 King.18.17.

but he himſelf laid ſiege againſt Lachiſh] See 2 King.18.14.

and all his power with him] Heb. dominion. Hereby is meant that great hoſt which he brought with him into Judah.

unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that were at Jeruſalem, ſaying] He ſent to the King, becauſe he had the command over all; and to the people, to affright them and make them yield.

V. 10. Thus ſaith Sennacherib king of Aſſyria] They deliver their meſſage in their Kings name to make it the more regarded. In this meſſage there were ſundry perſwaſive motives as they thought.

whereon do you truſt] He ſuppoſed they had none on whom they might place ſure confidence, and thereupon propounded this queſtion. This is his firſt motive.

that ye abide in the ſiege in Jeruſalem] The word ſignifieth indefinitely any ſtrait whereunto a man is brought; and becauſe men beſieged are oft brought to great ſtraits, its put for a ſiege, as Deut.28.53,55,57. Further alſo, becauſe men uſe to betake themſelves to ſtrong holds when they are in ſtraits, or becauſe ſtrong holds are built to ſtraiten them the more, it is put for a ſtrong hold, or fort, ch.8.5. Deut.20.20. Pſal.60.9. Jeruſalem was not yet beſieged, but becauſe the enemy had a purpoſe to beſiege it, the word may be here tranſlated ſiege.

V.11. Doth not Hezekiah perſwade you] He ſuppoſed they would not be ſo fooliſh as to ſtand out againſt him if Hezekiah did not perſwade them thereto. See 2 King.18.29.

to give over your ſelves to die by famine and by thirſt] He conceived they muſt needs periſh through want of meat and drink if they continued to ſtand out againſt him. This is his ſecond motive.

ſaying, The Lord our God ſhall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria] See 2 King.18.30.

V.12. Hath not the ſame Hezekiah taken away, &c.] See 2 King. 18. 22.

and burn incenſe upon it] See 1 King.9.25. This was the principal means of making atonement between God and men; therefore he mentioneth it. He perverteth Hezekiah's pious reformation of religion, and impeacheth it of profaneneſs, and thence gathereth a third motive.

V. 13. Know you not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other lands?] See 2 King.19.11. He ſuppoſeth Hezekiah and his people could not but know his, and his predeceſſors former victories. This is his fourth motive.

were the gods of the nations of thoſe lands any wayes able to deliver their lands out of mine hand?] See 2 King.19.12. He taketh it for granted that the idols of other nations were gods; and that if they could, they would have delivered their people: which becauſe they did not, he ſuppoſeth himſelf ſtronger then thoſe gods. This is his fifth motive.

V.14. who was there among all the gods of thoſe nations that my fathers utterly deſtroyed] The nations are named 2 King.18.34. & 19.12,13.

that could deliver his people out of mine hand] From an event he gathereth an impoſſibility: they did not, therefore they could not. This is no good conſequence.

that your God ſhould be able to deliver you out of mine hand] Moſt blaſphemouſly he ranketh the Lord with falſe gods, and maketh him no better then they, v.19. and ſo would take away that confidence which the men of Judah placed in him.

V.15. Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you] See 2 King. 18.29.

nor perſwade you on this manner] This may have reference to Hezekiah's encouragement, v.7,8. whereof he might have notice by ſome intelligencer. Or he might gueſs that Hezekiah perſwaded them not to yield, becauſe they ſtood out againſt him.

neither yet believe him] He diſſwadeth them from believing their King, that they might yield to him.

for no god of any nation, &c.] His own and his predeceſſors ſucceſſes made him ſo confident as he preſſeth it again. See ver. 13.

how much leſs ſhall your God deliver you out of mine hand?] He doth not onely equal falſe gods to the true God, but makes the true God inferiour to the falſe gods, and thereby encreaſeth and aggravateth his blaſphemy.

V.16. And his ſervants ſpake yet more] Sennacherib ſent his ſervants twice, 2 King.18.17. & 19.9. and in that reſpect it may be ſaid they ſpake yet more. Or they might adde of their own to what their maſter appointed them to ſay, and ſo ſpeak yet more.

againſt the Lord God] To make the Lord like to falſe gods is to ſpeak againſt him, which is to balſpheme him.

and againſt his ſervant Hezekiah] This ſheweth the reaſon why they ſpake againſt Hezekiah, he was Gods ſervant; and it alſo aggravateth their folly, they durſt ſpeak againſt a ſervant of the Lord.

V.17. He wrote alſo letters] See 2 King.19.9,14.

to rail on the Lord God of Iſrael, &c.] The ſubſtance of the letters is ſet down 2 King.19.10, &c. Thereby we may ſee that to impeach Gods power is to rail upon him. The like may be ſaid of other Divine attributes.

As the gods of the nations of other lands, &c.] See v.14.

ſo ſhall not the God of Hezekiah, &c.] The Lord whom Hezekiah profeſſed and worſhipped, and on whom he truſted. See v.14.

V.18. Then they cried with a loud voice in the Jews ſpeech] 2 King. 18.28. that is attributed to Rabſhakeh alone which is here applied to all the meſſengers, becauſe they all ſtood together, and conſented to what he ſaid.

unto the people of Jeruſalem that were on the wall] See 2 King. 18.26.

to affright them, and to trouble them] When men are affrighted with fear of danger, they uſe to be much troubled, not knowing what to ſay or think; and ſo are oft divided one againſt another, ſome being of one mind, and others of another.

that they might take the city] No ſuch way to ſurpriſe a beſieged city as to make a diviſion amongſt the people that are in it.

V.19. And they ſpake againſt the God of Jeruſalem] See v. 16. In Jeruſalem was the houſe of God, and this was the chief city of the Kingdom; in that reſpect the Lord is called the God of Jeruſalem.

as againſt the gods of the people of the earth] See v. 14. & 2 King. 18.30,33, &c.

which were the work of the hands of man] The gods of other nations were the work of mens hands, but the God of Iſrael was the creator of all things. See this difference largely exemplified Jer. 10.3, &c.

V.20. For this cauſe Hezekiah the king] He was firſt and moſt moved, and ſent unto the Prophet, 2 King.19.2, &c. and the Prophet Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz] See Iſa.1.1. prayed] This the King deſired of the Prophet, 2 King.19.4. and without queſtion the Prophet did what was deſired of him. Hezekiah's prayer is expreſly ſet down 2 King.19.15, &c.

and cried to heaven] The word cried implieth their fervency in prayer. By heaven is meant the Lord, whoſe throne is in heaven. Thus are we taught to pray Matth.6.9.

V.21. And the Lord ſent an Angel] See 2 King.19.35. This verſe giveth evidence of the power of prayer.

which cut off all the mighty men of valour] See 2 King. 24. 14. 1 Chron.5.24. God can execute his judgments on the mightieſt that be.

and the leaders and captains in the camp of the king of Aſſyria] Had men executed the judgment, theſe Commanders might haply have eſcaped; but there is no flying from Gods hand.

So he returned with ſhame of face to his own land] Sennacherib was very high in his terms againſt God himſelf, v.14. but by this hand of God upon him he was ſo confounded as he durſt no longer abide in Judah, but returned without his hoſt to his own home, 2 King.19.36.

And when he was come into the houſe of his god] See 2 King. 19.37.

they that came forth] Or, ſome of them that came out. Namely, two of them.

of his own bowels] His ſons begotten by him, 2 King.19.37.

ſlew him there with the ſword] Heb. made him fall. See 2 King. 19.37.

V.22. Thus the Lord ſaved Hezekiah] By deſtroying his enemies.

and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem] For the enemy ſought the deſtruction of King and people.

from the hand of Sennacherib the king of Aſſyria] See v. 1.

and from the hand of all other] i.e. From thoſe that aſſiſted the King of Aſſyria. See v.4. Or other nations that were enemies to the Jews were by this judgment on Sennacheribs hoſt reſtrained from annoying Hezekiah.

and guided them on every ſide] The phraſe is metaphorical, taken from a ſhepherd, who guideth his ſheep, by providing for them, protecting them, leading them in and out, and every way taking care for them.

V.23. And many brought gifts unto the Lord to Jeruſalem] To wit, Hezekiah's ſubjects, or ſome of the ten tribes, who by Gods goodneſs ſhewed to Hezekiah were moved to bring offerings to the Lord. It may be alſo that ſome of other nations might be made Proſelytes thereby, and ſo bring offerings.

and preſents, &c.] Heb. precious things. See 2 Chron.17.5,11.

ſo that he was magnified, &c.] Evidences of Gods ſpecial favour to a King make other nations hold him in high account.

V.24. In thoſe dayes Hezekiah was ſick to the death] See Iſa.38.1. and prayed unto the Lord] His prayer is ſet down 2 King. 20.3.

and he ſpake unto him] The Lord returned him a gracious anſwer by the Prophet Iſaiah, 2 King.24, &c. and he gave him a ſign] Or, wrought a miracle for him. Iſ.38.8, &c.

V.25. But Hezekiah rendred not again] Was not ſo affected with the bleſſing, nor rendred praiſe unto God, nor carried himſelf in the after-courſe of his life as he ought. See on Exod. 12.42.

according to the benefit done unto him] This word benefit compriſeth ſundry bleſſings; his recovery from a deadly diſeaſe, confirmation of his faith by a great miracle, promiſe of fifteen years life, protection of himſelf and his Kingdom, 2 King. 20.6.

for his heart was lifted up] With pride and ſelf-conceit, as if the bleſſings beſtowed upon him had been merited by him. See v.26.

therefore there was wrath upon him] This was an occaſion of the judgment that the Lord afterwards inflicted. His anger was firſt kindled by Hezekiah's ingratitude.

and upon Judah and Jeruſalem] Sins of Kings oft bring judgements upon all their people. See on Gen.20.7. & 34.25.

V.26. Nothwithſtanding Hezekiah humbled himſelf] After the Prophet had declared Gods diſpleaſure againſt him, 2 King. 20. 17, &c.

for the pride of his heart] Heb. the lifting up. See v.25. Pride puffed him up by reaſon of the deſtruction of his enemies, v. 21. his own recovery, v.24. and his rich treaſure, which too too boaſtingly he ſhewed to the men of Babel, 2 King 20.13.

both he, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem] His ſubjects follow his good example, as ch.12.6.

ſo that the wrath of the Lord came not upon them] True humiliation for ſin is an eſpecial means to prevent or avert Gods wrath.

in the dayes of Hezekiah] This was according to the Kings deſire, 2 King.20.19. After his dayes his ſon and the people turned to idolatry, and thereby again incenſed the wrath of God, ch. 33.11.

V.27. And Hezekiah had exceeding much riches and honour] Theſe are two great worldly bleſſings, which God ſanctifieth to his children. See 1 King.3.13. 1 Chron.29.12,28. chap. 18.1.

and he made himſelf treaſuries, &c.] Treaſuries were fit and ſafe places to lay up precious things in. There were treaſuries of the houſe of God, 1 Chr.9.26. & 28.11,12. Kings alſo had their proper treaſuries, Eſth.3.9. & 4.7. See 1 Chr.29.3.

and for ſpices] See 1 King.10.2,10. 2 King.20.13.

and for ſhields] Theſe might be ſuch as Solomon made, 1 King.10.17. Or he might lay up things for defenſe as well as things of worth.

and for all manner of pleaſant jewels] Heb. inſtruments of deſire. i.e. all outward things that might be deſired.

V.28. Store-houſes alſo] Theſe were a kind of treaſuries, but for meaner commodities.

for the increaſe of corn and wine and oyl] All very neceſſary commodities; Corn for bread, Wine to refreſh the heart of man, Pſal. 104.15. Oyl likewiſe for ſuſtenance, and many other uſes. See 1 King.17.12. & 2 King 4.2,7.

and ſtalls for all manner of beaſts] Horſes were wont to be kept in ſtalls, 1 King.4.26. and Oxen, Prov.15.17. Calves, Amos 6.4. Mal.4.2. and all ſorts of great cattle compriſed under the word herd, Hab.3.17.

and cotes for flocks] i.e. Sheep, Goats, and other ſmall cattle. This deſcription of Hezekiah's wealth is ſet down to ſhew what it was that lifted him up, v.25.

V.29. Moreover he provided him cities] Fenced cities eſpecially.

and poſſeſſions of flocks and herds in abundance] Poſſeſſions implieth that there was not onely abundance of great and ſmall cattle in the land, but that he had abundance of them proper and peculiar to himſelf.

for God had given him ſubſtance very much] i.e. All kinds of this worlds commodities. Even the things of this life are given of God.

V.30. This ſame Hezekiah alſo ſtopped the upper water-courſe of Gihon] See 1 King.1.33. There was a paſſage made out of Gihon which brought water to the City, into a place called the upper pool, Iſa.7.3. This Hezekiah took away, and ſo is ſaid to have ſtopped the upper water-courſe. But under ground he brought water to the City. The reaſon hereof ſee v.4.

and brought it ſtraight down to the weſt-ſide] It ſeems before the water-courſe ran in a compaſs another way, but upon the approch of the enemy Hezekiah made it run ſtraight into the lower pool, Iſa.22.9. which was new made by him, and diſtinguiſhed from the old pool, Iſa.22.11.

of the city of David] See 1 King.2.10.

and Hezekiah proſpered in all his works] See 2 King.18.7. 1 Chr. 29.23.

V.31. Howbeit in the buſineſs of the Embaſſadors] Heb. interpreters. For Embaſſadors uſe to declare and interpret the mind of their maſter.

of the Princes of Babylon] They were the King of Babylons Embaſſadors, 2 King.20.12,13. but ſent with the conſent of the Princes.

who ſent unto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the land] The wonder was done in heaven: It was the Suns running back, 2 King.20.11. And all nations muſt needs take notice thereof; among others, the Aſtrologers of Babylon. But certainly it was divulg'd that the God of Iſrael upon Hezekiah's recovery had done it; and thereupon Hezekiah is ſent unto thereabouts.

God left him, to try him] God oft trieth his deareſt ſervants, Gen. 22.1. Job 1.12. & 2.3,6. to diſcover either their graces, or their weakneſſes and corruptions.

that he might know] Or, to know, or, that it might be known. That Hezekiah himſelf, and others alſo, might diſcern that frailty that was in him. See on Joſh.22.2.

all that was in his heart] Corruption oft lieth very cloſe, and cannot be diſcovered, till there be ſome occaſion to try a man thorowly.

V.32. Now the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah] See 1 King. 11.41.

and his goodneſs] Heb. kindneſſes. Such kindneſſes eſpecially are here meant as he ſhewed to Gods people, and that in reforming religion, ch.28,29, & 30.

behold, they are written in the viſion of Iſaiah] i.e. The Propheſie of Iſaiah, which by viſion, revelation, and other wayes was made known to him. See Iſa.36,37, 38, & 39.

the Prophet, the ſon of Amoz] See Iſa.1.1. and in the book of the kings of Judah and Iſrael] See 2 Chron. 16.11.

V.33. And Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers] See 1 King.2.10.

and they buried him in the chiefeſt] Heb. higheſt. i.e. the faireſt and moſt excellent.

of the ſepulchres of David] Many Kings of Judah deſcending from David had their ſepulchres in that place. It may be Davids own ſepulchre was fairer then all the reſt: It remained to the Apoſtles dayes, Acts 2.29. This of Hezekiah's might be the next to Davids in excellency.

and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem did him honour at his death] They accompanied him with much funeral ſolemnity to his grave. And many Epitaphs might be made of him, and great mourning and lamentation for him. Much honour have ſuch as fear God, reſtore his worſhip, and ſeek the good of his people in life and death.

and Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead] See 2 King.20.21.

CHAP. XXXIII.

Verſ.1. M*Anaſſeh was twelve years old,* &c.] See 2 King.21.1. In this chapter we have the hiſtory of two Kings, Manaſſeh, and Amon. Of Manaſſeh two points are regiſtred; his very evil courſe, to v.11. his repentance, from v.11. to v.21. He was the thirteenth King of Judah from the Diviſion.

V.2. But he did that which was evil, &c.] See 2 King.21.2.

V.3. For he built again, &c.] Heb. he returned and built. His father had deſtroyed the high places, ch.31.1. Now in that he reedified them, he is ſaid to return and build them. Of this verſe ſee 2 King.21.3.

V.4. Alſo he built Altars, &c.] See 2 King.21.4.

In Jeruſalem ſhall be my name for ever] 1 King.8.29. & 9.3.

V.5. And he built Altars for all the hoſt, &c.] See 2 King. 21.5.

V.6. And he cauſed his children, &c.] See 2 King.21.6.

in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom] See 2 King.16.3.

alſo he obſerved times, and uſed enchantments] See 2 King.21.6.

and uſed witchcraft] See 2 King.9.22.

and dealt with a familiar ſpirit] 2 King.21.6. familiar ſpirits.

and with wizards, &c.] See 2 King.21.6.

V.7. And he ſet a carved image] Our tranſlators, 2 King.21.7. turn it graven, but the Hebrew word is the ſame in both places.

the idol which he had made, &c.] Or, of the grove that he had made] See 2 King.21.7.

V.8. Neither will I any more remove, &c.] See 2 King.21.8.

by the hand of Moſes] See 1 King.8.53,56.

V.9. So Manaſſeh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to erre] This he did by example and by command. Herein he ſhewed himſelf like to Jeroboam, 1 King.14.16. and to Omri, Mich.6.16.

and to do worſe then the heathen, &c.] See 2 King.21.9.

V.10. And the Lord ſpake to Manaſſeh, and to his people] This God did by his ſervants the Prophets, 2 King.21.10.

but they would not hearken] See 2 King.21.9.

V.11. wherefore the Lord brought upon them the captains of the hoſt of the king of Aſſyria] Heb. which were the kings. Many of Sennacheribs Captains were ſlain before Jeruſalem; and after that, himſelf, ch.32.21. So as this was another King, and theſe other Captains. Now they might do what they did in revenge of the forementioned deſtruction of the hoſt of the Aſſyrians; but God ordered it both to puniſh and alſo to reclaim Manaſſeh. By the King of Aſſyria the King of Babylon may be here meant. See 2 King.20.12. Neh.9.32. The ſtory of Manaſſehs repentance is wholly omitted in the book of the Kings.

which took Manaſſeh among the thorns] Some tranſlate the word, fetters; others, ſtrong holds; but it is moſt frequently uſed for thorns, as Cant.2.2. 2 King.14.9. it is tranſlated thiſtle. It being here in the plural number, may be taken for a place full of thiſtles, or thorns; or for ſome thicket whither Manaſſeh fled to hide himſelf, as the Iſraelites did when they were afraid of the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.13.6.

and bound him with fetters] Or, chains. So they dealt with Zedekiah, Jer.39.7. and other captives, Jer.40.1.

and carried him to Babylon] This ſheweth that the King of Babylon was now King of Aſſyria.

V.12. And when he was in affliction] For a King to be in fetters in his enemies countrey muſt needs be a great affliction.

he beſought the Lord] What Gods word could not do, v. 10. his rod did. He heard the rod, Mich.6.9. Hoſ.5.15. & 6.1. Job 36.8,9.

his God] Though he had caſt off God, yet God had not caſt off him. Theſe words his God may reſpect his preſent condition, being a convert.

and humbled himſelf greatly] This is a ready way to find mercy with the high and mighty God, Iſai.57.15. See ch.12.6.

before the God of his fathers] See 2 Chr.29.18. The conſideration that he deſcended from thoſe progenitors to whom and to whoſe ſeed God had made many gracious promiſes, moved him the rather to humble himſelf before the Lord.

V.13. And prayed unto him] When the ſoul is humbled for ſin, the ſpirit will be quickened to pray for pardon.

and he was intreated of him] God is ready to hearken to the prayers of the penitent.

and heard his ſupplication] See 1 King.8.28,30,45. God granted him what he deſired.

and brought him again to Jeruſalem] No doubt but God ſo wrought upon the heart of his enemy, as he was moved to ſhew mercy unto him, to looſe his bonds, and to ſuffer him to return to his own countrey. Herein was that branch of Solomons prayer accompliſhed, 1 King.8.46-50.

into his kingdom] He was ſetled again on his throne.

then Manaſſeh knew that the Lord he was God] By his captivity and freedom from it he was in his judgment convinced that the Lord whom he had formerly deſpiſed (advancing other gods above him) was the onely true God. See 1 King.18.39. See alſo the like Dan.4.34.

V.14. Now after this] After he was ſetled in his Kingdom.

he built a wall without the city of David] This wall his father begun, ch.32.5. and it might be broken down when Manaſſeh was taken: ſo as now he might repair or fortifie it. In this ſenſe the word build is oft uſed, as ch.11.6. & 14.6.

on the weſt-ſide of Gihon] Of Gihon ſee 1 King.1.33.

in the valley] For Gihon was in a low place.

even to the entring in at the fiſh-gate] See Neh.3.3. and compaſſed about Ophel] Or, the tower. See ch.27.3.

and raiſed it up a very great height] For it was made a fortreſs, and from thence they might ſhoot far off againſt their enemies.

and put captains of war in all the fenced cities of Judah] In theſe cities he had garriſons, over whom he ſet captains.

V.15. And he took away the ſtrange gods] Such as himſelf had before ſet up, and were called Baalim, v.3. This is a fruit of true repentance, to put away thoſe evils that formerly we have done.

and the idol out of the houſe of the Lord] That mentioned v.7.

and all the altars that he had built in the mount, &c.] Mentioned ver. 3,4. This Mount was called Moriah. See chap. 3.1.

and caſt them out of the city] An evidence of his deteſting that idolatry which before he had ſo much doted on.

V.16. And he repaired the Altar of the Lord] Idolaters uſed to deface the Lords Altar, 1 King. 18. 10. and this Manaſſeh alſo in his idolatrous humor had done. But now being a convert, he thinks it not enough to deſtroy idolatrous monuments, unleſs alſo he fit and prepare the Lords holy things for their uſe. Or by repairing may be meant his cleanſing and ſanctifying the Altar.

and ſacrificed thereon peace-offerings, &c.] See ch.29.31. & 1 King. 3.15.

and commanded Judah to ſerve the Lord, &c.] He went as far in religious courſes, now being converted, as he had formerly done in idolatrous. As by his example and command he had made others to erre, v. 9. ſo now he bringeth them to ſerve the Lord. See Luk.22.32.

V.17. Nevertheleſs the people did ſacrifice ſtill in the high places] See 1 King.3.2,4. & 15.14.

yet unto the Lord their God onely] They were brought to the true religion, though there were ſtill a mixture of ſuperſtition.

V.18. Now the reſt of the acts of Manaſſeh] See 1 King. 11.41.

and his prayer unto his God] There is a prayer of his ſet down among the Apocrypha, but great queſtion may be made whether that be the prayer here intended.

and the words of the Seers] See 2 King.17.13.

that ſpake to him in the Name of the Lord, &c.] True Prophets delivered nothing in their own name, but what the Lord had given them in charge.

behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Iſrael] i.e. 2 King. 21. 10, &c. Or, ſome civil records not now extant may be here meant.

V.19. His prayer alſo] See v.18.

and how God was intreated of him] See v.13.

and all his ſin, and his treſpaſs] Sin may ſignifie his tranſgreſſions againſt God; treſpaſs, his wrongs done to men, 2 King.21.16.

and the places wherein he built high places] See v.3,4,5.

and ſet up groves and graven images] See v.3,7.

before he was humbled] See v. 12.

behold, they are written among the ſayings of the Seers] Or, Hoſai. Some take the word appellatively, for Seers or Prophets; others, for a proper name. As a proper name we read no where elſe mention of it. But Prophets or Seers did uſe to regiſter the facts of Kings in their time, whether good or bad, that anſwerably others might make uſe thereof. See ch 9.29. 1 Chr.29.29.

V.20. So Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers] See 1 King.2.10.

and they buried him in his own houſe] Namely, in a garden appertaining thereunto, 2 King.21.18.

and Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead] A ſon that imitated his fathers impiety, but not his repentance.

V.21. Amon was two and twenty years old, &c.] See 2 King. 21.19. Amon was the fourteenth King of Judah from the Diviſion.

V.22. But he did that which was evil, &c.] See 2 King. 21.20.

for Amon ſacrificed unto all the carved images] Idolaters ſo doted upon their images as they would not onely curiouſly carve them, but alſo do that to them which true worſhippers of the Lord did to him, as ſacrificing, &c.

which Manaſſeh his father had made] It ſeemeth Manaſſeh had onely laid aſide his idols, and not utterly deſtroyed them, as he ſhould have done, Deut.7.5.

and ſerved them] See 1 King.9.9. & 16.31.

V.23. And humbled not himſelf before the Lord] Men are more prone to imitate their fathers wickedneſs then their repentance.

as Manaſſeh his father had humbled himſelf] See v.12.

but Amon treſpaſſed more and more] Heb. multiplied treſpaſs. This was a great aggravation that he added ſin to ſin.

V.25. But the people of the land ſlew, &c.] See 2 King. 21.24.

and the people of the land made Joſiah, &c.] See 2 King.14.21. & 21.24.

CHAP. XXXIV.

Verſ.1. J*Oſiah was eight years old*, &c.] See 2 King. 22. 1. He was the fifteenth King of Judah from the Diviſion.

V.2. And he did that which was right, &c.] See 2 King. 22.2.

V.3. For in the eighth year of his reign, &c.] This was the ſixteenth year of his age. See v. 1. At this age Kings uſe to reign without a Protector, and by themſelves alone govern the State. In his fathers time the whole land was given to idolatry; and he coming to the Crown when he was a child could not reform matters as he would: but ſo ſoon as he had the reins in his own hands, he forthwith ſet upon the work. For him therefore in this eighth year of his reign to begin reformation was as great a commendation as for his great-grand-father to begin it in the firſt year of his reign, ch.29.3.

while he was yet young] For the ſixteenth year of ones age is within the compaſs of youth; and in relation to ſo great a work as reforming religion in a whole Kingdom one of ſixteen years may well be ſaid to be young. See 1 Chron. 22.5. Herein was accompliſhed the prophecy of the man of God, 1 King. 13.2, &c.

he began to ſeek after the God] Certainly his heart was ſeaſoned with the fear of God in his childhood, when firſt he began to reign. Therefore this phraſe began to ſeek hath relation to his endeavour of ſetling the true religion, and to his publick manifeſtation of his faith in God and his zeal of Gods glory.

of David his father] See 2 King.20.5. God had entred into a ſpecial covenant with David and with his ſeed, ch.7.18. and therefore was he in ſucceeding ages ſtiled the God of David, as formerly the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael, 1 Chr.29.18.

and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jeruſalem, &c.] See v.5. 2 King.23.4,&c. and the groves] 2 Kings 23.6. is mentioned onely one grove; but there might be more. For Manaſſeh, beſides that in the houſe of the Lord, made other groves, ch.33.3,19. and Amon alſo might do the like.

and the carved images] Of wood, or other like matter.

and the molten images] Of gold, ſilver, or other metals.

V.4. And they brake down] i.e. ſuch ſubjects of Joſiah as he ſet on work. This was according to the Law, Deut.7.5.

the altars of Baalim] See ch.33.3.

and the images that were on high above them] Or, Sun-images. They were wont to ſet ſuch images on high above their altars.

he cut down] They were faſtened to the places where they ſtood, and therefore he cut them down.

and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images] See v.3.

he brake in pieces] See 2 King.23.14.

and made duſt of them] He did beat or grind them to duſt, in teſtimony of his great indignation againſt Idolatry.

and ſtrowed it upon the graves] Heb. face of the graves. i.e. upon the top of them. See 2 King.23.6.

that had ſacrificed unto them] To their greater ignominy.

V.5. And he burnt the bones of the Prieſts, &c.] See 2 Kings 23.20.

and cleanſed Judah and Jeruſalem] Countrey and City from idolatry.

V.6. And ſo did he in the cities of Manaſſeh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali] Under theſe tribes are compriſed all others that ſubmitted themſelves to the King of Judah's government. See ch.31.1.

with their mattocks] Or, mauls. Ezek.26.9. Some think theſe were ſharp iron-inſtruments which being forced into a wall were a means of breaking it down. Or ſynecdochically the word may be put for Axes, Hatchets, Pick-axes, Spades, Shovels, and other like inſtruments, whereby they beat down and caſt out idolatrous monuments. Some tranſlate it, in their deſolate places, which had been waſted by enemies.

and cut down all the idols] As v.4.

throughout all the land of Iſrael] See v.6.

He returned to Jeruſalem] Where was his royal palace, and the place of Gods publick worſhip.

V.8. Now in the eighteenth year of his reign] See 2 King.22.3. This good King ſtill went on to do more and more good. In his eighth year he began to teſtifie his piety, in his twelfth year to purge the land, v.3. and in his eighteenth to repair Gods houſe.

Verſ.1. M*Oreover, Joſiah kept a paſſeover unto the Lord in Jeruſalem*] See Exod.12.3, &c. 2 King.23.21.

and they killed the paſſeover, &c.] See ch.30.15. Exod.12.2,6.

V.2. And he ſet the Prieſts in their charges] i.e. thoſe which were enjoyned by law, Numb.18.5. and diſtinctly ſet down by David, 1 Chr.23.6.

and encouraged them to the ſervice of the houſe of the Lord] By pithy exhortations and by promiſes that all things belonging to their maintenance ſhould be duly provided.

V.3. And ſaid unto the Levites that taught all Iſrael, which were holy unto the Lord] Or, that prepared the holy things of the Lord. The former reading ſheweth that it did in ſpecial belong to the Levites to teach and inſtruct the people in the law of the Lord. See ch. 17.8,9. The latter, that they were in particular employed about ſuch ſacred things as belonged to the houſe of the Lord, to prepare and fit them for Prieſts. See 1 Chr.23.28. & 25.1.

Put the holy Ark in the houſe] Or, put them before the Ark. i.e. Whereas while the doors of the Temple were ſhut, ch.28.24. or a free liberty thereto reſtrained, you were forced to keep the Paſſeover and other holy feaſts in private, now that you have the liberty of the Temple, where the Ark abideth, & it is not, as of old, carried from place to place, prepare the holy things of the Lord before the Ark; and there execute the holy functions. Or it may be the Ark by ſome Idolater in former times was removed out of his place, and therefore he now thus ſaith, Put the holy Ark into the houſe, whereby he exhorteth them to ſet it again in its proper place. The Hebrew ſtiles it Ark of holineſs, which implyeth that among other holy types this was a moſt holy one.

16.13. ch.29.22. The blood they ſprinkled they received from the hands of the Levites.

and the Levites flayed them] See ch.29.34.

V.12. And they removed the burnt-offerings] They ſeparated ſuch ſacrifices as were to be eaten from the burnt-offerings, which were to be wholly conſumed on the Altar: Or they took away the livers, kidneys, and other things which were to be conſumed, Lev. 3.4,10,11. that the fleſh might be fit to be eaten.

that they might give according to the diviſions of the families of the people] They ſet apart the burnt-offerings that ſo it might be known how much remained for the people to partake of according to their ſeveral families.

to offer unto the Lord] This hath reference unto the burnt-offerings which were conſumed upon the Altar, and in an eſpecial manner were counted the Lords offering.

as it is written in the book of Moſes] They had an eſpecial eye to the law of God in what they did.

and ſo did they with the oxen] Even as they had done with the ſmaller cattel, as is ſet down in the former part of this verſe.

V.13. And they roſted the Paſsover with fire] Paſsover is here put for the Lambs or Kids before mentioned. It was roſted to typifie the tormenting death of Chriſt.

according to the ordinance] The ordinance here meant is expreſly ſet down Exod.12 8,9. and that both affirmatively, It muſt be eaten roſted; and negatively, not raw, nor ſodden.

but the other holy offerings] Such as were not conſumed on the Altar.

ſod they] Becauſe they could not roſt ſo much as ſhou'd ſuffice ſo great a multitude as were there. That of old they uſed to ſeeth ſome of their holy offerings, is evident, Numb. 6. 19. 1 Sam. 2. 15.

in pots] Veſſels of braſſe bigger in the belly then the neck.

and in cauldrons] Great veſſels, of an even ſize from top to bottom, very deep.

and in pans] Pans were ſhallow and broad, of the ſame ſize at top and bottom. They had pans to bake ſome of their meat-offerings in, Lev.2.5. Numb.11 8. 1 Chr.23.29.

and divided them ſpeedily] Heb. made them run.

among all the people] This is the reaſon why they had ſo many veſſels to ſeeth the meat, that there might be ſufficient for all the people.

V.14. And afterward they made ready for themſelves] Their greateſt care was to provide for the people. That therefore they did firſt; yet they did not wholly neglect themſelves.

and for the Prieſts] The reaſon why they provided for the Prieſts followeth in the next words.

becauſe the Prieſts the ſons of Aaron were buſied in offering of burnt-offerings] The number of the burnt-offerings mentioned v.7,8,9. muſt needs take up a great deal of time.

and the fat] That which was taken from the offerings that were eaten. See ch. 29.35.

untill night] For the burnt-offerings and fat of other offerings were one after another laid upon the Altar, and not very quickly conſumed, ſo as they muſt needs be buſied thereabout till night.

therefore the Levites prepared for themſelves, and for the Prieſts] See the beginning of this verſe.

the ſons of Aaron] See 1 Chr.23.13.

V.15. And the ſingers the ſons of Aſaph] See 1 Chr.25.1,2.

were in their place] Heb. ſtation. For as the Porters had their ſet place where they executed their office, ſo alſo had the ſingers.

according to the commandment of David] 1 Chr.25.1,&c.

and Aſaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun] Theſe were prime maſters of muſick. With them did David adviſe about the courſes of the Singers. Beſides, theſe three did preſſe upon their poſterity a careful obſervation of thoſe courſes which David had ſet down.

the kings Seer] Heman alſo had this title, 1 Chr.25.5. and Aſaph likewiſe, ch.39.30. Of its meaning ſee 2 King.17.13.

and the porters waited at every gate] Heb. gate and gate. See 1 Chr. 9.17,18. & 26.14,&c.

they might not depart from their ſervice] During that ſolemnity.

for their brethren the Levites prepared for them] As they had done for the Prieſts, v.14.

V.16. So all the ſervice of the Lord] Such things as were enjoyned for outward parts of Gods worſhip, wherein, and whereby he was ſerved. See v.10.

was prepared the ſame day] This is noted to ſhew the diligence of the Prieſts and Levites, in doing what was to be done on the appointed time.

to keep the Paſſover] That was at that time the moſt ſolemn part of Gods worſhip, therefore other things were fitted and prepared for it.

and to offer burnt-offerings] The burnt-offerings here mentioned made much to the ſolemnity of the Paſſeover, therefore they are here added thereunto.

upon the altar of the Lord] Upon this were all burnt-offerings to be offered, whence it was called the Altar of burnt-offering, Exod. 30.28. ch.29.18. By it the ſacrifice offered thereon was ſanctified, Mat.23.29. and becauſe the Lord appointed it to that end, it is called the Altar of the Lord.

and the feaſt of unleavened bread ſeven dayes] See ch.30.21.

V.18. And there was no Paſſeover like to that kept in Iſrael from the dayes of Samuel the Prophet] 2 King.23.22. from the dayes of the Judges that judged Iſrael. Samuel was the laſt Judge: ſo as if the end of thoſe Judges government be there meant, that place well agreeth with this, which mentioneth Samuel. Beſides, it is probable that no Judge kept a more ſolemn Paſſeover then Samuel did; and in that reſpect, though the time be reckoned from the beginning of the Judges, yet it may well ſtand with this of Samuels dayes. See on 1 Sam.3.1.

neither did all the Kings of Iſrael, &c.] See 2 King.23.22.

and the Prieſts, and the Levites] Some of theſe added much to the Paſſeover by the abundance of offerings which they gave, v.8,9. and others by their diligence in preparing and acting all things that were to be done thereabout, v.10,&c.

and all Judah and Iſrael that were preſent] Among theſe the Princes are to be reckoned, who gave many offerings, v.8. The other ſorts did what they did with great cheerfulneſs and gladneſs, as in Hezekiah's time, ch.21.30.

and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem] Theſe being neer the Temple, were without queſtion moſt forward about ſetting out the ſolemnity of this feaſt, ch.34.3.

V.19. In the eighteenth year, &c.] See 2 King.23.23.

V.20. After all this] This hath reference both to the ſolemn Paſſeover, and alſo to other good things noted ch.34.

when Joſiah had prepared the Temple] Heb. houſe. i.e. the houſe of God, which was the Temple. This ſheweth that Joſia's piety prevented not Gods judgements, which were inflicted, as for Manaſſeh's ſins, 2 King.23.16. ſo alſo for the ſins of the people, even in Joſiah's time, Jer.3.6.

Necho king of Egypt came up to fight] See 2 King.23.29. againſt Carchemiſh by Euphrates] For Carchemiſh belonged to the King of Egypt, and the Aſſyrian had taken it from him.

and Joſiah went out againſt him] See 2 King. 23.29.

V.21. But he ſent Embaſſadors to him, ſaying, What have I to do with thee] Heb. What to thee and me. See 1 King.17.18. 2 King. 3.13. Joh. 2.4. This ſheweth that the King of Egypt was not willing to fight with Joſiah.

thou king of Judah] This compellation he uſed to perſwade him the more to ceaſe.

I come not againſt thee this day] I intend not to hurt thee.

but againſt the houſe wherewith I have war] Heb. the houſe of my war. Or, the family, ſociety or company of mine enemy.

for God commanded me to make haſte] By Jeremiah, or ſome other Prophet. Or Pharaoh might pretend Gods warrant, to move Joſiah the rather to deſiſt, as 2 King.18.25.

forbear thee from medling with God] This is juſtly inferred upon the forementioned ground: For if any hinder one to do what God commands, they oppoſe God therein.

who is with me] God is with them whom he ſets on work.

that he deſtroy thee not] This alſo juſtly followeth. For they who hinder Gods work provoke God to deſtroy them.

V.22. Nevertheleſs Joſiah would not turn away his face from him] Would not forbear to fight with the King of Egypt.

but diſguiſed himſelf] That he might not be known to be the King. For enemies uſe to bend their greateſt force againſt a King, if they eſpy him in a battel. On ſuch a ground Ahab diſguiſed himſelf, 1 King.22.30.

from the mouth of God] Which Necho ſaid came from God. For Joſiah believed it not.

and came to fight in the valley of Megiddo] See 1 King. 9.15. Zech. 12.11.

V.23. And the archers ſhot at king Joſiah] Either they diſcerned him to be the King, or by his valour in the battel he provoked them to aim at him.

and the king ſaid to his ſervants, Have me away] Carry me out of the battel. See the like, 1 King.22.35.

V.24. His ſervants therefore took him out of that Chariot] That wherein he was wounded, which muſt needs be full of blood. See 1 King.22.35.

and put him in the ſecond chariot that he had] The former chariot might be the fitter for war; this more cloſe, and fitter for a dying man.

and they brought him to Jeruſalem, and he dyed] See 2 Kings 23.30.

and all Juda and Jeruſalem mourned for Joſiah] Zach.12.11. The whole land both City and Country, mourned for him. This was the greateſt mourning we read of, and that not without cauſe, whether the worth of the man and the good that he did, or the evil that followed upon his death, be conſidered.

V.25. And Jeremiah lamented for Joſiah] Jeremiah was a Prophet that lived in his dayes, and knew the evil that would follow after his death, and could not but be much moved thereupon.

and all the ſinging-men and the ſinging-women ſpake of Joſiah in their lamentations] They uſed to have mourners both men and women, to make lamentations at the death of perſons of worth. See Eccl. 12.5 & Jer.9.17. In thoſe lamentations they uſed to make mention of the parties deceaſed, and to mourn for them. But they mentioned Joſiah in their mournings for others alſo.

to this day] See 1 King.9.13. & 10.12. & 12.7,19.

and made them an ordinance in Iſrael] Not the mourners onely at Joſiahs funeral, but alſo at the funerals of others, time after time, made mention of his death; inſomuch as it came to be a conſtant cuſtom, and as it were a ſetled ordinance, to ſpeak of Joſiah in their doleful Elegies. It may be that by reaſon of the great loſs of ſo worthy a King a law was enacted that in all other ſolemn mournings there ſhould be mourning for Joſiah, and that common mourners obſerved the ſame.

and behold, they are written in the Lamentations] Some conceive the Lamentations of Jeremy regiſtred in ſacred Scripture to be here meant; but there might be ſome other publick lamentations remaining upon record, wherein the loſſe of Joſiah was ſet down.

at Jeruſalem] This was the royal city where the Kings throne and Palace was. It is not likely that Necho came into the land ſo far as Jeruſalem, but that rather he ſent for Jehoahaz to come to Riblah, and there put him in bands, 2 King.23.33. For the men of Judah at this time ſtood in ſuch a fear of the King of Egypt as they durſt not deny any thing he demanded, no not their King.

and put them in his Temple at Babylon] By Divine providence they were there reſerved to be carried back again to Jeruſalem, Ezra 1.7,8,&c. But Nebuchadnezzar intended them for the ſervice of his idol, and Belſhazzar his grandchild moſt profanely abuſed them, Dan.5.2.

and humbled not himſelf before Jeremiah the Prophet] Jeremiah before-hand denounced the judgements againſt him and his people, which afterwards fell out, but neither he nor they hearkened unto him: they repented not, but hardened their hearts, and continued obſtinate in their ſins, Jer.27.2,6, &c.

and miſuſed his Prophets] This Chriſt complaineth of, Mat.21.34, 35,36. Some interpret the Hebrew phraſe thus, They erred in the Prophets; or They ſaid they were ſeduced by the Prophets.

untill the wrath of the Lord aroſe againſt his people] See 2 King.22. 13. Gods wrath is not eaſily incenſed: We may here ſee I. a conſpiracy of all ſorts againſt the Lord, v.14. II. a multiplication of tranſgreſſions, v.14. III. monſtrous abominations, v.14. IV. great profaneneſs, v.14. contempt of Gods meſſengers. By all theſe and by many other things they provoked the Lord before his wrath was kindled.

till there was no remedy] Heb. healing. The laſt means that is ordinarily uſed to reclaim men is Gods miniſters, to tell them of their ſins to their faces, and to denounce judgements againſt them for the ſame. If this prevail not, then remaineth nothing but expectation of judgement.

V.17. Therefore he brought up on them the king of the Chaldees] Called the king of Babylon, 2 King.25.1. See 2 King.24.1,2.

in the houſe of their Sanctuary] i.e. the Temple, whither it may be the Jews fled for refuge when the Babylonians entred the city, and the enemy purſuing them thither, there deſtroyed them. This circumſtance aggravateth the impiety of the enemy, and the judgement on the Jews. Some take Jeruſalem to be meant by the houſe of their ſanctuary, becauſe the houſe of God ſtood in that city.

and had no compaſſion upon young man, or maiden, old man] It is a great degree of cruelty to ſpare no ſex nor age. Some apply this to the enemy; others to God himſelf, and make it an aggravation of his juſt judgement, as Deut.32.25.

V.19. And they burnt the houſe of God] This was in regard of the very fabrick and glorious ornaments, but much more of the holy uſe and typical ſignification, a great loſs to the people of God. But what will not enemies ſpoyl when they enter into another Kingdome? And what will not God give over to be ſpoyled and conſumed if it be profaned? Inſtance this houſe of God.

where they were ſervants to him, and his ſons] Namely, to Evilmerodach his own ſon, 2 King.25.27. and Belſhazzar his grandſon, Dan.5.1.

untill the reign of the kingdom of Perſia] When Cyrus the firſt Monarch of Perſia had ſubdued the Babylonians, then was the Monarchy accounted to be in Perſia, and that to be the Kingdome of the world; for it was the greateſt, and had many other Kingdoms under it. So ſoon as Cyrus had conquered the Babylonians, he preſently ſet the Jews free. They were therefore ſervants until that time, and no longer.

V. 21. To fulfill the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah] Jeremiah foretold that they ſhould be in captivity ſeventy years, and at the end of ſeventy years be ſet free, Jer. 25. 9, 12. & 29. 10. Dan. 9.2.

untill the land had enjoyed her Sabbaths] Sabbath ſignifieth reſt; And ſo long as the people were kept out of her, the land reſted; there were none to plough or dig up the land, or to cauſe any tumults, or to do any work at all therein. This phraſe of keeping Sabbaths is the rather uſed, becauſe the people of Judah, while they remained in the land, exceedingly profaned the holy Sabbaths: But all profaneneſſe ceaſing while the people were in captivity, the land is ſaid to keep her Sabbaths.

for ſo long as ſhe lay deſolate, ſhe kept Sabbath] Or, reſted, Lev.23.32. & 26.34.

to fulfill threeſcore and ten years] Some conceive theſe ſeventy years began at Zedekiahs captivity, becauſe then Jeruſalem was utterly deſtroyed. And as a ground of this opinion they alledge this phraſe, the ſeventy years in the deſolations of Jeruſalem; and becauſe in this place it is ſaid the land enjoyed her Sabbaths ſo long as ſhe lay deſolate. But theſe phraſes may be uſed in reference to the greater part, though eleven years of the ſeventy might be paſt before the utter deſolation. Stronger arguments there be to prove that the Seventy years began at the firſt captivity, in the time of Jehoiachim: for before the utter deſtruction of Jeruſalem Jeremiah writeth to thoſe of the firſt captivity to comfort them with this, that after ſeventy years they ſhould be delivered, Jer.29.1, 10. Beſides, Ezekiel expreſly ſetteth down the beginning of the captivity at Jehoiachins going into Babylon, Ezek.1.2. and plainly diſtinguiſheth the beginning of the captivity from that time wherein Jeruſalem was utterly deſtroyed, and makes the former to be eleven years before the latter, Ezek.40.1. See on Jer.25.11,12.

V.21. Now in the firſt year] See Ezr.1.1. This was not the firſt year of his reign in Perſia, but of his Monarchy over a great part of the world, which began with the deſtruction of Babylon. See on v.20. Dan. 2.37,38.

of Cyrus] In Hebrew he is called Chores: but the Latine, Engliſh, and other tongues call him Cyrus, after the Greek. See on Iſa.44.28. & 45.1,2,3.

King of Perſia] Perſia was his proper inheritance, received from his grandfather Aſtyages. He conquered the Medes, and united that Kingdome to Perſia. After that, having vanquiſhed Babylon he became Monarch of the world. Which in honour of his hereditary Kingdome was called the Perſian Monarchy, and the Kingdome of Perſia, v.20. And Cyrus himſelf was ſtiled Cyrus the Perſian, Dan. 6.28.

that the word of the Lord ſpoken by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accompliſhed] Or, when the word of the Lord was accompliſhed. To wit, that after ſeventy years God would cauſe his people to return out of their captivity to the land of Judah, Jer. 29.10.

the Lord ſtirred up the ſpirit of Cyrus king of Perſia] Either by ſending ſome Prophet to declare unto him the mind of God about the return of his people, or by giving him notice of Prophecies tending to that end, as of Iſa.44.28. & 45.1, &c. or by ſome inward ſpecial inſtinct, Prov.21.1.

that he made a proclamation] Heb. cauſed a voyce to paſs. Proclamations uſe to be publiſhed by the voyce of an Herald, or ſome other cryer. See 1 King.15.22.

throughout all his kingdome] i.e. all the kingdomes of the earth, v. 23. his whole Monarchy. For though moſt of the Jews were in the Kingdome of Babylon; yet many were diſperſed up and down in other Kingdoms.

and put it alſo in writing, ſaying] He did as Kings and other Governours now uſe to do, who cauſe their Proclamations not only to be publiſhed by voyce, but alſo to be printed, that they may be ſtuck upon poſts, and ſent up and down from city to city, from one place to another.

V.23. Thus ſaith Cyrus king of Perſia] See v.22.

All the Kingdoms of the earth] All round about on every ſide. He had conquered all the nations that were neer him, and brought them under his dominion; yea, his conqueſt extended far and neer, ſo as he might be thought to have ſubdued all the kingdoms of the earth. Yet here is a Synecdoche, all kingdoms put for many. Thus it is ſaid that Auguſtus (who was another Monarch) cauſed all the world to be taxed, Luke 2.1. i.e. a great part thereof, which was under his juriſdiction.

hath the Lord God of heaven given me] This heathen Monarch maketh ſuch an acknowledgement of Gods Soveraignty, power and providence in diſpoſing the great and weighty affairs of this world, as could not be but by divine inſtinct; Joh.19.11.

and he hath charged me] Heb. concerning me. It may be that Daniel (who lived in his time, and was advanced to great place by Darius that took Babylon, Dan.6.3.) by ſhewing to Cyrus the Prophecy of Iſaiah, Iſa.44.28. & 45.1, &c. informed him of the mind of God concerning this point. Or otherwiſe, Daniel, or ſome other Prophet, might in Gods name tell him that which here followeth.

to build him] Or, to cauſe to be built for him.

an houſe] A Temple, or place for Divine worſhip.

in Jeruſalem] The very place where the former Temple was.

which is in Judah] This is added more fully to declare the place where the Temple ſhould be built, even where the people of God of old were: and if there were in any place in the world another Jeruſalem, to diſtinguiſh that from this.

Who is there among you of all his people?] His Proclamation is very large, excluding none of what condition ſoever, or in what place of the world ſoever he were. He implyeth that he would have them willing to go; and ſo much may be ſupplyed to make up the ſenſe, thus, Who is there among you of all his people that are willing to build an houſe to God? He acknowledgeth the Jews to be Gods peculiar people, and thereby excludeth other nations from that priviledge.

the Lord his God be with him] He was not onely ready to let them go, but alſo very deſirous that they ſhould proſper in what they went about; and therefore he prayeth for Gods bleſſing on them. This is the onely way to obtain good ſucceſs. Of this phraſe God be with him ſee 2 Chr.15.2,9. It implyeth Gods proſpering one in that which he undertakes, and giving him good ſucceſs.

and let him go up] Hereby a free liberty is given to all the Jews that were willing to go to their own land, and there to help forward the work of the Lord.

The two laſt verſes of this book being word for word repeated in the beginning of the next book, called Ezra, do ſhew that both the Books are one continued hiſtory, and penned by the ſame Author.

ANNOTATIONS

On the Book of EZRA.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe politie of the Jews never was in greater miſery then in the Babyloniſh captivity. This Book ſetteth out their return from the ſame. There were three Worthies that God ſtirred up to do much good to his people after their return: I. Zerubbabel, who built the Temple and Altar, ch.3.2,3,10. & 5.2. & 6.14. II. Ezra, who reformed Religion, ch. 9, & 10. III. Nehemiah, who built the walls of the city, Neh.2.3, &c. The Hiſtory of the two former is ſet down in this Book, Of Zerubbabel in the firſt ſix chapters. Of Ezra in the four laſt chapters. This book is ſuppoſed to contain an Hiſtory of an hundred fourty and ſix years. There is expreſs mention made of ſix Perſian Monarchs, in whoſe dayes the acts contained in this Book were accompliſhed. I. Cyrus, ch.1.1. II. Darius, ch.4.5. III. Ahaſuerus, ch.4.6. IV. Artaxerxes, ch.4.7. V. another Darius, ch.5.6, &c. VI. another Artaxerxes, ch.7.1. Of theſe ſeveral Monarchs ſee the ſeveral places here quoted.]

The Title.

Ezra] This is the Title of the Book following. It is called _Ezra_, by reaſon of the Pen-man thereof, whoſe name was _Ezra_. Ezra, according to the notation thereof, ſignifieth an _helper_. And he well anſwered his name; for he was a great helper of the Church of God: and that in a moſt ſeaſonable time, when the Church was in great affliction. Of this man ſee more, Ezra 7.1,6, &c. Sundry Books carry the name of the Pen-men thereof, as moſt of the Prophets. Beſides, a great part of this Book containeth memorable acts of Ezra; and that from the beginning of the ſeventh chapter to the end of the book. Sundry books have their name or title from ſuch a ground. So Joſhua containeth the Acts of Joſhua; Judges of Judges; Ruth of Ruth; Nehemiah of Nehemiah. Ezra is ſuppoſed to be the Pen-man of ſundry other books of ſacred Scripture; as of the two books of Chronicles, (See the laſt note on the laſt verſe of the ſecond book of Chronicles,) of Nehemiah, which by many is called the ſecond book of Ezra, and of Malachi; for by reaſon of the time wherein that Prophecy was written, and of the matter contained therein, Malachi is ſuppoſed to be Ezra; for Malachi may be taken appellatively for a _Meſſenger_.

CHAP. I.

Verſ.1. Now in the firſt year of Cyrus, &c.] Heb. and in one year. The copulative particle and is ſet down in the beginning of this Book, and alſo 2 Chr. 36. 22. to ſhew, that this is a continuance of the hiſtory of the Jews. Mention is made 2 Chr. 36.21. of threeſcore and ten years; which were the years of the Jews captivity. Thus this book depends upon Chronicles. As for that Hebrew phraſe, it is uſual both with the Hebrews and Greeks to put a numeral particle for a cardinal, as one for the firſt: See Gen. 1.5. Exo.28.17. Mat.28.1. Act.20.7. This chapter ſetteth down the ground of the Jews return from captivity into their own land; the perſons that went; and the treaſures that they carried with them. The ground was a proclamation that Cyrus made to that purpoſe: & that is from the beginning of the chapter to the fifth verſe. In that proclamation is noted the motive that ſtirred him up to make it; and the matter contained in it, v.1,2,3,4. Of the motive, which was Gods ſtirring him up thereunto, ſee 2 Chr.36.22.

V.2. Thus ſaith Cyrus king of Perſia, &c.] Here beginneth the matter of the proclamation; wherein another motive is ſet down, Gods expreſs charge in this verſe; and what Cyrus himſelf permitteth, v.3. and commandeth others, v.4. Of this ſecond motive ſee 2 Chr.36. 23.

V.3. Who is there among you of all his people?] See 2 Chr.36.22.

his God be with him] In 2 Chr.36.23. this clauſe is thus expreſſed, the Lord his God, &c. whereby both the ſupreme Soveraignty of God, in this title Lord; and alſo that ſpecial relation which is betwixt God and every profeſſor of the true religion is acknowledged.

and let him go up to Jeruſalem, which is in Judah] Of this phraſe ſee 2 Chr.36.23.

and build the houſe of the Lord] God gave him in charge to do this, v.2. and therefore he layeth it as a charge upon the Jews to do it.

God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15. Cyrus, though an heathen king, by converſing with ſome of the Jews, had learned Canaans dialect, the language of Gods people.

(he is God)] This being included in a parentheſis carrieth great emphaſis with it.. It ſheweth his knowledge and acknowledgement of Jehovah the Lord God of Iſrael to be the onely true God, as 1 King.18.19. Dan.3. 19. & 6.26. and withall, it importeth the reaſon why he was ſo careful to have the houſe of the Lord built, namely, becauſe He is the God.

which is in Jeruſalem] If this be referred to the clauſe immediately going before, it ſheweth, that the true God did eſpecially manifeſt himſelf in his Church, which was at Jeruſalem. But otherwiſe, if it hath relation to the houſe of God, it doth point out the place where the houſe of the Lord was to be built.

V.4. And whoſoever remaineth in any place where he ſojourneth] This is ſpoken of ſuch as ſojourned abroad as ſtrangers in any place of their captivity, and were poor and indigent, having no means to bear the charges of their travel, or to help them in their journey.

let the men of his place] That dwelt neer about him. Some apply this to ſuch Jews as, being well ſeated in their captivity were not willing to remove and go to Jeruſalem. Others apply it to ſuch heathen as dwelt neer to the poor and impotent Jews. There is no reaſon to reſtrain this charge to the one or other ſort: it may well be extended to all of all ſorts, Jews and heathen.

help him] Heb. lift him up. They who are poor and want means to go on in their journey are as men fallen, and not able of themſelves to riſe, and therefore muſt be lift up.

with ſilver and with gold] With theſe commodities all other needful things might be provided.

and with goods] The Hebrew word tranſlated goods is of the ſingular number, and compriſeth under it all manner of things that men ordinarily poſſeſs: and is ſometimes tranſlated ſubſtance, Gen. 15.14. It hath as large extent as our Engliſh word Chattels.

and with beaſts] Both ſuch as might be of uſe to carry them and their goods, and alſo for food.

beſides the free-will-offering for the houſe of God] Cyrus ſuppoſed that many both of the Jews that tarried in their places, and alſo of the heathen that had ſo converſed with the Jews as to be inſtructed by them concerning the God of Iſrael to be the onely true God, would freely of their own accord offer ſomething towards the building of the houſe of God; but beſides ſuch free-will-offerings, he would have the poor and needy to be provided for in their journey.

that is in Jeruſalem] This hath reference to the houſe of God. See v. 3.

V.5. Then roſe up] This phraſe implieth a ready, forward, ſpeedy enterpriſing of a thing. See 1 King.14.1,4.

the chief of the fathers] See 1 King.8.1. 1 Chr.1.2. Theſe were ſuch as were moſt eminent among the Jews in the captivity, and were formerly Governours over others.

of Judah and Benjamin] Theſe were the two tribes that clave cloſe to the houſe of David; and which were carried captives into Babylon. The other tribes were long before carried captives into Aſſyria, 2 King.17.6.

and the Prieſts and the Levites] Theſe at the revolt of the ten tribes came out of their ſeveral cities and habitations to the Kingdom of Judah, 2 Chr.11.13,14. and remained in Judah till the time of the captivity, and were carried away into Babylon.

with all them whoſe ſpirit God had raiſed to go up] This hath reference to ſuch of the other tribes who had aſſociated themſelves with Judah and Benjamin; namely, of the children of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, 1 Chr. 9. 3. Theſe were moved by the inward work of Gods ſpirit to go with their Brethren; for there was no outward means to enforce them.

to build the houſe of the Lord] This was the main end why Cyrus ſent them, v.3. and this end alſo they aimed at rather than their own liberty.

which is in Jeruſalem] See v.3.

V.6. And all they that were about them] Theſe were ſuch as are ſet out under this phraſe men of his place, v.4.

ſtrengthened their hand] i.e. helped them. By the things which they gave them they enabled them which went to Jeruſalem the better to travel in their journey, and to do their work for which they were ſent for to Jeruſalem.

with veſſels of ſilver] This word veſſels is of a large extent. See 1 King. 7.48,51. Here it is to be taken in the largeſt extent, for any thing that was made of ſilver or of gold; which their neighbours gave unto them as gifts and preſents to carry with them.

with gold, with goods, and with beaſts] See v.4.

and with precious things] See 2 Chr.21.3.

beſides all that was willingly offered] Theſe are called freewill-offerings, v.4.

V.7. Alſo Cyrus the king] See 2 Chr.36.22.

brought forth the veſſels of the houſe of the Lord] Such as Solomon had made for the uſe of the temple. See 1 King.7.48,57.

which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jeruſalem] Theſe were ſuch as are mentioned, 2 King. 24. 13. & 25.16. 2 Chr. 36.7. Of the veſſels which Nebuchadnezzar took from the houſe of God, ſome were broken or cut in pieces, 2 King. 24. 13. others preſerved whole and intire. Theſe eſpecially are here meant.

and have put them into the houſe of his gods] His idols are called gods, by reaſon of that opinion which idolaters had of them. The idols of Babel were eſpecially Bel and Nebo, Iſa.46.1. What was ſanctified for the houſe of the true God, that idolaters dedicated to their idol; this profanation of holy things did not make them altogether unfit for the houſe of God, they being ſanctified again, and dedicated unto God for his ſervice.

V.8. Even thoſe did Cyrus king of Perſia] Of this title ſee 2 Chr. 36.22.

bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treaſurer] This was one to whom Cyrus had given the charge of thoſe treaſurers that were taken in Babylon.

and numbred them] i.e. gave them by tale and number.

unto Sheſhbazzar] Some take this man to be a kind of Legat or eſpecial guide whom the king of Perſia appointed to conduct the Jews to their land, and called Prince of the Jews, becauſe he was for that purpoſe ſet over them. The notation of the name Sheſhbazzar importeth joy in tribulation: a name pertinent to this office that was now committed to his charge, namely, to conduct the Jews unto their own land, and to carry with them the veſſels of the houſe of God. The more general and more probable opinion is, that this Sheſhbazzar was Zerubbabel. In which reſpect the title following, Prince of Judah, may moſt properly be applyed to him. Beſides, the ſame work that was done by Zerubbabel is applyed to him; for Zerubbabel is ſaid to begin to build the houſe of God, ch. 5.2. and Sheſhbazzar is ſaid to lay the foundation of the houſe of God, ch. 5.16. His name might be changed from Zerubbabel to Sheſhbazzar, as Daniels was, from Daniel to Belteſhazzar, Dan.1.7.

the Prince of Judah] Zerubbabel was Prince of Judah by birth and by deſignment. By birth, being the ſon or grandchild of Shealtiel, who was of the lineage of David. See ch. 3.2. 1 Chron. 3. 17, 19. Matth. 1. 12. Luke 3. 27. He was alſo a Prince by deſignment, being made governour by Cyrus, chap. 5.14.

V.9. And this is the number of them] Becauſe the inſtruments hereafter following were of ſpecial uſe and great worth, the particular number of them is ſet down: and that the rather, to evidence the faithfulneſſe of them who were intruſted therewith.

thirty chargers of gold, a thouſand chargers of ſilver] Howſoever veſſels of gold be more precious then of ſilver, yet they of ſilver are moſt uſefull; therefore the chargers of ſilver were many more then of gold. Theſe chargers might be to lay on ſuch parts of the ſacrifices as were to be ſet before Prieſts and others to be eaten.

nine and twenty knives] Knives were to kill and flay and cut in pieces ſuch beaſts as were ſacrificed, and for other uſes. Some might be very large ones, others of leſſe ſize; all of them hafted with gold or ſilver, or otherwiſe trimmed with ſuch precious things as made them to be laid up amongſt the treaſures.

V.10. Thirty baſins of gold] Of the uſe of baſins ſee 1 Kings 7.40.

ſilver baſins of a ſecond ſort] Or, of another ſort then the former. Some make the difference to be in quantity, ſome in uſe; that the golden baſins were for the holy place, the ſilver for the Prieſts courts and chambers, and for ſeveral uſes in them.

four hundred and ten] The many uſes whereunto they were put, required that there ſhould be ſuch a number of them.

and other veſſels a thouſand] Theſe were veſſels of a leſs ſize. Many kinds of them are reckoned up 1 King.7.50. Some thus read it, other veſſels by thouſands: implying thereby that theſe other veſſels were given, not by their ſpecial kinds, but promiſcuouſly by thouſands.

V.11. All the veſſels of gold and of ſilver were five thouſand and four hundred] There are not ſo many mentioned before: here therefore is implyed that the veſſels before named and others added thereunto, in all made up ſo many.

All theſe did Sheſhbazzar] Of this name ſee v.8.

bring up with them of the captivity] Heb. the tranſportation. With them that had been captives in Babylon.

that were brought up from Babylon unto Jeruſalem] The meaning is, that even then when the captive Jews returned from Babylon to Jeruſalem, then were the forementioned veſſels carried along with them.

CHAP. II.

Verſ.1. NOw theſe are] In this chapter there is a catalogue of ſuch as returned out of the captivity unto Judah. This catalogue is again ſet down Neh. 7. 5, 6, &c. They are both the ſame in ſubſtance, though they differ in ſome circumſtances. The circumſtances may eaſily be reconciled. They are either in different names of the ſame perſons: Or, in the number of perſons. Sometimes more are ſet down in one place then in the other; and ſometimes fewer. For different names, it is frequent in Scripture to give two or three names to one and the ſame perſon. See 1 Chron.3.1,15. For the difference in number, theſe may be the reaſons thereof. Firſt, ſome came to Jeruſalem which had not ſet down their names in Babylon; they being added to the other increaſed their number. See ver.5,6. Others that had ſet down their names to go to Jeruſalem, either went not, or dyed in the way; and in that reſpect made the number firſt ſet down the leſſe. Thus in 2 Sam.5.14,15,16. there are but eleven ſons of David ſet down to be born in Jeruſalem; whereas in 1 Chron.3.5,6,7,8. there are thirteen reckoned up; for two of them dyed in their infancy, or at leaſt before they had iſſue; and therefore are not reckoned up in that catalogue which is ſet down 2 Sam.5.14, &c. In this catalogue the number of thoſe that ſet down their names in Babylon is regiſtred: but in Neh.7. 7, &c. the number of thoſe that came to Jeruſalem is reckoned up. If there be more in this catalogue then in that, then more ſet down their names then came to Jeruſalem: either becauſe they changed their mind, or dyed in the way. If there be more in Neh. 5 7, &c. then more came to Jeruſalem then ſet down their names in Babylon.

the children of the province] They are called children of the province, becauſe they were ſuch as belonged to Judah which at that time was made a province. Such a country is called a province, as being ſubdued by an enemy is kept under tribute; and in ſubjection to another ſupreme governour. Thus is Judah called a province, ch.5.8. Neh. 1.3. Acts 25.1. Some conceive them to be called children of the province, becauſe they had a long time lived as captives in Babylon, whereas others were ſcattered up and down in other countries. But this application of the phraſe is not ſo proper as the former.

that went out of the captivity] Out of thoſe places where they had a long time remained captives.

of thoſe which had been carried away] Namely, from Jeruſalem and Judah.

whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away into Babylon] 2 King.24.15,16. & 25.11.

and came again unto Jeruſalem and Judah] See ch. 15.

every one unto his city] Some take this of the city which belonged to them before they were carried away out of Judah: but it may more fitly be taken of ſuch cities as were deſigned unto them by ſuch as had the ordering and diſpoſing of them that returned from the captivity to their ſeveral places: ſo as the city wherein ſuch and ſuch an one was then placed was counted his city.

V.2. which came with Zerubbabel, &c.] Thoſe eleven which are here by name ſet down in this verſe, were all of them guides and governours to the reſt; and therefore it is ſaid of the reſt that came, they came with Zerubbabel, &c. Zerubbabel is the ſame that was called Sheſhbazzar, ch.1.8. He was the chief governor over the Jews, in regard of their civil or politick ſtate. See the note on this phraſe Prince of Judah, ch.1.8. He is called governour of Judah, Hag.1.1.

Jeſhua] This is he that is called Joſhua, Zach.3.1. He was high Prieſt. Both theſe were principal men about ordering the ſtate of the Jewes, after their return from captivity, eſpecially about building the Temple, ch.5.1. Hag.1.14.

Nehemiah] It is very probable that this was another man then he whoſe hiſtory is at large related in the book called Nehemiah; for that hiſtory was more then a hundred years after this. If this were that Nehemiah, then he is here ſet down by anticipation: for he came long after this to Jeruſalem.

Seraiah] Or, Azariah; for ſo he is called, Neh. 7.7. The father of Ezra was of this name: but he was ſlain by Nebuchadnezzar at the taking of Jeruſalem, 2 King.25.18,21.

Reelaiah] There is nothing recorded of this man elſewhere. Some take him to be the ſame man that is called Raamiah, Neh. 7.7.

Mordecai] This alſo was another then he whoſe hiſtory is related, Eſth. 2. 5,&c. for he remained in the land of his captivity.

Bilſhan, Miſpar] Or, Miſpereth, Nah.7.7.

Biguai, Rehum, &c.] Or, Nahum, Neh.7.7. There are twelve governours reckoned up, Neh. 7.7. Yet here but eleven; for Nahaman is not here mentioned, he gave not up his name with the reſt that returned in Babylon, and therefore is not here ſet down.

the number of the men of the people of Iſrael] This hath relation to thoſe that follow. By this phraſe men of the people of Iſrael, they that follow are diſtinguiſhed from thoſe that are named before; for they were eminent men, Princes and governours; they that follow of the common ſort, we call them the common people.

V.3. The children of Paroſh] This may be he whoſe ſon built part of the wall of Jeruſalem, Neh.3.25. Children cannot be here properly taken for ſuch as are begotten of a man. The multitude of them here ſet down admits not that ſignification of the word; they muſt therefore be taken for ſuch as belonged to his family, or were under his command; and ſo he was a head and father to them all. As they who are mentioned v.2. were guides and governours, ſo theſe men that follow by name, were heads and fathers of the ſeveral companies that are joyned to them.

two thouſand an hundred ſeventy and two] This number ſheweth that he had a great command.

V. 4. The children of Shephatiah three hundred ſeventy and two] Theſe were a great multitude, though not ſo many as the former.

V.5. The children of Arah ſeven hundred ſeventy and five] Of theſe but ſix hundred fifty and two gave up their names in Babylon to return; for there are no more reckoned up, Neh. 7.10. Or at leaſt, there came no more into Judah. An hundred twenty and three might not come out of Babylon, though they had ſet down their names; or might dye by the way. See the firſt note on this chapter.

V.6. The children of Pahath-Moab] Some of his progenitors might dwell in Moab, and thereupon he have this title Moab, added to his name. Others make theſe two names, Pahath, Moab, to ſet out two diſtinct perſons; as if they had been joyned together with a copulative, and.

of the children of Jeſhuah and Joab] This hath reference to the former names Pahath-Moab. Whether they were one or two men, he, or they and their poſterity were of Jeſhuah and Joab.

two thouſand eight hundred and twelve] There are ſix more added, Neh. 7.11. It is probable that ſix more of that company came to Judea, then had given up their names in Babylon. See v.1.

V.7. The children of Elam] See v.3.

a thouſand two hundred fifty and four] This agreeth with Neh. 7.12.

V.8. The children of Zattu nine hundred fourty and five] Here are an hundred more then in Neh.7.13. They might dye in the way, or tarry in Babylon after they had ſet down their names. See v.1.

V.9. The childred of Zacchai ſeven hundred and threeſcore] So Neh. 7.14.

V.10. The children of Bani] Or, Binnui, Neh.7.15.

ſix hundred fourty and two] There are ſix more added, Neh.7.15. Theſe came to Jeruſalem, though they had not ſet down their names in Babylon.

V.11. The children of Bebai ſix hundred twenty and three] There are five added to theſe, Neh.7.16. See v.10.

V.12. The children of Azgad a thouſand two hundred twenty and two] There are ſet down two thouſand three hundred twenty and two, Neh.7.17. Namely, eleven hundred more. Theſe had not given up their names in Babylon. See v.1.

V.13. The children of Adonikam ſix hundred ſixty and ſix] There is one more added, Neh.7.18. who gave not up his name in Babylon.

V.14. The children of Biguai two thouſand fifty and ſix] There are eleven more added, Neh.7.18.

V.15. The children of Adin four hundred fifty and four] There are two hundred and one more added, Neh.7.20.

V.16. The children of Ater of Hezekiah] Either this Ater deſcended from Hezekiah the King by a younger ſon; or there was another man of that name, from whom he deſcended.

ninety and eight] So Neh. 7.21.

V.17. The children of Bezai, three hundred twenty and three] One more is added, Neh. 7.23.

V.18. The children of Jorah] Or, Hariph, Neh.7.24. This man might have two names. See v.1.

an hundred and twelve] See Neh.7.24.

V.19. The children of Haſhum two hundred twenty and three] In Neh.7.22. This man is ſet down next to Ater of Hezekiah, and an hundred and five more of his poſterity reckoned up. See v.1.

V.20. The children of Gibbar (or Gibeon) ninety and five] So Neh.7.25. Some take theſe to be Gibeonites, of the tribe of Benjamin. See Joſh.18.25.

V.21. The children of Bethlehem] Moſt interpreters account moſt of the names from this place to ver.36. to be the names of places; and ſuch as are called children of them, to be the poſterity of thoſe that inhabited thoſe places. Bethlehem was in the tribe of Judah, Judg.17.7. Mat.2.1. There is added to Bethlehem, Netophah, Neh.7.26. but that place is ſet alone by it ſelf in the next verſe.

an hundred twenty and three] See v.22.

V.22. The children of Netophah fifty and ſix] To this place and to Bethlehem there is attributed an hundred fourſcore and eight, which were nine more then here is added to thoſe two places diſtinctly; ſo as the two numbers here ſet down v.21,22. are compriſed under that one number, Neh.7.26. and nine more added thereunto, which nine came to Jeruſalem, but did not regiſter their names in Babylon. See v.1.

V.23. The men of Anathoth] This city was in Benjamin, Joſh. 21.18. This word men is uſed in the ſame ſenſe that children, v.21.

an hundred twenty and eight] So Neh.7.27.

V.24. The children of Azmaveth] Or, Bethazmaveth, which is the houſe of Azmaveth.

fourty and two] So Neh.7.28.

V.25. The children of Kiriath-arim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, ſeven hundred fourty and three] So Neh.7.28. The firſt name is alſo called Kiriath-jearim. Theſe three cities belonged to the Gibeonites, when they made peace with Iſrael, Joſh.9.17. Kiriath-jearim was in the tribe of Judah, Joſh.15.9. Chephirah and Beeroth were in the tribe of Benjamin, Joſh.18.25,26.

V.26. The children of Ramah and Gaba] Theſe two cities were in the tribe of Benjamin, Joſh.18.24,25.

ſix hundred twenty and one] So Neh.7.30.

V.27. The men of Michmas an hundred twenty and two] So Neh. 7.31. Of this word men ſee v.23.

V.28. The men of Bethel and Ai] Bethel and Ai were cities of Benjamin, Joſh.18.22. & 12.9.

two hundred twenty and three] Here are an hundred more then in Nehem.7.32. Theſe either changed their minds after they had regiſtred their names in Babylon; or dyed in the way. See v.1.

V.29. The children of Nebo fifty and two] Nebo was in the tribe of Reuben, Numb.32.37,38. But that Nebo cannot be here meant; for here are reckoned onely ſuch cities as were in the tribes of Judah and Benjamin. There was a city called Nob, which was a city appertaining to the Prieſts, 1 Sam.22.19. This might be called Nebo, and to diſtinguiſh it from the other Nebo beyond Jordan, it is thus expreſſed, the men of the other Nebo, Neh.7.33.

V.30. The children of Magbiſh, an hundred fifty and ſix] This company is wholly omitted in Nehemiah, ch.7. There is no mention elſewhere made of Magbiſh. The name is ſuppoſed to be the name of a man.

V.31. The children of the other Eſau a thouſand two hundred fifty and four] So Neh. 7. 34. the ſame name and ſame number is ſet down v.7. But this particle of diſtinction other ſheweth that this was another man. Eſau is in other places the name of a city or countrey; as Gen. 14.1. Iſa. 11.11. Jer. 25.25. But alſo the name of a man, 1 Chron. 8. 24. & 26. 3. and ſo in this place taken to be.

V.32. The children of Harim three hundred and twenty] So Neh. 7.35. Harim is alſo the name of a man: there was another before this of that name in Davids time, 1 Chron.24.8. frequent mention is made of this man after the captivity; or at leaſt of another of that name; as ch.10.21, 31. Neh 3. 11. & 10.5,27. & 12.15.

V.33. The children of Lod, Hadid and Ono] Theſe three were the names of cities, 1 Chron.8.12. Neh.11.34,35. Yet ſome take them here to be names of men. Hadid in ſome copies is made Harid.

ſeven hundred twenty and five] There wants four of this number in Nehem. 7. 37. They came not to Jeruſalem. See v. 1.

V.34. The children of Jericho three hundred fourty and five] So Neh.7.36. Jericho was the name of a place, Joſh.2.1. & 6.1. See Neh.3.2.

V.35. The children of Senaah three thouſand ſix hundred and thirty] There are three hundred more added, Neh. 7. 38. Theſe came to Jeruſalem, but entred not their names at Babylon. See v. 1.

V.36. Prieſts] Having hitherto ſet down ſuch Princes and heads of families as were of Judah and Benjamin, he proceeds now to ſet down the companies of the tribe of Levi: and that according to their ſeveral diviſions: as Prieſts, who all deſcended from Aaron; Levites, v.40. who attended the Prieſts in their ſeveral ſervices; Singers, v.41. who were in ſpecial to praiſe the Lord with ſinging and inſtruments; and porters, v. 42. who attended the gates. See 1 Chr.25.1.

the children of Jedaiah, of the houſe of Jeſhua, nine hundred ſeventy and three] So Neh.7.39. Jedaiah was the head of a family in Davids time; to whom the ſecond lot fell: So as he was in the ſecond rank or order of Prieſts, 1 Chr.24.7. This name Jeſhua is mentioned v. 2. But whether the ſame man be here meant, is uncertain: but certain it is that he was a Prince and eminent man among the Prieſts in the captivity.

V.37. The children of Immer, a thouſand fifty and two] So Neh.7.40. Immer was alſo one of the heads in Davids time, to whom the ſixteenth lot fell, 1 Chr.24.14.

V.38. The children of Paſhur, a thouſand two hundred faurty and ſeven] So Neh.7.41. Of him mention is made 1 Chr.9.12.

V.39. The children of Harim, a thouſand and ſeventeen] So Neh.7.42. This is another man diſtinct from him that is mentioned, v. 32. He was one of the Princes of Judah: this, one of the Prieſts. To this man fell the third lot in Davids time, 1 Chr. 24.8.

V.40. The Levites] Theſe being diſtinguiſhed from ſingers, v.41. and from Porters, v.42. intend ſuch as attended upon the Prieſts. See 1 Chr.25.1.

the children of Jeſhua, and Cadmiel] This Jeſhua was another then he that is mentioned v.2, who was high Prieſt. Jeſhua and Cadmiel were counted among the chief of the Levites after the captivity, Neh.12.24. They are oft joyned together in their holy ſervices, ch.3.9. Neh.9.4,5. & 10.9.

of the children of Hadaviah] Or, Judah, ch.3.9. called alſo Hodevah, Neh.7.43. As Jeſhua and Cadmiel, ſo their poſterity deſcended from Hodaviah, and were reckoned in the number of his poſterity. See a like phraſe v.6. ſeventy and four] So Neh.7.43.

V.41. The ſingers] Of theſe ſee 1 Chr.25.1, &c.

the children of Aſaph] He was a principal muſician. See 1 Chr. 6.39.

an hundred twenty and eight] Twenty more are added to this number, Neh.7.44.

V.42. The children of the porters] Of Porters in the Temple ſee 1 Chr.26.1.

the children of Shallum, &c.] Here are ſix heads of the families of Porters, whereof three were of old; namely, Shallum, Talmon, Akkub; of whom ſee 1 Chron.9.17. Talmon and Akkub are again joyned together, Neh. 11. 19. & 12.25. But of Ater, Hatita, and Schoba, there is no other mention then in this catalogue.

in all, an hundred thirty and nine] Here is one more reckoned up then in Neh.7.51. See the reaſon verſe 1. This number compriſeth all the children of the ſix fore-mentioned Porters.

V. 43. The Nethinims] Theſe were Gibeonites devoted to the inferiour ſervices appertaining to the Temple, and incorporated into the body of the children of Iſrael. Of them ſee 1 Chr. 9. 2.

the children of Ziba, &c.] There are five and thirty fathers, or heads of families from this place to v.55. reckoned by name: but the number of children appertaining to them, is not in particular ſet down under every head: onely the general ſumme of them all is noted v.58. There are but two and thirty of theſe fathers reckoned up, Neh.7.46, &c. For Akkub, v.45. Hagab, v.46. and Aſnath, v.50. are left out in that catalogue. Some variation there is in names which we will note in order.

V.44. Siaha] Or, Sia, Neh.7.47.

V.46. Shalmai] Or, Shamlai.

V.50. Nephuſhim] Or, Nephiſheim, Neh.7.52.

V.52. Bazluth] Or, Bazlith, Neh.7.54.

V.55. The children of Solomons ſervants] Theſe that are ſtiled Solomons ſervants were ſtrangers, but incorporated into the common-wealth of Iſrael, as the Nethinims, v.43. Of the reaſon of this title Solomons ſervants, ſee 1 King.9. v.21.

the children of Sotai, &c.] The poſterity of Solomons ſervants are ſet down under their particular heads, as the Nethenims were, v.43. There are eleven heads or fathers of families ſet down by name. Some ſmall difference there is in two names, which are theſe that follow.

Peruda] Or, Perida, Neh.7.57.

V.57. Ami] Or, Amon, Neh.7.59.

V.58. All the Nethinims, and the children of Solomons ſervants, were three hundred ninety and two] So Neh.7.60. He joyneth together the number of them all, becauſe there were ſo few; for there were thirty five heads of the Nethinims, and eleven of Solomons ſervants, yet the families of all theſe made up but three hundred ninety and two perſons, which is not by equal portions eight to a family.

V.59. And theſe were they which went up from Telmelah, Telharſa, Cherub, Addan, and Immer] Theſe five names were of towns or cities in the dominion of the King of Babylon: and being ſevered from their brethren that were in Babylon, they did not enroll their names as others had done; yet they came up with their brethren to Jeruſalem. All theſe names agree in both catalogues except the ſecond, which is Tel-harſa; this is called Tel-hariſha, Neh. 7.61. The names of the places where they dwelt are ſet down, becauſe they could not tell from what anceſtors they came.

but they could not ſhew their fathers houſe] Of what family they were.

and their ſeed] Or, pedigree, whence they deſcended.

whether they were of Iſrael] Whether they were born Iſraelites, or made proſelytes.

V.60. The children of Delaiah, the children of Tobiah, the children of Nekods] Theſe three were names of perſons that came from Babylon, and pretended themſelves to be Levites; as the next verſe which maketh mention of Prieſts implieth.

ſix hundred fifty and two] There are ten leſs of this number ſet down, Neh.7.62. See v. 1.

V.61. And of the children of the Prieſts] He meaneth ſuch as pretended, but could not prove themſelves to be Prieſts.

the children of Habaiah, the children of Koz, the children of Barzillai] We read not of any ſuch to be Prieſts before the captivity. There is indeed mention made of Barzillai, 2 Sam. 17. 27. but he is there ſaid to be a Gileadite; he is no where ſaid to be a Prieſt.

which took a wife of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite, and was called after their name] Theſe that are called the children of Barzillai, did not by deſcent of males come from that noble Barzillai who gave entertainment to David when he fled from Abſalon; but one of their predeceſſors marrying a daughter of that Barzillai carried his name, being deſirous to be accounted of his family. If they were Prieſts before, they manifeſted herein too light an eſteem of that ſacred function of Prieſthood. Whether they deſcended from Aaron or no, it ſeemeth that coming to Jeruſalem, where the Prieſthood began to gain its former honour, imployment and maintenance, they would be accounted Prieſts; and ſought to be admitted into that office: but becauſe they could not prove their genealogy to be from Aaron, they were not ſuffered to meddle with the Prieſthood.

V.62. Theſe ſought their regiſter among thoſe that were reckoned by genealogy] Or, as for theſe, they that reckoned the genealogy ſought their regiſter. All means was uſed by ſearching all manner of Records to try if their pedigree might be found out. Of a genealogy ſee 1 Chr.21.33.

but they were not found] Their names were not entred into any of thoſe records.

therefore were they as polluted put from the Prieſthood] Heb. they were polluted from the Prieſthood. It was counted a pollution of the Prieſthood for ſtrangers that were not of the ſeed of Aaron to meddle therewith, Num.16.40.

V.63. And the Tirſhatha ſaid unto them] Or, the governour ſaid. Tirſhatha is a Chaldee word, and importeth as much as Governour, who hath authority over others. Indeed Nehemiah is ſaid to be the Tirſhatha, Neh.8.9. & 10.1. Whereupon ſome infer that he is here meant, but that is no good conſequence; for one man may be a Governour at one time, and another at another time. There was too long diſtance betwixt this firſt coming from the captivity to Judea, and Nehemiah's time, to make him a Governour now. He that was called Sheſhbazzar, ch. 1.8,11. which was Zerubbabel, was the Tirſhatha or Governour here meant.

that they ſhould not eat of the moſt holy things] Here is one particular priviledge of a Prieſt put for all the reſt. He would ſuffer them neither to do the work, nor to receive the allowance due to Prieſts.

till there ſtood up a Prieſt with Urim and with Thummim] Urim and Thummim were put in the breaſt-plate of that robe which the high Prieſt ware when he went into the moſt Holy place, to enquire and learn the mind and will of God, Exod.28.30. Levit. 8.8. Num.27.21. By this that is here ſaid it appears that that robe as many other things was burnt with the Temple, or ſome other way loſt. But this good Governour, hoping that ſuch a means of knowing Gods mind might be again reſtored to the Church, puts off this great and difficult caſe to ſuch a time.

V.64. The whole Congregation together was fourty and two thouſand three hundred and threeſcore] So Neh.7.66. The particular numbers before ſpecified being all laid together in Ezra, amount but to 29718; and in Nehemiah, to 31089. ſo as the particulars in Ezra are leſs then the total by 12642; and in Nehemiah leſs by 11271. The greater of theſe ſummes is much under the ſumme here ſet down. But if the number of thoſe who could not find out their genealogy, and of others who were neither of the tribe of Levi, nor of Judah, nor of Benjamin, and yet came with them to Jeruſalem, be added to thoſe particulars before mentioned, they may make up the full ſumme here ſet down.

V.65. Beſides their ſervants and their maids] For their names were not put into the regiſter of names made at Babylon, they came under their maſters, as belonging to them. So did wives and children.

of whom there were ſeven thouſand three hundred thirty and ſeven] So Neh.7.67.

and there were among them two hundred ſinging men, and ſinging women] Theſe were not ſuch as uſed to ſing in the Temple; they were Levites onely, and of them mention is made v.41. The Jews uſed to have men and women ſkilful in ſinging both at merry meetings, as marriages, feaſts, and the like; and alſo at doleful aſſemblies: as at funeralls, and other occaſions of mourning. Of the former kind ſee Eccl.2.8. and of the latter, 2 Chron.35.25. fourty and five more are added, Neh.7.67. See v.1.

V.66. Their horſes were ſeven hundred thirty and ſix, their mules two hundred fourty and five] Theſe beaſts were for men and women to ride upon. Mules for the better ſort. Of them ſee 1 King.1.33. Horſes for all of all ſorts.

V.67. Their camels four hundred thirty and five; their aſſes, ſix thouſand ſeven hundred and twenty] So Neh.7.69. Theſe beaſts Camels and Aſſes were eſpecially for burthens, to carry ſuch things as they thought meet to carry along with them from Babylon to Jeruſalem. Both theſe ſorts of beaſts were alſo to ride upon. Of Camels ſee 1 King.10.2. Of Aſſes ſee 1 King.2.40. & 13.13 If we compare the number of perſons that were carried away captives, with thoſe that returned back again, we ſhall find a wonderful great encreaſe of them in that time wherein they remained captives. For there were carried into captivity at three times, four thouſand and ſix hundred, Jer.52.30. but there returned out of captivity, fourty and two thouſand three hundred and threeſcore, ver.64. beſides ſeven thouſand three hundred thirty and ſeven ſervants, ver.65.

V.68. And ſome of the chief of the fathers] Such as are ſet down v.2, &c.

when they came to the houſe of the Lord which is at Jeruſalem] Hereby is meant the place where the Temple was formerly built, and where after it was re-edified.

offered freely for the houſe of God] Herein they ſhewed ſuch piety and zeal to the re-edifying of Gods houſe, as David, his Princes, and people did, for the firſt building of it, 1 Chron.29.3,6,9.

to ſet it up in his place] For that place was appointed and ſanctified by God himſelf, 2 Chr.3.1.

V.69. They gave after their ability] They had been long in captivity, and had but ſmall means for gathering treaſures together; yet what they had they were willing and forward to contribute and conſecrate unto God. See Deut.11.29. they that had the greater ability, gave more; they that had the leſs, gave leſs.

unto the treaſure of the work] Becauſe materials and workmen were to be provided before-hand, they did wiſely make a treaſure, whereby all needful things might be provided. Of treaſures for the houſe of God ſee 1 Chr.26.20.

threeſcore and one thouſand drams of gold] Of the Hebrew word here tranſlated drams ſee 1 Chron.29.7. The quantity of a dram in gold is ſix ſhillings three pence. By this accompt threeſcore and one thouſand drams amount to nineteen thouſand ſixty two pound ten ſhillings.

and five thouſand pound of ſilver] A pound is counted twelve ounces of ſilver, which is three pound ſterling; by which accompt the five thouſand pound of ſilver here mentioned amounts to fifteen thouſand pound ſterling.

and one hundred Prieſts garments] Theſe were ſuch ſacred veſtments as Prieſts uſed in their Divine ſervice. The care that they had in providing theſe, giveth evidence of their deſire to have the ordinances of God obſerved according to his law. That which is here in general noted concerning the gifts given for the houſe of the Lord, is more particularly exemplified Neh.7.70,71,72. There the perſons that gave the gifts are ſpecified. It is there ſaid that Tirſhatha their Governour, of whom ſee v.63. gave a thouſand drams of gold; that is, three hundred twelve pound ten ſhillings; and that the chief of the fathers gave twenty thouſand drams of gold; which amounts to ſix thouſand two hundred and fifty pound ſterling.

and that the reſt of the people gave alſo twenty thouſand drams of gold] Theſe three ſummes of drams ſet down by Nehemiah, amount in all to fourty one thouſand drams, which amounts to twelve thouſand eight hundred and twelve pound ten ſhillings. And this is leſs then the ſumme here ſet down by Ezra by twenty thouſand drams, which is ſix thouſand two hundred and fifty pound. It is there alſo ſaid that the chief of the fathers gave two thouſand and two hundred pound of ſilver, which is ſix thouſand ſix hundred pound ſterling. And that the reſt of the people gave two thouſand pound of ſilver, which is ſix thouſand pound ſterling. The ſumme of the ſilver ſet down in Nehemiah, is leſs then that in Ezra, by two thouſand four hundred pound. Ezra ſetteth down all that was given by any of any ſort, whether of Judah or of Benjamin, or of any of the other tribes; or of any other nations that wiſhed well unto them. See ch.1.6. But in Nehemiah there is ſet down no more then was given by the Governour, ſome of the chief fathers, and the reſt of the people, namely, of Judah and Benjamin. The ſumme therefore ſet down in Ezra may well exceed that which is ſet down in Nehemiah. Some take the contributions of gold, ſilver, and Prieſts garments, ſet down Neh.7.70,71,72. to be at another time then thoſe that are here ſet down; namely, that theſe were at the Iſraelites firſt coming to Jeruſalem: but thoſe in Nehemiah after that good Governour had come to Jeruſalem, built up the walls of the City, and ſetled the State; ſo as there paſſed above an hundred and fifty years betwixt theſe two contributions. If they were ſo diſtinct there is no need of bringing both to one equal ſumme. One may be greater then another without any ſeeming contradiction in the ſtory. If the ſummes here given towards the building of the ſecond Temple be compared with that which was given 1 Chron.22.14. & 29.4,7,8. towards the building of the firſt Temple, we ſhall find thoſe ſummes far to exceed theſe; namely, more then Talents exceed Drams: Yet in regard of the mind of his people, this gift was in Gods account as great; for theſe gave after their ability v.69. as the poor widow who caſt two mites into the treaſury, Luk.21.1,2. Though the gifts of gold and ſilver ſet down by Ezra, exceed thoſe which are ſet down in Nehemiah: Yet the gift of Prieſts garments mentioned Neh.7.70,72. exceed in number thoſe which were ſet down in Ezra. In Ezra are ſet down onely one hundred; but in Nehemiah, five hundred and thirty Prieſts garments, yea and threeſcore and ſeven more. In all, five hundred twenty and ſeven. It is probable that when they came to Jeruſalem, they obſerved more Prieſts then they thought would have come: and thereupon the piety of many moved them much to increaſe the number of Prieſts garments. In Neh.7.70. mention is made of fifty baſins; thereof is no mention made here in Ezra: for they were before mentioned ch.1.10. and that more then fifty, if we joyn baſins of gold and ſilver together.

V.70. So the Prieſts and the Levites] The functions here mentioned, as Prieſts, Singers, and Porters, were all Levites. But this word, Levites, being diſtinguiſhed from the reſt, ſets out ſuch as attended upon the Prieſts. See v.40.

and ſome of the people] Namely thoſe that are called the common people. Theſe are ſet after the Singers and Porters Neh.7.73. Some read this phraſe thus, and of that people the ſingers and porters; whereby is intended that theſe Singers and Porters were of the Levites.

and the ſingers] Of their function, ſee 1 Chr.15.1, &c. and the porters] Of theſe ſee 1 Chr.26.1.

and the Nethinims] Of theſe ſee 1 Chr.9.2.

dwelt in their cities] Namely, in thoſe cities that were appointed unto them. See the laſt note on v.1.

and all Iſrael in their cities] Not only thoſe that were in their courſes to attend the ſervices of the Temple, when their ſervice was ended returned and abode in their cities, but alſo all ſorts of Iſraelites. This is here thus ſet down, to ſhew that they came to the houſe of God at ſuch times as there were ſolemn meetings; but at other times followed their own callings in the proper places of their abode. It is added Neh.7.73. that when the ſeventh moneth came, the children of Iſrael were in their cities. This giveth a particular inſtance of their readineſs to celebrate the feaſts of the Lord in their due ſeaſons, notwithſtanding their ordinary abode in their cities. To demonſtrate this the more fully, ſome refer the laſt verſe of the ſeventh chapter of Nehemiah, to the beginning of the eighth chapter.

CHAP. III.

Verſ.1. AND when the ſeventh moneth was come] Of the Hebrew moneth ſee 1 King.6.1. This moneth began about the eleventh of our September. See 1 King.8.2. It is probable that they began their journey in the firſt moneth of the year, which was in the Spring time; and they might be four moneths in their travel as Ezra was ch.7.9. and being ſetled in their ſeveral cities, ſee chap.2.1,70. when the firſt ſolemn feaſt for all the Jews to go to Jeruſalem came, theſe Jews went up to Jeruſalem.

and the children of Iſrael were in the cities] This is added to ſhew that notwithſtanding they were all ſeated in their ſeveral habitations, yet they would come to the holy feaſts whereunto they were enjoyned Deut.16.13,16. This was a great amplification of their piety.

the people gathered themſelves together] By their ſeveral habitations they being ſevered one from another, now all aſſemble together to one place.

as one man] This may be applied either to the union of their perſons, that they came all none excepted, as members of one body; or to the union of their minds, all being of a like diſpoſition as if they had had but one heart. This commendation is given of the primitive Chriſtians, that they were all of one mind, Act.2.1,46.

to Jeruſalem] This was the place appointed for Gods worſhip. See 1 King.11.13.

V.2. Then ſtood up] This phraſe implieth a readineſs; yea, and forwardneſs to do a thing; as the word aroſe doth. See 1 King.14.2,4.

Jeſhua] Or, Joſhua. Hag.1.1.

the ſon of Jozadak] This diſtinguiſheth him from others of that name; namely from thoſe that are mentioned 1 Chr. 24.11. 2 Chr. 31.13. Of this Jeſhua ſee ch.2.2.

and his brethren the Prieſts] Brethren are here taken in a large extent for ſuch as came from the ſame ſtock.

and Zerubbabel] Matth.1.12. & Luk.3.27. he is called Zorobabel.

the ſon of Shealtiel] Matth.1.12. & Luk.3.17. he is called Salathiel. Son is here put for grand-ſon. See 1 Chron.3.18,19. Zerubbabel might alſo be brought up under Shealtiel, as a ſon under a father.

and his brethren] Princes and great men. For men of the ſame office, ſtate, or degree, are called brethren. Jeſhua was the head of ſuch as belonged to the tribe of Levi: Zerubbabel of all the reſt of the people.

and builded the Altar] An Altar was for ſacrifices, Levit. 1.8,9, 12,13,15. By the Altar the ſacrifice was ſanctified, Matth. 23.19. Now becauſe offering of ſacrifices was a ſpecial part of Gods worſhip before Chriſt was exhibited; Saints of old uſed to build Altars when they came to a place to worſhip God, as Gen. 13. 4. & 35.1,3. When a particular place was appointed for Gods worſhip, as the Tabernacle, Lev.1. 5. and the Temple, 1 King. 8. 64. then there onely was their Altar to be. Hereby theſe Jews do teſtifie their piety, and their deſire of reconciliation betwixt God and them.

of the God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15. This was then the ſtile of the true God.

to offer burnt-offerings thereon] Of burnt-offerings and the uſe of them ſee 1 King.3.15.

as it is written in the law of Moſes] In that law which God gave to his people by the miniſtery of Moſes, Deut. 12. 5. They would not follow their own or other mens inventions, but the direction of God himſelf.

the man of God] Of this phraſe man of God ſee 1 King. 13.1. It is oft applied to Moſes, Deut.33.1. Joſh.14.6. See 1 Chron. 23.14.

V.3. And they ſet the Altar upon his baſes] Or, upon his ſeats. It appeareth by this that the foundation of the great brazen Altar which Solomon built ſtill remained, and that thereupon they built this new Altar, even in the Prieſts court, the very place where the former Altar ſtood.

for] Or though, as Pſal.23.4. Joſh.17.18.

fear was upon them] The people that dwelt in the other tribes envied the return of the men of Judah into their own land, and by ſome effects manifeſted as much. This their envy put the Jews into ſome fear. But though they were afraid of their enemies, yet they tooke courage to build an Altar to God. Or becauſe they were afraid of their adverſaries, they did the rather build an Altar to God, that by offering thereon expiation might be made for their ſins, pardon obtained, and a reconciliation wrought betwixt God and them; that ſo they might get Gods protection againſt all that their adverſaries could do.

becauſe of the people of thoſe countreys] The countreys here meant were eſpecially the ten tribes; though other nations neer adjoyning may alſo be meant. Theſe were all adverſaries, ch 4.1. and therefore there was cauſe to fear them.

and they offered burnt-offerings thereon unto the Lord] See 1 King. 3.15. It was the proper uſe of an Altar to offer ſacrifices thereon. The burnt-offerings were queſtionleſs extraordinary and voluntary ſacrifices to procure Gods favour thereby.

even burnt-offerings, morning and evening] This was expreſly enjoyned to be conſtantly obſerved, Exod.29.38,39,41. This ſheweth that this Altar was not built for ſacrifices then onely to be offered upon it, as 1 King.18.32. but for daily uſe.

V.4. They kept alſo the feaſt of Tabernacles] Of this feaſt ſee Lev.23.34, &c. There the manner of celebrating the feaſt, and the reaſon of this name given unto it, is expreſly ſet down. This was one of the ſolemn feaſts for the obſervation whereof all the males of the children of Iſrael were to appear before the Lord at the houſe of God, Deut.16.16. See Neh.8.15, &c.

as it is written] See v.2.

and offered the daily burnt-offerings by number] On every day of this feaſt there were particular offerings to be offered up. The kind of offerings and the number of them, and that for every day, is expreſly ſet down, Num.29.12, &c.

according to the cuſtome] This was a cuſtome enjoyned by God, and conſtantly obſerved by his people.

as the duty of every day required] Heb. the matter of the day in his day. Of this phraſe ſee 1 King.8.59. 1 Chro.16.37. They obſerved the number of ſacrifices according to that which was enjoyned for ſeveral dayes, for there were different ſacrifices on the ſeveral dayes to be offered up, Num.29.12, &c.

V.5. And afterward] When the feaſt of the Tabernacles was ended.

offered the continual burnt-offering] That was counted the continual burnt-offering which was every day, and that morning and evening, to be offered up, Exod.29.38. Num.28.3.

both of the new moons] The firſt day in every moneth was counted a new Moon, and therein ſpecial offerings to be offered up. See 1 Chr. 23.31.

and of all the ſet feaſts of the Lord] The Jews had many ſet feaſts; they are diſtinctly ſet down Lev.23.2, &c.

that were conſecrated] Appointed by God to be kept holy. On theſe feaſts people were to ceaſe from the works of their callings, and give themſelves to holy duties. In theſe reſpects, the dayes wherein they were ſo to do were counted conſecrated dayes. Some apply this to things conſecrated.

and of every one that willingly offered a free-will offering unto the Lord] Beſides the daily ſacrifices, and ſacrifices on ſet feaſts expreſly commanded; ſuch offerings as people willingly offered up to the Lord were accepted of him. Theſe free-will-offerings uſed to be in thankfulneſs for ſome bleſſing received; or for deliverance from ſome danger, or to teſtifie a mans zeal to Gods glory. They were diſtinguiſhed not onely from thoſe ſacrifices which God expreſly enjoyned, but alſo from ſuch as men bound themſelves unto by vow.

V.6. From the firſt day of the moneth] The firſt day was a feſtival day in every moneth, called the new Moon; but in the ſeventh moneth it was a ſpecial feaſt of blowing trumpets, Levit.23.24,25. Num.29.1. Before this moneth not onely their corn but alſo other fruits of the earth were brought in; and therefore in memorial of that bleſſing they had on the firſt day a joyful ſounding of trumpets. Beſides in this moneth they had many feaſts, as the new Moon on the firſt day; on the tenth day a ſolemn day of atonement; on the fifteenth day and the ſeven dayes following, the feaſt of Tabernacles, Levit.23. 24, &c. Wherefore on the firſt day of the moneth they had a ſolemn blowing of trumpets to call people together, and to put life and ſpirit into them. began they to offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord] Becauſe this was a ſpecial ſervice of God they took the firſt opportunity, even the firſt feaſt, being on the firſt day of the moneth.

but the foundation of the Temple of the Lord was not yet laid] Heb. the Temple of the Lord was not yet founded. The houſe of God was too great a work to be done in ſo ſhort a time, but yet they would not forbear to do ſuch ſervices to the Lord as they might do without a Temple.

V.7. They gave money alſo to the Maſons and to the Carpenters] Or workmen. Under theſe two kinds all manner of artificers and workmen uſeful for building are compriſed. See 2 King. 12.11. & 22.6. 2 Chr.24.12.

and meat, and drink, and oyl] Under theſe three particulars is compriſed all manner of ſuſtenance. See 1 King.5.11. This they did to ſuſtain and encourage ſuch as ſhould do their work.

unto them of Zidon, and to them of Tyre] Zidon and Tyre were countreys joyning together, wherein Cedars grew in great plenty, and the inhabitants thereof had good skill in felling and ſquaring that timber. See 1 King.5.1,6.

to bring cedar trees from Lebanon] Of Cedar trees growing in Lebanon ſee 1 King.5.6.

to the Sea of Joppa] Of this Sea and of carrying Cedars by it, ſee 1 King.5.9. as Solomon prepared timber for the firſt Temple, ſo is preparation here made for another Temple.

according to the grant that they had of Cyrus] Though this particular be not expreſſed, yet it is compriſed under thoſe general words of Cyrus his grant which is ſet down ch.1.4. & 6.3,4.

King of Perſia] See 2 Chr.36.22.

V.8. Now in the ſecond year] In the firſt year they did what they could to prepare materials for the houſe of the Lord.

of their coming into the houſe of God at Jeruſalem] To that place where the houſe of God built by Solomon firſt ſtood; and where afterwards they built the ſecond Temple.

in the ſecond moneth] For in the firſt moneth they were to celebrate the Paſſeover, and in the middle thereof, Exod.12.2,6. So as this was the firſt moneth which they had free. This ſecond moneth began about the eleventh of our April.

began Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak] Of theſe two ſee v.2.

and the remnant of their brethren] This may be applied to the brethren of Jeſhua onely, and then it ſignifieth Prieſts and Levites onely; or to the brethren of Zerubbabel alſo, as v. 2. and then it compriſeth under it others as well as Prieſts and Levites, which are ſet down in the words following.

and all they that were come from the captivity unto Jeruſalem] All of all ſorts ſet themſelves to do what they could to help on the houſe of the Lord.

and appointed the Levites from twenty years old and upward] From Davids time forward Levites came at twenty years old to the houſe of God. See 1 Chron.23.24. This that is here ſaid of appointing the Levites hath eſpecial reference to Jeſhua and Zerubbabel.

to ſet forward the work of the houſe of the Lord] Both by doing what they could themſelves thereabouts, and alſo by encouraging others. See v.10.

V.9. Then ſtood Jeſhua] This Jeſhua was a Levite, not the high Prieſt mentioned ver. 2. Of this other Jeſhua ſee chap. 2. 40.

with his ſons and his brethren] Brethren is here taken for thoſe that were of his family and ſtock. See v. 2.

Kadmiel and his ſons] Of this Kadmiel ſee ch.2.40.

the ſons of Judah] Or Hodavia, ch.2.40.

together] Heb. as one. See v.1.

to ſet forward the workmen in the houſe of God] The forenamed Levites did what they could to encourage the workmen cheerfully to go on in what they had undertaken; that they ſhould not fear their adverſaries, but depend on God: for this end they were choſen, and ſet in the places where they ſtood.

the ſons of Henadad] Henadad alſo was a Levite of good note and name. Either theſe had the ſame office that Jeſhua, Kadmiel, and their ſons had, and ſo muſt be joyned with a particle and; or they were appointed to over-ſee ſome other work. See the like 2 Chron.34.12,13.

with their ſons] This hath reference to the ſons of Henadad. His ſons and his ſons ſons were active in this buſineſs.

and their brethren the Levites] See v.8. There is mention made of ſons of Henadad to be forward about the wall of Jeruſalem, Neh. 3.18,24. and alſo about the covenant that was made with the Lord, Neh.10.9.

V.10. And when the builders laid the foundation of the Temple of the Lord] When firſt they began that great work.

they ſet the Prieſts in their apparel] Prieſts had their proper robes for the ſervices that they performed in the Temple, which they put on when they did thoſe ſervices.

with trumpets] See 1 Chr.13.8. It belonged to the Prieſts to ſound with trumpets, 2 Chr.15.24. & 16.6. and the Levites the ſons of Aſaph, with Cymbals] Of Cymballs ſee 1 Chr.13.8.

to praiſe the Lord] This was the principal end of all the muſick in the Temple. By the melody of muſick were the peoples ſpirits much quickened and ſtirred up to praiſe the Lord.

after the ordinance of David king of Iſrael] 1 Chron.6.31. and 16.7. & 25.1. David did both appoint Pſalms to be ſung, and alſo ſet down the order and manner of ſinging them. See 2 Chron. 29.27.

V.11. And they ſung together by courſe] Sometimes ſome of them, and other times others ſang; and in their ſinging they obſerved their due reſts and returns. Others thus interpret it; They conſented to the things that were ſung, and gave their amen thereunto.

in praiſing and giving thanks unto the Lord] See v.10.

becauſe he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever towards Iſrael] Theſe words are cadencies in ſundry verſes of the 118. and 136. Pſalms; ſo as hereby is implied that they ſang thoſe Pſalms. See 2 Chr.5.13.

and all the people ſhouted with a great ſhout] Of the meaning of this word ſhout ſee 2 Chron.13.15. Hereby with an unanimous conſent they gave great evidence of the joy of their heart for that which they ſaw. See Pſal.5.11. & 82.11. & 35.27. & 132. 9,16.

when they praiſed the Lord] When the Levites ſang the Pſalms of praiſe.

becauſe the foundation of the houſe of the Lord was laid] The very beginning of that great and much deſired work was a matter of great joy unto them.

V.12. But many of the Prieſts and Levites, and chief of the fathers] This latter phraſe may have reference to ſuch as were heads of families, and ſo diſtinguiſhed from Prieſts and Levites.

who were ancient men that had ſeen the firſt houſe] It was not much above threeſcore years from the deſtruction of the former Temple, to the laying of the foundation of this Temple: for there were but ſeventy years, 2 Chron.36.21. from the beginning of the captivity to the Jews return again unto Jeruſalem. The captivity began in the firſt year of Jehoiachin, 2 Chron. 36. 9,10. Zedekiah reigned eleven years after that, 2 Chr.36.11. At the end of his reign was the houſe of the Lord burnt, 2 King.25.2,9. From that time to the return of the Jews paſſed fifty nine years. In the ſecond year of their return this foundation was laid, v.8. This amounts to about threeſcore years. Now they that were about ten, or twelve, or fourteen years old, and ſaw the firſt Temple, might well remember the large compaſs and glorious fabrick thereof. All therefore that were ſeventy years old and upwards may be reckoned among the ancient men here ſet down; and of theſe there might be a great many.

when the foundation of this houſe was laid before their eyes] Some tranſlate it thus; The old men who had ſeen the former houſe on the foundation thereof, the foundation of this houſe being before their eyes; that is, they now beholding the foundation of this houſe, and comparing it with the foundation of the former houſe, were affected as followeth.

wept with a loud voice] They were not onely inwardly grieved, nor onely manifeſted their grief with tears, but gave further evidence of their great ſorrow by loud out-cries.

and many ſhouted aloud for joy] Theſe were of the younger ſort, who had not ſeen the former Temple. The former that ſo much grieved did well diſcern that fro[illegible]h a foundation as was now laid there could not be erected ſo g[illegible]ious a fabrick as the former Temple was. Yet this foundation in it ſelf was a fair one, and fit for a goodly fabrick to be erected thereon; and in that there was hope of another Temple to be built thereon, the younger ſort much rejoyced.

V.13. So that the people could not diſcern the noiſe of the ſhout for joy, from the noiſe of the weeping of the people] By the people in the former place are meant ſuch lookers on, or ſuch hearers of the noiſe, as had no part either in mourning or rejoycing. Some of theſe might be neer, ſome far off. Thus the people in the former place are diſtinguiſhed from the people in the latter place.

for the people ſhouted with a loud ſhout] Both the manifeſtation of their mourning and alſo of their rejoycing was very loud.

and the noiſe was heard afar off] The noiſe of either part might ſound far; but of both joyned together much further. See Neh. 12.43.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ.1. NOw when the adverſaries of Judah and Benjamin] In this chapter the malicious endeavours of the enemies of the Church, to hinder the building of the Temple ſo joyfully begun, as is noted ch.3. 10, &c. are ſet down. Of the adverſaries here meant ſee v. 2. & ch.3.v.3.

heard that the children of the captivity] Heb. the ſons of the tranſportation. Such as had been carried captives into Babylon, and were tranſported back again from thence into their own countrey.

builded the Temple] The foundation of the Temple was laid with ſuch acclamation, ch.3.11,12,13. as the rumour thereof could not but be ſpread far and neer.

unto the Lord God of Iſrael] Of this title Lord God of Iſrael ſee 1 King. 8. 17. The Temple is ſaid to be built to him, becauſe it was built for his worſhip and ſervice, and to his honour; and thereupon it is oft ſaid to be built to his name, 1 King.5.3,5. & 8.17.

V.2. Then they came to Zerubbabel] This relative they hath reference to the adverſaries v.1. Theſe came to Zerubbabel, becauſe he then was the chief Prince and Governour of that people. See ch.1.8.

and to the chief of the fathers] Of theſe ſee ch.1.5. & 3.12. & 1 King.8.1. Theſe uſed to ſit in counſel with Zerubbabel; and therefore they came to them alſo.

and ſaid unto them, Let us build with you] This they deſired that being mingled with the Jews in that great work they might more opportunely find ſome advantages to hinder the work, by picking quarrels and raiſing contentions. Or it may be that they obſerving Cyrus his affection to the Jews, might by helping forward that great work to which Cyrus put the Jews, ch. 1.2,3. get into his favour.

for we ſeek your God] That God who was ſtiled the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael, 1 Chr.29.18. This may have reference to 2 King. 17. 28, 32. This, and that which followeth, ſheweth that the Samaritans are here eſpecially meant; who were gathered out of ſundry nations, and placed in the cities of Samaria inſtead of the children of Iſrael, 2 King.17.24.

as ye do] Herein they failed exceedingly, and told an untruth; for howſoever they are ſaid to fear the Lord who was the God of Iſrael, yet they did not ſeek him as the men of Judah did. For beſides their ſerving the Lord by and under the golden calves which Jeroboam made, they alſo ſerved every nation their own God, 2 King.17.28,29, &c.

and we do ſacrifice unto him] Idolaters had learned of the worſhippers of the true God after this manner to worſhip their god.

ſince the dayes of Eſar-Haddon king of Aſſur, which brought us up hither] Of Eſar-haddon ſee 2 King.19.37. Sennacherib was father of this man, Salmaneſer his grandfather. This Salmaneſer firſt carried Iſrael into captivity, and placed ſundry people of other nations in their land, 2 King. 17. 6,24. Sennacherib ten years after ſought to deſtroy Jeruſalem; but his army was there deſtroyed, and he himſelf anon after periſhed, 2 King. 18.9,13, 17,35,37. This Eſar-Haddon ſucceeding Sennacherib, might ſettle thoſe people of other nations whom his grand-father had firſt brought into the cities of Samaria, and place them in thoſe cities where they were to continue, and in that reſpect be ſaid to bring them up thither: Or otherwiſe he might bring ſome other people into Iſrael then thoſe whom his grand-father brought, and they eſpecially be here meant. Or the plantation mentioned 1 King.17.24. might be made by Eſar-haddon, and there ſet down by way of anticipation.

V.3. But Zerubbabel, and Jeſhua] Whether the forenamed adverſaries would take notice of Jeſhua or no, (for Jeſhua is not mentioned among them to whom he came) Jeſhua would take care with others that they ſhould not be admitted.

and the reſt of the chief of the fathers of Iſrael] Zerubbabel and Jeſhua were chief fathers; in relation to them others are called the reſt.

ſaid unto them, You have nothing to do with us] Heb. not to you and to us. The Hebraiſm implieth that thoſe two people, Samaritans and Jews, had nothing to do together. See a like phraſe 1 King.17.18. See on Joſh.22.25.

to build an houſe unto our God]Howſoever in ſecular matters they might deal together, yet in that great matter of piety, concerning the place of Gods worſhip, they being of different religions might not joyn together.

but we our ſelves together] Or alone, Job 34.29. & 38.7. This is meant of the Jews, who themſelves alone, without help from the Samaritans, would do that work. They ſaw juſt cauſe to ſuſpect ſome falſe dealing on the Samaritans part.

will build unto the Lord God of Iſrael] See v. 1.

as king Cyrus the King of Perſia hath commanded us] See ch.1. 2, 3. This they alledge to take away all prejudice from their anſwer.

V.4. Then the people of the land] Or, of that land. The adverſaries mentioned v.1. are hereby meant.

weakened the hands of the people of Judah] Kept them from going on in that work with ſuch courage and diligence as otherwiſe they would.

and troubled them in building] By threatning words, by keeping away from them ſuch materials as were requiſite, and by other means mentioned in the verſes following.

V. 5. And hired counſellors againſt them] They thought it not enough what themſelves could adviſe or practiſe, but they muſt alſo procure others to hinder them. Theſe Counſellors might either go to the Jews, to diſcourage them; or to Cyrus, to diſſwade him from permitting the Jews to go on. Or otherwiſe they might bribe ſuch Counſellors as attended King Cyrus.

to fruſtrate their purpoſe] This was the main end of their malicious practices by themſelves and others, to keep the Jews from accompliſhing that which they intended about the houſe of God.

all the dayes of Cyrus king of Perſia] Cyrus was exerciſed in war all the time of his reign, and ended his dayes therein. He being abroad in remote countreys left his ſon Cambyſes to govern the Kingdom; And by this means it was that the forenamed Counſellors ſo much prevailed in hindring that work which Cyrus himſelf had expreſly commanded to be done. For Cambyſes was a a light and lewd man, and eaſily induced to hinder any good work.

even untill] Or, and unto.

the reign of Darius king of Perſia] This Darius was the third King of Perſia from Cyrus. Cambyſes the ſon of Cyrus being dead, two brothers, namely Patizites and Smerdis, called Magi, uſurped the throne and reigned ſeven moneths; but their reign was not reckoned among the Kings of Perſia. Darius therefore who was made King in their ſtead was counted the third. He was not of the Royall ſtock, but choſen by the Princes of Perſia to be King. And to eſtabliſh the Kingdom to himſelf the more firmly, he married Atoſſa the daughter of Cyrus, and ſet himſelf to eſtabliſh all the decrees of Cyrus: and among others, that which Cyrus had made about the Jews building a Temple to the Lord. In his dayes therefore the forementioned wicked Counſellors could not prevail as they had done in Cambyſes time. This Darius is called Darius Hyſtaſpes. See v.7.

V.6. And in the reign of Ahaſuerus] Heb. Ahaſhueroſh. Heathen Hiſtoriographers call this man Xerxes. He was the ſon of the forenamed Darius by Atoſſa, and ſo by his mother the grandſon of Cyrus; called Ahaſhuerus, becauſe he was an hereditary Prince: for he was born after his father was actually King, and of a mother heir to the Kingdom by lineal deſcent. This name is compounded of three words, אחשוש great, ו and רום head.

in the beginning of his reign] Becauſe they could do nothing openly againſt the Jews all Darius his time, they take the firſt opportunity they can, and immediately after his death, in the very beginning of his ſons reign, renew thoſe malicious practices which they began in Cambyſes his dayes.

wrote they unto him an accuſation] This hath reference to the forementioned adverſaries of the Jews, and their evill Counſellors.

againſt the inhabitants of Judah and Jeruſalem] Hereby are meant all that returned out of captivity, whether in countrey or city. Their accuſation is ſet down v.12, &c.

V.7. And in the dayes of Artaxerxes] This name implieth an excellent warriour; and becauſe of his ſucceſs in war he had it given him. Both Darius and Artaxerxes were names given to many of the Kings of the Medes and Perſians, aud that after they came to be Kings; as Pharaoh to the Kings of Egypt. See 1 King.2.39. In this reſpect there may eaſily be many miſtakes, in that the ſame man may in one place, or by one author be called by one name, and in another place, or by another author, be called by another name. Thus Jehoiachin 2 King. 24. 8. is called Coniah, Jer. 22.28. Artaxerxes in this place is by many taken to be the ſon of the foreſaid Ahaſhuerus by Eſther; of whom ſee Eſth.2.16,17. And he is by the heathen called μακρόχειρ, Longimanus, Long-handed; either becauſe he had a long hand, and longer then any other, as ſome ſay, or becauſe he fought as a man that could reach far. His ſon was Darius Nothus: See ch. 6.10. Hiſtoriographers that write of the Kings of Perſia attribute unto Cambyſes, with the time that he reigned in his fathers life, X. years; to Darius with the time of the Magi, XXXVI. years; to Ahaſhuerus XXII. years; to Artaxerxes XL. years: Theſe make an hundred and eight years. If the Temple were built after the reign of all theſe, according to the foreſaid computation, there would be more then an hundred years betwixt the laying of the foundation and rearing up the walls thereof; which can hardly ſtand with many circumſtances noted in Scripture: As firſt, that Zerubbabel and Jeſhua ſhould be men of authority both before the laying of the foundation of the Temple and alſo after the finiſhing thereof. Surely if ſo, they muſt needs be exceeding old, even above an hundred and thirty years. Secondly, it is ſaid of many that had ſeen Solomons Temple, that they ſaw alſo this ſecond Temple when it was built, Hag.2.3. How old muſt then theſe needs be? We muſt ſuppoſe them to be ten years old at leaſt at the ſacking of Jeruſalem, that could remember the glory and beauty of a building ſo many years after. Now there were threeſcore years betwixt the deſtruction of the firſt Temple and laying the foundation of the ſecond; ſee ch. 3.12. To theſe muſt be added an hundred and eight years, to the beginning of Darius Nothus his reign, when the walls of the Temple were reared up, and all that time wherein it was in building. All theſe joyned together cannot be leſs then an hundred and fourſcore years: And of this age muſt they be whom the Prophet ſpeaketh to, Who is left among you that ſaw this houſe in her firſt glory? and how do you ſee it now? Hag.2.3. I will not deny but that God might give in thoſe dayes ſuch a bleſſing as to continue the lives of many of his ſervants above an hundred and fourſcore years. But yet to remove thoſe difficulties, ſome ſay that the forementioned Kings, Darius, Ahaſhuerus, and Artaxerxes, reigned not ſo long as is ſet down. Others, that he that is called Artaxerxes, was Cambyſes the ſon of Cyrus, and that from his valour in war this title Artaxerxes was given him. They that are of this opinion ſay that this that is here written to be done in Artaxerxes his time is an expreſs and diſtinct narration of the particular practice of the forementioned Counſellors, v. 5. and that Darius there mentioned is the ſame that gave liberty to the Jews to build their Temple, ch.6.1, &c. and that that which is ſaid to be done in the time of Ahaſhuerus, v. 6. was done after the Temple was built.

wrote Biſhlam] Or, in peace. They who take the word appellatively ſay it implieth that this letter was written when the Jews thought all things were in peace; q. d. In time of peace. Or that it is a phraſe of congratulation, q. d. In peace be the king.

Mithredath, Tabeel] Theſe are proper names of ſuch as had ſome government given them in Samaria or places thereabouts. See v.14.

and the reſt of their companions] Heb. ſocieties. Hereby are meant thoſe other that in thoſe places had government and truſt committed unto them by the King of Perſia.

unto Artaxerxes king of Perſia] See the firſt note on this verſe. This man is called King of Perſia as Cyrus is, 2 Chron. 36. 22.

and the writing of the letter was written in the Syrian tongue] For that was then the language uſed in moſt countries; as the Greek tongue in, before and after Chriſts time, and the Latine ſince.

and interpreted in the Syrian tongue] They both wrote their letter and delivered their meſſage by thoſe whom they ſent, in the Syrian tongue.

V. 8. Rehum the Chancellour] The word tranſlated Chancellour is of the Chaldee termination; and it is the firſt word in this verſe. Not onely this Letter but all the hiſtory following to ch. 6.19. is penned in the Chaldee dialect. Chancellour is a word of high dignity with us. Some take it here to ſet forth the Preſident of that councel which was for the Kings affairs in thoſe parts.

and Shimſhai the Scribe] Or Secretary. Of this office ſee 1 King. 4.3. He is eſpecially named, becauſe the mind and determination of a whole Councel uſeth to be penned and ſubſcribed by their Scribe.

wrote a letter againſt Jeruſalem, &c.] i.e. The inhabitants of Judah and Jeruſalem, as v.6.

V.9. Then wrote Rehum, &c.] See v.8.

and the reſt of their companions] Chald. Societies. See v.7.

the Dinaites, &c.] This and the eight other names following are Chaldee names of thoſe nations that the Kings of Aſſyria placed in the land of Iſrael, within the circuit of the ten tribes. They all joyn together in one counſel, and with the conſent of them all is the letter following written and ſent.

V.10. And the reſt of the nations] This ſheweth that the former names are names of nations: And becauſe there were more then thoſe nine, this clauſe is added.

whom the great and noble Aſnapper bronght over] We read not elſewhere of this name: therefore ſome apply it to Shalmaneſer, ſome to Sennacherib, ſome to Eſar-haddon, v.2. ſome to a great Commander under them. The two epithets great and noble imply that one of the great Monarchs of Aſſyria is here meant.

and ſet in the cities of Samaria] He brought them from other countreys, and there ſetled them. See v.2.

and the reſt that are on this ſide the river] Hereby it appeareth that not onely the Samaritans but alſo other nations on that ſide Euphrates, were adverſaries to the Jews. See v.3.

and at ſuch a time] Chald. Cheeneth. Some think the ſeveral letters of this word ſet forth ſeveral and diſtinct times, as the day, and moneth, and year.

V.11. This is the copy, &c.] This that followeth, v. 12, &c..

Thy ſervants] They uſe this title, both in general, as his ſubjects; and alſo in particular, as deputed by him to ſpecial offices.

on this ſide the river, and at ſuch a time] See v. 10.

V. 12. Be it known unto the king] Hereby they pretend to inform the King of a great matter that much concerned him.

that the Jews which came up from thee to us] That which was done by Cyrus the firſt Monarch of Perſia, they aſcribe to his Succeſſor.

are come to Jeruſalem, building the rebellious and the bad city] This their accuſation was not onely ſcandalous but falſe; ſcandalous, in thoſe epithets, rebellious and bad, which they give to Jeruſalem; falſe, in that they had not yet gone about to build the City: For we cannot think that they who were hindred from building the Temple, would offer to build the walls of the City: Had they gone about that the Prophet Haggai would have reproved them for preferring the walls of their City before the houſe of God, as he did for preferring their own houſe before Gods, Hag.1.4.

and have ſet up the walls thereof] Or, finiſhed them. This is directly contrary to that which is noted long after this, Neh.1.3.

and joyned the foundations] Chald. ſewed together. As the ſewing of pieces of cloth together maketh up a garment, ſo the coupling together the ſtones of a building maketh up the edifice.

V.13. Be it now known unto the king] See v.12.

that if this city be builded, and the walls ſet up again] Hereby they implied that it might prove a receptacle for rebels.

then will they not pay toll] Toll uſeth to be taken for cattel and cart-loads of commodities that paſs thorow the gates of a City.

tribute] This is a tax laid upon particular ſubjects to be paid to their King or Lord in teſtimony of fealty.

and cuſtom] This is a tax for ſuch commodities as are brought into, or ſent out of a Kingdom.

and ſo thou ſhalt endamage the revenue] Or ſtrength. A King is made ſtrong by the great income and revenue which he receiveth time after time: and therefore by withholding theſe his eſtate muſt needs be much damnified.

of the kings] The word is of the plural number either for Majeſty ſake, to imply that he was as many Kings; or in relation to him and his ſucceſſors.

V.14. Now becauſe we have maintenance from the kings palace] Chald. we are ſalted with the ſalt of the palace. Salt being of uſe for all things almoſt that we eat, to give a good taſte thereunto, it is here put for all manner of ſuſtenance. In ſuch a ſenſe the word bread is oft uſed, as Deut. 8.3. Matth. 6.11. We uſe to call an allowance given for a mans livelyhood a ſalarie, which word is taken from Salt. This is one reaſon which they alledge for giving notice to the King of that which they pretend to be a damage unto him, namely the Kings kindneſs to them in maintaining of them.

and it was not meet for us to ſee the kings diſhonour] This is another reaſon, their reſpect to the King and his honour. The Chaldee word commonly ſignifieth the nakedneſs of the privy parts, which cauſeth contempt.

therefore have we ſent, and certified the king] Namely of that which is ſet down v. 12, 13.

V.15. That ſearch may be made] This they ſet down as the end of their information, hoping that the King ſhould find evidence of the truth whereof they did inform him.

in the book of the records of thy fathers, &c.] Chald. in the book of the remembrances. Kings uſe to have their Records which are called Chronicles; wherein are regiſtred not onely the memorable acts of their own countrey, but often alſo of other Nations, eſpecially if they concern their own Kingdom any thing at all. By fathers are here meant Predeceſſors, and thoſe not onely Kings of Perſia, but alſo of Aſſyria and Babylon.

and know that this city is a rebellious city] Such nations as are brought under the ſubjection of a forrein King, and have promiſed or ſworn to pay him tribute, if they refuſe to pay the ſame, and to acknowledg fealty, are ſaid to rebel, as 2 King.1.1. &.18.7. & 24.1, 20. In this ſenſe they account Jeruſalem a rebellious city.

and hurtful unto kings] Thoſe nations are counted hurtful to Kings and States, which deny accuſtomed tribute, or war againſt them, or any way keep them under. Thus might the Kingdom of Judah be accounted hurtful to kings.

and provinces] See ch.2.1.

and that they have moved ſedition] Chald. made ſedition. They who are an occaſion of ſedition are ſaid to make it. Sedition is a mutinous riſing up of many together againſt that government under which they are. See Luk.23.19. Act.24.5.

within the ſame] Chald. in the midſt thereof. i. e. Of Jeruſalem.

of old time] This hath reference to the ſtate of the Jews before the Captivity; particularly, to that which is noted of Jehoiakim, 2 King.24.1. and of Zedekiah, 2 King.24.20.

for which cauſe was this city deſtroyed] 2 Chr.36.13, 19.

V.16. We certifie the king] They ſpeak too confidently of that which they had no juſt cauſe to ſuſpect.

by this means thou ſhalt have no portion on this ſide the river] See v.10. On that ſide Euphrates were many nations at that time under the juriſdiction of the Perſians, as Jews, Samaritans, Ammonites, Moabites, Edomites, Amalekites, and others. Therefore they put this jealouſie into the head of the King of Perſia, that the Jews would not onely themſelves withdraw ſubjection from him, but alſo bring the nations round about them under their own ſubjection; ſo as the King ſhould receive no tribute, nor any other commodity from them.

V.17. Then ſent the king an anſwer] Princes are oft too ready to open their ears unto calumnies againſt their ſubjects.

unto Rehum, &c. and unto the reſt beyond the river] When they that dwelt near the land of Judah wrote to the King, they ſtiled themſelves the reſt that are on this ſide the river, v. 10. but when the King writ to them, he ſtiled them the reſt beyond the river. This ſheweth that Euphrates ran betwixt Judea and the people thereabouts on the one ſide, and Perſia and Babylon on the other.

V.22. Take heed now that ye fail not to do this] This he addeth to make them the more forward in executing his decree. But they of themſelves were forward enough.

Why ſhould damage grow to the hurt of the kings?] Kings are very jealous of what may prove prejudicial to them. See v.13.

V. 23. Now when the copy, &c.] It may be the Kings letter was laid up amongſt his Records, and onely a copy thereof ſent.

they went up in haſte, &c.] Not onely the Kings command, but alſo their own malicious diſpoſition againſt the Jews made them forward.

Malice puts on men to do their uttermoſt in hindring good things.

V.24. Then ceaſed the work of the houſe of God] By this it appeareth that the aim of theſe adverſaries of the Jews was eſpecially againſt the houſe of God, though they made pretenſe to the King of building a city, and rearing up the walls thereof. Though the King in his letter made no mention at all of Gods houſe, yet they extended that which he wrote about the City to the Temple.

CHAP. V.

Ver.1. THen the Prophets] This chapter ſetteth out the means whereby the Jews were encouraged to return to the building of the Temple. One ſpecial means was the Prophets ſtirring them up thereunto. For God was ever ready in his peoples ſtraits to ſend his Prophets unto them.

Haggai the Prophet, and Zechariah] Theſe are put among thoſe that we call the ſmall Prophets, and are the two laſt ſave one.

the ſon of Iddo] i. e. grandſon. For Barachiah was the father of Zechariah; and Iddo of Barachiah. Thus Zerubbabel is called the ſon of Shealtiel, ch.3.2.

propheſied unto the Jews] The ſumme of their prophecies are ſet down in thoſe two books which are ſtiled by their names, Haggai and Zechariah. Both propheſied after the captivity, and began in the ſecond year of Darius; Haggai in the ſixth moneth, and Zechariah in the eighth, Hag.1.1. Zech.1.1.

that were in Judah and Jeruſalem] In Countrey and City.

in the name of the God of Iſrael] This ſheweth the warrant that they had, the authority with which they came, and the power and efficacy of their prophecy. And this they did to make their prophecy take the better.

even unto them] This is an Hebraiſm, ſhewing that to them in ſpecial theſe Prophets were ſent, that ſo they ſhould give the more heed to their words.

V.2. Then roſe up] This phraſe importeth forwardneſs, ſpeed and diligence in doing of a thing. See 1 King.16.2,4.

Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak] See ch.3.2.

and began to build the houſe of God, &c.] They firſt began it when they laid the foundation thereof, ch.3.10. but now they go on with the ſtructure, and in that reſpect are ſaid to build it. It was intermitted divers years; & their return to it is counted a beginning. And what they took care that others ſhould do, they are here ſaid to do.

and with them were the Prophets of God helping them] Theſe Prophets by encouraging the diligent, by threatning the negligent, by reproving thoſe that preferred their own houſes before Gods, and by directing ſuch as were about the work how to go on therein, did much forward the work, Hag.1.4, 8,13. Zach. 4.7. &c.

V.3. At the ſame time came to them] Whenſoever Gods people go about Gods work, the Devils inſtruments will be ready to hinder them.

Tatnai Governour on this ſide the river, and Shetharboznai] Theſe two the King had appointed to ſee the people in the ten tribes, and other places thereabouts, keep peace and live in good order. They were ſuch in relation to the King of Perſia as Pilate was to Cæſar, Matth.27.2. Luk.3.1.

and their companions] Such as joyned with them to hinder the work of God in the Jews hands.

and ſaid thus unto them, who hath commanded you to build this houſe] Theſe adverſaries, knowing that the former King had forbidden them to go on with their work, ſuppoſed the Jews could have ſhewed no warrant for what they did, and thereupon thought to have gotten the greater advantage againſt them.

and to make up this wall] Queſtionleſs this is meant of the wall of the Temple, which they began to rear upon the foundation they had laid, ch.3.10.

V.4. Then ſaid we unto them after this manner] This hath reference to the adverſaries, and is ſet down as the matter of their letter, and as if they were relating to the King what they had done.

What are the names of the men that make this building?] Chald. that build this building. They that are minded to do miſchief unto others, eſpecially by complaining of them and accuſing them, will do what they can to know their name. See v.10.

V.5. But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews] Theſe are the words of him that penned the hiſtory. By the eye of God is meant his providence, favour and grace; and by the Elders of the Jews, ſuch as are mentioned v.2. and others that had a care to forward that great work.

that they could not cauſe them to ceaſe] Neither the adverſaries threatnings, nor any thing elſe they could do, could diſcourage the Jews from going on in their work.

till the matter came to Darius] This word till doth not infer that they then ceaſed. See 2 Sam. 6.23. & Matth.1.25. But becauſe Darius was ſo far from hindring it, as he did much further it, the limitation is ſeen at his time.

and then they returned anſwer by letter concerning this matter] This hath reference to ch.6.1,6, &c. where the anſwer here intended is expreſly ſet down: So as by this relative they may be meant the King and his Councel. Or it may be thus imperſonally rendred, then anſwer was returned. Or this may be meant of the Jews, who having heard of the anſwer, which was the decree that Darius made and ſent by letter, related the ſame as an apology for themſelves.

V.6. The copy of the letter, &c.] See ch.4.11. Here is ſhewed the occaſion of the Kings anſwer mentioned v.5.

to the houſe of the great God] This ſtile they give to God in regard of that opinion and eſteem which the Jews had of him.

and timber is laid in the walls] This ſheweth that they had made good progreſs in the work, and that the walls were raiſed to a good height.

and this work goeth faſt on, and proſpereth in their hands] This they add, not to commend the Jews, but to move the King to ſend more ſpeedily ſome order to ſtay them.

V. 9. Then asked we thoſe Elders, and ſaid unto them thus, &c.] See v. 3.

V.10. We asked their names alſo to certifie thee] See v.4.

that we might write the names of the men that were the chief of them] Who were the firſt authors and contrivers of this work, and who moſt ſet it on.

V.11. And thus they returned us anſwer, ſaying] This anſwer is not before mentioned, but we may well think by the manner of ſetting it down, that it was the very anſwer that the Jews had given them, at leaſt for the ſubſtance thereof.

We are the ſervants of the God of heaven and earth] Hereby the Jews intimate that what they did, they did in obedience unto the great God, and to his honour. See 2 Chr.36.23. The Lord is ſtiled God of heaven and earth, becauſe all creatures are compriſed within them two; ſo as this phraſe implieth, that he made, preſerveth and governeth all things.

and build the houſe that was builded] They ſtile the houſe they were now in building the houſe that was builded, becauſe it was in the ſame place, to the ſame uſe, and in the ſtead thereof.

V.15. And ſaid unto him, Take theſe veſſels, go, carry them] The King, putting his truſt in this Governour, would have him go himſelf to diſcharge the truſt committed unto him.

into the Temple that is in Jeruſalem] His meaning is that they ſhould be kept ſafe till that Temple were built, and then be ſet therein for the uſe thereof.

and let the houſe of God be builded in his place] See chap. 2.68.

V.16. Then came the ſame Sheſhbazzar, and laid the foundation of the houſe of God, &c.] This act is attributed to Zerubbabel Zach. 4. 9. whereby it appears that Shiſhbazzar and Zerubbabel were names of one and the ſame perſon. See ch.1.8.

and ſince that time] Which was the ſecond year after their coming out of captivity, ch.3.8.

even untill now] Which was the ſecond year of Darius, Hag. 1.1.

hath it been in building] They were not all this while upon the work; for they were made to ceaſe in the dayes of Artaxerxes, ch. 4. 23. but it was begun in the ſecond year after their return, and in that reſpect is ſaid to be all that time in building.

and yet it is not finiſhed] For after this it is ſaid that they builded and finiſhed it, ch. 6. 14. That which hitherto hath been ſet down in the letter of theſe adverſaries is fair, all true, and much making to the good of the Jews, and to the forwarding the houſe of the Lord. Theſe who wrote to Darius deal much more fairly with the Jews then they who wrote to Artaxerxes, ch.4.12,13, &c. but we cannot think that they were better-minded towards them. Certainlyt hey ſuppoſed that no ſuch matter would be found in the Kings Chronicles, as the Jews ſuggeſted unto them; therefore they punctually ſet down their very words, hoping to get the greater advantage againſt them thereby: but God over-ruled their plot and practice to the good of his Church.

V.17. Now therefore, if it ſeem good to the king] This is a flattering inſinuation.

let there be ſearch made in the kings treaſure-houſe] Where treaſures of Kings lay, there publick records alſo were laid.

which is there at Babylon] Cyrus having taken Babylon, and made it ſure to himſelf, had his treaſure-houſes there, and turned the treaſures of the former Kings of Babylon to his own uſe.

whether it be ſo that a decree was made of Cyrus the king, &c.] This ſhews that they hoped no ſuch decree would be found. See 2 Chr. 36.23.

and let the king ſend his pleaſure to us concerning this matter] Hereby they would ſhew that all they aimed at was to know the Kings mind in that about which they wrote, rather then to do any prejudice to the Jews.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ.1. THen Darius the king] See ch.4.3. In this chapter is declared how the means which the adverſaries of the Jews uſed to hinder the building of the Temple, ch.5.3, &c. proved effectual to the finiſhing thereof, v.14.

made a decree] See ch.4.19. This decree hath reference rather to the building of the Temple, v. 8. then the ſearching of the Rolls.

and ſearch was made in the houſe of the rolls] Chald. books. Records of old were written in paper and parchment, and in that reſpect called books: but they were alſo rolled together when they were laid up, and therefore called Rolls.

where the treaſures were laid up] Chald. made to deſcend. or cauſed there to lie. See ch.5.17.

in Babylon] Babylon is here to be taken for the whole province or nation of Babylon; under which ſome compriſe alſo Media or the nation of the Medes. In this extent it may be tranſlated concerning Babylon, or concerning the affairs of Babylon.

V.2. And there was found at Achmetha] Or Ecbatana. Or in a coffer. Ecbatana was a city in Media where the Kings uſed to remain and keep their Court in the ſummer-time. See Neh.1.1. That Kings uſed to have their ſummer and winter-houſes is evident Amos 3.15. Jer.36.22. Achmetha in Chaldee ſignifieth a cool place, or a place whereunto men reſort for cool refreſhing in hot weather. They that take the word appellatively apply it to ſuch coffers or preſſes as uſe to be made to keep Records and Rolls in.

thus written] Chald. And it was ſo written in the midſt of it, his memorial. In regard of this placing of the words, ſome take this word, a Record, or Memorial, to be the title of the Roll.

V. 3. In the firſt year of Cyrus the king] In this and the two next verſes that which was regiſtred in the Roll is ſet down word for word. How this was the firſt year of Cyrus ſee 2 Chron. 36.22.

the ſame Cyrus the king made a decree, &c.] See ch.5.13.

Let the houſe be builded] Theſe and the words following are the matter of Cyrus decree.

the place where they offered ſacrifices] This may be taken as a deſcription of the houſe, namely, to be the place where they offered ſacrifice: Or a limitation of the houſe to that place onely where before they were wont to offer ſacrifice; and this was the place where the old Temple ſtood.

and let the foundations thereof be ſtrongly laid] This decree was made before the foundation of the Temple was laid. The decree was in the firſt year, but the foundation was laid in the ſecond, ch. 3.8,10. Cyrus his care was that the foundation ſhould be fit for a great and weighty edifice.

the height thereof threeſcore cubits] It is ſaid of Solomons Temple 1 King.6.2. that the height thereof was thirty cubits, whereupon ſome imagine that Cyrus gave leave that this Temple ſhould be larger then the former. But the heathen did not account their cubit ſo long as ſome cubits were, and ſo the threeſcore cubits intended by Cyrus might be no more then the thirty cubits mentioned 1 King.6. Beſides, the height of Solomons Temple was taken from the floor within to the innermoſt part of the roof; but here is meant the height of all, from the bottom of the foundation to the top of the higheſt pinacles. Some conceive this was the height of the porch, which was to be in the front of the Temple. But the porch before Solomons Temple was an hundred and twenty cubits high, 2 Chron.3.4. twice as high as this.

and the breadth thereof threeſcore cubits] The breadth of Solomons Temple was but twenty cubits. But the cubits whereby this latter Temple was meaſured were much ſhorter then thoſe of Solomons: And Solomons Temple was meaſured from in-ſide to in-ſide, but this from out-ſide to out-ſide. Beſides, there were two walls about the firſt Temple, and betwixt thoſe walls chambers on either ſide, which together with the thickneſs of the walls might take up about twenty ſacred cubits. See 1 King.5.6. Theſe differences duly conſidered, this ſecond Temple might well be counted no bigger, if not leſs, then the firſt; according to that which is implied chap. 3.12. & Hag.2.3.

V.4. With three rows of great ſtones, and a row of new timber] This is meant of the partitions of the courts belonging to the Temple; whereof ſee 1 King.6.36.

and let the expenſes be given out of the kings houſe] i. e. Out of the treaſure which appertained to the King in thoſe parts, ch.7.20.

V.6. Now therefore Tatnai, &c.] See ch 5.3,6.

be ye far from thence] Let them build the Temple alone, v.7. ch.4.3. and take ye heed that ye hinder them not. Otherwiſe it was not unlawful to come to them, to afford them things needful.

V.7. Let the work of this houſe of God alone] Do not you meddle with it.

let the governour of the Jews] Called Sheſhbazzar, chap. 5.14.

and the elders of the Jews] Thoſe named ch.2.2, &c.

build this houſe of God in his place] See ch.5.15.

V. 8. Moreover, I make a decree] Chald. by me a decree is made. In the former verſe Darius ratified the decree of Cyrus; in this and the verſes following he addeth a decree of his own, whereby he enlargeth that of Cyrus with more grants.

what ye ſhall do to the elders of theſe Jews for the building of this houſe of God] Though they were not to joyn with the Jews in building the Temple, yet they were to help forward the work, by providing and procuring ſuch things as were requiſite for it.

that of the kings goods, &c.] The treaſures that belonged to the King, and were reſerved for his uſe, in the provinces on that ſide Euphrates are here meant.

forthwith expenſes be given to theſe men, that they be not hindred] Chald. made to ceaſe. For want of money and ſuch other things as were requiſite for the building.

V.9. And that which they have need of] Here follows a further grant, not onely for the building it ſelf, but alſo for ſacrifices and other things to be uſed in the Temple.

both young bullocks, and rams, and lambs] All theſe were beaſts fit for ſacrifice; and under theſe all other kinds of ſacrifices are compriſed.

of the God of heaven] This deſcription ſheweth the high eſteem he had of God, and the reverent reſpect he bare to him. It implyeth that God is above all, a moſt high Soveraign, whoſe throne is in heaven; where alſo his glory is moſt manifeſted. Hereby alſo he acknowledgeth that ſacrifices were to be offered up to the true God alone.

wheat] Of that ſuch flour was made as might ſerve for the ſhew-bread, and ſundry meat-offerings, whereof ſee Levit. 2. 1, 2, &c.

ſalt] This alſo was needful for oblations, Lev.2.13.

wine and oyl] Of theſe ſee 1 Chr.9.29. & 12.40.

according to the appointment of the Prieſts which are at Jeruſalem] The King not knowing himſelf how much of thoſe things might be ſufficient for the Lords ſervice, would not ſet a ſtint, but left it to the diſcretion of the Prieſts to require as much as they ſhould ſee fit.

let it be given them day by day without fail] This amplifieth the piety of the King, and that he contented not himſelf with affording proviſions for ſolemn ſacrifices at once, but took order that time after time, yea year after year, and that every day, proviſion ſhould be made for the Prieſts ſervice.

V.10. That they may offer ſacrifices of ſweet ſavours] Chald. of reſt. It is ſaid of the ſacrifices which Noah offered up when he came out of the Ark, that the Lord ſmelled a ſweet ſavour, or a ſavour of reſt, Gen.8.21. This phraſe implyeth that God is ſo well pleaſed with ſuch ſacrifices, as he reſteth ſatisfied therein; and is ſo pacified as he will forbear to inflict judgements.

to the God of heaven] See v.9.

and pray for the life of the king] Darius the King meaneth himſelf hereby, and acknowledgeth that his life depended on God, to preſerve it or to take it away.

and of his ſons] Darius (ſirnamed Nothus becauſe he was baſely born) who was the firſt King from Cyrus, and reigned about an hundred years after him, had divers ſons that dyed one after another, but yet one remained as heir to ſucceed him. This was Artaxerxes Mnemon, who was another then that Artaxerxes which is mentioned ch.4.7. That this ſon of his might through Gods mercy be preſerved unto him, he takes order that ſacrifices ſhould be offered up for him. But whereas it is ſaid in the plural number, his ſons, it is replyed, that he might mean not onely the ſon then living, but ſuch as he might have afterwards. This argument is brought to prove that Darius Nothus is here meant. This circumſtance of the death of former children is not ſufficient to prove ſuch a point; for a man may be deſirous to have ſacrifice offered up for the preſervation of his children, though he had loſt none of them, but they were all living with him; which was a ſufficient ground for him to uſe means of obtaining Gods bleſſing on them.

V.11. Alſo I have made a decree that whoſoever ſhall alter this word] This King thought it not enough to enlarge the decree of Cyrus with more grants, but alſo confirmeth that and his own decree with a great penalty, that it might be the more carefully obſerved.

let timber be pulled down from his houſe] This aggravateth the judgement, that the offenders houſe ſhould not onely be deſtroyed, but the timber thereof be made an inſtrument of his execution.

and being ſet up] Not re-edified again as before, but ſet up as a gibbet, or pair of gallows.

let him be hanged thereon] Chald. let him be deſtroyed. For he was to be hang'd thereon till he was dead. So Haman was deſtroyed and his ten ſons, Eſth. 7. 10. & 9.14.

and let his houſe be made a dunghil for this] The Chaldee word ſignifieth alſo a jakes. So doth the word uſed Dan.2.5. & 3.29. This added much terrour, for it laid upon him and his poſterity an everlaſting infamy and diſgrace.

V.12. And the God that hath cauſed his name to dwell there] By name is here meant the glory of God, and manifeſtation of his preſence; which is ſaid to dwell in that houſe, becauſe he did there moſt manifeſt himſelf, and that from time to time continually, Pſal. 68.16. & 132.13,14. See 1 King.12.13.

deſtroy all kings and people] Hereby he acknowledgeth that God hath a ſupreme power over all ſorts of men, great and mean, even to deſtroy them as it pleaſeth him.

that ſhall put to their hand] Or, endeavour. For mens hands are thoſe ordinary inſtruments whereby they do this or that.

to alter] i.e. to turn to another uſe.

and to deſtroy] By pulling it down, or otherwiſe employing it then for Gods ſervice. For to turn Gods houſe to another uſe is to deſtroy it.

this houſe of God which is at Jeruſalem] Though it were not yet finiſhed, yet it is ſaid to be at Jeruſalem, becauſe there formerly had been a Temple, in the ſtead whereof this was now to be built, and becauſe the foundation thereof was now laid, ch.3.10. See ch. 2.68.

I Darius have made a decree] His authority was then great; for he was then the ſole Monarch over thoſe parts of the world. Wherefore, that this decree might be more ſtrictly obſerved he thus preſſeth his authority.

let it be done with ſpeed] The King well knew what great prejudice delay had formerly brought to that work; and therefore he doth now the more preſſe ſpeed and expedition thereabout.

V.13. Then Tatnai, &c.] See ch.5.3.

according to that which Darius the king had ſent, ſo they did ſpeedily] Though they did bear no good will to Gods houſe, yet the fear wherein they ſtood of the Kings diſpleaſure, made them as careful to expedite the work as if they had themſelves ſet their heart upon it. That which they did had eſpecial reference to the proviſion which the King enjoyned them to make, v.8,9.

V.14. And the Elders of the Jews builded] See v.7. Under theſe Elders the governour alſo is compriſed. Now that they had not onely leave, but alſo were backed and countenanced with the Kings authority, they cheerfully went on with their work.

and they proſpered] i.e. well and ſpeedily diſpatched what they began. See 1 Chr. 14.7.

through the propheſying] By that propheſying they were checked for their former neglect; they were enjoyned to be more diligent; and bleſſing was promiſed to their diligence, Hag.1.4,8,13. & 2.5,&c.

of Haggi the Prophet, and Zechariah the ſon of Iddo] See ch. 5. 1.

and they builded and finiſhed it] They went on cheerfully in their work, with all ſpeed and diligence, till they had perfected the ſame.

according to the commandement of the God of Iſrael] This was manifeſted by ancient Propheſies, Iſa.44.28. By the Proclamation of Cyrus, 2 Chr.36.22,23. and by the Propheſies of their preſent Prophets, Hag.1.8.

and according to the commandement] Chald. decree. See ch.4.19.

of Cyrus, and Darius, and Artaxerxes kings of Perſia] There were other Kings beſides theſe, but they rather hindred the work then forwarded the ſame. See ch.4.5,6,7. The decrees of Cyrus and Darius are expreſly mentioned v.3,8. As for Artaxerxes, there were two of that name; one, mentioned ch.4.7. The other, ch.7.1. The former was called Longimanus; the latter, Mnemon: the former made a decree to cauſe the building of the Temple to ceaſe, ch.4. 19,21. If he therefore be here meant, this commandement muſt be meant of ſome charge that he gave in the latter end of his reign, which was not put in execution till Darius his time. The other Artaxerxes began to reign long after the Temple was finiſhed. If therefore he be here meant, the phraſe muſt indefinitely be taken of ſuch Kings of Perſia as at any time contributed any thing to the houſe of God, either before or after it was built. So as his name is here uſed by anticipation.

V.15. And this houſe was finiſhed on the third day of the moneth Adar] Adar, among other things, ſignifieth a cloak, which is an upper garment that covereth a mans body. It is a name of the twelfth and laſt moneth of the year, Eſth.3.7,13. It anſwereth to part of our February, beginning about the eleventh day of that moneth. In this moneth the earth many times in ſundry places is covered with water or ſnow; and in this reſpect may well carry the name of a cover or a cloak. Of the moneths ſee 1 King. 6.1. God gave a great bleſſing upon the finiſhing of this Temple, Hag. 2.18,19,20.

which was in the ſixth year of the reign of Darius the king] It is apparent that the Jews returned to the building of the Temple, after their long intermitting thereof, in the ſecond year of Darius, and ſixth or ſeventh moneth, Hag.1.1. & 2.1. So as they were little more then four years in finiſhing that which they had begun in Cyrus his time. They who account this man to be Darius Hiſtaſpes, who ſucceeded Cambyſes the ſon of Cyrus, do reckon but fifteen years from the laying of the foundation to the finiſhing thereof. Hereof ten years were paſſed in Cyrus and Cambyſes his time, together with the Magi; and ſix in Darius his time. They who hold that this Darius was Darius Nothus, the fifth from Cyrus, do make above an hundred years from the laying of the foundation to the finiſhing thereof. See ch.4.7.

V. 16. And the children of Iſrael] Under this general the particular perſons following are compriſed.

the Prieſts and the Levites] Theſe were diſtinguiſhed one from another by ſeveral functions, whereof read 1 Chr.23. & 24. & 25. & 26.

and the reſt of the children of the captivity] Chald. the ſons of tranſportation. See ch.1.11. & 4.1.

kept the dedication of this houſe of God] Of dedicating the houſe of God ſee 1 King.8.63. So ſoon as ever the pious Jews had finiſhed their work, their care is to fit it to Gods ſervice in the beſt manner that they could; and that was by conſecrating it unto God after thoſe rites that were then warranted, that ſo they might expect the greater bleſſing from time to time.

with joy] This cheerfulneſſe of their ſpirits in that holy work much amplified their piety; the like is noted about bringing the Ark into a place prepared for it, 1 Chr. 15.28. and about their contribution to Gods houſe, 1 Chr.29.9. and at the dedication of the firſt Temple, 2 Chr.7.10. and at laying the foundation of this Temple, ch.3.11,12.

V.17. And offered at the dedication of this houſe of God] This was one ſacred rite about their dedication. So did Solomon, 1 Kings 8.63.

an hundred bullocks, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs] All theſe were for burnt-offerings. Of theſe ſeveral kinds ſee 1 Chr.29. 21. Here were a multitude of offerings, but not comparable to thoſe that were offered by former Kings. See 1 King.8.63. But if we conſider their preſent condition, we may apply to theſe offerings what was noted of their gifts, ch.2.69.

and for a ſin-offering for all Iſrael] They did ordinarily offer with other ſacrifices ſin-offerings, whereof ſee 1 King.3.15. to make an atonement for their ſins. For ſuch is the corruption of men, as at all times, in all things they ſin, and ſtand in need of reconciliation betwixt God and them.

twelve he-goats] Goats were the moſt proper creature to be offered up for a ſin-offering. On the ſolemn day of atonement a goat was offered up for a ſin-offering, Lev.16.9. So alſo at other times. Yet other clean beaſts were alſo made ſin-offerings; as a young bullock, Lev.4.3. a lamb, Lev.5.6. a turtle-dove or a pigeon, Lev.5.7. yea, and a little fine flour with oyl, Lev.5.11.

according to the number of the tribes of Iſrael] This is the reaſon why they offered twelve goats, that there might be an atonement made for every of the tribes. Though ten tribes had revolted from the tribe of Judah and Benjamin, yet theſe two tribes are as careful for the ſpiritual good of the other as for their own good. Beſides, there might be ſome of all the twelve tribes among them. Theſe that were here at the houſe of God, the place of ſeeking atonement, are mindful of their diſperſed brethren whereſoever they were, in any part or corner of the world. So ſhould we be of all Chriſtians. See 1 King 18.31.

V.18. And they ſet the Prieſts in their diviſions] Such as in particular were ordered by David, 1 Chr.24.1,&c. and the Levites in their courſes] Of theſe there were three kinds; One to attend the Prieſts, 1 Chr.23.4,&c. another to ſing and play on inſtruments, 1 Chr.25.1,&c. a third to be porters, 1 Chr. 26.1,&c. And all theſe in their ſeverall kinds had their diſtinct courſes.

for the ſervice of God] This was the main end of theſe ſeverall diviſions, namely, that the ſervice of the Lord might the better be performed.

which is at Jeruſalem] The Chaldee particle tranſlated which may have reference to perſon, place, or work. So that it may imply either the Temple which was at Jeruſalem, 2 Chr. 36.23. or the ſervice to be done at Jeruſalem; or the God who manifeſted his preſence at Jeruſalem. In which reſpect Jeruſalem is called the city of God, Pſal.46.4. & 48.1,8. & 87.3.

as it is written in the book of Moſes] Chald. according to the writing in the book of Moſes. This hath in ſpeciall relation to Numb.36,&c. & 8.9,&c. See ch.3.2. Here ends the Chaldee dialect.

V.19. And the children of the captivity] See v.6. From this verſe to the eleventh of the ſeventh chapter the hiſtory is penned in Hebrew.

kept the Paſſeover] This was one of their moſt ſolemn feaſts and ſacred ordinances. Hereof ſee 2 Kings 23.21. 1 Chron,30. 1,&c.

upon the fourteenth day of the firſt moneth] This was according to the law, Exod.12.6. This compared with v.15. ſheweth that there was but a little more then a moneth betwixt the finiſhing of the Temple and the Paſſeover. It is probable that they tarried all this while at Jeruſalem, and ſpent moſt of the time in offering ſacrifices, and yielding ſolemn praiſes unto God, eſpecially they that dwelt far from the Temple.

V.20. For the Prieſts and Levites were purified together] Herein they ſhewed a more unanimous conſent about the ſervice of the Lord then they did in Hezekiahs time, 2 Chr.29.34.

all of them were pure] Namely, in regard of that legal ſanctification wherewith they were to be ſanctified. See 2 Cron. 29. 5,34.

and killed the Paſſeover] Of this phraſe ſee 2 Chr.30.15.

for all the children of the captivity] See ch.1.11. & 4.1. Under this phraſe all of all ſorts, great and mean, are compriſed.

and for their brethren the Prieſts] Levites and Prieſts were brethren in relation to Levi the third ſon of Jacob, and common father to them all.

and for themſelves] Of the reaſon why thus they prepared for the Prieſts and themſelves, ſee 2 Chr.35.14.

V.21. And the children of Iſrael which were come again out of the captivity] Theſe were they that are reckoned up ch.2.1. and theſe deſcended from Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob; and were eſpecially of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin.

and all ſuch as had ſeparated themſelves unto them] This is a deſcription of ſuch heathen as had lived among them, and by their inſtruction were brought to know that the God of Iſrael was the onely true God; and thereupon renounced their heatheniſh idolatry, and joyned themſelves with the people of the Lord, to worſhip him alone; and as an evidence of their true converſion were circumciſed.

from the filthineſſe of the heathen of the land] Idolatry & all impiety and iniquity is a filthineſſe. See 2 Chr. 29.5. By the heathen of the land are meant ſuch Gentiles as were in thoſe ſeveral places where the Iſraelites were captives.

to ſeek the Lord God of Iſrael] This is ſet down as the end why they ſeparated themſelves from the foreſaid filthineſs; for otherwiſe they would not have been admitted into the ſociety of Gods people to worſhip him. Of this phraſe ſeek the Lord ſee 1 Chr.16. 10,11. This phraſe God of Iſrael is added to ſhew that they acknowledged him the true God. Such as theſe are called Proſelytes, Mat.23.15. Act.2.10. & 6.5. & 13.43.

did eat] Both the true Iſraelites, and alſo theſe Proſelytes did all partake of this Paſſeover. This was according to the law, Exod. 12.48.

V.22. And kept the feaſt of unleavened bread] Of this phraſe ſee 2 Chr.8.13. & 30.13.

ſeven dayes] This circumſtance was expreſly enjoyned, Exod. 12.15.

with joy] See v.16.

for the Lord had made them joyful] Or, becauſe the Lord. The Lord had given them matter of great joy, and alſo had quickened their ſpirits to rejoyce therein. As all ſanctifying graces, ſo true joy cometh from above, and is a fruit of the ſpirit of God, Gal. 5.22.

and turned the heart of the king of Aſſyria unto them] Kings hearts are in Gods hand to turn them to whom he will, Prov.21.1. Darius before mentioned is here ſtiled King of Aſſyria, as before he was ſtiled King of Perſia, ch.4.5,24. Perſia was the hereditary kingdom, Aſſyria his kingdom by conqueſt. Aſſyria had formerly been a Monarchy; for honours ſake is this title here given him. This work of God in turning his heart unto the Jews is here mentioned, in oppoſition to former Kings of Aſſyria, who had wonderfully oppreſſed the Jews, both in deſtroying the ten tribes, and alſo in ſeeking to do the like to Judah, 2 King.18.17,&c. Aſſyria was alſo the beginning of the Babyloniſh Monarchy; and Kings of Babylon were counted and called Kings of Aſſyria, 2 King.23.29. 2 Chr.33.11. This which is noted of turning Darius his heart to the Jews, is alſo ſpoken in oppoſition to Cambyſes, whoſe heart was turned againſt them.

to ſtrengthen their hands in the work of the houſe of God] That is, to make them the better able to go on in finiſhing the ſame. The particulars of the decree ſet down v.8. do ſhew how much he helped them. Of ſtrengthening hands ſee 1 Chr.11.10. See alſo ch.1.6.

the God of Iſrael] This is here ſet down in oppoſition to the falſe gods of other countries.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ.1. NOw after theſe things] In the four laſt chapters of this book another return of other Jews from captivity is ſet down. See the argument of this book.

in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Perſia] Of this name Artaxerxes ſee ch.4.7. It is not probable that that Artaxerxes is here meant; for he was an enemy to the Jews, and hindred their building of the Temple. This Artaxerxes was after that Darius who promoted the building of the temple.

Ezra the the ſon of Serajah] This Serajah by lineal deſcent came from Aaron by Eleazar, v.5. and was high Prieſt at that time when Jeruſalem was taken; and when beſide other houſes the houſe of God was burnt therein, which was in the laſt year of Zedekiah King of Judah. Serajah then was taken and ſlain, 2 King. 25. 18,21. This was fifty nine years before the return of the Jews out of captivity. Concerning this relation two doubts are made: Firſt, whether Ezra were Serajah's immediate ſon: Secondly, whether he ſucceeded him in the high Prieſthood. The ground of the firſt doubt ariſeth from the many years that paſſed betwixt the death of Serajah and Ezra's coming to Jeruſalem, which are accounted to be an hundred ninety three years. For that Artaxerxes in whoſe reign Ezra came to Jeruſalem, is taken to be Artaxerxes Mnemon. The foreſaid years are thus reckoned. Fifty nine in the time of the captivity. Ten from the time that Cyrus gave the Jews leave to return to Jeruſalem, till Darius Hiſtaſpes began to reign. Thirty ſix in that Darius his time. Twenty two in the reign of Xerxes. Fourty in the reign of Artaxerxes Longimanus. Nineteen in the reign of Darius Nothus. And ſeven in the reign of Artaxerxes Mnemon, v.8. Hereupon it is ſuppoſed that Ezra was Serajah's grandchild, but called his ſon, as Zechariah is called the ſon of Iddo, ch.5.1. and that Serajah had a younger ſon, who was carried into captivity, and begat Ezra, or rather the father of Ezra; and after Ezra was born, his proper father dyed, and thereupon Ezra is ſtiled the ſon of Serajah: thereby to demonſtrate that Ezra deſcended from Aaron. The ground of the ſecond doubt, Whether Ezra were high Prieſt or no, ariſeth from this catalogue, and from that great authority and rule which he had over Prieſts, Levites, and others, v.25,26. ch.10.5. Neh.8,&c. & 12.26. But we may reſolve this doubt negatively, that he was not high Prieſt; for he is not put into the catalogue of high Prieſts, 1 Chr.6.14,&c. Yea, Serajah is expreſly there ſaid to beget Jehozadak, ch.3.2. and Jeſhua is further ſaid to beget Joiakim, and Joiakim to beget Eliaſhib, and Eliaſhib to beget Joiada, Neh.12.10. Theſe all were high Prieſts in their order, one ſucceeding another; the laſt of them beyond Ezra's dayes. Beſides the title of chief Prieſt, or high Prieſt is never given to Ezra. As for that power and authority which Ezra executed, it was given unto him by the King of Perſia, v.12, &c. as the government which Nehemiah had was given unto him by the ſaid King, Neh.5.14. And he was ſtirred by an extraordinary Spirit, and divine inſtinct, to rule as he did. See Neh.12.26.

V.2. The ſon of Azariah, &c.] The genealogy of high Prieſts here ſet down doth fully agree with the catalogue of high Prieſts ſet down, 1 Chr.6.10,11,12,13,14. till we come to Meraioth.

V.3. Azariah the ſon of Meraioth] Azariah was not the immediate ſon of Meraioth. There were ſix betwixt them, which are by name ſet down, 1 Chr.6.7,8,9,10. There is the like omiſſion of names, Mat.1.8.

V.4. The ſon of Zeraiah, &c.] They who are reckoned in this and the next verſe do fully agree with the catalogue ſet down, 1 Chr. 6.3,4,5.

V.5. The ſon of Aaron the chief Prieſt] See v.1.

V.6. This Ezra went up from Babylon] This ſheweth that all the Jews that were at Babylon did not return from thence to Jeruſalem, at the firſt time when Cyrus gave liberty to them to return, ch.1.3.

and he was a ready Scribe] Of this title Scribe ſee 1 King.4.3. Here Scribe is taken for one that was well ſtudied in the law of God, and had a ſpecial function to expound it and teach it. Such were many of the Scribes in Chriſts time; for it is ſaid that the Scribes ſate in Moſes ſeat, Mat 23.2. that is, inſtructed people in the law of Moſes. And he that is called a Scribe, Mat.12.28. is called a Lawyer, Mat.22.35. in relation to the law of Moſes. Such alſo are called Doctors of the Law, Luke 5.17. Act.5.34. Ezra is ſtiled a ready Scribe, becauſe of that great underſtanding which he had of the law, being well ſtudied therein, and alſo becauſe of his dexterity and readineſs to give the ſenſe thereof unto others. There is a like phraſe uſed Pſal.45.1.

in the law of Moſes] This ſheweth in what reſpect he is here ſtiled a Scribe.

which the Lord God of Iſrael had given] This is added to ſhew that that which is commonly called the law of Moſes was indeed Gods law. God gave it to Moſes, to give it to the people.

and the king granted him all his requeſt] Whatſoever he thought meet to crave of the King. The particulars of this requeſt may be gathered out of the Kings decree, v.13, &c.

according to the hand of the Lord his God upon him] By the hand of the Lord is here meant the grace and favour and good providence of God. This was the cauſe that the King granted his requeſt; it was according to Gods grace to him, and the guidance of his good providence. This phraſe is again uſed v.9.

V.7. And there went up ſome of the children of Iſrael] This hath reference both to ſuch as went up before, and alſo to ſuch as remained behind theſe in Babylon.

and of the Prieſts, and of the Levites, and the Singers, and the Porters, and the Nethinims]. Of the diſtinction betwixt theſe ſee ch.2. 36,40,41,42.43.

unto Jeruſalem] Jeruſalem is here Synecdochically put for all the land of Judah. Both city and country are here meant. See ch.2.1.

in the ſeventh year of Artaxerxes the king] This ſeventh year is to be reckoned from the time that he reigned alone. This being Artaxerxes Mnemon, this return was above an hundred years after the firſt return of the Jews from captivity. See ch.4.7.

V.8. And he came to Jeruſalem in the fifth moneth] After their firſt ſetting out from Babylon, ſo as they were but four moneths in their journey. For they ſet out the firſt day of the firſt moneth. See v.9. This fifth moneth began about the eleventh of our July.

which was in the ſeventh year of the king] See v.1.

V.9. For upon the firſt day of the firſt moneth] About the eleventh of our March.

began he to go up from Babylon] Heb. was the foundation of the going up from Babylon. The Hebraiſm is well expounded by our tranſlators.

and on the firſt day of the firſt moneth] See v.8.

came he to Jeruſalem] See v.7.

according to the good hand of his God upon him] See v.6. He aſcribes the good ſucceſs he had in his journey to the good grovidence of God.

V.10. For Ezra had prepared his heart] That which he did he did upon premeditation, not raſhly and ſuddenly. He did it alſo ſincerely, not in ſhew onely. See 2 Chr.19.3.

to ſeek the law of the Lord] To be throughly informed himſelf therein.

and to do it] To practiſe that which he learned to be enjoyned by the law. They make the beſt uſe of the law of God who practiſe what they know.

and to teach in Iſrael] He contented not himſelf with his own knowledge and practiſe, but endeavoured to inſtruct all the people therein.

ſtatutes and judgements] See the difference between theſe two words, 1 King.2.3.. This is thus diſtinctly ſet down, becauſe it was a principal end of Ezra's coming to Jeruſalem to reform religion, and to bring men unto a conformity to Gods law.

V.11. Now this is the copy of the letter] This hath reference to the ſixth verſe, where it is ſaid that the King granted Ezra all his requeſts. The evidence of that grant is ſet down in the letter here mentioned. The letter continueth to the 27. verſe, and is penned in the Chaldee dialect.

that the king Artaxerxes] See v.1.

gave unto Ezra the Prieſt] The genealogy of Ezra ſet down v.1, &c. ſheweth that Ezra was a Prieſt deſcending from Aaron; from whom all ſorts of Prieſts, and others deſcended.

the Scribe] See v.6.

even a Scribe of the words of the commandements of the Lord] This is a deſcription of that which is ſtiled the law of Moſes, &c.v.6. For that law contained the commandements of God. The words of the commandements were ſuch as God gave in charge to Moſes to teach the people.

and of his ſtatutes to Iſrael] Of the difference betwixt commandements and ſtatutes ſee 1 King.2.3. They are ſaid to be to Iſrael, becauſe they were in ſpecial given as rules and directions to that purpoſe.

V.12. Artaxerxes king of kings] This is an high title, proper to God and to his ſon Chriſt, 1 Tim.6.15. Rev.1.5. & 17.14. & 19.16. for he is the moſt high ſupreme Soveraign over all, whether Kings, or Lords, or other inferiour perſons; but yet reſpectively it may be applyed to mortal Kings, in regard of that juriſdiction which Monarchs have over other Kings. Thus God aſcribeth this ſtile to Nebuchadnezzar, Ezek.26.7. Dan.2.38. This Artaxerxes was ſuch a Monarch as Nebuchadnezzar was, and in that reſpect may this ſtile be given to him. Yet I will not deny but that it might be too ambitiouſly affected by him, and too flatteringly given him by others.

unto Ezra the Prieſt, a Scribe of the law of the God of heaven, perfect peace] Or, to Ezra the Prieſt, a perfect Scribe of the law of the God of heaven, peace, &c. Of this title God of heaven ſee ch.6.9. The word peace is not in the Chaldee. Thereupon ſome attribute the word perfect to Ezra, as it is in the other reading; a perfect Scribe. But this word perfect is in the end of all, which makes others to add the word peace. It may ſignifie health and proſperity; and ſo be ſet down as a ſalutation.

and at ſuch a time] Of the Chaldee word Cheeneth ſee ch.4.12.

V.13. I make a decree] Chald. by me a decree is made. See ch.6.8.

that all they of the people of Iſrael] Theſe are they that are called the children of Iſrael, v.7.

and of his Prieſts] This relative his hath reference to God, mentioned v.12.

and Levites in my Realm] Perſia, Media, Babylonia, and many other Kingdoms, are compriſed under this title my Realm. For Artaxerxes was a Monarch of many Kingdoms; and whereſoever any of the Jews were diſperſed in any of thoſe Kingdoms, they had liberty by this decree to go to Jeruſalem. Thus large was the decree of Cyrus, ch.1.1,4.

which are minded of their own free-will to go to Jeruſalem] He compelled none, but gave leave to all that would take it. So did Cyrus, ch.1.3.

go with thee] This hath reference to Ezra, v.12. for the decree was directed in a letter to him.

V.14. Foraſmuch as thou art ſent of the king] Chald. from the king. To add more authority to Ezra, the King takes the firſt cauſe of Ezra's going to Jeruſalem to himſelf, though it were upon Ezra's requeſt, v.6.

and of his ſeven counſellors] From the diſcovery of that uſurpation of the Kingdom which the Magi treacherouſly obtained, the Kings of Perſia had ſeven choyce counſellors, which had a more free acceſs to the King then any other; and with whom the preſent King uſed to adviſe about all weighty affairs. Theſe are here alſo mentioned, to ſhew that the King of his own head did not grant that liberty to the Jews, but upon good advice with his Privy counſellors; ſo as this alſo added the more authority to Ezra. Of ſuch counſellors mention is made, Eſth.1.14.

to enquire concerning Judah and Jeruſalem] How their ſtate ſtood, what might be further needful for them.

according to the law of thy God] This is ſpoken to Ezra This King believed that the true God was in ſpecial the God of Ezra. See Dan.2.47. & 4.28. & 6.20. By this clauſe the King giveth Ezra power to ſearch and obſerve who lived according to the law of God, that he might encourage ſuch as did ſo, and puniſh thoſe that did not; yea alſo that he might ſee whether all things in that Province were ordered according to Gods law.

which is in thine hand] Which thou haſt diligently ſtudied, and doſt continue ſtill to ſtudy; wherein thou art very skilfull, and which thou haſt alwayes before thee.

V.15. And to carry the ſilver and the gold which the king] The King would make no advantage to himſelf of that which he had devoted to God.

and his counſellors have freely offered] Certainly Ezra had well inſtructed both the King and his counſellors in ſome knowledge of the true God, in that they were ſo free-hearted and bountiful, in offering to his houſe and ſervice.

unto the God of Iſrael] See ch. 1.3.

whoſe habitation is in Jeruſalem] Becauſe the Lords houſe was in Jeruſalem, and God did eſpecially manifeſt his preſence in his houſe, his habitation is ſaid to be in Jeruſalem. See 2 Chr.6.2. & 29.6. Pſal.26.8. & 123.5,13.

V.16. And all the ſilver and gold that thou canſt find in all the Province of Babylon] Ch. 8. 25. He doth not here mean all that he could any way come by; but all that Ezra could move any of that Kings ſubjects freely to offer. So as hereby the King gives Ezra power to make collections among all the Kings people, for the good of the children of Iſrael; and that eſpecially for the houſe and ſervice of God. Hereby alſo liberty was granted to take ſuch veſſels of ſilver and gold, as being taken out of the former Temple were laid up in the Province of Babylon.

with the free-will offering of the people] He meaneth here the people of Iſrael, mentioned v.13. For they are diſtinguiſhed from other people in the Province of Babylon.

and of the Prieſts offering willingly] This is meant of ſuch Prieſts as were then in the place of their captivity; whether they now went with Ezra, or tarried ſtill in their own places.

for the houſe of their God] This heathen King ſpeaking of the Jews, the people of God, ſtileth the Lord their God.

which is in Jeruſalem] See ch.1.3.

V.17. That thou maiſt buy ſpeedily with this money] Here in particular is ſet down one ſpecial end of the forementioned collections and contributions.

Bullocks, Rams, Lambs,] See ch.6.9.

with their meat-offerings and their drink-offerings] Of theſe ſee 1 King. 3.15.

and offer them upon the altar] See ch.3.2.

of the houſe of your God] There was the Altar ſet, and no where elſe might it be; and therefore by a property it is called the Altar of Gods houſe.

which is in Jeruſalem] See ch.1.3.

V.18. And whatſoever ſhall ſeem good to thee] Though oblations to God were one principal end of the forementioned money, yet would not the King tie all to that onely uſe, but left much to the diſcretion of Ezra.

and to thy brethren] By this title of relation ſuch Prieſts as Ezra took to be of his counſel are eſpecially meant. It may be extended alſo to ſuch other Jews as he adviſed with.

to do with the reſt of the ſilver and gold] Hereby is meant ſo much as remained after they had bought offerings enough.

that do after the will of your God] He was perſwaded that they were well inſtructed in the word of God; and therefore exhorteth them to hold cloſe to it.

V.19. The veſſels alſo that are given thee] Either ſuch as were formerly taken from the Temple; or ſuch as being new made, were now given to them.

for the ſervice of the houſe of thy God] He had as great a care for God, his houſe, and ſervice, as if he had been a King of Judah.

Thoſe deliver thou before the God of Jeruſalem] Or, before God at Jeruſalem. The meaning is, that they ſhould be delivered at the Temple where God moſt manifeſted his preſence, and to ſuch as by Gods law were appointed to take the care of them.

V. 20. And whatſoever more ſhall be needfull for the houſe of thy God] This was a great enlargement of his decree and grant, and manifeſted much reſpect to Gods houſe.

which thou ſhalt have occaſion to beſtow] The King well knew that he could not preſcribe all things needful for Gods houſe, and therefore refers the more to the diſcretion of Ezra.

beſtow it out of the kings treaſure-houſe] Of ſuch an houſe ſee ch. 6. 4.

V.21. And I, even I Artaxerxes the king] He doubles the word, and makes mention of his own royal power, to move thoſe whom it concerned the more readily to obſerve what he enjoyned.

do make a decree] This alſo bindeth them the more to do what he requireth them. See ch.6.8.

to all the treaſurers which are beyond the river] Treaſurers here mentioned were ſuch as received tribute, and all manner of taxes and revenues due to the King in thoſe Provinces which were on that ſide Euphrates where Jeruſalem was. Such were they that are mentioned ch.6.6. Of a treaſurer ſee ch.1.8.

that whatſoever Ezra the Prieſt, &c.] See v.11,12.

ſhall require of you, it be done ſpeedily] See ch.6.9.

V.22. Unto an hundred talents of ſilver] i.e. of our coyn, thirty ſeven thouſand five hundred pound ſterling. How this accompt ariſeth ſee 2 Chr.22.14.

and to an hundred meaſures of wheat] The word tranſlated meaſure is both in Hebrew and Chaldee Cor. One Cor was about ten buſhels; ſo as this amounteth, according to our meaſures, to a thouſand buſhels of wheat. How this thus ariſeth ſee the note on 1 Kin. 4.22.

and to an hundred baths of wine] A bath was a meaſure for liquid things, which contained eight gallons. By this accompt an hundred baths of wine conſiſt of eight hundred gallons: which in our ordinary accompt comes to three tuns and half an hogſhead of wine.

and to an hundred baths of oyl] Of the uſe of wine and oyl ſee 1 Chr.9.29. & 12.40.

and ſalt, without preſcribing how much] Salt was of uſe for all manner of offerings, Lev.2.13. Ezek.43.24. It was alſo of ſingular uſe for all manner of food, and other things; and therefore no ſtint is ſet to it.

V.23. whatſoever is commanded] Heb. whatſoever is the decree. See ch.4.10.

by the God of heaven] See ch.6.9.

let it be diligently done for the houſe of the God of heaven] The meaning is, that whatſoever the Prieſts of the Lord ſhould declare to be by the law of God enjoyned for his ſervice in his Temple, it ſhould be done.

for why ſhould there be wrath] This King ſtood in fear of Gods wrath, and was perſwaded that neglect of Gods ſervice would incenſe Gods wrath. He was therefore careful to have ſuch things performed as might prevent the wrath of God.

againſt the Realm of the king and his ſons] Some read theſe words as diſtinct one from another, and not depending one upon another; thus, againſt the realm, the king and his ſons. This reading the originall will bear, as well as the former. It ſheweth, that as the King feared Gods wrath againſt himſelf, ſo alſo againſt his realm and children, and was thereupon the more carefull to prevent it.

V.24. And alſo we certifie you that touching any of the Prieſts] He was very tender of prejudicing Gods Miniſters, and carefull of doing them all the eaſe he could.

and Levites, Singers, Porters, Nethinims] Of theſe ſee ch. 2. 40, 41, 42, 43. All theſe had diſtinct employments about Gods houſe.

or Miniſters of this houſe of God] If there were any beſides thoſe before mentioned that had employment about Gods houſe, he grants to them the ſame priviledge that he had to the former.

it ſhall not be lawful to impoſe toll, tribute, or cuſtome upon them] Of the difference betwixt theſe three kinds of payments ſee ch.4.13. 20. Though thoſe payments were conſtant yearly revenues due to himſelf, yet would he eaſe Gods Miniſters of them.

V.25. And thou Ezra] The King thought it not enough to enjoyn others to do that which he thought uſeful for Gods ſervice, but alſo ſtirs up Ezra to take care of ſuch as were under him, to procure the good of the people of God.

after the wiſdome of God that is in thine hand] Of this phraſe ſee v. 14. He diſcerned that God had given unto Ezra great underſtanding and prudence; and thereupon makes that the ground of the power and authority which he gave him.

ſet Magiſtrates and Judges] The King well knew that Ezra alone could not do all that was requiſite for the good of that people, and therefore adviſeth him to appoint aſſiſtants and helpers; yea ſuch as might have power and authority, and were able to determine their caſes. Such counſel did Jethro give, Exod. 18. 21,22.

which may judge all the people that are beyond the river] He means ſuch as were within the Province of Judah; not the other countries that were about them on that ſide the river.

all ſuch as know the laws of thy God] He would have Magiſtrates and Judges to be men of underſtanding, and that in Gods law.

and teach ye them that know them not] The ignorant muſt be inſtructed, that thereby they may the better be brought to do their duty.

V.26. And whoſoever will not do the law of thy God] He is very zealous about Gods law, and ſets it in the firſt place.

and the law of the King] This he adds, that peace might be kept betwixt them and others.

let judgement be executed ſpeedily upon him] By executing judgement on malefactors both piety and peace are better preſerved.

whether by death] This was more then the Romans would grant to the Jews, when they had brought them into a Province, Joh. 18.31.

or to baniſhment] Chald. to rooting out. Rooting out of his own land is hereby meant. A mans country is as an orchard wherein he is planted; baniſhment is a rooting of him out of that ſoyl.

or to confiſcation of goods] That is, the taking away of a mans goods from him, and ſo turning them to ſome publick uſe. See ch. 10.8.

or to impriſonment] Hereby his perſon is reſtrained. Here ends the Kings letter which was in the Chaldee dialect. The hiſtory following is penned in Hebrew.

V.27. Bleſſed be the Lord God of our fathers] Ezra looketh beyond man, even to God himſelf, and aſcribeth all to him.

which hath put ſuch a thing as this in the kings heart] Whatſoever good thing is in any mans heart, be he great or mean, it is God that putteth it into his heart, Lam.1.17.

to beautifie the houſe of the Lord] The houſe of the Lord was now built; but much ornament might be added thereto by the Kings gift and grant. Beſides, the due obſervation of the ſervices of the Lord tended much to the beautifying of his houſe.

which is in Jeruſalem] See ch.1.3.

V.28. And hath exerciſed mercy unto me] Ezra accounted it a great mercy to be made inſtrumental, for the promoting of Gods ſervice.

before the king and his counſellors] Of theſe counſellors ſee v.14.

and before the kings mighty princes] They alſo offered to the houſe of God.

and I was ſtrengthened] He meaneth inward ſtrength of ſpirit, and courage to go on in his work.

and I gathered together out of Iſrael] That is, from among the children of Iſrael, who were then in the land of their captivity.

chief men to go up with me] Even thoſe who are by name ſet down in the next chapter.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ.1. T*Heſe are now the chief of their fathers*] This relative their hath reference to them that went with Ezra to Jeruſalem. As in the ſecond chapter there is a catalogue of thoſe that firſt went from Babylon to Jeruſalem with Zerubbabel: ſo in this chapter there is a catalogue of ſuch Princes and fathers of families as went up at another time with Ezra.

and this is the genealogy of them] Of a genealogy ſee 1 Chr.4.33.

that went up with me] Ezra ſet down his genealogy, and therefore he mentioneth himſelf in the firſt perſon, thus, with me.

from Babylon] Babylon may be here taken for that whole kingdome which belonged to the King of Babylon, who carried the Jews thither into captivity.

in the reign of Artaxerxes the king] See ch.7.1.

V.2. Of the ſons of Phinehas] In this verſe are ſet down ſuch as deſcended from the prieſtly and princely families. Of the prieſtly family there are two heads, Phinehas and Ithamar. Of the princely or royal family, David. Phinehas here mentioned was the ſon of Eleazar the ſon of Aaron, 1 Chr.6.3,4. By ſons in this and the verſes following poſterity is meant.

Gerſhon] This is not that Gerſhom or Gerſhon, of whom came the family of the Gerſhonites. Num.3.21. But another Gerſhom who lived at this time.

of the ſons of Ithamar] This Ithamar was the fourth ſon of Aaron, Exod.6.23.

Daniel] This is not that great Daniel who lived in the time of the Babyloniſh Monarchy; but another of that name.

of the ſons of David] King David is here meant, the head of the royal poſterity.

Hattuſh] How this man deſcended from David ſee 1 Chr.3.22.

V.3. Of the ſons of Shechaniah, of the ſons of Paroſh] This latter clauſe is added to diſtinguiſh Shechaniah in this verſe, from another Shechaniah, v.5.

Zechariah] There was alſo another of this name at this time, ver.11.

and with him were reckoned by genealogy of the males an hundred and fifty] Great honour under the law was done to the males. They onely were circumciſed, Gen. 17. 10. They were the firſt born to be conſecrated to the Lord, Exod.13.13,15. They onely were put into genealogies. Females were compriſed under them.

V. 4. Of the ſons of Pahath-Moab] Of the notation of this name ſee ch. 2. 6. The ſons of this man here meant were among thoſe that having taken ſtrange wives put them away, ch.10. 30. He alſo himſelf was one of thoſe that ſealed the covenant, Neh. 10.14.

Elihoenai the ſon of Zechariah, and with him two hundred males] There was a Zechariah that deſcended from Phinehas, 1 Chr.6.6. but he was long before this man.

V.5. Of the ſons of Shechaniah] See v.3.

the ſon of Jehzael, &c.] The proper name of this man is here left out.

V.6. Of the ſons alſo of Adin] There was another of this name, whoſe ſons came to Jeruſalem with Zerubbabel before this. This Adin might be one of thoſe who ſealed the covenant, Nehem. 10.16.

Ebed the ſon of Jonathan, &c.] Jonathan was one of thoſe who was appointed to ſee the Iſraelites that had married ſtrange wives to put away their wives, ch.10.15.

V.7. And of the ſons of Elam] There was one alſo of this name, whoſe ſons returned with Zerubbabel, ch.2.7.

Jeſhaiah the ſon of Athaliah, &c.] Of Jeſhaiah ſee v.19. Athaliah was alſo the name of a woman, 2 King.8.26.

V.8. Of the ſons of Shephatiah] See ch.2.4.

Zebadiah the ſon of Michael, &c.] Zebadiah was one of thoſe that promiſed to put away his ſtrange wives, ch.10.20. Michael is a name given to the ſon of God, the Lord of Angels as well as of men, Dan.10 13,21. & 12.1. Jude 9. Rev.12.7. It ſignifieth who was God.

V.9. Of the ſons of Joab] There were alſo ſons of Joab, that returned with Zerubbabel, ch.2.6, &c.

Obadiah the ſon of Jehiel] Obadiah was one of thoſe that ſealed the covenant, Neh.10 5.

V.10. Of the ſons of Shelomith, the ſon of Joſiphiah, &c.] The proper name of this ſon of Joſiphiah is left out.

V.11. Of the ſons of Bebai] See ch.2.11.

Zechariah the ſon of Bebai, &c.] Bebai was one of thoſe that ſealed the covenant, Neh.10.15.

V.12. And of the ſons of Azgad] See ch.2.12. Azgad alſo ſealed the covenant, Neh.10.15.

Jonathan the ſon of Hakkatan, &c.] קטן Katan in Hebrew ſignifieth little, or young. The word here uſed is applyed to a younger ſon, as Gen.9.24. Some therefore here tranſlate the word appellatively, thus, Johanan the younger ſon.

V.13. And of the laſt ſons of Adonikam] Mention is made of children of Adonikam that went up with Zerubbabel, ch.2.13. Thereupon ſome, in relation unto them, ſay, that this phraſe the laſt implieth that the three here mentioned went not at the firſt with Zerubbabel, but at the laſt with Ezra. Others apply it to his youngeſt ſons; of whom the three here mentioned were born.

whoſe names are theſe, Eliphelet, Jehiel, and Shemaiah, &c.] Theſe are thus expreſly by name ſet down, becauſe he had more ſons: but all the reſt, if they went not before, tarried behind, for theſe onely went at this time.

V.14. Of the ſons alſo of Bignai, Uthai, and Zabbud] Or Zaccur, as ſome read. Uthai and Zabbud were ſons of Bignai.

and with them ſeventy males] The particular numbers from the third verſe to this incluſively do make up in all one thouſand four hundred ninety and ſix males. Here were a great many that went up together, but many more went up at the former time. See ch. 2.64,65. As by this it appeareth that many went not up at the firſt time: ſo the hiſtories in Nehemiah and Eſther do further declare that there were many left in ſundry places among the heathen, even after this return.

V.15. And I gathered them together to the river] This hath relation to all that company that is before mentioned. The river here meant is taken to be Euphrates, into which Ahava runneth; or, it runneth into Ahava. Here theſe two rivers met together: It is very probable that there were thickets, or groves, or woods in this place; whereby it was the more pleaſant and ſecret. This circumſtance of meeting at a river is expreſly noted of worſhippers of God, after Chriſts aſcenſion, that they went out of the city by a rivers ſide, where prayer was wont to be made, Act.16.13. See Pſal. 137.1.

that runneth to Ahava] Some take Ahava to be a region by which the forementioned river floweth. In Aſſyria there is a region called Adiabena: but it is certain that Ahava here mentioned is a river: ſo it is expreſly ſaid to be, v.21,31. It was in the way betwixt Babylon and Jeruſalem.

and there abode we in tents] Or, there we pitched. They were now travellers, and many together; therefore they carried tents with them, that they might the better lodge in open places.

three dayes] In this time were the people ſo ſetled as Ezra might the better obſerve to what tribes or families they belonged.

and I viewed the people and the prieſts] That is, took notice of the diſtinction betwixt them; namely, who were Prieſts, and who were of other tribes.

and found there none of the ſons of Levi] It is ſaid ch.7 7. That there went up of the Levites with Ezra: thereupon a doubt ariſeth, how it ſhould be here ſaid, that he found none of them. The reſolution is, that at this time there were none that voluntarily came forth with Ezra; which he obſerving, ſent for divers of them, v, &c. who came upon ſending for, and in that reſpect are ſaid to go up, ch. 7.7.

V.16. Then I ſent for Eliezer, &c. chief men] Here are nine reckoned up by name who are men of dignity or authority; and in that reſpect called chief men. The Hebrew word ſignifieth heads. It is oft put for ſuch as are above others, and have command of others.

alſo for Jarib, and for Elnathan] Though this title Jarib be the ſame name twice uſed in this verſe; yet there is a difference in the Hebrew. The former is Jarib, the latter is Joiarib. But Elnathan is the ſame in both places; yet it ſetteth forth two diſtinct perſons of the ſame name. For they are expreſly diſtinguiſhed by their ſeveral gifts.

men of underſtanding] Such as were themſelves well learned, and had good knowledge of the law, and of the diſtinction of tribes, families, and functions; and could alſo well inform and inſtruct others therein. They were ſuch as are ſaid to underſtand themſelves, and to inſtruct others, Dan.11.33.

V.17. And I ſent them with commandment unto Iddo the chief] There is mention made of Iddo the father of Zachariah, ch. 5. 1. & 6. 14. And there is mention made of one Iddo which went up to Zerubbabel, Nehem. 12. 14. It may be that he might be ſent back from Jeruſalem to Ezra upon ſome ſpecial occaſion: and thereupon Ezra have the better opportunity to ſend to him. He was a prime and chief man, and had command where he was.

at the place Caſiphia] It is by moſt interpreters held, that Caſiphia here is put for the countrey of the Caſpians, where that ſea was which is called the Caſpian ſea, or Hircanian ſea, between the mountains of Caſpia and Hircania. But this place was very remote from that place where Ezra now was. Others therefore take it to be the name of a Caſtle, where by the grant of the Kings of Perſia there was a ſociety of Levites, and that Iddo was the chief over them; and therefore the meſſage ſent to him.

and I told them what they ſhould ſay] Heb. I put words into their mouth. They who ſend meſſengers upon a weighty buſineſs, will not onely in general bid them do ſuch and ſuch things, but alſo preſcribe unto them the very form of words that they ſhould uſe; and this is to put words into their mouth.

unto Iddo, and to his brethren the Nethinims, at the place Caſiphia] Of Nethinims ſee 1 Chr.9.2. They were ſuch as did ſervice about the houſe of God; whereby it appeareth, that Iddo had a charge about Gods houſe, in that the Nethinims are called his brethren.

that they ſhould bring unto us Miniſters for the houſe of our God] This phraſe is a deſcription of Levites, and ſheweth that their function was to attend the ſervice of Gods houſe.

V.18. And by the good hand of God upon us] Of this phraſe ſee ch. 7.6,9. His piety moved him to aſcribe all to the providence of God.

they brought us a man of underſtanding] Of this phraſe ſee the laſt note on v.16.

Of the ſons of Mahli, the ſon of Levi, the ſon of Iſrael] Mahli was the ſon of Merari, the ſon of Levi; ſo as he was Levi's grandchild. Levi was the third ſon of Iſrael, Gen 39.34. He was the father of all that miniſtred about the houſe of God.

and Sherebiah] Or, even Sherebiah. Thus is the copulative and taken and tranſlated, 1 Sam.17 40. Even in a ſcrip; and 1 Sam.28.3. Even in his own city; for this was the man of underſtanding whom they brought. Sherebiah is noted to be a man of underſtanding, Neh 8.7. & 9.4,5. He had good skill in thankſgiving, and was one of the chief among thoſe that were ſet apart thereunto, ch.12.8,24.

with his ſons and his brethren, eighteen] They are here called his brethren, who were of his kindred, or of his family, or of that function whereof he was.

V.19. And Haſhabiah] Haſhabiah is ſaid to be a ruler, namely among the Levites, and to be one who built a part of the wall of the city, Neh. 3.17. He was alſo one that ſealed the covenant, Neh.10.11.

and with him Jeſhaiah, the ſon of Merari] There is one of this name that voluntarily went out with Ezra, v.7. But he was of another tribe. Both theſe, Haſhabiah and Jeſhaiah, deſcended by lineal deſcent from Merari, as Sherebiah had done, v.18.

V.20. Alſo the Nethinims] Of theſe ſee 1 Chr.9.2.

whom David and the Princes had appointed for the ſervice of the Levites] We do not read where David did appoint the Nethinims their place: but in that they were appointed to their ſervices by Joſhua, and the Princes in his time, and continued till Davids time in great number; it cannot be doubted, but that he who ſetled all other offices and ſervices in and about the houſe of God, did alſo ſet theſe in their order and courſes.

two hundred and twenty Nethinims] Here was a great many remaining after the captivity.

all theſe were expreſſed by name] By this it appeareth that they were careful in keeping their genealogy.

V.21. Then I proclaimed a faſt there] Of the uſe of a faſt, and proclaiming it, ſee 1 Chr.20.3.

and the river Ahavah] See v.15.

that we might afflict our ſelves before our God] This afflicting of themſelves at a faſt hath reſpect to their bodies and to their ſouls: to their bodies, in forbearing food, ſleep, and other refreſhments, ſo far as their bodies might be ſenſible of it: and their ſouls, by ſetting their ſins before them, & Gods juſt wrath and vengeance againſt them for the ſame, ſo far, as their hearts might be broken, and a godly ſorrow wrought in them. It was expreſly enjoyned the Jews to afflict their ſouls in their ſolemn day of faſting, Jer.16.29. In regard of the outward afflicting of ones ſelf hypocrites could go ſo far in their faſt, Iſa.58.3.

to ſeek of him a right way for us] A ſpecial end of faſting is to be the better fitted for prayer; and prayer may and ought to be made for Gods direction about a right courſe in the lawful things that we take in hand.

and for our little ones] Among other things the good of our children is to be ſought; the rather, becauſe while they are little ones they cannot ſeek it themſelves; and alſo becauſe through Gods bleſſing on them, after we have ſerved God in our generation, our children after us may continue ſo to do in their generation, and teach their children after them ſo to do: and thus perpetual ſervice be performed to the eternal God by us mortal creatures, who have but a ſhort time to do it our ſelves.

and for all our ſubſtance] Under this word ſubſtance he compriſeth all the cattel and beaſts that they had; all the gold and ſilver; all the apparel, woollen and linen; all other outward commodities whatſoever. So as it is lawful by prayer to ſeek Gods bleſſing upon our temporal eſtate, and to commend all that we have to his provivence and protection.

V.22. For I was aſhamed to require of the king a band of ſouldiers and horſemen, to help us againſt the enemy in the way] Zeal of Gods glory, and faith in Gods power, wiſdom, truth, and goodneſs, makes true Saints aſhamed to do any thing wherein and whereby any of Gods divine properties ſhould be queſtioned. Though humane helps are lawful, and may be uſed, yet in ſome caſes, before ſome perſons, they may be forborn, and no great care taken about them, Gen. 33.15. Judg. 7.8. 1 Sam. 17. 39,40. Zech. 4.6,7. He plainly ſheweth, that there were enemies in their way: that ſouldiers and horſemen would be a good defence againſt them; and that he could have obtained thoſe helps of the King, yet he would not.

becauſe he had ſpoken unto the king, ſaying] That which is noted of this Kings reſpect to God, in his letter and grants to Ezra, ch.7. 12, &c. doth give us to underſtand, that Ezra had well informed the King in the manifold excellencies of God, and in his ſpecial care and providence over his Church.

The hand of our God] That is, his power, providence, protection and bleſſing. See ch.7.6.

is upon all them for good] To bleſs and proſper them, and in every thing to do them good.

that ſeek him] That call upon him, that ſerve him, that worſhip him, flie unto him, and rely upon him. See 1 Chr.16.10,11. This ſeeking of God is not the meritorious cauſe of Gods doing good to any; but the way wherein he uſeth to do good, and an evidence that he will do good to ſuch.

but his power and his wrath] His powerfull wrath, whereby he is able to make the ſtouteſt to ſtoop. Of wrath attributed to God ſee 2 Chr.28.13.

is againſt all them that forſake him] They are ſaid to forſake God who obey not his commandements; who flie to idols; who truſt to humane helps, and regard not him; and who fall away from their profeſſion of him.

V.23. So we faſted] They put their purpoſe into practiſe.

and beſought our God for this] Namely, that he would protect them againſt their enemies. This their prayer was effectual, v.31. For earneſt prayer ſharpened by faſting is very powerful with God. Such prayer was never made in vain.

V.24. Then I ſeparated twelve] The matter for which he ſeparated them was of great conſequence. It was the ſafe-keeping and carrying of all thoſe treaſures which are hereafter mentioned, v.25, &c. from the place where they were to Jeruſalem, and the well ordering and diſpoſing of them there: therefore he made choice of twelve Prieſts and twelve Levites.

of the chief of the prieſts] Or, with the chief of the prieſts. For they who follow, and are ſet down by name, were Levites, and not Prieſts.

Sherebiah, Hoſhabiah] Of theſe two ſee v.18,19. Some that read the former words as they are in our tranſlation, put the particle with before Sherebiah, thus, I ſeparated twelve of the chief of the prieſts, with Sherebiah, &c. and ten of their brethren with them] Ten Levites are hereby meant, taken out of the thirty eight mentioned v.18,19. Thus they were four and twenty in all to whom Ezra committed this great truſt.

V.25. And weighed unto them the ſilver and the gold] Cyrus committed ſuch treaſure to the Prince of Judah by tale or number, ch. 1.8,9,&c. but Ezra did it by weight: for this treaſure was not ſo diſtinctly made in chargers, baſons, and other veſſels, as they which Cyrus brought forth were.

and the veſſels] Veſſels are here taken in a large ſenſe, as ch.1. 7,10.

even the offering of the houſe of our God] Or, for the houſe of our God, and for the ſervice thereof.

which the king, and his counſellors, and his lords] Of the counſellors here meant ſee ch. 7.14. The Lords here mentioned were other Princes and noble men under the King of Perſia. Of theſe ſee ch. 7.28.

and all Iſrael there preſent had offered] Namely, ſuch as were able and willing to give, and then preſent when this great contribution was made. Of theſe ſee ch.7.16.

V.26. I even weighed unto their hand ſix hundred and fifty talents of ſilver] That is, two hundred fourty three thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty pound ſterling. How this ſumme thus ariſeth ſee 1 Chr. 22.14.

and ſilver veſſels an hundred talents] That is, thirty ſeven thouſand five hundred pound ſterling.

V.27. Alſo twenty baſons of gold of a thouſand drams] That is, three hundred twelve pounds and ten ſhillings. Of the value of drams ſee 1 Chr.29.7.

and two veſſels of fine copper] Heb. yellow, or ſhining braſs. Some take this for ſuch amber as beads are made of; or for a mixture of gold and ſilver together. We read Exodus 38.8. of ſuch fine braſſe as women made uſe of, to behold their faces therein, as now they do of looking-glaſſes. That muſt needs be ſome very excellent and curious braſſe. It plainly appeares that this was a very choice mettal that is here mentioned, in that there were but two veſſels thereof, and they reckoned amongſt veſſels of gold.

precious as gold] Heb. deſirable as gold. This may be in regard of the extraordinary brightneſs and ſhining thereof, which pleaſed the eye exceeding much. For the rarity of it, it might be as highly eſteemed as gold.

V.28. And I ſaid unto them, Ye are holy unto the Lord] That is, conſecrated after a ſpecial manner unto his ſervice. In this reſpect, Levi as the father and head of all ſuch, is called Gods holy one, Deut.33.8.

the veſſels are holy alſo] In that they were conſecrated unto God. Thus all things that are conſecrated are called holy things, Lev. 5.15. Numb.4.4.

and the ſilver and the gold are a free-will offering] for they were freely and willingly offered, ch.7.16.

unto the Lord God of your fathers] See 1 Chr.29.18. This is it that made them holy, that they were offered to God.

V.29. Watch ye, and keep them] The greater the truſt is, the greater ought our care and circumſpection to be thereabouts.

untill ye weigh them before the chief of the Prieſts and the Levites, and chief of the fathers of Iſrael at Jeruſalem] He means ſuch as went up firſt to Jeruſalem with Zerubbabel. They are ſuch as are ſet down ch.2.2, &c. Divers of the chambers on the ſides of the Temple were for treaſuries, to keep the holy treaſures appertaining to the houſe of God. See 1 King.6.5. 1 Chr.9.26.

V.30. Then took the Prieſts and Levites] They who are mentioned v.24.

the weight of the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels] Of theſe ſee v.26.

to bring them to Jeruſalem unto the houſe of our God] That there they might be uſed about the ſervice of God, for which end they were given.

V.31. Then we departed from the river of Abava] See v.15.21.

on the twelfth day of the firſt moneth] This was about the three and twentieth, or four and twentieth of our March, and the twelfth day from their going from Babylon, ch.9.9.

to go unto Jeruſalem] This was the end of their going up from Babylon. See ch.7.9.

and the hand of our God was upon us] See v.18.

and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy] This in general extendeth it ſelf to all that envied them, and bare evil will to the houſe of God.

and of ſuch as lay in wait by the way] This intends certain particular perſons that thought to have ſet upon them, and ſpoyled them in their journey. It much amplifieth the providence of God over them, that he diſappointed the plots and practiſes even of thoſe that ſought to have circumvented them.

V.32. And we came to Jeruſalem, and abode there three dayes] Namely, before they diſpoſed of themſelves to ſeveral places, and of their treaſures to the treaſuries. They took that time ſomewhat to refreſh themſelves after their weary journey.

V.33. Now on the fourth day] Namely, after their coming to Jeruſalem, which was about the fifteenth day of our July, but the fourth of their fifth moneth. As is evident by comparing ch.7.9. with this verſe.

was the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels] Thoſe that are mentioned v.26,27.

weighed in the houſe of our God] Namely, in the chambers thereof, which were treaſuries, v.29.

by the hand of Merimoth the ſon of Uriah the Prieſt] He took them of thoſe that brought them to the houſe of God, and weighed them, the better to diſcharge that truſt that was repoſed in him. This Merimoth built a part of the wall of Jeruſalem, Neh.3.4. and was one of thoſe that ſealed the covenant, Neh.10.5.

and with him was Eleazar the ſon of Phinehas] This Eleazar deſcended from that Phinehas, whoſe grandfather Aaron was, 1 Chr. 6.3,4.

and with them was Jozabad the ſon of Jeſhua] Jozabad was one of thoſe that inſtructed the people in the law, Neh.8.7. And his father Jeſhua was not the high Prieſt, but another, mentioned ch. 2.40.

and Noadiah the ſon of Binnui, Levites] They were not all Levites that were mentioned before; for Merimoth and Eleazar were Prieſts. This title therefore hath reference to the two laſt that are named.

V.34. By number and by weight of every one] Something muſt here be underſtood to make up the ſenſe; namely this, the accompt was taken, or ſome ſuch like phraſe.

V.35. Alſo the children of thoſe that had been carried away, which were come out of captivity] Not onely they themſelves which were carried away captives, and returned back again, but they alſo that were born in captivity.

offered burnt-offerings unto the God of Iſrael] Of offering burnt-offerings ſee 1 King.3.15. Though theſe were not born in Iſrael, yet they acknowledged the God of Iſrael, the God of their fathers, to be their God.

twelve bullocks for all Iſrael] According to the number of the twelve tribes, ch. 6.17.

ninety and ſix rams, ſeventy and ſeven lambs] Of theſe kinds ſee 1 Chr.29.21.

twelve he-goats for a ſin-offering] See ch.6.17.

all this was a burnt-offering unto the Lord] Though in ſome particular reſpects there was a difference betwixt a ſin-offering and a burnt-offering, yet in general whatſoever was ſacrificed upon the Altar was counted as a burnt-offering unto the Lord.

V.36. And they delivered the kings commiſſions unto the kings Lieutenants] A Lieutenant is ſuch an one as is appointed under the King, to order the affairs of that part of the Kingdome that is committed to his truſt. By the Kings commiſſions are meant commands and ordinances.

and to the governours on this ſide the river] Ezra was now at Jeruſalem: ſo as that ſide of Euphrates is meant that was towards Jeruſalem. Theſe might be ſuch as are mentioned ch.5.3.

and they furthered] Heb. lift up. It is the ſame word that is uſed ch.1.4. and in that ſenſe.

the people] Namely of Iſrael.

and the houſe of God] By affording ſuch things as were requiſite for the beauty and ſervice thereof.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ.1. N*Ow when theſe things were done*] This hath reference to thoſe former acts of rejoycing which are mentioned in the two former chapters; wherein is ſhewed how all things very proſperouſly ſucceeded about Ezra's going to Jeruſalem, and carrying rich treaſures with him for the houſe of God: But in this chapter is ſet down a dolefull hiſtory, which cauſed much mourning.

the princes came to me] Theſe were ſome pious Princes of Judah, that grieved at the evil whereof they complain, but could not redreſſe it.

ſaying, The people of Iſrael] Hereby he means the common ſort of people; for they are diſtinguiſhed from Eccleſiaſtical perſons, and from Princes, and others, v.2.

and the Prieſts and the Levites] Theſe were ſuch as by their function were wholly to attend the ſervice of God; ſo as their ſin is hereby much aggravated, in that they which by their particular function, as well as by their general profeſſion ſhould have kept themſelves from all pollution, ſuffered themſelves to be ſo polluted as they were. Beſides, they had means better to know the law then others.

have not ſeparated themſelves from the people of the land] He means the land of the uncircumciſed people; ſuch as are named in the latter end of this verſe, with whom they ſhould not have mixed themſelves.

doing according to their abominations] This is a general phraſe, which ſometimes ſetteth forth their idolatry, Deut.32.16. Secondly, all manner of uncleanneſs, 1 King.14.24. Thirdly, ſavage cruelty, 2 King.16.3. Here it is indefinitely taken for looſe and licentious living, without rule, and againſt the law of God, as Deut. 18.9. 2 Kings21.2.

even of the Canaanites] This is a general word, under which all thoſe people are compriſed which were accurſed of God, and devoted to deſtruction, Deut.1.7.

the Hittites, the Perizites, the Jebuzites] Theſe were particular Kingdomes, devoted alſo to deſtruction, Gen.15.2. and oft-times compriſed under that general word of Canaanites.

the Ammonites, the Moabites] theſe nations came from the two ſons of Lot born in inceſt, Gen.19.37,38. and were alwaies deadly enemies to the Iſraelites.

the Egyptians] Theſe were an ancient nation before Abrahams time, Gen.12.12. Theſe made the Iſraelites bondſlaves among them, Exod.1.13. & 6.5. and the Amorites] Theſe alſo were reckoned among the curſed nations devoted to deſtruction, Gen.15.16. They were on the other ſide of Jordan, Num.21.13,25.

V.2. For they have taken of their daughters] Namely, into marriage; which was directly againſt the law of God, Deut.7.3. This is meant of thoſe who were in Judah and Jeruſalem before Ezra came thither. Whether they took them before they came out of Babylon, or after they were ſetled in Judah and Jeruſalem, is not expreſſed. Some might take women of curſed nations to be their wives while they were in Babylon: for Nebuchadnezzar carried of thoſe nations into captivity, as well as of the Jews, Jerem.25.9,15, &c. and 27.3, &c. So as the Iſraelites might take of their daughters to be their wives. Others after they came to Judah might take wives out of thoſe nations that were about them. We may further gather from that which the Prophet Malachi (who lived after the captivity) complaineth of, that many of them put away their former wives which were Iſraelites, and in their room took wives of theſe nations. For thus he ſaith, Judah hath profaned the holineſſe of the Lord which he loved, and hath married the daughter of a ſtrange god. And this have you done again, covering the altar of the Lord with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, Mal.2.11,13. Hereby is implied, that they did not onely marry idolatrous women of heathen nations, but alſo put away their former wives; or at leaſt dealt ſo cruelly with them, as they made thoſe diſtreſſed women to weep before Gods altar, and make their pitiful complaints to him.

for themſelves and for their ſons] This aggravateth their iniquity that they did not onely commit thoſe great ſins themſelves, but alſo brought their ſons to doe the like.

ſo that the holy ſeed] This is meant of thoſe that deſcended from Abraham: for the covenant which God made with Abraham he extended to his ſeed alſo; and by vertue of that covenant, together with their profeſſion of the true religion, they were accounted an holy ſeed. Thus are the children of profeſſors under the Goſpel called holy, 1 Cor.7.14. By this circumſtance doth the Prophet Mal.2.11. aggravate this ſin. So likewiſe this ſin of profeſſors in the oldworld is aggravated, Gen.6.2.

have mingled themſelves with the people of theſe lands] He meanes the lands mentioned ver. 1. There could be no greater mingling of themſelves then by marriage. That was alſo a ſore temptation to draw them to the idolatry, and other wickedneſſe of thoſe nations. This reaſon is rendred againſt theſe marriages, Deut.7.4. and Solomons caſe gives wofull experience hereof, 1 King 11.4, &c.

yea, the hand of the princes] Such as in dignity were above others.

and rulers] Such as had authority and government over others.

hath been the chief in this treſpaſs] It is probable that they firſt committed this ſin and thereby became an ill example to others: Yea alſo, that they more openly and audaciouſly committed it.

V.3. And when I heard this thing, I rent my garments] This ſheweth that wonderfull great grief which ſeized upon this good prieſt upon the firſt hearing of that great ſin. Of this cuſtome of rending clothes ſee 1 King.21.27. 2 King.2.12.

and my mantle] This was ſome upper covering over his garment. Of a mantle ſee 1 King.19.13. Prophets had mantles proper to themſelves, Zach.13.4. Others alſo beſides Prophets had their mantles, as Job 1.20. & 2.12. Judg.4.18. Pſal.109.29. It amplifieth his paſſion, in that he rent both mantle and garment.

and pluckt off the hair of my head and of my beard] This is ſuch an evidence of an holy indignation as we read not of the like in ſacred Scripture.

and ſate down aſtonied] He ſate on the ground, See Neh.1.4. He was as one that for the preſent ſcarce knew what he ſhould ſay or doe. He was in good hope that he ſhould have found a people conformable to the law of their God: the rather becauſe of that great mercy which God had ſhewed to them, in bringing them out of captivity to their own land. But finding them in ſo great a treſpaſſe, he was in himſelf exceedingly dejected, and brought as it were into a maze; his own prayer importeth as much, ver. 6, 9, 15, &c.

V.4. Then were aſſembled unto me] This his holy paſſion was ſoon diſcerned by ſuch as were grieved and offended thereat; and they come to expreſſe their holy indignation and compaſſion with his.

every one that trembled at the words of the God of Iſrael] By the words of the God of Iſrael are meant the threatnings that are written in Gods word againſt ſuch ſinners. An holy fear leſt Gods judgements ſhould be executed maketh a pious heart to tremble; and they who ſo tremble will be carefull to uſe all the meanes they can to prevent Gods judgment. For this end did ſuch now aſſemble to Ezra. The great God is much moved with ſuch, Iſa.57.15. and 66.2. Mal.3.16.

becauſe of the tranſgreſſion of thoſe that had been carried away] The ſin eſpecially was it that ſo moved them; and the judgement of captivity from which they were now delivered, much aggravated the ſame.

and I ſate aſtonied] See v.3.

untill the evening ſacrifice] Of this time ſee 1 King. 18.29, 36. While ſacrifices or incenſe were offering up, pious people uſed to make their prayers, Luke 1.10.

V.5. And at the evening ſacrifice] See ver.4.

I roſe up from my heavineſſe] Or affliction. For ſuch was his grief for this ſin, as his ſoul was afflicted therewith.

and having rent my garment and my mantle] See ver.3. He did not rend another garment or mantle then that which he did wear, but they being ſtill upon him, though rent, he prayed.

I fell upon my knees] This geſture teſtified the humbling of his ſoul before God. Of this geſture ſee 1 King. chap. 8. ver.54.

and ſpread out my hands] This rite he uſed, to teſtifie the earneſt deſire of his ſoul, See 1 King.8.54.

unto the Lord my God] He expreſſeth this particular relation betwixt God and him, to ſhew the ground of his confidence notwithſtanding the great ſin of the people. See 1 King.18. 1 Chron.11.19. & 17.25. & 29.17.

V.6. And ſaid, O my God] See ver.5.

I am aſhamed] Sins of others work ſhame in ſuch as fear God, He begins his prayer with confeſſion and aggravation of ſin.

and bluſh] This is an ordinary effect and ſign of ſhame.

to lift up my face to thee] That is, to appeare in thy preſence, or to make any prayer to thee.

my God] He doth twice mention this particular relation, to aggravate the ſin. It was ſo great, that though God were in ſpeciall his God, yet he ſcarce durſt approch unto him.

for our iniquities are increaſed over our head] Their ſin is here reſembled to a flood of waters, which was ſo great as it overwhelmed them, and in a manner drowned them, Pſal.38.4. His firſt aggravation of ſin is taken from the multitude of their ſins. This good man putteth himſelf in the number of thoſe treſpaſſers, becauſe he was of the body of that State whereof many of the members had committed that ſin; ſo as he might be involved in the judgment that might fall upon them. So Dan.9.5.

and our treſpaſſe] Or guiltineſſe. For ſin makes a man guilty of Gods wrath.

is grown up unto the heavens] They are ſo great as they can ſcarce be exceeded. Beyond heaven nothing can aſcend. See 2 Chron.28.9. Jon.1.2. The ſecond aggravation is taken from the heinouſneſſe of their ſin.

V.7. Since the dayes of our fathers] This hath relation to their predeceſſors before the captivity, whoſe ſins cauſed the captivity.

have we been in a great treſpaſſe unto this day] This is a third aggravation of their ſins, namely, their continuance in them generation after generation.

and for our iniquities have we, our Kings and our Prieſts] This is an aggravation of the judgment inflicted for their ſins, in that no ſorts of people were ſpared; but the judgment fell upon great and mean, ſacred, and other perſons. This is a fourth aggravation of their ſins; that Gods ſevere judgments did not terrifie them from their ſins.

been delivered into the hands of the Kings of the lands] Lands here are oppoſed to the promiſed land, and imply ſtrange lands, lands of the heathen, the kings whereof were enemies unto them.

to the ſword, to captivity, and to a ſpoyl] Theſe ſet forth the variety of judgments; ſome were ſlain, others carried away captive; all of them ſpoyled of what they had.

and to confuſion of face] The judgments were ſuch as brought them to an amazement, and, as we ſay, to their wits ends; they knew not what to ſay or doe, yea they were made a ſcorn and deriſion to others, and aſhamed of themſelves.

as at this day] This ſhewes that the judgment did even yet ſtill lye upon them, in that many of their brethren remained ſtill in captivity; and they that were delivered were under a kind of bondage in great fears and dangers.

V.8. And now for a little ſpace] Heb. moment. This is taken comparatively, and that both in relation to their former proſperous eſtate wherein they flouriſhed under many of their own kings; and alſo to their many years of affliction. This time of freedome to thoſe times was but little.

grace hath been ſhewed from the Lord our God] All that good that they had he aſcribeth to God and to his free grace, and that by vertue of his covenant with them, intimated in this phraſe our God.

to leave us a remnant to eſcape] Hereby he implyes that God might juſtly have deſtroyed them all: and that moſt of them were deſtroyed. They were but a remnant that were preſerved; and the end why they were preſerved was to be freed from the captivity, that ſo they might be inſtances of Gods mercy.

and to give us a nail] Or a pin. That is, a conſtant and ſure abode. The metaphor of a nail is taken from ſuch nailes as uſe to faſten things together, and make them firme and ſure, ſo as they can hardly be pulled away, Iſa.41.8. Eccleſ.12.11. Iſa.22.23, 25. The metaphor of a pin is taken either from ſuch pins or pegs as uſe to be put into walls to hang things thereupon, Ezek.15.3. or elſe from ſuch pins or pegs as uſe to be faſtned in the ground, to hold up tents, and to make them ſteady, Exod.35.18. By theſe metaphors is intended that God had given them ſome ſetling and meaneſs whereupon they might reſt or depend under God; as a good governour, a good Prieſt, and others that were willing and ready to procure and help on their good.

in his holy place] Heb. in the place of his holineſſe. This in particular may ſet out the Temple; but in generall their City, which is oft called an holy City. See Neh.11.1. His meaning therefore is that God had given them an abiding place in Jeruſalem and about the Temple.

that our God may lighten our eyes] This phraſe implieth a refreſhing of a man who by trouble and danger doth much droop and is exceedingly dejected. Thus is this phraſe uſed, 1 Sam. 14.27, 29.

and give us a little reviving in our bondage] This amplifieth the forementioned benefit, implying that by their bondage they were as men frozen, numb'd, yea and dead; but by the brightneſſe of that favour which God ſhewed unto them they were revived; a new life was put into them.

V.9. For we were bondmen] This is ſpoken in relation to their captivity; for captives are as bond-men.

yet our God hath not forſaken us in our bondage] God did not clean caſt off all care of them, as if he had utterly renounced them from being his people; but had his gracious eye upon them in their miſery.

but hath extended mercy unto us in the ſight of the kings of Perſia] This mercy was Firſt, to move Cyrus to let them goe into their own land, chap.1.1, &c. Secondly, to move Darius to help them on in building the Temple, ch.6.1, &c. Thirdly, to move Artaxerxes to grant thoſe great priviledges which he did to Ezra; ch.7.12, &c.

to give us a reviving] See v.8.

to ſet up the houſe of our God] There are three particulars here ſet down of the mercy ſhewed unto them by Gods inclining of the hearts of the Kings of Perſia towards them. The firſt was the building of the Temple.

and to repair the deſolations thereof] Heb. to ſet up. This was the ſecond evidence; which implieth a liberty of Gods ordinances, and a peoples aſſembling to Gods houſe, which otherwiſe would have been deſolate.

and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jeruſalem] The Hebrew word ſignifieth a fence; and it ſetteth forth ſometimes a fence or hedge about a vineyard or garden; as Iſa.5.5. Pſal.62.3. Sometimes a fence or fold for ſheep, as Num.32.16,24. Sometimes a wall, Mac. 7. 11. Prov.24.31. All theſe ſignifications ſhew that the Kings of Perſia had afforded unto them protection and ſafety from their enemies; and cauſed them to live in peace, and that in their own land. This was a fifth aggravation of their ſin, that they were not wrought upon by Gods mercies.

V.10. And now, O our God, what ſhall we do after this?] This implieth ſo deep an apprehenſion of their ſin, as they could no way extenuate it, but remain as guilty perſons without any plea for themſelves.

for we have forſaken thy commandments] God by his commandments declared what he would have them do or forbear; but they regarded their own luſts more then Gods will made known unto them; ſo as their ſin was not upon ignorance, but rather upon a kind of preſumption. This is a ſixth aggravation.

V.11. Which thou haſt commanded by thy ſervants the Prophets] Heb. by the hand of thy ſervants. See 1 King.8.53,56. This implieth that God had not onely in general forbidden that which they did in his law; but alſo preſſed it upon them by ſundry of his Prophets, Deut.7.3. Judg.3.6. 1 King.11.1,2,10,11.

ſaying, the land unto which ye go to poſſeſs it is an unclean land] The earth in it ſelf is not unclean; but it was ſo accounted by reaſon of them that dwelt therein. Canaan, before the Iſraelites came into it, was counted unclean; and that was becauſe the people that dwelt therein were defiled, Lev.18.24,25. Iſa.24.5.

with the filthineſs of the people of the lands] This was the cauſe why the land was counted unclean. By filthineſs is meant the peoples filthy ſins and vile luſts.

with their abominations] See v.1.

which have filled it from one end to another] Heb. from mouth to mouth. The uttermoſt end of a land is counted the mouth thereof. The meaning of the Hebraiſm is well expreſſed in our tranſlation.

with their uncleanneſs] This intended as much as filthineſs before mentioned did.

V.12. Now therefore give not your daughters unto their ſons] Namely, to be their wives.

neither take their daughters unto your ſons] There muſt no way be an interchange of marriage betwixt thoſe unclean people and the Iſraelites, which were counted an holy people. See v.2. This is expreſly forbidden, Deut.7.3.

nor ſeek their peace or their wealth for ever] This is to be taken in regard of mutual publick leagues or covenants with them, Exod. 23.32. Or of private matrimonial contracts, or the like agreements. But not ſimply of doing any good unto them, whereby they ſhould ſtrengthen them, or bind themſelves unto them. There is an expreſs law againſt this, Deut.23.6. Yet if they were forced to dwell among them, they might ſeek their peace even for their own good, Jer.29.7.

that ye may be ſtrong] Able to defend your ſelves without the aid of ſuch unclean people, by depending on God alone.

and eat the good of the land] He meaneth their own land, and the corn and fruit growing from thence. This is a common bleſſing promiſed to ſuch as did believe in God and faithfully ſerve him, Deut.28.4, &c.

and leave it for an inheritance to your children for ever] God did extend his promiſes of bleſſing to the children of his faithful ones, the more to encourage them to remain faithful with God, Deut.5.29. Pſal.103.17. & 112.1,2. Prov. 13.22. & 20.7. Ezek. 37.25.

V.13. And after all that is come upon us] He meaneth the judgments that were inflicted upon them, as ſword, captivity, and ſpoyl, v. 7.

for our evil deeds] This is a general phraſe which compriſeth under it all kind of ſins, and all that iniquity that they had committed.

and for our great treſpaſs] Some interpret this to be the guilt of their ſin. If it point at any ſpecial ſin, it muſt be that which is before noted, their marrying of ſtrange wives.

ſeeing that thou our God] This is the ninth time that this good man hath made a particular mention of the ſpecial relation betwixt God and them. Thrice in the ſingular number my God, v. 5, 6. ſix times in the plural number, our God, v.8,9,10. and here. All this is to ſtrengthen his faith in God by reaſon of the covenant that God had made betwixt himſelf and his people. For theſe relatives, my, our, have reference to Gods covenant. Of a fervent repetition of ſuch titles ſee 1 Chron.17.27.

haſt puniſhed us leſs then our iniquities deſerve] Heb. hath withheld beneath our iniquities. This phraſe is diverſly taken by ſeveral interpreters, eſpecially among the Hebrews themſelves. Moſt in this general agree, that God withheld his hand from taking vengeance of them according to their deſert.

and haſt given us ſuch deliverance as this] This is an evidence of Gods moderation in puniſhing them, in that he did neither utterly deſtroy them all, nor ſuffer them ever to remain captives, but wrought deliverance for them. This phraſe as this is rather an amplification then extenuation of Gods mercy. This is a ſixth aggravation of their ſin, that after ſuch mercy they ſhould commit it.

V.14. Should we again break thy commandments] This hath reference to the ſins that they committed before their captivity; whereby God was provoked ſo to judge them.

and joyn in affinity] See v.2.

with the people of theſe abominations] See v.1.11.

wouldſt thou not be angry with us] This interpretation doth the more convince them of Gods juſt dealing with them: of putting himſelf among the reſt ſee v.6.

till thou haſt conſumed us] This ſheweth what they had deſerved.

ſo that there ſhould be no remnant, nor eſcaping] This hath reference to Gods mercy, mentioned v. 8. and ſheweth, that the preſervation of thoſe that were not deſtroyed, and bringing them out of captivity, was a fruit of Gods good grace beyond their deſert.

V.15. O Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

thou art righteous] Herein he juſtifieth God, notwithſtanding that ſore judgment that was executed on them.

for we remain yet eſcaped] This is ſpoken of them that were come out of captivity; and ſo ſet down as an eſpecial fruit of Gods mercy to them.

as it is this day] See v.7.

behold, we are before thee in our treſpaſſes] Here we lie as guilty perſons, acknowledging that thou mayſt juſtly leave us to our enemies, and ſuffer them to deſtroy us.

for we cannot ſtand before thee for this] This very ſin of mingling our ſelves with the unclean people doth ſo confound us, as we cannot plead any thing for our ſelves before thee.

CHAP. X.

Ver.1. N*Ow when Ezra had prayed*] In this chapter is ſet forth the peoples repentance for the ſin confeſſed in the former chapter. This clauſe hath reference to the prayer ſet down ch. 9. v.6, &c.

and when he had confeſſed] Namely, that particular ſin of marrying ſtrange wives, together with their other ſins.

weeping] This circumſtance of expreſſing his godly ſorrow is not mentioned among the other effects of his paſſion, ch.9. v.3. but from hence it is certain that he did weep. Of weeping in prayer ſee 2 King.20.3. & ch.22.19.

and caſting himſelf down before the houſe of God] Nor is this circumſtance before noted. This ſhews that his humiliation and ſupplication was publick; even in a publick place. Whereby it came to paſs that more notice was taken thereof, and that the report of it was further ſpread. He prayed before the houſe of God, becauſe there eſpecially God manifeſted his preſence, and God had promiſed there to hear the prayers that ſhould be made unto him, 1 King.9.3. 2 Chron.7.12, &c. Ezra being Prieſt might have gone into the holy place, and there have made his prayer; but that the people might take the more notice thereof, he makes it more openly in the court before the Temple.

there aſſembled unto him out of Iſrael] Namely, out of all thoſe places where the Jews that returned from captivity were ſetled, in Judah and Benjamin eſpecially.

a very great congregation] The matter was of great conſequence, and his great humiliation for the ſame made it appear ſo to be. They feared ſome judgment might follow upon their great ſin; therefore many of them do lay it cloſe to their heart: ſome to condole with him; others to conſult with him about a redreſs; others to acknowledge their guiltineſs, and to promiſe reformation.

of men, and women, and children] It was commanded under the law, that at ſolemn meetings, men, women, & children ſhould be aſſembled together, Deut.31.12. and in that reſpect all theſe might here aſſemble, as Deut.27.11. Neh.8.3. Or it may be, that the men that had ſinned in taking ſtrange wives brought thoſe women and their children with them, to expect what directions ſhould be given them for redreſſing their ſin.

and the people wept very ſore] Heb. wept a great weeping. Some, in remorſe for their great ſin; others, in a mutual compaſſion of the ſin that was committed even by others; and that the rather, becauſe now they diſcerned by Ezra's humiliation that God was much offended, and their profeſſion ſcandalized thereby; and that they had cauſe to feare ſome heavy judgments hanging over their head. Weeping is an effect of inward grief and ſorrow.

V.2. And Shechaniah the ſon of Jehiel, one of the ſons of Elam] This deſcription diſtinguiſheth this Shechaniah from others of that name, not onely before the captivity but alſo after: for there were two of that name that came with Ezra, chap.8.3,5. and there was a third called the ſon of Arah, who was father in law to Tobiah an enemy of the Jewes, Neh.6.17,18. There was alſo one of that name that came to Jeruſalem with Zerubbabel, Neh. 12.3. This Shechaniah might the rather come to Ezra at this time in this caſe, becauſe he was a Prieſt, a prudent man, and father of Jehiel, who was one of thoſe that had committed that great ſin; as is evident by comparing ver.18. and 26. together.

and anſwered and ſaid unto Ezra, We have treſpaſſed againſt our God] He might put himſelf in the number of thoſe that had ſinned, becauſe himſelf had married a ſtrange wife; or becauſe his father had married one, v.18.26. Or, becauſe he was one of that body and ſtate that had committed the ſin.

and have taken ſtrange wives of the people of the land] Of this ſin ſee chap.9.2.

yet now there is hope in Iſrael concerning this ſinne] The hope that here he intends was in two reſpects. Firſt, of the peoples repentance. Secondly, of Gods mercy in pardoning that ſin. And this he putteth Ezra in mind of, both to move him to moderate his paſſion, and alſo to ſtir him up to uſe meanes for redreſſing this ſin.

V.3. Now therefore let us make a covenant with our God] Becauſe the work intended about putting away their wives could not be ſuddenly accompliſhed; to give aſſurance that with all convenient ſpeed it ſhould be done, he gives advice to bind them all by a ſolemn covenant thereunto. For a covenant tieth men ſo faſt to God, as if there be any fear of God in their hearts they will not fail to doe to their uttermoſt what they have covenanted. Pious governours have uſed by this meanes to tye their people more firmly unto duty. See 2 King.11.4.

to put away] Heb. to bring forth. That ſo they might not be concealed.

all the wives] Namely, ſuch as were of the heathen. We find many prohibitions againſt taking ſtrange wives; but no expreſſe law for putting them away: onely the conſequence of the law, which ſaith, thou ſhalt not make marriages with them, Deut.7.3. implyeth, that ſuch ſtrange wives as were married by any of the people of God ſhould be put away; and ſo much is confirmed by this practiſe, done ver.11. by the command of Ezra, who was a ready Scribe in the law of Moſes, chap.7.6. The like alſo was done after this on a day of humiliation, Neh.9.2. And this is one of thoſe things which good Nehemiah reckoned up to be remembred for, Neh.13.30,31. This practiſe was proper to the Jewes. For Chriſtians to ſeparate from a wife or an husband in caſe of religion is unlawfull. If any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and ſhe be pleaſed to dwell with him, let him not put her away, 1 Cor.7.12.

and ſuch as are born of them] Namely, of thoſe ſtrange wives. Such children were not utterly to be caſt out and left (as we ſay) to the wide world, without all meanes of livelyhood, and ſo caſt out of the Kingdome; but they were not to be reputed as free-born ſons, in the number of Gods people: nor were they to have any right to an inheritance or childs portion. But queſtionleſſe they were to be maintained by their father; and he ought to have a care to breed them up in the true religion, that ſo they might prove Proſelytes and worſhippers of the true God. Beſides, this is to be taken of the children of ſuch wives as retained their heatheniſh opinion. For if they were converted to the true faith, neither mother nor children were to be put away; witneſſe the caſe of Rahab and of her ſon Boaz, as alſo of Ruth and her ſon Obed, Matth.1.5.

according to the counſell of my Lord] This title Lord is oft given as a note of reverence to ſuch as we count more excellent then our ſelves, Gen.23.6. & 24.18. Exod.32.22. But here it may be uſed in relation to his high place as he was a Prieſt; and alſo to his authority as he was a governour, and had authority given unto him by the king of Perſia, chap.7.25, 6. Thus Hannah ſtiled Eli Lord, 1 Sam.1.15. By this phraſe Shechaniah ſheweth that he ſubmitted his advice to the judgment of Ezra, and would have all done by his counſel.

and of thoſe that tremble at the commandment of our God] This is a deſcription of conſcientious perſons, who make Gods commandments their rule, and tremble at the apprehenſion of any thing done againſt Gods will. Such perſons are fit to judge of caſes of conſcience. They fear God, and will be carefull to order their counſels and practices righteouſly, according to his word.

and let it be done according to the law] This was the perfect rule; by it he would have the counſels and practices both of Ezra and all others to be regulated.

V.4. Ariſe] This is a word of quickening. See 1 King.14.2. It appears, that Ezra, through his great grief was much aſtoniſhed, and ſtill lay in a poſture of humiliation, and therefore Shechaniah thus rouzeth him up.

for this matter belongeth unto thee] Ezra came purpoſely to reform abuſes, and to ſettle matters in Church and State aright. Beſides, Ezra had much manifeſted his utter diſlike of that ſin, and his godly ſorrow for it. In theſe and other like reſpects in ſpeciall manner it appertained unto him.

we alſo will be with thee] He promiſeth his own and other Prieſts, Levites, and governours aſſiſtance.

be of good courage] Courage is of ſingular uſe to bring weighty matters to paſſe. See 1 Chron.19.13. & 22.13. and 28.20.

and doe it] See 2 Chron.28.10.

V.5. Then aroſe Ezra] Seaſonable exhortations ſoon work upon willing minds.

and made the chief Prieſts, the Levites, and all Iſrael to ſwear] Or, the chief of the Prieſts, and of the Levites, and of all Iſrael. For why ſhould he make all the Levites and all the Iſraelites ſwear, and not all the Prieſts, but onely the chief Prieſts? Beſides, all Iſrael was not yet gathered together, as appears v.7. This he did yet further to bind them to that which they would covenant, v.3. An oath added to a covenant makes it much more firm. See 2 Chro.15.14.

that they ſhould doe according to this word] He means that which was promiſed, v.3.

and they ſware] They who have a true purpoſe to doe a thing, will be willing to bind themſelves thereto by the ſtrongeſt bonds. See 2 Chron.15.14,15.

V.6. Then Ezra roſe up from before the houſe of God] This was the place where he had caſt himſelf down to prayer, v.1.

and went into the chamber of Johanan the ſon of Eliaſhib] Eliaſhib was the high Prieſt in Nehemiah's time. His ſon therefore was a Prieſt; and certainly one that was highly accounted of. Now the Prieſts chambers were fair and ſpacious, where many might meet together to conſult and adviſe about matters. Such a chamber is called a great chamber, Neh.13.5. Thither went Ezra to conſult with others about that great caſe.

and when he came thither, he did eat no bread, nor drink water] He had continued faſting all that day; for he ſate aſtonied untill the evening ſacrifice, and then began his ſolemn prayer to God, chap. 9.4,5,&c. Hereupon when he came to Johanans chamber they offered him meat and drink to refreſh him, as Jeremiah did ſet wine in one of the Prieſts chambers before the Rechabites, Jer.35.5,6. but he would take no ſuſtenance till ſome order were taken for redreſſing that great ſin.

for he mourned becauſe of the tranſgreſſion] It was not want of ſtomach, nor any diſeaſe of body, that made him forbear ſuſtenance; but grief of heart for others ſins.

of them that had been carried away] The Iſraelites had been captives; that was a great judgment: yet now were freed; this was a great mercy. By this he implyeth that neither judgment nor mercy wrought upon them. This was a great aggravation of their ſin. See chap.9.7,8.

V.7. And they made proclamation throughout Judah and Jeruſalem] Of making proclamation ſee 2 Chron.36.[illegible]. Judah and Jeruſalem implyeth the extent of the proclamation. It went thorow country and city.

unto all the children of the captivity] Such as had returned from captivity. See chap.6.16.

that they ſhould gather themſelves together unto Jeruſalem] That they being altogether, a more thorow ſearch might be made of thoſe that were guilty of the great ſin.

V.8. And that whoſoever would not come within three dayes] Here he goes on in ſhewing what was the matter of the Proclamation.

according to the counſel of the Princes and Elders] Theſe were they in whoſe name the proclamation went forth. Under theſe two titles are compriſed ſuch as had juriſdiction and authority, both civil and Eccleſiaſtical.

all his ſubſtance ſhall be forfeited] Heb. devoted. That is, his goods or temporall eſtate ſhall be taken from him, and given to the publike uſe of the Temple, or of the State, or of the poor; he ſhould have no more right unto it. This power did the king of Perſia give unto him, chap.7.26.

and himſelf ſeparated from the congregation] That is, either excommunicated from the holy ordinances of God, (ſuch a power had the Jewes when they were under the dominion of the Romans, Joh.9.22,34) or baniſhed, and ſo cut off from the civil ſociety of the Jewes. This power was given unto them by the king of Perſia, chap.7.26.

of thoſe that had been carried away] See v.6.

V.9. Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin] This phraſe compriſeth under it all that returned from the captivity: for they were all ſeated in thoſe two tribes. As at the firſt diviſion of the tribes, many out of other tribes came to Benjamin and Judah, and there dwelt, 2 Chron.11.13,14,16,17. 1 Chron.9.3. ſo many of other tribes came with theſe two tribes, and dwelt with them, chap.1.5.

gathered themſelves together unto Jeruſalem] This was enjoyned them by proclamation, v.7.

within three dayes] After that the proclamation was publiſhed among them. This ſets out their willingneſſe to come in, that they made no longer delay.

it was the ninth moneth] Their ninth moneth anſwered to our November, and it began about the eleventh or twelfth thereof.

on the twentieth day of the moneth] Heb. this is the ninth moneth, in the twentieth of the moneth. This was the ſecond day of our December, which was in winter-time.

and all the people ſate in the ſtreet of the houſe of God] This was the place of the court of the people before the Prieſts court, which led into the Temple. The courts were not yet divided, and fenced with walls, Neh.1.8. and therefore the place where they were is called a ſtreet.

trembling becauſe of this matter] That was their ſin, at which now their conſcience was troubled. Beſides, they were afraid of the judgment and vengeance of God.

and for the great rain] Heb. the ſhowers. Howſoever winter-time be an ordinury time of rain, yet theſe ſhowres or violent rain was an evidence of Gods diſpleaſure againſt them; as the rain that fell in Samuels time, 1 Sam.12.18. ſo as they had both inwardly and outwardly cauſe of trembling.

V.10. And Ezra the Prieſt ſtood up] As this implyeth the alteration of his geſture, while he was in his great paſſion; ſo it ſetteth forth his care in ordering the poſture of his body ſo as he might be beſt heard. See chap.3.2. Gen.23.3,7. 1 Chron.28.2.

and ſaid unto them, Ye have tranſgreſſed] He doth firſt in general put them in mind of their ſin, that being convinced thereof they might repent.

and have taken ſtrange wives] Heb. have cauſed to dwell, or have brought back ſtrange wives. The Hebraiſm implyeth that they brought their ſtrange wives out of captivity, or from the nations about them, after they were come out of captivity; and brought them to their own houſes to dwell and abide there with them. Some might bring their wives from the place of their captivity; others might marry them afterwards, and ſo both ſignifications of the phraſe ſtand good.

to increaſe the treſpaſſe of Iſrael] All the people had committed many ſins; but this being a moſt heinous ſin added much to other ſins, and made them to ariſe to a great heap, 1 Sam.12.19. Luke 3.20. If the word treſpaſſe be taken for guilt, (as ſome doe take it) it ſheweth, that this ſin made them guilty of much more vengeance then their other ſins.

V.11. Now therefore make confeſsion] This is a ready way (if it be done with a penitent heart) to obtain remiſſion, Prov.28.13. 1 Joh.1.9. Pſal.32.5.

the Lord God of your fathers] See 1 Chron.29.18.

and doe his pleaſure] That which is agreeable to his will commanded in his word, and acceptable to him, Rom. 12. 2.

and ſeparate your ſelves from the people of the land] See chap.9.1. This generall branch implyeth that they ſhould have no familiar commerce with them, ſo as to ſeem to approve their wickedneſſe; or to be in danger of infection by them.

and from the ſtrange wives] This is one ſpeciall point wherein they ſhould teſtifie their ſeparation from the curſed nations. See ver.3.

V.12. Then all the congregation anſwered and ſaid with a loud voice] Thereby to give open evidence of their true purpoſe to hearken to his counſel, and obey his direction.

As thou haſt ſaid, ſo muſt we doe] This implyeth that they well diſcerned the equity of that which Ezra required, and that they were reſolved to conform thereunto.

V.13. But the people are many] He ſpeaks of the multitude that was then preſent; Whereof many of them were not guilty.

and it is a time of much rain] See the laſt note on ver.9.

and we are not able to ſtand without] Namely, under the skie, where the rain falleth upon us, and are not covered with any roof, or other ſhelter from the rain.

neither is this work of one day, or two] For it coſt them full three moneths to doe that which was here intended; and yet diligence was uſed herein. See ver.16,17.

for we are many that have tranſgreſſed in this thing, Or, we have greatly offended in this thing. Heb. we have multiplyed to tranſgreſſe in this thing. This Hebraiſm may admit either of the former interpretations; for they multiply to tranſgreſſe who make no conſcience of great and heinous ſins, but are bold in committing them. And they alſo multiply to tranſgreſſe who adde ſin to ſin, and commit many ſins; yea and conſpire and conſent many together to commit a ſin. Here are many motives to induce Ezra for the preſent to diſmiſſe that aſſembly. Firſt, the multitude of people. Secondly, the unſeaſonableneſſe of the weather. Thirdly, their want of ſhelter. Fourthly, the greatneſſe of the task.

V.14. Let now our rulers of all the congregation] Theſe rulers of the congregation were ſuch as uſed to ſit together at Jeruſalem in a great councel called the Sanedrim. That great councel conſiſted partly of Eccleſiaſtical perſons, which were Prieſts and Levites, and partly of rulers out of other tribes. Theſe were ſuch as are ſet down Deut.17.9. Frequent mention is made of theſe councels in the New Teſtament, as Matth.5.22. & 26.59. Acts 5.21. and 6.12. and 23.1.

and let all them that have taken ſtrange wives] They are conten: that ſo ſtrict a ſearch be made as none may be paſſed over, but all brought to appear.

in our cities] In the ſeveral places of their abode. Not cities onely, properly ſo called, but towns alſo, and villages, and all places of habitation.

come at appointed times] One after another, as they ſhall be found guilty.

and with them the elders of every city] Heb. city and city. Theſe were ſuch as had a ſpecial charge over the particular place where they dwelt: as Juſtices of peace in their ſeveral countreys, and other officers in cities. Theſe are called Elders, becauſe they were or ſhould be prudent, diſcreet, well experienced in matters as aged men.

and the Judges thereof] Theſe were ſuch as were to hear and decide matters of controverſie according to the law. See 1 Chr.23.4. & 26.29. 2 Chr.19.5. The Rulers of the congregation before mentioned were diſtinguiſhed from theſe Elders and Judges, in that they had a generall charge over the whole land; but theſe over the particular place where they dwelt. The things that they were to ſearch after were theſe: Firſt, who had married wives of other nations. Secondly, whether that wife were a profeſſor of the Jewiſh religion before marriage. Thirdly, if not, whether upon marriage ſhe had renounced her heatheniſh idolatry, and promiſed to be a worſhipper of the true God. Fourthly, whether ſhe remained conſtant in her profeſſion. Fifthly, whether ſhe brought any children with her from her own country. Sixthly, whether her husband had any children by her ſince his taking her to wife; and if he had any, how many. Seventhly, of what age the children were, and how educated, The Elders and Judges were to certifie what they found in theſe and other like caſes, that accordingly the rulers of the congregation might order matters.

untill the fierce wrath of our God] If God had not now inflicted ſome great judgement upon them, yet they feared that there was ſome hanging over their head; and therefore they do thus make mention of the fierce wrath of God. See 2 Chr.28.13.

for this matter be turned from us] Or, till this matter be diſpatched. In the Hebrew there is no more expreſſed then this, till to this thing. Whereby is implied that Gods wrath would not be turned from them till there were a reformation of that matter.

V.15. Onely Jonathan the ſon of Aſahel, and Jahaziah the ſon of Tikuah] Theſe were two Prieſts, as may be gathered from that diſtinction which is made betwixt theſe and the two other mentioned in this verſe, ſaid to be Levites. The excluſive particle onely is prefixe,d to give us to underſtand that there were ſo many of the Prieſts and Levites acceſſary to this ſin, as onely they were thought meet to be uſed as Miniſters about the thing here intended.

about this matter] About inquiring after ſuch as had ſinned, and about redreſs of the ſin.

and Meſhullam, and Shabbethai the Levite, helped them] This Meſhullam was one of thoſe men of underſtanding for whom Ezra ſent, chap.8.16. Shabbethai was one of thoſe who inſtructed the people, Nehem.8.7. It appeareth that they were both pious and prudent men; and in that reſpect afforded the better aſſiſtance to the Prieſts before mentioned. Queſtionleſſe theſe four mentioned in this verſe were choſen to direct others in this great buſineſſe that was undertaken, to quicken them up to do their duty, and to reſolve queſtions and doubts that might be made about that matter, and to ſhew how all things might be done according to law.

V.16. And the children of the captivity] See ch.4.1. Hereby are meant all that returned from the captivity to Jeruſalem.

V.17. And they made an end with all the men that had taken ſtrange wives] They found them out all, and brought them to repent of their ſin, and to redreſs the ſame.

by the firſt day of the firſt moneth] That was the eleventh or twelfth of our March; ſo as they were three moneths about the buſineſſe.

namely, of the ſons of Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak] This parentage ſheweth, that the Jeſhuah here meant was that good high Prieſt that came with Zerubbabel, and helped forward the building of the Temple, ch.3.2. yet even his ſons fell into this great ſin.

and his brethren] He meaneth here brethren in function, ſuch as were Prieſts.

Maaſiah, &c.] Here are four Prieſts eſpecially named.

V.19. And they gave their hands] Giving of hands is an outward pledge of giving ones faith; or of giving aſſurance that ſuch and ſuch a thing ſhall be done, 2 King.10.15.

that they would put away their wives] Thoſe ſtrange wives which retained their heatheniſh opinions. See v.3.

and being guilty] Both in their own conſcience, and by clear evidence or witneſs.

they offered a ram of the flock for their treſpaſſe] The verb is not expreſſed in the originall. The ſenſe therefore may be well made up with a diſtributive particle, thus, Every one offered a Ram. A Ram was by the law appointed for a treſpaſſe-offering, to make an atonement for a treſpaſſe, Levit.5.16. & 6.6. It is ſaid to be a Ram of the flock.

V.20. Of the ſons of Immer, Hanani, and Zebadiah] Immer is reckoned among the Prieſts, chap.2.36,37. So as his two ſons here mentioned were alſo Prieſts.

V.21. Of the ſons of Harim, Maaſiah, &c. Harim is alſo among the Prieſts, chap.2.39. So as his five ſons here mentioned were alſo Prieſts.

V.22. And of the ſons of Paſhur, Elioenai,&c.] Paſhur is among the Prieſts, Ezra 2.38. ſo as his ſix ſons here named were Prieſts too.

V.23. Alſo of the Levites, Jozabad, &c] The ſix Levites here mentioned, being diſtinguiſhed from ſingers and porters, are ſuch Levites as attended the Prieſts. See chap.2.40.

V.24. Of the ſingers alſo, Eliaſhib,] This Eliaſhib is another then he that is mentioned ver.6. for this was one of thoſe that took ſtrange wives, but not he.

and of the porters, Shallum, &c.]Shallum was one of thoſe porters that came with Zerubbabel, Ezra 2.42.

V.25. Moreover, of Iſrael] Theſe that follow were of other tribes then Levites, and compriſed under this name Iſrael.

of the ſons of Paroſh, Ramaiah, &c.] Paroſh came up with Zerubbabel at the firſt, ch.2.3.

V.26. Of the ſons of Elam, Mattaniah, &c.] Elam alſo came with Zerubbabel, ch.2.7.

V.27. And the ſons of Zattu, Elioenai, &c.] Zattu likewiſe came with Zerubbabel, ch.2.8.

V.28. Of the ſons of Bebai, Jehoanan, &c.] There were two called Bebai; one came with Zerubbabel, ch.2.11. the other with Ezra, ch.8.11.

V.29. And of the ſons of Bani, Meſhullam, &c.] Bani came with Zerubbabel, ch.2.10.

V.30. And of the ſons of Pahath-Moab, Adna,&c.] There were two of this name alſo. One came with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.6. The other with Ezra, ch.8.4.

V.31. And the ſons of Harim, Eliezer, &c.] This Harim is diſtinct from him that is mentioned v.21. for he was a Prieſt; this of another tribe. Both of them came up with Zerubbabel, ch.2.32,39.

V.33. Of the ſons of Haſhum, Mattenai, &c.] Haſhum came up with Zerubbabel, ch.2.19. There was another of this name who was a Levite, Neh.8.4.

V.34. Of the ſons of Bani, Maadai, &c.] There are three called Bani in this catalogue, diſtinct each from other. One here; another, v.29. a third, v.38.

V.35. Benaiah] There are four and twenty ſet down from this place to v.43. whoſe parentage is not mentioned.

V. 40. Machnadebai] Or, Manabdebai, according to ſome copies.

V.43. Of the ſons of Nebo, Jehiel, &c.] Nebo came up with Zerubbabel, ch 2.29.

V.44. All theſe had taken ſtrange wives] Of taking ſtrange wives ſee ch.9.1,2. As by name they are ſet down, there were ſeventeen Prieſts, v.18. Of the Levites, Singers and Porters, ten. And of other tribes of Iſrael fourſcore and ſix; in all an hundred and thirteen.

and ſome of them had wives by whom they had children] Heb. and there were of them women, and they had put forth ſome. The meaning is, that among thoſe ſtrange wives there were ſome by whom their husbands had children; and that theſe alſo were put away, as well as thoſe by whom they had none; yea, it may be gathered out of ver.3. that they did alſo put away the children as well as the mothers; though after a different manner, as is there noted. Such was their reſpect to the law of God made known unto them, as neither love to wife nor children could move them to continue in that their tranſgreſſion againſt God. Some ſo apply the act of putting forth children to the women, as if they had brought them before the Judges, for them to diſpoſe of them as they ſaw cauſe. Others, that they expoſed them ſo as they left them to ſhift for themſelves. But the firſt interpretation is the beſt, and moſt commonly received.

ANNOTATIONS
On the Book of NEHEMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this Book the continuance of Gods mercy towards the Jews after their captivity is ſet down; and that by raiſing up a third inſtrument of procuring their good. The firſt was Zerubbabel. The ſecond Ezra. The third this Nehemiah. Of the diſtinct good which each of theſe did, ſee the Argument on Ezra. This Nehemiah continued in Perſia after two returns of the Jews to Jeruſalem: One under Zerubbabel, Ezra 2.2. The other under Ezra, ch.8.1, &c. He was a great officer under Artaxerxes King of Perſia, and much favoured by him, ch. 1.6. He uſed that authority and favour to the beſt advantage that he could for the Church of God. Mention is made of two returns of his from Perſia to Jeruſalem. One was in the twentith year of Artaxerxes, ch.2.1. and that was for twelve years, ch.5.14. In that time, Firſt, he built up the walls of Jeruſalem, ch.3.1, &c. & 6 1. Secondly, he ſetled the Common-wealth, and therein redreſſed many grievances, ch. 5. 1, &c. Thirdly, He joyned with Ezra in reforming Religion, ch.8.1, &c. And for the better eſtabliſhing thereof, brought the people to renew their Covenant with God, ch.10.1, &c. The other return of Nehemiah to Jeruſalem was within a year after he came to Perſia: For in the ſame year that he came back to Artaxerxes King of Perſia, he obtained leave to go again to Jeruſalem; which was the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes, ch.13.6,7. And it is ſuppoſed that he tarried there at the ſecond return, ſo long as the Perſian Monarchy continued, which might be about fourty two or fourty three years: So as the whole time of his being at Jeruſalem from firſt to laſt was about fifty five years. His firſt coming to Jeruſalem was thirteen years after Ezra's firſt coming thither: For Ezra came in the ſeventh year of Artaxerxes, Ezr. 7.8. But Nehemiah in the twentieth of the ſame King, Neh.2.1.

The Title.

Nehemiah] This is the Title of the Book following, as our Tranſlators have ſet it down. In Hebrew it carrieth onely this title Nehemiah. This title is given unto it, becauſe Nehemiah and his acts are the chief ſubject of the Book. Some take him to be the Pen-man thereof, becauſe he oft ſpeaketh of himſelf in the firſt perſon; as ch. 1.1. I was in Shuſhan; and ver.2. I asked; ver.4. I heard, I ſate down; and ſo in ſundry other places: But another man might be the Pen-man of the Book, and yet bring him in ſpeaking of himſelf in the firſt perſon. Thus God himſelf is brought in ſpeaking in the firſt perſon, Gen.6 17. and 9.9. So Jacob, Gen.54.30. And Reuben, Gen.37.30. The vulgar Latine, and our ancient Engliſh Tranſlators, yea, and ſundry others give it this title, The ſecond Book of Eſdras, in reference to the former Book called Ezra; for it is ſuppoſed that the ſame Ezra wrote both theſe Books.

CHAP. I.

Verſ 1. THE words] Or, The deeds. For the Hebrew word is ſometimes put for the one, ſometimes for the other.

of Nehemiah the ſon of Hachaliah] We do not elſewhere read of this man then in this book, nor of his father Hachaliah. Another Nehemiah is mentioned Ezra 2.2. and another, ch. 3. 16. He made good his name. It ſignifieth The comfort, or reſt, of the Lord: and he was an inſtrument of the Lord to bring much comfort and reſt to his people.

And it came to paſs] Heb. And it was. This copulative particle and ſheweth that this hiſtory is a continuation of the former. And it is probable that both were penned by the ſame man.

in the moneth Chiſleu] This was the Jews ninth moneth, and began about the eleventh of our November. See 1 King.6.1.

in the twentieth year] Of Artaxerxes King of Perſia.

as I was in Shuſhan the palace] Shuſhan was the chief city in Perſia, ſaid to be built by Darius Hyſtaſpes. The Kings palace therein was alſo called by that name, where Nehemiah, being the Kings cup-bearer, v.11. had his abiding. Shuſhan ſignifieth a Lilly. And this place might be ſo called from the beauty and pleaſantneſſe of it. This was the Perſian Kings winter-houſe: their ſummer-houſe was Ecbatana. See Ezr.6.2.

V.2. That Hanani] It may be this Hanani was he that is mentioned Ezra 10.20. If ſo, he was a Prieſt, and one of thoſe who reformed their wickedneſſe. There is mention made of one Hanani ch. 12.26. To this man Nehemiah gave great charge, ch. 7.2.

one of my brethren] Some take this word in a large extent, for one of his kindred; others in a larger, for a Jew.

and I asked them concerning the Jews] His mind was ſo ſet upon the people of God, that as ſoon as he eſpied any that might inform him, he enquired after them. He himſelf was in a ſafe and pleaſant place, and had the favour of the greateſt Monarch on earth; yet he thought not that enough, but he muſt know alſo how the Church did. By this inquiry he came to learn what otherwiſe haply he had not known, and then the Church had wanted all that good which he did for it.

V.3. And they ſaid unto me, The remnant that are left of the captivity there in the province] i.e. the land of Judah. See Ezr.2.1. & 5.8.

are in great affliction and reproch] They had many enemies round about them, eſpecially thoſe that were called Samaritans, who dwelt in the place of the Ten tribes. Theſe did what they could to hinder all their good proceedings, and every way to annoy them; yea, they did much ſcorn and deride them.

the wall of Jeruſalem alſo is broken down] We do not read that it had yet been built again, ſince Nebuchadnezzars army brake it down. So as the meaning is that the wall ſtill lay broken down, as in the beginning of the captivity, 2 King.25.10. And this made the enemy the more to inſult.

and the gates thereof are burnt with fire] i.e. are not yet repaired.

V.4. And it came to paſs when I heard theſe words] It is the knowledge of matters that works upon the hearts of men. What the eye ſees not, or ear hears not, or at all cometh not to mans notice, the heart rues not.

that I ſat down] On the ground, as Jon.3.6. Lam.2.10. Ezek. 26.16. Iſa.47.1. Such ſitting is the poſture of a ſorrowful mind.

and wept] See Ezr.10.1. Judg.20.26.

and mourned certain dayes] It was no ſmall grief that ſeized uppon him, that thus continued day after day.

and faſted] Faſting was a further evidence of the depth of his ſorrow, an acknowledgement of their and his unworthineſs to partake of Gods bleſſings, and a good preparative unto prayer. By this ſympathy he ſhewed himſelf a true member of the Church: For if one member ſuffer, all the members ſuffer with it, 1 Cor. 12.26.

and prayed] Before he attempts any thing he calls upon his God. And he firſt goeth to God, and then to the King. This made all he did ſo ſucceſsful.

before the God of heaven] Becauſe heaven is the place where God doth moſt manifeſt his glory, therefore is he ſtiled the God of heaven. But the Temple being an eſpecial type of the place of Gods glory, this phraſe implyeth that in praying he turned toward it, as Dan.6.10. See 1 King.8.44,48.

V.5. And ſaid, I beſeech thee] Though his prayer be but ſhort, yet it hath a ſolemn preface before it, as the Lords prayer hath Mat. 6.9. In the firſt place he manifeſteth the earneſtneſſe of his deſire.

O Lord God of heaven] See v.4. Here we have a deſcription of God by his greatneſs and by his goodneſs. His greatneſs is firſt ſet out by the place of his habitation, Heaven.

the great and terrible God] Gods greatneſs is further ſet out by his properties, I. his Immenſity. He filleth all places, Jer.23.24. II. his Terribleneſs. He can affright all his enemies. See 1 Chr. 17.12. Deut.7.21. Job 37.22. Pſal.47.2. & 66.3,5.

that keepeth covenant and mercy] Here is the ſecond branch of the deſcription of God. The covenant here meant is a covenant of grace, ſuch an one as he made with Abraham, Gen. 17.7. His mercy hath reſpect to mans miſery. See 1 King.8.23.

for them that love him and obſerve his commandments] Theſe are the qualifications of ſuch as God uſeth to extend his goodneſſe unto: the former ſetteth forth their inward diſpoſition; the latter their outward carriage towards him.

V.6. Let thine ear now be attentive, and thine eyes open] Here beginneth the ſubſtance of Nehemiahs prayer. Firſt in generall, he craveth audience. See 1 King.8.29.

that thou mayſt hear the prayer of thy ſervant] This relation is here mentioned as a motive to induce God the rather to hear: So v.10. Pſal.116.16.

which I pray before thee now] Heb. this day.

day and night] i.e. conſtantly, continually, morning and evening. The former word now, or this day, prefixed before this phraſe day and night, ſheweth that to his daily and ordinary prayers he added extraordinary. Now he faſted and prayed; this was extraordinary: yet in this day of extraordinary prayer he omitted not his ordinary devotion, day and night. We read in the Law that on ſolemn feaſt dayes extraordinary ſacrifices were to be offered, but with this proviſo, beſides the continual burnt-offering, which was every day, morning and evening, to be offered. That proviſo is fifteen times repeated, Numb. 28. 10,15,23,24,31. & Numb.29 6,10,16,19,22,25,28,31,34,38.

for the children of Iſrael thy ſervants] This is another motive to be heard. As he that prayed was Gods ſervant, ſo alſo were they for whom he prayed.

and confeſs the ſins of the children of Iſrael] Penitent confeſſion is a ready way to find mercy. See Ezr.10.11.

which we have ſinned againſt thee] It is a great aggravation of ſin that it is committed againſt God, Pſal.51.4. 1 Sam.2.25.

both I and my fathers houſe have ſinned] Confeſſion ought to begin at our ſelves, & then take in thoſe to which we have ſpecial relation.

V.7. We have dealt very corruptly againſt thee] In this verſe is an aggravation of their ſins. Heb. with corruption we have corrupted. Of this Hebraiſm ſee 1 King 8.13.

and have not kept the commandments, nor the ſtatutes, nor the judgements] By theſe three words the three ſeveral kinds of Gods laws may be meant, Moral, Ceremonial, Judicial. See 1 King.2.3. They were guilty of the breach of every thing that God commanded them to keep.

which thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes] To declare to thy people, that they might know and obſerve them. See 1 King. 8.53.

V.8. Remember, I beſeech thee] He puts God in mind of what he had ſaid; not as if God had forgotten it, but to ſtrengthen his own faith.

the word that thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes] This compriſeth both the word of threatning and the word of promiſe, together with their ſeveral limitations.

ſaying] Heb. to ſay. God commanded his word to Moſes, to ſay, or to declare it unto his people.

If ye tranſgreſs, I will ſcatter you abroad among the nations] Of this threatning ſee Deut. 4.25, &c. of its execution 2 Kings 25. Ezr.9.17.

V.9. But if ye turn unto me, and keep my commandements] True converſion is manifeſted by obſerving Gods commandments.

and do them] Though keeping and doing Gods commandments oft ſignifie the ſame thing, yet by way of diſtinction one may imply a faſt holding of them, the other a conſcionable practice.

though there were of you caſt out unto the uttermoſt part of the heaven] By heaven is meant the skie, with which the earth ſeems to be terminated. For when we caſt our eyes upon the earth to ſee how far it reacheth, the heaven ſeems to touch the furtheſt part that we ſee. So it is all one as if he had ſaid unto the fartheſt part of the earth, Mat.24.31.

yet I will gather them from thence] Deut.30.4. Man cannot carry away Gods people farther then he can fetch them again.

V.10. Now theſe are thy ſervants] Here he preſſeth again that motive which he uſed v.6. taken from the relation betwixt God and them for whom he prayed.

and thy people] This is another relation. The former ſheweth they were to God as ſervants to a Maſter: ſo God acknowledgeth himſelf to be, Mal.1.6. The latter, that they were to God as ſubjects to a King: ſo alſo doth God ſtile himſelf, Mal.1.14.

whom thou haſt redeemed by thy great power] To wit, out of the land of the Egyptians. Then God manifeſted his extraordinary power by his judgements executed on Pharaoh.

and by thy ſtrong hand] This metaphor is taken from Men, whoſe ſtrength is exerciſed eſpecially by their hands. See Exod.6.1. & 13.9. & 14. 8.

V.11. O Lord, I beſeech thee, let thine ear, &c.] See v.6.

and to the prayer of thy ſervants] Either more at this time joyned with Nehemiah in prayer, or he knew that others beſide himſelf called upon God for redreſſe of their miſery.

who deſire to fear thy Name] He knew that none can fear God in that degree which they ought, he therefore ſetteth forth the truth of their endeavours by deſire. Iſa.26.8. All ſervice and worſhip of God is compriſed under this word fear.

and proſper, I pray thee, thy ſervant this day] This is the thing eſpecially prayed for. See 1 Chr.22.11.

and grant him mercy in the ſight of this man] So order and diſpoſe the heart of the man to whom I intend to go, that he may ſhew me ſo much mercy as to grant the requeſt that I ſhall make to him. The requeſt is ſet down ch.2.5. He ſtiles the King Man, to ſhew that he was but a man, notwithſtanding his high place and dignity; and that therefore God could turn his heart as it pleaſed him. Prov.21.1.

For I was the Kings cup-bearer] This was a great office. He gave the King wine when he was pleaſed to call for it, and ſo had opportunity to be oft in his preſence, and to make requeſt unto him. See 1 Kings 10.5. This is here added to ſhew that Nehemiah was ready to uſe his preſent office to the advantage of Gods people.

CHAP. II.

V.1. A*Nd it came to paſs in the moneth Niſan*] Niſan is the firſt moneth according to the Hebrew account, Eſth.3.7. beginning at the equinoctial, about the eleventh of our March. It is alſo called Abib, Exod.12.2. & 13.4. Some count this an Hebrew name, and derive it from נוס Nos, which ſignifieth to flie, and ſay this moneth was called Niſan in memorial of Iſraels flight out of Egypt. But moſt take it to be a Chaldee name. And according to the Chaldeans and Perſians accompt it was the ſeventh month: For they began the year at the Autumnal equinoctial, and might call that moneth Niſan, becauſe the cheerful ſummer-dayes were now fled and gone. This was four moneths after Hanani's coming to Nehemiah, ch.1.1.

in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king] Nehemiah came to Jeruſalem thirteen years after Ezra. For Ezra came in the ſeventh, Ezr. 7.8. and Nehemiah in the twentieth yeare of Artaxerxes.

that wine was before him] This is noted to ſhew that this was a ſolemn meeting, even a feaſt, for the Queen alſo was at it, v.6. and alſo to make way for that which follows.

and I took up the wine, and gave it unto the king] By this we may gather in what reſpect Nehemiah is ſaid to be the kings cup-bearer, ch.1.11. It was his office to attend upon him at meals, and to reach him ſuch wine as he was pleaſed to call for.

Now I had not been before-time ſad in his preſence] So ſad as now, ſo ſad as to manifeſt his inward grief by his countenance. It is probable that from his firſt hearing of the ſad news, ch.1.2. he had continued in a condition of mourning, and ſpent thoſe four moneths as Daniel did three full weeks, Dan. 10. 2, 3. and that this made his countenance appear ſo ſad as it was. Officers at court uſe to have their courſes of waiting upon their King; and now might Nehemiahs courſe be.

V.2. Wherefore the king ſaid unto me, why is thy countenance ſad?] His inward ſorrow and outward humiliation had left ſuch a ſtamp upon his face as was ſoon diſcerned, eſpecially by the King, who bare a good reſpect to him.

ſeeing thou art not ſick] His coming abroad, his activity in performing his office, and the kind of ſadneſſe that appeared upon his face did all demonſtrate that no diſeaſe had ſeiſed upon him, this is nothing elſe but ſorrow of heart] There being no externall cauſe of ſuch ſadneſſe of face, the King might well infer that it was from an inward cauſe, namely grief of heart.

Then I was very ſore afraid] This was a natural fear, and might ariſe from a ſuddain apprehenſion of the greatneſs of the perſon that ſpake unto him; or from a conceit that the King might ſuſpect ſome treacherous practice in him, or otherwiſe miſ-interpret that ſad manner of coming into his preſence; or from the company that was then preſent. For the Queen then ſitting by him, there muſt needs be Nobles and others attending them. It may well be ſuppoſed that his intent was not at this time to make his requeſt unto the King, had not Divine providence offered him ſo fair an occaſion, as is noted v.4.

V.3. And ſaid unto the king, Let the king live for ever] Of this phraſe ſee 1 King.1.31. He here uſeth it to give evidence of his good reſpect to the King, and to free himſelf from ſuſpicion of any treaſon againſt him.

Why ſhould not my countenance be ſad] That there might be no undue ſurmiſes of his grief, he declares the true cauſe, and that after ſuch a manner, by an interrogation, as importeth the equity thereof.

when the city, the place of my fathers ſepulchres lyeth waſt] The very heathen had the ſepulchres of their anceſtors in high account, and held it a point of great impiety, if not plain ſacriledge, to demoliſh or any way to annoy them; and therefore Nehemiah preſſeth this as a juſt occaſion of his grief.

and the gates thereof are conſumed with fire] See ch.1.3. Hereby he makes way for his requeſt, v.5. For he might ſuppoſe that the King, who was ſo inquiſitive after the cauſe of his ſadneſs, would be ready to enquire after the means of removing it.

V.4. Then the king ſaid unto me, For what doſt thou make requeſt?] Here is manifeſted the good event that followed upon his clear declaration of the cauſe of his grief; namely, that the King would be ready to afford means for redreſſing of that which cauſed it. And to that end tends this queſtion.

So I prayed to the God of heaven] See ch.1.4. He prayed not by turning aſide into ſome ſecret place, or by uttering any words, but by lifting up his heart to God. This is a kind of ejaculation of ſpirit, when a man caſteth up a ſuddain deſire. Nehemiahs deſire might be, that God would direct him in ordering his petition to the King, and incline the Kings heart to grant it. He expreſſeth as much ch.1.11. This ejaculation of the heart may be as fervent and prevalent as a ſolemn prayer uttered with the mouth: Witneſs that of Moſes, Exod.14.15. to which God made this anſwer, Why cryeſt thou unto me? yet no words of a prayer were then uttered by Moſes. This frequently and heartily uſed argueth an heavenly mind and an holy familiarity with God. This is one way whereby we may pray alway, continually, without ceaſing, even by a readineſs of heart to pray at all times, in all places, on all occaſions, when we are alone, in company, in conference, reading, ſtudying, working, or doing any other lawful thing. Thus maiſt thou, Reader, now pray in reading this.

V.4. And I ſaid unto the king] After he had prayed to God, he petitioneth the King: firſt God, ch.1. 4, 11. and here; then the King.

If it pleaſe the king] This is an humble inſinuation into the Kings affection. He would not deſire any thing againſt his mind.

And if thy ſervant hath found favour in thy ſight] See Eſth.5.4. It appeareth by this that the King did very much reſpect him, and made him one of his favourites. This favour he pleads as a motive to induce the King to grant his petition; and thereby ſheweth that he deſireth the good of Gods people as much as the continuance of his Maſters favour.

that thou wouldſt ſend me unto Judah] He deſireth more then leave to go. He would go as a meſſenger or ambaſſador from the King, in his name, with his authority.

unto the city of my fathers ſepulchres] See v.3.

that I may build it] He meaneth in ſpecial the walls, forts and gates of the city; whereof ſee ch.3.1, &c. The people had before built many houſes therein, Hag.1.4. Yet his mind alſo was to build houſes and other things requiſite in and about the city.

V.6. And the king ſaid unto me] The Kings ready anſwer giveth evidence of the efficacy of his prayer, v.4. ch.1.11.

the Queen] Heb. wife. A Kings wife is properly a Queen: So as this ſheweth the right ſhe had to be Queen.

alſo ſitting by him] It ſeemeth this was a ſolemn meeting. For theſe two, the King and the Queen, being together at a feaſt, muſt needs have many and great attendants, and that of both ſexes. This declares Nehemiahs deſire of promoting the good of Gods people, his hope of Gods working on the Kings heart, his boldneſs and courage in a good cauſe to have been very great. What Queen this was is not expreſſed: but many circumſtances diſprove their conceit who think ſhe was Eſther. Ahaſuerus the husband of Eſther and this Artaxerxes were two diſtinct Kings.

For how long ſhall thy journey be?] This preſuppoſeth that the King granteth his petition, in that he ſpeaks of the time for accompliſhing what he deſired.

and when wilt thou return?] This gives proof of the Kings great affection towards him, in that he was loth he ſhould be long abſent from him; and yet to gratifie his Favourite upon his requeſt, he was content to let him go; but ſo as he would know the time of his return.

So it pleaſed the king to ſend me] The King grants the petition according to the petitioners mind. For he made him a Governour, ch.5.14. See the meaning of the word ſend, v.5.

and I ſet him a time] Namely twelve years. See ch.5.14.

V.7. Moreover, I ſaid unto the king] The Kings readineſſe to grant his deſire putteth him on the more to enlarge his petition.

If it pleaſe the king] See v.5.

let letters be given me to the governours beyond the river] To ſuch as had command under the King over the Provinces on that ſide Euphrates that Jeruſalem was on. For there were the greateſt enemies of the Jews, and ſuch as Nehemiah had moſt cauſe to fear.

that they may convey me over till I come into Judah] Hereby he meaneth both conveniencies for his journey, and alſo ſafe protection by ſome guard of ſouldiers. We read that Ezra was aſhamed to require ſuch a thing of the King, becauſe God was able to protect them, Ezra 8.22. But there was a particular occaſion that moved Ezra to forbear that requeſt at that time, namely a diſcourſe that he had had with the King about Gods protection of his, and providence in keeping them ſafe from their enemies plots. Nehemiah had not in any ſuch reſpect engaged himſelf to the King; therefore their caſes are different. Certainly a man may with confidence call upon God for his protection, and yet in prudence uſe humane warrantable helps: For ſuch means rightly uſed are as the hands of Gods providence whereby he bringeth matters to paſſe. Means alone without God can do no good. Aſa's fault conſiſted not in this, that in his diſeaſe he uſed Phyſicians, but in this, that he ſought not the Lord, 2 Chr. 16. 12. A wo is pronounced againſt thoſe that take counſel, but not of the Lord, and that cover with a covering, but not of his ſpirit, Iſa.30.1. & 31.1.

V.8. And a letter unto Aſaph the keeper of the kings forreſt] A Forreſt uſeth to to be ful of wel-grown timber-trees, Iſa.10.18,19. Ezek. 15.2. The Forreſt here meant was near the land of Judah; and it is probable that it was Lebanon, from whence the former Jews had their timber, Ezra 3.7. The word ſignifieth Paradiſe: And the region betwixt Libanus and Antilibanus, which bordered uppon the land of Iſrael, was called Paradiſe by reaſon of the pleaſantneſs thereof. Some write that there was a town therein called Paradiſe.

that he may give me timber] He deſireth to have it freely upon the Kings authority.

to make beams for the gates of the palace which appertained to the houſe] Houſe is here uſed by an excellency for the Temple, which was the beſt houſe that ever was built. The word appertained is not in the Hebrew, but onely, the gates of the palace which to the houſe. And ſo it may be taken for the Kings palace. Becauſe the phraſe may imply a building appertaining to the houſe of God, many take the palace here mentioned for the court about the Temple, which was not yet built. See Ezra 10.13. That court had ſundry gates and diviſions and buildings in it. See 1 King.6.36.

and for the wall of the city] In the city-wall were many gates and towers and forts, (ſee ch.3.1, &c.) and in that reſpect much and great timber was requiſite.

and for the houſe that I ſhall enter into] He was a Governour, and had a great court, ch.5.14,17,18. and ſo needed a fair houſe.

And the king granted me] Namely all that I deſired. This is a further evidence of that gracious return which God gave to his prayer, and of the Kings great favour to him.

according to the good hand of God upon me] See Ezr.7.6.

V.9. Then I came to the Governours beyond the river, &c.] See v.7.

Now the king had ſent captains of the army and horſemen with me] This convoy was more then he asked. For he thought he might paſs ſafe till he had paſſed over Euphrates; where he was to receive another convoy, v.7. But the King was ſo careful of his ſafety that he would not ſuffer him to go any whither without a ſafe guard.

V.10. When Sanballat the Horonite] There is a place in Moab called Horonaim, Iſa.15.5. Jer.48.3,5,34. and Sanballat or his anceſtors were from thence; and in that reſpect is he called the Horonite; So that he was a Moabite. He had ſo inſinuated himſelf into the Jews as there was alliance betwixt him and the high Prieſt, ch. 13.28. yet was he a mortal enemy to them.

and Tobiah the ſervant] Tobiah was a Governour, but Tributary to the King of Perſia, and ſo his vaſſal and ſervant. Some hold this title ſervant is given him becauſe he was once a bondſlave, though now advanced to a place of government. The high Prieſt was allyed to him alſo, ch. 13.4.

the Ammonite] As Moab ſo Ammon were alwayes great enemies to the Jews, and after their return from captivity ſought to do them all the miſchief they could.

heard of it] This they might quickly do by intelligence from thoſe friends which they had got among the Jews.

it grieved them exceedingly] Grief is here put for diſcontent and perplexity of mind and ſpirit, ariſing from envy a malicious diſpoſition againſt good. Envy works upon a mans ſpirit ſo far as it oft manifeſteth it ſelf in his face, and maketh his very fleſh pine away.

that there was come a man to ſeek the welfare of the children of Iſrael] That alliance which they had in Iſrael might have moved them, had they had any ingenuity, to have rejoyced in the proſperity of that people: but nothing ſatisfieth or allayeth envy. Who is able to ſtand before envy? Prov.27.4.

V.11. So I came to Jeruſalem] Gods providence brought him ſafe to his journeys end.

and was there three dayes] So long he reſted before he did any thing for which he came thither. The like is before noted Ezr.8.32.

V.12. And I aroſe in the night] Before he attempted any thing about that for which he came, he would well inform himſelf about what was to be done, to know what pains and coſt it would require. And that he might do it the more ſecretly, he aroſe in the night.

I, and ſome few men with me] So many as might be fit to bear him company, yet not ſo many as might diſcover him and his purpoſe.

neither told I any man what God had put in my heart to do at Jeruſalem] He kept his purpoſe ſecret to himſelfe, leſt it ſhould be diſcovered to the adverſaries, and they ſeek means to prevent him.

neither was there any beaſt with me ſave the beaſt that I rode upon] This ſhews that thoſe few that he took with him were ſuch as attended upon him. He rode, but they went on foot. Many beaſts might have been a means of making the matter too publick.

V.13. And I went out by night] See v. 12. It is ſuppoſed it was a moon-ſhine night. Being night-time, others were in bed, and ſo he not ſeen; but being moon-ſhine he might diſcern all the decayes.

by the gate of the valley] By that place where a gate had been heretofore, and was afterwards built up again, ch 3.13. There is a place called the valley of Jehoſhaphat, Joel 3.2,12. and this gate led into that valley, and thereupon had this title given it.

even before the dragon-well] This well it taken to be Enrogel, 1 King.1.9. Some conceive it was called the Dragon-well becauſe an image of a Dragon in braſs or other like metal was there ſet, and the water ran out of the mouth of it: Others, becauſe the waters that ran along from it, ran ſoftly or creepingly like a Serpent: and for this purpoſe they alledge Iſa.8.6. where it is ſaid that the waters of Shiloah run ſoftly.

and to the dung-port] This was a place whither they brought their duſt and their dung; whence the gate that leadeth to this place is called the dung-gate, ch.3.14. Or elſe this was that dung-gate it ſelf.

and viewed the walls of Jeruſalem, which were broken down, &c.] He put not off this care to others, but he himſelf took a ſpecial view of all. See ch. 1.3.

V.14. Then I went on the gate of the fountain] i.e. a gate neer to a fountain whence water was conveyed into the city. This is the gate mentioned ch.3.15.

and to the kings pool] This was a great commodious pool made by ſome King, and thereupon it had that name. Some take it to be that which Hezekiah made, 2 King.20.20. Others hold that Solomon firſt made it; and that by Hezekiah it was ſo ordered that water from thence was brought into the city under ground, when Sennacherib came againſt it, 2 Chr.32.30. There is mention made of the pool of Siloah in the Kings garden, ch 3.15. which is taken to be another then this that is called the kings pool.

but there was no place for the beaſt that was under me to paſs] The ſtones and the rubbiſh ſo lay in the paſſage as a beaſt could not go thereby, ſo as he was forced to light and go on foot.

V.15. Then went I up in the night by the brook] This is taken to be the brook Kidron, whereof ſee 1 King.2.37. & 15.13. Though it were night, yet he continued to go from place to place.

and viewed the wall] i.e. the ruines thereof.

and turned back] i.e. went homeward again. Having ſeen as much of the ruines of the walls of Jeruſalem as he had heard of before, ch.1.3. he diſcerned that it was high time to go about the building of them up, and withall that the work was a very great work; and therefore he turned back to take order about it.

and entred by the gate of the valley] By which he went out, v.13.

and ſo turned] Namely, to the place from whence he came, v.12.

V.16. And the rulers knew not whither I went, nor what I did] For he did all in the night, v.12,13,15.

neither had I as yet told it] See the reaſons of keeping it cloſe, v.12.

to the Jews] To the common ſort of people.

nor to the Prieſts] Under theſe are compriſed all ſuch Eccleſiaſticall perſons as were of counſel to adviſe about weighty affairs.

nor to the nobles] Heb. white ones. The root whence this word is derived ſignifieth white, Gen 40.16. Eſth.1.6 & 8.15. for Courtiers and great and noble perſons were wont to go in white or fine robes, Eccl.10 17. Iſa.34.12. Jer.27.20. & 39 6.

nor to the rulers] Such as had civil government.

nor to the reſt that did the work] i.e. as were at coſt in making up the walls, or wrought in the work, or had the over-ſight thereof.

V.17. Then ſaid I unto them, Ye ſee the diſtreſſe that we are in] They had ſeen it before: but now that he himſelf had been an eye witneſs thereof, and being thereby moved with much compaſſion, he calls it to their mind again.

how Jeruſalem lieth waſt] Either by Jeruſalem he meaneth the walls thereof, which lay waſte; or elſe he implieth that a city without walls is in ſuch danger as it is little better then waſte.

and the gates thereof be burnt with fire] See ch.1.3.

come, and let us build up the wall of Jeruſalem] Hereby he ſtirreth them up to be aſſiſtant to him. For many hands make light work. The fruit and benefit hereof is diſtinctly ſet down ch.3.

that we be no more a reproch] See ch.1.3.

V.18. Then I told them of the hand of my God] i.e. of all the paſſages that are noted about his coming to Jeruſalem, from the time that he firſt heard of their affliction, ch.1.3. By the hand of God he meaneth Divine providence, to which he aſcribeth all that good ſucceſſe which he had had. See Ezr.7.6.

which was good upon me] In proſpering every thing that he had taken in hand about that matter.

as alſo the kings words that he had ſpoken unto me] Both thoſe which by word of mouth he had uttered to himſelf, in giving him leave to come to them, v. 6. and alſo which he had written in a letter, v.8.

and they ſaid] This hath reference to thoſe mentioned v.16.

Let us riſe up and build] Here they ſhew their willingneſſe and forwardneſſe to joyn with him in that great work.

So they ſtrengthened their hands for this good work] i.e. they took courage and reſolution, and every way fitted and prepared themſelves. See 1 Chr.11.10. Ezr1,6.

V.19. But when Sanballat,&c.] See v. 10.

and Geſhem the Arabian] This is a third man added to the two former, as full of malice as they. He is joyned again with Sanballat, ch. 6.2: As Sanballat and Tobiah were Governours under the King of Perſia in their places, ſo was this Geſhem a Governour under him in Arabia.

heard it] They had means of quick intelligence. See v.10.

they laughed us to ſcorn, and deſpiſed us] This was the effect of their inward envy, noted v.10. They uttered ſcornful words againſt them, as if they were not able to atchieve what they enterpriſed, but like fools undertook more then they could do.

and ſaid, What is this thing that you do?] Or, intend to do. For yet they had not done any thing.

will ye rebell againſt the king?] As they upbraided rebellion unto them, the more to terrifie them, ſo they did it after ſuch a manner as it is a plain ſcoff. q.d. You that have a plot to rebell, do you think by building weak walls to ſtand out againſt ſo great a King as the King of Perſia is?

V.20. Then anſwered I them, and ſaid unto them] Here Nehemiah manifeſted great courage againſt ſuch adverſaries as ſought to blaſt all his good endeavours.

The God of heaven] See v.4. He uſed this deſcription of God, the more to ſtrengthen his own faith, and to daunt them that oppoſed.

he will proſper us] This ſheweth his confidence.

therefore we his ſervants will ariſe and build] This ſheweth his invincible courage and reſolution.

but you have no portion] You are appointed over other places, and no part of Judea is allotted to you to do any thing therein.

no right] No title to any inheritance among us.

nor memorial in Jeruſalem] Among all records that are among us nothing can be found as an evidence of your pedigree to deſcend from any of the Jews. Such an anſwer was given to thoſe adverſaries that ſought to annoy the Jews at their firſt coming, Ezr.4.3.

CHAP. III.

Ver.1. THen Eliaſhib the high Prieſt roſe up] In this chapter is ſet down the building of the walls of Jeruſalem, together with the parties that built their diſtinct portions, and the order and manner of building the ſame. This Eliaſhib was grandchild of that Jeſhua who came with Zerubbabel from Babylon, ch.12.10.

with his brethren the Prieſts] Prieſts were brethren to the high Prieſt in relation to Aaron the father of them all, and in relation to their common function, whereby they were diſtinguiſhed from Levites. Beſides, theſe Prieſts might be of the ſame family whereof Eliaſhib was, and in that reſpect called his brethren.

and they built] The wall of the city was ſo utterly ruined, as it might well be ſaid to be built again.

the ſheep-gate] So called, becauſe by it was the market-place where ſheep were ſold, both for ſacrifices, and alſo for common uſes, Joh.5.2. or becauſe ſheep were through that gate brought into the city. This was the firſt gate of the city that was built.

they ſanctified it] Some underſtand this of an external beautifying and adorning thereof; others, of a religious conſecrating and dedicating it to God by prayer and ſuch rites as were then warranted. This gate is here ſingly noted to be ſanctified: 1. becauſe it was as the firſt fruits of all the reſt, and ſo in & with it all the other gates and parts of the wall were ſanctified. 2. becauſe it was the ſpecial work of the Prieſts; and they would have a ſpecial care of ſanctifying their own work. 3. becauſe it was the neareſt gate to the Temple, and to the market-place; by it beaſts for ſacrifice were brought. The pool called Betheſda, Joh.5.2. where ſheep were waſhed, was alſo neer this gate. And from this ſanctification it is inferred that the miracle of an Angels deſcending into Betheſda, whereby he that firſt ſtepped into that pool was made whole of whatſoever diſeaſe he had, Joh.5.4. then firſt began.

and ſet up the doors of it] Every gate had leaves of doors appertaining to it, that ſo it might be ſhut in the night-time for the better ſecurity of the city, and alſo at other times, to keep out ſuch perſons and things as were not fit to be in the city at ſuch and ſuch times, ch. 13. 19. Under ſetting up the doors all things appertaining unto them, as hinges, locks and bars are compriſed, v.3.

even unto the tower] This ſheweth that together with the gate they built a part of the wall, even ſo much as reached to the towers here mentioned.

of Meah] Meah ſignifieth an hundred. Some take it for the proper name of the tower; of which we read not but here and ch. 12.39. others, appellatively, for a tower of an hundred, becauſe it was an hundred cubits from the gate, or an hundred cubits high, or adorned with an hundred pinnacles, or had an hundred holes in it, one above another round about, out of which they might look out, and deſcry matters.

they ſanctified it] This is repeated to ſhew that they did not onely ſanctifie the gate, but alſo the walls and towers appertaining thereunto.

unto the tower of Hananeel] This name was given to this tower in memorial of ſome man of great note and name. The ſheep-gate being on the Weſt of the city, this tower was Northward from that gate. For ſo the Jews went on in building the wall, from Weſt to North, ſo to the Eaſt, then to the South, and then to the Weſt where they began. It was foretold before the captivity that the city ſhould be built from this tower of Hananeel unto the gate of the corner, Jer.31.38. whereby it appears that this name was long before given to this tower. Zechariah, who lived about the time of building the Temple, maketh mention of it, Zech 14.10.

V.2. And next unto him] Or, at his hand. This Hebraiſm ſetteth out ſuch as were at the charge and took the care of building the wall, as if they had been workmen; one beginning to work where the other left.

builded the men of Jericho] Theſe are called children of Jericho Ezr.2.34. becauſe their predeceſſors had, generation after generation, dwelt in Jericho, and they themſelves now dwelt there.

And next to them] This is the ſame phraſe that is uſed before, and may be taken in the ſame ſenſe; yet ſome give this ſenſe of it, that on the one ſide of the wall built the men of Jericho; on the other ſide Zaccur.

builded Zaccur the ſon of Imri] We read no where elſe of this man: But by this it appeares that he was both pious and wealthy.

V.3. But the fiſh-gate] This was the ſecond gate of the city now built. As the firſt was called the ſheep-gate by reaſon of ſheep paſſing through it, and ſold by it; ſo this is called the fiſh-gate, becauſe it was towards the Sea, and fiſh was brought into the city that way; and a fiſh-market might be near it. We read that men of Tyre brought fiſh into this city on Sabbath-dayes, and that to keep them out the gate of the city was ſhut: That was this fiſh-gate, ch.13.16,19. This was an ancient name of this gate, 2 Chr. 33.14. Zeph.1.10.

did the ſons of Haſſenaah build] No mention is elſewhere made of this man; but he that had ſons to do ſuch a work muſt needs be a man of good eſtate, or elſe God wonderfully bleſſed his ſons.

who alſo laid the beams thereof, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof] All theſe are here noted together becauſe one man was at the coſt of all. He might now prepare them all, but doors with their locks and bars were not ſet up till the whole wall was finiſhed, ch.6.1. & 7.1.

V.4. And next unto them] Heb. at their hand. See v.2.

repaired] The ſame thing is here meant that was in the former verſes by the word builded. But this word repaired may here and in the verſes following be uſed, becauſe the foundation of the wall within ground yet remained, and it may be alſo ſome part of the wall above ground.

Merimoth the ſon of Uriah] Uriah was a Prieſt, Ezr. 8.33. Therefore Merimoth alſo was one; for all the ſons of Prieſts were Prieſts.

the ſon of Koz] Koz had divers children which came with Zerubbabel to Jeruſalem, Ezr.2.6.

And next unto them repaired Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah, the ſon of Meſhezabeel] Meſhullam was one of thoſe for whom Ezra ſent, to be informed about ſuch Levites as came not to Jeruſalem, Ezra 8.16.

And next unto them repaired Zadok the ſon of Baana] By his parentage this Zadok is diſtinguiſhed from another that did the like work, v.29.

V.5. And next unto them the Tekoites repaired] Tekoa was a city in Benjamin, Jer.6.1. famous by the wiſe woman that dwelt there, 2 Sam.14.2,4.9. and alſo by Amos the Prophet, Am.1.1. The inhabitants of that place are here called Tekoites. Theſe were well affected to this work: for ſome of them built up the wall in one place, others in another, v. 27.

but their nobles] See ch.2.16. By this exception it appeares that they were the common ſort of the Tekoites that were ſo forward in the work.

put not their necks] This is a metaphor taken from Horſes or Oxen, about whoſe necks collars or yokes are put to draw by. Putting to the neck implyeth a willing yielding to do this or that; not to put the neck, a refuſal. This is here noted as a matter blame-worthy in them.

to the work of their Lord] This aggravateth their fault, that it being the work of the Lord yet they refuſed to be helpful therein. See Judg.5.23.

V.6. Moreover the old gate] This is the third gate, called the old gate, becauſe it was made before the other gates. Jewiſh Expoſiters ſay it was a gate ever ſince the time that David took Zion from the Jebuſites, 2 Sam. 5.6,7. This was on the North-ſide of the city.

repaired Jehoiada the ſon of Paſeah] This may be one of thoſe ſons of Paſeah who at firſt came with Zerubbabel, Ezra 2. 49.

and Meſhullam the ſon of Beſodaiah] He joyned with Jehoiada.

they laid the beams, &c.] See v.3.

V.7. And next unto them repaired Melatiah the Gibeonite] This man was of Gibeon, of which ſee 1 Kings 3.4.

and Jadon the Meronothite] Jadon is no where elſe mentioned. We read of another man called the Meronothite, 1 Chron. 27.30. which epithet is taken from a place or family called Merono, or Meron, or by change of a letter Merom, Joſh.11.5,7.

the men of Gibeon and of Mizpah] Mizpah ſignifieth a watch-tower, and had its name given at the covenant-making betwixt Laban and Jacob, Gen.31.44,49. It was in the tribe of Benjamin, Joſh. 18.26. It was repaired by Aſa, 1 King..5. The Inhabitants of Gibeon and Mzipah joyned with Melatiah and Jadon in repairing part of the wall.

unto the throne of the governour on this ſide the river] The King of Perſia's Governours on that ſide Euphrates where Jeruſalem was, had their place of judgement at this part of the wall: and this is here ſtiled the throne of the governour. Or throne may be put for a Palace or Kings court. To this place the forementioned perſons built the wall. But the houſe or palace it ſelf is ſuppoſed to be built by Nehemiah and his ſervants, ch.4.16. & 5.16.

V.8. Next unto him repaired Uzziel the ſon of Harhajah] One of the ſons of Kohath was called Uzziel, Exod.6.18. and from him deſcended the family of the Uzzielites, Num.3.27. But this was not of the tribe of Levi; for he was of the Goldſmiths.

of the goldſmiths] This was an ancient trade. And it is probable that Goldſmiths thrived well, even in their captivity, and before and after. Had theſe not been men of wealth, their ſons could not have born the charge of repairing the wall of Jeruſalem, as here is noted of one ſon, and v.31. of another, and v.32. of divers of them together.

Next unto him repaired alſo Hananiah] This may be he that is mentioned Ezr.10.28. There was another of this name v.30. The ruler of the Palace alſo was of this name, and it may be this man, ch.7.2.

the ſon of one of the Apothecaries] That which ſaid of the Goldſmiths may be ſaid alſo of the Apothecaries. Skilful Apothecaries were ever in great uſe and in high eſteem; and ſuch may well become wealthy men.

and they fortified Jeruſalem unto the broad wall] Or, left fortifying Jeruſalem at the broad wall. Or, left Jeruſalem unto the broad wall. Of this broad wall mention is made again ch.12.38. It is thought it was at the Corner-gate. There is a double reading of the words: This in the text ſheweth how far the ſons of the Goldſmiths and of the Apothecaries repaired, namely to the Corner-gate, where the wall was broader then in other places, and in that reſpect called the broad wall. The other, which is in the margent, hath no reference to any particular perſons; but ſaying they left, implyeth that the wall was left, and not repaired, unto the broad place: for it had not there been pulled down. It is ſuppoſed this was that part which Joaſh brake down from the gate of Ephraim to the Corner-gate, 2 Chr.25.23. and which afterwards Uzziah built again, and made much ſtronger then before, 2 Chr.26.9. And it may be the Babylonians having broken down the wall on both ſides, and being now weary of their work, left this part ſtanding.

V.9. And next unto them repaired Rephaiah the ſun of Hur] He repaired that part that was next to the broad wall.

the ruler of the half-part of Jeruſalem] Jeruſalem was part in Judah, and part in Benjamin: and ſo there might be two rulers thereof. See v.12. & on Joſh.13.63.

V.10. And next unto them repaired Jedaiah the ſon of Harumaph] This Jedaiah was famous among thoſe that returned from Babylon, as is evident Zech.6.10,14.

even over againſt his houſe] Being a great man, he had a fair houſe in Jeruſalem; and he choſe to build that part of the wall which was next to it.

and next unto him repaired Hattuſh the ſon of Haſhabniah] Hattuſh was of the royal ſtock, and came from Babylon with Ezra, Ezr.8.2.

V.11. Malchijah the ſon of Harim] There were two called Harim whoſe children came with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.32,39. There were alſo two of that other name that ſealed the covenant, Nehem.10. 5,27. This Harim was of the Prieſts; for ſo was his ſon Malchijah, ch.12.42.

and Haſhub the ſon of Pahath-Moab] Of Pahath-Moab ſee Ezr,2.6. Either this Haſhub had an hand in repairing two parts of the wall, or there were two of this name. See v.23.

repaired the other piece] Heb. ſecond meaſure. This hath reference either to theſe two here mentioned, and implyeth that one repaired one piece, and another the other; or elſe to Hattuſh v.10. and implyeth that theſe two repaired ſuch a meaſure as he did.

and the tower of the furnaces] As in other parts of the wall there were towers, v.1. ſo in this. This is called the tower of the furnaces, becauſe there were ſhining lights therein for a Sea-mark, or a land-mark, in the night-time, which made it appear as a furnace with flaming fire in it. Or there might be under it, or by it, furnaces for melting metals, or other like uſes.

V.12. And next unto him repaired Shallum the ſon of Halloeſh] There were children of Shallum that returned with Zerubbabel, Ezra 2.42. and there was one of this name who ſealed the covenant, Ezr. 10.42. who might be this man.

the ruler of the half-part of Jeruſalem] See v.9.

he and his daughters] Either his daughters in their holy zeal might put their hands to the work, carrying away rubbiſh, or bringing materials; or elſe having portions, might be content to let part of them go towards the repair of the wall.

V.13. The valley-gate] This is the fourth gate now built. See ch. 2.13.

repaired Hanun] Either this man repaired two parts, or there were two of this name that helped on the work. See v.30.

and the inhabitants of Zanoah] Zanoah was a city of Judah, Joſh. 15.34. and it may be this Hanun was Governour thereof, and ſo the inhabitants under him were aſſiſtants to him in this work.

they built it, and ſet up the doors thereof, &c.] See.v.3.

and a thouſand cubits on the wall] Beſides the valley-gate.

unto the dung-gate] This is that gate which led to the dung-port, ch 2.13. and was the fifth gate in the wall.

V.14. But the dung-gate repaired Malchiah the ſon of Rechab] The Rechabites were a family of great note and name among the Iſraelites: See 2 King.10.15. Jer.33.2. There was another Malchiah, or elſe this Malchiah repaired two parts. See v.31.

the ruler of part of Beth-haccerem, &c.] A city of Benjamin, Jer.6.1.

V.15. But the gate of the fountain] See ch.2.14. This was the ſixth gate.

repaired Shallum the ſon of Col-hozeh] This Col-hozeh had another ſon, namely Baruch, ch.11.5.

the ruler of part of Mizpah] See v.7. The ruler of another part of this city was Ezer, v.19.

he built it, and covered it, &c.] The gates had rooms over them, and in that reſpect were covered with roofs. See v.3.

and the wall of the pool of Shiloah by the kings garden] The Kings garden was planted by it, which made it the more pleaſant: and thence it was called the kings pool, ch.2.14. In this part of the wall might be that tower which fell, Luc. 13.4. This was the pool to which Chriſt ſent the blind man, Joh.9.7.

and unto the ſtairs that go down from the city of David] The city of David being on mount Zion, was higher then ſome part of Jeruſalem, 2 Sam.5.7. therefore ſtairs were made for a more eaſie deſcent from it into the lower parts of Jeruſalem, and into the Temple. See ch.12.37.

V.16. After him repaired Nehemiah the ſon of Azbuk] This was another Nehemiah then he that carrieth the title of this book. For they had different fathers, ch.1.1.

the ruler of the half-part of Beth-zur] A city of Judah, Joſh.15. 58. repaired by Rehoboam, 2 Chr.11.7. It was divided into two parts, of one whereof this Nehemiah was ruler.

unto the place over againſt the ſepulchres of David] There was one famous Sepulchre wherein David himſelf was buried, Act.2.29. There were alſo others, made for his ſons, kindred, or houſhold, and called the Sepulchres of David. The deſcription of this place ſheweth that he here ſetteth forth the wall about Zion the city of David, which was within the circuit of Jeruſalem; and in it was both the Temple and the Kings Palace.

and to the pool that was made] The pool of Shiloah was a natural pool, not made by the art of man; but this is ſuppoſed to be that which Hezekiah made, 2 King.20.20. It is called the old pool, Iſa. 22.11. and the upper pool, 2 King.18.17.

unto the houſe of the mighty] This was a garriſon where captains and ſouldiers, which were mighty men of valour, lodged.

V.17. After him repaired the Levites] As the Prieſts had their ſhare of building the wall, ſo alſo the Levites had theirs.

Rehum the ſon of Bani] One Rehum came up with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.2. but it is probable that this was he who ſealed the covenant, ch.10.25. There were children of Bani alſo that came up, Ezr.2.10. Alſo there were ſons of Bani that put away their ſtrange wives, Ezr.10 34.

Next unto him repaired Haſhabiah] This might be he that with other Levites came to Ezra, Ezr.8.19.

the ruler of the half-part of Keilah in his part] Keilah was a city of Judah, Joſh.15.44. which David ſaved from the Philiſtims, 1 Sam. 23.1, &c. It was divided into two parts, of one whereof Haſhabiah was Governour. See v.18.

V.18. After him repaired their brethren] Theſe were other Levites then thoſe mentioned v.17.

Bavai the ſon of Henadad] There were ſons of Henadad that helped on the building of the Temple, Ezra 3.9.

the ruler of the half-part of Keilah] This was the other part. See v.17.

V. 19. And next to him repaired Ezer the ſon of Jeſhua] Ezer was a Prieſt, ch.12.42. This Jeſhua might be he that is mentioned, Ezr.2.36.

the ruler of Mizpah] See v.15.

another piece] This hath relation to v.20. See v.11.

over againſt the going up to the armory] This was a ſtrong place where arms and all ſorts of ammunition were laid up.

at the turning of the wall] See 2 Chr.26.9.

V.20. After Baruch the ſon of Zabbai] Or Zaccai. Baruch was one that ſealed the covenant, Neh.10.6. Zabbai was among them that put away their wives, Ezra 10.28. And there were of the children of Zaccai that returned with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.9.

earneſtly repaired] The word tranſlated earneſtly ſignifieth to be angry, or to kindle and inflame. Some take it as if Baruch had been angry with himſelf becauſe he began no ſooner; others, that he ſtirred up his ſpirit. This emphatical particle is put upon his work, becauſe he ſhewed more then ordinary zeal therein.

the other piece] This hath reference to v.19.

from the turning of the wall] There Ezer left, v.19. and Baruch began.

unto the door of the houſe of Eliaſhib the high Prieſt] See v.1. Eliaſhib being high Prieſt had a fair and remarkable houſe joyning to the wall, which was as a mark of the end of one mans work, and the beginning of anothers, v.21.

V.21. After him repaired Merimoth the ſon of Urijah the ſon of Koz] See v.4. This is that Merimoth who had a charge of the ſilver, gold, and other things that Ezra brought, Ezr.8.33. There were children of Koz that came with Zerubbabel, Ezra 2.61.

another piece from the door of the houſe of Eliaſhib] See v.20.

even to the end of the houſe of Eliaſhib] All along the back-ſide thereof. For it ſtood within the wall, all along by it.

V.22. And after him repaired the Prieſts, the men of the plain] i.e. ſuch of the Prieſts as dwelt in the plain of Jordan and Jericho. See Gen.13.10. Deut.34.3. 1 King.7.46. Zech. 7.7. There is mention of the plain countrey round about Jeruſalem, ch. 12.28.

V.23. After him repaired Benjamin] Or, after them, and ſo it hath relation to the Prieſts, v.22. Benjamin is here the name of a particular man then living.

and Haſhub] There is mention of one Haſhub before, v.11.

over againſt their houſe] Theſe men had houſes in Zion, and repaired the wall neer them.

After him repaired Azariah the ſon of Maaſeiah, the ſon of Ananiah, by his houſe] The progenitors of Azariah were men of good account, and thereupon both father and grandfather are here ſet down. Azariah alſo having a houſe by the wall choſe to build that part which was next it.

V.24. After him repaired Binnui the ſon of Henadad] Some make Binnui and Bevai to be the ſame man. They might rather be ſons of the ſame father.

another piece from the houſe of Azariah] Where Azariah left, Binnui began.

unto the turning of the wall, even to the corner] There were many turnings of the wall, and corners; and ſo this phraſe is again uſed. See v.19. The latter phraſe is an expoſition of the former.

V.25. Palal the ſon of Uzai] There is no where elſe mention of theſe two men.

over againſt the turning of the wall] See v.24.

and the tower which lyeth out from the kings high houſe] It is thought this was the Kings chief houſe, built in that place where Solomon built his royall Palace, 1 King.7.1. There was a Tower before it.

that was by the court of the priſon] i.e. the open yard by the priſon. There is oft mention of the court of the priſon joyning to the Kings houſe, Jer.32.2. & 33.1. & 37.21. & 39.15.

After him, Pedaiah the ſon of Paroſh] Here ſomething is underſtood, as, repaired.

V.26. Moreover the Nethinims dwelt in Ophel] Or, the tower of Ophel. See 2 Chr.27.3. & 33.14. Here aſo ſomething is to be underſtood, thus, the Nethinims that dwelt in Ophel built. Of Nethinims ſee 1 Chr.9.2. Ezra 2.43.

unto the place over againſt the water-gate toward the Eaſt] This is the ſeventh gate. There was ſome watercourſe whereby the city was ſupplyed with water through that gate, and therefore it was called the water-gate. Mention is again made of this gate ch.8.1. & ch. 12.37. it is ſaid to be Eaſt-ward.

and the tower that lyeth out] Namely from that water-gate; for the gates had towers by them. The Nethinims dwelt here, becauſe their office was to carry wood and water for the houſe of the Lord. See Joſh.9.27.

V.27. After them the Tekoites repaired another piece] See v.5. Some of them repaired one part, others another. Some hold that the common-people firſt repaired, but now the Prieſts of Tekoa.

over againſt the great tower that lyeth out, even unto the wall of Ophel] This tower is that mentioned v.26. The wall by it was called the wall of Ophel. This ſheweth that the Tekoites began where the Nethinims ended.

V.28. From above the horſe-gate repaired the Prieſts] This was the eighth gate now built. There is mention of a way by which the horſes came into the kings houſe, 2 King.11.16. That way is ſuppoſed to be this Horſe-gate, and thereupon this name to be given to that gate. Others ſay that to that gate men might ride toward the Temple, but no farther. There their horſes uſed to be left; and from thence whether they were mean or great, they went on foot to the Temple. Others ſay it was called the horſe-gate, becauſe that men on horſeback rode in and out at that gate, or becauſe thorough that gate horſes went to watering. Names uſed to be given to gates by reaſon of ſomething neer, at or thorough the gates.

every one over againſt his houſe] The Prieſts (at leaſt many of them) had houſes in the City: and for their better defenſe every one was willing to repair the wall againſt the ſame.

V.29. After them repaired Zadok the ſon of Immer] There were very many children of Immer that came from Babylon, Ezr.2.37.

over againſt his houſe] Zadok, as other Prieſts had done before him, built ſo much of the wall as lay along by his houſe.

After him repaired alſo Shemaiah the ſon of Shechaniah] Shemaiah was one of thoſe for whom Ezra ſent, Ezr.8.16.

the keeper of the Eaſt-gate] It is conceived this was the Eaſt-gate of the Temple: for they entred into it on the Eaſt, 1 King.6.3.

V.30. After him repaired Hananiah the ſon of Shelemiah] Or after me. In the Hebrew there is a double reading, one in the text, another in the margin. That in the text ſpeaketh of Nehemiah in the firſt perſon. Here is not ſet down what he built, but it is ſuppoſed that he built the Palace, or a faire ſpacious houſe for judgement, where all ſorts of people might meet together, and ſo much of the wall as paſſed all along by it. It is expreſly ſaid that he himſelf continued in the work of the wall, ch.5.16. and that half of his ſervants wrought in the work, ch.4.16. But becauſe it concerned himſelf, in modeſty he here forbeareth to expreſs what and how much he built. There is the ſame reading, after me, v.31. By this it appeareth that Hananiah and the others named here, and Malchiah v.31. began to repair where Nehemiah left. This might be that Hananiah who ſealed the covenant, ch.10.23. or he who was ruler of the palace, ch.7.2. See v.8.

and Hanun the ſixth ſon of Zalaph] We do not read elſewhere of Zalaph: But by this it appeareth that he had many ſons; of which this was the ſixth: And if the reſt were now living, this was the beſt.

another piece] See ch.11.19.

After him repaired Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah] Meſhullam was one of thoſe for whom Ezra ſent, Ezra 8.16.

over againſt his chamber] As other Prieſts had built the wall over againſt their houſes, v.28. ſo he built againſt his chamber. For Prieſts and Levites had chambers without the Temple, 1 King.6.5.

V.31. After him] Or, after me. See v.30.

repaired Malchiah] See v.14.

the goldſmiths ſon] This diſtinguiſheth this Malchiah from the former. Of goldſmiths ſee v.8.

unto the place of the Nethinims and of the Merchants] Theſe dwelt near together. Of Nethinims ſee 1 Chr 9.2. Merchants have been in all ages of great uſe, and ordinarily attain to great eſtates. See 1 King.10.15,28.

over againſt the gate Miphkad] This name is no where elſe to be found. It ſignifieth command, or a viſitation, or a muſtering or numbring. Thus it is uſed 2 Sam.24.9. Some think it was a place where a Council ſate to order matters of State; others, that which is called the priſon gate ch.12.9.

and to the going up of the corner] Or, the corner-chamber. As there were corners in the wall, ſo likewiſe chambers in them. This was a corner-chamber about the foreſaid gate.

V.32. And between the going up of the corner unto the ſheep-gate] At the Sheep-gate they began, v.1. and here at the Sheep-gate they end: which ſheweth that they had now built up the wall round about.

repaired the goldſmiths and the merchants] See v.8 & 31. Here have been eight gates mentioned: I. the Sheep-gate, v.1. II. the Fiſh-gate, v.3. III. the Old-gate, v.6. IV. the Valley-gate, v.13. V. the Dung-gate, v.14. VI. the Fountain-gate, v.16. VII. the water-gate, v.26. VIII. the Horſe-gate, v.28. In other places mention is made of four other gates; Ephraim-gate, ch.12.39. 2 Kin.14.1. which looked towards Ephraim. Benjamin-gate, Jer.37.13. which led out into the tribe of Benjamin, or was in that tribe; for Jeruſalem was part in Judah, part in Benjamin. The priſon-gate, ch.12.39. Priſons were wont to be in gates. The corner-gate, 2 Kin.14.13. Jer.31.38. Zec.14.10. which was at a corner of the wall, whence they might look two wayes. Adde theſe four to the other eight, and there will be twelve gates of this City, as there be of the new Jeruſalem, Rev.21.12. There are other names of gates, but they were the gates of the courts of the Temple; as, the gate of Sur, 2 King.11.6. called alſo the High gate, 2 King.15.35. The New gate, Jer.36.10. The gate of the foundation, 2 Chr.23.5. There was alſo the Kings gate, 1 Chr.9.18. and the gate Shallecheth, 1 Chr.26.16.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. B*ut it came to paſs*] In this chapter is ſet forth the ſcorn of the Jews adverſaries at what the Jewes did, and their endeavour to hinder their progreſs on the one ſide, and Nehemiahs care to encourage the people on the other.

that when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall] So famous a matter could not be concealed from him. See ch.2.10,19.

he was wroth] The good ſucceſs of Gods Church ſtirs up anger in the adverſaries thereof.

and took great indignation] This is added as an aggravation of his wrath: He was out of meaſure diſcontented, and exceedingly ſcorned what was done.

and mocked the Jews] See ch. 2.19.

V.2. And he ſpake before his brethren] Brethren are here taken in a large ſenſe, for his countrey-men, fellow-citizens, fellow-governours and kindred. Wheniſoever he was in company with any of theſe, he would ſcornfully ſpeak of the Jews.

and the army of Samaria] Such ſouldiers as lay there in garriſon, and were to keep the inhabitants of Samaria in ſubjection to the Kings of Perſia.

and ſaid, What do theſe feeble Jews?] This is ſpoken not in pity but in contempt. He had no ſpiritual eyes to behold the power of God aſſiſting them, but onely looked upon them with carnal eyes, and ſo thought them to be no conſiderable perſons, but very weak and impotent. This he ſaith to encourage the enemies of the Jews againſt them, that they ſhould not be afraid by reaſon of the wall that was in building.

will they fortifie themſelves?] Heb. leave to themſelves. Will they leave any thing to themſelves that they may truſt unto? Some apply this to the enemies, q.d. Should they that have a charge given them by the King, leave theſe, and ſuffer them to go on?

will they ſacrifice?] This is added becauſe the Jews were wont by ſacrifices to dedicate their great buidings, and other works, when they were done. Here Sanballat ſcoffed at that pious practice.

will they make an end in a day?] This is ſaid in relation to the ſpeed the Jews made. For many of them undertaking the building of the wall, it was the ſooner diſpatcht. Here Sanballat implyeth that ſuch was the fear of the Jews, that if they did not finiſh the work ſuddenly, they could not at all finiſh it, there being ſo many to hinder them.

will they revive the ſtones out of the heaps of the rubbiſh which are burnt?] q.d. The Jews attempt a matter above any probability or poſſibility of effecting. The ſtones of the former wall were by the Babylonians beat to rubbiſh, and all the combuſtible matter of the walls and gates burnt with fire. Sanballat therefore thought that they muſt put life into that which was dead, and create anew that which was conſumed with fire, if they would build up their walls again.

V.3. Now Tobiah the Ammonite] See ch.2.10.

was by him, and he ſaid] Sanballat and Tobiah were both of the ſame envious and malicious mind againſt the Jewes; thereupon Tobiah anſwereth the ſcoffs of Sanballat with another ſcoff.

Even that which they build, if a fox go up, he ſhall even break down their ſtone-wall] He reſembleth the ſtone-wall which the Jews built to a wall of earth, and that ſuch an one as a fox may ſoon ſcrape down. Hereby they would ſhew that they need not fear the Jews ſpeedy endeavours in making up their wall, becauſe it might be ſoon broken down again. This is a bitter jeer.

V.4. Hear, O our God] By the ſcorns and contempt of the enemies Nehemiah is moved to flye to the Lord, and to plead that relation which was betwixt him and his people.

for we are deſpiſed] Heb. deſpight. i.e made a contempt, or deſpicable.

and turn their reproch upon their own head] As they ſcorn thy people, ſo let ſcorn and reproch fall upon them.

and give them for a prey in the land of captivity] This may bear a double ſenſe, according to the condition of the perſons prayed againſt. If they were ſettled in their own land, he wiſheth they might be made a prey to their enemies, ſo as to be carried away captives into another land. But if in that land they were captives, his wiſh is they might be as a prey to dogs or wild beaſts, and devoured by their enemies.

V.5. And cover not their iniquity] i.e. Let not this abominable ſin be clean paſſed over without executing juſt vengeance upon them for the ſame.

and let not their ſin be blotted out from before thee] This is a metaphor taken from a creditors croſſing and blotting out a debt, that ſo it may never be exacted of the debtor, nor pleaded againſt him: And it ſetteth out Gods free and full pardon of ſin, Iſa.45.25.Pſal.51.1,9. In juſt indignation this holy man, ſtirred up with zeal of Gods glory, imprecates vengeance upon proud, ſcornful, implacable enemies of God and his Church. And theſe imprecations are rather for exemplary puniſhments upon them then for their eternal condemnation. Yet I will not deny but that the Prophets, by that Divine Spirit wherewith they were aſſiſted, might diſcern ſome perſons to be utterly rejected of God. Imprecations of holy men recorded in Scripture are ſharp two-edged tools, not for every ones handling. When Chriſts Diſciples would have commanded fire (as Elijah did, 2 King.1.10.) to come down from heaven to conſume the Samaritans, he rebuked them, and ſaid, Ye know not of what ſpirit you are, Luke 9.54,55. Particular imprecations againſt particular perſons are not for every ſpirit, but for ſuch extraordinary ſpirits as Prophets & Apoſtles had. Yet thus far may every faithfull ſpirit teſtifie his holy zeal in this kind of imprecation, by an indefinite extending it againſt ſuch as are indeed miſchievous and irreconcilable enemies of the Church. Beſides, though we may not make an imprecation againſt a particular perſon, yet againſt his miſchievous practice we may. Imprecations, like this of Nehemiahs, are many in Scripture, as Jer.18.3. Pſal.109.14. 2 Tim.4.14.

for they have provoked thee to anger before the builders] Thee is not in the Hebrew: So as this may be applyed to others as well as to God. If it be applyed to God, it implyeth that the reproch which is laid upon Gods ſervants in doing of his work is laid upon God himſelf. Thus he ſheweth that it was Gods glory, and not any ſelf-reſpect, that ſtirred up his ſpirit againſt thoſe adverſaries. Applyed to others it may carry this ſenſe, that theſe two adverſaries had provoked ſundry others againſt the builders, to diſhearten them; or this, That they had provoked ſome builders againſt other builders that were before them. Every way it ſheweth the miſchief theſe adverſaries did by their ſcoffs.

and all the wall was joyned together] Though there were ſeverall undertakers of the work, yet they made the wall every where ſo entire and knit together as if the ſame workmen had done all.

unto the half thereof] He meaneth the half of the height of the wall, from the foundation of the middle of it.

for the people had a mind to work] Where there is a willing mind much will quickly be done.

V. 7. But it came to paſſe that when Sanballat and Tobiah] See ch.2.10.

and the Arabians] Of whom Geſhem, a ſpitefull enemy of the Jewes, was Governour, ch.2.19.

and the Ammonites] Of whom Tobiah was Governour, ch.2.10.

and the Aſhdodites] Aſhdod was one of the Principalities of the Philiſtims, who were alwayes deadly enemies to the Iſraelites. See on Amos 3.9.

heard that the walls of Jeruſalem were made up] Heb. that health (or remedy) aſcended upon the walls. See 2 Chr.24.13. Jer.8.22.

and that the breaches began to be ſtopped] Thoſe which the Babylonians of old had made.

then they were very wroth] As Sanballat was, v.1.

V.8. And conſpired all of them together] They did not onely inwardly diſdain that the work went forward, and in words ſcoff at the ſame, but they now proceed by open hoſtile acts to undo what the Jews had done, and to hinder their further progreſſe.

to come and to fight againſt Jeruſalem] They ſaw the work ſo go on as they thought it high time by force of arms to hinder it.

and to hinder it] Heb. to make an errour in it. It may have reference to a perſon as well as to a thing: q.d. to make him to erre, meaning Nehemiah; as if they would bring him to ſuch a ſtreight as he ſhould not know what to do; or make him flee and leave the work.

V.9. Neverthleſs, we made our prayer unto our God] Or, therefore we prayed. Oppoſition of enemies makes believers flye to God. For they know he can confound their enemies, and protect and proſper them.

and ſet a watch] True believers will not neglect means, though they truſt in God, and call upon him.

againſt them] Thus this relative hath reference to the enemies. But it may be tranſlated over them, or by them; and then it hath reference to the workmen that laboured on the wall. Both ſenſes tend to the ſame end, namely, To keep the workmen ſafe from their enemies.

day and night] The enemies ſought all advantages they could againſt them, and that day and night; therefore they would be as careful continually to keep themſelves ſafe.

becauſe of them] Heb. from the face of them. That the enemies might not at unawares ſet upon them. Some tranſlate it for fear of them.

V.10. And Judah ſaid] i.e. ſuch men of Judah as had the overſight of the work, or laboured therein; They complained.

The ſtrength of the bearers of burdens is decayed] By that labour that they have already taken.

and there is much rubbiſh] Which lyeth in the way. This they alledged becauſe it was an hindrance to them in the work, and might be a means for the enemy to ſcale the walls.

ſo that we are not able to build the wall] To go through with that which remained to be done for perfecting the work. This could not but adde much to Nehemiahs care and grief, that the workmen themſelves ſhould ſo mutter.

V.11. And our adverſaries ſaid] They ſpake it among themſelves; but by ſome that heard it it came to Nehemiahs ears.

They ſhall not know, neither ſee] They thought ſo to carry the matter as the Jews ſhould have no intelligence of their purpoſe before it were accompliſhed: For they would come ſo ſecretly, either in the night-time, or not like to armed enemies, as they would unawares and unexpectedly ſurpriſe them.

till we come in the midſt among them] Even into the midſt of their city; or, of the place where the workmen are together.

and ſlay them] Namely, ſuch as are about the work.

and cauſe the work to ceaſe] Where workmen are taken away the work cannot go on.

V.12. And it came to paſs that when the Jews which dwelt by them came] There were Jews mixed with the Samaritans, who though they joyned not with their brethren, yet ſo far favoured their cauſe as they would not ſuffer them to be ſuddainly ſurpriſed.

they ſaid unto us ten times] i.e. many times, For a ſet number is oft put in Scripture for an indefinite number.So Gen.37.41. Num. 14.22. Job 19.3. Dan.1.20.

From all places whence ye ſhall return unto us, they will be upon you] Or, that from all places you muſt return unto us. This is that intelligence which their brethren gave them: The former reading implyeth that the enemies would in every place ſet ſcouts and ſpies, ſo as there ſhould be no eſcaping of the workmen from them. The Jews that brought this intelligence ſpeak as thoſe that were in the city with Nehemiah and others that had the care of the city, and in that reſpect uſe this word us, as being of their number, and direct their ſpeech to the workmen, intimating that when the workmen ſhould upon any occaſion come into the city, the enemies would ſurpriſe them,be it day or night. The latter reading implyeth that the workmen muſt be careful to come to them in the city when they leave their work for refreſhing or reſt, if they deſire to be ſafe; or otherwiſe the enemy would ſoon ſurpriſe them. Some thus interpret it, Take heed, and be watchful about all thoſe places whereby the enemy may come to us.

V.13. Therefore ſet I in the lower places behind the wall, and on the higher places] Heb. from the lower parts of the place, &c. Upon the foreſaid intelligence Nehemiah taketh care to prevent the plots of his enemies in every place. By lower places he meaneth the ground, and particularly, the deſcent of the hill; by higher places, the upper ground, and alſo towers and forts, whence they might deſcry the enemies, and annoy them before they came at them.

I even ſet the people after their families] Every one by the chief of his own houſe, that ſo they might be the more helpfull one to another.

with their ſwords, their ſpears, and their bows] Under theſe three kinds all warlike inſtruments, offenſive and defenſive, are compriſed.

V.14. And I looked, and roſe up] When I had taken a view of ſuch as were preſent, I quickned up my ſpirit, and went to them.

and ſaid unto the Nobles, and to the Rulers, and to the reſt of the people] See ch.2.16. He ſpeaks to thoſe that had command over others, to encourage them cheerfully to lead on thoſe that were under their command; and he ſpeaks to the reſt, readily to heaken to their commanders.

Be not ye afraid of them] Fear of an enemy muſt be removed before he can couragiouſly be withſtood.

Remember the Lord] He encourageth them by the ſame argument whereby himſelf was encouraged, Confidence in God.

which is great and terrible] God is great in power to protect thoſe that truſt in him, and terrible againſt all their enemies.

and fight for your brethren] Thoſe that came from the ſame ſtock, and are of the ſame profeſſion.

your ſons and your daughters, your wives and your houſes] Mens care for theſe is oft greater then for themſelves.

V.15. And it came to paſs, when our enemies heard that it was known unto us] Mens care and diligence in defending themſelves oft makes enemies afraid to attempt any thing againſt them, Luke 12.39. But ſecurity makes enemies bold, Jud.18.7,28.

and God had brought their counſel to nought] All plots and practiſes are nothing which are againſt the counſel and will of God.

that we returned all of us to the wall] By this it appeareth that fear of the enemy made them for a while intermit their work, and ſtand upon their defenſe: Wherein they dealt prudently.

every one unto his work] To that task which he had undertaken, or which was impoſed upon him.

V.16. And it came to paſſe from that time forth] After that they had heard of the enemies conſpiracy, v.8. and of the diſappointment of their plot, v.15.

that the half of my ſervants wrought in the work] Though he were a governour, and might have kept his ſervants to have attended his perſon, yet in this common, publick, neceſſary work he cauſeth them to have a ſhare, and to work as well as others. See ch.3.30.

and the other half of them held] He ſuffers none of them to be out of employment; but either they work, or guard ſuch as wrought.

both the ſpears, the ſhields, and the bowes, and the habergeons] See 2 Chr.26.14. Theſe four ſorts are ſynecdochically put for all offenſive and defenſive weapons. So v.13.

and the rulers were behind all the houſe of Judah] To direct and encourage them, and to ſignifie to them what danger was approching.

V.17. They which builded on the wall] Maſons, and other workmen.

and they that bare burdens] Labourers and porters, who were of the meaner ſort.

with thoſe that laded] Such as filled baskets with rubbiſh, or laid burdens on other mens ſhoulders.

every one with one of his hands wrought in the work] This is to be underſtood of ſuch things as could be done with one hand; but ſuch work as required both hands was done with both.

and with the other hand held a weapon] That ſo they might be ready to defend themſelves and reſiſt the enemy, if he ſhould ſuddenly ſet upon them. The main intent of this is to ſhew that they neither neglected the work nor their own defenſe. They were ſo well prepared as if in working they had had every one a weapon in his hand. Their weapons lay by them, and were as ready for their uſe as if they had held them in their hand.

V.18. For the builders, every one had his ſword girded by his ſide] Heb. on his loyns. For ſwords uſe to hang on mens loyns.

and ſo builded] With their ſwords by their ſides. This was no hindrance to them. Hereby is expounded that which is noted v.17. The holding of a weapon with their hand may be the hanging of a ſword by their ſide, or laying other weapons by them.

and he that ſounded the trumpet was by me] Nehemiah had the chief command of all: And having his ſcouts and ſpies every where, to ſee where an enemy appeared, and to bring him word, by ſound of trumpet he could ſoon give warning to all the people that were working or watching on the wall, to arm and ſtand upon their defenſe.

V.19. And I ſaid unto the Nobles, &c.] See v.14.

The work is great and large] For it was the compaſſing of a very ſpacious city round with a high and thick wall.

and we are ſeparated upon the wall, one far from another] Some wrought on one part, ſome on another, according to the diviſions ch.3.

V.20. In what place therefore ye hear the ſound of the trumpet] Though they were in divers parts one far from another, yet ſo loud is the ſound of a trumpet as they might hear it in the moſt remote part.

reſort you thither unto us] There was the guard ſet, there was their rendez-vous to be, there they were to joyn all their forces together, and in an entire body ſtand againſt the enemy. For he would be there where the enemy made his approch.

our God ſhall fight for us] This manifeſted his own confidence in in God, and hereby he ſtirred up the people to be couragious and confident: which they might well be upon this ground, If God be for us, who can be againſt us? Rom.8.31. Hereby Moſes encourageth his people, Exod.14.14. Deut 1.30. & 3.22. By their reſorting together and their confidence in God it appears that they who place their confidence in God may and ought to uſe means; and in uſing means we may and ought to place our confidence in God.

V.21. So we laboured in the work] Though their fear of the enemy made them prepare againſt him, yet it made them not lay the work clean aſide.

and half of them held the ſpears] This hath reference to the ſervants of Nehemiah, v.16.

from the riſing of the morning till the ſtars appeared] All day long, while the people were working, or while there was any fear that the enemy would approch.

V.22. Likewiſe at the ſame time ſaid I unto the people] He gives direction for their ſafety after the work was ended.

Let every one with his ſervant] Hereby are meant both ſuch maſters as had ſervants, and alſo workmen with their labourers.

lodge within Jeruſalem] This is to be underſtood of the time that the wall was in building; that they ſhould not rove up and down in the countrey, and be ſevered one from another.

that in the night they may be a guard to us] This queſtionleſſe was to be done by courſe. Some were to watch one night, ſome another.

and labour on the day] Namely, after that in the night-time they had had ſome comfortable refreſhing.

V.23. So neither I] Though he were the Governour, yet he ſpared not himſelf; but what he required of others, he was willing, ready, and forward to put himſelf on unto. See ch.5.16.

nor my brethren] Such as were fellow-officers with him.

nor my ſervants] Such as are mentioned v.16.

nor the men of the guard which followed me] Becauſe he undertook to have an eye upon the enemy, and to obſerve his approches, he had alwayes a company of ſouldiers attending him, which were as a guard unto him.

none of us put off our clothes] In this extraordinary caſe they were extraordinarily watchful; inſomuch as they ſlept in their clothes, and did not put them oft in the night-time, to go to bed.

ſaving that every one put them off for waſhing] Or, every one went with his weapon for water. Here are two readings ariſing from the ambiguity of the Hebrew words. שלחו Shilcho, which is tranſlated putting off, ſignifieth a weapon; and the word tranſlated waſhing ſignifieth water. Our Tranſlators conceive that this laſt clauſe is added to ſhew, that notwithſtanding they oft ſlept in their clothes, yet they were careful of cleanlineſs; and therefore they uſed to put off their clothes ſo oft as need required to waſh them. Or if by any occaſion they had contracted any legal uncleanneſſe, they would put off their clothes to waſh them, or to waſh themſelves, according to the Law, Levit.14.8,9. & 15.16. & 22.6. The other reading makes this a diſtinct clauſe by it ſelf, They went with their weapon for water. They ſo feared the enemy as they durſt not go out of the city, no not to fetch water, without a weapon, or without armour. In this ſenſe the caſe of the Jews here was like that Judg.5.11. when the noiſe of archers was in the places of drawing water. Others that take the word Shilleco in this ſenſe, underſtand it of every ones providing himſelf with armour and food, putting water for all manner of food.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd there was*] In this chapter Nehemiahs care for the good of Iſrael is further ſhewn, by his freeing the oppreſſed, and by his own bounty.

a great cry] This cry or complaint was the rather now made becauſe the people were ſo held to the publick work as they were forced to neglect their particular affairs, and providing for themſelves.

of the people] The poorer ſort.

and of their wives] Wives may well be ſenſible of their husbands wants, ſeeing they and their children are brought unto want thereby.

against their brethren the Jews] i. e. the rich ſort. This title brethren is given them to aggravate their oppreſſion: They were brethren to thoſe whom they oppreſſed. Thus is this word oft uſed, eſpecially in the Law, Lev.25.25, 35,39,47. Deut.15.7.

V.2. For there were that ſaid] Here are three diſtinct complaints made by ſeveral perſons. The firſt here followeth.

we, our ſons, and our daughters are many] This is premiſed as an aggravation of the oppreſſion. God had bleſſed them with a numerous iſſue, but oppreſſion had made that bleſſing an heavy burden.

therefore we take up corn for them] i.e. they were forced to put out their children to be ſervants for food: They exchanged them for ordinary proviſion. Thus much is expreſſed v.15. It appears to have been a cuſtome for creditors to take a mans children for his debt, 2 King.4.1. Mat.18.25.

that we may eat and live] This ſhews there lay a neceſſity upon them to let go their children after that manner. They did it meerly for a livelihood.

V.3. Some alſo there were that ſaid] This is the ſecond complaint.

we have morgaged our lands, vineyards and houſes] Such was the neceſſity of the people that what they had they were forced to let go. And ſuch things as are morgaged are commonly let go upon leſs price then they are worth.

that we might buy corn] Either to ſow ſuch land as they had, or for the ſuſtenance of themſelves and their families.

because of the dearth] This aggravateth the hard-heartedneſs of the oppreſſors; They took advantage from the inſtant judgement to get other mens inheritances.

V.4. There were alſo that ſaid] Here is a third complaint.

we have borrowed money for the kings tribute] Though the Kings of Perſia gave the Jews liberty to return to their own land, yet they exacted tribute of them. See Ezr.4.13. Onely the Miniſters of Gods houſe were exempted, Ezr.7.24.

and that upon our lands and vineyards] Theſe that made this third complaint were of better ability then the former. For it ſeemeth theſe were able to provide for themſelves and families: but that was all they could do. The Kings tribute lay as a heavy burden upon them: And the wealthier Jews would not aſſiſt them, but let them their money upon uſe, v.7. and took their lands and vineyards for pawns.

V.5. Yet now our fleſh is as the fleſh of our brethren] By fleſh they mean their perſons. And the compariſon here betwixt fleſh and fleſh hath relation to the ſtock from whence they all came, namely Abraham. By brethren the richer ſort are meant, as v.1. The meaning is, Though they were poor, yet they were of the ſame lineage that the richer were of, and in that reſpect ought not to be in bondage to them. See Deut.15.7,8. Fleſh alſo may indefinitely be taken for humane nature, as Iſai. 58.7. Acts 7.26.

our children as their children] i.e. as free as theirs, and therefore ought not to be bond-ſervants, Lev.25.39, &c.

and lo] That which was done by the rich ones, being directly againſt the Law, ſeemed very ſtrange.

we bring into bondage our ſons and our daughters to be ſervants] They had no means to prevent this. Either they muſt ſubject them to that baſe condition, or ſtarve.

and ſome of our daughters are brought into bondage already]. This is added as a great aggravation. Daughters were the weaker ſex; and being ſold to maſters, they might abuſe them at their pleaſure. Their chaſtity alſo was more in hazard.

neither is it in our power to redeem them] The Law gave liberty to redeem the children of the Jews, Lev.25.48. but theſe complain that they could have no benefit of that law, becauſe they were ſo poor as they had nothing to give for their redemption.

for other men have our lands and vineyards] See v.3. If their inheritances had remained to them, they might out of the revenues thereof have ſaved ſomewhat for the redemption of their children: but now they knew not which way to raiſe any means.

V.6. And I was very angry when I heard their cry, and theſe words] This anger was mixed with grief. He grieved at the miſery of the oppreſſed, being much moved at their cry and complaint; and he was exceedingly offended at the hard-heartedneſs and cruelty of the oppreſſors.

V.7. Then I conſulted with my ſelf] Heb. my heart conſulted in me. Though his paſſion were moved, yet he would not ſuddenly do any thing, but ſeriouſly conſidered with himſelf what was fitteſt to be done.

and I rebuked the Nobles and the Rulers] See ch. 2.16. Though they were great men, yet he ſpared not to rebuke them, and that in the caſe of poor men. This is the property of a good Magiſtrate, that ſtands in Gods ſtead, Lev.19.15.

and ſaid unto them, You exact uſury every one of his brother] This was a ſin expreſly condemned by the Law, Exod.22.25. Levit.25. 36,37. Deut.23.19. and one of the ſins that cauſed their captivity, Ezek.22.12.

And I ſet a great aſſembly againſt them] This is by moſt underſtood of their great councel called Sanedrim. He brought the oppreſſors before that grave Councel, that the authority thereof might work upon them, though they were Nobles and Rulers. Or Nehemiah might info m that Councel of the greatneſs of the ſin, and ſtir up that aſſembly to be aſſiſtent unto him in the redreſs thereof. Or this phraſe may imply that, there being a great congregation of all ſorts of people, Nehemiah did openly in the preſence of them all rebuke thoſe oppreſſors; whereby the whole aſſembly was ſtirred againſt them, and the oppreſſors themſelves made aſhamed of what they did, and brought to repentance, as v.12. and others deterred from doing the like.

V.8. And I ſaid unto them, we, after our ability, have redeemed our brethren the Jews] This was no Phariſaical brag, like that Luke 18.11,12. but a known truth; which Nehemiah here maketh profeſſion of to make them the more aſhamed of their oppreſſion, & to make himſelf an example unto them, that they might imitate him therein. To him it ſeemed not ſufficient to redreſs the wrongs which others had laid upon the backs of their poor brethren, unleſs he alſo redeemed ſuch as were in bondage, and relieved with all manner of neceſſaries ſuch as were in need.

which were ſold unto the heathen] This may be underſtood of ſuch as were ſold for bond-ſervants before they had liberty from the Perſian Kings to return to Jeruſalem. For though there were a general grant to the captive Jews to return, yet ſuch among them as were not onely captive, but alſo ſervants to any of the heathen, might not go without the leave of their particular maſters; which leave they would not grant, except they were redeemed by a price of money. Such might Nehemiah redeem, and thereby gain liberty for them to go to their own land. Or, ſome by reaſon of their extreme poverty might ſell themſelves, after they were returned out of captivity, to ſtrangers and heathen neer unto them: And Nehemiah having notice hereof might in charity redeem them and ſet them free. This was according to the Law, Levit.25. 47.48.

and will you even ſell your brethren?] Will you force them ſo to be ſubject unto you, by that money and other commodities that you let them have upon intereſt, as you may have power to ſell them to others?

or ſhall they be ſold unto us?] In humility he puts himſelf in the number of thoſe that dealt hardly with their brethren, becauſe he was now among them. His meaning is this, That they being redeemed from the heathen, & ſo made free, it was no reaſon that they ſhould be ſold and made ſervants to the Jews their brethren.

then held they their peace, and found nothing to anſwer] They were ſo convinced in their conſciences of the heynouſneſs of their offenſe, and ſo confounded with what he ſaid, as they were put to ſilence thereby, and had nothing to reply.

V.9. Alſo I ſaid, It is not good that ye do] Nehemiah obſerving them to be ſomewhat aſhamed of what they had done, deals more mildly with them, and fairly tells them that they had done amiſs, and withall directs them to redreſs the ſame.

ought ye not to walk in the fear of our God] He gives them to underſtand that what they had done could not ſtand with the true fear of God: for if that poſſeſſed their ſouls, they would rather be merciful to thoſe that were in need then cruel. See Gen.20.11. & 24.18. Rom. 3.18.

because of the reproch of the heathen our enemies] The nations among whom we live, being our enemies, and Gods enemies, will take occaſion to reproch our profeſſion, and to blaſpheme the name of our God, if we be cruel to our brethren who are ſet at liberty by ſtrangers.

V.10. I likewiſe, and my brethren] He meaneth ſuch as were appointed Governours with himſelf. See ch.4.23.

and my ſervants] Such as came with me to attend my perſon.

might exact of them money and corn] As due to us by reaſon of the command we have over the people, and the care we take for their good. Tribute and cuſtome, allowance and maintenance is due to ſuch as are in authority, Rom.13.7.

I pray you, let us leave off this uſury] v.7. This good man obſerving them to be aſhamed of their ſin, mildly perſwadeth them to leave it.

V.11. Reſtore, I pray you, to them] Reſtitution muſt be made of wrong, Lev.6.1,4. Num.5.7,&c.

even this day] Wrong found out muſt ſpeedily be redreſſed.

their lands, their vineyards, their olive-yards, and their houſes] Vineyards & olive-yards were of great uſe among the Jews, 2 King. 5.26. therefore they who had any good land turn'd a good part thereof to theſe uſes. Under theſe four kinds are compriſed whatſoever a man had to pawn, morgage or ſell away. Theſe Nehemiah would have freely reſtored without repaying the debt for which they were morgaged.

alſo the hundredth part of the money, and of the corn, the wine and the oyl, that ye exact of them] His meaning is that they ſhould reſtore all that they had taken upon uſe: for they uſed to take the hundredth part of what they lent every moneth; as, if they lent five pounds (which is an hundred ſhillings) they had twelve ſhillings a year; if an hundred pounds, twelve pounds. That which they had thus received for intereſt, they were to reſtore again; and that in kind, whether it were money, or any other commodity. For theſe four, Money, Corn, Wine, Oil, are put for all manner of commodities that were given for intereſt.

V.12. Then ſaid they] They who were touched in their heart for their ſin.

We will reſtore them] That which they had taken for intereſt.

and will require nothing of them] No not that which we lent upon the morgage.

ſo will we do as thou ſayeſt] This ſheweth that Nehemiah intended that they ſhould reſtore their pawns without exacting their debt.

Then I called the Prieſts] This was a matter of conſcience, and it was about confirmation of a thing by an oath; therefore the Prieſts were called to give advice in this caſe, and to bear witneſs to the truth and equity thereof, and alſo to make tender of the oath which was to be taken, and to work the greater aw in them that took it. For the preſence of the Prieſts did in a ſpecial manner repreſent God himſelf.

and took an oath of them] Some refer them to the Prieſts, and thereupon infer that ſome of them were guilty of the foreſaid oppreſſion, and that Nehemiah called them to him in private, and tendered an oath unto them to do what was promiſed before by the people. But that relative particle is beſt referred to the rich men, who had oppreſſed, and promiſed to make reſtitution.

that they ſhould do according to this promiſe] Nehemiah feared leſt in his abſence they ſhould return to their former exactions and oppreſſions: Therefore he would hereby reſtrain them. The like courſe we read to be taken by Aſa, who bound his people by covenant and oath to do their duty, 2 Chr.15.12,13,14. This was a pious and prudent courſe.

V.13. Alſo I ſhook my lap] This rite he uſed the more ſtrongly to bind them to what they had promiſed. It is ſomewhat like that which Chriſt commanded his Diſciples, Luke 9.5. and which was uſed by the Apoſtles, Acts 13.51. Such another did S. Paul uſe, Act.18.6. and another not much unlike did Ahijah uſe, 1 King. 11.29. Though theſe ſeveral caſes be different, yet the rites are anſwerable one to another.

and ſaid, So God ſhake out every man] It ſeemeth he had ſomewhat in his lap or skirt of his garment, which he clean ſhook out.

from his houſe] Let him be clean caſt out of his own houſe, as one that hath nothing to do with it.

and from his labour] From the benefit of all that he had gotten by his pains and induſtry.

that performeth not this promiſe] That v.12. By this it appeareth this was not a ſimple imprecation againſt any for that which he had done, but rather a ſtrong bond to reſtrain men from doing the like, implying a denunciation of Divine vengeance againſt them if they returned to their former ſin.

even thus be he ſhaken out] This repetition addes the greater terrour.

and emptied] Heb. empty, or void. Let him be made deſtitute of every thing that might do him good.

And all the congregation] Both thoſe that were guilty of the ſin, and others alſo, even ſuch as were oppreſſed, and ſuch as heard the caſe.

ſaid, Amen] Amen importeth a full conſent to that whereunto it is added. The tranſgreſſors that ſaid Amen, ſhewed an unalterable reſolution to perform what they had promiſed; and thereupon they were content to bind themſelves to that ſevere penalty, if they failed in their promiſe. Others by ſaying Amen ſhewed the equity of that which was intended by the imprecation.

and praiſed the Lord] The offenders praiſed the Lord, becauſe they were brought to reform their ſin; and others praiſed the Lord for that means that was uſed to relieve the diſtreſſed. Of rejoycing at a ſolemn oath ſee 2 Chron.15.14,15. Of ſaying Amen, and praiſing the Lord upon a joyfull occaſion, ſee 1 Chr. 16.36.

And the people did according to this promiſe] This hath reſpect both to their preſent, and alſo to their after carriage; and it declares the vertue of that means which was uſed for redreſſing this ſin.

V.14. Moreover, from the time that I was appointed to be their governour in the land of Judah] Here this good man, for example to others, delareth how he departed from his right, and alſo how bountiful he was to others. By the phraſe here uſed is declared that the authority he had to be a Governour in that land was given him by the King of Perſia, and that he did not uſurp it of himſelf.

from the twentieth year, even to the two and thirtieth of Artaxerxes the King] See ch.1.1. & 2.1.

that is twelve years] This time was by Nehemiahs conſent limited unto him, ch.2.4,6.

I and my brethren] See v.10.

have not eaten the bread of the governour] By bread all manner of proviſion is here meant. In all ages it was a cuſtome for people to allow proviſion to their Soveraign. See 1 King.4.7, &c. Herein therefore this good Governour let go his right; which he here alledgeth, to aggravate their ſin who exacted more then by law they ought or might have done. In times of neceſſity and caſes of extremity great ones are bound to imitate this worthy pattern. Over-ſtrict ſtanding upon a mans right may prove a great oppreſſion.

V. 15. But the former governours that had been before me, were chargable unto the people] This he addeth, in a fair manner to check the former Governours for their too ſtrict exacting of their due in thoſe neceſſitous times, and to ſhew that their practiſe was no pattern to him. This is an amplification of his goodneſs.

and had taken of them bread and wine] All kinds of proviſion are here meant, both for neceſſity, as bread, and for delight, as wine.

beſides fourty ſhekels of ſilver] Heb. after fourty ſhekels] A ſhekel in ſilver is half a Crown; fourty Shekels, five pounds ſterling. After that they had received five pounds a day, they required proviſion alſo for themſelves and families.

yea, even their ſervants bare rule over the people] Servants abuſed their maſters authority, and exacted allowance or fees for themſelves alſo.

but ſo did not I] See v.14. I did not ſuffer my ſervants ſo to do as they did theirs.

becauſe of the fear of God] See v.9.

V.16. Yea, alſo I continued in the work of this wall] See ch.3.30.

neither bought we any land] Nor he, nor any of his followers. They came to the land of Judah, not for their own advantage, but for the good of the people. The like Paul teſtifieth of himſelf, 1 Cor.9.4,15.

and all my ſervants were gathered thither unto the work] See ch. 4.16.

V.17. Moreover, there were at my table] Here he ſets down his hoſpitality, a duty much preſſed by the Apoſtles, Rom. 12.13. 1 Pet.4.9.

an hundred and fifty of the Jews and Rulers] Theſe were day after day entertained by him while he was among them. By Jews he meaneth ſuch as were of the greater ſort; by Rulers, ſuch as had authority. Which implieth that they were not entertained with bread and water, as the Prophets by Obadiah, 1 King.18.4. but with cheer fit for Rulers.

beſides thoſe that came unto us from among the heathen that are about us] Theſe were ſuch as bare good will to the Jews, and came either to be made partakers of the holy ſervices of the Lord, or to viſit Nehemiah, or were ſent as Meſſengers and Ambaſſadors from others that were their friends. His hoſpitality was extended to ſtrangers, which made it the more commendable. This is ſo acceptable to God as he ſent Angels to be entertained by ſuch, Gen.18. 1,&c. & 19.1,&c. Heb. 13.2.

V.18. Now that which was prepared for me daily] Namely, for himſelf, his ſervants, and ſuch others as are mentioned v.17.

was one ox, and ſix choyce ſheep] This was indeed a great proviſion for one houſe, but not comparable to Solomons, 1 King.4.22, 23. Without queſtion he had alſo Veals, and Goats, and other kinds of beaſts, beſides theſe: but theſe were ſtanding.

alſo fowls were prepared for me] There was variety of theſe, and therefore the expreſs kinds and number not ſet down.

and once in ten dayes ſtore of all ſorts of wine] This is to be taken of ſuch times wherein he feaſted his gueſts. He had his ſet quantity of wine every day, but on dayes of feaſting he had more then ordinary ſtore, and great variety of wines.

yet for all this required not I the bread of the governour] See v.14.

becauſe the bondage was heavy upon this people] He meaneth hereby not onely the foreſaid oppreſſions of many, but alſo the great work that lay upon them about building the wall, and other things, and their daily watchings againſt their enemies.

V.19. Think upon me, my God] Or, Remember me. This ſhews that what he did, he did in reſpect to God. His mind was fixed on his God; on him he calls to think upon him. He makes this petition, not as doubting of Gods good will to him, but as reſting on him for ſome evidence thereof. For what believers expect, they pray for; and what they pray for, with confidence they expect to receive.

for good] The word properly ſignifieth goodneſs, and ſo is tranſlated 2 Sam. 7.28. 1 King.8.66. Thus it may be taken for a property in God, and for the cauſe or ground of Nehemiahs faith and hope, and of all bleſſing: q.d. Think on me for thy goodneſs ſake. So Pſal.5.7. But it is alſo taken as here, for good, Gen. 50.20. Thus it ſets down the end why he would have God to think on him, namely, for ſome good, benefit or bleſſing to himſelf.

according to all that I have done for this people] That which he here pleads of his own doing, is not to be taken in reference to his own ability, but to the manifeſtation of the power of Gods ſpirit in him; which God himſelf thus expreſſeth, not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit. Neither may we think that he pleads here any merit, but meerly grace and favour, ſuch as God bare to his people. This prayer is three ſeveral times uſed ch.13. namely, v.14, 22,31.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ.1. NOw it came to paſs] In the fourth chapter is ſet down how the adverſaries of the Jews ſought by force and arms to annoy the Jews: In this is declared their cunning, fair, deceitful pretenſe, whereby they endeavour to undermine them; and withall, the prudence of Nehemiah in preventing their plots.

when Sanballat and Tobiah] See ch.2.10.

and Geſhem the Arabian] See ch.2.19.

and the reſt of our enemies heard] Many are ſtill ready to take part with the Churches adverſaries, 1 Cor.16.9.

that I had builded the wall] It was built to the half before the enemies made open oppoſition, ch.4 6. but through Gods bleſſing on his peoples watchfulneſs and diligence it was now finiſhed, notwithſtanding all their oppoſition.

and that there was no breach left therein] Though ſeveral perſons undertook their ſeveral part, yet they ſo all agreed where to begin and where to end, that the whole wall was as entire as if the ſame men had undertaken all. The breaches began to be ſtopped, ch. 4.7. Here all is finiſhed.

though at that time I had not ſet up the doors upon the gates] The lintels and door-cheeks were made, and the doors themſelves framed; onely they were not yet ſet upon their hinges: but queſtionleſſe they were ſo ſet up, at leaſt in the night-time, as no enemy could come in by them.

V.2. That Sanballat and Geſhem ſent unto me, ſaying] Here they begin their cunning devices.

Come, let us meet together] They make a ſhew of reconciliation.

in ſome one of the villages in the plain of Ono] Ono was a city of Benjamin, ch.11.35. 1 Chr.8.12. They pretend to make choice of this place, which was neer Jeruſalem, that Nehemiah might not fear danger, being in the midſt of his friends. See Ezra 2.33.

But they thought to do me miſchief] Certainly they had other conſpirators with them, which either as ſervants attended upon them, as the ten men which accompanied Iſhmael when he ſlew Gedaliah, Jer.41.2. or elſe lay hid in ſome neer place, as the Benjamites did when they caught the daughters of Shilo, Judg. 21. 20,21. They intended either to carry him away priſoner, or to ſlay him there.

V.3. And I ſent meſſengers unto them, ſaying] He ſuſpected ſome ill intent, therefore he goes not himſelf, but ſends his anſwer.

I am doing a great work, ſo that I cannot come down] There was nothing but complement pretended in the enemies meſſage, therefore weighty and urgent employments ought not to give place thereto. This was a juſt excuſe.

why ſhould the work ceaſe, whileſt I leave it and come down to you] Nehemiah was the chief agent: All things were done by his advice; and his preſence made others diligent: his abſence therefore muſt needs be a great hindrance to the work.

V.4. Yet they ſent unto me four times after this ſort, and I anſwered them after the ſame manner] Gods children ſhould be as reſolute in their purpoſes as enemies are in their plots.

V.5. Then ſent Sanballat his ſervant unto me in like manner] Before, Sanballat and Geſhem ſent a joynt meſſage together; now Sanballat alone, and that by his own ſervant, to make the meſſage the better received, and the matter the leſs ſuſpected.

the fifth time] His impudence made him think that at length he might prevail.

with an open letter in his hand] Letters uſe to be ſealed; but Sanballat ſent this open, to make Nehemiah think that it was no ſecret that he wrote of, which needed to be concealed, but a common matter every where divulged.

V.6. wherein was written, It is reported among the heathen] A common fame uſeth to be taken for a truth. Wherefore Sanballat, to ſhew that he did not write upon a meer ſuſpicion, makes common fame the ground thereof.

and Gaſhmu ſaith it] Gaſhmu is taken to be Geſhem the Arabian, v.1,2. If ſo, then fellow-conſpirators agree, one to make the other the ground of their complaint, that ſo the matter might not come to proof. Or if it came to proof, that he might be ſure of a witneſs to prove it.

that thou and the Jews think to rebell] They lay no leſs then high treaſon to Nehemiahs charge. Enemies uſe to be bold in their charging of Gods children. So Dan.6.13. Eſth.3,8. Ezr.4.13.

for which cauſe thou buildeſt the wall] That which Nehemiah intended onely for the ſafety of his people, Sanballat produceth as a ground of rebellion againſt the King.

that thou maiſt be their King] Namely, King of the Jews. At this time the Kings of Perſia were Kings of Judea, which they had reduced to a Province. This accuſation therefore is of the higheſt degree of treaſon that could be. Such a crime the Jews laid to Chriſts charge, Joh.19 12.

according to theſe words] Some refer this laſt clauſe to the firſt clauſe of the verſe, thus, Wherein was written according to theſe words. If it be referred to the matter of the letter, it implyeth, that though he might fail in ſome particular expreſſions of the report, yet in the ſubſtance of it he did not; it was to that purpoſe.

V.7. And thou haſt alſo appointed Prophets to preach of thee at Jeruſalem] Prophets were wont to declare from the Lord, in the alteration of Kingdomes, who ſhould be King; and thereby people were wont to afford much aid and aſſiſtance to ſuch an one, as 2 King.9 12,13. This made him accuſe Nehemiah of bribing Prophets to declare ſuch a thing.

ſaying, There is a King in Judah] A proper King, of their own ſtock and nation.

And now ſhall it be reported to the king] i.e. to the King of Perſia, that at this time had the juriſdiction over them.

according to theſe words] i.e. that Nehemiah affected that Kingdome.

Come now therefore, and let us take counſel together] To prevent the ſpreading of that report, leſt it ſhould come to the King of Perſia's ear. He ſeems hereby to imply that report of ſuch a matter might be prejudicial to the Samaritans as well as to the Jews, and that the King might take occaſion thereby to keep them in a more ſtreight ſubjection.

V.8. Then I ſent unto him, ſaying, There are no ſuch things done as thou ſayeſt] A clear conſcience makes men confident againſt falſe reports. It is like cold water whereinto hot iron is put, Dan. 6.22.

but thou feigneſt them out of thine own heart] He ſheweth that he was not onely free from all ſuch practices, but that there was no report of any ſuch thing ſpread abroad.

V.9. For they all made us afraid] This ſheweth the end rather then the effect of the forementioned report. See v.14.

ſaying, Their hands ſhall be weakened from their work, that it be not done] This was the conceit of the enemies, that the Jews hearing that ſuch a thing might be reported to the King, would leave off their work, and labour no more therein.

now therefore, O God, ſtrengthen my hands] He calls upon God to diſappoint the enemies plot, and to ſtrengthen what they ſought to weaken. O God is not in the Hebrew. Therefore ſome take this to to be an exhortation to Sanballat, q.d. What thou pretendeſt is falſe: therefore do not weaken, but ſtrengthen my hands. Others take it as an expreſſion of confidence; in oppoſition to the intent of the enemy; thus, They ſeek to weaken, but my hands ſhall be ſtrengthened.

V.10. Afterwards I came unto the houſe of Shemaiah the ſon of Delaiah, the ſon of Mehetabel] This Shemaiah might be one of thoſe for whom Ezra ſent to inform him about the pedegree of the Levites, Ezr.8.16. but now proved an apoſtate. He is called the ſon of Delaiah, becauſe he was of the family of that Delaiah who is mentioned 1 Chr.24.18. That which Nehemiah ſpeaketh of him v.12. implyeth that he made pretenſe of a propheticall gift; but he was a falſe prophet.

who was ſhut up] He ſhut himſelf up, to make Nehemiah think that there was ſuch danger approching as there would be no ſafety in being abroad. Prophets were wont by their own practiſes and geſtures to ſhew what would befall others; and this they did by direction from God, as Ezek.12.3, &c. Or Shemaiah might hereby ſhew that he ſhut up himſelf for devotions ſake, to pray to God for the land in general, and for Nehemiah in particular, that thus he might the rather move Nehemiah to come to him.

and he ſaid, Let us meet together in the houſe of God] He being a Prieſt might have a chamber there, 1 King.6.5. and thither he might invite Nehemiah.

within the Temple] This ſheweth what houſe of God he meant. And he doth thus expreſly ſet it down to put Nehemiah in mind of the ſafety of the place: It being ſacred none would offer violence to it.

and let us ſhut the doors of Temple] This he would do, 1. to bring diſgrace upon Nehemiah by a cauſeleſs fear. 2. to draw him from his ſervants and others that might guard him from danger. 3. To get the more power over him, and to do him the greater miſchief; for having him alone faſt ſhut up, they might bind him, or ſlay him, or do what elſe they pleaſed unto him.

for they will come to ſlay thee] He renders this reaſon to make pretenſe of the good he intended to Nehemiah, namely the preſervation of his life.

yea, in the night will they come to ſlay thee] This he addeth to prevent what might have been ſaid of the guard that Nehemiah had, and of that love that the people bare him, which would be ſufficient to protect him againſt all his enemies attempts. But in the night-time muſt uſe to ſleep; and then his enemies would come when none ſhould ſuſpect them.

V.11. And I ſaid, Should ſuch a man as I flee] He ſaith not this as careleſs of his own ſafety; but 1. in confidence of Gods protection. 2. in teſtimony of the care he had of the people; He had rather venture his life then leave them. 3. in regard of his own credit, and of his profeſſion, that neither of them might be tainted with the reproch of fearfulneſs.

and who is there that being as I am] This may have relation to that place he had at the Kings court, to that favour that the King bare him, to that government over the Jews which the King had committed to him, to that profeſſion that he had made of ſeeking their good, and to that work which he had begun amongſt them.

would go into the temple to ſave his life] Hereby he ſheweth that the good of his people and the honour of his profeſſion were dearer unto him then his life.

I will not go in] It becomes men reſolutely to forbear what they ſee unmeet to be done.

V.12. And lo, I perceived that God had not ſent him] The very matter of the temptation might make him perceive as much: For it ſavoured nothing at all of Divine counſel. Beſides, the event did further demonſtrate as much: for none of the things which Shemaiah pretended fell out.

but that he pronounced this prophecy againſt me] His word is called a Prophecy, becauſe he pretended himſelf to be a Prophet, and that that which he delivered was from the Lord. And Nehemiah ſaith it was againſt him, becauſe it tended to his diſhonour, yea and to his danger.

for Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him] Enemies can be at charge to corrupt men againſt Gods faithfull ſervants: and hypocrites may eaſily by hire be corrupted.

V.13. Therefore was he hired that I ſhould be afraid] This was the end of all the former fair pretenſes, ſo to affright Nehemiah as he might deſiſt from his good courſes.

and do ſo] As they would have me.

and ſin] Fear maketh men ſin, by omitting duty, and by committing unſeemly things.

and that they might have matter for an evil report] Saints failings will ſoon be divulged, and make others ſpeak evil of them: And this do their enemies aim at.

that they might reproch me] As a baſe, fearful coward, unworthy to have the charge of a people committed to my truſt.

V.14. My God think thou upon Tobiah and Sanballat] He deſired God to think upon himſelf, ch. 5.19. here, to think upon his enemies; but upon the one in love and mercy, upon the other in juſt revenge.

according to theſe their works] i.e. to deal with them anſwerably, even to execute vengeance upon them. See ch.4.4,5. 2 Tim.4.15.

and on the Propheteſſ Noadiah] Noadiah was the name of a man, Ezr.8.33. but here, of a woman. Women of old would take upon them to be Propheteſſes, Ezek. 13.17,18 This woman conſpired with Shemaiah, that Nehemiah might be the more deceived.

and the reſt of the Prophets] There were many that were hired, and conſpired to diſgrace Nehemiah. They are called Prophets, becauſe they pretended themſelves to be ſuch.

that would have put me in fear] See the miſchief that might have followed thereupon, v.13.

V.15. So the wall was finiſhed] This implyeth more then what is noted v.1. even the ſetting up the doors, that was then done. See ch.3.3. All the enemies could do could not hinder that work.

in the twenty and fifth day of the moneth Elul] Elul was their ſixth moneth, beginning about the eleventh of our Auguſt. The root from whence this word cometh ſignifieth nothing; And it is ſuppoſed that this name was given to this moneth, becauſe the corn being then reaped nothing remained upon the ground.

in fifty and two dayes] This was a very ſhort ſpace to diſpatch ſo great a work in in ſuch troubleſome times, there being ſo many plots and practiſes of enemies to hinder the ſame. Daniel foretold that the wall ſhould be built in troublous times, Dan.9 25. But there may be many good reaſons rendred of this ſpeedy finiſhing it: As 1. the multitude of people that ſet their hands to the work. 2. their dividing of the ſame, ſo as many parts of the wall were in building at once. 3. their great willingneſs and cheerfulneſs. 4. the helps that they had of the old wall, whereof the foundation was yet abiding, and many parts not beaten down. 5 the care of Nehemiah and other Governours to ſtir them up. 6. above all, Gods more then ordinary bleſſing and helping of them in this extremity. Theſe things duly weighed, we may well underſtand theſe fifty and two dayes of the whole time of building the wall, even from the firſt day that they ſet upon that work to the laſt; and not reſtrain it, as ſome do, to that time when Sanballat and others began ſecretly and cunningly with fair pretenſes to hinder them, v.2, &c.

V.16. And it came to paſs that when all our enemies, &c.] See ch.4.1.

and all the heathen that were about us, ſaw theſe things] Some of them might come to the city, and ſee what was done with their own eyes: others might have ſo certain intelligence thereof, as it was to them as ſure as if they had ſeen it.

they were much caſt down in their own eyes] Their own judgements convinced them of their folly in oppoſing the Jews, and they well diſcerned how they were diſappointed in all their deſigns, and ſo caſt down from their hopes.

for they perceived that this work was wrought of our God] The courage of the Governours, the diligence of thoſe that laboured in the work, and the more then ordinary ſucceſs which they had did plainly demonſtrate that the hand of God was therein.

V.17. Moreover in thoſe dayes the Nobles of Judah] See ch.2.16.

ſent many letters unto Tobiah] Heb.multiplied letters paſſing to Tobiah. Theſe certainly were ſuch as had married ſtrange wives, and had been infected with the cuſtoms of the heathen, and held too much correſpondency with the enemies of the Church.

and the letters of Tobiah came unto them] By this means as the affairs of the people of God were made known to their enemies, ſo many profeſſors were put on to ſeek the ruine of the Church.

V.18. For there were many in Judah ſworn unto him] Heb. lords of an oath to him. They bound themſelves by oath to proſecute his deſigns.

becauſe he was the ſon in law of Shechaniah the ſon of Arah] Tobiah had married Shechaniahs daughter. Arah is mentioned Ezr.2.5.

and his ſon Johanan had taken the daughter of Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah] Johanan ſon of Tobiah married the daughter of Meſhullam. This Meſhullam was one that helped to build the wall, ch.3 4. So that here we ſee the miſchief of intermarriages with heathen, and withall the hypocriſie of many who made a fair ſhew before men.

V.19. Alſo they reported his good deeds before me] This is not to be taken ſimply, as if his deeds were good; but of their account of them. And they reported them as good deeds, that Nehemiah might alſo think well of him.

and uttered my words to him] i.e. Nehemiahs directions about keeping the people to work, and yet ſtanding upon their defenſe; and the encouragement which he gave the people, ch.4.14, &c. and alſo his reſolute ſpeeches, v.11.

and Tobiah ſent letters to put me in fear] This may have reference to v.5.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ.1. N*Ow it came to paſs*] Here is ſet down Nehemiahs care of well uſing that fenſe which he had made for the city.

when the wall was built] Fully finiſhed, as ch.6.15.

and I had ſet up the doors] Hung them upon their hinges, and added locks and bars thereto, ch 3 3.

and the Porters] See 1 Chr.26.1,&c. and the Singers] See 1 Chr.25,&c. and the Levites] Such as attended the Prieſts. See 1 Chr.23.4.

were appointed] To ſerve in the houſe of God according to thoſe ſeveral orders whereinto David had diſtributed them.

V. 2. That I gave my brother Hanani] This was he that brought Nehemiah firſt word of the deſolation of Jeruſalem, ch.1.2.

and Hananiah the ruler of the palace] Some take Palace to ſignifie a Caſtle. This ſets out Hananiahs particular employment or office. The Ruler of a place is taken to be one next him that is the chief Governour, and who hath a command under him.

charge over Jeruſalem] This was a more general office, and committed to both thoſe named before.

for he was a faithfull man] One that was juſt, and every way conſcionable in the truſt committed to him.

and feared God] This is the ground of all duty. See ch.5.15.

above many] This is a great amplification of that grace that was in him. He excelled others therein.

V.3. And I ſaid unto them, Let not the gates of Jeruſalem be opened untill the Sun be hot] Till the Sun begin to ſhine. For by that time all ſorts of people would be up: ſo as if enemies came in, they might ſoon be deſcryed and reſiſted.

and while they ſtand by, let them ſhut the doors, and bar them] The firſt clauſe hath reference to ſuch as had the charge of the City, the ſecond, to the Porters, who were to ſhut the doors, and bar them. Thus the meaning is, that they who had the charge of the City ſhould ſee the inferiour Officers make all ſafe, and not being abſent themſelves about other matters leave that care to the under-officers onely. Others thus expound the words, while they ſtand by, namely, the Porters, ſhut the doors, and ſee that they be well barred.

and appoint] The word is of the ſingular number, and to be applyed to either of them, as his courſe ſhould be to watch, and over-ſee the reſt.

watches of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem] The benefit of watching redounded to the inhabitants; therefore good reaſon that that care ſhould lie upon them.

every one in his watch] In the place appointed him to watch in.

and every one to be over-againſt his houſe] Thus would they be more diligent and carefull.

V.4. Now the city was large and great] Heb. broad in ſpaces, and great. This is here ſet down to ſhew the neceſſity of keeping order in their watches: otherwiſe may parts of the city would be without guard, ſo as the enemy might unawares enter among them.

but the people were few therein] The fewer there were, the more care muſt be taken of ordering their courſes.

and the houſes were not builded] Some fair houſes were built before the Temple was finiſhed. Hag.1.4. but they were few in compariſon of the multitude that were built therein before the captivity. The greater ſort deſired to be in the countrey, where they might receive the fruit of their lands, ch.11.1,2.

V.5. And my God put into my heart] Good motions, uſeful and profitable for the Church, ariſe from Gods Spirit in men.

to gather together the Nobles, and the rulers, and the people] See ch. 2.16. & 4.19.

that they might be reckoned by genealogy] That ſo it might be known who appertained to the City, and whoſe calling lay therein; and whoſe inheritances lay in the Countrey.

and I found a regiſter of the genealogy] Genealogies of old were put into records, and laid up in publick places. See 1 Chron. 4 33.

of them which came up at the firſt] Namely, with Zerubbabel.

and I found written therein] As followeth in the next verſes.

V.6. Theſe are the children, &c.] From this place to the end of the chapter is ſet down the ſame genealogy for ſubſtance that was made in Zerubbabels time, yet here it is applyed to the perſons that were living and remained in the land of Judah in Nehemiahs time. And this is the reaſon of the differences betwixt them. See on Ezr.2.1.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd all the people gathered themſelves together as one man*] See Ezr.3.1. The cloſe of the former chapter and the beginning of this are ſo like to the things noted Ezr.2.70. & 3.1. as many refer the following hiſtory to the time of Zerubbabel. But the ſimilitude of circumſtances is no ſufficient ground to confound the ſtories. The frequent mention of Ezra here, who was not come to Jeruſalem at that time, (beſides ſundry other circumſtances) plainly demonſtrate that this hiſtory is ſet down in his due time and order.

into the ſtreet that was before the water-gate] See ch. 3.26. A ſtreet is an open place under the skie. It was taken Ezr. 10.9. for the court of the people. It may alſo be here taken for that part of the court which was near the Water-gate. Some take it for that open ſpacious place that was without the gate: But the former opinion is the more probable.

unto Ezra the Scribe] See Ezra 7.6.

to bring the book of the law of Moſes which the Lord had commanded to Iſrael] That law which God had commanded Moſes to deliver unto the people, was written, and preſerved, and there were many copies thereof. There was alſo an expreſs charge given that at ſolemn meetings it ſhould be read before all Iſrael, Deut.31.11.

V.2. And Ezra the Prieſt brought the law] The book wherein the Law was written, v.1.

before the congregation both of men and women] God hath given to both ſexes reaſonable ſouls, and made them joint-heirs of the grace of life, 1 Pet.3.7. ſo as in God there is neither male nor female, Gal. 3.28. Therefore the means of ſalvation ought to be in common afforded to both.

and all that could hear with underſtanding] Heb. that underſtood in hearing. i.e. ſuch as had attained to years of diſcretion.

upon the firſt day of the ſeventh moneth] In every moneth the firſt day was feſtival, called the new Moon, 2 King.4.23. 1 Chr. 23.31. but the firſt day of the ſeventh moneth was the more ſolemn, becauſe in it there was a memorial of blowing of trumpets, and an holy convocation, Lev.23.24. See 1 King.8.2.

V.3. And he read therein] It was the cuſtome of the Jewes to have the Law read in their publick places of meeting, Act.13.15, 27. & 15.21.

before the ſtreet that was before the water-gate] See v.1.

from the morning untill mid-day] Heb. from the light. This hath reference to reading and expounding the Law, and to bleſſing the Lord, even to all thoſe duties of piety mentioned v.6,7,8. They ſpent above five or ſix hours in thoſe holy duties.

before the men and the women, and thoſe that could underſtand] See v. 2.

and the ears of all the people were attentive to the book of the law] To that which was read out of the book. This diligent attention was a means of holy affections and devotion, v.6.

V.4. And Ezra the Scribe ſtood upon a pulpit of wood] Heb. tower of wood. The ſeat wherein he ſtood was higher then other ſeats, and made round like a tower. Such ordinarily are the pulpits wherein our Preachers exerciſe their miniſterial function.

which they had made for the purpoſe] For that uſe, that he might be the better ſeen and heard.

and beſide him ſtood Mattithiah, &c.] Here are thirteen ſet down, who were heads of the families of the Levites, and taken to be Prieſts. They ſtood by Ezra to be witneſſes of the truth of what he delivered, and to move the people the better to entertain it. Thus the Apoſtle oft joyned others with himſelf in the Epiſtles which he wrote to the Churches Gal.1.2. Phil.1.1. Col.1.1. 1 Theſ. 1.1. Of theſe thirteen there were ſix on his right hand, and ſeven on his left; and he being reckoned with the firſt ſix, both ſides were equall.

V.5. And Ezra opened the book] To ſhew that what he meant to deliver unto them, ſhould be the law of God. So Chriſt, Luke 4. 17.

in the ſight] Heb. eyes.

of all the people] That congregation mentioned v.1.

for he was above all the people] He was in the pulpit which was higher then they, v.4.

and when he opened it, all the people ſtood up] Hereby they teſtified their reverent reſpect to Gods ordinance. So 1 Kings 8.14.

V.6. And Ezra bleſſed the Lord the great God] Under this word bleſſed is compriſed both the prayer that he made for a bleſſing before he began, and alſo his praiſing of God after he had done. This epithet great is attributed to God in regard of the infiniteneſs of his Eſſence, and alſo of his Soveraignty, Majeſty, Power, Wiſdom, and other properties.

and all the people anſwered, Amen, Amen] Amen teſtified their aſſent to that which was ſaid; and the doubling of it, their heartineſs, fervency and zeal, Pſal.41.13. & 72.19. & 89.53. See 1 Chr. 16.36.

with lifting up their hands] By this outward rite they teſtified a kind of cheerfulneſs in what they did, (for men in rejoycing uſe to lift up their hands) and withall they ſhewed that what they did, they did to God, who is on high; and did all as in his preſence, Gen.14.22.

and they bowed their heads] This was a teſtimony of the lowlineſs of their hearts; and as an ordinary external rite in worſhipping God, Exod.34.8 2 Chr.29.20.

and worſhipped the Lord] This is added to ſhew the end of bowing their head. What they outwardly made ſhew of, they inwardly performed. So Gen.24.26,48. Exod.4.31. 1 Chr.29.20.

with their faces to the ground] This is an amplification of their humbling themſelves before God. See 2 Chr.7.3. & 20.18.

V.7. Alſo Jeſhua, &c.] Here are as many that were in ſeverall places diſtant from Ezra as there were ſtanding by him on each hand, v. 4. They are thirteen, ſet down alſo diſtinctly by their names.

and the Levites] Some ſo diſtinguiſh thoſe former thirteen, v.4. from the Levites, as they account them Prieſts; q.d. ſuch Prieſts, and the Levites. Others inſert this diſtinguiſhing particle, other; q.d. and other Levites.

cauſed the people to underſtand the law] There being a very great congregation now aſſembled, the Prieſts and the Levites were ſome in one place, and ſome in another; and ſo inſtructed the people as they made them to underſtand the meaning of the Law.

and the people ſtood in their place] They did abide there where the Miniſters inſtructed them, each company by it ſelf, and thus obſerved good order. They did not confuſedly run up and down, one to hear this man, and another that.

V.8. So they read in the book] There were many copies of the Law, which were called books; and each of the Miniſters had one, and read in it.

in the law of God] This is added to ſhew what book is meant.

diſtinctly] When men ſpeak ſo faſt as people cannot diſtinguiſh their words, they read not diſtinctly.

and gave the ſenſe] i.e. of the Law. They expounded it, and plainly made known the mind of God therein.

and cauſed them to underſtand] See v.7.

the reading] That which was read.

V.9. And Nehemiah, which was the Tirſhatha] See Ezr.2.63.

and Ezra the Prieſt the Scribe] See Ezr.7.6,11.

and the Levites that taught the people] Such as are mentioned v.7.

ſaid unto all the people] Some to ſome of them, others to others.

This day is holy unto the Lord our God] Is conſecrated for a feſtival day, and a day of rejoycing. See v.2. Every thing muſt be done in its ſeaſon, Eccl.3.3.

mourn not, nor weep] Neither be inwardly troubled in your ſouls, nor teſtifie grief of heart by weeping.

for all the people wept when they heard the words of the law] The Law foretold what ſins Iſrael would commit, and what judgements God would inflict thereupon, Deut.4.25, &c. & 20.15, &c. and this made the people mourn and weep: for their conſciences told them that they were guilty of ſuch ſins, and had deſerved ſuch judgements. On ſuch a ground was Joſiah much troubled, 2 King.22.11,19.

V.10. Then he ſaid unto them, Go your way] This was a friendly diſmiſſion of them, after they had tarried long hearing of the word of God, and after he had declared unto them what was meet to be done both for the preſent and for the future.

eat the fat, and drink the ſweet] This is a proverbial ſpeech, whereby is granted a liberty of eating the beſt meat, and drinking the choiceſt wine. Beaſts and fowls that are fat are counted the beſt food, Ezek.34.3. 1 Sam.28.24. 1 King.1.9. Iſa.25.6. So ſweet wine is counted the moſt delicate drink, Amos 9.13. This is a deſcription of feaſting.

and ſend portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared] Gods people of old at their feaſts ſent ſome of their cheer to others, either of courteſie, or charity; to their friends and neighbours, though not poor, as a matter of courteſie; to the poor, as a matter of charity. This diſtinction is inferred in that ſtatute of feaſting, Eſth.9.22. ſending portions one to another, and gifts to the poor. Both kinds of portions may be here meant. See Deut.16.11,14.

for this day is holy unto our Lord: neither be ye ſorry] See v.9.

for the joy of the Lord is your ſtrength] The evidences of Gods gracious favour to you, wherein you have cauſe much to rejoyce, are a great ground of encouragement and of ſtrong confidence, ſo as you may ſafely reſt thereupon, and not be unduly troubled.

V.11. So the Levites] Such as aſſiſted Ezra, and other Prieſts, v.4,7.

ſtilled all the people] It ſeems the people were not onely grieved in their ſpirits, and thereupon wept, but alſo made lamentations; in which reſpect there was ſome ſenſible diſturbance amongſt them: but by the foreſaid conſolations and directions they were both inwardly quieted in their ſpirits, and moved alſo outwardly to forbear all mournful expreſſions.

ſaying, Hold your peace] This hath relation to the expreſſions of their grief. So Exod.14.14.

for the day is holy; neither be ye grieved] See v.9. It ſeemeth they were deeply pierced in their ſouls, ſeeing they are ſo oft admoniſhed to forbear grieving, as v.9,10.

V.10. And all the people went their way to eat, and to drink, and to ſend portions] All this was according to the direction v.10.

and to make great mirth] i.e. To do what they did cheerfully, to uſe all lawfull expreſſions of rejoycing, and to render much praiſe unto the Lord.

becauſe they had underſtood the words that were declared unto them] The Law which was read, did not onely denounce judgements againſt their tranſgreſſion, but alſo promiſed grace, mercy and bleſſing to ſuch as repented, and ſet themſelves in truth to ſerve God, Deut 4.29, &c. Their diſtinct underſtanding of this made them more to rejoyce then all their good cheer.

V.13. And on the ſecond day] When the feaſt was ended. For the feaſt of Trumpets laſted but one day, Num.29.1.

were gathered together the chief of the fathers of all the people] Such as had rule and authority over others throughout the whole land, and ſuch as were heads of families.

the Prieſts and the Levites] Such among theſe as were alſo heads and governours.

unto Ezra the Scribe, even to underſtand the words of the law] Or, that they might inſtruct in the words of the law. The former reading ſheweth that they themſelves deſired to be informed in ſundry points, whereof they were ignorant. For by reaſon of the Jews long continuance in captivity they might be ignorant of ſundry law-caſes. The other reading ſhews that they deſired to be informed how they might reſolve the peoples doubts, or what remained for them and the people to do which had not been yet done.

V.14. And they found written in the law] That which followeth was one point which had not been done as it ſhould.

which the Lord had commanded by Moſes] Heb. by the hand of Moſes. See 1 King.8.53.

that the children of Iſrael ſhould dwell in booths] Lev.23.34. Deut. 16.13. Booths were cabines made of boughs, whereinto people might go, and lye and ſleep.

in the feaſt of the ſeventh moneth] This moneth began about the eleventh of our September. And this feaſt began on the fifteenth day of this moneth: ſo as there was a fortnight betwixt the former feaſt, v.10,12. and this.

V.15. And that they ſhould publiſh and proclaim] It was enjoyned by the Law that every feaſt ſhould be publickly proclaimed, for the better preparation thereto, and greater ſolemnity thereof, Levit. 23.4. Numb.10.10. Pſal.81.3.

in all their cities, and in Jeruſalem, ſaying] Notice was to be given throughout the whole land, becauſe from every part they were to appear before the Lord, Deut.16.16.

Go forth unto the mount] Where all manner of trees grow.

and fetch Olive-branches, and Pine branches, and Myrtle-branches, and Palm-branches] The branches of theſe trees were thick, and the leaves broad, and they had a fragrant ſavour, and in that reſpect fit to make booths of.

and branches of thick trees] This is added to ſhew that they were not tied ſimply and onely to thoſe trees, but had liberty to take what other trees were fit for their purpoſe. In the Law mention is alſo made of willows of the brook, and other goodly trees, Levit. 23.40.

to make booths, as it is written] See v.14.

V.16. So the people went forth, and brought them, and made themſelves booths] This ſhewes the readineſſe of the people to put that which was enjoyned them in execution.

every one upon the roof of his houſe] Their houſes had for the moſt part flat roofs, and thoſe leaded or plaiſtred, ſo as they might walk upon them, and ſet tents or booths upon them, Deut.22.8. 2 Sam. 11.2. Jer.19.13. & 32.29. Mar.2.4.

and in their tents] Theſe being diſtinguiſhed from the courts of the houſe of God, were ſuch as belonged to their own houſes, namely the houſes of Jeruſalem.

and in the courts of the houſe of God] The courts where the people were wont to ſtand when they came to appear before the Lord.

and in the ſtreet of the water-gate] See v.1.

and in the ſtreet of the gate of Ephraim] See ch.3.32.& 12.39. By theſe two ſynecdochically are meant every ſtreet, from one end of the City to the other.

V.17. And all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity] From their firſt coming, Ezr.2.1. till this time.

made booths] Some in one place, ſome in another, as v.16.

and ſat under the booths] To eat their meat and take their reſt; and that for the ſpace of ſeven dayes, while that feaſt continued.

for ſince the dayes of Jeſhuah the ſon of Nun] Or, Joſhuah. This was that valiant Conquerour who ſucceeded Moſes in the government, vanquiſhed the Canaanites, and ſetled the people in Canaan, Joſh.1.1.

unto that day] i.e. that very time when this feaſt was ſolemnized.

had not the children of Iſrael done ſo] This is not ſo to be taken as if the Iſraelites had not in all that time obſerved this feaſt; for they kept it Ezr.3.4. 1 King.8.65. and ſundry other times: But it is to be taken of the extraordinary manner of keeping it. For 1. though at other times all the males might aſſemble at Jeruſalem, and obſerve the ſeven dayes of this feaſt, offering the particular ſacrifices enjoyned every day, yet we do not read that they made ſuch booths. Neither 2. do we read of ſo great devotion as theſe here did manifeſt. The Law required that onely the firſt and the laſt day of the feaſt ſhould be an holy convocation, Levit. 23.35,36. and though on other dayes they were to offer ſacrifices, yet they might alſo do the works of their ſeveral callings: But theſe every day gave themſelves to reading and hearing the law of God, v.18.

And there was very great gladneſſe] See 2 Chr.30.21,23.

V.18. Alſo day by day, from the firſt day unto the laſt day] See v.17.

he read in the book of the law of God] See v.1,3. Such was Ezra's holy zeal as he did that on every day of the feaſt which he was bound unto onely on the firſt and laſt dayes.

and they kept the feaſt ſeven dayes] As Ezra was willing to preach, ſo the people were ready to hear every day; beſides the ſacrifices which they did on every of thoſe ſeven dayes offer up, Numb. 29.2, &c.

and on the eighth day was a ſolemn aſſembly] Heb. a reſtraint. Namely, from all ſervile works. As they kept the firſt day like a Sabbath-day, ſo they alſo ended the feaſt. This eighth day was beyond the ſeven dayes of the feaſt, yet by Law enjoyned. On this day they uſed means for obtaining pardon of all their ſins and failings, and alſo craved a bleſſing upon what they had done, and upon their after good proceedings.

according unto the manner] Which Gods word had enjoyned, Lev. 23.39. and Gods people had from time to time obſerved. Of the end of keeping this feaſt ſee Lev.23.42,43.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ.1. N*Ow in the twenty and fourth day of this moneth*] This was the next but one after the feaſt of Tabernacles was ended. For it began the fifteenth day, and laſted ſeven dayes. And on the eighth day, which was the two and twentieth of the moneth, was an holy convocation; and it was reputed to belong to that feaſt. On the three and twentieth the Iſraelites forbare to go to the aſſembly: It was a day of ceſſation. Now on the four and twentieth they again aſſembled together.

the children of Iſrael were aſſembled with faſting] This ſhews that this was a day of humiliation. And by that which followeth we may gather that they had not yet performed what they had ſolemnly covenanted, Ezr.10.3, &c. By hearing the Law expounded, ch.8.8. they came diſtinctly to underſtand how great a ſin their taking and living with ſtrange wives was, and what judgements they lay liable unto by reaſon thereof: And being deeply pricked in their hearts for the ſame, they humbled themſelves before God, and teſtified as much by faſting. See 2 Chr.20.3.

and earth upon them] By this right they acknowledged themſelves to be more worthy to be under the earth then above it, 2 Sam.1.2. To like purpoſe they put aſhes on their heads, 2 Sam.13.19. 1 Kin. 20.38. See on Eſth.4.1.

V.2. And the ſeed of Iſrael] Such as were truly Iſraelites, deſcending from Jacob, that was alſo called Iſrael, Gen. 32.28. They are commonly called children of Iſrael, and Iſraelites, Gen.32.32. Exod. 1.9. Joſh.3.17.

ſeparated themſelves from all ſtrangers] Heb. ſtrange children. Or, children of a ſtranger. Thus it may compriſe under it both ſtrange wives and the children born of them, and alſo ſuch ſtrangers as had mixed themſelves with them, and dwelt among them. See ch. 13. 3.

and ſtood] This implieth a readineſs to do their duty, and alſo a reverent manner of doing it, 1 Kin.8.14,55. Luke 18.11.

and confeſſed their ſins] See Ezra 10.1.

and the iniquities of their fathers] Fathers are here put not onely for immediate parents, but alſo for more remote anceſtors. When men continue in their predeceſſors ſins, thoſe ſins are exceedingly aggravated; and therefore there is cauſe for ſuch to acknowledge their fathers ſins. See ch. 1.6. Ezra 9.7. Dan.9.8.

V. 3. And they ſtood up in their place] Some apply this to the people, q. d. The people ſtanding up in their place, the Miniſters read. Others apply it to the Miniſters, as if there were ſeveral pulpits or ſcaffolds prepared, whereon they ſtood. In this latter reading ſomething muſt be underſtood to expreſs the perſons here meant, as the Levites, Miniſters, or the like.

and read in the book of the law of the Lord their God] See ch 8.8.

one fourth part of the day] Their day conſiſted of twelve hours, Joh.11.9. The firſt fourth part was from ſix to nine, when the morning-ſacrifice was offered up. The ſecond was from nine to twelve; and this is that fourth part which they ſpent in reading and expounding the Law.

and another fourth part] This was the third fourth part of the day, which laſted from twelve to three: And at three was their evening-ſacrifice. Thus from the morning to the evening-ſacrifice they continued the extraordinary duties here ſet down.

they confeſſed] Their own, the peoples, and their fathers ſins. Herein they were very large.

and worſhipped the Lord their God] After they had made confeſſion of ſin, they prayed to God for pardon of ſin, and for all needful bleſſings, and praiſed him for all his mercies. Theſe two, Prayer and Praiſe, are the principal parts of Gods worſhip.

V. 4. Then ſtood up] Here begins a particular exemplification of that which was ſaid in general, v.3. In the Hebrew the word is of the ſingular number, he ſtood up, but it is uſed here for the plural, and hath an emphaſis, implying that every one of the perſons following ſtood up on his own diſtinct place.

upon the ſtairs of the Levites] Or, ſcaffold. Hereby is meant a place higher then the people, ſuch an one is called a pulpit, ch.8.4. It is called the ſcaffold of the Levites, becauſe it was prepared for them.

Jeſhua] Here are eight named, who ſtood in eight ſeveral places. Four of theſe are mentioned ch.8.7. And Jeſhua, Bani, Sherebiah, Hodijah. And it is probable that the eight here were the very ſame that are ſet down v. 5. Five of them carry the very ſame names, but three have different names. Bunni is ſuppoſed to be called alſo Haſhabnia; The ſecond Bani, Hodijah; and Chenani, Pethahiah.

and cried with a loud voice unto the Lord their God] i. e. both with fervency of ſpirit and extention of voice. Indeed ſometimes this metaphor cry ſignifieth onely an earneſt prayer of the heart, Exod.14.15. 1 King.22 32. Sometimes it is alſo applied to both, heart and voice, as 2 Sam. 19.4. Matth.27.46. Joh.11.43. Act.7. 60. and here.

V. 5. Then the Levites] Some of theſe might be Prieſts; for the title Levites is oft given alſo to Prieſts, becauſe they came all from Levi.

Jeſhua, &c.] See v.4. Jeſhua and Kadmiel might be the father and ſon ſet down ch.12.24.

Stand up] This is ſpoken to the people, who are ſaid to ſtand up, v.3. But this phraſe here implieth a quickning of their ſpirits to the duty required.

and bleſs the Lord] See 1 Chr.29.20.

your God] See 1 King.8.61.

for ever and ever] See 1 Chr.16.36. & 29.10.

and bleſſed be thy glorious Name] This is an Apoſtrophe, whereby he that ſpake turned his ſpeech from the people to God. See 1 Chr. 29.13.

which is exalted above all bleſſing and praiſe] i. e. Gods glorious Name is ſo excellent as no bleſſing and praiſe anſwerable to the excellency thereof can be given him.

V. 6. Thou] The Septuagint prefix before this prayer theſe words, And Ezra ſaid. The Vulgar Latin have the ſame words in the beginning of v.7. In the Hebrew we find no ſuch clauſe. But many Tranſlators and Expoſitors are of opinion that this prayer was uttered by Ezra. The eight Levites before mentioned might have their ſeveral companies, before whom they prayed, and read and expounded the Law. The Heads and Governours and other chief men of Judah might be in one company in the court of the Lords houſe, and Ezra made the prayer following before them: For all that great congregation could not hear one man together at once. In this prayer are ſix obſervable points; I. A deſcription of God, v.6. II. An enumeration of Gods mercies, from v.7. to 16. III. A confeſſion of ſins, from v.16. to 27. IV. A declaration of Gods juſt judgments, from v.27. to 32. V. A ſupplication for mercy, from v.32. to 38. VI. A ſolemn binding of themſelves to God by covenant, verſe 38.

even thou art Lord alone] In this verſe the greatneſs of God is ſet forth generally in relation to all creatures. The particle alone is excluſive, and ſheweth that what is here aſcribed to God, is ſo proper to him as it can be applied to no other.

thou haſt made heaven] Gen.1.1.

the heaven of heavens] See 1 King.8 27.

with all their hoſt] Under the hoſt of heaven the Angels, that in the higheſt heavens attend God, and are ready to execute his will, are compriſed, 1 King.22.19.. and alſo the Sun, Moon and Stars, which are under his command, and oft execute his vengeance, Judg.5.20. See 2 King.17.16. and 23. 5.

the earth, and all things that are therein] As Men, Beaſts, Fowls, Creeping things.

the ſeas, and all that is therein] All manner of fiſhes and other creatures that live in the waters. Under theſe three kinds all manner of creatures are comprehended.

and thou preſerveſt them all] As the former words ſet forth Gods power in creating all things, ſo theſe his providence over them, by which he ſtill worketh, Joh.5.17.

and the hoſt of heaven worſhippeth thee] This moſt properly appertaineth to the Angels and other Spirits in heaven; but it may alſo be extended to the Stars, and ſo to other creatures below them, becauſe they obſerving that order which God hath appointed them they do after their kind worſhip God.

V. 7. Thou art the Lord the God] This phraſe carrieth much emphaſis, and is applied to God by way of excellency, and excludeth all others from that dignity, 1 King.18.39. Here is ſet forth the free grace and great goodneſs of God to Iſrael in ſpecial, by a particular enumeration of his manifold mercies to their fathers, eſpecially while they were in the wilderneſs.

who didſt chuſe Abram] Gen.11.31. and 12.1. Abram was that Patriarch by whom the Iſraelites came to be a peculiar people diſtinct from others. This word chuſe ſetteth out the freeneſs of Gods grace towards him, Deut.7.6,7. and 10.15.

and broughteſt him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees] Gen.11.28,31. and 12.1. and 15.7. Here Abrams progenitors and kindred lived, Act.7.3. It was an idolatrous place; ſo as the Lord brought him from that temptation, that he might worſhip and ſerve him alone. This was his firſt mercy.

and gaveſt him the name of Abraham] See Gen.17.5.

V.8. And foundeſt his heart faithful before thee] This hath eſpecial relation to Gen.15.6. That which God found in Abraham he firſt gave him.

and madeſt a covenant with him] Gen.17.7,8.

to give the land of the Canaanites, &c.] Here are ſix diſtinct Nations ſet down, 1 Canaanites, 2 Hittites, 3 Amorites, 4 Perizzites, 5 Jebuſites, 6 Girgaſhites; under which are compriſed all the reſt whoſe land was promiſed and given to the children of Iſrael. To theſe are added the Hivites, Deut.7.1. where they are called ſeven Nations. There are others added Gen.15.19,20,21.

to give it, I ſay, to his ſeed] For it was more then four hundred years after the promiſe before thoſe Nations were vanquiſhed, Gen. 15.13. Act.7.6.

and haſt performed thy words] All the promiſes that God made were fully accompliſhed, Joſh.21.43,44,45. and 23.14.

for thou art righteous] An eſpecial part of Gods Righteouſneſs is manifeſted in keeping his word and performing his promiſes.

V. 9. And didſt ſee the affliction of our fathers in Egypt] Exod.3. 7. The ſpecial notice which God took of their miſery, and his providence in freeing them, is here meant. This is the ſecond mercy here enumerated. See v.7.

and heardſt their cry by the red ſea] Their cry was mixed with much murmuring and bitterneſs, and yet God was merciful in delivering them, Exod.14.10, &c.

V. 10. And ſhewedſt ſigns and wonders upon Pharaoh] The ten plagues of Egypt, Exod 7, and 8, and 9, and 10, and 12. are here called ſigns, becauſe they were viſible evidences of Gods diſpleaſure; and wonders, becauſe they were extraordinary, and made ſuch as ſaw or heard them much to wonder. They are called great miracles Deut.29.3.

and on all his ſervants] Such eſpecially as attended him and were of his Court.

and on all the people of his land] i. e. All manner of ſubjects; yea all that dwelt in Egypt, whether free or forreign. Gods wrath againſt Princes oft extendeth to all that belong unto them, 2 Sam. 24. 17.

for thou kneweſt that they dealt proudly againſt them] Evidences of their pride are given Exod.1.11,16. and 5.2,7,8. The high Lord will not endure the proud, Exod.18.12. Job 26.12. Pſal.31.23. and 119.21. Prov.15.25. Iſai.2.12. Jer.50.31. Jam 4.6.

ſo didſt thou get thee a Name] i. e. great glory. For Gods judgments ſet forth the glory of his power and juſtice, as his bleſſings do of his mercy and goodneſs.

as it is this day] See 1 King. 3.6. and 8.24, 51.

V. 11. And thou didſt divide the ſea before them] i. e. before the Iſraelites, Exod.14.21. This was Gods third mercy. See v.7.

ſo that they went through the midſt of the ſea on the dry land] Exod. 14.22. This much amplified the miracle, that the bottome of the Sea ſhould ſo ſoon be firm and dry. Therefore frequent mention is made hereof, Exod.15.19. Pſal. 66.6. Heb.11.29.

and their perſecutors thou threweſt into the deeps] This is meant of the Egyptians, that were drowned in the bottom of the ſea, Exod. 14.27,28. The ſame means that preſerved Gods people deſtroyed his enemies.

as a ſtone into the mighty waters] This is thus expreſſed Exod.15. 10. They ſank as lead in the mighty waters. Both a Stone and Lead are heavy, and quickly fall to the bottom of the water: So did the Egyptians.

V. 12. Moreover thou leddeſt them in the day by a cloudy pillar] Exod.13.21. This cloudy pillar was very extraordinary: For while the people abode ſtill, it covered them all over, and ſheltred them in the day-time from the parching heat of the Sun: but when they were to travel, it gathered up into the faſhion of a pillar, and went directly before them, Numb.9.15,&c. This was Gods fourth mercy.

and in the night by a pillar of fire] They did many times removed from ſtation to ſtation in the night-time, and then that very pillar was fiery, which in the day time was cloudy.

to give them light in the way wherein they ſhould go] The end of that fiery pillar was not to burn or conſume, but give light and to direct. This pillar directed them to that very place whither God would have them to go.

V. 13. Thou cameſt down alſo upon mount Sinai] This is ſpoken of Gods glorious and terrible manifeſtation of himſelf at the delivery of the Law, Exod.19.9,16,18,20. And it was the fifth inſtance of his mercy to the Iſraelites.

and ſpakeſt with them from heaven] The place from whence God ſpake was high, and the people ſaw no image, Deut.4.11,12. therefore God is ſaid to ſpeak from heaven.

and gaveſt them right judgments and true laws] Heb. laws of truth. This Hebraiſm is emphatical, and ſheweth that there is no falſhood, no error, no miſtake, no imperfection in the laws of God.

good ſtatutes and commandments] They are all very good in themſelves, Rom. 7. 12. and the end is good for which God gave them, to wit, to be a means of attaining to life. See 1 King.2.3.

V. 14. And madeſt known unto them thy holy Sabbath] The Sabbath was inſtituted at the beginning of the world, but being much neglected and forgotten, God ſolemnly made it known on mount Sinai, Exod. 20. 8, &c. and oft preſſed the obſervation thereof, Exod.31.14,15. Levit.23.3.

and commandedſt them precepts, ſtatutes and laws] The former ſtatutes and laws may have reference to the Moral law delivered on mount Sinai; theſe, to the Ceremonial and Judicial laws.

by the hand of Moſes thy ſervant] See 1 King 8.55,56.

V. 15. And gaveſt them bread from heaven for their hunger] This was Gods ſixth mercy here reckoned up. This bread was extraordinary; the grain of which it was made not growing out of the earth, but coming down from the clouds. It was that which they called Manna, Exod.16.31. This was the greater bleſſing, becauſe it was given them when they were in a barren wilderneſs, and had no means to get bread, Exod.16.3.

and broughteſt forth water for them out of the rock] This was as great a miracle, and as needful as the former: For they were in a dry wilderneſs, where were no Ponds, Rivers, nor Springs; but they were ready to die for thirſt, Exod.17.1,&c. 20.2. This was the ſeventh mercy.

for their thirſt] Both this phraſe and the former, for their hunger, ſhew that Gods providence is wiſely ordered according to his peoples need, and extends it ſelf to all their needs, Phil.4.19. The four laſt mentioned bleſſings, cauſing the Iſraelites to paſs through the Read ſea, v.11. Leading them by a cloudy pillar, v.12. Giving them bread from heaven, and water out of the rock, are the more remarkable, becauſe they tended not onely to their temporal but alſo to their ſpiritual good. For the Apoſtle ſaith That they were all baptized in the cloud and in the ſea, 1 Cor.10 2. By which he giveth us to underſtand that their paſſing through the Read ſea and abiding under the Cloud were ſuch Sacraments to them as Baptiſme is to us, and ſealed up unto them the ſame ſpiritual bleſſings that Baptiſm ſealeth up unto us. Again, he ſaith of Manna and the Rock, That they did all eat of the ſame ſpiritual meat, & did all drink the ſame ſpiritual drink, 1 Cor. 10.3,4. i. e. the ſame ſpiritual meat and the ſame ſpiritual drink that we do eat and drink in the Lords Supper: For by way of expoſition he addeth, That Rock was Chriſt.

and promiſedſt them that they ſhould go in to poſſeſs the land] God made promiſe of his bleſſings before hand, to ſhew that when they fell out they were ordered by his providence. He did it alſo to try the peoples faith, hope and patience.

which thou hadſt ſworn to give them] Heb. which thou hadſt lift up thine hand to give them. Becauſe men in ſwearing lift up their hand, Gen.14.22. Therefore God thus expreſſeth his ſwearing, Deut.32.40. Ezek.36 7. The Lord, to ſtrengthen the faith of his people, bound himſelf by an oath, Heb. 6. 17. Hitherto Gods mercies to Iſrael are ſet down.

V. 16. But they and our fathers] i. e. both the Iſraelites that came out of Egypt, and other of our anceſtors after them. Here begins the confeſſion of ſins.

dealt proudly] Rebellious and obſtinate ſinners manifeſt pride of heart againſt God himſelf.

and hardened their necks] See 2 King.17.14.

and hearkned not to thy commandments] This is the ground of rebellion.

V. 17. And refuſed to obey] This implieth an obſtinacy in their diſobedience.

neither were mindful of the wonders that thou didſt among them] Gods wonders manifeſt his power, juſtice, mercy, and other properties after an extraordinary manner: The remembrance of them therefore will make men fear God, and truſt in him, according to the kind of wonders; but when men forget them, or mind them not, the uſe of them is clean loſt.

but hardened their necks] See 2 King.17.14.

and in their rebellion appointed a Captain to return to their bondage] This aggravateth their rebellion, and manifeſteth their extreme folly. And by this it ſeems that they put in execution what they incited one another to do, Num.14.4..

but thou art a God ready to pardon] Heb. a God of pardon. This Hebraiſm hath great emphaſis, and implieth that Mercy is eſſential to God, and that in forgiving none is like unto him, Mic.7.18.

gracious] Doing what thou doſt for thy own ſake.

and merciful] Pitying ſuch as are in miſery, yea ſuch as ſin.

ſlow to anger] Forbearing to execute judgment and to manifeſt wrath, even when men provoke thee.

and of great kindneſs] Beſtowing many and great bleſſings.

and forſookeſt them not] Though they forſook God by rebelling againſt his commandements, yet he withdrew not the evidences of his favour from them. Of mans forſaking God ſee 1 King.9.9. and 11.13. Of Gods forſaking his people ſee 2 King.21.14. And of Gods not forſaking his people ſee 1 King.6.13. and 8.57.

V. 18. Yea when they had made them a molten calf] Exod.32.4.

and ſaid, This is thy God that brought thee up out of Egypt] In Exod. 32. 4. they uſe the plural number, implying a plurality of Gods. Here the ſingular number is uſed to ſhew their monſtrous impiety, in accounting that calf to be their God, and in aſcribing that to it which was wrought by God.

and had wrought great provocations] This word is tranſlated blaſphemy 2 King.19.3. And to aſcribe that to an idol which is due to God is plain blaſphemy, and cannot but much provoke Gods wrath.

V. 19. Yet thou in thy manifold mercies] The greatneſs of mans ſins much amplifieth Gods mercies in forgiving them; and the greatneſs of his mercies moved him to forbear taking vengeance on ſuch as had provoked him.

forſookeſt them not in the wilderneſs] Thou didſt neither deſtroy them, as they provoked thee to do, Exod.32.10. nor didſt caſt them off from being thy people, Ezek. 20.18,19.

the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day, to lead them in the way] It continued with them ſo long as they continued in the wilderneſs, Exod.13.22.

neither the pillar of fire by night, to ſhew them light, and the way wherein they ſhould go] The ſame thing was both the pillar of the cloud and the pillar of fire: Therefore the one continued as long as the other. And ſo long as the things themſelves continued, ſo long the uſe and benefit of them to Gods people continued.

V. 20. Thou gaveſt alſo thy good Spirit] This hath reference to Gods putting his ſpirit upon the ſeventy Elders, Numb.11. Which multiplying of his Spirit upon ſo many was an evidence of his good reſpect to his people.

to inſtruct them] This was the end why the Spirit was put upon ſo many, that the people might have the more to inſtruct and inform them in the will of God; for it was a Spirit of Prophecy, Numb.11.25,26,27.

and withheldeſt not thy Manna from their mouth] Manna continued all the time they were in the wilderneſs, even till they came into Canaan, and had eaten of the corn of the land, Joſh.5.12.

and gaveſt them water for their thirſt] See v.15. This water, after it once came out of the rock, ran along like a river thorow the wilderneſs, eſpecially in thoſe places whither they travelled, and where they abode, Pſal.78.16,20. and 105.41. In this reſpect the rock, i. e. the water that came out of the rock, is ſaid to follow them, 1 Cor.10.4.

V. 21. Yea fourty years didſt thou ſuſtain them in the wilderneſs] i. e. all the while they continued there, till they came into Canaan, Joſh.5.6. God provided all things needful for them; in which reſpect he is ſaid to ſuſtain them. This was an embleme and type of Gods good providence over his Church all the time it continueth in the wilderneſs of this world.

ſo that they lacked nothing] Neither meat, nor drink, nor any other needful thing, Deut.2.7. Thus did Chriſt provide for his Diſciples while they were with him, Luk.22.35.

their clothes waxed not old] Deut.8.4. The like is ſaid of their ſhooes, Deut.29.5. This was as great a miracle as the former; to keep ordinary things from wearing, as to provide extraordinary meanes. This miracle about Clothes and Shooes was this, All the apparel and ſhooes which they brought out of Egypt with them continued as ſound and freſh, and fit for uſe all the fourty years as they were when they firſt came into the wilderneſs. But we may not think that a child continued to uſe the ſame apparel and the ſame ſhooes from his childhood to grown age, and that as his ſtature increaſed ſo his apparel and ſhooes waxed larger and longer; but when any began to outgrow their apparel and ſhooes, they layed them aſide, and took other fit for their preſent ſtature: now, thoſe which they laid aſide were as ſound and freſh as when they began firſt to uſe them; and thus they were fit for others that were of a leſs ſtature.

and their feet ſwelled not] Deut.8.4. They travelled much from ſtation to ſtation, and therefore that none of their feet ſhould ſwell was a great wonder. This particular is ſynecdochically put for other the like: namely for freedome from all maladies and diſeaſes. It is ſaid, Pſal.105.37. that when they came out of Egypt there was not one feeble perſon among their tribes: And ſo they continued all the fourty years that they were in the wilderneſs: none was ſick of any diſeaſe. Indeed multitudes of them died, and that many times ſuddenly, as Numb. 16.49. but that was not by any naturall diſeaſe, but by extraordinary judgements. So died all that died in the wilderneſſe. Aaron and Moſes died upon Gods ſpecial appointment, and not of any diſeaſe, Num.20.24,28. Deut.34.5.

V.22. Moreover, thou gaveſt them kingdoms and nations] Though this in a large acception might be extended to all the Kingdomes that the Iſraelites inherited, yet the words following reſtrain it to the Kingdomes that Moſes gave them on that ſide Jordan, Num. 21.21. & 32.33.

and didſt divide them into corners] Some refer them to the Iſraelites. Then corners muſt be taken for parts of the world, and divide for diſtribute: q.d. God did diſtribute his people into ſeverall parts, ſome into one Kingdome, others into another. Others refer that relative them to the enemies. And thus the ſenſe is, That the greater number of them being deſtroyed, ſuch as remained went, ſome into one corner, or by-place, whither they could get, others into other places.

ſo they poſſeſſed the land of Sihon] Num.21.24,25.

and the land of the king of Heſhbon] Heſhbon of old belonged to the Moabites, but was taken from them by the King of the Amorites, and by the Iſraelites from the Amorites, Num.21.26.

and the land of Og king of Baſhan] Num. 24.33,34,35. & 32.33.

V.23. Their children alſo multipliedſt thou] Hitherto have been mentioned Gods mercies to his people in the wilderneſs: Now he beginneth to declare the mercies beſtowed upon them after their coming into Canaan, Exod.32.13.

as the ſtars of heaven] This is a proverbial ſpeech ſetting out an innumerable multitude; like that, as the ſand upon the ſea-ſhore, Gen. 22.17. & 32.12. and, as the duſt of the earth, Gen.13.16. 2 Chr.1.9. It is here uſed to manifeſt the accompliſhment of Gods promiſe, Gen.15.5. & 22.17.

and broughteſt them into the land] i.e. Canaan. This God promiſed, Gen.17.8. and this the Iſraelites inherited, Joſh.14.1.

concerning which thou hadſt promiſed to their fathers] Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob are here eſpecially meant: For none of theſe did inherit the land, Act 7.5, &c. yet to every one of theſe was the promiſe made, in relation to their ſeed; to Abraham, Gen.17.8. to Iſaac, Gen.26.3. to Jacob, Gen.28.13.

that they ſhould go in to poſſeſs it] As their own inheritance, and that by the gift of the high Poſſeſſor of the whole world, who had power to diſtribute every part thereof to whom it pleaſed him.

V.24. So the children went in] The children of thoſe fathers to whom the promiſe was made, v.23.

and poſſeſſed the land, &c.] Herein conſiſted the accompliſhment of the promiſe. This was the means whereby Iſrael came to poſſeſs that land, which otherwiſe they could not have done.

the Canaanites] Under theſe are compriſed all the nations mentioned v.8. and others like unto them.

and gaveſt them into their hands] God gave the Iſraelites power over the Canaanites.

with their kings] Thoſe who are ſet down Joſh.12.9, &c.

and the people of the land] Great and mean, of all ſorts.

that they might do with them as they would] Heb. according to their will. This is not ſimply to be taken as if their own will might have been a rule unto them: for God gave ſundry directions how to carry themſelves towards them, Deut.20.10, &c. But this is ſpoken in relation to the Canaanites; They were not able to ſtand againſt the Iſraelites, or to give laws to them; but the Iſraelites utterly vanquiſhed them, and ſlew or ſaved whom they pleaſed.

V.25. And they took ſtrong cities] Num.13.29. Deut.3.5.

and a fat land] A land fertile, which abounded with all manner of good fruits, and in this reſpect by an hyperbole ſaid to flow with milk and honey, Exod.33.3. Numb.13.28.

and poſſeſſed houſes full of all goods] The inhabitants of Canaan were rich, and had their houſes well ſtored with all manner of commodities; but being ſlain, their goods were left to the Iſraelites.

wells digged] Or, ciſterns. Places fit to hold water. This was a great commodity, eſpecially in thoſe hot countries. The very names which Iſaac gave to the wells which his ſervants digged, or which they found digged, is an evidence of the great commodity which came thereby, Gen.26. 18,19,21,22.

vineyards, and olive-yards] Theſe were places both of great profit and delight. See ch.5.11.

and fruit-trees] Heb. trees of food. As Apple-trees, Pear-trees, Plum-trees, and the like.

in abundance] Not onely great men, but almoſt all ſorts enjoyed ſuch grounds. This is a great amplification of the benefit.

ſo they did eat, and were filled] This is an evidence of great plenty.

and became fat] This ſhews Gods bleſſing upon their plenty.

and delighted themſelves in thy great goodneſs] This hath reſpect to that ſweetneſs which they found in their plentifull proviſion, rather then in a cheerfull ſpirit quickened up to render thanks unto God, whoſe great goodneſs was the cauſe of that plenty they had.

V.26. Nevertheleſs] Here he returneth to an aggravation of their ſins: For the greater Gods mercies were, the more heynous were their ſins.

they were diſobedient, and rebelled againſt thee] This ſin is counted by God as witchcraft and Idolatry, 1 Sam.15.23.

and caſt thy law behind their backs] Men uſe to caſt behind their back things they regard not, Ezek. 23. 35. It implies a deſpiſing of Gods law.

and ſlew thy Prophets] 1 Sam 22.21. 1 King.19.10. 2 Chr.24.22. Murder generally is a heinous ſin, and cryes for vengeance; much more murder of Prophets, who were ſpecial Meſſengers ſent from God, Mat.21.35. & 23.37. Act.7.52. 1 Theſſ.2.15.

which teſtified againſt them to turn them to thee] Here he ſheweth the end why God ſent Prophets, and the benefit which people might have received by them: which is a great aggravation of their cruelty.

and they wrought great provocations] See v.18. 2 King.23.26.

V.27. Therefore thou deliveredſt them into the hand of their enemies] This hath relation to the time of the Judges, Judg.2.14. Here he begins to ſhew how God puniſhed the Iſraelites time after time for their tranſgreſſions.

who vexed them] Jug.2.18. & 10.8.

and in the time of their trouble, when they cryed unto thee] Judg.3.9, 15. & 4.3. & 6.6. & 10.10.

thou heardeſt them from heaven] See 1 King.8.32. 2 Chr.6.21.

and according to thy manifold mercies] See v.19.

thou gaveſt them ſaviours] i.e. temporal deliverers, ſuch as the Judges were, Judg.3.9. See 2 King.13.5. Obad.21.

who ſaved them out of the hand of their enemies] This ſhews why they were called ſaviours.

V.28. But after they had reſt] i.e. freedom from their enemies, Joſh.14.15. Judg.3.11,30. & 5.31.

they did evil again] Heb. they returned to do evil. This ſhews their ſlaviſh diſpoſition. While the judgement was on them, and they felt the burden and ſmart thereof, they could confeſs their ſin, and promiſe amendment; but no ſooner was the judgement removed, but like dogs they licked up their vomit again.

before thee] See 1 King.11.6.

therefore lefteſt thou them in the hand of their enemies] i.e. God ſuffered their enemies again to prevail againſt them, and left them in their hands.

ſo that they had the dominion over them] When God once leaves his people, their enemies will ſoon domineer over them.

yet when they returned and cryed unto thee] For in their troubles they had none to flie unto but God onely.

thou heardeſt them from heaven] Though they juſtly deſerved that God ſhould no more hear them, yet he took not that advantage to leave them in their miſery.

and many times didſt thou deliver them] Even time after time. After they had been once delivered, and again ſinned, and fell again into miſery, and again cryed, God again delivered them, and ſo again and again, many times.

according to thy mercies] This was it that moved God, his own pity and compaſſion, v.17,27. Judg.2.18. & 10.16.

V.29. And teſtifiedſt againſt them] By thy Prophets thou didſt manifeſt thy diſlike of their courſes, thy diſpleaſure againſt them, and the judgements which they deſerved.

that thou mightſt bring them again unto thy law] This is the proper end of Gods threatnings, to bring men to repentance, Amos 4.12. Jer.18.7,8.

yet they dealt proudly] See v.16.

and hearkened not to thy commandments] This is an evidence of a proud heart againſt God.

but ſinned againſt thy judgements] Judgements are taken either for effects of Gods wrath and puniſhments of ſin, Ezek.5.8. or for his righteous ordinances and commandments, in which reſpect they are oft joyned with ſtatutes, as Lev.18.5. The clauſe following ſheweth that the word here is to be taken in the latter ſenſe.

which if a man do, he ſhall live in them] Lev.18.5. This was the end of Gods commandments for which he gave them at firſt in Mans innocent eſtate, when alſo man had power to keep the ſame. But mention is made hereof ſince Mans fall, to ſhew the damage of not keeping Gods commandments, and to humble Man the more for the ſame: yea withall to ſhew that Man cannot now be juſtified and ſaved by the Law, Rom.10.5. Gal.3.12.

and withdrew the ſhoulder] Heb. they gave a withdrawing ſhoulder. This metaphor is taken from an Horſe or Ox that will not ſuffer a collar or yoke to be put upon them.

and hardened their neck, and would not hear] See 2 King.17.14.

V.30. Yet many years didſt thou forbear them] Heb. protract over them. i. e. put off the execution of judgement which they had deſerved.

and teſtified againſt them] See v. 29. 2 King. 17. 13. 2 Chron. 36.15.

by thy Spirit in thy Phophets] Heb. in the hand of thy Prophets. Or, in the miniſtery, 1 King.8.53,56. It was Gods Spirit that ſpake in the Prophets, 1 Pet.1.11. 2 Pet.1.21.

yet would they not give ear] By the ear men hear; ſo that not to give ear is to refuſe to hear.

therefore gaveſt thou them into the hand of the people of the lands] I.e. the lands where the heathen reigned, who were enemies to God and his people. Thus was God at length provoked to give them over to the power of their enemies.

V.31. Nevertheleſs] God ſuffered not the rod of the wicked for ever to lye upon the back of his people, Pſal.125.3.

for thy great mercies ſake] See v.28.

thou didſt not utterly conſume them] By ſuffering enemies wholly to deſtroy them all, or ever to hold them under their power.

nor forſake them] Clean caſt them off from being thy people.

for thou art a gracious and merciful God] See 2 Chr.30.9.

V.32. Now therefore] Here begins the ſupplication for mercy.

our God] This relation is pleaded as a motive to obtain mercy.

the great, the mighty, and the terrible God, who keepeſt covenant and mercy] See ch.5.1.

let not all the trouble] Heb. wearings. For the troubles they endured made them weary of bearing them, yea, weary of their lives.

ſeem little before thee] So as thou ſhouldſt ſuffer us to be brought in to more trouble, as if that had not been enough. His intent is, that God would be pleaſed to put an end to their trouble, and neither ſuffer them to lye longer therein, nor adde more thereto.

that hath come upon us] Heb. that hath found us. This Hebraiſm ſheweth that men ſeek not affliction, but it finds them, yea though they ſeek to avoid it.

on our Kings, on our Princes] Mens greatneſs exempts them not from Gods judgements.

and on our Prieſts, and our Prophets] Sacred functions, whether ordinary or extraordinary, procure not an immunity from puniſhment.

and on our fathers] He meaneth their anceſtors; ſo as the judgement was not onely in their dayes, but before.

and on all thy people] It was an univerſal judgement.

ſince the time of the Kings of Aſſyria unto this day] They were propetly called Kings of Aſſyria who reigned in Nineveh before Nebuchadnezzar obtained his Monarchy. In relation to them the trouble here meant may ariſe as high as Hezekiah's time, 2 King. 18.13. or as high as Pul the King of Aſſyria's time, 2 King.15.19. But the Kings of Babylon were alſo called Kings of Aſſyria, 2 Chr. 33.11. And in relation to them this hath reference to the beginning of Jehoiakims reign, 2 King.24.1.

V.33. Howbeit, thou art juſt in all that is brought upon us] They who well know God, and duly conſider their own wicked courſes, will acknowledge the juſtice of God in the judgements that he inflicteth on them, Dan.9.7.

for thou haſt done right] Gods righteous dealing with men proves him to be juſt.

but we have done wickedly] He layes the cauſe of the fearfull judgements that fell on them, upon themſelves and their own deſerts.

V.34. Neither have our Kings, our Princes, our Prieſts, nor our fathers kept thy law] Such as were puniſhed v.32. are here ſaid to have ſinned. For under theſe four particulars here mentioned the Prophets and people there ſet down are alſo compriſed.

nor hearkened unto thy commandments and thy teſtimonies] See 1 Kings 2.3. They who will not hearken to Gods word, cannot keep it.

wherewith thou didſt teſtifie againſt them] See v.29.

V.35. For they have not ſerved thee in their kingdom] i.e. in the Kingdom of Judah. This was the reaſon why God ſuffered them to be carried into another Kingdom, Deut.28.47, &c. 2 Chr.12.8.

and in thy great goodneſs that thou gaveſt them] The wickedneſs of men is much aggravated by Gods goodneſs. The greater his goodneſs, the more heynous their wickedneſs.

and in the large and fat land which thou gaveſt before them] See v.25.

nither turned they from their wicked works] Impenitency is a great aggravation of ſin, and a cauſe of judgement.

V.36. Behold, we are ſervants this day] Though the Kings of Perſia ſuffered the Jews to go out of the land of their captivity, yet they held their juriſdiction over them.

and for the land that thou gaveſt unto our fathers] This hath relation, as unto the three great Patriarchs, to whom that land was firſt promiſed, Gen.12.7. & 26.3.& 28.13. ſo to Joſhua that conquered the land, and the people in his time, Joſh.23.4,&c.

to eat the fruit thereof, &c.] To be their own inheritance, and to partake of all the commodities thereof.

V.37. And it yieldeth much increaſe unto the kings] The Kings of Aſſyria had a great part of all the fruits that the land of Iſrael yielded, though the earth were ſet, planted, ſowed, and tilled by the Jews.

whom thou haſt ſet over us] It is God that gives forreign Kings power over his people.

becauſe of our ſins] Sin makes God ſuffer his people to be ſervants to others. See v.35.

alſo they have dominion over our bodies] To make us do what ſervice they think meet.

and over our cattle] To take and uſe them.

at their pleaſure] The Kings that were over them were tied to no other law then their own will.

and we are in great diſtreſs] See ch.5.4,5.

V.38. And becauſe of all this] i.e. their diſtreſs, and the cauſe thereof, their ſin. Both theſe moved them to crave mercy, and to bind themſelves to better obedience for the future.

we make a ſure covenant] Heb. fidelity, or ſureneſs. Though the word covenant be not in the Hebrew, yet it is fitly ſupplyed. Hereby they offer to bind themſelves unto God, that they might be kept from ſtarting from their preſent holy reſolution. See Ezra 10. 3.

and write it] That it might remain upon record, to put them oft in mind thereof, and be the greater evidence againſt them if they failed in their duty.

and our Princes, Levites and Prieſts] Becauſe that which follows of the ſealing could not be done by ſuch a multitude as entred into this covenant, theſe here mentioned ſtood in the room of all, and did what they did, in all their names.

ſeal unto it] Heb. are at the ſealing, or ſealed. By reaſon of this Hebraiſm ſome conceive that the Princes, Levites and Prieſts were to ſee the covenant ſealed by all; or that the names of all that entred into the covenant ſhould be entred into the publick record, and that be ſealed up by their Princes, Levites and Prieſts.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. N*Ow thoſe that ſealed were*] Heb. at the ſealings. The Hebrew implyeth that they did not this act by deputies, but were preſent themſelves, and did it in their own perſons, but in the name of all the reſt, who by oath and execration bound themſelves thereto, v.29. In this chapter two things are ſet down: I. the perſons that ſealed the covenant, to v.29. II. the matter of the covenant, from v.29. to the end.

Nehemiah the Tirſhatha] Gr, the governour. See Ezr.2.36.

the ſon of Hachaliah] See ch.1.1.

and Zidkijah] We no where elſe read of this name.

V. 2. Seraiah] This cannot be that Seraiah from whom Ezra came, Ezra 7.1. for he was ſlain, 2 Kings 25.18,21. but he might be that Seraiah who is ſaid to be ruler of the houſe of God, ch. 11.11.

Azariah] This was one of thoſe that aſſiſted Ezra, ch.1[illegible].

Jeremiah] He was one of thoſe Prieſts that accompanied the Princes in dedicating the wall, ch.12.34.

V.3. Paſhur] Some of his ſons entred into a covenant before this, Ezra 10.22.

Amariah] He alſo entred into a covenant, Ezra 10.42.

Malchiah] He was another of thoſe that aſſiſted Ezra, ch.8.4.

V.4. Hattuſh] See ch.3.10. & 12.2. & Ezra 8.2.

Shebaniah] He was one of thoſe who inſtructed the people, and and publickly prayed in their great day of faſt, ch.9.4.

Malluch] There was another of this name who ſealed this covenant, but he was one of the chief of the people, v.14.27. One of theſe was in the number of thoſe that put away their ſtrange wives, if not both, Ezr.10.29,32. It is probable that this is he that went up with Zerubbabel, ch.12.2.

V.5. Harim] There was alſo another of this name, namely one of the chief of the people that ſealed to this covenant, v.14.27.

Meremoth] This might be he by whoſe hand the ſilver, gold, and veſſels were weighed, Ezr.8.33.

Obadiah] He was one that came up with Ezra, Ezr.8.9.

V.6. Daniel] See Ezr.8.2.

Ginnethon] This was he of whom was Meſhullam, ch.12.16. who is ſet down in the next verſe.

Baruch] He was one of thoſe that repaired the wall, ch. 3.20.

V. 7. Meſhullam] He was among thoſe who aſſiſted Ezra, ch.8.4.

Abijah] He was one that went up with Zerubbabel, ch. 12.4.

Mijamin] He alſo went up with Zerubbabel, ch. 12. 5. and was one of thoſe that put away their ſtrange wives, Ezra 10.25.

V.8. Maaziah] He alſo was one of thoſe that aſſiſted Ezra, ch.8.4.

Bilgai] We read no where elſe of this man.

Shemaiah] This was he that ſought to terrifie Nehemiah, ch. 6.10.

Theſe were the Prieſts] Namely chief fathers of the Prieſts, twenty two in all. Theſe ſealed the covenant together with Nehemiah, v.1.

V.9. And the Levites, both Jeſhua the ſon of Azaniah] This was one that inſtructed the people, ch.8.7. This particle both hath reference to v.10.

Binnui, of the ſons of Henadad] This was the father of Noadiah, to whom with others the treaſure of the Temple was committed, Ezr.8.33.

Kadmiel] Kadmiel was one of thoſe Levites who inſtructed the people, and prayed for them at their great faſt, ch.9.5.

V.10. And their brethren] Such as were Levites, and of the ſame office with the former.

Shebaniah] He likewiſe had a principall hand in ſolemnizing the faſt, ch. 9.5. There was another Levite of this name who alſo ſealed this covenant, v.12.

Hodijah] He likewiſe was one that had a great part in ſolemnizing the faſt, and inſtructing the people, ch.8.7. & 9.5.

Kelita] He was alſo among thoſe that inſtructed the people, ch. 8.7. and one of thoſe who put away their ſtrange wives, Ezra 10,23.

Pelaiah, Hanan] Theſe likewiſe inſtructed the people, ch. 8.7.

V.11. Micah, Rehob] We read not any where elſe of theſe men, or names, after the captivity.

Haſhabiah] He came up with Ezra, Ezr.8.10,24.

V.12. Zaccur] He built part of the wall, ch.3.2. and was an inſtructer of the people, ch.8.7.

Sherebiah] He alſo came with Ezra, Ezr.8.24. & 9.4.

Shebaniah] There were three of this name that ſealed the covenant; one, a Prieſt, v.4. two Levites, as here, and v.10.

V.13. Hodijah] There were two of this name that ſealed. See v. 10.

Bani] He alſo was an inſtructer of the people, ch.8.7. and had a part in the faſt, ch.9.5. It may be they were two diſtinct men.

Beninu] We read no where elſe of this man. Here are ſeventeen chief fathers of the Levites that ſealed the covenant in the name of all the reſt.

V.14. The chief of the people] Such chief heads and fathers of them as ſealed the covenant hereafter follow; in all, fourty four.

Paroſh] His ſon repaired part of the wall, ch.13.25.

Pahath-Moab] His ſon alſo repaired another part, ch. 3.11.

Elam] His ſon it was who gave good advice to Ezra, Ezra 10.2.

Zatthu] There were of his ſons that married ſtrange wives, but put them away, Ezr.10.27.

Bani] This was another then he that is mentioned v.13. For he was a Levite, but this was one of the chief of the people.

V.15. Bunni] There was a Levite of this name ch.9.4. But this was a Prince of the people.

Azgad] His ſons came up with Ezra, Ezr.8.12.

Bebai] His ſons were among thoſe that put away their ſtrange wives, Ezr.10.28.

V.16. Adonijah] There is no other mention of this man or name after the captivity.

Bigvai] One of this name, if not he himſelf, came up with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.2. and his ſons came up with Ezra, Ezr.8.14.

Adin] There were alſo of his ſons that came up with Ezra, Ezr.8.6.

V.17. Ater] See Ezr.2.16.

Hizkijah] There is no other mention of this man after the captivity. The great-great-grandfather of Zephaniah was of this name, Zeph.1.1.

Azzur] We read not elſewhere of this man.

V.18. Hodiah] Though in our tranſlation there be a little difference betwixt this name and that v. 10, & 13. yet in the Hebrew they are all the ſame. But the men muſt needs be different perſons, for the former were Levites, and this a Prince of the people, v. 14.

Haſhum] See Ezr.10.33.

Bezai] See Ezra 2.17. elſe we read no other mention of him.

V.19. Hariph] His ſons came up with Zerubbabel, ch.7.24.

Anathoth] We read not of any other man of this name after the captivity; yet it is given to a place both before and after, Joſh. 21.18. 1 King.2.26. Jer.1.1. Neh.11.32.

Nebai] We read not elſewhere of this man.

V.20. Magpiaſh] Neither do we read of this man elſewhere.

Meſhullam] This man had a part in fortifying the wall, ch.3.4.

Hezir] No mention elſewhere is made of this man.

V.21. Meſhezabeel] He was grandfather to Meſhullam, v.20. See ch. 3.4.

Zidok] This man alſo fortified part of the wall, ch.3.4. There was a Scribe of this name, ch.13.13. He may be this man.

Jaddua] There was alſo a Prieſt of this name, ch.12.11,22.

V.22. Pelatiah] We read not elſewhere of this man after the captivity.

Hanan] One of the Levites that aſſiſted Ezra was of this name, ch.8.7. Another is mentioned v.10. and another, v.26. even of the ſame rank with this man.

Anaiah] One that aſſiſted Ezra, ch.8.4. was of this name; but this man was of another tribe.

V.23. Hoſhea] There is no mention made of this name elſewhere after the captivity.

Hananiah] He had a part in repairing the wall, ch.3.8,30. There was alſo one of this name who was ruler of the Palace, ch.7.2.

Haſhub] He repaired a part of the wall, ch.3.11,23.

V.24. Hallobeſh] His ſon fortified a part of the wall, ch.3.12.

Pileha, Shobek] Of theſe two there is no mention elſewhere.

V.25. Rehum] One of this name, if not this man himſelf, came up with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.2.

Haſhabnah] We read not elſewhere of this name; but the ſon of Haſhabniah fortified a part of the wall, Neh. 3.10.

Maaſeiah] This was one of thoſe who was perſwaded to dwell at Jeruſalem, ch.11.5.

V.26. And Abijah] We read not of this man or name elſewhere after the captivity.

Hanan] There was another of this rank ſo called, v.22.

Anan] We read not elſewhere of this man.

V.27. Malluch] One of the Prieſts was of this name, v.4.

Harim] There was a Prieſt alſo of this name, v.5.

Baanah] This might be he that came up with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.2. But in that the years betwixt Zerubbabels firſt coming up to Jeruſalem and this time were very many, it is ſuppoſed that their heirs, or ſuch as ſurvived in their ſtead, are called by their names, and accounted as their perſons.

V.28. And the reſt of the people] This hath reference to the chief of the people, v.14. Thoſe chief ones ſealed the covenant; theſe other aſſented thereunto as to an act done in their names.

the Prieſts] i.e. ſuch as were under thoſe mentioned v.1--8.

the Levites, the Porters, the Singers] See Ezra 2.40,41,42. Theſe were ſuch as were under thoſe Levites, v.9--13.

the Nethinims] See 1 Chr.9.2. Their office was to do ſervice for the houſe of the Lord, therefore they uſe to be joyned with Levites.

and all they that had ſeparated themſelves from the people of the lands] This may be taken two wayes, either ſuch Jews as had married with the heathen, called the people of the land, but now had ſeparated themſelves from thoſe heathen to whom they were ſo linked; or elſe for ſuch heathen as had been brought to the knowledge of the Lord, and moved to acknowledge him to be the onely true God, and to take him for their God, and thereupon were circumciſed. Theſe were called Proſelytes, and had a right to all Gods ordinances, Exod.12.48. Theſe alſo aſſented unto this covenant.

unto the law of God] This is it whereunto all that turn from Idolatry, Paganiſm, or any other falſe way, muſt turn, and will turn, if they be truly converted.

their wives, their ſons, and their daughters] By this inſtance we ſee that women, and children who are of underſtanding, may and muſt enter into publick ſolem covenants.

every one having knowledge, and having underſtanding] Knowledge of the lawfulneſs of the thing, and underſtanding how to take it and uſe it aright. This excludes infants, ideots, and other ignorant perſons from ſacred ordinances.

V.29. They clave to their brethren] They that are mentioned v.28. agreed to the covenant which the chief Prieſts, Levites and Princes had ſealed, and would not ſtart from it.

their Nobles] See ch.2.16. Under this word they who are called the chief of the people, v.14. are compriſed.

and entred into a curſe] By an imprecation, as Heb.5.13. they bound themſelves to ſtand to the covenant.

and into an oath] Thereby they further bound themſelves, as 2 Chr.15.14.

to walk in Gods law] This ought to be the main ſubſtance of every covenant. This is it that will make Gods children readily and willingly to enter into a covenant, to bind themſelves thereto by oath and imprecation, and to be conſcionable in keeping it.

which was given by Moſes] Heb. by the hand of Moſes.

the ſervant of God] See 1 King.8.53,56.

and to obſerve and do all the commandements of the Lord] It is not enough to know and approve, unleſs we alſo do and practiſe Gods commandments, and thoſe, not ſome alone, but all.

our Lord] The former title, tranſlated the Lord, is in Hebrew JEHOVAH, and proper to God alone. The other, אדנינו ADONENU, our Lord, is oft attributed to other Lords and maſters, but here meant of Jehovah.

and his judgements and his ſtatutes] Judgements and ſtatutes joyned with commandments ſet forth all Gods laws, Morall, Judicial, Ceremonial. See 1 King.2.3. This was the generall matter of their covenant. Particular branches thereof follow.

V.30. And that we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land] This is the firſt branch. By people of the land are meant all that were not of the children of Iſrael, who onely then belonged unto the Church. By marrying their daughters to ſuch they expoſed them to Idolatry and heatheniſm, and ſo to the utter perdition of their ſouls; for wives were to dwell with their husbands.

nor take their daughters for our ſons] Women are ſore temptations to draw men away from God; witneſs Solomons wives, 1 Kings 11.4. Therefore theſe marriages were expreſly forbidden, Exod. 34.16. Deut.7.3.

V.31. And if the people of the land] See v.30.

bring ware or any victuals on the Sabbath day to ſell] This they uſed to do, ch.13.16. and the Jews could not hinder them, becauſe they were under a forrein King. Indeed they might keep them from coming into their City, as Nehemiah did, ch. 13. 19. but they could not hinder them from bringing their wares to the City.

that we would not buy it of them on the Sabbath] This was in their power; they might chuſe whether they would buy any thing of them, yea or no: and this they ought not to do, Exod. 20.10. Leuit.23.3. Deut.5.12. ch.13.17. Jer.17.21.

or on the holy day] There were certain holy dayes which the Jews were as ſtrictly to obſerve as the Sabbath, Exod.12.16. Lev.16.29. & 23.21,35. This is the ſecond branch.

and that we would leave the ſeventh year] This was the year of the Lords releaſe, Deut.15.2, In this year their land ought to lie free, and they ought not to receive any of the fruits thereof, but it was to be left to the poor and ſtrangers, Levit.25.2, &c.

and the exaction of every debt] Heb. every band. A debt is a bond that ties a man to pay it. In this year debts were to be remitted unto the poor, and not exacted, Deut.15.1, &c. This freedome of the ſeventh year was the third branch of their covenant.

V.32. Alſo we made ordinances for us] A fourth particular branch here followeth, about proviſion for maintaining the ſervices of the Temple. Becauſe the houſe of God had not now ſuch treaſures for maintaining the ſervices thereof as of old it had, (for not onely Kings, Princes, Commanders in war, and other great and rich men did uſe on ſundry occaſions to dedicate much treaſure unto it, 1 Chr.26.26,27,28. but alſo all of all ſexes did time after time contribute what they could, Mar.12.41,42.) here they make ſpecial orders to bind themſelves not onely to perform thoſe things which the Law required, but alſo in this exigency to do ſomething more.

to charge our ſelves yearly with the third part of a ſhekel] i.e. ten pence of our money. This was over and above that half Shekel which the Law enjoyned to be paid by the pole for every one, Exod.38.26. For this was an ordinance now made for this time.

for the ſervice of the houſe of our God] It was to be laid up in the treaſury for the daily uſe of the Temple, as need ſhould require.

V. 33. For the ſhew-bread] See 1 King.7.48. Here are ſet down the particular ſervices for which the contribution was given.

and for the continuall meat-offering, and for the continuall burnt-offering] See 1 King. 3. 15. Every day a burnt-offering, meat-offering and drink-offering was to be offered up, Exod.29.38, 41. And this was called the continuall meat-offering, and burnt-offering.

of the Sabbaths] Every Sabbath-day there were offerings, beſides the continuall burnt-offering, Num.28.9,10.

of the new-Moons] See 1 Chron.23.31. Theſe dayes alſo had their ſpeciall offerings, beſides the daily burnt-offering, Numb. 28.11,15.

for the ſet feaſts] There were ſundry feaſts under the Law on which there were ſolemn offerings, beſides the Sabbaths and new-Moons; as the Paſſeover, Numb.28.16,19. the feaſt of the Firſt-fruits, Num.28.26,27. the feaſt of blowing Trumpets, Num.29.1,2. the day of Reconciliation, Num.29.7,8. the feaſt of Tabernacles, in which there were great offerings for ſeven dayes together, and that on every day, Num.29.12, &c. and for the holy things] Here are meant other ſacred ſervices of the Temple beſides offerings.

and for the ſin-offerings] See 1 Kings 3.15. Such ſin-offerings are here meant as were at other times to be offered up then on the forementioned feaſt-dayes; and that as occaſion was given, time after time.

to make an atonement for Iſrael] This was the end of the forementioned ſin-offerings. See 1 Chr.6.49. 2 Chr.29.24.

and for all the work of the houſe of our God] This is a general phraſe, and compriſeth more under it then all the former; as reparations of the houſe where need ſhould require, as well as ſervices in the houſe.

V.34. And we caſt the lots] See 1 Chr.6.61. & 24.5.

among the Prieſts, the Levites, and the people] Some by the people here underſtand the Nethinims; of whom ſee 1 Chr.9.2. But the word people is ordinarily taken for all the Iſraelites except the Levites. For that that is here ſet down, there was a diviſion made into three parts: The Prieſts were to provide wood one moneth, the Levites another, and the people a third.

for the wood-offering] Wood was continually to burn upon the great Altar, Lev.6.12. Beſides, there was fire in other places, for pots and caldrons wherein meat was to be ſod, 2 Chr. 35.13. 1 Sam.2.15. Therefore very much wood was neceſſary. But we read not before this of any ſuch proviſion. It is probable that it was provided out of the common treaſury of the Temple. But that now failing, they took order among themſelves to provide it in courſes. It is called the wood-offering, becauſe it was freely given and offered to the houſe of God, and becauſe the burnt-offerings were conſumed therewith. This is the fifth branch of the covenant.

to bring it into the houſe of our God] They whoſe courſe it was to provide it, brought it to the houſe of God, there to be piled up; but the Nethinims were to hew it, and make it fit for the Altar, and to carry it to the door of the Prieſts court. See Joſhua 9. 27.

after the houſes of our fathers] The care of providing the aforeſaid wood was by the ſeveral families; one family taking the care upon them at one time, and another at another time.

at times appointed] For there were ſeaſons for cutting down the wood, and ſeaſons for carrying it.

year by year] i.e. in the fit ſeaſons of the year. This ſheweth that this undertaking was not onely for once, or for a year, but a perpetual task.

to burn upon the altar of the Lord our God] That ſo there might alwayes be fire ready for all manner of offerings.

as it is written in the law] See ch.8.14. See alſo Num.28. & 29. Exod.23.19. Lev.19.23.

V.35. And to bring the firſt-fruits of our ground] This was the ſixth branch. Under this phraſe all manner of corn is compriſed; for that grew out of their ground. Of Firſt-fruits ſee 2 Chron. 31. 5.

and the firſt-fruits of all fruit of all trees] i.e. ſuch trees as bare fruit fit to be eaten.

year by year] This is added to ſhew that they bound themſelves to a conſtant perpetual duty.

unto the houſe of the Lord] For the Prieſts and Levites, who attended the ſervices of Gods houſe.

V.36. Alſo the firſt-born of our ſons] Hereby is meant the price appointed by the law for them, Exod.13.2,13.

and for our cattel] Theſe, if clean, were to be brought to the houſe of the Lord; if unclean, to be redeemed. Exod.13.13.

as it is written in the law] Exod.13.2. Lev.23.17.

and the firſtlings of our herds and of our flocks] i.e. both of great and ſmall beaſts which were fit for ſacrifices, Deut.12.6.

to bring to the houſe of our God] There to be offered up.

unto the Prieſts] For they were to judge whether they were fit for ſacrifices or no, and alſo to offer them up.

that miniſter in the houſe of our God] This is added both to ſhew a reaſon why the firſtlings were brought to them, and alſo to put a difference betwixt thoſe Prieſts that at that time attended the ſervice, and thoſe that were abroad in the countrey. For it was not ſufficient to bring ſuch things to the Prieſts while they were in the countrey, being for that time freed from their ſervice at the Temple.

V.37. And that we ſhould bring the firſt-fruits of our dough] This was enjoyned Num.15.20,21. that the Prieſts might make cakes thereof to be offered up.

and our offerings] Such things as upon any occaſion were to be offered unto the Lord.

and the fruit of all manner of trees] Some apply this in ſpeciall to Vines and Olive trees, becauſe mention was made of all trees, v.35.

of wine, and of oyl] This is added to ſhew that they were not only to bring the firſt-fruits of the Grapes and Olives, as they were pluckt from the trees, but alſo of Wine and Oyl, after they were preſſed.

unto the Prieſts] See v.3.36.

to the chambers of the houſe of our God] i.e. thoſe chambers that were made for treaſures, to lay up firſt-fruits, tithes, and ſuch other things in. See 1 Chr.9.26. 2 Chr.31.11, &c.

and the tithes of our ground unto the Levites] For that was by the Law given them for their maintenance, Numb.18.24, &c.

that the ſame Levites might have the tithes] Namely, brought unto them, that ſo they might be ſuſtained thereby.

in all the cities of our tillage] This ſheweth that no places wherein any of the people were were tithe-free.

V.38. And the Prieſt the ſon of Aaron] All Prieſts were ſons of Aaron; but the ſingular number implyeth a ſpeciall ſon, which was the eldeſt ſon then living, and high Prieſt.

ſhall be with the Levites, when the Levites take tithes] Namely, to ſee what tithe was given; that he might the better know how to order the diſtribution of tithes, Num.18.28.

and the Levites ſhall bring up the tithe of the tithes unto the houſe of our God] This might be one reaſon why the Prieſt was to be preſent, that he might the better know how much was to be given to the Prieſts. For as the people gave the tenths of all they had to the Levites, ſo the Levites were to give the tenth part of thoſe tenths to the Prieſts.

to the chambers, into the treaſure-houſe] See v.37.

V.39. For the children of Iſrael] i.e. ſuch as were not Levites, but of other tribes.

and the children of Levi] i.e. ſuch Levites as were not Prieſts.

ſhall bring the offering of the corn] i. e. the firſt-fruits and tenths of corn.

of the new wine and the oyl] See v.37.

unto the chambers] See v.3.

where are the veſſels of the ſanctuary] Hereby are meant ſuch veſſels eſpecially as were laid up in the treaſury.

and the Prieſts that miniſter, and the porters, and the ſingers] Theſe are brought in as ſuch who had their chambers about the Temple, and were to be maintained by ſuch proviſions as were brought thither.

and we will not forſake the houſe of our God] This is the ſeventh and laſt branch of their covenant: wherein two things are implyed, I. that they would not ſo neglect to bring thoſe things that belonged to the temple, as they who ſerved therein ſhould be forced to leave and forſake the houſe of God; II. that they themſelves would not forbear to come to the houſe of God, but would frequent it at all ſuch times as they were to come thereunto.

CHAP. XI.

Verſ. 1. AND the Rulers of the people] In this chapter they are ſet down who dwelt at Jeruſalem. And firſt are mentioned the Rulers of the people, who were eſpecially they that made up the great Councel called the Sanedrim, and others that had command over the people, yea, and Nobles.

dwelt at Jeruſalem] Voluntarily offered themſelves there to dwell. It is ſaid ch. 7.4. that the city was large and great, but the people few therein. Therefore the Rulers and others hereafter mentioned, there dwelt, for the better ſafety of the City, and for the better obſerving of Gods ordinances at the Temple.

the reſt of the people alſo caſt lots to bring one of ten to dwell in Jeruſalem] Becauſe they who voluntarily offered themſelves were too few to repleniſh that large City, they ordered that every tenth man ſhould dwell there: and to take away all ſhew of partiality, and to prevent murmuring, they caſt lots, that ſo it might appear that God would have ſuch and ſuch to dwell at Jeruſalem. For by caſting lots they came to know the mind of God, Act. 1.24,25,26. See 1 Chr. 6.61. & 24.5. Fear leſt the City ſhould be beſieged and brought to great ſtraits, together with deſire of enjoying the profit and pleaſure of the countrey, made many loth to dwell in the city.

the holy city] Jeruſalem hath this ſtile becauſe the Temple was there, and all the holy ordinances of God were obſerved therein, and becauſe God had made many promiſes of his preſence there. See 1 Kings 11.13. This title is oft given to Jeruſalem, as, v. 18. Iſa. 48.2. & 52.1. Dan. 9.24. Mat. 4.5. & 27.53. Rev. 11.2. See Ezr. 9.8.

and nine parts to dwell in the other cities] And in the countrey round about.

V. 2. And the people bleſſed all the men] They prayed to God to bleſſe them, and wiſhed all ſafety and good ſucceſſe to them.

that willingly offered themſelves to dwell at Jeruſalem] By this it appears that divers of the common people, beſide others, willingly offered themſelves to dwell in the City.

V. 3. Now theſe are the chief of the province that dwelt in Jeruſalem] Judea was at this time a province, Ezr. 2.1. & 5.8. ſo as by this word province the whole land of Judea is meant. The relative theſe hath reference to v. 1,2. and to v. 4, &c.

but in the cities of Judah] All other cities beſides Jeruſalem are here meant, together with towns, villages and countrey-houſes.

dwelt every one in his poſſeſſion in their cities] In ſuch inheritances as they had received from their anceſtors, or bought with their money. There were many that dwelt in Jeruſalem who had poſſeſſions in the countrey, but they either let them out to others, or kept them for ſummer-houſes.

to wit, Iſrael] Sometimes the men of Judah are compriſed under the word Iſrael. See 1 Chr. 21.2 But ſuch of the ten tribes as for religions ſake were moved to leave their own tribes, and to dwell with the men of Judah, (as many did 2 Chr. 11.16. & 30.11.) are here moſt properly meant.

the Prieſts, and the Levites, and the Nethinims] See 1 Chr. 9.2. and the children of Solomons ſervants] See Ezr. 2.55.

V. 4. And at Jeruſalem dwelt certain of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin] See 1 Chr. 9.3. There is further added, and of the children of Ephraim and Manaſſeh] of the children of Judah, Athaliah, &c.] This catalogue of Perez is ſet down 1 Chr. 9.4. but in other names.

V. 5. And Maaſeiah the ſon of Baruch, &c.] See 1 Chr. 9.5.

V. 6. All the ſons of Perez that dwelt at Jeruſalem] Being by lot choſen to have their habitation there. See v. 1.

were four hundred threeſcore and eight] 1 Chr. 9.6. ſix hundred and ninety. For there are ſet down both ſuch as voluntarily offered themſelves, which were two hundred twenty two, and alſo ſuch as were deſigned by lot, who were theſe four hundred threeſcore and eight.

valiant men] Men of ſtrength and courage.

V. 7. And theſe are the ſons of Benjamin, &c.] See 1 Chron. 9. 7,8,9.

V. 8. Nine hundred twenty and eight] See 1 Chr. 9.9.

V. 9. And Joel the ſon of Zichri was their over-ſeer] This title implyeth a charge given him over his brethren.

and Judah the ſon of Senuah was ſecond over the city] Second implyeth an inferiour degree, but next to the firſt; ſo as Joel might be the chief Ruler, and this next to him.

V. 10. Of the Prieſts, Jedaiah, &c.] See 1 Chr. 9.10,11.

V. 12. And their brethren that did the work of the houſe] Such ſervices as belonged to the Prieſts in the houſe of God.

were eight hundred twenty and two, &c.] See 1 Chr. 9.13.

V. 13. And his brethren chief of the fathers, &c.] See 1 Chron. 9.13.

V. 14. And their brethren] See 1 Chr. 9.13.

an hundred twenty and eight] This number joyned with eight hundred twenty and two, v. 12. and two hundred fourty and two, v. 13. make up one thouſand one hundred ninety two. Theſe Prieſts were deſigned by lot to dwell at Jeruſalem. And five hundred ſixty and eight more did voluntarily offer themſelves there to dwell. All theſe make the thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore mentioned Ezr. 9.13.

and their over-ſeer was Zabdiel] He had a charge and command over them.

the ſon of one of the great men] Or, the ſon of Haggedolim. Some take this for a proper name: others take it appellatively for ſuch as were more eminent then others in parts and place.

V. 15. Alſo of the Levites, Shemaiah, &c.] See 1 Chr. 9.14.

V. 16. And Shabbethai, &c.] See 1 Chr. 9.15,16.

V. 18. All the Levites in the holy city] See v. 1.

were two hundred fourſcore and four] The number of Levites is not ſet down 1 Chr. 9.14. They were much fewer then the Prieſts, becauſe many of them were diſperſed abroad in other cities, towns, villages and houſes, to inſtruct the people.

V. 19. Moreover, the porters, Akkub, Talmon] See 1 Chr. 9.17.

and their brethren that kept the gates] Heb. at the gates, or, in the gates. They had their abode about the gates, to keep the ſame.

were an hundred ſeventy and two] Theſe by lot were choſen to dwell at Jeruſalem: Fourty more, who offered themſelves, make up the two hundred and twelve, 1 Chr. 9.22.

V. 20. And the reſidue of Iſrael, of the Prieſts, and the Levites] See v. 3.

were in all the cities of Judah, every one in his inheritance] See v. 3.

V. 21. But the Nethinims] See 1 Chr. 9.2.

dwelt in Ophel] Or, the tower. See ch. 3.26.

and Ziha and Giſpa were over the Nethinims] This Ziha might be he that came to Jeruſalem, Ezr. 2.43. or his ſon. He and Giſpa were chief commanders over the Nethinims.

V. 22. The over-ſeer alſo of the Levites at Jeruſalem was Uzzi, &c.] The parentage of Uzzi is ſet down to ſhew that he deſcended from Aſaph, a man of great note and name in Davids time.

Of the ſons of Aſaph] There were more then thoſe four, Bani, Haſhabiah, Mattaniah, and Micha, betwixt Uzzi and Aſaph; therefore he uſeth this phraſe, Of the ſons of Aſaph, meaning thereby his poſterity.

the ſingers] This ſheweth what kind of Levites are meant in the beginning of the verſe.

were over the buſineſs of the houſe of God] Theſe Singers executed their function within the houſe of God, as other Levites had a charge without, v. 16. Some ſo expound this, as if theſe Levites were to ſee ſuch things well ordered as were brought to the Temple by thoſe that were to overſee things abroad. But how ſhould this be the care of Singers, ſuch as theſe were?

V. 23. For it was the kings commandment concerning them] Some underſtand this of King David, and thoſe ordinances which he made concerning Singers and other Levites. Others of the Kings of Perſia, two of whoſe decrees we read of; one of Darius, that out of the Kings expenſes proviſion ſhould be made for Prieſts and Levites, Ezr. 6.8,9. The other of Artaxerxes, who exempted Singers and other Levites, together with the Prieſts, from all toll, tribute and cuſtome, and commanded that proviſion ſhould be made for them, Ezr. 7.12,24. So much alſo may be compriſed under the general grant of the King of Perſia to Nehemiah, The king granted me according to the good hand of God upon me, ch. 2.8.

that a certain portion [Or, a ſure ordinance] ſhould be for the ſingers, due for every day] The former reading implyeth a conſtant proviſion for them; the latter, an inviolable ordinance, either for them to do their duty daily, or to have a ſet maintenance for what they did.

V. 24. And Pethahiah the ſon of Meſhezabeel] This Pethahiah may be he who was one of thoſe that put away their ſtrange wives, Ezra 10.23, who alſo had a part in ſolemnizing the faſt, ch. 9.5.

of the children of Zerah the ſon of Judah] There was one Zerah of the tribe of Judah, whoſe ſon Achan was, Joſh. 7.1. He alſo that was born of Tamar was called Zara, Gen. 38.30. This may have reference to one of them.

was at the kings hand] Was by the King appointed, in the Kings name and ſtead, to do ſuch and ſuch things: Thus this phraſe might be applyed to one that was at Jeruſalem, though the King himſelf were in Perſia. See 1 Chr. 23.28.

in all matters concerning the people] Which the King required the people to do; whether it were paying ſubſidies, or to ſubject themſelves to ſuch Governours as the King appointed over them, or to ſuch orders as he made for maintaining the ſervices of the houſe of God.

V. 25. And for the villages with their fields] Ezra having hitherto declared who dwelt in Jeruſalem, now ſheweth what cities, towns and villages in other places of Judea were inhabited, and by what tribes.

ſome of the children of Judah dwelt at Kiriath-arba] See Joſh. 15. 54.

and in the villages thereof] Villages were certain ſmall towns appertaining unto cities, and under the juriſdiction of the governours of thoſe cities. See 1 Chr.4.32. The word tranſlated villages properly ſignifies daughters; for as daughters are under a mother, ſo were villages under their cities.

and at Dibon, and in the villages thereof] There was a Dibon in Gad, Numb.32.34. Joſh.13.17.but this was in Judah.

and at Jekabzeel, and in the villages thereof] There is no where elſe mention made of this city; but the very place ſheweth that it was in Judah.

V. 26. And at Jeſhua] This is the name of a man, 1 Chr.24.11. Ezr.2.2. but here of a city, and that in Judah.

and at Moladah] This was in Judah, Joſh.15.26.

and at Beth-phelet] Though no other mention be made of this city, we may hence infer that it was in Judah.

V. 27. And at Hazar-ſhual] See Joſh.15.28.

and at Beerſheba] See Joſh.15.28.

and in the villages thereof] See v.25.

V. 28. And at Ziglag] See Joſh.15 31.

and at Mekonah, and in the villages thereof] This alſo is to be taken to be in Judah.

V. 29. And at En-Rimmon, and at Zareah] Neither of theſe places are elſewhere mentioned.

and at Jarmuth] See Joſh.15.35.

V. 30. Zanoah, Adullam] See Joſh.15.34,35.

and in their villages] See v.25.

at Lachiſh] See Joſh.19.39. It was the head city of a kingdom before Joſhua took it, Joſh.2.11. See Iſa.36.2.

and the fields thereof] There were fair large fields about Lachiſh, (it being a frontier city) which appertained to the inhabitants: and therefore expreſs mention is made thereof.

at Azekah, and in the villages thereof] See Joſh.15.35. It was famous by the ſlaughter of five Kings and their armies, Joſh.10.11.

and they dwelt from Beer-ſheba unto the valley of Hinnom] Beerſheba was a city of Judah. See Gen.21.30.& 26.33. Of the valley of Hinnom, ſee Joſh.15.8. The word tranſlated dwelt properly ſignifieth pitch'd their tents; for the cities and houſes betwixt thoſe two places being not yet built, they placed their tents together much like a camp for the better defence one of another.

V. 31. The children alſo of Benjamin] As in the former verſes he ſet down the habitations of Judah, ſo in this and the following verſes he ſets down the habitations of Benjamin; for at the revolt of the ten tribes theſe two held cloſe to the houſe of David.

from Geba] Or, of Geba. Who appertained thereunto, or to whom it belonged. Geba was given to the Levites out of Benjamin, Joſh.21.17.

dwelt at Michmaſh] Or, to Michmaſh. The former reading importeth that they dwelt in the city; the latter, that they dwelt betwixt Geba and Michmaſh. Michmaſh was in Benjamin, Iſa.10. 28. famous by the victory which Jonathan got againſt the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.14.31.

and Aijah] No mention is elſewhere made of this city; but Aiath is reckoned among the cities of Benjamin, Iſai.10.28. and may be here meant.

and Beth-el] This city was in Benjamin, Joſh.18.22. See Gen. 28.19. and on Hoſ.10 15. It was in the out-coaſts of Benjamin, and thereupon ſurpriſed by the ten tribes in their revolt. One of their golden-calves was there ſet up, 1 King.12.29.

and in their villages] This hath reference to all the cities in Benjamin before mentioned.

V. 32. And at Anathoth] This was another city given unto the Levites out of Benjamin, Joſh.21.18. See ch.10.19.

Nob] Here alſo the Prieſts dwelt. It was made infamous by the deſtruction of the Prieſts, in Sauls time, 1 Sam.22.19.

Ananiah] There is no mention made elſewhere of this city.

V. 33. Hazor] This is reckoned among the cities of Judah, Joſh.15.23,25. for Judah and Benjamin bordered together.

Ramah] This name is ſet down among the cities of Benjamin, Joh.18.25. 1 King.15.17.

Gittaim] This city was in Benjamin, 2 Sam.2.3.

V. 34. Hadid] This name is no where elſe given to a city. But it is given to a man ch.7.37. See Ezr.2.33.

Zeboim] This was in Benjamin, 1 Sam.13.18.

Neballat] We no where elſe read of this city.

V. 35. Lod, and Ono] Theſe two are reckoned among the cities of Benjamin, 1 Chr.8.12.

the valley of craftſmen] See 1 Chr. 4.14.

V. 36. And of the Levites were diviſions in Judah and in Benjamin] Or, concerning the Levites, there were diſtributions of Judah and Benjamin. i.e. There were cities and ſuburbs given to the Levites out of both the tribes. For there was great uſe of them throughout the countrey to inſtruct the people

CHAP. XII.

NOw theſe are the Prieſts and the Levites] In this Chapter is ſet down the dedication of the wall of Jeruſalem. Now becauſe the Prieſts and Levites had a ſpecial part therein, he firſt ſets down their genealogies, that it might the better appear that they were true Prieſts and Levites.

that went up with Zerubbabel] Here are two pedigrees of Prieſts, one of ſuch as came with Zerubbabel to Jeruſalem, the other of ſuch as were in the dayes of Jojakim, v.12.

the ſon of Shealthiel] See Ezr.3.2. and Jeſhua] See Ezr.2.2. Zerubbabel and Jeſhua were as guides to the reſt, the one the chief Prince, the other the chief Prieſt.

Seraiah, Jeremiah] Theſe two ſealed the covenant, ch.10.2.

Ezra] It is probable that this was another Ezra then that is mentioned Ezra 7.1. For he came many years after theſe. He might be of the ſame name, but end his days either in his journey, or as ſoon as he was come into Jeruſalem, and in that reſpect no more be ſaid of him. If it were that Ezra, he is here put out of order, and ſet before his time. Sure he was a principal man about the dedication of the wall.

V. 2. Amariah] See ch.10.3.

Malluch] Or, Melicu, v.14.

Hattuſh] See ch.10.4.

V. 3. Shecaniah] Or, Shebaniah] v.14. See ch.10.4.

Rehum] Or, Harim, v.15. See ch.10 5.

Merimoth] Or, Meraioth, v.15. See ch.10 5.

V. 4. Iddo] See Ezr.8.17.

Gennetho] Or, Ginnethon, v.16. See ch.10.6.

Abijah] See ch 10.7.

V. 5. Miamin] Or, Miniamin, v.17. See ch.10.7.

Madiah] Or, Moadiah, v.17.

Bilgah] This may be he that is called Bilgai, ch.10.8.

V. 6. Shemaiah] See ch.10.8.

and Joiarib] There was an ancient Prieſt of this name, ch. 11. 5, 10.

Jedaiah] See ch.3.10. The children of one Jedaiah came up with Zerubbabel, Ezra 2.36.

V. 7. Sallu] Or Sallai, v.20. There was another of this name, but of the tribe of Benjamin, ch.11.7,8.

Amok] See v.20.

Hilkiah] See ch.8.4.

Jedaiah] There is another Jedaiah mentioned v.6.

Theſe were the chief Prieſts] i.e. ſuch as were heads of diſtinct families among the Prieſts.

and of their brethren] Or, and their brethren. q.d. Theſe and their brethren were of ſuch a time.

in the dayes of Jeſhua] Jeſhua was then the high Prieſt, and they had no King in Judah: therefore the times were computed by the Prieſts. Many of the Prieſts here ſet down are not mentioned in the catalogue of thoſe that came up with Zerubbabel, Ezr. 2. 36. Therefore ſome ſuppoſe that they who came up with Ezra are alſo here intermingled.

V. 8. Moreover, the Levites] Here he begins to ſet down their genealogies.

Jeſhua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah] Three of theſe ſtirred up the people to bleſs the Lord, ch 9.5. Binnui was one that ſealed the covenant, ch.10.9.

Judah] He put away his ſtrange wife, Ezr.10.23.

and Mattaniah, which was over the thankſgiving] i.e. the Pſalms of thankſgiving. See ch.11.17.

he and his brethren] Other Levites of that function.

V. 9. Alſo Bakbukiah] We read not elſewhere of this name.

and Unni] There was a muſician of this name in Davids time, 1 Chr.15.18,20.

their brethren] This hath reference to thoſe, v. 8. and ſheweth that they were all of the ſame function.

were over againſt them in the watches] They ſtood in their ranks one againſt the other, and performed that duty which belonged unto them carefully, watching and obſerving their turns.

V. 10. And Jeſhua begat Jojakim] In this and the next verſe is ſet down the generation of high Prieſts during the time of the Perſian Monarchy, even from Cyrus to Alexander the Great, who vanquiſhed the Perſians. For Jeſhua was high Prieſt when Cyrus gave liberty to the Jews to return, Ezr.2.2. and 3.2.

Jojakim alſo begat Eliaſhib] This Eliaſhib proved a very wicked Prieſt. See ch.13.4,5. and Eliaſhib begat Joiada] He was allied to Sanballat, chap. 13. 28.

V. 11. And Joiada begat Jonathan] There was another Prieſt called Jonathan, v.14.

and Jonathan begat Jaddua] There is no mention of this man in ſacred Scripture but in this chapter. Joſephus writes of him, that he being high Prieſt met Alexander the Great in his Pontifical robes with ſuch glory as amazed that Monarch, and made him forbear to do any hoſtile act againſt the City or Temple, yea, moved him to confirm their priviledges, Antiq. Jud. l. 11. ch. 8.

V. 12. And in the dayes of Jojakim were Prieſts] There being in the former verſes a catalogue of ſuch Prieſts as were prime men in Jeſhua's dayes, here is ſhewed who were ſuch in Joiakim his ſons dayes. It is ſuppoſed that thoſe former Prieſts were now dead, and that theſe that follow ſucceeded them.

the chief of the fathers] i. e. chief among thoſe that were heads of families.

of Seraiah, Meraiah] From this place to v.22. are ſet down the very ſame men that were mentioned v.1—7. and to every particular perſon is added the name of him that ſucceeded him. Onely in ſome names be altered, which was noted before.

of Jeremiah, Hananiah] This was one of thoſe Prieſts that ſounded trumpets at the dedication of the wall, v.41.

V. 13. Of Ezra, Meſhullam] There was another of this name, v.16. One of theſe was among thoſe that aſſiſted Ezra, ch.1.4. of Amariah, Jehohanan] This man alſo had a part in the dedication of the wall, v.42.

V. 14. Of Melicu, Jonathan] His ſon had his part about dedicating the wall, v. 35. Here ſhould follow Hattuſh. See v.2. It may be he was dead, and none of his family living to ſucceed him.

of Shebaniah, Joſeph] This Joſeph was he that was among thoſe that ſealed the covenant, Ezr.10.42.

V. 15. Of Harim, Adna] Adna alſo was among thoſe that ſealed the covenant, Ezr.10.30. if at leaſt he were a Prieſt.

of Meraioth, Helkai] We read not elſwhere of Helkai.

V. 16. Of Idda, Zechariah] Zechariah aſſiſted Ezra, ch.8.4.

Ginnethon, Meſhullam] There was another of this name, v.13.

V. 17. Of Abiſah, Zichri] We read not elſwhere of Zichri.

of Miniamin, of Moadiah, Piltai] Here is no ſucceſſor of Miniamin expreſſed. It may be that there was none of his family to ſucceed him, and that Piltai ſupplied the courſe both of Miniamin and Moadiah. Some would have the words thus read, Piltai was of the houſe of Miniamin, who deſcended from Moadiah.

V. 18. Of Bilgah, Shammua: of Shemaiah, Jehonathan] No mention is elſwhere made of Shammua and Jehonathan to be Prieſts after the captivity.

V. 19. And of Joiarib, Mattenai] Mattenai was one of thoſe who put away their ſtrange wives, Ezr.10.37.

of Pedaiah, Uzzi] Uzzi had his part in dedicating the wall, v.42.

V. 20. Of Sallai, Kallai: of Amok, Eber] No mention is elſwhere made of Sallai and Eber.

V. 21. Of Hilkiah, Haſhabiah] There was alſo one of the Levites of this name, v.24.

of Jedaiah, Nethaneel] Nethaneel had his part in dedicating the wall, v.36. In this ſecond catalogue of Prieſts there is one courſe at leaſt, (ſee v.14.) if not two, (ſee v.17.) leſs then in the former catalogue, v.1—7. There were but twenty two; here but twenty one, or twenty; yet there were twenty four courſes appointed by David, 1 Chr.24.7,&c. The reaſon why there were fewer courſes after the captivity may be becauſe there were not Prieſts enough to make up ſo many courſes as in Davids time. That which is noted Ezra 8.15. that Ezra found there none of the ſons of Levi, importeth that there were but few of them when they were all gathered together.

V. 22. The Levites] Here beginneth a catalogue of the Levites.

in the dayes of Eliaſhib, Joiada, and Johanan, and Jaddua] Theſe were four high Prieſts, that by lineal deſcent ſucceeded one another, from Nehemia's time to the end of the Perſian Monarchy. For Eliaſhib was high Prieſt when Nehemiah came firſt to Jeruſalem, Neh.3.1. and Jaddua continued beyond the Perſian Monarchy, even to Alexander the Great, who was the firſt Grecian Monarch. See v.11.

were recorded chief of the fathers] This hath reference to the firſt word of this verſe, and importeth this ſenſe, that the chief of the fathers of the Levites were to be found regiſtred by name in the publick records, ſo as they need not here be ſet down again.

alſo the Prieſts] They were alſo recorded.

to the reign of Darius the Perſian] The laſt Monarch of Perſia is here meant, he that is ſtyled Darius Codomannus, who was vanquiſhed by Alexander the Great.

V. 23. The ſons of Levi, the chief of the fathers] Or, of the ſons of Levi, &c. See v.22. and ch.11.13.

were written in the book of the Chronicles] Heb. words of dayes. See on the title of the firſt book of Chronicles. Hence it is inferred that relation is here had to the catalogue of Prieſts and Levites, 1 Chr.9, 10,&c.

even until the dayes of Johanan the ſon of Eliaſhib] Son is here put for Nephew or grandchild; for Johanan (who is called Jonathan v.11.) was the ſon of Joiada, and he the ſon of Eliaſhib, v. 10, 11, 12.

V. 24. And the chief of the Levites] Such as were heads of families, and had command over others.

Haſhabiah, Sherebiah] Theſe might be two of thoſe prudent men who came to Ezra, Ezr.8.18,19.

and Jeſhua the ſon of Kadmiel] See c.9.5.

with their brethren over againſt them] See v.9.

to praiſe, and to give thanks, according to the commandment of David] Hereby is meant the courſe and order ſet down 1 Chr.25.1,&c.

the man of God] See 2 Chr.8.14.

ward over againſt ward] See 1 Chr.26.16.

V. 25. Mattaniah] See v.8.

and Bakbukiah] See v.9.

Obadiah] This muſt be he that came up with Ezra, Ezr. 8.9.

Meſhullam] There were two Prieſts of this name, v.13,16. This may be the Levite mentioned Ezr.10.15.

Talmon, Akkub, were Porters keeping the ward] See ch.11. 19.

at the threſholds of the gates] Or, treaſuries, or aſſemblies. Heb. Aſuppim. See 1 Chr. 26. 17. The gates of the Temple are here meant.

V. 26. Theſe were in the dayes of Joiakim the ſon of Jeſhua, the ſon of Jozadak] See v.10.

and in the dayes of Nehemiah the governour] See 5.14. & 8.9.

and of Ezra the Prieſt, the Scribe] Ezr.7.1,6,12. By this it appears that Jeſhua the high Prieſt, who was a prime man about the building of the Temple, was dead before Ezra and Nehemiah came to Jeruſalem. As for Ezra, though he were no high Prieſt, Ezr.7.1. yet by reaſon of his great wiſdom, zeal and courage, and the Kings favour and large grant, Ezra 7. 12, &c. he had a government over the Jews. The years therefore were then reckoned by the time of Nehemiah's and Ezra's government.

V. 27. And at the dedication of the wall of Jeruſalem] The Prieſts and Levites, who had a great hand in dedicating the wall, being by their diſtinct orders ſet down in the former part of the chapter; the manner of dedicating the ſame is ſet down in the following part. Of the rites uſed about dedicating a thing ſee 1 King.8.63. Ezr.6.16. The wall of Jeruſalem was of great conſequence: The City whereabout it was, was called the holy city, ch.11.1, 18. Not onely the inhabitants, but alſo the Temple, and all the holy things appertaining thereunto, were by the ſtrength of this wall kept in ſafety: And God had wonderfully bleſſed them in the building of it: Therefore they do in that warrantable manner which was then in uſe, conſecrate it to the Lord, for his defenſe thereof, and in thankfulneſs unto God they do with praiſes dedicate it to him.

they ſought the Levites out of all their places] The Levites had liberty, after their courſes were finiſhed, to go to their own habitations in the countrey; but for the better celebrating of this great ſolemn work, they aſſembled them all together, both thoſe that were then ſerving in their courſes at the Temple, and thoſe alſo that were abroad in their particular places.

to bring them to Jeruſalem] For there the ſolemnity was obſerved.

to keep the dedication with gladneſs] Under this word gladneſs both the cheerfulneſs of their ſpirits, and alſo their outward joyful rites, as ſinging and feaſting, are compriſed. See 2 Chr. 36. 21, 23.

both with thankſgiving] Thanks and praiſes are given to God for bringing them to that place, for protecting them from their adverſaries, and for helping and proſpering them in that great work; an evidence whereof is largely ſet down ch.8.

and in ſinging] This is ſet down by way of diſtinction from the inſtruments next mentioned; and it ſheweth that they uſed both vocal and inſtrumental muſick.

with Cymbals, Pſalteries, and with Harps] See 1 Chr.13.8.

V. 28. And the ſons of the ſingers] i. e. Such as were not onely born of Levites that were ſingers, but alſo trained up to ſinging and made skilful therein.

gathered themſelves together] Being ſent for from their ſeveral habitations, they willingly came all to the houſe of God.

both out of the Plain countrey round about Jeruſalem] i. e. fair fertile places, in dales and valleys, watered with ſweet running rivers, fit for pleaſing and uſeful habitations. Mention is made of a plain countrey, Deut. 4.43.

and from the villages of Netophathi] See 1 Chr.9.16.

V. 29. Alſo from the houſe of Gilgal] Houſe is here ſet for the place of their habitation, which was at Gilgal. See 2 King.2.1.

and out of the fields of Geba] Geba was a city of Benjamin given to the Prieſts, Joſh. 21.17. By the fields of Geba are meant all that land that was about Geba, and belonged to the Prieſts.

and Azmaveth] This name is oft given to a man, as 1 Chr.8. 36. & 9.43. & 11. 33. Ezr.2.24. There might alſo be a place ſo called, where Levites dwelt.

for the ſingers had builded them villages round about Jeruſalem] The Babylonians had not onely deſtroyed Jeruſalem, but alſo all the villages round: Therefore, as others, ſo the Singers were forced to build thoſe villages again when they returned from the captivity.

V. 30. And the Prieſts and the Levites purified themſelves] It was a cuſtome among the people of God, when they were called to any holy and extraordinary ſervice, to purifie themſelves; which was done by waſhing their clothes, Exod.19.10. yea and their fleſh too, Numb.19.7. by changing their garments, Gen.35.2. by being ſprinkled with that purifying water which was enjoyned under the Law, Numb. 19. 9. by abſtaining from their wives, Exod.19. 15. by offering up ſacrifices, and performing other legal rites (ſee Ezr.5.16,21.) yea and by putting away falſe gods, Gen.35.2. and all manner of ſinful courſes.

and purified the people] By ſuch rites as they purified themſelves.

Miniſters muſt be careful of fitting and preparing Gods people to holy ordinances as well as themſelves.

and the gates, and the wall] Places under the Law were ſubject to uncleanneſs and pollution as well as perſons. See 2 Chr.29.16,17. Theſe gates and walls were now in a ſpecial manner recommended to Gods cuſtody and protection.

V. 31. Then I brought up the Princes of Judah upon the wall] Becauſe the city and the wall were for the uſe and good of Princes and people as well as of Prieſts and Levites, Nehemiah bringeth the Princes (who were heads of the people, and did what they did, for them alſo) upon the wall, to have a part in this ſacred work. Of this phraſe upon the wall, ſee v.38.

and appointed two great companies of them that gave thanks] i. e. of Levites, who had this office of ſolemn giving thanks committed unto them, v.27.

whereof one went on the right hand upon the wall] The right hand is here taken to be towards the South.

V. 32. And after them] After the Prieſts and Levites of the firſt rank.

went Hoſhaiah] This was one of the chief Princes. We read no where elſe of him. But we read of a Prince of this name in the beginning of the captivity, Jer.42.1. & 43.2.

and Jeremiah] See v.1.

V. 35. And certain of the Prieſts ſons with trumpets] It was the office of Prieſts to ſound trumpets, Numb.10.8. Joſh.6.4. 1 Chr. 5.24. 2 Chr.13.12. Ezr.3.10.

namely Zechariah the ſon of Jonathan, &c.] This Zechariah is taken to be a Levite; in which reſpect that particle namely, which is a note of application, is not duly inſerted.

the ſon of Aſaph] Aſaph was a maſter of ſingers in Davids time, 1 Chr. 16.4,5. and 25.1. From him by lineal deſcent came Zechariah.

V. 36. And his brethren] This hath reference to Zechariah, v.35. By brethren are meant ſuch as were of the ſame ſtock and function. So as the ſons of Heman and Jeduthun may be reckoned up as well as the ſons of Aſaph.

Shemaiah, &c.] Here are eight mentioned, who were alſo Levites as Zechariah was.

with the muſical inſtruments of David] Such as David by the inſtinct of Gods Spirit had appointed for the more cheerful ſetting forth of the praiſes of God. Theſe are called muſical inſtruments of God, 1 Chr.16.42.

the man of God] See v.24.

and Ezra the Scribe before them] This is the great Ezra mentioned Ezr.7.1,&c. There being two companies that went in order upon the wall v.31. Ezra led on the firſt. See v.38.

V. 37. And at the fountain-gate] See ch.2.14.

which was over againſt them] This was by the city of David.

they went up by the ſtairs of the city of David] Zion is here meant, 1 Chr.11.5. It being on an hill, they had ſtairs to go up into ſome part thereof; and thoſe ſtairs are here meant.

at the going up of the wall, above the houſe of David] This implieth that they had gone about the wall of the city of David.

even unto the water-gate Eaſtward] See ch.3.26. This gate being Eaſtward lay over-againſt the entrance into the Temple; ſo as they had now gone about half the wall, and here were met by the other company, which is ſet forth in the next verſes.

V. 38. And the other company, &c.] Other hath reference to v.31. where mention is made of one company that went on the right hand. Now here is ſet down the other company, that went on the left hand, to the North, and ſo onward to the Eaſt.

went over againſt them] The other company went round from the Weſt Southward, till they came to the Eaſt; this from the Weſt Nothward, till they came to the Eaſt. Each company went with like pace, and ſo were one over againſt another, even till they met together at the Eaſt.

and I after them] This Nehemiah ſpeaketh of himſelf, who being the chief Governour, like the General of an Army, ſaw his company go before him, and he followed laſt of all. Ezra went before the other company; for he was a Prieſt; and it is probable another Prieſt went before this; that they might be guides to the reſt that followed, and ſhew them when to go, when to ſtay, how faſt, or how ſlow to go.

and the half of the people] Though no mention be made of the people in the former company, yet this phraſe ſheweth that the other half of the people were in it. Firſt went Prieſts, then Levites, after them Princes, and after the Princes the people, and the Governour laſt of all. This was their order. We take it for granted that as Nehemiah went laſt after his company, ſo ſome other Governour next to him went laſt after the other.

upon the wall] This wall muſt needs be very thick and broad, that could receive ſo great companies upon it: for we are to ſuppoſe that they went many abreaſt.

from beyond the tower of the furnaces] See ch.3.11.

even unto the broad wall] See ch.3 8.

V. 39. And from above the gate of Ephraim] See ch.8.16.

and above the old gate] See ch.3.6.

and above the fiſh-gate] See ch.3.3.

and they ſtood ſtill in the priſon-gate] See ch.3.31. Somewhat beyond this gate the two companies met together; ſo here they ſtaied, till they might in order deſcend from the wall, to go to the houſe of God. Expreſs mention is here made of the ſeveral gates and towers, becauſe they were evidences of Gods goodneſs to them in helping them ſo ſoon to build ſuch a wall, and ſuch gates and towers: And by the ſight of them their ſpirits were the more quickned up to praiſe God.

V.40. So ſtood the two companies of them that gave thanks in the houſe of God] Theſe were the companies of Levites, whoſe office was to give praiſe unto God with voice and inſtruments on all ſolemn occaſions of rejoycing.

and I, and the half of the rulers with me] There was no mention made before of Rulers in that company where Nehemiah was; but by this it appeareth that there were as many in that as in the former.

V. 41. And the Prieſts: Eliakim] We read not of him before.

and Shemaiah] See v.36.

and Eleazar] This may be that Eleazar mentioned Ezr.8.33.

and Uzzi] See v.19.

and Jehohanan] See v.13.

and Malchijah] See ch.3.11.

and Elam] This may be that Elam whoſe ſon gave the good advice to Ezra, Ezr.10.2.

and Ezer] See ch.3.19.

and the ſingers ſang loud] Heb. made their voice to be heard.

with Jezrahiah their overſeer] We do not read of this man any where elſe. He was Maſter-ſinger, and one that had a charge over the other. See ch.11.22.

V. 43. Alſo that day they offered great ſacrifices] See 1 King. 3. 15. Gods people under the Law were wont to teſtifie their thankfulneſs with abundance of ſacrifices. See 1 Chr.29.21. 1 King.8. 62, 63.

and rejoyced] With ſinging, feaſting, and other like external rites they teſtified the inward joy of their hearts.

for God had them rejoyce with great joy] It was God that by his providence gave them the occaſion of rejoycing, protecting them from their enemies, helping them to build and finiſh their walls, that ſo they might live more ſecurely in their city. It was God alſo that quickned up their ſpirits to this manner of rejoycing, 2 Chr.20.27.

the wives alſo and the children rejoyced] The occaſions of that joy, and the expreſſions thereof by Prieſts, Levites, and all ſorts of men, did ſo work upon the women and children as they alſo teſtifie their inward joy. Rejoycing of men draws on women, Exod.15.21. and rejoycing of the elder ſort draws on the younger to do the like, Pſal.48.12.

ſo that the joy of Jeruſalem] Of all ſorts of people there.

was heard even afar off] The loud ſound of trumpets and other inſtruments, the ſinging of many together, the ſhout of the multitude, and common acclamations could not but ſpread far: And the rumour and report went not onely into all the cities and villages of Judah and Benjamin, but alſo into other nations round about. For ſuch a publick and ſolemn rejoycing filled every mans mouth, and ſet every ones pen on work, by word and writing to divulge the ſame far and near. See Ezr.3.13.

V. 44. And at that time were ſome appointed over the chambers, for the treaſures] See 1 Chr. 9.26. 2 Chr. 31.11. After their zeal in dedicating the wall, their piety in providing for the ſervices and officers of the houſe of the Lord is manifeſted. Faithful Levites are ſet apart to take care of all ſuch things as by the people ſhould be brought for that end, and places prepared to lay up ſuch things as might be needful, not onely for the preſent, but alſo for the future. So did Hezekiah and his people, 2 Chr.31.4,5,11,&c.

for the offerings] i. e. all manner of things freely brought by the people for the Miniſters and ſervices of the Lord.

for the firſt-fruits] See ch.10.35,37. 2 King.4 42. 2Chr.31.5.

and for the tythes] Tythes were the tenth of all fruits that grew out of their land, whether in open fields, orchards, or gardens; and of their cattle and other commodities. See 1 Chr.31.6.

to gather into them] Or, to lay up together; as 2 Chr.31.11,12.

out of the fields of the cities] Such things as ſhould be brought out of the fields that appertain to the cities.

the portions of the law] i. e. appointed by the Law.

for the Prieſts and Levites] Theſe waited upon the ſervices of the houſe of God, and had not inheritances as the other tribes had; therefore they were thus to be provided for.

for Judah rejoyced] Heb. for the joy of Judah. This is added as a reaſon why the people ſo cheerfully brought in the forementioned portions for the Prieſts, and for the Levites that waited] Heb. that ſtood. The people much rejoyced that there was care taken to ſettle them in their accuſtomed courſes, and ſo to provide for them as they ſhould not be forced to go into the countrey to ſeek maintenance. They were now ſo provided for as they might ſtay their time and courſe at the houſe of God.

V. 45. And both the ſingers and the Porters kept the ward of their God] That which by Gods appointment was ſet them, and which made much to his honour. Though David preſcribed the courſes, yet it was by the commandment of the Lord, 2 Chr. 29. 25.

and the ward of the purification] That courſe that was taken for purifying themſelves, the people, the gates, and the wall of the City, v. 30. and other things that needed purifying.

according to the commandment of David] This hath reference to the courſes of the Prieſts and Levites, 1 Chr. 23, 24, 25, & 26.

and of Solomon his ſon] We do not read of any ſuch courſes that Solomon ſetled; but in that it is ſaid that Solomon walked in the ſtatutes of David his father, 1 King. 3. 3. we way well infer that herein he imitated his father.

V. 46. For in the dayes of David] While he reigned.

and Aſaph of old] Under Aſaph Jeduthun and Heman alſo, who were Muſick-maſters, are to be underſtood, and here added to David, becauſe David took counſel of them.

there were chief of the ſingers] Such as were not onely very skilful in muſick, and able to inſtruct others, but alſo had a charge and command over other ſingers, to ſee all things belonging unto ſinging orderly, faithfully and diligently done.

and ſongs of praiſe and thankſgiving unto God] Such as are ſet in the book of Pſalms, which David by the Spirit of God indited, and thoſe Muſicians put into fit tunes.

V. 47. And all Iſrael in the dayes of Zerubbabel] While he lived. So 2 Chr. 24. 2, 14.

and in the dayes of Nehemiah] Here he ſpeakes of himſelf in the third perſon, though many times before in the firſt; yea, and in this chapter too, as v. 31, 38, 40. He was the next Governour after Zerubbabel, and in that reſpect here fitly added to him. Of that which was covenanted to be done in his time, ſee ch. 10. 32, &c. And no doubt they performed what they covenanted.

gave the portions of the ſingers and the Porters] Such proviſions as were appointed for their maintenance.

every day his portion] Heb. the thing of the day in his day. See 2 King. 25. 30. 2 Chr. 31. 10.

and they ſanctified] i. e. ſet apart.

holy things unto the Levites] Theſe words holy things are well added to make up the ſenſe. For to ſanctifie unto one is to give an holy thing unto him. The things here meant were ſuch as are mentioned v. 44.

and the Levites ſanctified them] i. e. ſet apart the tenth part of them. For the Prieſts were to have the tenth of ſuch things as the Levites received of the people, Numb. 18. 26.

unto the children of Aaron] i. e. the Prieſts. For all that deſcended from Aaron were Prieſts.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ. 1. ON that day] The moſt immediate reference of this circumſtance of time is unto the day of dedicating the wall, the hiſtory whereof is in the former chapter. This very phraſe is uſed ch. 12. 43. On that day they offered ſacrifices; and on that day alſo, for the ſanctifying of it, they might read the Law. Others make a more remote reference, namely to the reading of the Law on their great day of faſt, when the ſeed of Iſrael ſeparated themſelves from all ſtrangers, ch. 9. 1, &c. But the moſt Expoſitors refer this to the time of Nehemiahs ſecond return to Jeruſalem. See v. 6, 7. For this good Governour was as careful of reforming abuſes about religion as of redreſſing grievances in the State. Therefore at all due times, when he was at Jeruſalem, he was careful to have the Law read.

they read] Heb. there was read. Namely, by the Levites, to whom it belonged publickly to read the ſacred Scriptures. This is here ſet down to make way for that which is noted of Nehemiah's care about reforming religion after his ſecond coming to Jeruſalem; which is the main ſcope of this chapter.

in the book of Moſes] The five firſt books of the Bible are compriſed under this title. He uſeth this phraſe in the book, becauſe a part onely thereof was read at one time.

in the audience] Heb. in the ears.

of the people] All ſorts of people, great and ſmall, old and young, male and female, are here meant.

and therein was found written] Namely, in that part which they then read, which was Deut. 23. 3.

that the Ammonite and the Moabite] See ch. 2. 10. Ezr. 9. 1.

ſhould not come into the congregation of God] Such Ammonites and Moabites as retained their idolatrous opinion and profeſſion might no way be admitted into the congregation of God, neither to the religious aſſemblies meeting together to worſhip God and obſerve his ordinances, Exod. 12. 45. nor to the civil aſſemblies, to partake of their priviledges. Both thoſe aſſemblies were counted the Congregation of God, becauſe God uſed to manifeſt his preſence in them both.

for ever] This in the fulleſt extent is taken of ſuch Ammonites and Moabites as are before noted. Beſides, this extent of time, having relation to the Law, is properly to be taken for ſo long as the politie of the Jews remained; ſo long this continued to be a law. Yea further, in regard of the civil priviledges of Gods people, Ammonites and Moabites were never to be made partakers of them. They were never to be admitted into any place of authority or command, never to be enrolled or incorporated into the Common-wealth of Iſrael, nor to have any inheritance among them. But if an Ammonite or Moabite or any other ſtranger renounced idolatry, profeſſed the true religion, and were circumciſed, he might joyn with Gods people in obſerving his holy ordinances, Exod. 12. 48, 49.

V. 2. Becauſe they met not the children of Iſrael] After the Iſraelites had fought with the Kings of the Amorites, and deſtroyed them, Numb. 21. 23, &c. Moab and Ammon ſhould have come forth and brought refreſhing to them, and congratulated their victories, as Melchiſedeck did when Abraham had deſtroyed the four Kings, Gen. 14 11, 18.

with bread and water] i.e. all manner of ſuſtenance. See 1 King. 13. 8. The very neglect of duties of charity is in Gods account an heynous ſin, Matth. 25. 42, 43.

but hired Balaam againſt them, that he ſhould curſe them] Num. 22. 5, &c. howbeit our God turned the curſe into a bleſſing] God over-ruled Balaams Spirit, and forced him that was hired to curſe his people, to bleſs them. God can turn mens purpoſes of doing miſchief into performances of good, Gen. 32. 6. & 33. 4, &c.

V. 3. Now it came to paſs when they had heard the law] The very hearing of Gods word is a means not onely to convince men of their ſins, but alſo to bring them to repentance for the ſame.

that they ſeparated from Iſrael all the mixed multitude] i.e. ſuch ſtrangers as had been unduly joyned with any of Gods people, whether ſtrange husbands, or ſtrange wives, or ſtrange children, even all thoſe with whom God had forbidden them to have communion and ſociety. If this were another ſeparation then that mentioned ch. 9. 2. we may here ſee how prone men are to relapſe and revolt from good purpoſes, promiſes, vows and covenants, yea and beginnings of reformation. See ch. 10 30.

V. 4. And before this] Namely that which is before noted, of reading the Law, and reformation wrought thereupon.

Eliaſhib the Prieſt] See ch. 3. 1. & 12. 10.

having the overſight] Heb. being ſet over. As it belonged to him by vertue of his function to have a general care of the whole houſe of God, ſo he had a ſpecial and particular charge of the place here following.

of the chamber] Either the word chamber is indefinitely taken, for all the chambers; or elſe ſome ſpecial chamber belonging to the high Prieſt is meant.

of the houſe of our God] This diſcription of the chamber is added to aggravate his impiety and profaneneſs, in that he would bring a curſed ſtranger and a bitter enemy of Gods people to lodge in ſuch a place as was for ſacred perſons and uſes, even ſuch as belonged to Gods houſe.

was allied unto Tobiah] See ch. 2. 10. Though he were a deadly enemy to the Jews, yet he ſo cunningly inſinuated himſelf into many of them, as letters were interchanged betwixt them, and many ſworn unto him, and he himſelf married the daughter of Shechaniah, ch. 6. 17, 18, 19. Some take the alliance here mentioned to have relation thereunto. Others ſay that Eliaſhibs ſon was married to the daughter of Tobiah. We read that one of the grand-ſons of Eliaſhib was ſon in law to Sanballat, v. 28. and Sanballat and Tobiah might be allied one to another, and in that reſpect Tobiah alſo might be ſaid to be allied to Eliaſhib.

V. 5. And he had prepared for him a great chamber] It is ſuppoſed that this chamber was made a very great one by pulling down the partitions that ſevered chambers, and ſo making two or three into one. Therefore the plural number chambers is uſed v. 9.

where aforetime they laied the meat-offerings] i. e. corn, meal or flower, whereof meat-offerings were made. See 1 King. 3. 15.

the frankincenſe] Under this word both frankincenſe it ſelf, and alſo the ſpices whereof incenſe was to be made, Exod. 30. 34. are compriſed.

and the veſſels] See ch. 10 39. 1 King. 7. 51.

and the tythes of the corn, the new wine, and the oyl] See ch. 10. 39.

which was commanded to be given to the Levites] Heb. the commandments of the Levites, or for the Levites. Our Engliſh hath well expounded the Hebraiſm. Of this commandment ſee Numb. 18. 21.

and the ſingers, and the Porters] Theſe alſo were Levites, but diſtinguiſhed by their functions, 1 Chr. 25, & 26.

and the offerings of the Prieſts] i. e. They laid in the foreſaid chamber the offerings of the Prieſts, i. e. the tythes of the tenth, Num. 18. 26. and other dues belonging to the Prieſts.

V. 6. But in all this time was not I at Jeruſalem] This is added to ſhew that the foreſaid corruptions crept not in thorow Nehehemiahs connivence or negligence. We may here ſee what a damage to a place the abſence of a good Governour is.

For in the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes] This was the end of the time allotted to Nehemiah to be at Jeruſalem,ch.2.6.& 5.14.

King of Babylon] The Perſians having clean overthrown the Babylonians took this title to themſelves. See Ezra 6.22.

came I unto the King] This is ſpoken of Nehemiah's return from Jeruſalem to the King of Perſia according to his promiſe, ch.2.6.

and after certain dayes]After he had been ſome time with the King, attended upon him, and given further evidence of his faithfulneſs and dutiful reſpect to him. This was the ſpace of a whole year; for ſo is this phraſe uſed Jer.25.29.

obtained I leave of the king] Or, I earneſtly requeſted the king. The Hebrew word is of the paſſive voice, q. d. I was intreated of the king. Hence ſome infer that Nehemiah having been twelve years abſent was afraid again to ask leave for further abſence, and thereupon got others to do it on his behalf: whereby the King having notice of his deſire to be with his people, willed him to return to them again. In which reſpect ſome thus tranſlate the phraſe, leave was gotten me. But the Hebraiſm importeth an earneſt ſolicitation on Nehemiahs part, and a ready yielding on the Kings.

V. 7. And I came to Jeruſalem] As ſoon as he had leave,he made no long ſtay, but quickly went up. His heart was upon Jeruſalem, upon his own countrey, and upon the people and houſe of God.

and underſtood of the evil that Eliaſhib did for Tobiah] There were ſome who knowing what Eliaſhib had done, and diſliking the ſame, quickly told Nehemiah thereof, even ſo ſoon as he came to Jeruſalem, being perſwaded that he would ſoon redreſs that abuſe.

in preparing him a chamber] See v. 5. Profaning of holy things ſeems a great evil to pious minds.

in the courts of the houſe of God] See 1 King.6.36. Both the Temple and the courts appertaining thereunto, being for ſacred uſes, all are called the houſe of God, as v.4.

V. 8. And it grieved me ſore] Things done to Gods diſhonour much grieve ſuch as are zealous of his glory.

therefore I caſt forth all the houſhold-ſtuff of Tobiah] We may here obſerve one reaſon why ſo great a chamber was provided for Tobiah, namely that he might have room enough for himſelf and all his ſtuff. His houſholdſtuff was profane, not fit to be in ſo holy a place; therefore this holy man caſts it forth, and that with an holy indignation.

out of the chamber] That great chamber mentioned v.5.

V. 9. Then I commanded] He uſeth his authority, and that with an uncontrollable reſolution, in Gods cauſe.

and they cleanſed the chambers] He himſelf had caſt out the profane things: now the Levites were to fit it for thoſe holy things that were to be laid up therein. Of cleanſing holy things ſee 2 Chr.29.15,16,18.

and thither brought I again] Piety ſetteth on ſome to ſettle ſacred things in their due places, as much as profaneneſs can put on others to diſplace them and ſet them out of order. See 2 Chr.29.3,15. & 31.5,&c.

the veſſels of the houſe of God, &c.] Theſe things had been before removed, v. 5.

V. 10. And I perceived that the portions of the Levites had not been given them] Men are ready to withdraw from Gods Miniſters their allowance when the reines of authority, which held them in, are let looſe. Yea it may be that Eliaſhibs profaneneſs in bringing Tobiah into thoſe chambers made them to ſuſpect a wrong employment of the Levites portions, and to take that advantage to withhold them.

for the Levites and the ſingers that did the work] Allowance is given to the Miniſters of the Lord to do the work of the Lord.

were fled every one to his field] To their Cities and Suburbs and lands that were given them for themſelves,wives & children to live in. Want of maintenance forceth Miniſters to leave their charge.

V. 11. Then contended I with the Rulers] Negligence and remiſneſs in Governours makes people careleſs in performing their duty. Juſt cauſe therefore had Nehemiah thus to expoſtulate with them.

and ſaid, Why is the houſe of God forſaken?] Among other branches of their covenant this is one, We will not forſake the houſe of our God, ch.10.39. By this phraſe therefore he impeacheth them of breach of covenant; which much aggravateth their ſin.

And I gathered them together] i.e. the Levites that fled to their fields, v.10. Nehemiah now brought again to the houſe of God.

and ſet them in their place] Heb. ſtanding. Where they were to exerciſe their function, the Singers in their places, the Porters in theirs, and other Levites in ſuch places as belonged unto them.

V. 12. Then brought all Judah] All the people that dwelt up and down in cities,and towns throughout Judah and Benjamin. A pious and prudent Governour ſoon draws people to perform their duties.

the tythe of the corn, and the new wine, and the oyl] This was according to their covenant, ch.10.39.

unto the treaſuries] Or, ſtore-houſes. Theſe were the chambers mentioned v.5. & ch.10.39. See 1 Chr.9.26.

V.13. And I made treaſurers over the treaſuries]See 1 Chr.26.20,22, &c. The end of their office is noted in the latter end of this verſe.

Shelemiah the Prieſt] Two of this name were among thoſe that covenanted to put away their ſtrange wives, Ezr.10.39,41.

and Zadok the Scribe] He was ſuch a Scribe as Ezra,though not ſo excellent in his kind,Ezr.7.6. So as he might be both a Prieſt and Scribe too.

and of the Levites, Pedaiah] This might be he mentioned ch.8.4.

and next to them] Heb. at their hand.

was Hanan the ſon of Zaccur, the ſon of Mattaniah] See ch.8.7.& 10.10.

For they were counted faithful] This commendation was given to Hananiah, ch.7.2. and to Moſes, Numb.12.7. It is a property well becoming ſuch as are put in truſt.

and their office was] Heb. it was upon them. The duty of a mans office lieth upon him as a bond to be diſcharged.

to diſtribute unto their brethren] Treaſurers of the houſe of God were to receive readily what was brought,to keep ſafely what they received, and faithfully to give to every one what belonged unto him. See 2 Chr.13.14,15.

V.14. Remember me, O my God] See ch.5.19. & on Gen.8.1.

concerning this] Namely that zeal which he had manifeſted in the former verſes.

and wipe not out my good deeds] Heb. kindneſſes. He alludeth to things written in a Table-book, which being wiped out are as if they had not been written. It is like that phraſe, blot not out, Rev.3.5. His deſire is that God would not forget his kindneſs. But this is not to be taken as if God could or would forget ſuch a thing; but it implieth an earneſt deſire that he would alwayes have it in mind,& that he would outwardly bear a favourable reſpect to him.

that I have done for the houſe of my God] Acts done to the good of Gods houſe argue piety, are fruits of a true faith, and acceptable unto God.

and for the offices thereof] Or, obſervations. The beſt thing that can be done about Gods houſe is to procure that his holy ordinances be duly obſerved.

V. 15. In thoſe dayes ſaw I in Judah] He contenteth not himſelf with redreſſing ſome abuſes;but as he ſaw others, ſo he ſet himſelf to redreſs them.

ſome treading wine-preſſes on the Sabbath] This was a laborious ſervile work, contrary to the Law, Exod.20.10.

and bringing in ſheaves] i. e. ſheaves of corn out of the field. Theſe two inſtances ſhew that it was harveſt, and vintage-time; and thereupon they might think that they were works of neceſſity, and might be done upon the Sabbath. But even theſe alſo were expreſly againſt the Law, Exod.34.21. Therefore this holy man ſuffers them no longer to be done.

and lading aſſes] Cattle were to reſt on the Sabbath-day, Exod. 20.10. therefore he ſuffers them not to be laded.

as alſo wine, grapes, and figs] Theſe works carried a ſhew of mercy, becauſe theſe things were for food. But they did what they did about theſe by way of merchandiſe, and therefore therein they profaned the Sabbath.

and all manner of burdens, which they brought into Jeruſalem on the ſabbath-day] This was expreſly forbidden Jer.17.21.

and I teſtified againſt them]This teſtifying was a threatning of ſome puniſhment againſt them.

in the day wherein they ſold victuals]The meaning is that they openly expoſed victuals to be ſold,in ſhops, or ſtreets, or market-places, or ſome other like wayes. For ſimply to ſell victuals to another for his neceſſary refreſhing is a work of mercy, and not unlawful.

V. 16. There dwelt men of Tyre alſo therein] See 1 King.5.1.Tyre bordered upon Judea, and thereupon there was the greater commerce betwixt them and the Jews. But this may be meant of ſuch as being born in Tyrus dwelt at Jeruſalem.

which brought fiſh] Tyre bordered upon the ſea, and the men of Tyre were skilful fiſher-men.

and all manner of ware] Tyre was a famous Mart-town, to which and from which all ſorts of commodities uſed to be brought, Ezek. 27.3,&c.

and ſold on the Sabbath unto the children of Judah] This was the ſin, that they ſold wares on the Sabbath,and that to the people of God.

and in Jeruſalem] This is yet a greater aggravation, that the Sabbath was profaned by them in that city where the houſe of God was, and where there were great ſtore of Prieſts and Levites to inſtruct them.

V.17. Then I contended with the Nobles of Judah] See v.11. and ch.2.26. Theſe Nobles were Rulers, they therefore ought to have redreſſed this evil.

and ſaid unto them, What evil thing is this that ye do] Rulers make themſelves acceſſary to the ſins of thoſe that are under their charge, if they do not what they can to hinder them. In this caſe they make their inferiours ſins their own ſins.

and profane the Sabbath-day] This is here given as an inſtance of their evil; ſo as to profane the Sabbath is an apparent evil.

V.18. Did not your fathers thus?] Jer.17.21,&c. To continue in the ſins of predeceſſors is a great aggravation of ſin.

and did not our God bring all this evil upon us, and upon this city?] i. e. the Babylonians ſacking of Jeruſalem, beating down the walls thereof, burning the houſe of God and other houſes, carrying the inhabitants away, and retaining them in captivity ſeventy years together. So much was threatned for this ſin, Jer.17.27. So much alſo is intimated 2 Chr.36.21.

yet ye bring more wrath upon Iſrael by profaning the Sabbath] To return to the ſame ſins for which judgments have been executed, after the judgments are removed, is to incenſe Gods wrath the more, and to pull down heavier judgments.

V. 19. And it came to paſs, that when the gates of Jeruſalem began to be dark] Or, the gates of Jeruſalem were over-ſhadowed. i.e. when it began to be dark about the gates of Jeruſalem. There were hills on the Weſt-ſide of Jeruſalem, ſo as at the ſun-ſetting the light was hid from the gates, and ſo they were over-ſhadowed.

before the Sabbath] Namely, on the evening before it. It is ſuppoſed by many that the Sabbath began at the evening, and that therefore he commanded the gates then to be ſhut. Or, if it began in the morning, yet he would prevent all buying and ſelling on the Sabbath-day by keeping out ſuch as would bring in vendible commodities on the evening before.

I commanded that the gates ſhould be ſhut, and charged that they ſhould not be opened till after the Sabbath] Namely, till the morning of the firſt day of the week. This ſheweth that he onely aimed at keeping the Sabbath from being profaned.

and ſome of my ſervants ſet I at the gates] That that pious work might more ſecurely be performed, he appointed ſuch as he knew to be faithful to have an eſpeciall care of keeping the gates ſhut. This he did the rather, that when the gates were opened to let in ſuch as ſhould come into the Temple, others, that might ſell wares, ſhould not thruſt in with them.

that there ſhould no burden be brought in upon the Sabbath-day] See v. 15.

V. 20. So the merchants, and ſellers of all kind of ware] Whether natives or ſtrangers.

lodged without Jeruſalem once or twice] i. e. week after week. So greedy they were of gain that they would rather lodge in the ſtreet then not vent their commodities. They hoped that by watching at the gates they might find ſome opportunity of entring into the City.

V. 21. Then I teſtified againſt them, and ſaid unto them] See v. 15.

Why lodge ye about the wall?] Heb. before the wall. He thought it not enough to keep them who were within the City from being tempted to profane the Sabbath, but alſo he did what he could to keep thoſe that were without from that ſin.

If you do ſo again, I will lay hands on you] This implieth ſome puniſhment to be inflicted upon them, as to be put in the ſtocks, or caſt into priſon.

From that time forth came they no more on the Sabbath] Fear of puniſhment makes many forbear that which conſcience moves them not to forbear.

V. 22. And I commanded the Levites] The civil Magiſtrate hath power to command Eccleſiaſtical perſons to perform their duty, 2 Chr. 31.11.

that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves] This cleanſing implieth the very ſame thing that ſanctifying doth, 1 Chr. 15.12,14.

and that they ſhould come and keep the gates] i. e. of the houſe of God. For what had the Levites to do with the gates of the City? Or what needed they take care thereof, when the charge was laid upon the Governours ſervants? Or what needed they cleanſe themſelves to keep the gates of the City?

to ſanctifie the Sabbath-day] By keeping ſuch as were unclean from the houſe and ordinances of God. For their entring within the gates of Gods houſe would have been a profaning thereof, eſpecially on the Sabbath-day.

Remember me, O my God, concerning this alſo] See v. 14.

and ſpare me] He pleaded no merit before God, in that he prayed to be ſpared or forgiven: for he was conſcious of his own many failings.

according to the greatneſs (or multitude) of thy mercy] Gods mercy is the ground of mans hope of pardon. True believers ſo deeply apprehend the multitude and heinouſneſs of their ſins, as they are moved thereby to plead the multitude and greatneſs of Gods mercy, Pſal. 51.1.

V. 23. In thoſe dayes alſo] Here followeth a third great corruption, which Nehemiah removed after his ſecond coming to Jeruſalem. See v. 7, 15.

ſaw I Jews] Who were of the holy ſeed, and profeſſed the true religion.

that had married] Heb. had made to dwell with them. For husbands and wives uſe to dwell together, 1 Pet. 3.7.

wives of Aſhdod] Aſhdod was a Principality of the Philiſtims, 1 Sam. 6.17. who were of the curſed Canaanites, Joſh. 13.2,3. of Ammon, and of Moab] Though Ammon and Moab were children of Lot, Gen. 19.37,38. yet were they ſtrangers, without the covenant, and bitter enemies to Gods people. See v. 1.

V. 24. And their children ſpake half in the ſpeech of Aſhdod] This is to be applied alſo to Ammon and Moab. Their mothers training them up in their childhood, they imitated their ſpeech; which was too great an evidence that they imitated alſo their manners. This ſhews the miſchievous effect of unequal marriages: Children are poyſoned thereby.

and could not ſpeak] Heb. they diſcerned not to ſpeak. They knew not which was the better language, nor to which they were moſt bound.

in the Jews language] Their fathers were Jews, yet they more inclined to their heathenish mothers. All evil is down hill, with the wind and tide; ſo as children are more eaſily brought by the mother to evil then by the father to good.

but according to the language of each people] Heb. of people and people. Every child learned the language of his mother.

V. 25. And I contended with them] See v. 11.

and curſed them] Or, reviled them. He did not this in raſh rage, as many do when they curſe others, but ſharply reproved them, and told them that they had made themſelves guilty of the curſe whereinto they entred ch. 10.29.

and ſmote certain of them] This is to be taken of ſome lawful puniſhment, which, as a chief Governour, he had power to inflict upon them, Deut. 25.2.

and pluckt off their hair] His holy zeal made him earneſt in executing unuſual puniſhment upon them. Thus did Ezra to himſelf, Ezr. 9.3.

and made them ſwear by God] All lawful oaths are to be made by God alone, Deut. 6.13. This oath they had taken before, ch. 10. 29, 30. but here he brings them more particularly and ſolemnly to take it again.

Ye ſhall not give your daughters, &c.] See ch. 10.30.

or for your ſelves] Sinful things that parents ought not to do for their children, they muſt much leſs do for themſelves.

V. 26. Did not Solomon King of Iſrael ſin by theſe things] By marrying ſtrange wives, and yielding to their idolatrous courſes, 1 King. 11.1,4, &c.

yet among many nations was there no king like him] In wiſdom, honour, riches, and many other excellencies, 1 King. 3.12,13.

who was beloved of his God] 2 Sam. 12.25. Such as are beloved of God may walk moſt unworthy of his love.

and God made him king over all Iſrael] Solomon had many elder brothers, but God preferred him before them all, 1 Chr. 28.4,5. Adonijah acknowledgeth thus much, 1 King. 2.15.

nevertheleſs, even him did out-landiſh women cauſe to ſin] And that moſt groſly, by following Aſhtaroth and other idols, 1 King. 11. 4, &c.

V. 27. Shall we then hearken unto you] Yield to do as you do, or ſuffer you to continue to do what you do.

to do all this great evil] Marrying of ſtrange wives was an evil, a great evil, and of a large extent.

to tranſgreſs againſt our God, in marrying ſtrange wives] Beſides the inconveniences that mix'd marriages brought to humane societies, it was an expreſs ſin againſt God.

V. 28. And one of the ſons of Joiada] i. e. one of the Nephews or grand-children of Joiada. For Joſephus the Jewiſh Antiquary ſetteth him down by name to be Manaſſes, who was the brother of Jaddua, high Prieſt in his time, Antiq. l. 11. c. 7.

the ſon of Eliaſhib the high Prieſt] Ch. 12.10.

was ſon in law to Sanballat] By marrying his daughter.

the Horonite] See ch. 2.10.

therefore I chaſed him from me] Nehemiah ſo ordered the matter that Manaſſes was excommunicated, and thereby thruſt out from having any thing to do in the houſe of God: yea he was alſo thruſt away from their civil ſociety, and in that reſpect chaſed from the Governour, ſo as he could have no acceſs to him. The foreſaid Joſephus ſaith that his father in law Sanballat, with many fair promiſes of building a Temple, like to that at Jeruſalem, upon mount Gerizzim, and making him the chief Prieſt thereof, moved him to abide at Samaria, where the ſaid Manaſſes entertained ſundry other Prieſts and Iſraelites that had married ſtrange wives, and Sanballat provided houſes and lands for them in the dominion of Samaria. It is ſuppoſed that the deadly feud betwixt the Samaritans and the Jews, Joh. 4.9. did hence ariſe.

V. 29. Remember them, O my God] See ch. 4.4.

becauſe they have defiled the prieſthood] Heb. for the defilings of the prieſthood. Unlawful marriages were a defilement of that function to thoſe perſons that were ſo married, Levit. 21.6,7.

and the covenant of the prieſthood, and of the Levites] There was a ſpecial covenant that God made with Levi, and in him with all his ſeed, Mal. 2.4. but more particularly with Aaron and his ſons, yea, with all his poſterity, Levit. 8. 35. & 21.1, &c. & 22.2, &c. Numb. 25.12,13. 1 Sam. 2.30.

V. 30. Thus cleanſed I them from all ſtrangers] This hath in ſpecial relation to all ſorts of Miniſters in the houſe of God, namely, to all degrees of Prieſts and Levites that had married ſtrange wives. Either he moved them to put away their ſtrange wives and ſuch children as they had by them, as ch. 9.2. or forced them to leave the Temple and the land.

and appointed the wards of the Prieſts and the Levites] Such courſes as David had formerly appointed, 1 Chr. 23, 24, 25, & 26.

V. 31. And for the wood-offering at times appointed] See ch. 10. 34.

and for the firſt-fruits] See ch. 10.35.

Remember me, O my God for good] See ch. 5.19. This is a ſweet cloſe of the Old Teſtament. For this is the laſt hiſtory and book thereof. The Book of Eſther which is placed after this, is an hiſtory of many years before. See the Argument before that book. As for the Prophets, they all but the three laſt were before the Captivity. And two of thoſe three, Haggai & Zechariah, uttered their Prophecies about the time that the Temple was in finiſhing, namely in the four firſt years of Darius, Ezra 5.1. Hag. 1.1. Zech. 1.1. and 7.1. Malachi, who is the laſt of all the Prophets, propheſied anon after the Temple was built, as is evident by the main ſcope of his Prophecy; ſo as he may well be thought to have uttered his Prophecy in the dayes of Darius, wherein Haggai and Zechariah uttered theirs, or in the time of Artaxerxes reign when Ezra came firſt to Jeruſalem. Many both ancient Fathers and latter Writers ſuppoſe Ezra and Malachi were one and the ſame perſon; for Malachi ſignifieth a Meſſenger, and Ezra was the Lords ſpecial Meſſenger.

ANNOTATIONS

On the Book of ESTHER.

THE ARGUMENT.

Both the Hebrew and moſt tranſlators entitle this Book ESTHER, in memory of that prudent and pious Queen who was a principal inſtrument of that good which in this Book is related to have been done to the Church of God. The particular paſſages of the Hiſtory are theſe. I. Ahaſuerus, a great Monarch, made a ſumptuous feaſt, ſent for his Queen Vaſhti, to ſhew her before the people in her royal apparel; but ſhe refuſing to come, by the advice of his Counſel he put her away, ch. 1. II. *Being minded to marry another, he choſe Eſther, a Virgin, a profeſſor and lover of the true Religion; on whom he ſo ſet his heart as he could deny her nothing, ch.*2,5,7,8. III. He advanced above all the Princes Haman, a proud man, and a malicious enemy of Gods people; who, becauſe Mordecai yielded not ſuch reverence to him as others did, thought it too little to execute his cruel rage on him but ſought to root out the whole ſtock of the Jews, ch. 3. IV. Mordecai having notice of a conſpiracy of the Kings officers to take away the Kings life, made it known; and thereupon it was regiſtred in their publick records: which the King, on a night when he could not ſleep, finding recorded, advanced Mordecai in dignity and authority next to himſelf, ch 2.21,22. & 6.1, &c. V. *The plot of Haman againſt Mordecai and all the Iews being divulged, Eſther, after once and twice feaſting of the King and Haman together, ſo wrought upon the King as he commanded Haman to be hanged upon the gibbet which he had prepared for Mordecai, and gave ſuch liberty to the Iews to defend themſelves and oppoſe their enemies, as the Iews eſcaped the danger intended againſt them, and their enemies were deſtroyed, yea, and all Hamans ſons alſo, ch.*7.5, &c. & 8. & 9.1, &c. VI. *The means of obtaining this favour from the Lord was Faſting and Prayer, ch.*4.16,17. VII. *The effects following hereupon were ſolemn rejoycing and thanksgiving for the preſent, and an annual memory thereof for the future, together with that good which Mordecai further did to the Church of God, ch.*9.17, *&c. The time of this hiſtory was about twenty years. For in the third year of Ahaſuerus was the forementioned feaſt, ch.*1.3. In his ſeventh year he married Eſther, ch. 2.16. *In the twelfth year Haman plotted his miſchievous plot againſt the Iews, ch.*3.7. *Now he reigned two and twenty years, and all his reign was Mordecai in high eſteem, and ſought the good of his people, ch.*10.3. There is in this book an evidence of Gods over-ruling providence in many particulars; and earneſt prayer with faſting was made to God, and ſolemn praiſe given unto God, and a yearly day of praiſing God ordained; yet throughout the whole Book not one title of God is once ſet down. The like is not to be found in any other book of Scripture, whether long or ſhort.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. Now it came to paſs in the dayes of Ahaſuerus] Heb. Ahaſueroſh. Of this name ſee Ezr.4.6. It was rather a title given to ſet forth the dignity of the man then a proper name to diſtinguiſh him from others. Hence it is that there hath been ſo many different opinions about him. Some think he was Aſtyages the grandfather of Cyrus, King of the Medes, who lived in the time that the Jews remained captives in Babylon. But it cannot be imagined that an hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces ſhould be under his juriſdiction, the Babyloniſh Monarchy being then in its height. There is never a King of Perſia after Cyrus but ſome or other have taken him to be this Ahaſuerus. The moſt probable opinion is that he was that Monarch whom Hiſtorians call Xerxes, ſon to that Darius who ſucceeded the Magi and married Cyrus his daughter. The wife of this man is by heathen writers named Ameſtris, which may be taken from Eſther. If ſo, then without all queſtion Xerxes was this Ahaſuerus. This Xerxes by reaſon of the many conqueſts he obtained, was called The terrour of the Grecians. He reigned two and twenty years, as ſome report; or but twenty, as others.

this is Ahaſuerus which reigned from India even unto Ethiopia] Though former Kings of the Medes and Perſians had conquered many countreys, yet none of them ſubdued Ethiopia. Xerxes was the firſt that brought it into a Province; in which reſpect Ahaſuerus here may well be ſuppoſed to be Xerxes.

over an hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces] We read that Darius King of the Medes, who vanquiſhed Belſhazzar, appointed an hundred and twenty Governours, which ſhould rule over the whole kingdome, Dan.6.1. whence it is infer'd that he had ſo many provinces under him, every Governour having the charge of a province. But in this mans time ſeven provinces more were brought under.

V. 2. That in thoſe dayes] This hath reference to the firſt words of v.1.

when the king Ahaſuerus ſat on the throne of his kingdom] This implieth a quiet and peaceable enjoyment of his Kingdom: Which might be ſo at that time, though afterwards he had troubles.

which was in Shuſhan the palace] See Neh.1.1.

V. 3. In the third year of his reign] In the beginning of his reign he proſecuted the wars that his predeceſſors had begun, but in this year he had well ſetled his Kingdom, v.2.

he made a feaſt] This he did to teſtifie the joy he took in the ſettlement of his throne, and the more to inſinuate himſelf into the hearts of thoſe to whom he made it, and to make them cleave the cloſer to ſo munificent a Prince, as hereby he ſhewed himſelf to be.

unto all his Princes] i. e. ſuch Princes and Governours as were not onely in the city Shuſhan, but alſo throughout the whole dominion, in his hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces.

and his ſervants] His Courtiers, who had ſome ſpecial offices about his perſon. See 1 King.9.22.

the power of Perſia and Media] Power is here metonymically put for mighty and valiant men. Or the hoſt of the Kingdom may be here meant. Some here underſtand the word Princes. q. d. The Princes of the power. By Cyrus theſe two Kingdoms, Perſia and Media, were united, and therefore oft thus joyned together, v.14, 18. Dan.8.20.

the Nobles] See Neh.2.16.

and Princes of the provinces] Such as were Governours and chief Commanders over the fore-ſaid provinces under this Monarch.

being before him] Being now preſent at Shuſhan; not all together, but ſome at one time, and ſome at another, as is ſhewed v.4.

V.4. when he ſhewed the riches of his glorious kingdom] Or, the riches, the glory of his kingdom, &c. Such entertainment as was here made for ſo long time muſt needs imply great riches. Beſides, he might alſo ſhew his treaſures to his Princes, as Hezekiah did his to the king of Babylons Ambaſſadors, 2 King.20.13. By glory of his kingdom may be meant whatſoever therein was admirable, as his ſumptuous buildings, warlike preparations, his throne, his attendants, and other like things.

and the honour of his excellent majeſty] His own deportment, his ſitting upon the throne, his attire, his manner of executing juſtice and judgement, with other like excellencies that concerned his own peſon.

many dayes, even an hundred and fourſcore dayes] This was half a year within two or three dayes. He might continue the ſolemnity of his feaſting ſo long, becauſe there were Princes that came from ſundry parts of the world, and many of them far remote from Shuſhan; and ſome might tarry one while, and then depart away; and others another while, and then depart. Thus were there ſome going, ſome coming, which made the feſtivals continue the longer.

V.5. And when theſe dayes were expired] i.e. when he made an end of feaſting the Princes.

the king made a feaſt unto all the people] Hereby are meant all manner of ſubjects that were fit to be entertained by ſuch a King.

that were preſent] Heb. found. See 1 Chr.9.17.

in Shuſhan the palace] All the people throughout his whole Kingdom were not here ſent for, as the Princes were, v.3. but onely ſuch as were in the city where his Court was.

both unto great and ſmall] Though theſe be diſtinguiſhed from the Princes or Governours before mentioned, yet many of great place and ſtate here met together, with ſuch as were of inferiour rank.

ſeven dayes] The reaſon of the difference betwixt the time of the former feaſt, v.4. and of this, was, becauſe that was for ſuch as dwelt in very remote provinces, this onely for ſuch as were in Shuſhan.

in the court of the garden of the kings palace] Or, in the entrance of that garden. This place was choſen for the ſpaciouſneſſe and pleaſantneſſe of it, that ſo more people might ſit together, and that with the greater delight. By this we may gather that this feaſt was in the ſummer-time, it being abroad under the skie.

V.6. where were white, green, and blue] Or, violet. Our Engliſh well addeth hangings, or tapeſtry. The variety of colours made them the fairer to ſight.

faſtned with cords of fine linen and purple] The word tranſlated fine linen is oft put for ſilk. The forementioned hangings or curtains were upon ſilk-cords of purple colour.

to ſilver-rings] Theſe rings were faſtned to the hangings, and thereby they ran upon the cords.

and pillars of marble] Theſe pillars were ſet one againſt another, that the cords might be faſtned to them, and ſo held upright.

the beds were of gold and ſilver] By beds are here meant tables whereon their meat was ſet. For of old they were wont to eat their meat on beds; on which they uſed to lean, and that as it were one within another. In which reſpect John is ſaid to lean on Jeſus boſom, Joh.13.23. See ch.7.8. The gold and ſilver here mentioned is to be applyed to the feet and ſides and head of the bed, to that which we call the bedſtead. In this ſenſe mention is made of beds of ivory, Amos 6.4.

upon a pavement of red, and blue, and white, and black marble] Or, of porphyre, and marble, and alabaſter, and ſtone of blue colour. This was both a coſtly and beautifull pavement. We read that Solomon made the foundation of his houſe with coſtly ſtone, 1 King.7.9. Surely this pavement was alſo of coſtly ſtones.

V.7. And they gave them drink in veſſels of gold] This much amplified the Kings royalty.

the veſſels being diverſe one from another] This may be applyed to the different faſhions of ſeveral cups, or to the many cups wherein they did drink. They had not one or two for them all, but divers perſons had divers cups.

and royal wine] Heb. wine of the kingdom. This doth not onely ſet forth the place where the grapes grew, and wine was preſſed, but alſo the excellency of the wine: choice wine made for the King, or fit for the King.

in abundance] They had not onely that which was good, but alſo great ſtore thereof. So Chriſt provided for his friends good wine, and much wine, Joh,2.6,7,9,10.

according to the ſtate of the king] Heb. according to the hand of the king. Men by the hand reach out that which they give to others. The Hebraiſm implyeth that the proviſion which the King had made, and which anſwerably he did here give to his gueſts, was royal, munificent, and ſuch as became ſuch a King.

V.8. And the drinking was according to the law] That law which the King had ſet down, and which followeth in the next words.

none did compell] Namely, that any ſhould drink more or oftner then it pleaſed himſelf. This is directly contray to mens too frequent drinking of healths.

for ſo the king had appointed] Heb. had founded. i.e. had appointed as an inviolable ordinance. This was the law before mentioned.

to all the officers of his houſe] Heb. to every great one. Or, to every maſter of his houſe. To every one that had a charge of providing wine, or of ſetting it before the gueſts.

that they ſhould do according to every mans pleaſure] Heb. according to the will of a man and a man. According to the ſenſe the words are well tranſlated. The meaning is, that every one ſhould have as much as he called for, or was minded to drink. The King hereby would ſet forth his magnificence. To this purpoſe ſome expound that phraſe, None did compell, thus, None might reſtrain, none might ſet a ſtint to any, or withhold that which he called for.

V.9. Alſo Vaſhti the Queen made a feaſt for all the women] This might very well ſtand with the Kings liking. For it added much to the Kings munificence, that women ſhould partake thereof as well as men. It is alſo probable that this Queen, being high-minded, (as appeareth v.12.) would not be behind the King; but as he entertained the men, ſo would ſhe the women. Women were thus aſſembled together, becauſe in thoſe countreys they did not uſe to feaſt with men. Some reſtrain this to thoſe wives whoſe husbands feaſted with the King.

in the royal houſe which belonged to king Ahaſuerus] Heb. in the houſe of the kingdom: i.e. the Kings royall palace.

V.10. On the ſeventh day] After he had been eating and drinking liberally ſix dayes. For the feaſt laſted ſeven dayes, v.5.

when the heart of the king was merry with wine] Heb. when his heart was good. Good in Hebrew is oft taken for plenty and abundance, Exod.3.8. Num.14.7. 1 Chr.28.8. 1 Sam.25.8. or for that which ſeemeth good to a man. And ſo it is tranſlated merry, Judg.16.25. Ruth 3.7. The meaning is, that he had drunk ſo much as he did not well weigh what he did, but followed that which his delight moved him to do, rather then what a ſound and ſober judgement would have invited him to.

he commanded Mehuman, &c.] Here are ſeven names ſet down of men which were then at hand attending upon the King; all Perſian names, and no where elſe found: onely mention is made of Harbona ch.2.9.

the ſeven Chamberlains] Or, Eunuchs. See 1 King.22.9.

that ſerved in the preſence of Ahaſuerus the King] This phraſe doth not onely point at their preſent attendance on the King, but alſo at their office, which was to attend on the King at meat, in his bed-chamber, or whereſoever he was.

V.11. To bring Vaſhti the Queen before the King] While he was drinking amongſt the people.

with the Crown-royal] One part of her glorious attire is here put for all the reſt. For he would have her appear in all her Prince-like apparel with the Crown upon her head.

to ſhew the people and the Princes her beauty] He himſelf was much taken with her beauty, and accounted it one part of his glory that he had ſo beautiful a wife: Wherefore as he ſhewed forth his glory and excellency in other things, v.4. ſo here he would do in his wife.

for ſhe was fair to look on] Heb. good of countenance. Had this King been now ſober, and adviſedly conſidered what he was about, this reaſon might rather have moved him to have kept his wife from the ſight of ſo many as were then preſent: for beauty is a great allurement to corrupt nature unto undue luſt. Hiſtories record many ill events that have followed ſuch practices.

V.12. But the Queen Vaſhti refuſed to come at the Kings commandment] Though the King did not as became him in ſending for the Queen at ſuch a time and in ſuch a manner, yet ſhe did ill in refuſing to come. For though ſome pretenſe of modeſty might be alledged for her, that ſhe thought it unſeemly for ſuch a woman as ſhe was to be in the company of ſo many men as were there eating and drinking together, and that ſhe might ſuppoſe that the King and moſt of the company with him were drunken, yet her peremptory refuſing to come cannot be freed from diſobedience to an husband, and from arrogancy and contumacy to a King. She might at leaſt have made ſome fair excuſe, and expected the Kings acceptance thereof. But this ſudden reſolute denial made her blame-worthy.

by his Chamberlains] Heb. which was by the hand of his Eunuchs. See 1 King.8.53,56.& 22 9.

therefore was the king very wroth] Being a great Monarch, in the midſt of his Princes and people, ſetting forth his glory to the uttermoſt, & overcome with wine, he takes himſelf to be ſcorned & deſpiſed, and thereupon his choler was exceedingly ſtirred up. Herein he is not to be juſtified: for upon the Queens refuſal, he ſhould more ſeriouſly have conſidered whether it had been a juſt or meet commandment or no. But nothing more incenſeth great mens wrath then a conceit that they are deſpiſed, whether the thing they command be lawful or no, Dan.3.19.

and his anger burned in him] Anger is in a man as fire in an oven or furnace; being once kindled it waxeth fierce, as the anger of Simeon and Levi, Gen.49.7. Yea Moſes his anger is ſaid to wax hot in him, Exod.32.19 This Kings anger, as a fire, did ſo burn in him, as it ſuffered him not to reſt till he had taken revenge. This latter phraſe is added by way of aggravation.

V.13. Then the king ſaid unto the wiſe men]There were certain among the heathen that gave themſelves to obſerve the courſes of the ſtars, the conjunction of Planets, and effects that followed thereupon; and becauſe many things rare and ſtrange were made known by them, they were accounted and called wiſe-men, Matth.2.1. There were others ſo accounted who uſed curious arts, as Act.19.19. who are in Scripture called Magicians and Sorcerers, Exod.7.11. and Aſtrologers, Dan.2.27. Others alſo addicted themſelves to the ſtudy of Philoſophy and other humane learning; others to the ſtudy of State-affairs and well-ordering of Kingdoms and Common-wealths, and to that end made ſundry good lawes: All theſe were called, by a kind of Excellency, wiſe-men. In Greece there were ſeven that among and above others were called the ſeven wiſe-men. Such as theſe were in all nations, as Gen.41.8. Iſa.29.14. Jer.10.7. & 50.35. Dan.1.12. Matth.2.1. The wiſe-men here were ſuch eſpecially as gave themſelves to underſtand State-affairs, and had attained to great experience thereabouts. So ch.6.13.

which knew the times] See 1 Chr.12.32. Hereby is meant that they well underſtood in what times and ſeaſons State-affairs might beſt be done, yea what things were fit to be done, what left undone. For by their own obſervation of ſundry paſſages of State, and by acquainting themſelves with all manner of paſſages in former ages, they were found to give good counſell about ſuch matters as were propounded to them. Such did Kings uſe to take to be of their Privy Councel: And ſuch were theſe.

for ſo was the manner] As the King had formerly done in all publick and weighty affairs, ſo he doth in this caſe. Though his anger boyled within him, and he were out of meaſure offended, thinking himſelf ſcorned by his wife, yet he would not go againſt his accuſtomed courſe. He would even in this caſe take ſuch advice and counſel as he had done in others. This was commendable in him.

towards all that knew law and judgement] This is a deſcription of thoſe whoſe counſel he took. They were not ſimply of his kindred and friends or favourites, but ſuch as well underſtood the law, and were able to give juſt and righteous judgement.

V.14. And the next to him] There were more wiſe men of the Kings Councel at large then theſe here mentioned, but theſe were of his Cabinet-counſel, and preferred before all the reſt.

was Carſhena, &c.] Here are ſeven Perſian names, not elſewhere mentioned; onely Memucan is again named v.16,21.

the ſeven Princes of Perſia and Media] The Princes here mentioned were not ſuch as are meant v.3. They were over their particular Provinces, but theſe were to adviſe with the King about the whole kingdom and all the provinces therein. They were ſuch as are called ſeven Counſellours, Ezr.7.14.

which ſaw the kings face] Kings of Perſia ſeldome came out before the people; and it was a matter of great favour and high honour to be admitted into their preſence: but this phraſe implyeth that theſe ſeven Counſellors had on all occaſions free acceſs to the King, and liberty to give him advice in all great and weighty matters. See on Eccleſ.8.2.

and which ſat the firſt in the kingdom] Were next under the King, preferred before all other Princes and Counſellors; as the three Rulers were in Darius his time, Dan.6.2.

V.15. What ſhall we do] Heb. What to do. This is an indefinite phraſe, which may be imperſonally taken, What ſhall be done, or, as we have it, What ſhall we do. This hath reference to the firſt clauſe of v.13.

unto the Queen Vaſhti] By reaſon of her diſobedience, v.12.

according to law] This ſhews his care to keep cloſe to the law. The King himſelf would not apparently tranſgreſſe that.

becauſe ſhe hath not performed the commandment of the king, &c.] See v.12.

V.16. And Memucan anſwered before the king] Though this Memucan was laſt named, and it may be was the laſt in order and degree, yet he was the forwardeſt to declare his opinion, and probably he was counted the wiſeſt of them all.

and the Princes] i.e. the other ſix Princes named v.14.

Vaſhti the Queen hath not done wrong to the king onely]Though her diſobedience was onely againſt the Kings commandment, yet the conſequence that was like to follow thereupon might prove prejudicial to others.

but alſo to all the Princes] This word Princes is here to be taken in the largeſt extent, for all that were in dignity or had authority throughout the whole Kingdom.

and to all the people that are in all the provinces, &c.] He thus amplifieth the extent of her fact, to aggravate her fault.

V.17. For this deed of the Queen ſhall come abroad unto all women] He takes it for granted that her fact being ſo publick as it was muſt needs be divulged far and neer. For the King ſent for her before a great multitude of people and Princes, v.11. and there turn of her refuſal was in the preſence of them all: Beſides, the Queen when ſhe was ſent for was among a great multitude of women, v.9. ſo as they all muſt needs take notice of it.

ſo that they ſhall deſpiſe their husbands in their eyes] Evil examples corrupt many. For all of all ſorts are very prone to follow thoſe evil courſes wherein others go before them. The phraſe here uſed ſheweth that Vaſhti's refuſall was taken to be done in ſcorn, and to be a deſpiſing of her husband.

when it ſhall be reported, The king Ahaſuerus commanded, &c.] The argument is taken from the greater to the leſs. For if a Kings wife refuſed to come to her husband, much more will the wives of inferiour perſons refuſe to come at their husbands command. The higher and greater and more eminent that any perſons are, the more dangerous will their evil examples be.

V.18. Likewiſe ſhall the Ladies of Perſia and Media ſay] i.e. when their husbands ſhall require any thing at their hands, they will ſay they will not do it.

unto all the kings princes] Leſt the fore-mentioned miſchief ſhould be thought to extend it ſelf onely to the meaner ſort of husbands, he addes thoſe words.

which have heard of the deed of the Queen] This hath in ſpeciall reference to the Ladies before mentioned, who were ſuppoſed to be ſuch as were then at the feaſt with Queen Vaſhti.

Thus ſhall there ariſe too much contempt and wrath] Contempt hath reference to the act of wives; wrath to that paſſion in husbands raiſed up thereby; By this means wives may be brought to deſpiſe their husbands too much, and too much choler may be raiſed up in husbands againſt their wives.

V.19. If it pleaſe the King] Heb. If it be good with the King. See Neh.2.5,7. Though he declared his opinion, yet he would have nothing done but according to the Kings mind.

let there go a royal commandment from him] Heb. from before him. Whoſoever were the firſt inventers or contrivers of a law, it muſt have the force of a law by the Kings authority.

and let it be written among the laws of the Perſians and the Medes] To make the law more firm and inviolable.

that it be not altered] Heb. that it paſs not away. As a thing once or twice to be obſerved, and no more; but to remain for ever. For the laws of the Medes and the Perſians, if they were once regiſtred, and ſigned by the King, might not be reverſed, Dan.6.8,15.

that Vaſhti come no more before king Ahaſuerus] This implieth a direct divorſe and an abſolute putting of her away, that ſhe ſhould be his wife no more.

and let the King give her royal eſtate unto another] Heb. unto her companion. That ſhould be married unto the King, and be a Queen as ſhe was.

that is better then ſhe] More meek, more humble, more ready to yield to the Kings command.

V.20. And when the Kings decree which he ſhall make] The forementioned law ratified and confirmed by the King is here meant.

ſhall be publiſhed throughout all his Empire] So uſed all publick and general laws to be ſpread abroad.

for it is great] How great it was is declared v.1.

all the wives ſhall give to their husbands honour] A wives obedience is an honour to her husband; thereby ſhe honours him her ſelf, and cauſeth him to be well eſteemed by others.

both to great and ſmall] By great ones are meant ſuch as are in high place, ſuch as have authority and command over others, ſuch as are wealthy, or in other reſpect preferred before the common ſort: By ſmall ones, ſuch as are of inferiour degrees and ranks. Hereby is ſhewed that husbands, as husbands, whatſoever their outward eſtate and condition be, are to be honoured and obeyed by their wives.

V.21. And the ſaying pleaſed the king] Heb. was good in the eyes of the king. See 2 Chr.30.4. By ſaying is meant the adviſe and counſel that was given the King.

and the Princes] See v.16.

And the king did according to the word of Memucan] He made ſuch a decree as Memucan adviſed, and publiſhed it, v.20.

V.22. For he ſent letters into all the kings provinces] Even to the hundred and ſeven and twenty Provinces.

into every province] Heb. province and province. i.e. unto every particular province.

according to the writing thereof] In ſuch characters and words as each province was uſed to write in.

and to every people] Heb. to people and people.

after their language] In ſuch ſpeech as each people uſed and underſtood.

that every man ſhould bear rule in his own houſe] That whatſoever he enjoyned and commanded, ſhould be yielded unto and performed by all that were in the houſe, whether ſervants, children, or wives. This, in caſe of conſcience, muſt be reſtrained to things lawfull.

and that it ſhould be publiſhed according to the language of every people] Heb. that one ſhould publiſh it according to the language of his people. This is commonly taken for publiſhing the decree, ſo as every one in their ſeveral countreys and families might underſtand it, it being publiſhed in their own mother-tongue. Others take this for a part of the decree, as if it were enjoyned to wives and to others in the family to uſe that kind of language which the maſter of the family uſed; which was taken to be a ſign of ſubjection, Dan.1.4.

CHAP. II.

Verſ.1. After theſe things] This hath reference to the hiſtory of the former chapter, eſpecially to the latter part thereof, about putting away Vaſhti. In this chapter is ſet down the means of bringing Eſther to be Queen, from the beginning to v. 21. and from thence to the end, Mordecai's diſcovery of a treaſon againſt the King; which in time proved to be a means of Mordecai's advancement.

when the wrath of king Ahaſuerus was appeaſed] How much diſpleaſed and offended the King was at Vaſhti her refuſing to come to him, is noted ch.1.12. but time aſſwageth the heat of wrath. It was four years after he had put away Vaſhti before he took another wife, to make her Queen in Vaſhti her ſtead. For the feaſt was in his third year, ch.1.3. and Eſther was made Queen in his ſeventh, v.16,17. But his wrath might be appeaſed within a few weeks or moneths after he had put Vaſhti away; and the reſt of the time he ſpent in ſeeking out, and fitting and preparing Virgins to come unto him; for every virgin was twelve moneths in purifying before ſhe was brought to the King, v.12.

he remembred Vaſhti] This phraſe implieth a calling to mind ſomething paſt. He was in drink and in rage at the time of Vaſhti's refuſing to come to him; and his ſeven Counſellors added to his wrath by aggravating her offenſe: but his mind being afterward more calmed, he thinks of that love that formerly he bare to her, of her beauty, of the kind of her offenſe; and it may be alſo of his own diſtemper, and of the unmeetneſs of that which he required of her; and withall, of the kind of penalty, which was an utter divorce of her from him, and of the irrevocableneſs of the law made againſt her. Upon conſideration of all theſe he might be much perplexed in his ſpirit, and complain thereof to ſuch as were about him.

and what ſhe had done] See ch.1.12.

and what was decreed againſt her] See ch.1.19.

V.2. Then ſaid the kings ſervants] Either they diſcerned the inward grief and trouble of his mind by ſome outward ſigns, or elſe the King himſelf declared his mind unto them.

that miniſtred unto him] This may be taken indefinitely of ſuch as from time to time attended upon the King, to do ſuch ſervice as he ſhould require of them, as 2 Sam.13.17. Or elſe more particularly it may be applied to thoſe ſeven Princes which ſaw the Kings face, and had acceſs to him on all occaſions, ch.1.14. For they might fear that if his grief were not aſſwaged, and he ſome way or other ſatisfied, he might be incenſed againſt them for giving that counſel to him which they did: as the wrath of Darius was incenſed againſt the Princes who brought him to make a decree againſt Daniel, Dan.6.24.

Let there be fair young virgins ſought for the king] They give this counſel to the King, that his heart being ſet upon another wife he might not ſo remember Vaſhti as he did.

V.3. And let the king appoint officers] By officers are meant ſuch as were deputed to that purpoſe, and had the Kings authority to take and bring to him ſuch virgins as they thought meet.

in all the Provinces of his kingdom] Theſe were very many, ch.1.1. and ſome of them very far diſtant from Shuſhan; ſo as there needed many officers, and much time was to be ſpent about effecting this.

that they may gather together] Some at one time, ſome at another. Many months might paſs over before ſome were brought.

all the fair young virgins, &c.] Here are three qualifications, which meeting together might give content to the King; 1. Fair, 2. Young, 3. Virgins. Beauty much pleaſeth a mans eye. It is ordinarily moſt amiable in younger years: And men moſt deſire ſuch wives as have not been known by any man before.

to the houſe of the women] Women hath relation to the female ſex, rather then to the age or preſent condition, Maids, Wives, or Concubines: For if there were not two houſes, there were at leaſt two diſtinct parts of this houſe; in which reſpect one of them is called the ſecond houſe, v.14. The firſt houſe was for the virgins that had not been brought in to the King. The other was for ſuch as the King had known, v.14. and theſe might be counted the Kings concubines. We read that Solomon had three hundred concubines, 1 King.11.3.

unto the cuſtody] Heb. unto the hand. For the hand is that part whereby a man uſeth to receive a thing, and to do the moſt things that he doth. Herein he meaneth alſo care and over-ſight.

of Hege] Or, Hegai, v.8. It is ſaid v.14. that the women were committed to the cuſtody of Shaaſhgaz: But either the virgins might be committed to Hegai, and the concubines to Shaaſhgaz, and ſo they two be Governours of two houſes; or Hegai might be the chief Governour of both houſes, and Shaaſhgaz under him.

the kings Chamberlain] See ch.1.10.

keeper of the women] Of ſuch as were brought to the houſe, before they had ſeen the King, or after.

and let their things for purification be given them] No ſuch legal purification as God appointed his people, Numb.19.9,17. 2 Chr.30.19. but perfuming them with ſweet odours and anoynting them with ſweet oyl is here meant, v.12.

V.4. And let the maiden which pleaſeth the king] Heb. which is good in the eyes of the king. All their aim was to give content to the King.

be queen inſtead of Vaſhti] That the King having one on whom his delight was ſet, might forget Vaſhti and be no more perplexed about putting her away.

And the thing pleaſed the king] See ch.1.21. Though our Engliſh make ſome difference, uſing the word ſaying in the former place, and thing in this, yet in the Hebrew there is no difference at all. The Hebrew word ſignifieth both.

and he did ſo] Men are ready to do the things that pleaſe them.

V.5. Now in Shuſhan the palace there was a certain Jew] The captive Jews were diſperſed into many places, (ſee ch.3.8.) ſo as all went not with thoſe that were in Babylon, to Jeruſalem, Ezra 2.1, &c.

whoſe name was Mordecai] This name ſignifieth pure myrrhe. It is here expreſſed for honours ſake; for he was a man of great place and of good uſe to the Church of God. There was another of this name who came up to Jeruſalem with Zerubbabel, Ezr.2.2.

the ſon of Jair, &c.] Here are four degrees in his pedigree ſet forth. For it was an honour to all his anceſtours to have ſuch a ſon deſcend from them.

a Benjamite] Kiſh the father of Saul was alſo a Benjamite; but this Kiſh lived many years after that.

V.6. Who had been carried away from Jeruſalem] This relative who hath the fitteſt reference to Kiſh that immediately went before; q.d. Kiſh was carried away. Thus many doubts which ariſe about the age of Mordecai upon ſuppoſal that he is here meant to have been carried away from Jeruſalem, are removed. For Kiſh might well beget Shimei, and Shimei Jair, and Jair Mordecai, betwixt the time wherein the Jews were firſt carried away captives and this time of Mordecai.

with the captivity which had been carried away with Jeconiah, &c.] This was the firſt captivity into Babylon, 2 King.24.15. 2 Chr.36.10. Jer.24.1. From the Kings going into captivity the ſeventy years of the Babyloniſh captivity are reckoned, Jer.25.11. & 29.10. Dan.9.2. Neh.7.5.

V.7. And he brought up] Heb. nouriſhed. He both provided all things needfull for her body, and educated her in true religion.

Hadaſſah] This is taken to be her proper name which her parents gave her: It ſignifieth a myrtle-tree.

(that is, Eſther)] It is ſuppoſed this name was given her by the King after he married her. Thus the officer of the King of Babylon changed the names of Daniel and his three companions when they were brought into the Kings court, Dan.1.7. Heathen Hiſtorians write that Xerxes his wives name was Ameſtris, and that is taken to be the ſame with Eſther: for it is uſual in names to adde or take away a ſyllable.

his uncles daughter] Thus Mordecai and Eſther were brothers children, firſt couſens, couſen-germans, as we call them.

for ſhe had neither father nor mother] This is added as the reaſon why Mordecai educated her; and it doth much amplifie his charity.

and the maid was fair and beautiful] Heb. faire of form, and good of countenance. She had a clear and fair skin, and a comely favour. This is noted to ſhew the reaſon why ſhe was brought to the King.

whom Mordecai (when her father and mother were dead)] It ſeems they were but poor, and left nothing whereby ſhe might provide for her ſelf.

took for his own daughter] This is noted to ſhew his tenderneſs over her, and care and providence for her, together with the continuance thereof. Men are very tender over and provident for their own children, and that not onely for the preſent, but alſo for the future, even after their own departure. Thus was Mordecai for Eſther.

V.8. So it came to paſs, when the kings commandment and his decree was heard] For it was publiſhed and proclaimed through his whole Kingdom, v.3. The ſubſtance of the decree is ſet down v. 2, 3, 4.

and when many maidens were gathered together] Joſephus *lib.*11. *Antiq.Jud. cap.*6. ſaith that four hundred were gathered together: Which will not ſeem improbable if we conſider how many wives and concubines Solomon had, 1 King.11.3.

unto Shuſhan the palace, to the cuſtody of Hegai] See v.3.

that Eſther was brought alſo to the kings houſe, &c.] By the kings houſe the forementioned palace is meant. Or the houſe of the women, v.3. may here be called the kings houſe, becauſe the King erected it and deputed it to that uſe.

V.9. And the maiden pleaſed him] Heb. was good in his eyes. He took delight and content in her. This is ſpoken of Hegai, whoſe heart God turned to her, as he did the heart of Potiphar, and alſo the Jaylor, to Joſeph, Gen.39.4,21.

and ſhe obtained kindneſs of him] He did unto her all the courteſies that he could.

and he ſpeedily gave her] His deſire was, ſo ſoon as might be, to preſent her to the King, being confident that he would beſt like her.

her things for purification] See v.3.12.

with ſuch things as belonged to her] Heb. her portions. That which was by the King allowed her for diet, apparel and other neceſſaries, and all to ſet her out the more comely.

and ſeven maidens] He would do what lay in him to ſet her out as a Queen, and thereupon gives her maids of honour.

which were meet to be given her] Her very attendants were choice ones, fit and worthy to wait on a Queen.

out of the kings houſe] Which had been honourably trained up in the Court about Royal ſervices.

and he preferred her] Heb. he changed her. To change for the better, as here, is to prefer.

and her maids] Which attended her.

unto the beſt place of the houſe of the women] As there were two diſtinct houſes, v.3. ſo there were many rooms in each, and ſome better and more convenient then others. At the firſt Eſther was put into one of the meaner rooms; but after that Hegai had caſt his favour upon her, among other kindneſſes, he altered her lodging, and placed her and her attendants in the beſt room of the houſe.

V.10. Eſther had not ſhewed her people nor her kindred] Her people and kindred were Jews, v.5,7. who, though they were the onely people of God, yet being then captives were baſely eſteemed of by the world; prudently therefore ſhe conceales her kindred.

for Mordecai had charged her that ſhe ſhould not ſhew it] Mordecai in his wiſdom diſcerned that it might have been a block in the way of her preferment for the King to have heard of what ſtock and nation ſhe was, and thereupon gave her this charge.

V.11. And Mordecai walked every day] His hope of the preferment of his kinſwoman, and of the good that might come to the Church thereby, made him very ſolicitous thereabout.

before the court of the womens houſe] See v.3. The court thereof was a fair ſpacious open place that lay before it, where they who might not come into the houſe might walk notwithſtanding.

to know how Eſther did] Heb. to know the peace of Eſther. Whether ſhe were in health or no, and continued to be fit to be preſented to the King.

and what ſhould become of her] Whether the King would like her or no.

V.12. Now when every maids turn was come to go in to Ahaſuerus] They who had the over-ſight of the virgins ſo ordered matters, as one was brought in to the King at one time, and another at another time. Many were not brought in together.

after that ſhe had been twelve moneths] This was a long time for fitting one to come in to a mortal man. But this curioſity about giving the King content made them ſpend ſo much time therein. Theſe twelve moneths are not ſo to be reckoned as if ſo many years were ſpent in purifying them as there were maidens to be purified. For many were in purifying together; onely no one went in to the King before ſo much time had been ſpent about her.

according to the manner of the women] i. e. according to that order and law that was ſet down for them to obſerve.

for ſo were the dayes of their purification accompliſhed] Such things as hereafter follow were done to them in the twelve moneths of their purification.

to wit, ſix moneths with oyl of myrrhe] Oyl of myrrhe is ſaid to be of a cleanſing quality, having a vertue to make the skin ſmooth, free from wrinkles, and to keep from decay, and make the beauty more clearly to appear.

and ſix moneths with ſweet odours] Theſe cauſed them to carry a delightſom ſmell and pleaſing ſavour.

and with other things for the purifying of the women] Whatſoever the art of man could invent to free theſe virgins from any thing might cauſe annoyance or diſlike, and to make them amiable in the Kings eyes, is compriſed under this phraſe.

V.13. Then thus came every maiden unto the king] So anoynted, ſo perfumed, ſo adorned as is before ſet down.

whatſoever ſhe deſired was given her] i. e. ſuch things as might make her comely and pleaſing in the Kings eyes. Nothing in this kind was denied her, leſt ſhe ſhould have any cauſe of complaining.

to go with her] She might have any kind of attire, Jewels, or other ornaments, any ſweet ſavours, any attendants.

out of the houſe of the women] See v. 3. This was the firſt houſe wherein the virgins were. See v.14.

unto the kings houſe] Not onely to his Court, or his preſence-chamber, but even unto his bed-chamber. She went directly without wandering any whither elſe, from the womens houſe to the Kings.

V.14. In the evening ſhe went] When it was time for the King to go to bed.

and on the morrow ſhe returned] After the King had known her.

into the ſecond houſe of the women] See v.3.

to the cuſtody of Shaaſhgaz the kings Chamberlain] See v.3.

which kept the concubines] See 1 King. 11. 3. Concubines here meant were ſuch as the King had carnally known, but married not.

ſhe came in unto the king no more] In this reſpect there might well be four hundred, v.8. which were brought in unto the King within the ſpace of three or four years, till he ſaw Eſther, and ſet his heart upon her. See v.1.

except the king delighted in her] So as he did in Eſther, v. 17. See v.4.

and that ſhe were called by name] By this it appeareth that the King took particular notice of every one that came in to him, of her name, and of the day when ſhe came.

V.15. Now when the turn of Eſther] Eſther was brought in late, in the third year after Vaſhti was put away. For ſhe was a year in purifying, v.12. and in the fourth year ſhe was taken unto the King, v.16. God ſo ordered it, that the Kings heart being ſet on none before her might the more ſtedfaſtly be ſet on her.

the daughter of Abihai] This name was given both to men and women; to women, 1 Chr.2.29. 2 Chr.11.18. to men, Numb.3.35. 1 Chr. 5.14. and here.

the uncle of Mordecai, &c.] See v.7.

was come to go in unto the king] As others had gone in before, v. 13,14.

ſhe required nothing, &c.] It ſeems other maids had required what they pleaſed, v.13. but Eſther obſerving the favour of Hegai to her, his care over her, and his prudence in ordering matters fit for her, reſted wholly in his proviſion.

and Eſther obtained favour in the ſight of all them that looked upon her] As her beautiful face, comely countenance, ſeemly carriage and decent attire drew the eyes of all unto her; ſo God by his providence ſtirred the hearts of all to like & love her, that none ſhould murmur againſt the Kings choice of her, but rather all rejoice in it.

V.16. So Eſther was taken unto king Ahaſuerus into his houſe-royal] Or, Palace. And into his bed-chamber therein, as v.13.

in the tenth moneth] This began on the eleventh of December.

which is the moneth Tebeth] טבת Tebeth is ſuppoſed to be derived from טבה Tebah, a fallow Deer, or a Doe, becauſe in this moneth Does, eſpecially if barren, are moſt ſeaſonable for meat. This was a Perſian name: For the Jews after their return from captivity uſed Chaldee and Perſian names of moneths; which was a memorial of their captivity, and an occaſion for them to ſay, The Lord liveth that brought up the children of Iſrael from the North, &c. Jer. 16. 15. & 23.8.

in the ſeventh year of his reign[See v.1.

V.17. And the king loved Eſther] This implyeth a continuance of his favour to her.

above all the women] i.e. thoſe virgins that were brought in before her. His heart was ſet upon none of them ſo much as upon her.

and ſhe obtained grace and favour] Or, kindneſs. By her outward and inward parts and gifts and by her carriage ſhe procured both the Kings intire affection to her, and alſo all the kindneſſes he could do for her.

in his ſight] Heb. before him.

more then all the virgins] Who had before her gone in to the King.

ſo that he ſet the royal crown upon her head] Not that which himſelf wore, but that which was for his wife. See ch.1.11.

and made her Queen inſtead of Vaſhti] Vaſhti was put away four years before this time, and there was no other Queen betwixt Vaſhti and Eſther, ſo as Eſther was in the room of Vaſhti.

V.18. Then the king made a great feaſt] In teſtimony of that good liking and great content which he took in Eſther. Feaſts are expreſſions of joy, and uſe to be made at marriages, coronations, and other great ſolemnities.

unto all his Princes and his ſervants] See ch.1.3.

even Eſthers feaſt] He gives it this title out of his reſpect to Eſther.

and he made a releaſe to the Provinces] Heb. reſt. A freedom from burdens and taxes is in Hebrew called a reſt, or a relaxation. Ahaſuerus did remit ſuch taxes, tributes and cuſtomes as were then due from any of his ſubjects through all his Provinces. Thus they had all cauſe to rejoice at that marriage.

and gave gifts] Theſe were ſpecial Preſents given to the greater ſort, as Lords, Ladies, and all ſorts of Gentry, eſpecially Courtierss.

according to the ſtate of the king] Heb. according to the hand of the king] Bountifully, munificently. See ch.1.7.

V.19. And when the virgins were gathered together the ſecond time] This hath relation to the former gathering, v.3. This ſecond gathering together of virgins might be to ſend them each to their own homes, becauſe the King was now fully ſatisfied in his choyce; or, out of them to chooſe ſome to attend upon Eſther; or, to chooſe ſome among them to be his concubines. Others apply this ſecond time to the Kings former manner of chooſing a Queen. Virgins were then gathered together out of all places for the King out of them to chooſe a wife; and then he choſe Vaſhti. So now the ſecond time virgins are gathered together for the ſame end; and Eſther is choſen.

then Mordecai ſate in the kings gate] This may have reference to that which is noted ver. 11. of Mordecai's walking in the Court, which might be before or in the Kings gate: and it may imply the continuance of his care to ſee how Eſther, being now advanced, carried her ſelf. Others underſtand this of ſome office that Mordecai had, as to be the Kings Porter: And ſo it ſets forth his attendance upon his office; and ſhews the opportunity that he had to diſcover the treaſon mentioned v. 21.

V. 20. Eſther had not yet ſhewed her kindred, &c.] See v. 10.

for Eſther did the command of Mordecai] Her high advancement did not ſo puff her up as to make her forget the kindneſs that Mordecai had ſhewed her, nor the duty which ſhe owed to him as her foſter-father.

like as when ſhe was brought up with him] By this it appeares that Mordecai continued to give her good counſel, even when ſhe was Queen; and that ſhe hearkened thereunto obediently.

V.21. In thoſe dayes] When there was ſo much rejoycing about the Kings new marriage.

while Mordecai ſat in the kings gate] See v.19.

two of the kings Chamberlains] Heb. Eunuchs. See 1 King. 22.9.

Bigthan and Tereſh] Theſe are two Perſian names not elſewhere read but in this book. One of thoſe officers that was ſent to call Vaſhti was called Bigtha, ch. 1. 10. and haply was the ſame that is here called Bigthan, and Bigthana, ch 6.2.

of theſe which kept the door] Heb. threſhold. See 2 Chr. 23.4. Some take theſe to have been porters at the Court-gate. Others think they were door-keepers at the Preſence-chamber, or Bed-chamber; which is the more probable, becauſe thereby they had the fairer opportunity to accompliſh their miſchievous plot againſt the King.

were wroth] Exceedingly offended at ſomething that the King had done. Many conjectures are here made: The moſt probable is, that they were ſuch as had attended on Vaſhti, and thereupon were much incenſed that ſhe ſhould be put away; and having concealed their trouble ſo long as there was hope of her reſtoring, but now ſeeing all hope taken away by the choice of a new Queen, who was with ſo great ſolemnity crowned, they rage, and like an hot fire that breaketh forth ſome way or other, they ſo diſcover it as Mordecai comes to have notice thereof.

and ſought to lay hand on the King Ahaſuerus] i.e. to deſtroy him, to take away his life, 1 Sam.24.6. & 26.9.

V.22. And the thing was known to Mordecai] Here again many conjectures are made how Mordecai ſhould come to know this. Joſephus ſaith that a Jew, who was ſervant to one of them, diſcovered it to Mordecai. Others, that they talked thereabout in a ſtrange language, which they ſuppoſed that Mordecai, who was by them, underſtood not. Whatſoever the means were, ſurely God had a ſpecial hand herein, to bring that to paſs which is noted to follow hereupon, ch.6.1, &c.

who told it unto Eſther the Queen] That ſhe, having opportunity in private to diſcover any thing to the King, might make this known to him. Conſcience and fear of God moved him to do this, that ſo horrible a fact might be prevented: And he made it known by the Queen, to ingratiate her the more with the King.

and Eſther certified the king thereof in Mordecai's name] She certified the thing, to teſtifie her duty and reſpect to the King: And ſhe did it in Mordecai's name, to ſhew how ſhe came to notice of it, and alſo to bring him into favour.

V.23. And when inquiſition was made of the matter] This was a point of juſtice and prudence, to ſearch out whether the report were true or no.

it was found out] Mordecai ſo prudently and faithfully carried the matter as he was able to prove what he had ſuggeſted.

therefore they were both hanged on a tree] On a gallows, or gibbet, or croſs made of a tree, Gen. 40. 19. Deut. 21. 22. Joſh.8.29. Acts 5.30. Gal.3.13. The matter is here put for the thing made thereof.

And it was written in the book of the Chronicles] Heb. in the book of the words of dayes] See the Title of the firſt book of Chronicles The publick records of Perſia are here meant.

before the king] This might be done by the publick Regiſters in the preſence of the King himſelf, that he might be an eye-witneſs of the regiſtring thereof. Or it might be written in ſome Record that lay continually before the King, wherein he might read at his pleaſure; and ſo be ſaid to be before the king.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. AFter theſe things] In this chapter is ſet down Hamans advancement, and his plot againſt the Jews.

did king Ahaſuerus promote Haman] i.e. he was raiſed through the Kings favour to higher dignity and authority then he had before. Whether he were in a mean place before or no, is not expreſſed.

the ſon of Ammedatha the Agagite] We find the name Agag twice given to the King of Amalek, once indefinitely, Numb.24.7. and again particularly, to a ſpecial man, ſeven times in one chapter, 1 Sam.15.8,9,20,32,33. Some infer out of Numb.24.7. that it was a name common to the Kings of the Amalekites, as Pharaoh was to the Kings of Egypt, and Abimelech to the Kings of the Philiſtims. See 1 King.2.39. Hence it is gathered that this Haman was of the royal ſtock of the Amalekites, who deſcended from Eſau, Gen.36. 4,12. 1 Chr.1.34,35,36. and were ancient and bitter enemies of the Iſraelites. They ſet upon them in the wilderneſs in the third moneth after they were delivered out of Egypt, and that without any cauſe or provocation on Iſraels part, Exod.17.8, &c. So that what they did in this caſe, they did moſt baſely, Deut. 25. 18. 1 Sam.15 2. And though they were then overthrown, yet within a year or a little more they ſet upon them again, Numb.14.45. Yea, and many years after that they took part with other enemies againſt them, Judg.3.12,13. & 6.3,4. & 10.12. 1 Sam 30.1. Such was their enmity againſt Iſrael, as the Lord threatned utterly to put out their remembrance, Exod.17.14 and gave charge to the Iſraelites utterly to deſtroy them, Deut.25.17. 1 Sam.15.3. No marvel then that this Haman, being of that ſtock, retained an inveterate malice againſt Iſrael, and became, as he is called, the Jews enemy, ch 7.6. & 8.1. & 9.10,24.

and advanced him] Exceedingly high.

and ſet his ſeat above all the Princes that were with him] Even as Darius advanced Daniel, Dan.6.3. Had Haman had ſuch a ſpirit as Daniel had, Ahaſuerus had ſhewed himſelf a prudent King; but advancing ſuch an one as Haman was, he proclaimed his folly thereby to all his Kingdom, Prov.29.2.

V.2. And all the kings ſervants] i.e. all his ſubjects: For a King is a Lord and Maſter in relation to his ſubjects, 2 King. 9. 7. & 18.27.

that were in the kings gate] This phraſe doth not here note any office; but indefinitely, all ſuch as came to the Court, and had any buſineſs or occaſion there to attend.

bowed and reverenced Haman] This implyeth more reverence then ordinarily was given by an inferiour to a ſuperiour, yea, a greater reverence then was due to a man. The Perſian Monarchs, as many other heatheniſh Kings, were reverenced by their ſubjects with a kind of divine ſervice or honour: And this King would have ſuch honour done to this his Favourite.

for the king had ſo commanded concerning him] This implyeth that it was unuſual reverence that was done to him, even ſuch as the people would not have afforded unleſs the King had commanded it.

but Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence] He neither reverenced him in his heart, nor with his body. This he refuſed to do, becauſe the kind of worſhip that was required was unlawful, being due onely to God. Thus ſome wiſe men of the heathen have forborn to come into the Kings preſence, becauſe there was expected greater honour and worſhip then was meet to be done to a man, Mordecai refuſed alſo to do it, becauſe the perſon was of that ſtock whoſe remembrance God would have put out, Exod.17.14. Deut.25. 19. and which he would have to be utterly deſtroyed, 1 Sam.15.3.

V.3. Then the kings ſervants which were in the kings gate] See v.2.

ſaid unto Mordecai] This ſheweth their flattering diſpoſition in relation to Haman, and their envious diſpoſition in relation to Mordecai, becauſe he did not as they did.

Why tranſgreſſeſt thou the kings commandment?] Moſt men think of no other rule then the Kings will and commandment, They expreſs that which they conceive to be Mordecai's fault in this phraſe, by way of aggravation.

V.4. Now it came to paſs when they ſpake daily unto him] Though they knew his mind by his firſt refuſal, yet they ceaſe not day after day to urge him to do what he did.

and he hearkned not unto them] Gods faithful ſervants are reſolute in their warrantable purpoſes, and will not be drawn from them.

that they told Haman] It might otherwiſe have been concealed from him, if theſe flatterers and pick-thanks had not made it known. But great men ſtill have ſuch as bring to their notice all matters that ſeem any wayes to make to their diſhonour.

to ſee whether Mordecai's matters would ſtand] i.e. whether he could carry out his reſolution before Haman as he did before them, and whether Haman would ſuffer him to remain unpuniſhed.

for he had told them that he was a Jew] It is probable that thoſe tale-bearers oft urged and preſſed him to tell them his countrey, and of what people he was; as the Mariners asked Jonah, Jon. 1.8. and he to ſhew his faith in God, and his courage in Gods cauſe, was neither aſhamed nor afraid to declare of what ſtock he was. This manifeſtation of his nation being here rendred as a reaſon of the former clauſe, implieth that, as he made known his nation, ſo withall he declared the reaſons why no Jew might do as they did: namely, how God had forbidden to give Divine honour to any but himſelf, Deut.6.13. and had commanded them to blot out the remembrance of Amalek, Deut.25.19.

V.5. And when Haman ſaw] It ſeems that after the flatterers had complained of Mordecai, Haman obſerved him more narrowly.

that Mordecai bowed not, &c.] See v.2.

then was Haman full of wrath] Nothing more ſtirs up the choler of proud men then a ſeeming contempt of them. See chap. 1.12.

V.6. And he thought ſcorn to lay hands on Mordecai alone] Revenge is like fire, that burneth all it can lay hold on; eſpecially when it ariſeth from pride. In the height of his mind he thought it too ſmall a matter to execute his wrath on one man alone.

for they had ſhewed him the people of Mordecai] This they did to aggravate Mordecai's offenſe: that one who was of ſo mean and baſe a people, as they thought, being but captives, ſhould refuſe to do any honour to ſuch an one as Haman was. This is here premiſed as the reaſon of that which follows.

wherefore Haman ſought to deſtroy all the Jews] This is a great aggravation of his pride, malice and cruelty, that it was not extended againſt Mordecai alone, nor onely againſt thoſe Jews that were in Shuſhan, who might be ſuppoſed to boulſter him up in what he did, but againſt all Jews every where.

that were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahaſuerus] Though many were returned to Judea, yet there were alſo many that remained ſtill diſperſed in all the Provinces, v.8.

even the people of Mordecai] That people of whom Mordecai was. As his particular revenge againſt Mordecai, ſo his inveterate hatred againſt the Jews, as Jews made him thus far to extend his cruel rage.

V.7. In the firſt moneth (that is the moneth Niſan)] See Gen. 7.11. & 8.4. Neh.2.1.

in the twelfth year of king Ahaſuerus] This was the fifth year after Eſther was made Queen, ch.2.16.

they caſt Pur, that is the lot] Pur is a Perſian word ſignifying lot, as it is here expounded. Now the heathen uſed to caſt lots to find out fit and ſeaſonable times for effecting things with good ſucceſs. Fit dayes they called lucky dayes; unfit, unlucky. See Ezek. 21.21.

before Haman] By Hamans appointment and in his preſence.

from day to day, and from moneth to moneth, to the twelfth moneth] This is not to be taken as if they had continued twelve moneths in caſting of theſe lots. But there was a pitcher, into which were caſt papers rolled up, with the names of every day, and of every moneth, written upon them. Then one blindfolded put in his hand, and pulled out a paper; and according to the marks which they had ſet down, ſuch a moneth proved lucky, and ſuch a day in the moneth. And here by Gods providence it fell out that their ſuppoſed lucky day was in the twelfth moneth: And ſo it came to paſs that their plot was defeated before the time of accompliſhing thereof, ch.9.1, &c.

that is the moneth Adar] This is a Chaldee name. See Ezra 6.15.

V.8. And Haman ſaid unto king Ahaſuerus] After he had found out a lucky day, as he ſuppoſed, for accompliſhing his miſchievous plot, he goes unto the King to get leave and authority to put it in execution.

there is a certain people ſcattered abroad] Though Nebuchadnezzar carried a multitude of the Jews captive into Babylon, yet many others were ſcattered up and down into other countreys. Beſides many of the ten tribes may be here meant.

and diſperſed among the people] Neither had they one nation to abide and dwell in, nor one city or town in a nation, but were mingled among ſtrangers, ſome in one houſe, ſome in another, as they could hire habitations for themſelves.

in all the provinces of thy kingdom] Theſe were very many, ch.1.1.

and their laws are diverſe from all people] Herein he ſaid truth. For the laws which God gave to the Jews were proper to themſelves, and thereby they were diſtinguiſhed from all other nations.

neither keep they the kings laws] Indeed about matters of Divine worſhip they kept not the Kings lawes; nor could they keep them with a good conſcience: but otherwiſe they did keep the lawes of the land and kingdome where they lived ſo farre as they concerned the peace of that place. This was a charge given unto them, Jerem. 29.7. All the forementioned points he urgeth to incenſe the Kings wrath the more againſt the Jews.

therefore it is not for the kings profit] Heb. it is not meet, or equal, or profitable to the king.

to ſuffer them] Namely, to dwell among his people, leſt they infect the Kings liege people, and draw them from obedience to the Kings laws.

V.9. If it pleaſe the king, let it be written] See ch.1.19.

that they may be deſtroyed] Heb. to deſtroy them. That they among whom they live ſhould utterly deſtroy them. See v.13.

and I will pay] Heb. weigh. As we paſſe over money from one to another by telling, ſo of old they did by giving it out by weight. This he proffers to prevent an objection that might be made, which was this, That the Jews paid a great tribute, which the King would loſe if they ſhould be deſtroyed. Wherefore in recompenſe of that loſſe he proffers to pay the ſumme following.

ten thouſand talents of ſilver] Three thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty thouſand pounds ſterling. See 1 Chr.22.14.

to the hands of thoſe that have the charge of the buſineſs] The buſineſs of receiving the Kings Rents, Revenues, Tributes, Cuſtoms, Toll, and all other fees and dues. This is a deſcription of Treaſurers.

to bring it into the kings treaſuries] Thus would it remain to be diſpoſed for the Kings uſe, as he ſhould appoint.

V.10. And the king took his ring from his hand] Though the motion were very hard and cruel, and many wayes prejudicial to the Kings honour and profit, yet being made by his Favourite, without due conſideration thereof he grants it. So flexible are mortal men, and ready to yield any thing to their favourites. The Kings pulling off his ring from his hand ſhewed that he was willing to let any thing go for his ſake, and was an evident ſign of that great honour he did him, Gen.41.42.

and gave it unto Haman, &c.] In teſtimony of that power and authority he gave him to do what it pleaſed him, and to confirm it in the Kings name with the Kings ſeal.

the Jews enemy] Or, oppreſſor. For the Hebrew word ſignifieth both. Enemies uſe to oppreſs, and oppreſſors are enemies. Haman had this ſtile given him as a brand, as Jeroboam had his, 2 Kings 10.31. for he was one of the deadlieſt enemies that ever the Jews had. See v.1.

V.11. And the king ſaid unto Haman] Here the King doth enlarge his favour and grant unto Haman.

The ſilver is given to thee] This is a fair refuſal of Hamans proffer; q.d. I accept that ſumme which thou doſt proffer me, but return it to thee as a gift again.

the people alſo] Hereby he granteth to Haman what he deſireth, and withall ſheweth that his refuſal to take his money ſhould not any whit leſſen the power he gave him over that people whoſe deſtruction he deſired.

to do with them as it ſeemeth good to thee] Though the King might well diſcern the inhumane and cruel mind of Haman, yet he doth not reſtrain or hold it in, but leaves all to Hamans own will.

V.12. Then were the kings Scribes called] Or, Secretaries. See 1 Kings 4.3. He uſeth the Kings Scribes rather then his own, to adde the more authority to what he did, and to intereſt the King therein.

on the thirteenth day of the firſt moneth] This was the time whereabout Haman firſt began to caſt lots about this matter. See v.7.

and there was written] Haman quickly puts in execution that power and liberty which the King had granted him. Malice puts on wicked men to expedite miſchief as much as they can.

according to all that Haman had commanded] Were it never ſo cruel, yet the Secretaries held cloſe to the will of the Kings Favourite.

unto the kings Lieutenants, and to the Governours] See Ezr.8.36.

that were over every province] The many provinces that were under Ahaſuerus, ch. 1.1. ſhew how far his cruelty extended.

and to the Rulers of every people of every province] There were divers people in one and the ſame province. See 1 King.17.24. and each people had their diſtinct Governours.

according to the writing thereof, &c.] See ch.1.22.

in the name of king Ahaſuerus was it written] Haman by this means gained the greater authority to what he did; but the King got the greater diſhonour by ſuffering him to do as he did, yea, he made himſelf acceſſory hereby to his cruel plot.

and ſealed with the kings ring] Thereby it came to be irreverſible, Dan.6.8,12,15.

V.13. And the letters were ſent by poſts] See 2 Chr.30.6.

into all the kings provinces] As the letters were directed, v.12. ſo are they ſent.

to deſtroy, to kill, and to cauſe to periſh] His cruell mind makes him to multiply phraſes; whereby he intimateth that if they cannot be deſtroyed one way, they may be another; and ſo they be deſtroyed, it makes no matter to him which way, or by what means they be deſtroyed.

all Jews, both young and old, little children and women, in one day] Here are great aggravations of cruelty, to ſpare neither ſex nor age, but maſſacre all, and that in one day. Rage and malice know no bounds.

even upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth] There were full eleven moneths betwixt the firſt ſending forth of the bloody edict and the time of executing the ſame. See v. 12. Herein on the one ſide Hamans folly is diſcovered; and on the other, Gods wiſe providence. His folly in putting off the execution ſo long: for he might have ſuſpected that ſomething or other might intervene to hinder ſo cruell a deſign, which was ſo long made known before it was executed. Gods providence was manifeſted, in ordering a means to prevent that plot before the time of executing it.

which is the moneth Adar] See v.7.

and to take the ſpoyl of them for a prey] i.e. They who ſhould deſtroy the Jews, ſhould have whatſoever belonged unto them as a recompence of their pains. Thoſe things are called the ſpoyl of the Jews which their enemies were to take as a ſpoyl from them.

V.14. The copy of the writing for a commandment to be given in every province] There was one original at leaſt (it may be alſo more) that was ſealed with the Kings ring; but becauſe there were many places whereunto the writings ſhould be ſent, many copies were tranſcribed, and ſent to every place where any Jews were.

was publiſhed unto all people] It was ſent to every ſeveral place, and by way of proclamation openly publiſhed to all the Kings ſubjects in every place.

that they ſhould be ready againſt that day] That all that would have an hand in executing the foreſaid edict; ſhould be every way prepared to put the ſame in execution on the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth.

V.15. The poſts went out] With their letters, as they were ſent, v. 13.

being haſtened by the kings commandment] Either the King, to teſtifie his reſpect to his unworthy Favourite, did himſelf preſs the poſts to make haſt; or Haman uſing the Kings Scribes and the Kings ring and ſeal, that which was ſo enjoyned was ſuppoſed to be the Kings commandment. This ſheweth how earneſt men be in executing their miſchievous plots.

and the decree was given in Shuſhan the palace] See Nehem. 1. 1. Here was the Kings Court, and from thence did ariſe this bloody deſign.

and the king and Haman ſat down to drink] This ſhews a kind of jollity in the ruine and deſtruction of Gods people. So far they were from any remorſe, as they glory therein, and uſe the ordinary ſigns of rejoycing. When the Iſraelites had made them a golden calf, it is ſaid that they ſat down to eat and to drink, Exo.32.6. In ſin, eſpecially in executing cruelty, this jovial paſſing it over is a great aggravation.

but the city Shuſhan was perplexed] The city is here put for the inhabitants, even ſuch as were not Jews. They might be perplexed for fear of ſome commotions and tumults that might ariſe, or by reaſon of ſome loſs that might accrue unto them by rooting out all the Jews, or in compaſſion that ſo many for no juſt cauſe ſhould be deſtroyed. But eſpecially this is to be taken of the Jews in Shuſhan, and of their friends. See ch.8.15.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. WHen Mordecai perceived all that was done] In this chapter the means uſed for preventing Hamans plot is ſet down. The ground of that means is Mordecai his notice thereof; which might be by ſome friends relation, or by the common talk of others, or by the open proclamation.

Mordecai rent his clothes, and put on ſack-cloth] See 1 Kings 21.27.

with aſhes] This rite of putting aſhes upon their heads, or ſitting in aſhes, was alſo of old of uſe in dayes of humiliation, Job 2.8. Iſa. 58.5. Jon.3.6. Hereby they ſhewed that they deſerved to be burnt to aſhes. They uſed alſo to put duſt on their heads, Joſh.7.6. Job 2.12. to ſhew that they deſerved to be under ground rather then above. See Neh.9.1.

and went out into the midſt of the city] That he might be ſeen of many.

and cryed with a loud and a bitter cry] That he might be the more heard and pitied.

V.2. And came even before the kings gate] i.e. the gate entring into the Kings Court. Thither he came, that ſuch as paſſed up and down through that gate might make it known in the Court, that ſo it might come to the Kings ear, or rather that the Queen might have ſome intelligence thereof.

for none might enter into the kings gate clothed with ſack-cloth] This either was a generall ordinance for all times; becauſe in the Kings Court they uſed to be gorgeouſly attired and to be in mirth, ſo as they would have nothing to damp the ſame: or it was a particular ordinance for this time, that after the publiſhing of the bloody decree none ſhould come into the Court with ſack-cloth, leſt paſſion might be moved thereby in any of the Courtiers, or ſo a complaint thereof be made to the King.

V.3. And in every province whitherſoever the kings commandment and his decree came] All went in the Kings name, and that under an expreſs command, and that by an irrevocable decree, and throughout the whole Kingdom. All theſe are great aggravations.

there was great mourning among the Jews] This mourning was mixed with prayers to God.

and faſting] To teſtifie their unworthineſs, and to ſharpen their prayers. See 1 King.1.27.

and weeping and wailing] Theſe were outward evidences of inward grief and ſorrow.

and many lay in ſackcloth and aſhes] Heb. ſackcloth and aſhes were laid under many. See v.1.

V.4. So Eſthers maids] The rumour of the bloody plot filled every ones mouth, ſo as the very maids that came but out of the Queens chamber heard it.

and her Chamberlains] Heb. Eunuchs. See 1 King.22.9.

came and told it her] Both maids and chamberlains had free acceſs to the Queen, and thereupon opportunity to tell her any news. That which ſpecially they told her, was Mordecai's clothing, and crying, v.1.

then was the Queen exceedingly grieved] It appears by that which follows that it was Mordecai's caſe alone that ſo perplexed her, he being dear unto her, and highly eſteemed by her, ch.2.20. She yet knew nothing of the publick calamity.

and ſhe ſent rayment to cloth Mordecai] Such as might be fit for him to come into the Court withall, yea, and unto her preſence.

and to take away his ſackcloth from him] See the reaſon v.2.

but he received it not] For that rayment which was ſent was not ſuitable to his preſent condition.

V.5. Then called Eſther for Hatach] This was a man whom ſhe had found faithful, and durſt truſt in a matter of ſecrecy.

one of the kings Chamberlains] Heb. Eunuchs. Such an one as they were whom the King ſent for Vaſhti, ch.1.10.

whom he had appointed to attend upon her] Heb. whom he had ſet before her. For they who attend to perform daily ſervices unto any, uſe to be in their preſence, and in that reſpect are ſaid to be before them.

and gave him a commandment to Mordecai] The commandment was a ſtrait charge rather to the chamberlain to deliver his meſſage, then to Mordecai to do what ſhe required.

to know what it was and why it was] She was deſirous to underſtand both the matter that perplexed Mordecai, and the reaſon why it ſo perplexed him.

V.6. So Hatach went forth to Mordecai] The Chamberlain did his duty, and obeyed the Queens commandment.

unto the ſtreet of the city, &c.] i.e. an open ſpacious place before the Court. See Judg.19.15,17. Neh.8.16.

V.7. And Mordecai told him of all that had happened unto him] i.e. his refuſal to bow to Haman, the complaint that Haman made againſt him, and the decree that had paſſed thereupon.

and of the ſum of money, &c.] Ch.3 9.

V.8. Alſo he gave him the copy of the writing of the decree] That decree lay as a publick Record, for any to read it, or take a copy of it.

that was given at Shuſhan to deſtroy them] See ch.3.13,15.

to ſhew it unto Eſther] This he did that ſhe might have aſſurance of the truth of the thing; and alſo be the more moved therewith.

and to declare it unto her] i.e. to make known the cauſe of that decree, and the fearfull event that might follow thereupon.

and to charge her that ſhe ſhould go in unto the king] He ſuppoſed that ſhe would be loth to do that, and thereupon he maketh uſe of that ancient authority that he had over her, and layeth a ſtrict charge upon her.

to make ſupplication unto him] Supplication properly ſignifieth a deſire of having an evil removed. See 1 King.8.28.

and to make requeſt before him for her people] Now he was willing that ſhe ſhould make known to the King of what ſtock and nation ſhe was, though formerly he thought it not meet that ſhe ſhould ſo do; but now neceſſity required it. The Jews are called her people, becauſe ſhe and they were all of one and the ſame ſtock, and that ſhe might the more reſent their preſent danger.

V.9. And Hatach came and told Eſther the words of Mordecai] He delivered his meſſage faithfully in Mordecai's own words.

V.10. Again Eſther ſpake to Hatach, &c.] This word again hath reference to v.5. where firſt ſhe ſpake to him.

V.11. All the kings ſervants] Such as attended on him at Court.

and the people of the kings provinces do know] This that ſhe ſpeaks of was ſo notorious and well known that none that lived in the Kingdom, though in the remoteſt parts thereof, could be ignorant of it.

that whoſoever] Except thoſe who are ſaid to ſee the Kings face,

h. 1.14. Yet theſe alſo had a general call, that is, leave and liber-y to go to the King.

whether man or woman] This diſtinction ſhe makes, becauſe ſhe is a woman.

ſhall come unto the king] Some think this was a new law made for that time, and that through Hamans policy, leſt any ſhould attempt to alter the Kings mind. But hiſtories ſhew how this hath been an ancient cuſtome among the Perſians, for their Kings to be retired, and to have none to come to them but whom themſelves would; and that partly for ſtate, partly for ſecurity.

into the inner court] There was an outward court, whereunto all the Kings ſervants, yea, and others that had buſineſs at Court, might come freely: but the inward court was immediately before the houſe where the King in his own perſon had his reſidence, ch. 5.1.

who is not called] It is ſuppoſed that there might be a neceſſity for ſome to come: and there might be ſome in whoſe company the King much delighted: therefore this caution is put in.

there is one law of his] Among other laws ratified by the King this was one. Or, this was an eſtabliſhed law, and not to be reverſed.

to put him to death] This penalty was put upon the law to make men the more careful to keep it. And this the Queen alledgeth, to ſhew the danger whereunto ſhe ſhould caſt her ſelf if ſhe ſhould tranſgreſs it. She might alſo call to mind the Kings rigorous dealing with Vaſhti for diſobeying his commandment.

except ſuch to whom the king ſhall hold out the golden ſcepter] The Law-makers would have it in the Kings power to ſhew mercy to whom he would, eſpecially in this caſe, that concerned himſelf, and approching into his preſence. The ſign of the Kings pleaſure to ſhew favour, was holding out his Scepter. Eſther ſhould have hoped that God, who at firſt turned the Kings heart to her, ch. 2.17. would again do the like in this caſe.

that he may live] i.e. not be put to death upon that law.

but I have not been called to come in into the king] This made the danger ſeem to her to be the greater.

theſe thirty dayes] This was a large time for a beloved wife, living ſo neer her husband, to be abſent from him. Many imagine that his mind was to ſatiſfie his luſt at this time with ſome of his concubines, or with others. And ſome think that he had taken ſome diſtaſt at Eſther. But his ready manifeſting his loving affection to her ſo ſoon as he ſaw her implieth the contrary. Neither doth ſhe her ſelf alledge any diſaffection in the King to her by way of excuſe; which certainly ſhe would have done if ſhe had diſcerned or ſuſpected any ſuch thing.

V. 12. And they told to Mordecai Eſthers words] It may be ſuppoſed that Hatach and ſome others with him were Eſthers Meſſengers, and faithfully related her words.

V. 13. Then Mordecai commanded to anſwer Eſther] The matter being of very great conſequence, Mordecai would accept of no excuſe.

Think not with thy ſelf] It was Gods and the Churches cauſe that Mordecai had in hand, and therefore he is very peremptory with the Queen.

that thou ſhalt eſcape in the kings houſe] The Queen pretended danger. To take away that excuſe, Mordecai tells her that her fear of that danger might caſt her into greater danger: For the Kings houſe could be no refuge for her againſt the Kings law, which could not be reverſed, when ſhe ſhould be known to be a Jew.

more then all the Jews] The Law was generall, without exception of any, chap. 3.13. and therefore ſhe was included therein.

V. 14. For if thou altogether holdeſt thy peace] Heb. if holding thy peace thou holdeſt thy peace] Of this kind of Hebraiſm ſee 1 Kings 8.13.

at this time] In this great danger and hazard of the whole Church.

then ſhall there enlargement] Heb. reſpiration. Now they were ſo filled with grief and ſorrow as they could ſcarce take their breath (ſee Job 9.18.) but their grief and ſorrow ſhould be removed, and then ſhould they have a breathing-time and ſweet refreſhment.

and deliverance ariſe to the Jews from another place] This is ſpoken in reference to the Queen and the place of her abode. She refuſing to doe what lay in her for their deliverance, God himſelf would elſewhere raiſe means for delivering his people.

but thou and thy fathers houſe ſhall be deſtroyed] Her refuſall would ſo offend God, that in delivering his people he would ſend ſome ſore judgement upon her and her kindred, eſpecially ſuch as were with her. Mordecai herein ſhews great faith and confidence in God. Though ſome plotted againſt the Church to deſtroy it, and others refuſed to ſuccour her in her danger, ye he was aſſured that God would not forſake her, nay, he would judge them that ſhould forſake her. Not to afford help to Gods people in their need is much diſpleaſing unto God.

and who knoweth] That which men do not conceive, may be an eſpecial end that God aimeth at.

whether thou art come to the kingdom for ſuch a time as this] The preſervation of Gods people might be the ſpecial end that God aimed at in advancing Eſther to be Queen.

V. 15. Then Eſther bad them return Mordecai this anſwer] Mordecai's reply to Eſther was very powerfull, both the matter and form; and anſwerably it wrought upon her.

V. 16. Go gather together all the Jews that are preſent in Shuſhan] See ch. 1.5. The Queen being perſwaded to what Mordecai required, piouſly and prudently uſeth means to obtain Gods bleſſing upon her endeavour. A moſt effectual means is the prayer of many of Gods people aſſembled together: And for this end her deſire is that all the Jews there ſhould be aſſembled.

and faſt ye for me] Faſting is an eſpecial help to prayer. See 2 Chr. 20.3.

and neither eat nor drink three dayes, night or day] Becauſe the time was ſo long, ſome think this faſt was a forbearing onely of pleaſant bread, as Dan. 10.3. But this phraſe will not admit ſuch a reſervation. In thoſe hot countreys they might faſt three dayes, as well as we two in theſe cold climates; and yet may we eaſily without impeaching bodily health faſt ſo long.

I alſo and my maidens will faſt likewiſe] She impoſeth upon the people no more then what ſhe her ſelf is willing to undergo. And ſhe undertakes not onely for her ſelf, but for her maidens alſo, as Joſh. 24.15. Certainly theſe maidens were Jews; (for her keeper Hegai gave her ſuch maidens as were meet for her, ch. 2.9.) or ſhe had inſtructed them in the true religion, and brought them to fear God.

and ſo will I go in unto the king] The bleſſing of the Lord being firſt ſought, ſhe would with confidence uſe the means whatſoever the iſſue were.

which is not according to the law] This is added to demonſtrate her courage and faith in God. She could not be ignorant that Vaſhti was put away for tranſgreſſing the Kings commandment, yet through confidence in her God ſhe would adventure upon a tranſgreſſion.

and if I periſh, I periſh] This phraſe implieth a reſignation of her ſelf wholly to the will of God. She diſcerned the cauſe to be juſt and good: The end ſhe aimed at was the preſervation of Gods people: and if it were the will of God that in this cauſe ſhe ſhould loſe her life, ſhe was ready to loſe it. See the like phraſe Gen. 43.14.

V. 17. So Mordecai went his way] Heb. paſſed. He paſſed from the ſtreet before the Court, v. 6. into the city, to aſſemble the Jews together.

and did according to all that Eſther had commanded him] He diſcerned that the courſe preſcribed by Eſther was pious and requiſite to be uſed; therefore though it were a womans adviſe, and the adviſe of one that had been under his tuition, yet he yields to it, and obeyeth it as a commandment. Good counſel is to be hearkned to from whomſoever it comes.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. Now it came to paſs] In this chapter is ſet forth the proſecution of the means for delivering the people of God from deſtruction.

on the third day] After they had faſted two dayes. The Jews continued to faſt on this day: for the charge was that they ſhould neither eat nor drink three dayes, ch. 4.16. Eſther purpoſely choſe this day to adventure upon the means for the Churches deliverance, that ſhe might have the benefit of the peoples extraordinary prayers.

that Eſther put on her royall apparel] Such apparel as a Queen uſeth to wear when ſhe ſets her ſelf forth in her greateſt majeſty. This ſhe did the more to allure the King to like her and accept of her.

and ſtood in the inner court of the Kings houſe] See ch. 4.11.

over againſt the kings houſe] That ſhe might be before the face of the King, ſo as he might caſt his eyes upon her.

and the king ſat upon his royal throne] She choſe ſuch a time when the King ſat upon his throne, to be ſeen of many, that ſhe might have the more free acceſs unto him.

in the royal houſe] The Kings Palace is here meant, and that part thereof where he himſelf did moſt reſide.

over againſt the gate of the houſe] By this means might the King be the better ſeen of thoſe that were in the court, in that he ſat over againſt the gate by which they went into the houſe.

V. 2. And it was ſo] It was by Divine providence ſo ordered.

when the king ſaw Eſther the queen ſtanding in the court] As ready to preſent ſome petition unto him.

that ſhe obtained favour in his ſight] He was ſo far from being offended with Eſthers coming to him, not called, as his heart was ſet upon her, and he was reſolved to do what kindneſs he could to her.

and the king held out to Eſther the golden ſcepter] See ch. 4.11.

Hereby he gave evidence of the loving reſpect which he bare her.

that was in his hand] Kings uſe to hold Scepters, as ſigns of their Royal dignity.

So Eſther drew neer] She ſtood before in the court, v. 1. but now ſhe approcheth to the houſe where the King was, and to the throne whereon he ſat; being emboldened thereto by the Kings own invitation, teſtified by holding out his Scepter to her.

and touched the top of the ſcepter] Heb. the head. For the head is the top of a thing. In teſtimony of her gratefull acceptance of his kindneſs, and of her humble reverence and obedience to him, ſhe doth this.

V.3. Then ſaid the king unto her] The King every way by ſign and word manifeſteth his favour to her.

what wilt thou] Her approching to his preſence did declare that ſhe had ſome requeſt to make known unto him: therefore he deſired to know what it was.

Queen Eſther] This is a familiar compellation and a teſtimony of that high eſteem he had of her, and that entire affection he bare to her.

and what is thy requeſt] By doubling this queſtion he emboldeneth her the more to manifeſt her mind.

it ſhall be even given thee] He promiſeth to grant her deſire, to make her the more free and forward in making it known.

to the half of the kingdom] This is not literally and ſimply to be taken, as if indeed he intended to have given her half of the kingdom if ſhe had asked it: for it is not in the power of a King to give away any part of his Kingdom. But it is a kind of proverbial ſpeech uſed by Kings to ſhew a readineſs to grant what ſhall be deſired of them, though it be great in the kind, and may ſeem to be ſome prejudice to him that grans it. I find it three times uſed by this King here, v.6. & ch.7.2. It is alſo uſed by Herod, Mark 6.23.

V.4. And Eſther anſwered] Eſther quickly makes uſe of the Kings kindneſs.

If it ſeem good unto the king] See Neh.2.5.

let the king and Haman] She joyns them two together, that Haman might be convinced of his cruelty in the preſence of the King.

come this day unto the banquet] Firſt ſhe takes time in hope that God by his providence would afford her ſome fit opportunity to diſcover this plot to the King. And ſhe invites to a banquet, to ingratiate her ſelf the more, and to make the King the more ready to hearken to her.

that I have prepared for him] Though Eſther and thoſe of her family which were pious ſpent a day or two before in faſting and prayer, yet ſhe had others that might prepare this banquet at that time.

V.5. Then the king ſaid, Cauſe Haman to make haſt] By this it appears that Haman was not by when Eſther firſt approched to the King, v.2. and that this banquet was neither a dinner nor a ſupper, but a banquet of ſweets betwixt both.

that he may do as Eſther hath ſaid] Or, deſired. i.e. go to the banquet.

ſo the king and Haman came to the banquet] The King came in a good reſpect to the Queen: but Haman came in pride, accounting himſelf much honoured thereby.

that Eſther had prepared] See v.4.

V.6. And the king ſaid unto Eſther at the banquet of wine] The banquet of wine is taken to have been another banquet at the end of the great banquet. In this latter banquet they had not ſuch delicates as in the former, but onely wine, which they drunk one to another as cups of love. Some write that before this latter banquet they drank nothing but water, and that the King had an excellent water prepared for him. But to let that paſs; now, the banquet being at an end, the King is mindfull of the Queen: and it may be that having well drank wine, his heart was the more ſet upon her.

What is thy petition, &c.] The King continues in the ſame mind to Eſther wherein he was before, and manifeſteth his affection in like manner as before, v.3.

V.7. Then anſwered Eſther, and ſaid, My petition and my requeſt is] She expreſſeth her mind in the ſame words that the King put into her mouth, v.6.

V.8. If I have found favour in the ſight of the king] The Queen having diſcerned evidences of the Kings favour to her, makes uſe thereof, and layeth it down as the ground of her boldneſs.

and if it pleaſe the king] Heb. and if it be good to the king. It is in the Hebrew the very ſame phraſe that ſhe uſed v.4.

to grant my petition, and to perform (Heb. to do) my requeſt] Becauſe the King had promiſed ſo much, ſhe makes his promiſe alſo a further ground of her boldneſs.

let the king and Haman come to the banquet that I ſhall prepare for them] See v.4.

and I will do to morrow as the king hath ſaid] She did not obſerve opportunity good enough as yet to make known her deſire, but ſhe hoped by the next day ſhe might find a better. Certainly there was an over-ruling providence herein, and ſhe was carried by ſome inward inſtinct and motion of the Spirit to put off the buſineſs. That which is noted ch.6.1, &c. giveth a plain demonſtration hereof.

V.9. Then went Haman forth that day joyfull] That conceit which he had that the Queen had him in as high eſteem as the King, made him ſo joyful. See v.12.

and with a glad heart] See 1 King 8.66. Vain conceits work on worldly-minded men as much as real matters do on believers, ch. 8.15.

but when Haman ſaw Mordecai in the kings gate] Mordecai either now purpoſely came thither becauſe Haman would come that way, or elſe he continued there notwithſtanding the Edict made againſt the Jews. Both theſe argue a ſtrong faith and a great courage.

that he ſtood not up, nor moved for him] It is obſerved that Mordecai did now ſhew leſs reſpect to Haman then before. Before he refuſed to bow and do reverence, ch.3.2. here he will not ſo much as ſtand up, nor move hat, or hand, or any part of his body for him. Hamans Malice did no whit affright him.

he was full of indignation againſt Mordecai] This implieth an increaſe of his rage. See ch.3.5.

V.10. Nevertheleſs Haman refrained himſelf] From offering any preſent violence to him. Wicked men that intend the uttermoſt miſchief that they can do, may for the preſent forbear, that afterwards they may do the more miſchief.

and when he came home, he ſent and called for his friends] Heb. cauſed to come. Such as he ſuppoſed might help him to invent and work more miſchief, are here meant; even ſuch as are called wiſe men, ch.1.13.

and Zereſh his wife] It is probable that he uſed to adviſe with her in his weighty affairs, and that ſhe was a prudent woman. See ch. 6.13.

V.11. And Haman told them of the glory of his riches] Of that great wealth which made him glorious. Kings Favourites uſe that power which they have with the King, to gather great ſtore of wealth together: and nothing makes men more glorious in the eye of the world then ſtore of wealth.

and the multitude of his children] Ten of his ſons are reckoned up by name ch.9.6,&c. and it may be he had other ſons and daughters alſo, though there be no mention made of them. Many children were of old counted a great honour.

and all the things wherein the king had promoted him] The great offices which the King had conferred upon him may be here meant.

and how he had advanced him above the Princes and ſervants of the king] See ch.1.3. & 3.1.

V.12. Haman ſaid moreover] He heapeth up all that he can ſay of himſelf.

Yea, Eſther the Queen did let no man come in with the King, &c.] For it was a matter that was not ſuddenly to be divulged abroad, at leaſt before ſhe had obtained a grant of the King.

but my ſelf] This he reputeth amongſt his honours; and indeed it had been a great honour, if the Queen had done it in reſpect to him: But he was much deceived, as appears ch.7.6.

and to morrow am I invited unto her alſo with the king] That which moſt tended to his diſgrace and danger, he through ignorance reckoned amongſt his honours.

V.13. Yet all this availeth me nothing] Malice and revenge take away all the comfort that a man can have in any outward honours.

ſo long as I ſee Mordecai the Jew ſitting at the kings gate] It was not ſimply Mordecai's ſitting there, but Mordecai's refuſing to riſe up and bow to him, that damp'd all his joy, and vexed his ſpirit. This ſhews that the reckoning up of all his honours was to lay the greater load upon Mordecai; and to aggravate his offenſe.

V.14. Then ſaid Zereſh his wife, and all his friends unto him] See v. 10. Wives and friends who fear not God are ready to put on revengeful perſons in their pride and revenge, and ſo to adde fewel to a flaming fire.

let a gallows] Heb. a tree. See ch.2.23.

be made of fifty cubits high] This was at leaſt five and twenty yards, or ſeventy five foot high. See 1 Kings 6.2. A wonderfull great height. They muſt be very great poſts in compaſſe, and ſet firm in the earth with high braces, that could ſtand ſo high. This was done for the greater diſgrace of him that ſhould be hanged thereon, and that he might be ſeen hanging far and neer.

and to morrow ſpeak thou unto the king] As they would not attempt ſo ſtrange a fact without the Kings leave, ſo they make no doubt of his grant.

that Mordecai may be hanged thereon] Nothing but blood, and that ignominiouſly taken away, ſatisfies envious and malicious minds. So they dealt with Chriſt, Mat.27.22,35.

then go thou merrily with the king unto the banquet] Malice envy and revenge keep mens minds from reſt and mirth: but execution of revenge makes ſuch men merry.

and the thing pleaſed Haman] Heb. was good in the eyes of Haman. See ch.1.21. Evil counſel being agreeable to a mans humour ſeemeth good to him.

and he cauſed the gallows to be made] Malicious men are ready to put cruel projects into execution.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. ON that night] Here the wheel of Gods providence begins to turn apparently to the deliverance of his Church: For in this chapter is ſet down the means and manner of advancing him to honour that was devoted unto a ſhameful death. This circumſtance ſheweth that God taketh the moſt ſeaſonable time for bringing things to paſs.

could not the king ſleep] Heb. the kings ſleep fled away. There is no need of ſearching after externall reaſons or occaſions of ſleep departing from the King: the circumſtances following apparently demonſtrate that God by his ſpecial providence took away his ſleep.

and he commanded to bring the book of records] Heb. the book of remembrances. That book wherein the memorable acts concerning King and Kingdom were regiſtred. See ch.2.23.

of the Chronicles] Heb. of the words of dayes. This is ſet down by way of appoſition, or expoſition: for the book of records was a book of Chronicles.

and they were read before the king] That the King might the better paſs over the night-time, or that he might be brought to ſleep thereby: for reading to one in bed makes him ſleep the ſooner.

V.2. And it was found written] Not by turning to that place purpoſely, but Gods ſecret providence directing him that read to that ſtory.

that Mordecai had told of Bigthana, &c.] Or, Bigthan, ch.2.21.

V.3. And the king ſaid, What honour and dignity hath been done to Mordecai for this?] Kings that have any humanity or courteſie in them uſe to reward ſuch as ſave their lives: but it ſeemeth no reward had yet been given to Mordecai, God by his providence ſo ordering it, that he might in this ſeaſonable time receive a great reward, and be advanced as he was.

then ſaid the kings ſervants that miniſtred unto him] Theſe were ſuch as were called Eunuchs or Chamberlains, ch. 1.10. We call them Gentlemen of the bed-chamber.

There is nothing done for him] This anſwer implyeth ſome good reſpect that theſe Officers bare to Mordecai. Otherwiſe, Haman being ſo great a favourite as he was, they would have put the King in mind of his decree againſt the Jews.

V.4. And the king ſaid, who is in the court?] It was by this time, morning; and the King ſuppoſed that ſome of his Counſel might be come to attend upon him. He uſed to do great matters by the adviſe of counſel: and herein he would the rather take counſel becauſe he intended a great and royal reward to Mordecai.

Now Haman was come into the outward court, &c.] See ch.4.11.

to ſpeak to the king to hang Mordecai] Becauſe it was not onely a matter of death, but a publick execution, he durſt not do it without the Kings leave: therefore to get leave, he is up betimes, that the deed might be done before he went to the banquet, and ſo he might go the more cheerfully, when he whom he mortally hated was executed.

on the gallows that he had prepared for him] See ch.5.14.

V.5. And the kings ſervants ſaid unto him] See v.3.

Behold, Haman ſtandeth in the court] For he might not go into the Kings preſence till he were called, ch.4.11.

And the king ſaid, Let him come in] For he meant to ask his adviſe.

V.6. So Haman came in] He came in readily, not ſuſpecting any ſuch matter as fell out.

and the king ſaid unto him, what ſhall be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honour?] Heb. in whoſe honour the king delighteth. This phraſe importeth a great readineſs of mind, and is here uſed to ſtir up Haman to think of the greateſt honour that could be done to a ſubject.

Now Haman thought in his heart] Heb. ſaid in his heart. Secretly reaſoned within himſelf.

To whom would the king delight to do honour more then to my ſelf?] The Kings former favours to him, and that high dignity whereunto he had advanced him, made him imagine that he would prefer none before him, but rather confer all honour upon him.

V.7. And Haman anſwered the king] Haman conceiving that the matter concerned himſelf, quickly returned his anſwer.

For the man whom the king delighteth to honour] Heb. in whoſe honour the king delighteth. See v.6.

V.8. Let the royal apparel be brought] Heb. Let them bring the royall apparel. Let the Keepers of the Wardrobe bring forth the Kings moſt ſumptuous apparel.

which the king uſeth to wear] Heb. wherewith the king clotheth himſelf. Namely, when he ſitteth in State.

and the horſe that the king rideth upon] Kings uſed to have beaſts to ride on proper and peculiar unto themſelves. See 1 Kings 1.33.

and the Crown-royal which is ſet upon his head] If this be meant of the Kings own Crown, as the other things are, it argueth monſtrous ambition; namely, to be ſet out every way as the King himſelf. Surely Haman was beyond meaſure ambitious. Some, to mitigate the matter, ſay that there were crowns which great Monarchs uſed to ſuffer ſuch to wear as they made to be Kings under them, (The great King of Aſſur ſaid, Are not my Princes altogether Kings? Iſa. 10.8.) and that ſuch a crown is here meant. But the phraſe here will hardly admit ſuch a limitation.

V.9. And let this apparel and horſe] Thoſe before mentioned.

be delivered to the hand of one of the kings moſt noble Princes] This addes much to the honour, that ſuch worthy perſons (not mean ones) ſhould do all ſervices to the man that was to be honoured.

that they may array the man withall] i.e. put it upon him in the beſt manner they can.

whom the king delighteth to honour] See v.6.

and bring him on horſeback] Heb. cauſe him to ride.

through the ſtreet of the city] That open place where moſt men uſe to be gathered together, that ſo all ſorts might ſee him.

and proclaim before him] By ſome publick Herald.

Thus ſhall it be done, &c.] See v.6.

V.10. Then the king ſaid to Haman] This charge given to Haman was that which cut him to the heart moſt deeply.

of all that thou haſt ſpoken] Thus is he taken in his own words; and the King leaveth no means of evaſion.

V.11. Then took Haman the apparel, &c.] See v.8,9. In this verſe is diſtinctly ſhewed how Haman obſerved every particular before by himſelf expreſſed, and that to him whom he moſt of all hated; ſo as he could not but do it with much regret and againſt his ſtomach: but he durſt not tranſgreſs the Kings charge in any circumſtance, the rather becauſe he himſelf had adviſed all that was to be done. Behold here how God can clean croſs mens purpoſes. Haman is forced to do the greateſt honour to him to whom he intended the greateſt diſgrace. There is one particular left out in the Kings charge which is expreſſed in Hamans adviſe, namely, that the Crown-royal ſhould be ſet upon his head, v.8. It may be the King thought this too much, and therefore enjoynes it not.

V.12. And Mordecai came again to the Kings gate] Namely to the place where he was when Haman came thus to honour him, v.10. Thither he went, to ſhew that he was ſtill the ſame man that he was before. That extraordinary honour had not puffed up his mind, not altered his diſpoſition. Beſides, he had thereby better opportunity to enquire after Eſthers proceedings.

but Haman haſted to his houſe] A man that is confounded in himſelf for doing that which he takes to be a great diſgrace unto him, will, ſo ſoon as poſſibly he can, retire himſelf where he may be moſt private.

V.13. And Haman told Zereſh his wiſe and all his friends] ch. 5.10.

every thing that had befallen him] How the King asked his adviſe, but concealed the perſon about whom the adviſe was asked; how free he was in giving of his adviſe; and what followed thereupon.

Then ſaid his wiſe-men] He being a mighty Prince, next to the King, was not without learned and prudent men to give him adviſe in weighty matters. See ch.1.13.

before whom thou haſt begun to fall] In that another was advanced above him that was before advanced above all others, he may well be ſaid to fall, becauſe he is made inferiour to another. Beſides, the riſe of a new Favourite hath alwayes proved to be the fall of an old one.

thou ſhalt not prevail againſt him] A declining Favourite hath no hope to prevail againſt him that by the King is preferred before him.

but ſhall ſurely fall before him] Heb. falling thou ſhalt fall. See 1 King.8.13. This they conclude from the ordinary cuſtome of riſing and falling Favourites. Yea, they might alſo infer it from that which they had heard of the fall of ſome enemies of the Jews, as of thoſe Princes who plotted Daniels death, Dan.6.4, &c.

V. 14. And while they were yet talking with him] If we conſider the time wherein the King and Haman conſulted about the kind of honour, and the time that muſt needs be taken up in executing that counſel, and alſo the time wherein Haman and his friends were conſulting together about what had been done, we may well infer that it was time for Haman to be with the King to go to the banquet.

came the kings chamberlains] Such as are noted, ch.1.10.

and haſted to bring Haman] For it may be the King tarried for him.

unto the banquet that Eſther had prepared] This is the ſecond banquet whereunto Eſther invited the King and Haman. Of the firſt ſee ch.5.5,&c.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ. 1. SO the king and Haman came to banquet] Heb. to drink. Wine was eſpecially prepared for that time, and was that wherewith they did conclude, (ſee ch.5.6.) therefore they are here ſaid eſpecially to drink. So Gen. 43. 34 In this chapter the hiſtory of taking away the great enemy of the Jews is ſet down.

with Eſther the Queen] For ſhe had invited them, ch.5.8.

V. 2. And the King ſaid unto Eſther] This hath reference to ch. 5. 6. where the King once before ſaid to Eſther what here he doth.

on the ſecond day] The day after the firſt banquet. That was the firſt day, this the ſecond. Therefore on that day, in relation to this day, Eſther ſaith, to morrow, ch.5.8.

at the banquet of wine, what is, &c.] See ch.5.6.

V. 3. Then Eſther the Queen anſwered, &c.] See ch.5.7,8.

Let my life be given me at my petition] The word tranſlated life ſignifieth ſoul. For the life of the body conſiſteth in the union of the ſoul with it. Eſther accounteth her ſelf in the number of thoſe that were devoted to deſtruction, becauſe ſhe was a Jew; and therefore ſhe begs her own life. Life is the thing that in this world moſt concerns one, Job 2.4. therefore this ſhe mentioneth, to ſhew the great cauſe ſhe had to adventure to come to the King, though not called, ch.5.2. and to be ſo earneſt with him as ſhe was; yea alſo the more to move the King (who ſhe knew loved her) to grant her petition, which was of ſo great concernment.

and my people at my requeſt] She calls the Jews her people, becauſe ſhe was of that nation. See ch.4.8. Hereby ſhe implieth, that to have her own life ſpared would be but a ſmall comfort to her, if the whole nation whereof ſhe was were clean deſtroyed. Theſe two things, her own life, and her peoples preſervation, were very great matters; therefore ſhe doth thus briefly in the head of her petition ſet them down, to work the King the more readily to hearken to her.

V. 4. For we are ſold] Here ſhe doth much aggravate that which at the firſt hearing was ſo great, as is before mentioned. She maketh mention of ſelling, in relation both to that ſumme of money which Haman offered to the King, ch.3.9. and alſo to that grant which the King made to Haman, ch.3.11. For as things ſold are at the pleaſure of him that buyes them, ſo the King gave Haman the Jews to do with them what he would.

I and my people] See v 3.

to be deſtroyed, to be ſlain, and to periſh] Heb. that they ſhould deſtroy, and kill, and cauſe to periſh. She uſeth the very words of the decree, ch.3.13. to aggravate the matter, and to work the greater compaſſion in the King.

but if we had been ſold for bond-men and bond-women] This had been a very great miſchief. For bond-ſervants are at the pleaſure of their lords, and that (as of old the cuſtome was) even to take away their lives; yet that power was rarely uſed, and bond-ſervants by their good ſervice might win the favour of their lords. But now they were abſolutely adjudged to death, and that all of them, without exception of any one, ch.3.13.

I had held my tongue] This ſhe addeth to ſhew that ſhe was now neceſſarily forced to make known her caſe to the King.

although the enemy could not countervail the kings damage] The Jews were very uſeful and profitable to the King and Kingdom, not onely by the ſubſidies, cuſtoms, tolls and taxes which the King had from them, but alſo by their skill in many works, their induſtry and pains, their valour in war, and by their fidelity in all things: And if they had been utterly deſtroyed, all this had been clean loſt: And if they had been ſervants, the King could not have the benefit of their labours, but that would have redounded to the particular lords whoſe bond-ſervants they were. Now Eſther inferreth that this damage to the King would have been ſo great that all which the adverſary was worth, or could do, would not be a ſufficient recompenſe; and that therefore the ten thouſand talents of ſilver which he profered, ch. 3. 9. were not comparable to this damage.

V. 5. Then the king Ahaſuerus anſwered, &c.] The Queens petition, in regard both of the matter and manner of delivering it, ſeemed to the King to be of ſuch weight as he was much moved, and therefore further enquireth into it.

Who is he, and where is he] This doubling of the queſtion implieth great paſſion, and a ſtrong reſolution to be revenged of him, whoſoever he were, or whereſoever he were.

that durſt preſume in his heart to do ſo] Heb. whoſe heart hath filled him to do ſo. When men are ſet upon a miſchief, their heart is ſo filled with thoughts thereof as nothing elſe can abide therein. If a veſſell be full, whatſoever is poured into it, runs over. In this reſpect Satan is ſaid to fill mens hearts, Act.5.3. yea, men are ſaid to be filled both with evil and good, Act.5.17. & 13.45. Rom.15.14. 2 Cor.7.4. Phil.1.11. Act.13.52. When a mans heart is ſo filled with any evil, he will adventure to do it, whatſoever come thereof. Our Engliſh therefore hath here well explained this Hebraiſm.

V. 6. And Eſther ſaid, The adverſary] Heb. The man adverſary. i. e. that man which is the adverſary.

and enemy] She uſeth theſe two words the more fully to ſet forth his malice and hatred. The former word ſignifieth an oppreſſor; the later, one that is ready to do all hoſtile acts.

is this wicked Haman] The Queen obſerving the Kings indignation againſt that horrible fact that ſhe complained of, is encouraged plainly to name the man, and that with a brand, though preſent, and the Kings favourite. And indeed this was the very end of inviting Haman with the King to the banquet.

Then Haman was afraid before the King and the Queen] Or, at the preſence of them. Obſerving the King ſo paſſionately offended at the fact, and the Queen whom the King ſo intirely loved, involved in the danger, he was confounded in himſelf, and feared the loſs of his own life, as appeareth v.7. Thus we ſee how ſuddenly wicked ones may be caſt down upon the diſcovery of their wickedneſs.

V. 7. And the king ariſing from the banquet of wine in his wrath] Certainly the King diſcerned his own folly in yielding ſo ſuddenly and raſhly as he did to ſo horrible a fact, and was much incenſed againſt the author and contriver thereof; and thereupon ſuddenly aroſe up, as a man much diſquieted in his mind, and in great rage.

went into the Palace-garden] That there he might ſomewhat refreſh himſelf, and conſider what now was to be done in that caſe, for redreſs of the miſchief.

and Haman ſtood up] He was before ſitting at the table, or on a bed, which in thoſe dayes was inſtead of a table: but now the King riſing up as he did, and being gone away, he alſo ſtood up. For he well diſcerned that the Queen could not account him a fit gueſt to ſit by her.

to make requeſt for his life to Eſther the Queen] That ſhe would mediate with the King to ſpare him his life at leaſt.

for he ſaw that there was evil determined againſt him by the king] The Queens declaration of the cruel plot, the Kings enquiry after the authors thereof, the Queens plain naming of him, the Kings ſuddain riſing from the table, the evidence of indignation which appeared in the Kings countenance, could not but make Haman fear an heavy judgment, yea even ſee death before him.

V. 8. Then the king returned out of the Palace-garden] After he had there walked a while, and meditated on the matter.

into the place of the banquet of wine] Where he had left the Queen and Haman together, with the ſervants attending upon them.

and Haman was fallen upon the bed whereon Eſther was] This was ſuch a bed as is mentioned ch. 1. 6. and it was that bed or table whereon the banquet was ſet. The Queen ſitting hereupon, Haman fell proſtrate upon the ſame in an humble manner to beg the Queens favour. For having ſtood up a while, and the Queen not hearkning unto him, he proſtrateth himſelf before her, and, as is ſuppoſed, claſp'd her feet in his hands, (for ſo ſhe ſat as her feet were on the bed) to teſtifie the earneſtneſs of his deſire, and that he would not let her go till he found ſome favour from her. See the like 2 King.4.27.

Then ſaid the King, will he force the Queen alſo before me in the houſe?] The King beholding him in great wrath, turns all things to the worſt, and taketh the means which Haman uſed of ſupplicating mercy, to be a means of forcing and raviſhing the Queen. Thus he that unjuſtly accuſed the Jews, ch.3.8. is here miſ-judged himſelf. This was juſt with the Lord, though the King did miſ-interpret what he did.

As the word went out of the Kings mouth] i. e. preſently, ſuddenly, without any delay or ſtay.

they covered Hamans face] When a King was angry with any, ſo as he was not willing to look upon him, nor he worthy to behold the Kings face, ſuch as ſtood by inſtantly covered his face. Thus is the phraſe taken Job 9.24. Iſa.22.17. See on Gen.24.65.

V. 9. And Harbona one of the Chamberlains] Heb. Eunuchs. See ch.1.10.

ſaid before the king] It is probable that was one of thoſe Chamberlains who was ſent to bring Haman unto the banquet, ch.6.14. and that there he ſaw the gallows that was made. It was ſuch an extraordinary thing, ſo famous in the kind of it, and ſo famous in the end of it, as every one had a mind to ſee it. See ch.5.14.

Behold alſo the gallows, &c.] Heb. tree. See ch.5.14.

which Haman made for Mordecai] To hang him thereon.

who had ſpoken good for the King] Who had made known that which was beneficial to the King, and tending to the preſervation of his life, ch.2.22,23.

ſtandeth in the houſe of Haman] Or, by the houſe of Haman. There Haman erected the gallows, that himſelf might be an eye-witneſs of Mordecai's diſgraceful death.

Then the King ſaid, Hang him thereon] In thoſe dayes the Kings word was warrant enough to put a man to death. See 1 King. 2. 25,31.

V. 10. So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai] That pit which he had digged for another, he falls into himſelf, and is taken with that ſnare which he had laid for another, ch.9.25. Pſal.7.15,16. & 9.15,16. & 35 8. Dan.6.7,24.

Then was the Kings wrath pacified] If executing unjuſt revenge may make a man merry, ch 5.14. much more may executing juſt and due vengeance upon a cruel, bloud-thirſty perſon ſlake wrath, Ezek. 16. 63. Zach.6.8. By this effect following upon this vengeance on Haman it is manifeſt that the heart of Ahaſuerus was utterly alienated from him; otherwiſe, though on a ſudden he commanded him to be executed, he would afterwards have been diſquieted in his mind for what he had done, and lamented his death. That God who turned the heart of this King to Eſther, ch.2.17. and to Mordecai, ch 6.10. now alienated it from Haman, and pacified his ſpirit after execution was done upon him; that not onely the affairs of the Kingdom might the better go on, but alſo means for the preſervation, peace and proſperity of the Church might better ſucceed.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1 ON that day] The Queens banquet, her petition, the Kings grant, and the execution of Haman were all on one day: And alſo on that very day did the King ampliate his favours to Eſther and Mordecai.

did the King Ahaſuerus give the houſe of Haman] Under this word houſe Hamans goods, chattels, tenements and hereditaments are compriſed.

unto Eſther the Queen] All by the execution done upon Haman eſcheated to the King; and in teſtimony of his good acceptance of that which the Queen had moved againſt Haman he giveth all that he had to her.

and Mordecai came before the King] He was ſuch an one as they who are ſaid to ſee the Kings face, ch. 1.14. The phraſe here uſed implieth that Mordecai was admitted to be of the Kings houſhold, one of his privy Counſel, and an eſpecial Favourite.

for Eſther had told what he was unto her] How near of kin he was to her, even her couſin-german, ch 2.7. By this the King diſcerned that he was by marriage allied unto him, and thereupon was the rather moved to advance him to ſuch honour as he did.

V. 2. And the King took off his ring which he had taken from Haman] This might be the ring mentioned ch. 3. 10. which Haman kept till the Kings wrath againſt him was manifeſted; but then, he being ſent to execution, they pulled the ring off from his finger, and took away other ſigns of the Kings favour from him, and returned them unto the King.

and gave it unto Mordecai] In teſtimony of that favour which the King bare him, of the honour he did him, of the authority he conferred upon him, and of the confidence he placed in him. For by this ring Mordecai might ſeal any thing in the Kings name. Others take this not to be the ſeal-ring, but ſome other ſpecial ring which the King gave him as a pledge of his favour, as Gen. 41.42. Of further evidences of the Kings favour and of the honour that he did him, ſee v.15. ch.9.4. & 10.3.

And Eſther ſet Mordecai over the houſe of Haman] She made him chief Steward, to have the ordering and diſpoſing of that great eſtate, and to take care about the rents and other emoluments that might be thence raiſed for her uſe.

V. 3. And Eſther ſpake yet again before the King] She had once ſpoken to him while he ſat upon his throne, ch. 5. 4. and a ſecond time, at the firſt banquet, ch.5.8. and a third time, at the ſecond banquet, ch.7.3. and now again at this time.

and fell down at his feet] This is more then yet we read done by her. It was an humble geſture whereby ſhe manifeſted her lowly mind and earneſt deſire. So Abigal, 1 Sam.25.24. and the Shunamite, 2 King. 4. 37. and the ſervant in the parable, Matth. 18.26.

and beſought him with tears] Heb. and ſhe wept and beſought him. Theſe tears ſhew her deep compaſſion for the danger of her people. Though the King had given her great occaſion of rejoycing, yet her ſenſe of the Jews diſtreſs turns her joy into tears. See Neh. 1.4. Her tears are an evidence of the earneſtneſs of her deſire, Heb.5.7.

to put away the miſchief, &c.] i.e. his malicious plot that was miſchievous to the Jews, ch.3.13. and to the King alſo, ch. 7.4. By putting it away is meant a preventing the execution thereof, as v. 11.

V. 4. Then the king held out the golden ſcepter towards Eſther] See ch.5.2. By this it appears that Eſther again adventured to go in to the King while he ſat in Counſel.

So Eſther aroſe] For ſhe had caſt her ſelf down at the Kings feet, verſ. 3. and ſtood before the king] This teſtifieth her reverence to the King, and readineſs to make known her deſire.

V. 5. And ſaid, If it pleaſe the king, &c.] See ch.5.8. and the thing ſeem right before the king] She would not abuſe the Kings favour in an unjuſt matter, nor deſire any thing but what might ſtand with the law of the Medes and Perſians. See ch.1.19.

and I be pleaſing in his eyes] She knew that the King delighted in her beauty, and therefore ſhe preſſeth this in her juſt ſuit.

Let it be written to reverſe the letters] Heb. the deviſe. For the deviſe was ſet down in writing, and ſent up and down by letters.

or how can I endure to ſee the deſtruction of my kindred?] She urgeth both the general relation betwixt her and the Jews; they and ſhe were one people; and the particular relation that was betwixt her and many of them; they were of her kindred.

V. 7. Then the King Ahaſuerus ſaid unto Eſther the Queen] See ch.7.5. and to Mordecai the Jew] Either Mordecai ſat in Counſel with the King before the Queen came in, or elſe he came with her, and the King knowing that they were both Jews, near allied, and of one mind, directs his ſpeech to both.

Behold, I have given Eſther the houſe of Haman] See v.1.

and him they have hanged upon the gallows] See ch.7.10.

becauſe he laid his hand upon the Jews] By laying his hands on them is meant a deſtroying of them. See ch.3.6. & 6. 2. Hamans plot and endeavour to deſtroy the Jews is here ſet down as a real act: for in his mind he had deſtroyed them.

V. 8. Write ye alſo for the Jews] This the King prudently preſcribeth to ſave the Jews, without a ſimple diſanulling of that which was written before in his name.

as it liketh you] Having given them a general hint of that courſe which they ſhould take, he refers the manner of proſecuting it to their diſcretion.

for the writing which is written in the Kings name, and ſealed with the Kings ring, may no man reverſe] See ch.1.19. This the King addeth 1. to ſhew why he did not make an abſolute null of Hamans Letters; 2. to make them the more confident of the ſucceſs of what they ſhould write.

V. 9. Then were the Kings Scribes called] See ch.3.12.

at that time] Even ſo ſoon as the King had granted them the foreſaid liberty and authority.

in the third moneth, that is the moneth of Sivan] This is a Chaldee name, among other things ſignifying, a cap, or cover. This moneth began about the eleventh of our May, and might fitly be called Sivan, becauſe the earth is then covered with variety of flowers as it were with a cap.

on the three and twentieth day thereof] This was two moneths and ten dayes after the grant given to Haman, ch.3.12.

and it was written according to all that Mordecai commanded] For the King had given as large a commiſſion to him as he had done to Haman, ch 3.12.

unto the Jews] That they might ſee that the Officers performed their duties. If the Jews had not been written unto, the letters might have been concealed by others.

and the Lieutenants, and the Deputies, and the Rulers of the provinces] Theſe in Hebrew are the ſame name which are uſed ch. 3.12. but in Engliſh they who are here called Deputies, are there called Governours. The ſame kind of Officers are meant in both places.

all the power of the people and province that would aſſault them] The power of deſtroying was not ſimply given to the Jews, againſt any of the Kings people; but in caſe of aſſault, and that for defenſe of themſelves.

both little ones, and women] This is added, 1. to ſhew that the Kings grant to Mordecai was as large as his grant to Haman; 2. to make the enemies fear to ſet upon the Jews, ſeeing thereby they ſhould not onely endanger their own lives, but alſo the lives of their wives and children.

and to take the ſpoyl of them for a prey] See ch.3.13. This alſo was a means to reſtrain the enemy.

V.12. upon one day, in all the provinces of king Ahaſuerus, &c.] That very day which was appointed for their deſtruction, ch.3.13. is now ſet down for their defenſe.

V.13. The copy of the writing, &c.] See ch.3.14.

and that the Jews ſhould be ready againſt that day to avenge themſelves on their enemies] This is to be taken of ſuch enemies as would obſtinately perſiſt in ſeeking to deſtroy the Jews.

V.14. So the poſts, &c.] This is anſwerable to the execution of the charge which Haman gave, ch.3.15. Thus there are ſome as ready to execute decrees made for the preſervation of the Church as others for the deſtruction thereof.

V.15. And Mordecai went out from the preſence of the king] For he was with the King when he made the forementioned great grant, v.7.

and with a great Crown of gold] Not the Kings Crown, called the Crown-royal, ch.6.8. but another, ſuch as Princes in great place wore.

and with a garment of fine linen] Such garments Courtiers uſed to wear, Mat.11.8.

and purple] This alſo was for great ones.

and the city of Shuſhan rejoyced and was glad] By city the inhabitants are meant, and among others, the Jews eſpecially; yet alſo ſuch as having any humanity in them were troubled at the bloody edict of Haman, ch.3.15. they, obſerving the caſe to be altered, much rejoyced. Thus God can turn mourning into dancing, Pſal. 30.11.

V.16. The Jews had light] As light coming into a dark place doth much refreſh thoſe that ſee it, ſo the alteration of the caſe of the Jews did much revive and cheer them.

and gladneſs, and joy] They were not onely outwardly affected, but alſo inwardly in their ſpirits.

and honour] Moſt men had them now in high account.

V.17. And in every province, and in every city] Heb. province and province, city and city. This ſheweth that the former verſe is in ſpecial to be applyed to the Jews at Shuſhan.

whitherſoever the kings commandment and his decree came] This is called the Kings commandment and decree in the ſame ſenſe that the former was, ch.3.15.

a feaſt] Occaſion to feaſt together in teſtimony of their rejoycing, ch.9.17.

and a good day] i.e. joyful and comfortable; a day wherein they had juſt and great cauſe to praiſe God for his goodneſs to them. As a good day is joyned with feaſting ch 9.19. ſo is it oppoſed to mourning, ch.9.22. A good day is alſo put for a ſeaſonable time, wherein there is abundance of that provided which is needful and uſeful, 1 Sam.25.8.

and many of the people of the land] Throughout the whole Kingdom of Perſia, and the provinces appertaining thereto.

became Jews] Profeſſed the Jewiſh religion, ſubjected themſelves to the rites and ordinances thereof, were circumciſed, became Proſelytes, and aſſociated themſelves with the Jews in all friendly and familiar manner. It is probable that many did it onely in ſhew and outward appearance, yet we are not to doubt but that ſome did it very heartily, being wrought upon by a divine ſpirit.

for the fear of the Jews fell upon them] God ſtruck the hearts of the heathen with ſuch a fear of the Jews that they durſt not obey Hamans edict, but rather yielded obedience to Mordecai's. For by that which they had ſeen and heard of Hamans fearful end, and of Gods turning the Kings heart, they feared that the Jews would be the ſtronger party, and prevail againſt all that ſhould oppoſe them. See Gen. 35.5.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ. 1. N*Ow in the twelfth month,* &c.] In this chapter the full deſtruction of the enemies of the Jews, their full deliverance, and their preſent and future thankfulneſs for the ſame, is ſet down.

when the kings commandment and his decree drew near to be put in execution] The decree which Haman obtained, and alſo that which Mordecai obtained, were both to be put in execution upon one day, ch.8.12. But the later is here eſpecially meant.

in the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them] God can diſappoint the hopes of the enemies of his Church. They conceived by the lots which they caſt that this would have been a lucky day to them, but it proved an unlucky day. Truſt is not to be placed in vain lots.

though it was turned to the contrary] Divine providence ſo ordered.

that the Jews had rule over them that hated them] See v.5. By reaſon of that aſſiſtance which the Rulers of the provinces afforded the Jews, v.3. and that fear that ſeized on the hearts of their enemies ch.8.17. they prevailed.

as ſought their hurt] Either to kill them, or to ſpoil them of their goods, or to do any thing elſe prejudicial to them.

and no man could withſtand them] Some durſt not appear againſt them, others that did riſe up were deſtroyed.

for the fear of them fell upon all people] See ch.8.17.

V.3. And all the Rulers of the provinces, and the Lieutenants, and the Deputies] See ch.8.9.

and officers of the king] Heb. thoſe which did the buſineſs that belonged to the king.

helped the Jews] They that had any authority under the King, or any ſpecial dependance on him, or buſineſs to do for him, obſerving how his heart was turned towards the Jews, in their reſpect to the King afforded what help they could unto them, though they bare no good will to them themſelves.

becauſe the fear of Mordecai fell upon them] They did ſo dread that power which the King had given him that they durſt not do any thing that might diſpleaſe him. See ch.8.17.

V.4. For Mordecai was great in the kings houſe] Had great authority and command in the Court, was much honoured by the King, and honoured of all the Courtiers.

and his fame went out throughout all the provinces] The report of that favour which the King ſhewed him, and of that power which he had conferred upon him, was divulged and made known far and near.

for this man Mordecai] There is an emphaſis in this phraſe, this man. It hath relation to his former meanneſſe and preſent greatneſs.

waxed greater and greater] Though he had been very mean, and adjudged to the gallows, yet he was not onely for a time made great, but ſtill encreaſed in honour, dignity and power more and more. This is noted in oppoſition to Haman, who was ſoon caſt from his great eſtate, Pſal.1.3,4. & 37.37,38. & 99.7,9,10,12.

V.5. Thus the Jews ſmote all their enemies] All ſuch as roſe againſt them.

with the ſtroke of the ſword, and ſlaughter, and deſtruction] This variety of phraſes implyeth an utter deſtruction of them all, either by the ſword or ſome other way.

and did what they would] Heb. according to their will. For they had the Kings warrant to do what they would, and there was no power againſt them able to reſtrain them.

unto thoſe that hated them] This is a deſcription of their enemies. See v.1.

V.6. And in Shuſhan the palace] Shuſhan is here put for the City; and the name palace is added to it, becauſe the palace was in that City.

the Jews ſlew and deſtroyed five hundred men] Theſe queſtionleſs were of Hamans faction, and combined together to revenge his death, being put on by his ten ſons, who periſhed with them, v. 10. It was great ſtoutneſs of ſtomach thus to riſe up againſt the Jews, notwithſtanding the Kings laſt decree, ch. 8.11. Mordecai's great authority, and the multitude of Jews that were gathered together and well prepared againſt their enemies, v.2,3.

V.7,8,9. And Parſhandatha, &c.] In theſe verſes are ten Perſian names, found in no other part of Scripture.

V. 10. The ten ſons of Haman] Theſe were a great many ſons, but yet queſtionleſs he had more; for he had ſuch a multitude as he boaſted of them, ch. 5. 12. But it may be theſe onely were of age, or at leaſt theſe only were in Shuſhan, and roſe up in an hoſtile manner againſt the Jews; and therefore theſe onely are here reckoned up.

the ſon of Hammedatha, &c. Or, Ammedatha, ch.3.1,10.

ſlew they] They being Captains of companies that roſe againſt the Jews, were ſlain in that inſurrection. Beſides, herein the Jews might have reſpect to the doom denounced againſt the Amalekites, Exod.17.14,16. Deut.25.17,19. 1 Sam.15.3.

but on the ſpoyl laid they not their hand] They took not away the goods of Hamans ſons, or of any others ſlain by them, though by the Kings grant they might have taken the ſpoyl, ch.8.11. that it might appear that it was not a covetous deſire of enriching themſelves that made them deſtroy their enemies, but meer neceſſity, to preſerve their own lives. When their enemies were taken away, they left the goods either for the children of them that were ſlain, or elſe for the Kings treaſury. See on Gen. 14.23.

V. 11. On that day] Whereon the ſlaughter was.

the number of thoſe that were ſlain] For an exact account was taken of them, and they were put into the publick records.

in Shuſhan the palace] See v.6.

was brought] Heb. came.

before the king] It was particularly made known to him, and a regiſter of them put into his hands.

V. 12. And the King ſaid unto Eſther the Queen] He knew that this would be acceptable news unto the Queen, and therefore he himſelf would be the meſſenger to carry it to her.

The Jews have ſlain, &c.] See v.6,10.

what have they done in the reſt of the kings provinces?] Though Shuſhan were the royal city of the Kingdom, fair and populous, yet it was but little in regard of all the cities and other places throughout the hundred ſeven and twenty provinces: therefore it might well be inferred that the number of thoſe that were ſlain in Shuſhan was but ſmall in compariſon of thoſe which were ſlain throughout the whole Kingdom.

Now what is thy petition, &c.] See ch.5.3,6.

or what is thy requeſt further? and it ſhall be done] Many and great were the things which the King had done for Eſther, and yet, as not ſatisfied therewith, he ſtill enquires what ſhe would yet have more. A loving heart is never ſatisfied with doing good to ſuch as it entirely loveth.

V. 13. Then ſaid Eſther, If it pleaſe the king] See ch.5.4,8.

let it be granted to the Jews] They durſt go no further then they had expreſs warrant for from the King.

which are in Shuſhan] Which have their habitation there.

to do to morrow alſo] This hath refence to v. 6. and it implieth a deſire to deſtroy more of their enemies.

according unto this dayes decree] She meaneth the decree mentioned ch.8.11. & executed v.6. It is probable that, though five hundred were ſlain, v. 6. yet many had eſcaped who bare a deadly hatred to the Jews, and might ſeek an opportunity to revenge the bloud of Haman, his ſons, and the other that were ſlain. Therefore, to prevent that miſchief, the Queen deſireth leave for the Jews to deſtroy ſuch of their enemies as had eſcaped.

and let Hamans ten ſons be hanged upon the gallows] Heb. upon the tree. That very gallows whereon Haman was hanged, ch.7.10. This ſhe deſired to bring the greater ignominy on his ſtock, and to make them ſeem the more vile, and be the more diſreſpected.

V. 14. And the king commanded it ſo to be done] His love to Eſther ſuffered him not to deny her any thing.

and the decree was given at Shuſhan] As it was there made, ſo it was there publiſhed and proclaimed.

and they hanged Hamans ten ſons] On the formentioned gallows.

V. 15. For the Jews that were in Shuſhan] This is added as an effect of the Kings grant.

on the fourteenth day alſo of the moneth Adar] This was the morrow which the Queen ſpake of, v.13.

and ſlew three hundred men at Shuſhan] So eight hundred were ſlain in all. See v.6.

but on the prey they laid not their hand] See v.10.

V. 16. But the other Jews that were in the kings provinces] Scattered up and down in the hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces.

and had reſt from their enemies] After they had deſtroyed theſe here mentioned.

and ſlew of their foes ſeventy and five thouſand] Beſides the eight hundred, v.6,15. Though theſe conſidered abſolutely were very many, yet, the whole Kingdom being compared to Shuſhan, they were but few in relation to them that were ſlain in that city.

but they laid not their hands on the prey] This being a memorable matter is now the third time ſet down; ſee v.10,15.

V. 17. On the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar] The day of deliverance.

and on the fourteenth day of the ſame] Heb. in it. Namely, in that moneth.

reſted they] This is ſpoken of the Jews abroad in the provinces. On the thirteenth day began their reſt, their danger being removed by the deſtruction of their enemies; but on the fourteenth their reſt was completed, all their enemies being the day before deſtroyed.

and made it a day of feaſting and gladneſs] As their deliverance was extraordinary, ſo was their praiſe. They ſet a day apart to ſpend it in giving thanks unto God: and to cheer up their ſpirits the more, they feaſted therein. For feaſting is as proper to thankſgiving, as faſting to humiliation. See Neh. 8. 10. Feaſting and gladneſs are joyned together, becauſe the one ſweetneth the other.

V. 18. But the Jews that were at Shuſhan aſſembled together on the thirteenth day thereof] This was their firſt meeting, v.6.

and on the fourteenth thereof] This was their ſecond, v.15. While the Jews in the countrey were feaſting, they in Shuſhan were deſtroying the remainder of their enemies.

and on the fifteenth day of the ſame they reſted, &c.] As their brethren in the countrey had done the day before, v. 17.

V. 19. Therefore the Jews of the villages that dwelt in the unwalled towns] Up and down in the countrey. Gods providence was to them a wall of defence.

made the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar a day of gladneſs and feaſting] See v.17.

and a good day] See ch.8.17.

and of ſending portions one to another] See Neh. 8.10.

V. 20. And Mordecai wrote theſe things] This may be taken of the two dayes which the Jews at Shuſhan ſpent in deſtroying their enemies; and that as a reaſon of the different day of feaſting which they kept. Or it may be extended to all the circumſtances about the Jews deliverance from Hamans conſpiracy. Or further, it may be extended to this whole book of Eſther.

and ſent letters unto all the Jews that were in all the provinces, &c.] His deſire was that they ſhould all agree together about the time and manner of praiſing God.

V. 21. To eſtabliſh this among them] As a law to be obſerved year after year.

that they ſhould keep the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and the fifteenth day, &c.] Though at the firſt the Jews in the countrey kept onely the fourteenth day feſtival, and the Jews in Shuſhan the fifteenth day onely, yet in ſucceeding times, year after year, he would have all of them, both in countrey and city, keep both dayes; to ſhew that we ought mutually to rejoyce one with another, Rom.12.15.

V.22. As the dayes whereon the Jews reſted from their enemies] After they had vanquiſhed them. The dayes of memorable deliverances are to be remembred; Exod.13.3.

and the moneth] It will be an help to remember the particular day, when the moneth alſo in which that day fell out ſhall be remembred, Exod.12.2,&c.

which was turned unto them from ſorrow to joy] Thus God can turn the ſtate of his Church from the worſe to the better.

and from mourning into a good day] See ch. 8.16,17.

that they ſhould make them dayes of feaſting and joy] See v.17.

and of ſending portions one to another, and gifts to the poor] See Neh.8.10,12.

V. 13. And the Jews undertook to do as they had began] They undertook for themſelves as long they lived, and for their poſterity after them, annually to keep two dayes of feaſting, as they had done when they were firſt delivered from their enemies.

and as Mordecai had written unto them] See v.20,21.

and to deſtroy them] See ch.3.13.

V. 25. But when Eſther came] Heb. when ſhe came. Eſther being mentioned before, is here underſtood.

before the king] This hath reference to ch.5.3,&c. he commanded by letters] Thoſe mentioned ch.8.10,&c.

and that he and his ſons ſhould be hanged on the gallows] This was done v.14. ch.7.10.

V. 26. wherefore they called theſe dayes Purim, after the name of Pur] That is, Lat. Pur is the ſingular number, and Purim, that is, Lots, the plural. There may be memorials of wicked plots and practiſes as well as of good; as Babel, Gen.11.9. Taberah, Numb. 11.3. Hormah, Numb.21.3 The valley of Hamon-Gog, Ezek.39.11. For ſuch memorials cauſe future ages to deteſt wickedneſs. As for this name, it puts a brand upon that evil cuſtom of caſting lots for lucky dayes; and withall, it calleth to mind Gods wiſdom in turning ſuch lots to contrary iſſues, and making them vain.

therefore for all the words of this letter] In regard of thoſe things which Mordecai had written, the Jews undertook yearly to celebrate a memorial of that deliverance which he mentioneth in his letters, v.20,21.

and of that which they had ſeen concerning this matter] They had ſeen Haman and his ſons hanged; they had ſeen other of their enemies deſtroyed; they had ſeen the Queen and Mordecai, both Jews, highly advanced: For theſe things alſo they would keep an annual memorial.

and which had come unto them] Namely, to their ears, by report; as Eſthers ſupplicating for the Jews, the Kings reading the Chronicles, the advice that Haman gave whereby Mordecai was advanced: Theſe and other like things came to them by report from others.

V. 27. The Jews ordained] Upon the fore-mentioned grounds all ſorts of Jews aſſembling together in their ſeveral places by a joynt common conſent agreed, and ſet down that which followeth as a law.

and took upon them, and upon their ſeed] See v. 23. They engaged themſelves for their own perſons and for their poſterity.

and upon all ſuch as joyned themſelves unto them] Hereby are meant ſuch as are ſaid to become Jews, ch.8.17.

ſo as it ſhould not fail] Heb. paſs. The meaning is, that this reſolution of theirs ſhould be as an inviolable law.

that they ſhould keep theſe two dayes] See v.21.

according to their writing] Even that which Mordecai had written v.20,21. For queſtionleſs that which they ordained for an annual obſervation was regiſtred.

and according to their appointed time every year] Namely, when the fore-ſaid laſt moneth, and the two dayes therein, in the accuſtomed revolution of the year, ſhould come.

V.28. And that theſe dayes ſhould be remembred] It hath been uſual with Gods Saints in all ages to keep remarkable deliverances in perpetual remembrance. Moſt of the feaſts of the Iſraelites tended to this end, as the Paſſover, Exod.12.17. the feaſt of Tabernacles, Levit.23.43. By this means the memory of mercies is kept freſh, and men are the more and oftner ſtirred up to praiſe God for them. Yea, hereby the whole memory of Gods mercies manifeſted in one age is propagated to many ages, and ſo they have matter of praiſing God miniſtred unto them, of believing in God, and of hoping for deliverance from God in their diſtreſs.

and kept throughout every generation] Heb. generation and generation. Thus the everlaſting God is perpetually praiſed by mortal creatures, in that as one generation paſſeth, ſucceeding generations, one after another continue to praiſe him.

every family, every province, and every city] Heb. family and family, province and province, city and city. All the Jews, in their ſeveral provinces, cities and families, were devoted to deſtruction, ch. 3. 8,12,13. The deliverance therefore was of all; and meet it was that praiſe ſhould be given by all.

and that theſe dayes of Purim] See v.26.

ſhould not fail] Heb. paſs. See v.27.

from among the Jews] That that people ſhould never forget the deliverance, but ever remember it.

nor the memorial of them periſh from their ſeed] Heb. be ended from their ſeed. i.e. their poſterity. See v.27.

V. 29. Then Eſther the Queen, the daughter of Abihail] See chap. 2. 15.

and Mordecai the Jew] This title Jew was given to Mordecai, not onely out of ſcorn, in his low eſtate, by his adverſary, ch. 5. 13. but alſo for honour to his nation, when he was highly advanced, ch. 8.7. & 10. 3. Eſther and Mordecai joyn together, to add the more force to this ordinance: For theſe two were the higheſt in dignity among the Jews; yea, what theſe two did, was accounted to be done in the Kings name.

wrote with all authority] Heb. all ſtrength. In their letter they did preſs that high dignity whereunto the King had advanced them, the power he had given them, the favour he did bear to them; yea, they preſſed the equity of the matter, how acceptable it would be to God, how God himſelf had commanded as much in like caſes; and upon theſe grounds they did not onely adviſe and wiſh the Jews to obſerve what was written, but laid a charge and command upon them ſo to do. This was to write with all authority.

to confirm the ſecond letter] This hath reference to that firſt letter, which Mordecai alone wrote, v.20. It is probable that Mordecai wrote his letter about the time that the firſt feaſt was kept; and that this was written when the year came about, upon fear that they might be backward in obſerving it year by year, leſt they ſhould exaſperate many of the heathen by obſerving it.

of Purim] Or, concerning the feaſt that carried that name in memorial of their deliverance. See v.26.

V. 30. And he ſent the letters unto all the Jews] That all of them might obſerve the contents thereof.

to the hundred twenty and ſeven provinces of the kingdom of Ahaſuerus] See ch.1.1. Judah is here included; for that was a province, Ezra 5.8. and one of theſe hundred ſeven and twenty.

with words of peace and truth] With ſuch words as gave them aſſurance that they ſhould live in peace, without fear of their enemies; and that they ſhould enjoy their religion. Or, with kind and loving words, and ſuch as were in truth, coming from his heart. Or, words whereby he enjoyned them to keep peace one with another, and hold the truth. Or, words of congratulation, congratulating that peace and quiet which they had, and their faithfulneſs to God, to their profeſſion, and to thoſe that were over them.

V. 31. To confirm theſe dayes of Purim] Which were firſt enjoyned, v.21,26.. and now again confirmed to be yearly obſerved.

in their times appointed] See v.27.

according as Mordecai the Jew and Eſther the Queen had enjoyned them] See v.29.

and as they had decreed for themſelves] Heb. for their ſouls; i.e. for their perſons, Gen.46.26.

and for their ſeed] See v.27.

the matters of their faſtings and their cry] Heb. the words of faſtings, &c. That Hebrew word is oft put for things alſo, and is here well tranſlated matters. By theſe matters he meaneth the occaſions that were given to faſt, and earneſtly to pray unto God, ch. 3.8, &c. and the manner and time of uſing thoſe duties, ch.4.16. and the conſequences that followed thereupon. This is here ſet down to ſhew that they ought the rather to be more zealous in praiſing God, and that time after time, becauſe that for which they praiſed God was a bleſſing obtained with long faſting and ſtrong cries. And queſtionleſs they did in their dayes of humiliation vow unto God to praiſe him, if he ſhould hear their cries: For this was ever the cuſtom of Saints in their great diſtreſſes, Gen. 28.20. Jon.2.9. Pſal.56.12,13. & 61.5,8. & 116.14,18. Others take this clauſe, of faſtings, and cryings, to be a matter of their decree, that as they decreed to praiſe God on the fourteenth and fifteenth dayes of the moneth Adar, ſo alſo they decreed to faſt and pray the day before, namely on the thirteenth day, in memorial of the faſting and prayers mentioned ch. 4. 16. and Gods gracious return thereunto. For confirmation hereof they ſay that the Jews uſe to this day to faſt on the thirteenth day, and to feaſt on the fourteenth and fifteenth of the tweſth moneth.

V. 32. And the decree of Eſther confirmed theſe matters of Purim] Her decree made it to be as an inviolable law, which was obſerved generation after generation, and, as it is ſaid, is kept to this day.

and it was written in the book] Hereby is meant ſome publick record which the Jews had to keep in memory ſuch great and weighty matters as fell out about them.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. AND the king Ahaſuerus] In this chapter is ſuccinctly ſet down the good uſe that Mordecai made of his high advancement for the benefit of the Church.

laid a tribute upon the land] Namely, upon all that part of the world which was under his juriſdiction.

and upon the Iſles of the ſea] Such as were inhabited by people, whereof many were within his dominion. This is here ſet down as one evidence of that good which Mordecai did for the Jews: For it is ſaid that he got an exemption for the Jews from this tribute. Other hiſtories make mention of this tribute, and ſay it was to maintain war againſt the Grecians, who being then grown mighty, this Ahaſuerus (who was by the heathen called Xerxes) did raiſe againſt them the hugeſt hoſt of men that ever was heard of. We read that at that marriage of Eſther, ch.2.18. this King made a releaſe to the Provinces, to wit, of the accuſtomed tribute for that ſeaſon. But now that cuſtom was revived again.

V. 2. And all the acts of his power, and of his might] This hath reference to Ahaſuerus, who was a mighty Monarch, and much enlarged his dominion.

and the declaration of the greatneſs of Mordecai] Mordecai's greatneſs ſimply conſidered in it ſelf was admirable; He was made greater then ever Haman was, and more ſteddily continued in his dignity: But if the mean eſtate from whence he was raiſed be duly weighed, his greatneſs will appear much more admirable.

whereunto the king advanced him] Heb. made him great. It was God that turned the Kings heart to Mordecai, and that for the good of his Church.

are they not written] This is here brought as a reaſon to ſhew why there is ſo little ſpoken thereof in this book: q.d. What need more be ſaid thereof in this place, ſeeing ſo much is written in other records?

in the book of the Chronicles] Heb. words of dayes. See ch.2.23.

of the kings of Media and Perſia] See ch.1.3. The Chronicles here meant are ſuch as were brought to the King, ch.6.1.

V.3. For Mordecai the Jew] See ch.9.29,31.

was next unto King Ahaſuerus] Advanced above all the Princes of that Monarchy.

and great among the Jews] In high account and great repute among them, even as if he had been their proper King.

and accepted of the multitude of his brethren] All ſorts of Jews great and mean, did well account of whatſoever he did or ſaid unto them.

ſeeking the wealth of his people] Heb. ſeeking good for his people. He endeavoured every way to do them all the good he could.

and ſpeaking peace] He promiſed all manner of proſperity unto them, and was courteous to them, ſpeaking gently and meekly; yea he alſo took all occaſions to ſpeak to the King for their proſperity, & ordered & decreed all things that might tend thereunto.

to all his ſeed] To all that were of the ſame ſtock whereof he was, even to all the Jews, ch.9.31.

ANNOTATIONS On the Book of JOB.

The Argument.

THe Argument of any Book is like the Cryſtall to a Watch, or a pure tranſlucent Tiffany caſt over rich Embroyderies; which do not darken what is under them, but ſet them off, and inſtead of hiding, beautifie. It might be wiſhed, that we could give you ſuch an Iconiſme, and ſuch a tranſparency to this Book; then which none (in all the holy Volume) hath more need of a ſhining Lanthorn at the Porch to enlighten both it ſelf, and the Reader; for, though moſt excellent and glorious things be contained in it, yet they ſeem to partake the ſame portion with their ſubject, being (as his proſperity was) clowded often with much darkneſſe and obſcurity: And that, not only in thoſe things which are of leſſe moment, and edification, (viz. the Time, and Place, and Penman, &c.) but in points of higher Doctrine, and Concernment; which (whether it be from their own inborne ſublimity, or the Originary ambiguities and uncertainties of the hard language which preſents them) we can but peep into, and conjecture at, rather then Diſcern; being forbidden clearer apprehenſions, by that thick and large vaile which is ſpread every where upon them: And this hath prevailed ſo far upon ſome Judgements, that they have ſuſpected all for a meer parable, and will believe Job to have been no other, then, what he ſayes the life of Man is, a fancy and ſhadow: But I ſhall deſire a great Prophet, and Apoſtle, to refute this Infidelity: in the mouth of two ſuch witneſſes (had we no further evidence) let the Truth and Honour of this Scripture be eſtabliſht for ever: neither of whom would have propoſed our Heroe as an Example of brighteſt holineſſe, and patience, if he had been no more then a dim Fiction, nor have taught us the nobleſt Acts and duties of Religion by things imaginary, and which never were: The Book is obſerved indeed to be a ſort of holy Poem, but yet not a Fable; and though we cannot expreſſely conclude when or by whom it was written, though our Maps cannot ſhew us what Uz was, or where ſituate, yet cannot this Scripture of Job be rejected, untill Atheiſme grow as deſperate, as his wife was, and reſolve with her to curſe God, and die. For the Partition, or Method of the Book, no Invention can perform that better then the unfallible Spirit of God hath, who divides it (by S. James) into the patience of Job, and the Event or Cataſtrophe of it: And ſo makes it a Diviner kind of Tragi-Comedy; where many Griefs and miſeries determine ſweetly in greater Joy and Mercy. This Joy is advanced by the black ſhadowings of ſorrow, and that ſorrow is heightened by many ſad and dolefull Aggravations; whileſt not onely what he is deprived of, oppreſſeth him, but even what he enjoyes, and his very comforters are as miſerable as his loſſes. So is he aſſaulted on all hands, and had not ſtood poſſibly in the Combat, but that he was impregnably armed with Wiſdome, and Righteouſneſſe, and Patience: His Wiſdom appeares ſingular in that deep variety and intermixtures of all Learning and Philoſophy, there being not any Art, or Profeſſion, which all the Schooles have boaſted, without a clear footſtep and intimation here. The ſecond breaks forth, not more in the faithfull Character and Teſtimony of Gods own Spirit, then in his own humble acknowledgements, and Actions: which (let his uncharitable Judges cenſure them for hypocriticall, or what they pleaſe, yet) demonſtrate all along his ſtrong ſincerity, and holy purpoſe; eſpecially in this, that they breathe and long after a better liberty and purity, which in themſelves they had not, and diſclaiming their own perfection, ſeek it from his, who found folly in the very Angels, and had given him ſure perſwaſions, and full Hope, (through the life of his Redeemer) that after a ſhort corruption in the Grave, his deflowred Skin and Fleſh ſhould be renewed, and thoſe very Eyes which had been eaten out by Worms, ſhould in heaven ſee God for ever: which belief and knowledge of Chriſt, though weak and dimme, yet prove Job, whatever Country-man he was, to have been a true Iſraelite, and a ſon of Abraham, though a Gentile, nay an Edomite: It is not the letter gives this deſcent, but the Spirit; nor does Circumciſion, or things outward make a Jew, (that is, a true Member of the Church,) but the inward praiſes of the Heart; In theſe Job excelled many that call Abraham Father, having an unextinguiſht light of the true Meſſiah glimmering in his ſoule, which was more admirable in him, becauſe his Day-ſtar was not yet riſen; and yet is ſuch a Day-ſtar to us, that had we no more to condemn Atheiſme, and Unbelief, and Idolatry, and Hypocriſie, and Blindneſſe, then this one Hiſtory, we ſhould yet be left unexcuſable, there being ſo much in it to inſtruct us concerning both the Creator, and the Creature; the bleſſed Nature, Attributes, Providence, and Service of him, and the empty mocking frailty, and unprofitableneſſe of this. And then laſt, his Patience, which is the moſt renowned Grace of all; this ſtands open and aloft in every Chapter, and hath left him the faireſt Monument and Copy of Divine fortitude, and Conſtancy, that the Church of God hath recorded. This patience is ſo much the more honourable, becauſe his former Condition was ſo large and proſperous; becauſe his Knowledge and Grounds were darker, than thoſe which later diſcoveries have bleſſed Chriſtians with; and becauſe his Trialls and Concuſſions were more violent. He was a Butt expoſed to all Arrowes, and both Heaven, and Earth, and Hell ſhot terribly at him: He was afflicted by God himſelf, by Men, and by Devils. He was not ſpared in any comfort that humane life enjoyeth, but ſtript utterly naked; both Friend and Foe were cruell to him; and a generall conſpiracy and fulneſſe of miſery beleaguered, and wounded him. No wonder if ſometimes natural infirmity betrayed it ſelf, and that we find ſome leſſe faithfull, and temerary, and exceſſive Complaints burſting from him. In ſuch united perturbations and ſtormings, who can but pity his immoderation, his ſtaggerings: and read thoſe eaſie lapſes both with feare, and compaſſion? Notwithſtanding, in the main he continued victorious, and not only worſted reall difficulties, but verball: Thoſe bitter criminations and aſperſions of his friends, he refuted as eaſily, as thoſe from Satan; and after a ſtrenuous and vehement diſpute with them, God himſelf who ſate in the Chair, and moderated, and was glorified by him, glorifies himſelf in declaring the unſeen (but never unjuſt) end of his chaſtiſements, and gives the triumph to his ſervant. To whom he reſtitutes a multiplied Felicity, increaſing both his Friends and his Riches, and brought him off that tragicall and mournfull Theatre with far greater glory then he entred upon it: And ſo hath left us an example as well of his Goodneſſe, as of his Power; and together hath taught us both our Calamity and Happineſſe; That ſeeing the Patience of Job, and the End of the Lord in it, we might not murmure, when viſited, nor decide Gods ſecret favour by outward preſſures; but believe firmly that none ſhall ever loſe by honouring the Lord, and that we may continue children and beloved, even when moſt ſharply corrected, and therefore account them happy, that ſuffer for his ſake, and that no Joy is greater, than ſuch temptations.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. THere was a man in the land of Vz, whoſe name was Job: and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God and eſchewed evill. Of the Pen-man of this book, ſee on Pſal.87.4. Cant.1.1.

In this firſt verſe, the principal object of the enſuing Hiſtory, is ſet forth by his nature and ſex, A man. By his habitation, In the land of Vz. By his name, Iob. By his virtues and good qualities, perfection, uprightneſſe, fear of God and care to avoid evill.

There was a man] The word איש is uſed ſometimes onely to diſtinguiſh the male from the female, as Gen. 2. 23. where the name of woman is given to Eve, becauſe ſhe was taken out of man. Sometimes it ſignifies not an ordinary man, but a great and famous man, where it is oppoſed to, or diſtinguiſhed from, Adam; as Pſal. 49. 2. & Pſal.62 9. where it is expreſſed by men of high degree. And ſuch a man was Job, the greateſt of all the men of the Eaſt, verſ.3.

In the land of Vz] See on Chap.9.24. upon Earth. Uz, A part of the country of Idumea, as Lam.4.21. ſo called from Uz, the Son of Diſhan, the ſon of Seir, Gen.36. 28. mentioned, Jerem. 25. 20. Or, a part of Arabia, bordering upon the land of Edom, as others conceive, becauſe the places from whence Jobs friends came, were thereabouts. Three perſons are mentioned in Scripture by the name of Uz. The firſt the ſon of Aram, ſon of Shem, ſon of Noah, Gen.10. 23. The ſecond was the firſt-born of Nahor, Abrahams brother by his wife Milcah, Gen.22. 21. The third, the ſon of Diſhan, the ſon of Seir, Gen.36.28. From whom the place here mentioned ſeems to be called Uz, his poſterity ſeating themſelves in thoſe parts.

Whoſe name was Job] The Hebrew word שם ſignifies, 1. The proper name of a man, by which he is called. Iſa.4.1. 2. The knowledge or taking notice of one. *Mic.*4.5. 3. Fame, or renowne. Numb 16. 2. 4. The perſon himſelf. Pſal. 20. 1. 5. A mans poſterity. 1 *Sam.*24.21. 6. Help from one. *Pſal.*44.5. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for a mans name. This ſhewes, that this Book contains a true Hiſtory, and not a meer Parable, as ſome would have it. For his name is here ſet down, and mentioned alſo, Jam.5.11. and joyned with Noah and Daniel, Ezek 14.14. whoſe Hiſtories, without doubt, were not parabolical, but true and reall. Alſo his country is named, and the country of his friends, and the places one neare another. It ſeems he lived before the Iſraelites planting in Canaan: elſe he would not have offered ſacrifice in his own countrey, but gone to Jeruſalem, as was commanded. Neither would Job have offered ſacrifice himſelf, verſ. 5. but have brought it to the Prieſts, who uſed to offer it in the land of Canaan. And there is no mention of the deliverance out of Egypt, and wonders in the wilderneſſe, which many other books of Canonical Scripture, mention, and might upon ſeveral occaſions have been mentioned here, if they had been done before this time. See on Gen.36. 33.

and that man was perfect] He was ſincere, without fraud or diſſimulation, Pſal.32.2. & 18.23. Joh.1.47. A ſincere heart is the root of all piety, Gen.6.9. & 17. 1.

and upright] Juſt in all his dealings towards men, verſ.8. Chap.2, 3. & 8.6. & 33. 27. upright in his wayes, Chap. 4.6. Prov.19. 27. Pſal.15.2,3. as appeares at large, Chap.29. & 31. See Iſai.26. 7.

and one that feared God] One that was truly religious, and made conſcience of duty to God, as well as to man, 1 King.18.12. Nehem. 5.15. & 7.2. Act.10.2, For God. See on Chap.20. 29.

and eſchewed evill] Evill of ſin, the cauſe of all other evils; as Pſal. 34.14. & 37.27. Iſai 1.16. 1 Pet.3.11. Noted here as an effect of the fear of God, Prov.8.13. & 16.6. All this was the more commendable in him, in that he was not carried away with the idolatry and unjuſt dealing of the Edomites, among whom he lived, but ſhined like a ſtar among them, in piety and righteouſneſſe, than if he had ſo lived in Abrahams Family, or among the Iſraelites; as it was to Noah to be upright in the old world, Gen.7.1. to Lot in Sodom. 2 Pet. 2.7,8. to Joſeph in Egypt, Gen. 41. 18. Phil.2. 15. The word רע ſignifieth, 1. Evill of ſin. Pſal.51.4. 2. Evill of puniſhment. Am.3. 6. Here is meant evill of ſin.

V.2. And there were borne unto him ſeven ſons, and three daughters] Here is ſet out Gods bleſſing on Job, in giving him ſo numerous a poſterity.

ſeven ſons] Sons and daughters have their name in Hebrew from בנה to build, becauſe they are builded up by their parents, and build up the family. Job had more ſons then daughters, and his name and family was likely to be ſpread ſo much the more, whereas daughters are tranſlated to other mens names and families. The names of families are preſerved in males, extinguiſhed in females. Hence זָכָר, a male, from זֵכֶר, memory: נשים, women, from נשה, to forget. For Son. See on Chap.14.21.

three daughters] God ſhewed his bounty to him, in giving him iſſue of both ſexes.

V.3. His ſubſtance alſo was ſeven thouſand ſheep, and three thouſand Camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred ſhee-aſſes, and a very great houſhold; ſo that this man was the greateſt of all the men of the Eaſt] He proceeds to the deſcription of Jobs great wealth and proſperous eſtate, large enough to afford him comfort, and enrich his poſterity.

His ſubſtance] His children and riches are declared to commend his vertue in his proſperity, and his patience and conſtancy, when God had taken them from him. By ſubſtance is meant cattel, which were their greateſt riches in thoſe times. And ſo the word is tranſlated, Exod.12.38. Gen.4.20. & 26.14. and may be here.

ſeven thouſand ſheep] He begins with his ſheep, becauſe they were moſt in number of all his cattel. The word ſignifies leſſer cattel, as ſheep, and goats; eſpecially where it is oppoſed to greater, as Gen. 13.16. Levit.1. 2,10. Such ſerved for food and cloathing. The word אלף ſignifies. 1. An oxe, Pſal. 8. 7. 2. A thouſand. Gen.20. 16. So here.

three thouſand Camels] The Scripture teſtifies, that there was much uſe of ſuch cattel in the Eaſtern countries to carry burdens, Gen.37. 25. They were ſtrong cattel, and had ſome two bunches on their backs, ſome, one; fit to keep their burdens ſetled: and one on their breaſts, which they leaned on, when they couched down to receive their burdens.

five hundred yoke of oxen] Theſe were of great uſe for plowing of the ground, verſ.14. 1 King. 19 19. Amos 6.12. בקר ſignifies. The morning. Iſa.33.2. 2. An oxe. Exod 22.1. So here.

five hundred ſhe aſſes] Or, aſſes; without diſtinction of ſex, for all his cattel are ſet down, and there is no diſtinction of ſexes mentioned in his other cattel. And ſo the word is tranſlated, verſ. 14. Gen.45. 23. The ſhe-aſſes are expreſſed, becauſe theſe were kept moſt frequently for breed. Such cattel they uſed to ride on in thoſe parts. Judg.5. 10. and Judg.10. 4. and to carry burdens alſo, Gen. 42. 26. & 44. 13.

and a very great houſhold] Abundance of ſervants imployed by him. His children were reckoned before, verſ.2. The word comes from עבד a ſervant: Or, very much husbandry. Abundance of fields and gardens to till and dig, Gen.16.14. Theſe go together, for where there is much husbandry, there muſt be many ſervants.

The greateſt of all the men of the Eaſt] The richeſt and powerfulleſt, and moſt famous for wealth and honour, of all thoſe that lived in thoſe Eaſtern parts, Gen. 24.35. Or, of greateſt authority, 1 King.4.8. His wealth is here largely ſet out to ſhew his ſincere piety, that forgot not God in ſo great proſperity; which mans corrupt heart is of it ſelf very prone unto, Deut 8 11.—17. & 32.15. 2 Chron 26.16. Prov.1.32. and to make way for the praiſe of his future patience in cleaving to God in the loſſe of ſo great an eſtate, Pſal.44.17.—22. Men of the Eaſt, Heb. ſons of the Eaſt, Gen.25.6. who lived Eaſtward in reſpect of Canaan, Judg.6.3. *Gen.*29.1. 1 King.4. 30. Such were the Arabians, Caldeans, &c. Or, of thoſe Eaſtern parts, ſimply conſidered in reſpect of the world, for Canaan, in likelihood, was in no great requeſt in Jobs time, who is thought to live long before the Iſraelites conquered Canaan. קדם ſignifies. 1. Ancient, Deut. 33. 15. 2. The Eaſt. Numb.23.7. So here.

V.4. And his ſons went and feaſted in their houſes, every one his day, and ſent and called for their three ſiſters to eat and to drink with them] Way is now made to the enſuing Hiſtory of the great croſſe, that fell on Job by the loſſe of all his children.

his ſons] His daughters did not make feaſts, nor invite their brethren, for that might have ſeemed an immodeſt act, not beſeeming virgins; neither had they any conveniency to do it, not having houſes of their own, but living in their fathers houſe, as the manner of virgins was, Judg.11.31. 2 Sam.13.7.

went and feaſted] That is, no more but made feaſts. No journey here is intended. So, Go tell thy Lord, 1 King.18.8. Go tell that Fox, Luk.13 32. Or, came together, and feaſted. For the word ſignifies coming, as well as going, Jon.1.3. This added to Jobs comfort, that his children were ſo loving one to another, and declared their good will by mutuall feaſting. It was alſo an addition to his ſorrow, when he loſt them. The word feaſt, is taken from a word that ſignifies to drink; for choice wines and drinks, were a principal part of their feaſts, *Gen.*43. 34. *Eſt.*1. 8. הלך ſignifies. 1. Going about any thing. 1 King.18.8. 2 Walking. Gen.31. 19. 3. Paſſage of ſhips. Pſal.104.26. 4. Dying, or going out of the world. Gen.15. 15. 5. Conſtancy in a condition. Gen.15.2. 6. A courſe of life. Pſal.1.1. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for going about a buſineſſe. Feaſted. Heb. Made a feaſt. For Made. See on Chap. 14.9. or Bring forth.

in their houſes] Every one in his own houſe, according to his turn. For Houſes. See on Chap.15.28.

his day] It may be each on his birth-day, which uſed to be kept in thoſe parts, Gen.40.20. Matth.14.6. and it may be Job kept his before, which ſoon after he curſeth, Chap.3.1. Or on ſuch a day, as by mutual agreement, came to each ones turn to invite. For Day, ſee on Chap.14.14.

ſent and called for their ſiſters] Or, ſent ſome to call their ſiſters. So Matth.14.10. Herod ſent, and beheaded John, that is, he ſent one to behead him; as Mark 6. 27. See more of this phraſe on verſe 5. They neglected not their ſiſters, though they invited not them, but ſent ſervants to invite them, and attend upon them, ſhewing hereby the loving reſpect they bare to their ſiſters: Yet no doubt there was a ſpeciall hand of Gods over-ruling providence in it, that Job might be the more fully tryed, by the loſſe of all his children in one day.

For Sent ſee on chap. 14. 20. For called on ch. 13. 22.

to eat and to drink with them] To feaſt with them, as Eccl. 2. 24. Iſai. 22. 13. Luke 22. 19. The word אכל ſignifies 1. To eat. Exod. 34. 28. 2. To devoure any thing. v. 16. of this chap. Conſumed. Heb. Eaten. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe for eating with the mouth.

V. 5. And it was ſo, when the dayes of their feaſting were gone about, that Job ſent, and ſanctified them, and roſe up early in the morning, and offered burnt offerings according to the number of them all: For Job ſaid, It may be, that my ſons have ſinned, and curſed God in their hearts: thus did Job continually] The great care that Job had to keep his children in the favour of God, is ſet down by many particular circumſtances in this verſe; which ſhall be expounded in their order.

when the dayes of their feaſting were gone about] When all their turnes were over, before they began to feaſt again. Or, if there were more dayes then one of feaſting in one houſe, Job might offer ſacrifice after every ſeveral turn. This ſhewes his great care of them, that would not deferre the work any longer, than the end of their feaſting.

Job ſent and ſanctified them] He ſent meſſengers unto them to require them in his name to prepare themſelves (as verſ. 4. ſee there] in an holy manner to joyne with him in offering a ſacrifice to God for them next day. This he doth as a father, and likewiſe as a maſter of a family, and Prieſt of God for that family. This did further ſet out the care that Job had of his childrens ſpiritual good. The ſanctification here ſpoken of, containes an expectation of a ſacrifice, and readineſſe to attend upon it at the time appointed: As in Numb. 11. 18. the people are bidden to ſanctify themſelves againſt to morrow, that is, to expect fleſh then to eat, and to be ready to receive it. Alſo it may contain a legall or ceremonial kind of purging and cleanſing themſelves by waſhing their clothes, abſtaining from the marriage-bed, and ſuch like ceremonies. As the people of Iſrael are commanded to do againſt the receiving of the Law, Exod. 19. 10, 14, 15. 1 Sam. 16. 5. John 11. 55. Or, by prayer and faſting the day before, and humbling themſelves, they were to fit themſelves for the ſacrifice, that it might be accepted. And above all, by internal and ſpiritual meanes, as mortification, good meditations, Gen. 35. 2. repentance of their errours in their feaſts, reconcilement to one another; that without uncleannes they might be partakers of the action, and benefit of their fathers ſacrifices offered for them.

and roſe up early in the morning] This further illuſtrates Jobs fatherly care of his children, in that he would not put it off any longer, but the next day in the morning, and that riſing early as ſoon as light affords conveniency for ſuch ſervice. A thing noted in Scripture, as a ſign of ſedulity in any employment, 2 Chron. 36. 15. Pſal. 101. 8 Jer. 25. 4 & 29. 19. Hoſ. 5. 15. Alſo the morning was the fitteſt time for Gods ſervice, when men were freſheſt, before they were engaged in their worldly buſineſſes. Therefore that time was choſen by godly men for prayer, Pſal. 5. 3. & 63. 1.

and offered burnt-offerings] Of which himſelf might take no part, but they were all offered in fire unto God, and paſſed away in ſmoke, and were turned into aſhes. See on Pſal. 20. 3. & 37. 20. offering in Hebrew, is lifting up, becauſe the Prieſt lifts it up on the altar to be burnt, and it mounts upwards in ſmoke, and the people lifted up their hearts and eyes after it, Pſal. 141. 2.

according to the number of them all] Either ſeven ſacrifices for his ſeven ſons, who made the feaſts, or ten, including his three daughters alſo, who might forget themſelves, and offend God in their mirth, as well as his ſons: he offered for every one of them an offering of reconciliation, which declared his Religion toward God, and care of his Children. See Levit. 1. 10.

For Job ſaid,] he thought in his heart. For thought is the ſpeech of the mind; as words, of the tongue, Pſal. 39. 1. & 14. 1. & 32. 5. Gen. 20. 11. I thought. Heb. ſaid. See on Chap. 16. 1.

It may be that my ſons have ſinned] See his godly jealouſie over his children, that though he knew no hurt in their feaſts, nor had heard none by information, yet conſidering how ready mans nature is, eſpecially in his youth, to offend at ſuch times, he ſuſpects the worſt, that they might be guilty of immoderate mirth, immodeſt geſtures, prodigality, abuſe of Gods gifts, forgetfulneſſe of the poor, and other ſins of carnal incogitancy. For ſon, ſee on chap. 14. 21. Eccleſ. 7. 2. Or, thought unfitly of God, as followes.

and curſed God] In Hebrew it is, bleſſed God: as 1 King. 21. 10, 13. Job 1. 11. & 2. 5, 9. Becauſe the crime of blaſphemy at that time was eſteemed ſo enormous and execrable, that men could not endure to hear it called by the proper name, but although they had a word to expreſſe it by, yet they ſo deteſted that ſin, that they called it by the contrary. So a Sodomite and a whore, have their names in Hebrew from holineſſe, being both moſt unholy, Chap. 36. 14. Gen. 31, 50. & 38. 21, 22. Deut. 23. 18.

in their hearts] Job thought his Children might have ſome irreverent thought concerning God in the heat and liberty of their feaſting. For had he known they had openly blaſphemed God, he would never have endured it, but would have forbidden them thoſe wicked feaſts. Yet knowing evill thoughts of God to be ſinful, he offers ſacrifice for them. For Heart ſee on chap. 15. 12.

Thus did Job continually] Heb. all the dayes. Either after each feaſt was ended, or after the courſes of feaſting were all gone once about, and before they began again. The latter is moſt agreeable to the beginning of the verſe, unleſſe each brother feaſted more than one day at one time. For Did. See on chap. 14. 9. on Bring forth. For Dayes. See on chap. 14. 14.

V. 6. Now there was a day, when the ſons of God came to preſent themſelves before the Lord, and Satan came alſo among them.
Here begins the hiſtory of Jobs troubles, which are laid to take their riſe from Satans malice.

There was a day] That is, a certain time.

the ſons of God] The good Angels, Job. 38. 7. Luke 20. 36. They are Gods Children by creation, according to Gods image, as Adam was, Luke 3. 38. They are like God in power, wiſdome, and holineſſe.

came] From doing Gods will on earth, they returned to heaven. Or, Appeared before God, for the end following. For Came. See on chap. 15. 21.

to preſent themſelves] In an eſpecial manner, or for a ſpecial end. It may be, to give an account to God of their ſervice done on earth for the good of his people. So God examines Satan, ver. 8. what he had ſeen in Job. Or, they came to offer him their ſervice in ſome peculiar buſineſſe; as 1 King. 22. 21.

Before the Lord] Or, By, or, near the Lord. So the word is rendred, 2 King. 22. 19. Zech. 4. 14. Gen. 18. 8. They that ſtand on the right hand, or on the left, ſtand not before, Matth. 25. 33. Becauſe our infirmity cannot comprehend God in his Majeſty, he is ſet forth unto us as a King ſitting on his Throne, that our capacity may be able to underſtand that which is ſpoken of him. And his Angels are likened to great officers, that at certain times appear before Kings, to give an account of their employment. See the like, 1 King. 22. 19.

Satan] Heb. The Adverſary. The article intimates a principal adverſary. As, The Son of man, Mat. 25. 31. That is, The moſt excellent ſon of man. This title is in Scripture attributed ſometimes to ungodly men, who ſhew themſelves enemies to Gods people; as 1 King. 5. 4. & 11. 14. In both which places Satan in Hebrew is tranſlated adverſary. But here it is meant of the Devill, who is the greateſt enemy the people of God have, 1 Chr. 21. 1. and is therefore called the accuſer of the brethren, Rev. 12. 10. becauſe he not onely hates them himſelf with an irreconcileable hatred, but alſo labours by accuſing them to God, to make him their adverſary alſo, Zech. 3. 1. So the ſons of God, are ſometimes men, but in this verſe they are Angels.

came alſo among them] Heb. in the midſt of them. Not into heaven; for being once caſt out, he can come no more there. But it is a ſimilitude taken from earthly Courts, where advocates and accuſers come all together: and it intimates unto us, that as the good Angels are ready to go forth at Gods command for the good of men, ſo is Satan ever ready to further his own malicious plots againſt them. Neither came he for good, as the Angels did, but preſents himſelf impudently to get a Commiſſion to hurt Job.

V. 7. And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Whence comeſt thou? Then Satan anſwered the Lord and ſaid, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.] Satan like a ſubtill adverſary, and crafty accuſer, layes nothing to Jobs charge, till God give him occaſion by his queſtion, that ſo he might hide his malice, which appears to be great againſt Job, by his ready exception againſt him, without any ſtudy or delay, verſ. 9, 10. He had ſought to undo Job by proſperity before; now he plots how to do it by adverſity.

the Lord ſaid to Satan] He made his intention known to him by ſome ſpiritual way unknown to us. So Angels ſpeak one to another; and as men ſpeak to God in their hearts, Exod. 14. 15. 1 Sam. 1. 13.

Whence comeſt thou?] This queſtion is asked after the manner of Judges, who are to find out mens faults by enquiry. See the like, Gen. 3. 9. & 4. 9. For God knew well enough where Satan had been, and what he had been doing, and that he came with an heart full fraught with malice againſt Job.

anſwered] See on Chap. 16. 1.

From going to and fro] Zech. 1. 10, 11. & 6. 7. 1 Pet. 5. 8. Satan hath no legs to go to and fro, yet he removes from one place to another in a ſpiritual manner, as Angels do. He is ſometimes in one place, ſometimes in another: he is not every where like God, nor unmoveble like a tree, though he cannot go as men do. Herein is deſcribed the nature of Satan, who is ever ranging for his prey, as one unquiet, ſeeking alwayes to do miſchief. Yet Satan did not intend ſo much in this phraſe, for he would not accuſe himſelf to God, but he ſought to keep himſelf from giving account of the hurt he had done; as if he had ſaid, I have been doing no harm, only I have walked up and down in the world, which is permitted to me; like Gehazi his excuſe, Thy ſervant went no whither, 2 King 5. 25.

in the earth] For he had nothing to do any more in heaven. See the notes on ver. 6. For Earth. See on chap. 9. 24.

From walking up and down in it] He ſets a good face on it, as if the earth were the place of his delight and full liberty, which is the place of his baniſhment and reſtraint, till he receive his laſting damnation. Luk. 10. 18. Rev. 12. 12. Joh. 14. 30.

V. 8. And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job, that there is none like him in the earth; a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evill?] Satan not yet boulting out his malice againſt Job, God gives him a fuller occaſion by a particular enquiry after Jobs integrity.

Haſt thou conſidered] Heb. Haſt thou ſet thy heart on? That is, Haſt thou throughly obſerved his whole converſation? So Hag. 1. 5. Exod. 9. 21. 1 Sam. 4. 20. & 25. 55. A fit queſtion, for Satan uſeth throughly to ſift Gods people, Luke 24. 31.

my ſervant Job] Though all creatures be Gods ſervants, and owe him duty and obedience, Pſal.119.91. and good men in a more ſpecial manner, Eſay 65.13. yet are they more particularly ſo ſtyled in holy Writ, whom God doth adorn with moſt eminent graces, and imploy in moſt eminent places; as Moſes, Numb. 12. 7,8. Deut. 34. 5. David, Pſal. 78.70. & 89. 20. Paul, Rom. 1. 1. John, Rev. 1. 1. yea and Chriſt himſelf, Eſay 42.1. Matth.12. 18. Job may be called Gods ſervant here, becauſe he worſhipped the true God, though he lived among Idolaters; or elſe becauſe of his eminent graces mentioned ver.1. and here repeated.

like him] That is, equall to him. For, no doubt, there were many good men alive, who were like Job, though they came ſhort of thoſe excellent graces that were in him, in regard of degrees. So the word is uſed, 1 Kings 8.23. & 21 25. Pſalm.86.8. Deut.33. 26. 2 Sam.7, 22. Exod.15. 11. Mich.7.18.

in the earth] Or, in the land. To wit, wherein he dwelt. As he was greater in wealth then the reſt, verſ. 3. ſo alſo in piety. So the word is uſed, for a particular region, verſ,10. Pſal.101. 8. Gen. 12. 1,6. Jer.5.30. & 12. 4,12. & 23. 10.

a perfect, &c.] The following words were all expounded verſe 1.

V. 9. Then Satan anſwered the Lord, and ſaid, Doth Job fear God for nought?

Then Satan anſwered the Lord] Satan had no wickedneſſe to accuſe Job of, elſe no doubt he would have done it. Yet he will accuſe him of hypocriſie, although he could not poſſibly know his heart. See Satans great malice.

Doth Job fear God, &c.] He propounds it by way of queſtion in a kind of admiration, as wondring that God ſhould ſpeak ſo well of Job, who might ſerve God for by-ends, as many other rich men did.

for nought] Without an ample reward, out of pure love: or rather hath he not his reward before hand? as verſe 10. He ſerves thee not as a child, but as a mercenary ſervant, Chap. 14.6. The word חנם ſometimes ſignifieth for nought, or without reward or pay, as here, and Gen.29. 15. Exod.21 2,11. Sometimes, without cauſe, or wrongfully, as Job 2. 3. Pſal.35. 7. 1 Sam. 19. 5. & 25 31. Sometimes, without ſucceſſe, or in vain; as Ezek.6.10.

V. 10. Haſt not thou made an hedge about him, and about his houſe and about all that he hath on every ſide? Thou haſt bleſſed the work of his hands, and his ſubſtance is increaſed in the land.

Haſt not thou, &c.] Now he goes about to prove his former accuſation, that Job did not ſerve God out of love, but onely for reward. Becauſe he knows that thou uſeſt to work wonderfully for him, which he perceives in the mighty protection of him and his, and encreaſe of his cattel, therefore he doth all theſe righteous actions.

made an hedge about him] A metaphor taken from a field, or a vineyard fenced round about with a ſtrong hedge, that no cattel or wild beaſts or theeves come in to do hurt there. See Pſal. 80. 12, 13. Eſay 5. 2,5. Hereby in Scripture is intimated Gods ſpeciall providence defending his people from all evil. This is their ſafeguard. This is ſometimes ſet out by a wall, which is the ſafety of a houſe, Ezra 9.9. Zech.2.5.

and about his houſe] Thou haſt not only protected himſelf, but alſo his houſe and dwelling place, or rather his houſhould, children, ſervants, his whole family. So the word is taken, Zech. 13. 1. 2 Sam.7. 16.25. Gen.18.19. Joſh.24.15. Gen.39.5. Luke 19.9. Acts 16.34. For Houſe ſee on chap.15 28.

and about all that he hath] His cattel, and goods. Such things as he hath abroad in the fields.

on every ſide] So that no hurt, no not the leaſt, can come to him, or his. Thou haſt not left ſo much as a gap for any enemy to come in to hurt him, or his, or ought he hath.

Thou haſt bleſſed] Or, And bleſſed. So that the whole verſe may go on by way of queſtion. Gods bleſſing ſometimes includes all benefits ſpiritual or temporal; as Gen.12.2. & 24. 1 Pſal.1.1. & 128. 1,2, 4,5. Sometimes ſpiritual only, as Eph.1.3. Sometimes temporal only, as Deut.28.3,4. Gen.1.22,28. & 39. 5. Deut. 7. 13. Such it here imports, as appears by the next words. And it is not likely that Satan, who would not acknowledge thoſe graces, that God himſelf profeſſed to be in Job, ver.8. would honour him ſo much as to take notice of them under a general term of bleſſing.

the work of his hands] Thou haſt made all his actions to proſper, Pſal. 128. 1, 2. and ſo haſt enriched him, Prov. 10. 22. For Hands ſee on chap.15.23.

and his ſubſtance] Or, ſo that his ſubſtance. Thus this particle is tranſlated, Chap.7.15. And it ſhewes what was the fruit of Gods bleſſing on his labours, and that not his labour, but Gods benediction, gave him all that increaſe, 33. 5. 11.

ſubſtance] Or, cattel. See Notes on verſe 3.

is increaſed] Heb. broken forth. To wit, by birth, or opening the womb; as Gen 38. 29. The word properly imports breaking out of bounds, and breaking through all things that hinder, ſo as it cannot be kept in, In Scripture phraſe it often ſignifyes abundant encreaſe of living creatures; as Gen. 28. 14. & 30.30,43. Exod. 1.12. So here it ſets out a ſpecial bleſſing of God on Job, ſo that his cattel increaſed ſo mightily, that the fields could not hold them, nor they could not be kept within their wonted bounds, but they muſt break out, and ſeek for food abroad. It is like the burſting out of the preſſes with new wine, Prov. 3.10. which argues great plenty. See Luke 12. 16.---18.

in the land] See Notes on verſ. 8.

V. 11. But put forth thine hand now, and touch all that he hath, and he will curſe thee to thy face.]] As if he ſhould ſay; Thou haſt bleſſed him indeed abundantly, but thou haſt not tried him yet. Lay ſome croſſe upon him, and if then he do not openly diſhonour thee, I ſhould very much marvel.

But] Heb. And. Yet it is often put for But, by way of oppoſition; as Prov. 14. 1---6. Or, But ſurely. Which latter word omitted in the tranſlation, is uſed for corroboration, or confirmation of a thing; as Gen.28.19. where it ſhould alſo be read, But ſurely. Satan is confident Job afflicted would curſe God.

But put forth thine hand now] Verſ. 12. God hath no hands like man. It is therefore a ſimilitude taken from man, who ſometimes puts forth his hand for good to others, as Prov. 31. 20. by giving to the poor. So alſo God opens his hand to feed all living creatures, Pſal. 104. 28. & 145.16. Or to deliver his from their enemies, Pſal. 138, 7. & 144.7. Acts 4.30. Sometimes for hurt: Either when men put their hands out to take away mens goods, as Lam.1.10. or ſtretch them out to ſmite or ſtrike others to their hurt, Eſt.6.2. 1 Sam.26.9. or to lay hold on them to impriſon them; as 1 King.13.4. So God ſtretcheth out his hands to hurt men by taking away their goods, or deſtroying them, Eſay 5.25. & 9. often. Pſal.106. 26. Ezek.25.7. 13. 16. Exod 7. 4. So Satan would have God either to take away or deſtroy thoſe precious things he had given Job, or to ſmite him with that hand that had been put forth to bleſſe and protect him. For Put forth ſee on chap.14.20.

and touch] Sometimes the word ſignifieth a light ſtroke, and ſheweth how eaſie it is for God to deſtroy the creatures. Abimelech would not have the leaſt hurt done to Iſaac or his wife. No man muſt ſo much as touch them under pain of death, Gen.29. 11,29. See Pſal. 104. 32. & 105.15. Zech.2.8. So ſome think that Satan not daring to wiſh much hurt to one whom God ſo dearly loved, and not doubting but Job would eaſily be brought to curſe God, wiſhed that ſome light loſſe might be laid on him by God. But the contrary appears by the words following. And the word is put for a harder ſtroke, verſ 19. by ſmiting; and alſo chap.19.21.

all that he hath] It ſeems by this tranſlation, that the Devil intended not a light loſſe, but much miſchief to Job, that he ſhould loſe all, and be made a begger. This is confirmed by Gods large Commiſſion granted to him, ver.12. And by Satans ſevere execution in the verſes following, taking away all his children, and cattel, and leaving nothing but a ſeveral meſſenger of each loſſe to grieve him, and a bad wife to vexe him. Others read it, Touch any thing that he hath. And that agrees well with what went before, Thou haſt ſo hedged him in, that he never felt the leaſt loſſe. Lay but ſome light loſſe on him, and he will curſe thee to thy face. Satans intention was to prove Job an hypocrite. Now a good man might fall into impatience in the loſſe of all poſſeſſions. So the word כל is uſed for any, and that without a negative particle added, Job 8. 12. it withereth before any other herb. And it may be ſo tranſlated: Gen. 2. 16. Of any tree of the garden thou maiſt freely eat. and Prov. 1. 17. in the ſight of any bird.

and he will] Heb. if he do not curſe thee. Underſtand, Then ſay I am a liar, or let me periſh. So the Jewes in earneſt aſſeverations, leave out the imprecation to be added by others. It is an uſuall ſhort term of an oath, and of a curſe; and the choice of the penalty, if the party ſpeak falſely, is left to God to chooſe, and to inflict. This ſhort form of ſpeech is often uſed in Scripture both by God and men; as Gen.14.23. Judg.5. 8. Pſal.89.35. & 95.11. Eſay 5.9. & 22.14. & 14. 24. Jer.15.11. Ezeck.5.11. & 14. 21. 1 King. 20. 23.25. and ſometimes it is more fully expreſſed, as 1 King.19.2. 1 Sam.14.44.

Curſe thee] See on verſ. 5.

to thy face] Openly, publickly, impudently, boldly, without ſhame or fear, or any regard of thy Majeſty. If thou touch him; he will be angry with thee, and fly in thy face. So, To the face is uſed, Gal.2. 11. and expounded verſ. 14. before them all. Satan noteth the vice whereunto men are commonly ſubject, that is, to hide their rebellion, and to be be content with Gods dealing in time of proſperity, but in time of adverſity to curſe God openly to his face, Eſay 8. 21. Rev. 16. 11. For Face ſee on chap.14. 20.

V. 12. And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Behold, all that he hath is in thy power: onely upon himſelf put not forth thine hand. So Satan went forth from the preſence of the Lord.

And the Lord ſaid unto Satan] Here Satans Commiſſion is ſet down in plain terms, and ſo limited, that he may not paſſe it to do Job any further hurt, till God give further leave.

Behold] A note of admiration; as Hab.1.5. And indeed it might ſeem very ſtrange that God at the firſt motion of Satan ſhould give ſo much power to him over all that Job had.

all that he hath] All his goods moveable and immoveable. All the perſons belonging to him, and cattel. Thou haſt thy full deſire: Try him throughly. Or, if the former words be read, Touch any thing that he hath, then God grants more than Satan asked. Thou thinkeſt every light loſſe will make him curſe me to my face; but thou ſhalt find him ſo well ſetled, that the loſſe of all will not make him to do it We may marvell why Satan having ſo ample a Commiſſion, would ſpare Jobs wife, and ſome of his ſervants. They alſo were in his Commiſſion, and he might have deſtroyed them as well as the reſt, and as much as the cattell, all which he took away. Surely it was not out of love to Job, but for his own ends, that by the bad tidings of the one, or bad counſell of the other, he might be drawn to curſe God.

is in thy power] Heb. in thy hand; as Gen. 16. 6. & 39. 8. Exod. 4.21. John 3.35. Satan deſires God to put forth his hand and ſmite Job in his poſſeſſions. Now leſt Satan ſhould cavill and ſay, that God ſmote him too lightly to make a thorow tryall of his ſincerity, God bids him to take his poſſeſſions into his hand, and diſpoſe of them as he pleaſed. Yet God gave not Satan this power to gratify him, but to declare that he hath no power over the creatures, further than God gives him leave to hurt them, Matth. 8. 31.

Onely upon himſelf] Hurt not him. Do nothing that may endanger his bodily health and ſafety. All that belongs to him are in thy power, but not his perſon.

put not forth thine hand] See Notes on verſ. 11.

ſo Satan went forth] He looked for nothing elſe, but a command to hurt Job. And as ſoon as he had it, he ſtaid not, nor anſwered any more, but went preſently about the work to do Job a miſchief. For Went forth ſee on chap. 15.13. on Go out. And on chap: 20.25. on Cometh out.

from the preſence of the Lord] Spoken after the manner of men, for he could go no whither out of Gods preſence, Pſal. 139.7, &c. The phraſe ſignifies ſometimes to go out of the places of Gods ſpeciall protection, as Gen. 4 16. or from the place where God had appeared unto any, Jon. 1. 3. Here it is a metaphor taken from a ſervant, who having received a command from his Maſter to do ſome ſpeciall piece of ſervice, leaves his maſter, and preſently goes about it; as Zech. 6.5, &c. Mar. 4,22.

V. 13. And there was a day when his ſons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their elder brothers houſe] Here begins the particular enumeration of Jobs calamities. Satan begins with lighter troubles, goes on by degrees, till he come to the greateſt, that if light ones could not prevaile, greater might. He brings them all ſuddenly, one in the neck of another, that Job might have no breathing time.

And there was a day] It might well be the firſt day of the renewing of the courſe of their feaſting, for it was in their elder brothers houſe, where in likely-hood the courſe began. As the firſt place at Table was uſually given to the elder brother by way of honour, Gen. 43. 33. ſo very likely was the firſt turn in their mutual feaſting.

when his ſons and his daughters] See on ver. 4.

were eating and drinking wine] Sometimes this phraſe argues riot and exceſſe, as Prov. 31.4. Matth. 24. 37. But here it ſeems onely to import drinking of wine for cheerfulneſſe, which was uſual in feaſts, Eſt. 1.7. Hence a feaſt is called a banquet of wine, Eſth. 5. 6. & 7. 2, 7, 8. However, it came in a time, when Job and they leaſt ſuſpected it, 1 Theſſ. 5.3. See on 1 King. 4. 20.

eldeſt brothers] Heb. firſt-born brothers.

V. 14. And there came a meſſenger unto Job, and ſaid, The oxen were plowing, and the aſſes feeding beſide them.

And there came a meſſenger] A brief kind of writing, wherein the ſtory is not firſt ſet down, and afterwards a meſſage ſent; as 2 Sam. 18. 1, 19, 21. and elſewhere, but for brevity ſake, the thing is included in the report. This meſſenger ſeems to be one of Jobs ſervants, that attended upon the cattell as ver. 15. that was an eye-witneſſe of the calamity, and could ſet it out the more paſſionately to trouble Job the more. And for that end did Satan ſpare him, when the reſt were ſlaine. The ſame did Satan in every calamity, that Job might quickly hear of it by one of his own ſervants. מלאך ſignifies 1. A meſſenger. 1 Sam. 23.27. 2. An Angell. Gen. 16 7. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for an earthly meſſenger. For Came ſee on chap. 15. 21.

The oxen were plowing] See on ver. 3. The word חרש ſignifies 1. To plow, or fit the ground for ſeed. Chap. 4. 8. Secondly to imagine, or deviſe, which is a kind of plowing up the mind. Prov. 14 22.

the aſſes] Heb. the ſhee-aſſes. Theſe being taken away, all hope of breed was gone. See more on ver. 3. Feeding. See on chap. 42. 2.

beſide them] Heb. at their hands. Near them in place; as Neh. 3. 2, &c. 2 Chr. 21, 16. where in the Original it is, at the hand of the Ethiopians.

V. 16. And the Sabeans fell upon them, and took them away; yea, they have ſlain the ſervants with the edge of the ſword, and I onely am eſcaped alone to tell thee.] This is the firſt meſſage of ill tidings that comes to Jobs ears, and makes way for the reſt. Satan begins low with oxen, and aſſes, but means to go as high as children.

The Sabeans,] Heb. Sheba. That is a company of robbers out of that place. It is conceived, that they dwelt in Arabia the Deſart, and were a people given to pillage. Afterwards they were called Saracens, not from Sarah, but from Sarac, to rob; It is likely Jobs country was near them, for theſe make the firſt booty of him. They were the poſterity of Sheba, the ſon of Jokſhan, the ſon of Abraham by Keturah. Gen. 25. 1, 2, 3, mentioned, Ezek. 27. 23, Iſa. 60.6. Jer. 6.20. Pſal. 72. 10. For they are ſaid to be ſent Eaſtward, Gen. 25. 6. and ſo near Job, chap. 1. 3. It is likely that Abrahams children planted themſelves in the Eaſt one near another. There is another Sheba the ſon of Raamah of the poſterity of Cham. Gen. 10. 7. But they planted themſelves elſewhere, and it is not probable therefore that theſe Sabeans came of them.

fell upon them.] A metaphor from hunters, who when they have a wild beaſt in a gin, or ſhot, and laid a long, fall down upon it, to lay faſt hold on it. When Jobs ſervants feared no ſuch thing, but were quietly working with the Cattel, or attending on them; ver. 14. then the Sabeans came ſuddenly and unexpectedly upon them, and ſlew them. This made the croſſe the greater. Such an unlooked for calamity, this word ſignifies, verſ. 16.

took them away.] For a prey, or a booty, from the right owners. For Tooke away ſee on Chap. 15. 12. on carry away.

yea they have ſlain.] Heb. ſmitten. The word נכה ſignifies variouſly according to the ſeverall words joyned with it, ſo to ſmite with blindneſſe is to make blind, Gen. 19. 11. To ſmite with the tongue is to bear falſe witneſſe againſt a man. Jer. 18. 18. To ſmite a City is to deſtroy it. Joſh. 10. 28, 30, 32, 35, 37, 39. To ſmite with the edge of the ſword is to kill, Jer. 21.7. Judg. 1.8. and 18. 27. and ſo here.

the ſervants] Heb. the yong men. Sometimes it is a name of age, but often of miniſtry and ſervice; becauſe ſervants for the moſt part are of the younger ſort; ſo elders ſometimes is put for ſuch as go beyond others in years, but for the moſt part for ſuch as are above others in office. Here, by the youngmen are meant the ſervants who attended on the husbandry and cattell, as Ruth, 2. 9, 15. נער. Signifies. 1. A childe, or youngman, 1 Sam. 3. 1. 2. A ſervant; For ſuch ordinarily are young. Eſt. 2. 2. 3. A ſimple man, or child in underſtanding. Jer. 1. 6. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe for a ſervant.

with the edge of the ſword] Heb. the mouth: becauſe it devours and deſtroyes men, as the mouth doth meat, Deut. 32, 42. For mouth. See on Chap. 15. 5. For Sword on Chap. 15. 22.

I onely] This he adds, that Job might not comfort himſelfe with the hope of any remaining to ſuſtain him; therefore Job ſaith he was naked, that is, deſtitute of all hopes of ſuſtenance, v. 21.

am eſcaped alone] Onely and alone. Two words of one ſenſe to ſhew the greatneſſe of the ſlaughter, ſo that it was a wonder that one could eſcape, and alſo to ſhew that no further proofe was to be expected, but his meſſage to be credited, who onely of all the ſervants there preſent was remaining.

to tell thee.] I ſuppoſe God would not have left me neither alive, unleſſe it had been to bring this ſad news unto thee, which otherwiſe thou couldeſt not ſo ſoon have known.

V. 16. While he was yet ſpeaking, there came alſo another and ſaid, The fire of God hath fallen from heaven, and hath burned up thy ſheep and thy ſervants, and hath conſumed them, and I onely am eſcaped alone to tell thee.] This is Jobes ſecond loſſe, the former fell upon the plowed grounds, this upon the paſtures, that he might have no hope of bread or meat hereafter.

while he was yet ſpeaking.] Before he had made an end of his bad tidings. The loſſes came ſo thick on Job, that there was no ſpace left between to mourn for each loſſe, nor to comfort himſelfe, or get ſtrength by godly meditation to bear the enſuing loſſe, nor liberty to breath between them.

the fire of God] That is a very great fire, ſo great hills are called the mountains of God, Pſal. 36. 6. Nineveh a City of God, Jon. 3. 3. great wreſtlings, wreſtlings of God, Gen. 30. 8. or a fire coming from heaven, as follows, and Gen. 19. 24. and ſo ſent by God, and not kindled by men, as 1 Kings 18. 38. Exod. 9. 24. and ſo here, this meſſage is ſadder then the former, and brought about by Satans power and policy that Job might think God his enemy, as well as men. And I onely, &c.] See the Notes on v. 15.

V. 17. While he was yet ſpeaking, there came alſo another, and ſaid, The Chaldeans made out three bands, and fell upon the Camels and have carryed them away, yea, and ſlain the ſervants with the edg of the ſword, and I onely am eſcaped alone, to tell thee.] This is Jobs third loſſe, which deprived him of all hope of ſubſiſtance; for now all his livelyhood was clean gone.

While he was yet ſpeaking] See on v. 16.

the Chaldeans] A people that lived on ſpoil, and uſed not, nor knew not how to till the earth: They were called Caſdim in Hebrew, from Cheſed Nahors ſon, from whom, it is likely, they deſcended. Gen. 22. 22.

three bands] Heb. heads: So called, becauſe every Troop had a ſeverall Head, or Commander. See Judg. 7. 16, 20. and 9. 43. 1 Sam. 11. 11. & 13. 17. They had one troop to ſlay the ſervants, another to drive away the Camels, a third, to oppoſe ſuch as would reſcue them. So that they came not accidentally, but with a purpoſe fell upon the Camels] Like robbers to take a prey. See more on ver. 15. as alſo on all the words following, to the end of this verſe.

V. 18. While he was yet ſpeaking, there came alſo another, and ſaid, Thy ſons and thy daughters, were eating and drinking wine in their eldeſt brothers houſe] Here is Jobs greateſt loſſe ſet down. He might have hoped for ſome comfort from his children, (who lived ſo lovingly together) when all his cattel were gone: but now that hope faileth him alſo.

Thy ſons and thy daughters, &c.] See on v. 13. Brothers, ſee on Chap. 19. 13.

V. 19. And behold there came a great wind from the wilderneſſe, and ſmote the four corners of the houſe, and it fell upon the young men, and they are dead, and I onely am eſcaped alone to tell thee] The manner of the death of Jobs children, is here ſet down, which might be the more troubleſome, becauſe it ſeemed to be done by the immediate hand of God, and men had no hand in it.

Behold] A note of admiration is ſet before it. Firſt, to ſhew the great and formidable force of the wind. For the word uſeth to be added, to ſtir up admiration of the greateſt things, Gen. 6. 17. Iſai. 7. 14. Secondly, to ſhew, that as this was the laſt, ſo it was the greateſt plague: for no behold is added to the former.

there came] A metaphor from living creatures: for the wind cannot come of it ſelfe. As if ſenſleſſe creatures had conſpired againſt Job, and came of their own accord to do him a miſchief. See the like of the Sun, Pſal. 19. 5.

a great wind] The wind is powerful in it ſelfe; but there needed an extraordinary wind to do what follows. For Wind, ſee on Chap. 15. 2.

from the wilderneſſe] Heb. from aſide, or from beyond, or, from over the wilderneſſe. It may be the houſes of Job, and his children were not far from deſart places. Yet thoſe trees could not keep the wind off from them: Or, from behither the wilderneſſe; that is, from this ſide of the wilderneſſe, next Jobs houſe. So the word is uſed, Neh. 3. 7. and ſo it ſhould be tranſlated, 2 Chro. 20. 2, from this ſide the Sea, out of Syria, or beſides Syria. For it could not be from beyond the Sea, if they came out of Syria, or near it. The wilderneſſe here mentioned, may be the wilderneſſe of Edom, 2 King. 3. 8. or Arabia deſerta. Or, from the plain, Iſai. 63. 13. Jer. 9. 10. Lam. 4. 19. and 5. 9. מדבר ſignifies, 1. Speech, Cant. 4. 3. 2, The wilderneſſe, Jer. 2. 2. So here.

and ſmote] Heb. touched. See notes on v. 11.

the four corners of the houſe] A ſtrange wind to blow ſo many ſeveral wayes at once; This ſhews it to be an extraordinary wind, Dan. 7. 2. פִּנָּה ſignifies 1. A corner of an houſe, Prov. 7. 8. 2. Cheif men, or Rulers, Judg. 20. 2. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

and it fell] Math. 7. 27. Satan doth not take away Jobs children, in an ordinary way by ſickneſſe, one after another; but all together, by a violent and ſtrange death, that Job might think God was very angry with him.

upon the young men] Jobs ſons, 2 Sam. 13. 32. including the daughters alſo, for they were there, verſ. 13. and none eſcaped but onely the meſſenger. The ſervants likewiſe that attended, periſhed. Theſe are called young men, ver. 15, 16, 17. in the Original: and Gen. 22. 5. See notes on ver. 15. All the family (except the meſſenger) periſhed, but the young men onely are mentioned, to grieve Job the more, that he ſhould loſe all his ſons, and that in their youth: and alſo ſuddenly, and eating and drinking, and before ſacrifice offered for them, as formerly, ver. 5.

and they are dead] If they had been onely wounded, or ſome of them dead, the trouble had been the leſſe, but the loſſe of all together was grievous, 2 Sam. 13. 30, 32, 33.

and I onely, &c.] See on the fifteenth verſe. The Jews have an opinion, that this meſſenger fell down dead, as ſoon as ever he had delivered his meſſage, as if he had been kept alive, onely till he might tell Job theſe ſad tidings.

V. 20. Then Job aroſe, and rent his mantle, and ſhaved his head, and fell down upon the ground, and worſhipped] Job bare the former troubles without any complaint, nay without uttering any word at all: but this laſt and greateſt trouble makes him to expreſſe his grief in words.

Then] As ſoon as he had heard of the loſſe of his ſons. Either he had no leiſure before to lay open his grief in words, for the ſudden following of one ill meſſage after another; or elſe he was more afflicted with the loſſe of his children, than of all the reſt. The Devil kept the greateſt blow till laſt.

Job aroſe] It may be from the table, where he was. As it was dinner time with his children, ver. 18. ſo it might be with him. Or rather, he left his buſineſſe he was a doing, to mourn. So the word is often uſed in Scripture, for leaving other buſineſſe, to go ſeriouſly about one, without any relation to the former, or future poſture of the body, Gen. 35. 1. 2 Sam. 14 31. 1 Kings 21. 18. 2 Kings 1. 3. For Aroſe, ſee on Chap. 14. 12.

and rent his mantle] Tore his upper garment, which men uſed to do in times of great heavineſſe. Some think it to be a ſtately Robe, which men of great honour uſed to wear. This Job did to ſhew, that his heart was rent within him with griefe. The like did men at funerals, 2. Sam. 3. 31. Or upon any ſudden news of evil to themſelves, Gen. 37. 34. Or ſight of great calamity fallen on their friends, Job 2. 12. 2 Sam. 1. 11. Joſh. 7. 6. Or in ſigne of ſorrow for their own ſinnes, or the ſinnes of others, 2 Chron. 34 19. Joel 2. 13. Ezr. 9. 3, 5. Or in deteſtation of blaſphemy: as if their hearts were rent within them, by hearing God ſo diſhonoured, 2 Kings 18 37. & 19. 1. Iſai. 36. 22. & 37. 1. Or in ſight of any other great diſhonour done to God, Jer. 36. 24. Acts 14. 13, 14.

ſhaved his head] Heb. polled. Either cut it himſelfe, as well as he could, in that ſad condition, or cauſed it to be done by ſome other. The hair, which of it ſelfe is an ornament to mans head, Cant. 5. 11. was wont to be cut, upon occaſions of very great ſorrow, Ezr. 9. 3. Iſai. 15. 2. & 22. 12. Jer. 7. 29. & 16. 6. & 41. 5. & 48. 37, 38. Ezek. 7. 18. Mic. 1. 16. Though at other times alſo, it was cut in an ordinary courſe for decency, or to amend prolixity procured by neglect, Gen. 41. 14. Sam. 19. 24. Of the former ſort was Jobs cutting his hair at this time. The word is uſed as well of ſhearing ſheep, as of cutting hair, Gen. 38. 12. 1 Sam. 25. 7. 2 Sam. 13. 23. For Head, ſee on Chap. 19. 9.

and fell upon the ground] Falling down in Scripture, is uſed as an outward geſture of worſhip, Deut. 9. 18. 2 Sam. 12. 16. 2 Chron. 20. 18. Matth. 2. 11. & 4. 9. Pſal. 72. 11. Rev. 7. 11. Yet worſhip was done ſometimes by ſtanding, 1 Kings 8. 22. 2 Chron. 6. 12. By ſitting, 2 Sam. 7. 18. By kneeling, Iſai. 45. 23. Rom. 14. 11. Phil. 2. 10. 2 Chron. 6. 13. Pſal. 95. 6. Dan. 6. 10. By bowing the head, or body, Pſal. 22. 29. & 72. 9. Pſal. 95. 6. Iſai. 58. 5. Gen. 24. 26, 48, 52. Exod. 4. 31. & 12. 27. & 34. 8. Job here in great extremity, chuſeth the moſt ſubmiſſive geſture of all the reſt. For Ground, ſee on Chap. 9. 24. on Earth.

and worſhipped] The Hebrew word is ſometimes uſed for civil worſhip, due to Superiours, as Gen. 18. 2. & 23. 7. & 43. 26. Otherwhile, for religious worſhip due to God, as Gen. 24. 26, 48, 52. And ſo it is here taken, as appears by the verſe following, where Job throws himſelfe down before God, to give him the glory of his mercies and judgements, with reverence and humility.

V. 21. And ſaid, Naked came I out of my mothers womb, and naked ſhall I return thither: the Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away: bleſſed be the name of the Lord.

And ſaid] This verſe contains Jobs victory over Satan, who was ſo farre from curſing God, as Satan confidently affirmed he would, verſe 11. that he, after all his loſſes, gives praiſe and glory to God. For Said, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

Naked came I] Not without clothes onely, but alſo without cattel, poſſeſſions, children, or any wealth. So the wiſe man expounds it, Eccl. 5. 15. and the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 49 17. and the Apoſtles, 1 Tim. 6. 7. by being deſtitute of all worldly helps, or ſupports. For Come, ſee on Chap. 15. 13. 20. 25.

out of my mothers womb] Some expound it of the earth, the common mother, whence man was made at firſt, Gen. 2. 7. & 3. 19. becauſe he mentions returning thither: and they conceive, that he delivers it under the notion of his mothers womb, by way of ſimilitude, becauſe the childe lies hid there, as Adams body did in the earth: and the rather, becauſe his conception being later, was freſher in his minde, than his firſt parents creation. He came immediatly out of his mothers womb, but mediately out of the earth. Others, underſtand it of his mothers womb, out of which he was borne, and give other interpretation of the words following. For Mother, ſee on Chap. 17. 14. For Belly on Chap. 15. 2.

and naked] Or, therefore naked. So this particle is uſed, Iob 21. 14 Gen. 3. 10. And I was afraid; that is, therefore I was afraid; To wit, becauſe I heard thy voyce, Iſai. 43. 4. Becauſe I came in naked into the world, therefore muſt I go out of it ſo. And the reaſon conſiſts in this: That we being borne naked, our goods are not our own, but lent us for our uſe, while we live here, and therefore we cannot look to carry them away with us: as a ſervant that wears a Lords Livery, muſt wear it no longer, when he is put out of ſervice. Thus Iob comforts himſelfe from the common condition of all men, who muſt, one time or other, part with all they have. Or, it may be, he looks upon his own particular loſſes, as if he ſhould have ſaid, I thought my proſperity would have laſted till my death, but now I ſee all is gone before, and there is no hope of the recovery of my eſtate. For ſo Iob thought, in likelyhood, ſeeing all ſuddenly gone.

ſhall I return] Our life it compared to a journey, and we to travellers. We come into the world by birth, Ioh. 18. 37. and we return by dying, Gen. 3. 19. Eccl. 12. 17. For Returne, ſee on Chap. 14. 13. on Paſt.

thither] Not into his mothers womb again, for that is counted an impoſſibility, Joh. 3. 4. but to the grave, the womb of the earth, his common mother, wherein his body muſt lie hid after death, as it did in his mothers womb before his birth: as the lower parts of the earth are put for the grave, Pſal. 63. 9. ſo alſo for the womb, Pſal.139.15. It may be he pointed to the earth, on which he lay, and then thither, is to this earth. So this, for this body. See Notes on Chap.13.28. & 19.26. 1 Cor.15.53. So there, Pſal 36. 12. is not referred to that which was ſpoken of before; but to ſome new thing, intervening, preſented to the ſenſe, or underſtanding. There; that is, in hell, or in the grave, where ſuch wicked perſons uſe to be lodged. And ſo thither, may ſignifie here, the place whither dead men uſe to go; the grave, a place well known, and therefore needed not to be named. See on Eccleſ. 3.17.

the Lord gave] The cattel, and children which I had, Gen.33. 5, 11. Joſh.24.3,4. Job comforts himſelf with Gods providence, looking up to him in all things, and above ſecondary cauſes. For Gave, ſee on Chap.14.4. on, Bring.

and the Lord hath taken away] It is likely that Job had no knowledge of Satans commiſſion, but he knew that men had unjuſtly taken away ſome of his goods, yet he attributes all unto God, by whoſe permiſſion he knew it was done, and that he might juſtly take all things from him, when he pleaſeth, who had given him onely the uſe of them, during his pleaſure, but had kept the right in himſelf, as the Lord of all, Amos 3.6. 2 Sam.16.10. Gen.45. 5. 1 King.12. 15, For Taken away ſee on Chap.15.12. on carry away.

the name of the Lord] God himſelf, Pſal.44. 5. & 48.10. and 72. 18,19. Dan.2 19,20. So names are put for perſons, Act. 1. 15. Rev.3. 4, When the name is put for the thing it ſelf, there is an emphaſis in it, ſignifying the excellency of the thing, and that it is moſt worthy to be named. So that by Gods name, here, is meant God himſelf, who is ſo glorious, that his goodneſſe and wiſdom, and greatneſſe deſerve to be proclaimed, far and neer, by men and angels. For Name, See on Chap.1, 1.

V.22. In all this Job ſinned not, nor charged God fooliſhly] Here God cleares Job for his carriage hitherto, which proved contrary to Satans expectation.

In all this] In all theſe calamities and miſeries that befell him, though they were very great. Yet afterwards he failes, in conference with his friends; though never ſo far as to blaſpheme God, as Satan ſuppoſed he would.

Job ſinned not] Not in word or deed alone, as Chap. 2. 10. but did not yet ſo much as entertain an hard thought of God, or of his providence in his heart: But thought well of Gods goodneſſe, notwithſtanding any evill that befell him.

Nor charged God fooliſhly] Or, with folly Heb. nor attributed folly or, unſavorineſſe to God. The word ſignifies that which wants due or right temperature. As any kind of meat not well ſeaſoned. Chap. 6. 6. untempered morter. Ezek.13. 10,11,14. his heart was ſo well ſeaſoned, that he had no unfitting thoughts of God and his providence, that might be unbecoming Gods juſtice, or diſpleaſing to him, as unſavory meat is to us. For God. See on Chap.20. 29.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. Again there was a day, when the Sons of God came to preſent themſelves before the Lord, and Satan came alſo among them, to preſent himſelf before the Lord.

Again] Satan could not prevail againſt Job by his former Commiſſion; now God is compared to a King, that appoints a ſecond meeting, wherein a ſecond Commiſſion is granted to Satan.

there was a day, &c.] See on Chap.1.6. to preſent himſelf before the Lord] This was affirmed of the good Angels, Chap.1.6. but not of Satan till now. Some think he was ſummoned by God, to give an account of what he had done againſt Job, and to be directed for time to come. But it may be he came voluntarily with a malicious intent, to get a larger commiſſion againſt Job, becauſe he ſaw he could not hurt him by the former.

V.2. And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, From whence comeſt thou? And Satan anſwered the Lord, and ſaid, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

And the Lord ſaid, &c.] God asketh the ſame queſtion, and the Devill had no other anſwer to give, then he did, Chap. 1. 7. Hereby Satan was the more confounded. See Notes on Chap.1.7.

In the earth] He had no power in heaven, where all is pure; and no liberty of temptation.

V.3. And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evill? and ſtill he holdeth faſt his integrity, although thou movedſt me againſt him, to deſtroy him without cauſe.

And the Lord ſaid, &c.] God would not yet condemn Satan of wronging Job, becauſe he intended a further trial of him, but asks him the ſame queſtion he did, Chap.1. 8. to ſee if he would confeſſe his errour. See Notes there.

and ſtill he holdeth] Or, and ſtill holdeth. So all may go on by way of queſtion to the end of the verſe. This is added, to ſtartle Satan the more, and to put him to new reſolutions. Neither could this be affirmed of Job before, becauſe he was not tryed formerly. Doſt thou not ſee that notwithſtanding all theſe grievous calamities, he holds faſt his integrity?

faſt his integrity] Notwithſtanding all theſe loſſes, whereby thou didſt intend to get it away from him, and ſaidſt he would forſake it, when all was taken away, he laid faſt hold on his innocency, and would not let that go, though he parted willingly with the reſt. He held faſt by it, as a man in the water holds by any thing that may ſave him, and will not let it go. Or, as a ſouldier holds faſt his weapon or buckler, becauſe his life lies upon it.

thou movedſt me] a metaphor taken from men; for God is immoveable. Thou endeavouredſt to ſtirre me up by colourable reaſons to deſtroy Job, 1 Chr.21.1. to deſtroy him] Heb. to ſwallow him up. A metaphor from wild beaſts, Exod.7.12. Pſal.124. 3.

without cauſe] Not for his former ſinful courſe or wicked life, which he was not guilty of, though he have humane infirmities, 1 Sam.19.5. Job 16.17. &c. Thou haſt not brought any weighty accuſation of any crime, for which he ſhould be deſtroyed, onely a malicious ſuſpicion of thine own of ſome ill intention hidden in him. Or, he never did thee any wrong, that thou ſhouldeſt proſecute him thus eagerly to death, Pſal.7.4. Or, In vain, that is, without ſucceſſe. Thou canſt not prevail againſt him by troubling him; that appeares plainly, for he is ſo far from blaſpheming me, as thou ſaidſt he would, that he in all theſe loſſes, hath not ſpoken one indiſcreet word. See notes on Chap.1.9.

V.4 And Satan anſwered the Lord and ſaid, skin for skin, and all that he hath will a man give for his life.

And Satan anſwered the Lord and ſaid.] Now Satan vilifies thoſe things he had ſet ſo great price on before, that he made full account they would force Job to curſe God. See Chap.1.11. As if Satan ſhould have ſaid, Job hath loſt his goods indeed, and children, but ſeeing himſelf ſafe, he makes no great acconnt of their loſſe.

skin for skin] Any skin for his own: outward things that concern not his own body are too light to try him withall. A proverbiall ſpeech ſignifying that Job cared not for the loſſe of Cattel, nor ſervants, nor children, ſo he might keep his own skin whole; his own life was deareſt to him. He could well be content they might all periſh ſo he might eſcape; let all the reſt go which way it will. He would give not only his cattels, and ſervants, but his ſons skins alſo to ſave his own. Or, skin upon skin, 2 King.4.5. He will give the skins of all that belong to him, rather then be hurt himſelf. So ſome underſtand John 1.16. Grace for Grace, that is Grace upon Grace, abundance of Grace.

And] or Yea, as Prov. 30. 18. for it encreaſeth the ſignification.

All that a man hath] All his goods, garments, hangings. Such were then for the moſt part made of skins, Gen.3. 21. Levit. 15. 17. He will not give ſomething only, though very precious, but all: As if Satan ſhould have ſaid, I have gone to the uttermoſt of my Commiſſion, Chap.1.12. Give me a larger Commiſſion; for he will not be moved, till ſome evill light upon himſelf. See now in the notes on Chap.1.11,12.

For his life] Heb, for his ſoul. The cauſe for the effect; while the ſoule is in the body, there is life in it, and when it is gone the body is dead. So Gen 9.4,5. & 19.17. Or, for himſelf. That he may eſcape untouched. So the word is uſed for the perſon of man, Gen. 12.5. Exod.1.5. and then the ſenſe is more full, He will part with all, not only to ſave his life, as before, skin for skin; but he makes ſo light account of cattel, ſervants, yea, and children alſo, that he would rather looſe them all, then expoſe his own perſon to the enduring of pain. And this is ſuitable to Satans motion in the fifth verſe; not to deſtroy Job; for then how could he accuſe God; but to lay ſome ſore diſeaſe on him. Here Satan accuſeth Job of unnaturalneſſe and ſelf-love. For Soule, ſee on Chap.14.22.

V.5. But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his fleſh, and he will curſe thee to thy face] Satan now deſires leave to make a further trial of Job, by bodily plagues laid upon him.

put forth thy hand now and touch] See notes on Chap.1. 11.

his bone and his fleſh] His body, which is made up of them two, Luke 24.39. Lay pain and weakneſſe on him, ſo that not his fleſh only may be ſmitten, but his very bones alſo troubled, Pſal.6.2. and 32. 3. and 51.8. Satan doth not deſire, nor God give leave that he ſhould meddle with Jobs ſoule, to make him mad, for then there had been no triall of his carriage, when he had not been himſelf. The word עצם ſignifies. 1. Strength. Chap.21.23. 2. A bone, Gen. 2. 23. becauſe the ſtrength of the body lies in the bones, and they uphold the fleſh. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe. For Fleſh ſee on Chap.14.22.

and he will curſe thee to thy face] See on Chap.1. 11.

V.6. And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, behold he is in thine hand, but ſave his life.

And the Lord ſaid unto Satan] God is content to give Satan a larger Commiſſion, that Job may be further tried.

Behold he is in thine hand] Before, God gave all Job had into Satans hand, but not his own perſon, he might not touch him, Chap.1. 12.

12. now he may. See notes on Chap. 1. 12.

But] or Onely. A term of diminution, limiting Satans Commiſſion, ſo that he might not take away Jobs life.

Save] Do not deſtroy his life. So God is ſaid to quicken men by keeping them alive, and reſtoring them to health, when they are in danger of death, Pſal. 119. 25. 88.107. Afflict his body as much as thou wilt, ſo thou kill him not. Thus God ſets bounds, to evill ſpirits, Mat. 8. 31. Rev. 20. 2. Maimony interprets it of not troubling his mind, not depriving him of his underſtanding. שמר ſignifies .1. To preſerve, keep, or ſave. Chap. 10. 12. 2. To keep in priſon, 1 King. 20. 39. 3. To obſerve, or watch, what is ſaid, or done. Jer. 20. 10. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

His life] Heb. his ſoule. See notes on ver. 4.

V. 7. So went Satan forth from the preſence of the Lord, and ſmote Job with ſore boiles, from the ſole of his foot, unto his Crown] This verſe ſhewes us, how quick and ſharp Satan is, in proſecuting Gods ſervants when he can get leave.

So went Satan forth from the preſence of the Lord] See notes on Chap. 1. 12.

ſmote Job] Satan, though a ſpirit, yet can work upon our bodies, and inflict ſores, if God give leave, yet the way how, is not ſet out unto us. For Smote, ſee on Chap. 1. 15.

With ſore boiles] Theſe ſores were moſt vehement: with ſuch God plagued the Egyptians, Exod 9, 9. and threatned to puniſh the rebellious people, Deut. 28. 27. ſo that this temptation was moſt grievous; for if Job had meaſured Gods diſpleaſure by the greatneſſe of his diſeaſe, he might have thought that God had caſt him quite off. For Sore ſee on Chap. 1. 1. on Evill.

From the ſole of his foot unto his Crown] All over his body, leaving him no clear place. A Proverbiall ſpeech, Iſa. 1. 6. For Sole ſee on chap. 36. 32. on Cloud.

V. 8. And he took him a potſheard to ſcrape himſelf withall: and he ſate down among the aſhes.

A potſheard to ſcrape himſelf] Herein is ſet out the greatneſſe of Jobs miſery. His fingers in likelihood were ſo ſore, that he was compelled to make uſe of ſome other thing.

ſate down] Intending to abide there, ver. 13. For Sate down. See on chap. 22. 8. on Dwelt.

among the aſhes] Heb. in the midſt of the aſhes, As chap. 1. 6. & 2. 1. Jer. 37. 12. & 39. 14. Like a mourner; this poſture was a ſign of ſorrow of old, Chap. 42. 6. Jonas 3. 6. Eſt. 4. 1. 3. Iſa. 61. 3. Mat. 11 21. Luke 10. 13. Sometimes they put aſhes on their heads, 2 Sam. 13. 19.

V. 9. Then ſaid his wife unto him; doeſt thou ſtill retain thine integrity? Curſe God and die.

then ſaid his wife unto him] A temptation greater then the diſeaſe, that his wife, who ought to comfort him in his miſery, ſhould prove an adverſary to him, and aſſiſt Satan againſt him. Satan uſeth the ſame inſtrument againſt Job, that he did againſt Adam, Gen. 3. 6. For Said ſee on chap. 16. 1.

Doeſt thou ſtill] Or, doeſt thou yet. After ſo many ſad things befalne thee, notwithſtanding thy integrity; and, it may be, for it.

retain thine integrity] What gaineſt thou by ſerving God, ſeeing he thus plagueth thee, as though he were thine enemy? This is the moſt grievous temptation of the faithfull, when their faith is aſſailed, and when Satan goeth about to perſwade them, that they truſt in God in vain, Chap. 21, 15. Mal. 3. 14. Or, Doſt thou continue ſtill in maintaining thine integrity, when God hath diſcovered thine hypocriſie? See chap. 1. 1, 8, 22. chap. 2. 3.

Curſe God and die] Heb. bleſſe. Bleſſe God, though thou die. Becauſe thou art ſo ready to praiſe God, even in troubles, as thou didſt, Chap. 1. 21. go on in that way, and ſee how God will reward thee with a painfull death, which thou canſt not avoid. An ironical ſcoffe at Jobs piety. Or bleſſing is put for curſing. See Notes on chap. 1. 5, 11. Get that benefit by blaſpheming God, which thou canſt not get by ſerving him, that thou mayeſt die by his hands for curſing him, and ſo be freed from theſe pains. Or, Curſe God once before thou dieſt, that thou mayeſt be revenged on him for dealing thus unkindly with thee: For God, ſee on chap. 20. 29.

V. 10. But he ſaid to her, Thou ſpeakeſt as one of the fooliſh women ſpeaketh: What? Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and ſhall we not receive evill? In all this did not Job ſin with his lips.

But he ſaid to her] He holds not his peace, although he were ſorely afflicted with his diſeaſe, but reproves his Wife for her wicked counſell.

Thou ſpeakeſt as one of the fooliſh women] As a woman that wants underſtanding, and makes her ſelf ridiculous to all men, 2 Sam. 13 13. The Hebrew word comes from a verb, that ſignifies the falling of a withered leafe from a tree, Pſal 1. 3. As it hath no moiſture in it, ſo there was no wiſdom in her ſpeech. Or, as a wicked woman: for ſo the word fooliſh, often ſignifies, Pſal. 14. 1, 2. Prov. 1, 32. & 7. 22. & 9. 13.

What?] Or, Alſo. Shewing, that he doth not only reprove her, but alſo give a reaſon of his reproof.

Shall we receive good, &c.] That is, if we be content to receive good from God, we muſt be content to receive evill alſo. So Mal. 1. 4. They ſhall build, &c. that is, if they build, I will throw down. See the like phraſe, Pſal. 109. 28. Is it fit we ſhould ſerve God hitherto in our great proſperity, and fall from him, now he afflicteth us? This fully anſwers Satans two Charges, Chap. 1. 11. & 2. 5. and his wives objection, verſ. 9. of this Chapter, and ſhewes the ſincerity of Jobs heart, that he ſerved God out of true love. By good and evill, is meant proſperity, and adverſity, as Iſa, 1. 19. Amos 3. 6. For Good, ſee on chap. 21. 13. on Wealth.

In all this did not Job ſin] Notwithſtanding the force of his diſeaſe, and tentation of his wife. See Notes on Chap. 1. 22.

With his lips] In his ſpeeches, as afterwards he did in the following Chapters. It may be he now began to fret inwardly, which he did not, Chap. 1. 22. yet broke not out into impatient words for the preſent. He ſo bridled his affections, that his tongue through impatience did not murmure againſt God, Pſal. 39. 1. Jam. 3. 2. For Lips ſee on chap. 15. 6.

V. 11. Now when Jobs three friends heard of all this evill that was come on him, they came every one from his own place, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shubite, and Zophar the Naamathite, for they had made an appointment together to come to mourne with him, and to comfort him.

Now when] A new tentation of Job by his friends, who came to comfort him, and almoſt drove him into deſpair.

Jobs three friends] It ſeems theſe were the chief and choice of Jobs friends, ſpoken of by number, as if he had no more. The word friend, in Hebrew is derived from רעה, to feed. For friends often eat together, Pſal. 41. 9.

heard of all this evill] Of all Jobs loſſes. See on verſe 10. Great and famous mens troubles are moſt noted and talked of. For Heard ſee on chap. 13. 17.

that was come on him] Actions of living creatures are often by way of metaphor attributed to liveleſſe things. So troubles are ſaid to come on men, and to find them, and to compaſſe them about, and get hold on hem, chap. 31. 29. Pſal. 116. 3. Jon. 2. 3, 5. See Notes on chap. 1. 19. For Come ſee on chap. 15. 21.

they came] Without ſending for, as friends uſe to do in time of adverſity.

every one from his own place] Out of the region where he dwelt; for they dwelt not far off in Idumea (a place famous for wiſe men, Obad, ver. 8. Jer. 49. 7. ſuch as theſe friends of Jobs were) or elſe in ſome bordering part of Arabia, which was not far from Teman, Eſai 21, 13, 14. Or, from his own place, may be from his own houſe; for they might dwell nigh one another in the ſame region. Elſe hardly would there have been ſo ſtrict friendſhip between Job and them, had they lived far aſunder, Gen, 21. 22, 23. & 26. 26. &c. Neither could they ſo ſoon, or eaſily have viſited Job in his affliction. So place is put for habitation, or abiding, chap. 6. 17. & 7. 10, & 8. 18.

Eliphaz the Temanite] One of the poſterity of Teman the ſon of Eliphaz, the ſon of Eſau, Gen. 36. 10, 11. Or an inhabitant of Teman, which ſome think to be in Arabia, out of Eſay 21. 13, 14. Others, in Edom, out of Jer. 49. 7. Amos 1. 12. Obad. verſ. 9. However, it was a place of choice wiſe men. It had his name from the South, in the Original, becauſe Southward from Judea, as ſome conceive, Gen. 36. 34. There is mention of Timnath, where Sampſons father-in-law dwelt, Judg. 14. 1. and of Timnath Serah, the place of Joſhua's burial. But none of theſe could be Eliphaz his habitation: They were too far off from Jobs.

Bildad the Shubite] Of the poſterity of Shuah, Abrahams ſon by Keturah, Gen. 25. 1, 2. 1 Chr. 1. 32.

Zophar the Naamathite] Of Timnah, one of Eſaus poſterity, as ſome think, Gen. 36. 40. Others think him to be of Naamah, a Town in the Tribe of Judah, mentioned Joſh. 15. 41. But neither time nor place ſuit well with this ſtory. Both are too far diſtant.

they had made an appointment together] Or, they were gathered together.

to come] See Notes on this verſe before.

to mourne with him] Nah. 3. 7. Eſay 51. 19. Or, to have compaſſion on him, as Pſal. 69. 20. נוד ſignifies. 1. To be ſhaken. 1 King. 14. 15. 2. To bemoane one, or mourn with him. Jer. 48. 17. So here.

and to comfort him] By ſhewing themſelves ſenſible of his ſorrows, which is a great comfort to one in miſery, Rom. 12. 15.

V. 12. And when they lift up their eyes afar off, and knew him not; they lifted up their voice and wept, and they rent every one his mantle, and ſprinkled duſt upon their heads toward heaven.

And when] Here is ſet out the cauſe of the aſtoniſhment of Jobs friends.

they lift up their eyes afar off] Spying a man afar off, ſitting in a ſad condition, they fixed their eyes upon him, and having ſome ſuſpition it might be Job, becauſe they had heard of his trouble, they viewed him the more earneſtly to ſee whether it were he or no, and whether it were as bad with him, as they were informed. For God ſee on chap. 20. 29.

and knew him not] His boyles had ſo much altered his countenance, they could not know him at firſt ſight. Lam. 4. 7, 8.

They lifted up their voice and wept] When they came neerer, and ſaw it was he indeed, and how much he was altered, they ſet up a loud lamentation for him, that even paſſengers might take notice of the depth of their ſorrow, Gen. 50. 10, 11. 2 Sam. 18. 33. Eſth. 4. 1. Judg. 4. 2. This was the firſt geſture and ſign of ſorrow in them, Gen. 21. 16. & 37. 35. Ruth. 1. 14. For Seize ſee chap. 15. 12. on Carry away.

and they rent every one his mantle] This is the ſecond mourning geſture, Gen. 37. 34. Joſh. 7. 6. Eſt. 4. 1. Gen. 44. 13. Judg. 11. 35. See on chap. 1. 20.

and ſprinkled duſt upon their heads] The third expreſſion of their great ſorrow, Joſh. 7. 6. Lam. 2. 10. Ezek. 27. 30. Nehem. 9. 1. For Duſt, ſee on Chap. 14. 8. For Head, ſee on Chap. 19. 9.

towards heaven] Throwing it up in the air, ſo as it might fall on their heads. See on Chap. 1. 16.

V. 13. So they ſate down with him upon the ground ſeven dayes, and ſeven nights, and none ſpake a word unto him: for they ſaw that his grief was very great.

So they ſate down with him upon the ground] Here are two other outward expreſſions of their ſorrow. The one is ſitting on the ground by him, Eſay 47. 1. Lam. 2. 10. Neh. 1. 4. They ſate with him, to ſhew that they bare part of his ſorrow with him.

and none ſpake a word unto him] The laſt note of their ſorrow is ſilence. They were ſo grieved for him, that they could not ſpeak a word to him, Lam. 3. 28. & 2. 10.

for they ſaw that his grief was very great] None of them would ſpeak to him for feare of troubling him. Sick perſons love quietneſſe. They came prepared to ſpeak, very likely; but were aſtoniſhed at his miſery, finding it farre greater then they expected, and ſtayed till Job ſhould offer matter of diſcourſe, that they might know, what was fit to ſay to him, Exod. 6. 9. For Saw, ſee on Chap. 19. 27.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. AFter this Job opened his mouh, and curſed his day.

After this] Having ſate ſo many dayes ſtill, and no words paſſing from his friends, his choler breakes out into impatience. A ſtrange change. He that in the firſt Chapter bleſſed God after his loſſes, and in the ſecond ſchooled his wife for ill ſpeeches, now ſpeakes ill himſelf. Yet he curſeth not God, and ſo proves Satan a lyar, and his wives counſel fooliſh. For he had ſo foretold twice, Chap. 1. 11. & 2. 5. and ſhe had exhorted him to it, Chap. 2. 9. He curſeth his birth-day, like one launced by the Chirugion, who dares not curſe him, but curſes the knife.

Job opened his mouth] A man may open his mouth, though he ſpeak not. But opening the mouth in Scripture phraſe, is put for ſpeaking; as Pſal. 38. 13. I was as a dumb man that openeth not his mouth; that is, that ſpeaketh not: for a dumb man can open his mouth, but not ſpeak. It is cleared by the beginning of the verſe, As a deaf man that heareth not. So Pſal. 39. 9. Prov. 8. 6. And Pſal. 78. 2. To open the mouth in a parable, is to utter parabolical ſpeeches. Opening the mouth then, is beginning to ſpeak. It may be theſe friends of Job knowing him to be wiſe, looked upon him in ſilence, obſerving when he would move his lips, and begin to ſpeak. For Mouth, ſee on Chap. 15. 5.

and curſed] Spake lightly of it in contemptuous words, according to the Original of the word in Hebrew, Lev. 20. 9. 2 Sam. 16. 5. So Hagar deſpiſed her Miſtreſs, Gen. 16. 4. and Michal David, 2 Sam. 6. 16. See 1 Sam. 2. 30. We ſpeak ill of, and to, things vile, and meane perſons. But Job did more then that. He knew well, that the day was neither capable of bleſſing, nor curſing; yet out of the abundance of his grief, and pain, he curſeth it, and wiſheth ill to it, as appears in the verſes following.

his day] The day of his birth, verſ. 3. Hoſ. 7. 5. Jer. 20. 14. See on Chap. 1. 4. or, This ſad day, on which all theſe heavy things befell him, Jer. 17. 17. Obad. verſ. 12. For Day, ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

V. 2. And Job ſpake and ſaid] A preparation for Jobs future diſcourſe, to move expectation, and win attention.

Job ſpake] Heb. anſwered. Yet the word is often put for beginning to ſpeak, Judg. 18. 14. Deut. 27. 14. Matth. 22. 1. The Jews conceive, that his friends having ſo long ſate by him in ſilence, and hearing nothing come from him that might give them an hint what to ſay to him, asked him in few words, what he ailed. To which ſhort queſtion, though not recorded, Job gave this following anſwer. So they conceive of that in Deut. 26. 5. Thou ſhalt ſpeak, Heb. anſwer; that the Prieſt asked the man, what he had in his basket, and thereupon he ſhould anſwer, in the words enſuing. For Spake, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

and ſaid] The doubling of the word may ſignifie Jobs earneſtneſs in ſpeaking, not the weight of the matter worthy to be often repeated, as ſome would have it. It was rather worthy to be all buried; for it was very ſinful. For Said, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

V. 3. Let the day periſh, wherein I was borne, and the night, in which it was ſaid, There is a man-childe conceived] An hyperbolical expreſſion of his great infelicity, in his apprehenſion; yet not without much impatience: as if he had ſaid, I am the unhappieſt man alive. Let there be no yearly remembrance of my birth, as of great mens, for it repents me that ever I was born.

Let the day] It may be Job was born in the day; or by the day may be meant, the time ſimply. It is called the birth-day ſtill, though many be born in the night.

periſh] Or, be loſt. Heb, it ſhall periſh. The Hebrews have no Optative, but uſe the Future for it; as Cant. 1. 2. Pſal. 5. 11. Let him kiſſe: Let them rejoyce. Heb. He ſhall kiſſe: They ſhall rejoyce. Or, O that the day had periſhed: as Chap. 16. 21. I would it had never been, if it were poſſible, for then had I never felt this miſery. Or, let it be put out of the Almanack; nor be numbred among the dayes of the year, ver. 6. Let it be as clean forgotten, as if there never had been ſuch a day. For that is ſaid to periſh, which is out of all remembrance. So the former dayes of the Nazarite, after he had come neer the dead were loſt, Num. 6. 12. they were not to be numbred. He was to begin his dayes again, Chap. 10, 18, 19. Jer. 20. 14 Eccl. 4. 2.

wherein I was born] See on Chap. 1. 4. Or, in which I was to be born. For it is the Future in Hebrew.

and the night] Or, or the night. See and for or, Exod. 21. 15, 16, 17. & 22. 22. So he would be ſure to curſe the time he was born in, were it day or night.

in which it was ſaid] Heb. he ſaid; To wit, the meſſenger, who brought tidings hereof to my father, to make him glad. So Gen. 48. 1. He ſaid to Joſeph, that is, One told Joſeph; Or, In which he commanded, that a man-childe ſhould be conceived, to wit, God commanded. So much the word imports, Gen. 1. 3. Exod. 23. 13. Pſal. 33. 9. and ſo it is tranſlated, Eſth. 1. 10. & 9. 25. 1 Chron. 21. 17. Or, Imperſonally, it was ſaid. So Gen. 15. 6. He counted it to him for righteouſneſſe, is by the Apoſtle, Rom. 4. 3. rendred, It was counted to him. Or, the night which ſaid. As if the night ſhould utter things done in it, and being a witneſs of the time of Jobs conception, ſhould utter it. A metaphorical ſpeech, taken from reaſonable creatures, and applyed to unreaſonable. See the like, Pſal. 19. 1, 2.

a man childe] Heb. a man. A name taken from ſtrength, and prevalency, in the Original. The news of men-children is more welcome to parents, or friends, then of daughters, 1 Sam. 4. 20. Gen. 30. 23, 24. Jer. 20. 15. Not onely becauſe the male is the principal ſex, but alſo becauſe the fathers name is preſerved in it. See notes on Chap. 1. 2. He meant himſelf; In which I was conceived. As no doubt, Chap. 7. 1. and 14. 1, ſpeaking of mans miſeries, he had an eſpecial eye to his own.

conceived] Or, born. Or, brought forth. For the time of his conception could not be known, nor any report brought, whether a male or female were conceived. So the word is uſed, 1 Chron. 4. 17.

V. 4. Let that day be darkneſſe, let not God regard it from above, neither let the light ſhine upon it] An execration and amplification of an unhappy day. Let it be ſwallowed up in eternal darkneſſe, as unworthy to have, or give light, that no ſuch unhappy day might be in the world.

Let that day be darkneſſe] Let it be darkneſſe it ſelf; that is, moſt darke. Let not the Sun give it any light at all; or let it be clean taken out of the world. Either he wiſheth it had been ſo at firſt, or may be ſo in the yearly revolution of it. It would be a great aſtoniſhment to men, to look for a morning, and finde it night ſtill, like the three dayes darkneſſe in Egypt, Exod. 10. 23. Or, the Sun darkned in his riſing, Iſai. 13. 10. A ſad thing, when after darkneſſe light is expected, that darkneſſe ſhould continue; as it were comfortable for the Sun to continue at evening, when men look for darkneſſe, Job 11. 17. Zech. 14. 7. Matth. 6. 23. Thus he expounds what he meant by periſhing, ver. 3. that it ſhould loſe all light, and become night.

Let not God regard it] To make it a cheerful or happy day, but let it be counted an unhappy one. This agrees with the following words. So God is ſaid to regard, or take care for the land of Iſrael, Deut. 11. 12. Or, Let not God require it. Let him not make it return any more, but let it utterly be loſt. This ſenſe agrees with ver. 3. and ver. 6. For God, ſee on Chap. 20. 29.

from above] From heaven, where he is ſaid to dwell, or let him not make the Sun ſhine upon it out of the skie.

neither let the light ſhine upon it] To diſtinguiſh it from the night. See notes on this verſe before.

V. 5. Let darkneſſe and the ſhadow of death ſtain it, Let a cloud dwell upon it, Let the blackneſſe of the day terrifie it] Out of abundance of paſſion, he reiterates the former wiſh, yet not without ſome new amplifications.

darkneſſe] See notes on ver. 4.

the ſhadow of death] Or, a deadly ſhade. An augmentation adding weight to the former word. The moſt ſad, incurable, deplorable darkneſſe, ſuch as ſeizeth on the eyes of dying men, whoſe eyes death is ready to cloſe. Or, ſuch as is on dead men in the grave, where no light comes at all. Therefore Gods ſervants, in danger of death, pray him to lighten their eyes, Pſal. 13. 3. Or, the greateſt darkneſs, ſuch as may be felt, Exod, 10. 21. The moſt perilous darkneſs, which puts a man in fear of, and brings him into danger of death; and might kill one with the horribleneſs of it. Where ſecret ſnares are laid for him in the dark, that cannot be ſeen, or prevented. Where whatſoever men ſee, ſeems to preſent death unto them, or to be an image of death. Let that day be full of deadly ſhadows, dangerous darkneſs, fearful ſights. For the phraſe, ſee Job 16. 16. & 38. 17. Pſal. 23. 4. & 44. 19. Iſai. 9. 2. Matth. 4. 16.

ſtain it] Or, defile it: or, pollute it. Dark hours in a day, ſtain the light of it, as ſpots in a well-coloured garment. So the word is uſed, Iſai. 63. 3. Dan. 1. 8. Mal. 1. 7. Or, challenge it: as a thing redeemed, which is in the redeemers power. So Ruth 4. 4. If thou wilt challenge it, as a thing belonging to thee, redeem it. Or, be kinſman to it: Abide alwayes with it, as if they were of one family.

a cloud] A dark cloud, hindering the Suns light, Exod. 19. 9. Clouds and darkneſſe are joyned, Pſal. 18 11. & 97. 2.

dwell upon it] Abide long, or be much upon it. Not paſſe away, as clouds are carried up and down with the winds. Dwelling, is abiding long in a place, So the word is tranſlated, Prov. 7. 11. He wiſheth that it might be cloudy all day long, and not ſee one glimps of the Sun.

Let the blackneſſe of the day terrifie it] Let black vapours, or thick and darke ones, drawn out of the water and earth, and going up into the air, and darkning the day, make it terrible to men. Or, make it ſo afraid, that it flye away. A metaphor, Chap. 18. 11. Or, Let as it were the bitterneſſes of the day terrifie it. So the word is uſed, Deut, 32. 24. Let it bring puniſhments on men, which may make it a bitter day to them. Or, Let them terrifie it, as thoſe who have a bitter day. Or, Let the prieſts of the day terrifie it. Let thoſe who uſed to obſerve and diſtinguiſh dayes, note it for a terrible day.

V. 6. As for that night, let darkneſſe ſeize upon it, let it not be joyned unto the dayes of the year, let it not come into the number of the months] After the diviſion of the day and the night, mentioned, ver. 3. in the two former verſes he had ſpent his ſpleen on the day, and now he begins to curſe the night.

As for that night] Of his conception or birth, ſee on ver. 3.

let darkneſſe ſeize upon it] Perpetual, and unuſual darkeneſſe; ſo that men may take ſpecial notice of it. No ſign of Moon or Stars, Act. 27. 20. See ver. 9. and notes on ver. 4. For Seize, ſee on Chap. 15. 12. on Carry away.

let it not be joyned unto the dayes of the year] The natural dayes conſiſting of twenty four hours, whereof the night is a part, Gen. 1. 5. But the artificial day is oppoſed to the night, Pſal. 74. 16. Joh. 11. 9, 10. & 9. 4. Or, Let it not rejoyce it ſelfe among the days of the year. So the word ſignifies, Exod. 18 9. Let it not be glad, that it is accounted among the dayes of the year. A metaphor.

let it not come into the number of the months] Heb. of the moons. For the months were reckoned according to the motion of the moon. See notes on Rev. 11. 3. & 13. 5. He wiſheth this night had never been, or might never return, but be taken out of the Catalogue of the nights, Pſal. 69. 28. See notes on ver. 3.

V. 7. Lo, Let that night be ſolitary, and no joyful voice come therein] Job goes on, in ſpending his paſſion upon the harmeleſſe night.

Lo] Becauſe he wiſheth new, and greater evils to it, he adds, Lo, as a note of admiration. See on Chap. 1. 12, 19.

Let that night be ſolitary] Or, deſolate, Iſai. 49. 21. So that men meet not in it for buſineſſe or mirth: as follows.

and no joyful voice come therein] Let no man make merry in it. Let there be no banquets, nor ſongs in it. Feaſts were wont to be made in the night, and therefore are called ſuppers, Luk. 14. 16, 24. Rev. 19. 9, 17. and marriage feaſts eſpecially. Therefore were lamps uſed, Matth. 25. 3, 4, 6. and the light of a candle, joyned with the voice of the bridegroom and the bride, Rev. 18. 23. See notes on Matth. 25. 1. and on Revel. 18. 23. For Come, ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

V. 8. Let them curſe it, that curſe the day, who are ready to raiſe up their mourning.

Let them curſe it] He ſhews the bitterneſſe of his paſſion in that, he not onely curſes the innocent night himſelf, but would have others to do it alſo; as angry perſons would have others to be angry alſo with thoſe with whom themſelves are offended.

That curſe the day] That through bitterneſſe of ſpirit curſe their own birth-day, or the day of their trouble. See on ver. 1. They hate the light, becauſe they live miſerably; So the Ethiopians uſed to curſe the Sun-riſing, becauſe the heat of it is ſo extreme, that it hurts both them and their country. For Day, ſee on Chap. 14 14.

who are ready to raiſe up their mourning] Who are as ready to weep, as if they had tears at command. Or, who have ſo many troubles, that when they have done mourning one hour, they are ready to begin again the next, and ſo by manifold complaints and lamentations renew their grief. He conceives it an eaſie and uſual thing for thoſe that are overwhelmed with grief, to be over-ruled with paſſion, to fret and to curſe. Or an alluſion to ſuch as were hired to mourn at Funerals. We read of mourning women, Jer. 9. 17. 2 Chr. 35. 25. They were hired to be leaders of the mourning. There were alſo men-mourners, Amos 5. 16. It may be theſe uſed in their lamentations to curſe the birth-day, or death-day of thoſe for whom they mourned; and therefore are ſummoned by Job to curſe his night. Others read it, who are ready to raiſe up Leviathan. That huge fiſh mentioned, Chap. 41. 1. Pſal. 74. 14. & 104. 26 Iſa. 27. 1. Such as can raiſe Sea-monſters by enchantments. Or Mariners, who in a ſtorm ready to be caſt away, when the Whales riſe up, and are ready to devour them, curſe the day that ever they came into the ſhip.

V. 9. Let the ſtars of the twilight thereof be dark; let it look for light, but have none: nor let it ſee the dawning of the day] Let it have no light in the evening, night or morning: let it alwayes be night, and no day follow it.

The ſtars of the twilight thereof] Let the evening ſtar, and ſuch others as uſe to ſhine before it, be quite dark, which being great ſtars, the light remaining in the concluſion of the day, cannot hinder the ſight of them.

Let it look for light, but have none] Let the night look for light: for moon-light, or ſtar-light; but let none appear. See on ver. 6. Or, Let him look for light. Let him that is afflicted look for ſome light; but not finde any. Or, Let light be looked for, and let there be none. Imperſonally. See Notes on ver. 3. For Light, ſee on Chap. 17. 12.

Nor let it ſee the dawning of the day] Heb. The eye lids of the morning, Job 41. 18. The eye-lids in Hebrew have their name from moving, becauſe they frequently move. The morning is compared to a man that opens his eye-lids, having been ſhut all night. By the eye-lids, is meant the opening of them; as Prov. 6. 25. Let not her take thee with her eye-lids. That is, with her eyes, when the lids are open; for no man would be in love with the eye-lids ſhut. The ſenſe is, Let it never be day more. Let not the night ever ſee the morning open her eyes. Let there be no light foregoing the ſun-riſing; nor no ſun-beams to foretell the approaching of the Sun. This is the greateſt evil that Job wiſhed to the night yet. So extrem are men in their paſſions, that they know not where to end, till all end. For See, look on Chap. 19. 27.

V. 10. Becauſe it ſhut not up the doors of my mothers womb, nor hid ſorrow from mine eyes] Now he ſhews the cauſe, why he curſed the day or night of his birth.

Becauſe it] The night had no power to ſhut his mothers womb, nor hide ſorrow from him. But he ſpeakes like a diſcontented man to the night, as if it had power; not daring to curſe God that had it. See Notes on ver. 1. Or, Becauſe he. To wit, God who hath power to open or ſhut the womb. So Gen. 50. 26. they embalmed him; that is, they that had the skill, and uſed to do it.

Shut not up the doors] So that my mother could not have conceived me. So all the wombs in Abimelecks houſe were ſhut up, Gen. 20. 17, 18. And Leahs womb opened when ſhe conceived, Gen. 29. 31, 32. and Rachels, Gen. 30. 22. It ſeems not to be meant of ſtifling in the womb, and denying paſſage to life by birth; for that is mentioned, ver. 11.

of my mothers womb] Heb. of my belly. That is, of the belly wherein I lay.

nor hid ſorrow from mine eyes] Kept me not from feeling pain. So ſeeing good or evil, in Scripture phraſe, is experimental poſſeſſing of it, Pſal. 34 12. & 4. 6. Mat. 5. 8. Iſa. 65. 16. Pſal. 128. 5, 6. Job 33. 17. Or, That it might have hidden ſorrow, &c. So this particle is uſed, Chap. 5. 11. Or, Then it had hidden, &c. as Chap. 13. 22. & 10. 14. I had not then lived to have ſeen theſe ſad times. For Eye, ſee on Chap. 2. 12.

V. 11. why died I not from the womb? why did I not give up the ghoſt; when I came out of the belly?] His paſſion was ſuch, that he wiſhes he had died any way, no matter how, nor where.

From the womb] As ſoon as I had life in the womb. So Pſal. 110. 3. From the womb of the morning; that is, as ſoon as it begins to be light, Chap. 10. 18. For dying when he came out of the womb follows in this verſe; Why did I not give up the ghoſt, &c. Heb. Why did I not come out of the belly, and give up the ghoſt? To wit, preſently, or in the ſame moment of time, in which I was borne. Suppoſe I had been born, why did I not preſently die? For the phraſe, Gen. 25. 17. Luk. 23. 46. For Come out, ſee on Chap. 15. 13. & 20. 25.

V. 12. Why did the knees prevent me? or why the breaſts that I ſhould ſuck?] Becauſe he had mentioned the birth, he mentions thoſe things alſo, that by Gods providence follow it; as a midwife to receive the child, and milk in the breaſts to feed it, & turns Gods bleſſings into curſes.

Why did the knees prevent me?] Gen. 30. 3. Why was there a midwife ready to receive me on her knees, when I was born? Why was I not ſuffered to fall on the ground, and lie there neglected till I died? Ezek. 16 4, 5, 6.

Or why the breaſts that I ſhould ſuck?] If the midwife would ſave my life, yet why had not my mother dry breaſts, that I might not have ſuckt? and then I ſhould not have lived to have felt theſe miſeries, Hoſ. 9. 14, 16.

V. 13. For now ſhould I have lien ſtill, and been quiet, I ſhould have ſlept, then had I been at reſt] He ſhews the cauſe of the former expoſtulation; namely, deſire of eſcaping his troubles.

Have lien ſtill] In the grave as in a bed, Iſa. 57. 2. I ſhould have had no cauſe nor power to have made theſe ſad complaints. This is the firſt act in bed, to lie ſtill, and compoſe us to ſleep. So the word ſignifies, Pſal. 3. 5. & 4. 8. For it is diſtinguiſhed from ſleeping; and Deut. 6. 7. Teaching of our children is then required, which we cannot do when we ſleep.

And been quiet] When we are laid in our bed, we are free from the noiſe and buſineſſe of the day. So are we in the grave free from worldly troubles, and bodily pains, Joſh. 11. 23. Judg. 5. 31. Jer. 46. 27. Ezek. 16. 41. Zech. 1. 11.

I ſhould have ſlept] While men toſſe to and fro in their beds, or hear a noiſe, they cannot ſleep. Afterwards they do. So ſhould Job in the grave have been as free from pain, as one that ſleeps ſoundly. Death is often called ſleep in Scripture, Pſal. 13. 3. Joh. 11. 11, 13. 1 Cor. 11. 30. and 15. 51. 1 Theſſ. 4. 13, 14.

Been at reſt] Nothing ſhould have troubled me. I ſhould have had no fearfull dreams, but lain eaſily.

V. 14. With Kings and Counſellers of the earth, which build deſolate places for themſelves] I ſhould have been in as good a ſtate, as Kings that now are dead, and purpoſed while they lived to get themſelves a great name by famous works, as building palaces in deſolate places, and great cities.

with Kings] The great and mighty Monarchs of the world have no priviledge over the meaneſt in the grave.

Counſellers] Men famous for wiſdom, who ſit at the ſtern to guide kingdoms.

of the earth] Not of one nation alone, but of all the world. All are in the like condition after death. Or, of the land. That is, of this land, ſo much noted among us for wiſdom. See notes on chap. 1. 8.

which built deſolate places for themſelves] who when they were alive did ſo abound in wealth that they eaſily could and did build up decayed places, and build ſumptuous Palaces out of ruins, and bring abundance of people and trading into forſaken places: or, who did build Cities in deſert places not formerly inhabited to get them an immortal name: for there were few cities then, and ſuch as built them were counted princes and great men, Gen. 10. 10, 11. & 11. 3, 4. or, which built ſtately palaces and cities for themſelves and theirs to dwell in. Gen. 4. 17. Iſa. 23. 13. & 58. 12. Job 15. 28. So that they and theirs dwelt alone in thoſe places: Job. 15. 19. Or, who built ſtately monuments and ſepulchres while they live, to be buried in when they die. To this end they bought places of burial, Gen. 23. 4, 15. & 25. 9. 10. Theſe were ordinarily in ſolitary places, remote from the living. Abrahams in a field: And Eliſhas out of the city, as it ſeems, 2 Kings 13. 20, 21. So was Chriſts ſepulchre in a garden, Math. 27. 60. Joh. 20. 15. and many of the Saints were buried out of the City, Matth. 27. 53. The Egyptians built curious monuments for ſepulchres, as appears by the Pyramides, yet remaining, which are conceived to be built by great Kings for that end. For Build, ſee on Chap. 20. 19.

V. 15. Or with Princes that had gold, who filled their houſes with ſilver.] I ſhould have been equal to the richeſt, as well as to the greateſt and wiſeſt.

Or] rather and. For here is no diviſion: For he ſhould have lien quietly with them all. So Prov. 30. 31.

That have gold] That are wealthy. Eccleſ. 2. 8. Deut. 17. 17. Who filled: The Heb. word מלא ſignifies 1. To fill. Gen. 1. 28. 2. To fulfill, Gen. 29. 21. For Houſe, ſee on Chap. 15. 28.

With ſilver.] With ſilver houſhold ſtuffe and Veſſels, as rich men uſe to do. Or adorn their Sepulchres richly. See on v. 14. The grave is called the dead mans houſe. chap. 17. 13. & 30. 23. Eccleſ. 12. 5. He ſaith not with gold, for few have golden veſſels: Or, who had ſtore of ſilver, enough to fill their houſes. An hyperbole, or exceſſive ſpeech to ſet out abundance, as John 21. 25. For Silver, ſee on Chap. 22. 25.

V. 16. Or as an hidden untimely birth, I had not been; as Infants, which never ſaw light.

Or] This verſe depends upon the former. If I had not been conceived, v. 10. or had died in the womb, or as ſoon as I came out of it, v. 11. or periſhed for want of a midwife, or a nurſe, v. 12. Then I ſhould have lain quietly with the dead. v. 13. Or, with ſuch as were not borne alive; in this verſe, others read it thus, Or, why as an hidden untimely birth, had I not been? And ſo repeat why out of the 11. and 12. verſes.

as an hidden untimely birth] That lay hid in the womb, and was never ſeen of men, as never having life in it at all, or being ſtifled before it was born. The word untimely comes from a word, that ſignifies to fall, in the original. Falling from the mother as fruit from a tree, before it be ripe.

I had not been] Not been alive, or, not lived here among men. So the word is uſed, chap. 7. 8. Gen. 42. 13. with 44. 20. Pſal. 39. 13. Jer. 31. 15. Math. 2. 18.

as Infants] The word in Heb. is taken from a word ſignifying to defile, chap. 16. 15. for Children in the womb are compaſſed about with pollution.

never ſaw light] Pſal. 58. 8. Eccl. 6. 5. were not borne alive, but were ſtifled in the birth: we call them ſtill-borne. For moſt ſee the light as ſoone as they are borne; ſome few onely cannot, who are borne blind. So ſhould Job have ſeen no light in the grave, Pſal. 49. 19.

V. 17. There the wicked ceaſe from troubling: and there the weary be at reſt.

Now he goes on to ſhew the commodities of the grave, even to thoſe that have ſeen the light, and have endured many troubles in the world.

there] In the grave, where dead men lie. Underſtood in v. 13. So, thither. chap. 1. 21. See notes there. Or, in the ſtate of death, for ſome finde no graves.

the wicked] Oppreſſors. Reſtleſſe, and unquiet people. It comes from a word in the Heb. that ſignifies motion and unquietneſſe. Like the Sea, chap. 34. 29. Iſa. 57. 20. They are alwayes ſtudying miſchief. Pſal. 36. 4.

ceaſe from troubling,] Give over their rage and anger, which makes them ſcare, vex, and trouble other men. Eccl. 4. 1, 2. So the word ſignifies. Pſal. 2. 1. Iſa. 14. 16. and 13. 13. Job 9. 6. There Job ſhould not have needed to fear the Caldeans nor Sabeans, who robbed him, chap. 1.

the weary be at reſt] Heb. the wearied in ſtrength. Who had loſt their ſtrength by the oppreſſion of others, and the hard labours they had put upon them. Exod. 1. 14 and 2. 23. Now they may lie quietly by their oppreſſors.

V. 18. There the priſoners reſt together, they hear not the voice of the oppreſſors.

He proceeds to ſhew the liberty death gives to priſoners, and hard labourers.

the priſoners] Debtors, bond-men, and ſlaves, who are caſt in priſon, and bound in chains.

reſt] Such as were priſoners on earth, reſt from thoſe labours, they were forced to undergo here. It ſeems their priſons were like our houſes of correction, where men are forced to labour, and ſcourged if they do it not, Judg. 16 21.

Together,] or, alike. As well they who are moſt oppreſſed, as they who are leſſe vexed. So the word is uſed, Deut. 12. 22. and 15. 22. 1 Sam. 30. 24. For Together, ſee on Chap. 34. 29.

they hear not] as they were wont to do daily to their grief. For Hear, ſee on Chap. 13. 17.

The voice] The haſty and bitter word. For Voice, ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

Of the oppreſſor] Heb. the exactor. That forced men to ſlaviſh works, and required an account of them, and puniſhed them, for their neglect. Such Overſeers or Taskmaſters the Iſraelites had in Egypt, Exod. 3. 7. and 5. 10. Job 39. 7.

V. 19. The ſmall and great are there, and the Servant is free from his Maſter.

Here he intimates the difference in mens political and domeſtical eſtates to be taken away by death.

The ſmall and great] Rich and poor, high and low, Jer. 5. 4, 5. Pſal. 49. 1, 2, 3. See on Job 1. 3. Perſons of middle rank are here alſo included, where both extremes are mentioned, and that according to the Scripture phraſe. So, down ſitting and upriſing, includes things done between alſo, the day or night time, Pſal. 139. 2. So doth going out and coming in include things done abroad and at home between both. Pſal 121. 8.

are there] or, are the ſame there. No difference between them. So the word is uſed, Pſal. 102. 27.

The Servant is free from his Maſter] There are no Maſters nor Servants there.

V. 20. Wherefore is light given to him that is in miſery, and life to the bitter in ſoul?

Wherefore] He begins a new expoſtulation, and goes on by way of queſtion, as v. 11.

Light] The light of this world, Pſal. 56. 13. why doth he live, that is in miſery? as in the words following. See notes on v. 16. What get men in my miſery by the light? Eccl. 1. 3.

given] or why doth it give light? The birth-day, v. 3. which he curſeth with ſo many and bitter curſes. Or, He: That is, God, who gives all men light and life. See notes on v. 10. Yet he names not God, becauſe he durſt not complain of him, though he were offended at his dealing with him. So God is not expreſſed. Job 16. 7. Hab. 2. 1. For Given, ſee on Chap. 14. 4. on Bring. For Light, ſee on Chap. 17. 12.

In miſery] Toiled with labour, or pain.

Life] Continuance of life to enjoy the light ſtill, which yet allayes not his pain. Or why was he not killed in the birth?

The bitter in ſoul?] Men ſubject to many and great miſeries, which make them inwardly ſad, and are as diſpleaſing to their ſouls, as bitter things are to the palate. Chap. 21. 25. it imports very great grief. Prov. 31. 6. 1 Sam. 1. 10, 15. 2 Kings 4. 27. For Soul, ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

V. 21. which long for death, but it cometh not, and dig for it more than for hid treaſures.] This is an aggravation of his miſery. And it is eſteemed the greateſt croſſe to men in pain, that they cannot meet with death, which they conceive will end all their troubles.

which long for death] Longing is expecting a thing earneſtly, as in longing women, who miſcarry if they have not what they long for Iſa. 30. 18. it is called waiting. As theeves wait for a booty, Hoſ. 6. 9. Thence in the Heb. comes a word, that ſignifies the jawes, which take in meat greedily. And another which ſignifies the hook, which the fiſhes greedily devour to get the bait. Though death be bitter, yet it is gilded over with hope of eaſe to ſuch as are in trouble.

But it cometh not] It cometh not when they would have it, though longed and much wiſhed for. Death that ſeeks men in their hiding places, flyes from them that ſeek it. Jon. 4. 3, 8, 9. Rev. 9. 6.

Dig for it] Not onely have ſtrong deſires of it, but alſo ſpare no labour to attain it, Gen. 26. 21, 22. As men dig pits to catch birds, or beaſts, Pſal. 35. 7. Or, ſearch for it, Deut. 1. 22. For Dig, ſee on Chap. 39. 21.

more then for hid treaſures] Hidden in the bowels of the earth in mines, or by men in time of wars. Or, out of hidden places. They would dig deep for it, if it were to be found: they would take any pains to die.

V. 22. Which rejoyce exceedingly, and are glad when they can finde the grave] This ſhews their great deſire of death, in that they are ſo exceeding glad, as if they had found a thing long and exceedingly looked for.

rejoyce exceedingly] Heb. to exultation, Hoſ. 9. 1. They cannot keep in their joy, it is ſo great, but they expreſſe it by outward ſigns of triumph.

can finde the grave] When they ſee any likelyhood of death approaching, and reſting quietly in the grave. For dead men cannot rejoyce, when they are carried to burial. He proceeds in the metaphor of diggers, verſ. 21. who joy when they come to the golden Mine. So do theſe, when they draw neer to death. For Finde, ſee on Chap. 17. 10.

V. 23. Why is light given to a man whoſe way is hid, and whom God hath hedged in?] He proceeds to ſet out the great miſery of men in affliction, which cannot finde death to eaſe them.

Why is light given] See on verſ. 20. Theſe words may be omitted, and the words following immediately joyned to the former; Are glad, when they can finde a grave for a man whoſe way is hid;

That is, every one of them rejoyceth, when his end draws nigh.

whoſe way is hid.] So that he can ſee no way of eſcaping out of his miſeries.

whom God hath hedged in] Hath compaſſed round about with evils, ſo that he cannot get out. Before Job was hedged in with good things, ſo that no evil could come nigh him, Chap. 1. 10. But now with evils, out of which he could make no eſcape. Before he was hedged in, as in a garden: now, as in a priſon. How great a miſery is it for a man overwhelmed with ſorrowes, to be compelled to live, and have all paſſages of eſcaping ſhut up? So that the ſhutting up of the way, ſignifies inextricable calamities, out of which a man cannot expedite himſelfe, Chap. 12. 14. & 19. 7, 8. & 38. 8. Lam. 3. 7, 9. Hoſ. 2. 6. Or, whoſe way God hath covered. And this anſwers well to the former metaphor of hiding. So the word ſignifies, Exod. 40. 21. It ſhews the reaſon, why the way of eſcaping was hid from Job, becauſe God had covered it.

V. 24. For my ſighing cometh, before I eat, and my roarings are poured out like the waters.

For] Now he gives a reaſon of all his former curſes and ill wiſhes.

my ſighing cometh, before I eat] Becauſe of theſe evils I eat unwillingly, and with a ſad heart, being not willing to prolong ſuch a troubleſome life with eating and drinking. Or, I do not complain without a cauſe, for my troubles come freſh into my mind, when I go to eat, ſo that I can take no comfort in meat as others do, but am ſo afflicted with grief, that I ſigh and weep before I eat. I have no time free from ſorrow, Joh. 4. 34. Chap. 7. 19. Heb. Before my bread. See on Chap. 15. 23.

my roarings] I not onely ſigh, but rear out for pain; when I go to eat, which other men do with comfort, and much joy, Pſal. 22. 1. & 32. 3. Pſal. 38. 8. A word uſed for Lions roaring, to ſhew the greatneſſe of the noiſe his pain drew from him.

are poured out] Melt into tears, and flow out of mine eyes by weeping.

like the waters] In great abundance, more like rivers runing out of Fountains, then tears that come dropping out of our eyes Pſal. 22. 14. & 119. 136. Eſai. 11. 9. Pſal. 88. 17. Chap. 27. 20. Amos 5. 24. There was no intermiſſion between roaring and roaring, as there is no diſtance between the drops of water. For Waters ſee on Chap. 14. 9.

V. 25. For the thing which I greatly feared, is come upon me; and that which I was afraid of, is come unto me] I was all my life time afraid of theſe evils, even in my greateſt proſperity, and now they have overtaken me.

For] This ſhews the reaſon why he took no comfort in his meat, namely, the greatneſſe of his troubles. Or, Surely. So this particle is tranſlated, Chap. 8. 6. & 20. 20. as if he ſhould have ſaid, Surely I was not ſo much afraid without a cauſe; the event proves it: It is fallen on me juſt as I feared. So men in miſery bewail their ſorrows by repeating the foregoing ſigns of it.

the thing which I greatly feared, is come upon me] Heb. I feared a fear, and it came upon me. Fear is put for the thing feared, Prov. 1. 26. Gen. 31. 53. So love, for the thing loved, Cant. 2. 7. & 4. 1. And hope, for the thing hoped for, Col. 1. 5. My trouble is the greater, becauſe that which of all other things I was moſt afraid of, and would moſt willingly have avoided, hath notwithſtanding all my preventing care, fallen upon me.

and that which I feared, &c.] Theſe words are a repetition of the words foregoing, to ſhew the ſtrength of Jobs former fear, and preſent paſſion.

V. 26. I was not in ſafety, neither had I reſt, neither was I quiet; yet trouble came] He explains more fully what he meant by his fear in the former verſe, to wit, a reſtleſſe expectation of thoſe troubles, that now were on him.

I was not in ſafety, &c.] In my proſperity my minde was troubled ſtill with expectation of theſe evils.

yet trouble came] Or, when trouble came. So this particle is interpreted, ver. 22. Chap. 7. 13. I was not rid of that fear, till the very hour that this evil, which I ſo feared, came upon me. For Come, ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. Then Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered and ſaid] This and the following Chapter, contain Eliphaz his anſwer to Jobs impatient diſcourſe, Chap. 3. Eliphaz anſwers Job thrice, Bildad as oft Zophar but twice. The ſcope of Eliphaz in this anſwer is to maintain that God proportions corrections according to mens ſins, and therefore Job being ſo grievouſly puniſhed, muſt needs be a wicked man.

Then] Heb. And. It is uſed for Then, Dan 8. 13. & 10. 5. When Job had ſhewed forth his paſſion, and done ſpeaking, then Eliphaz anſwered.

Eliphaz] Not the ſon of Eſau mentioned Gen. 36. 4. for he bears the name of Temanite, from a nephew of his, (as deſcending from him) who is called Teman. It may be Eliphaz ſpake firſt becauſe he was the eldeſt. So we finde Elihu forbearing till they had all done ſpeaking, becauſe he was the youngeſt, Chap. 32. 4, 6.

the Temanite] Deſcending of the foreſaid Teman, Or, borne in the City Teman, Jer. 49. 7. Amos 1. 12. A chief City in Idumea, famous for ſtrong and learned men, Obad. verſ. 8, 9. See on Chap. 2. 11.

anſwered] To anſwer, in Scripture phraſe, ſignifies ſometimes to ſpeak, according to the exigency of the time or hearer, though no man ſpake before, 1 Sam. 9. 17. The Lord ſaid to him Heb. anſwered, Matth. 11. 25. Luke 14. 3. So did Eliphaz take occaſion from Jobs trouble, to ſpeak what he thought fit to be ſpoken in ſuch a caſe. For Anſwered and ſaid, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

V. 2. If we aſſay to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieved? But who can withhold himſelfe from ſpeaking?] As if he had ſaid, All this while we have ſtood ſilent, and given thee leave to ſpeak all that was in thine heart; now give us leave to ſpeak, and be not angry, for we muſt needs ſpeak, and cannot forbeare any longer.

If] The Hebrew word הֲ, ordinarily is interrogative, and intimates a queſtion; but here it is conditional, and ſignifies If; as alſo Chap. 5. 1. See more on Chap. 14. 14.

we] I and my friends. For they were to ſpeak as well as he. So he concludes his ſpeech in the plural number, Chap. 5. 27.

aſſay] The word ſignifies tempting to good or evil, whereby a man is aſſayed or tryed how good or evil he is. And therefore the word in a ſecondary ſignification, is uſed for aſſaying. We will but try, if we can do thee good, we will not be tedious.

to commune with thee] Heb. a word to thee.

wilt thou be grieved?] We cannot ſpeak to thee in this eſtate, ſo as to avoid all occaſions of grieving thee, and may diſpleaſe thee, rather then amend thee. Thy minde is ſo diſtracted and impatient, that thou canſt not bear good counſel, but wilt be extremely wearied, and faint, or rage, falling into ſuch a grievous paſſion, as thou waſt in even now; (chap. 3.) which if thou do, we muſt diſcharge our conſciences. Eliphaz ſhews that he ſpeakes as a friend, not as a flatterer; and yet he doubts Jobs minde is not ſo well compoſed as to hear him.

But] See on Chap. 1. 11.

who can withhold, &c.] Who can hear ſuch impatient ſpeeches, and be ſilent? Thy complaints have been ſo bitter, and thy ſpeech ſo ſharp, that I cannot withhold my ſelfe from ſpeaking what I think needful in ſuch a caſe, Jer. 20. 9. Luke 19. 40. The word ſignifies ſhutting up a thing, ſo as it cannot come out, 1 Kings 8. 35.

V. 3. Behold thou haſt inſtructed many, and thou haſt ſtrengthened the weak hands.

Behold] See on Chap. 1. 12. A word as of aſſeveration, ſo alſo requiring due conſideration. It is certain all that live about thee know, that thou haſt formerly upheld others in their miſeries by thy good counſel, but now thou ſinkeſt under trouble thy ſelfe. An excellent Phyſician thou art, that canſt heal others, and periſh thy ſelfe. Thou ſheweſt either that thy former profeſſion was counterfeit, or that thou art very impatient. Others take it ironically, like Gen. 3. 22. where the word Behold, is uſed by way of deriſion. It appears now, that thou haſt not ſtrengthened others in their afflictions, although thou hadſt a great name for ſuch actions, either raiſed by thy ſelfe or others. If thou hadſt done thoſe good things, thou hadſt not fallen into theſe troubles and complaints.

inſtructed] Taught them to be patient in afflictions, and why art thou now impatient thy ſelfe?

many] Others alſo beſides thine own family.

thou haſt ſtrengthened] Thou waſt wont to encourage men to bear their troubles patiently, and to go on in the wayes of piety.

the weak hands] Remiſſe, that hang down for want of ſtrength to uphold themſelves; as in ſickneſſe or famine. Much leſſe are able to work or do any buſineſſe, Heb. 12. 12. Not weak out of fear, as Zech. 8. 9, 13. Iſa. 35. 3, 4. Jer. 38. 4. Dan. 5. 6. But out of weight of afflictions and ſorrows, Ezek 7. 17. A metaphor from men weak in body, whereby is meant ſuch as are dejected with ſorrow for troubles lying heavy upon them. Such as by many trials are weakened, thou haſt ſpoken words of comfort to, like ſinews to their hands, and ſtrength to their joynts. For Hand, ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

V. 4. Thy words have upholden him that was falling and thou haſt ſtrengthened the feeble knees] He goes on in deſcribing Jobs former good actions. To what end, or in what ſenſe, ſee on verſ. 3.

Thy words] He ſhews how he did good to others in miſery, to wit, by directory and conſolatory words.

have upholden] Or, lifted up. Thy good counſel hath kept many from falling, confirmed them, made them to ſtand ſtrong like a pillar, ſo that they neither bowed down, nor leaned to one ſide or other in their miſeries, but ſtood bolt upright, though ready to ſink in regard of the greatneſſe of their troubles.

him that was falling] Ready to fall or periſh. Some afflictions do ſo weaken men, that they are ready to ſink under them, and not make them faint onely, or unactive, as in the former verſe. The word ſignifies to ſtumble, and ſo threaten a fall by reaſon of weakneſſe in the joynts, Iſa. 31. 3. Jer. 50. 32. Falling into ſin is not here intended, Gal. 6. 1. nor falling into trouble ſimply, as Prov. 24. 16. but a readineſſe to ſink under trouble, and to deſpair.

thou haſt ſtrengthened] Thou haſt made them ſtrong to prevail againſt all troubles, and not to yeeld to them.

feeble knees] Bowing ones; when men are ſo feeble they cannot ſtand upright. The knees bow, when men are ready to fall, and can ſtand no longer, Iſa. 35. 3. Heb. 12. 12. Dan. 5. 6. Pſal. 109. 24. Feeble knees argue fear ſometimes, but here they are ſigns of weakneſs. The word knees, in the Original, comes from a word, which ſignifies to bleſſe, becauſe we bow the knees in prayer, Gen.41. 43.

V.5 But now it is come upon thee, and thou fainteſt, it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled] He ſeeks to convince Job either of hypocriſie in his former proſperity, or of great alteration of his carriage in his preſent adverſity.

But now] Or, Now when it is come on thee, thou fainteſt.

it is come] The evill thou fearedſt, Chap. 3. 25, 26. where thou didſt confeſſe as much. Or, Such an afflicted eſtate, as others were under, whom thou didſt comfort before, verſ. 3, 4. For the word, Come, ſee on Job 1.19. And on Chap.15.21.

thou fainteſt] Gen. 47. 13. As if not only ſtrength of body were gone, but reaſon alſo. Thou ſpeakeſt thou knoweſt not what. The word is tranſlated grieved, verſ. 2 mad, Prov.26. 18. He attributes the ſenſe of Jobs calamities expreſſed in his former lamentation, Chap. 3. to impatience.

it toucheth thee] See on Chap. 1. 11, Thou art ſmitten with it, Pſal. 144. 5.

thou art troubled] Vehemently amazed, 1 Sam.28.22. Pſal. 83. 15. Exod.15.15. Or, Thou makeſt haſte, 2 Chron.35. 21. for men afraid at ſome ſudden noiſe or tumult, make haſte away, Lev. 26. 6. Pſal. 114.3,5.

V.6. Is not this thy fear, thy confidence, the uprightneſſe of thy wayes, and thy hope?] Now at length the trouble thou beareſt, like a touchſtone, hath made manifeſt, that all thoſe ſhewes of virtues which thou hadſt, were counterfeits: or, if they were true, it is a wonder they appear not now there is moſt need. He objects to Job the want of four principal vertues, Piety towards God, Conſtancy in trouble, Upright life, and Hope of a good iſſue out of trouble. All which ſhould be in good men. Thus Eliphaz confirmes Satans charge, Chap. 1. 9, 10. and is Satans miniſter and inſtrument, though unwittingly, as Peter was, Matth. 16. 22, 23.

Is not this] Thy Religion or confidence, &c. call it what thou wilt, is come to this.

thy fear] Thy fear of God, thy Religion, thy piety. See Chap. 1. 1. For Fear ſee on chap.15.4.

thy confidence] Thy boldneſſe which thou haſt ſhewed in former times. A virtue which like an anchor keeps a man cloſe to God, Prov. 3. 26. and unmoveable in expectation of deliverance from evill, or good hoped for, Iſa.30. 15. The ſame word is tranſlated, Folly, Pſal. 85 8.

the uprightneſſe of thy wayes] Thy juſt dealing with men, which thou haſt been ſo much commended for, Chap.1.1.

thy hope] Job 17. 15. Hope is an earneſt waiting for deliverance from evill, or ſome promiſed reward, Pſal. 37, 9. Iſa. 8. 17. Rom. 8. 19.

V.7. Remember, I pray thee, who ever periſhed being innocent? or where were the righteous cut off?] Now Eliphaz falls upon the work, to prove, that no good men were ever thus puniſhed as Job was, and therefore ſuch great troubles befall wicked men only, and for their wickedneſſe. He calls Job to bear witneſſe to it, out of his own obſervation, taking it for granted to be ſo clear a truth, that it needed no proof, but would be acknowledged by Job himſelf.

Remember] Give one inſtance, if thou canſt, of any good man, periſhing by the hand of God, as thou art like to do. I can give inſtance of many bad men, that have been ſo deſtroyed, ver. 8. Search the records of antiquity, for an example of thy ſorrows.

I pray thee] he handles Job gently now in words to winne him to his opinion: and to that end he uſeth a preface, fit to procure good will and attention, The word נא ſignifies 1. Now, Cant.3.2. And 2. I pray thee, or beſech thee. Numb.12.13. So here.

Who ever periſhed] Who ever was brought ſo low as thou art, that was a godly man, and ſo near to deſtruction? Or, periſhed for want of food and other neceſſaries, Pſal.37.25. Or, periſhed to the world, that is, was killed, and violently taken out of the world, and ſo was loſt to men here, Iſa.57.1.

being innocent] Being not guilty of a wicked life, or of ſome hainous offence, that cries to heaven for judgement, Gen. 18. 20. & 19. 13. Act. 28. 4. That which Eliphaz here takes for an undoubted truth; that no good man ever died a violent death, is moſt falſe, as may appear by the example of Abel, Naboth, and many Prophets and Martyrs, ſlain by wicked men. We muſt not therefore take all for truth, that theſe friends of Job ſay, although ſome of their ſpeeches be cited elſewhere in Scripture. True it is that they ſaid thus, though all be not true that they ſaid. Eliphaz might the more eaſily erre in this, becauſe the Scriptures, in likelihood, were not written in his time, or, at leaſt, no part of them known to them, neither ever cited by them; and ſome of the examples, before quoted, were long after his death.

the righteous] Men who live juſtly in the world.

cut off] The word ſignifies hiding, Pſal. 69. 5. Yet ſo, as that a thing appear no more, Exod. 9. 15. which is often done by cutting off. Righteous were never cut off by the ſickle of Gods judgements before their time, as thou art in danger to be, if thou repent not, nor their ſeed utterly taken away; as thine are before thy face, that ſo their family might be rooted out, and their remembrance utterly periſh, Pſal. 9. 6. For Cut off. See on chap.15. 18. 28. on Hid, and Deſolate.

V.8. Even as I have ſeen, they that plow iniquity, and ſowe wickedneſſe, reap the ſame] Eliphaz ſets out the great care and pains that wicked men take to do evil, by a ſimilitude, taken from the great and continual pains of the husbandman about his corn, and their bad ſucceſſe, to an ill crop, ariſing from bad ground or ſeed.

even as I have ſeen] He proves that good men are not deſtroyed by Gods judgements, because they light upon wicked men. And that he proves out of his own experience. As far as ever I could obſerve, wicked men were cut off by Gods hand, but never any godly man. So Numb. 11.23. Thou ſhalt ſee, that is, know by experience, or, by diligent inſpection, and carefull obſervation; as Gen. 34. 1, 2. For See look on chap.19. 27.

they that plow]. A metaphor from husband-men. To plow iniquity, is to take paines about it, as men do about fields, that are fit to bear corn. Plowing, ſignifies deviſing and plotting various wayes of ſin, and ſatisfying their own luſts. So Prov.3.29. & 6. 18. where the tranſlation reads, deviſing: but the Original is, plowing, Prov. 21.4. where plowing ſeems to be expounded by thoughts, in the verſe following. Men turn up all corruptions in their hearts, and conveniences in the world, for effecting their wicked deviſes. For Plow ſee on chap. 1. 14.

iniquity] Or, vanity. For ſin produceth no reall good. For Iniquity, ſee on chap.18.7. on Strength.

and ſow] Bring their miſchievous plots into action, Gal.6.8.

wickedneſſe] Or, labours. For wicked men toile themſelves to ſatisfie their luſts: and take more pains to go to hell, than ſome do to go to heaven.

reap the ſame] Receive the fruit, or reward of their wickedneſſe, Gal.6. 7, 8. Wickedneſſe is put for the fruit of wickedneſſe, Jer.4.18. as works, for the fruit of works, Rev.14.13. Or the words having a double ſignification, the meaning may be, They that plow and ſow iniquity, and wickedneſs, ſhall reap vanity and labour, or trouble, Prov.22.8. Or the ſame in degree. Moſt wicked men are moſt of all puniſhed. And ſo art thou, O Job. Or, they that oppreſs others, ſhall be oppreſſed themſelves, Matth.7.2. So the word ſignifies, Pſal. 7. 14, 15. Iſai 59.4. And this ſin of oppreſſion Job is charged withall elſewhere. Men look to reap good fruit of their ſeed and labour: to have no fruit thereof is uncomfortable, but to reap that that may poyſon, or hurt them, is worſe. Or this verſe may be knit to the next, and then the ſenſe is, They that plot iniquity, and execute it, may reap the benefit of it for a time, yet they ſhall at length be conſumed by Gods judgements.

V.9. By the blaſt of God they periſh, and by the breath of his noſtrils are they conſumed] He ſhewes how wicked men come to be deſtroyed. And leſt men ſhould think Gods judgements, like a blaſt, could blow none away, but light ones, like duſt or feathers, he addes the ſtrong ones, who are like Lions, verſ.10. And this alſo he had ſeen.

By the blaſt] By a ſudden and ſecret judgement, Iſai 40. 7. Pſal. 103. 16. He ſhewes Gods great power, who by breathing on men, can do more than many armies, and needs no armies to effect their deſtruction. So corn is blaſted and periſheth. It may be a continuation of the former ſimilitude, ver.8. They look for a good crop of the iniquity they have plotted, and executed, but it will come to nothing, like corn blaſted: and ſo do the ſeeds-men alſo, 1 King. 8. 37. Iſai.37. 27. Amos.4.9. Hag.2.17.

of God] The powerfull, or puiſſant one, who, with a blaſt, can deſtroy them.

periſh] See on ver.7.

by the breath of his noſtrils] Spoken after the manner of men, whoſe breath is in their noſtrils, Iſa. 2. 22. for God hath no noſtrils. Creatures when they are angry, breath more fiercely at their noſtrils, Acts 9.1. The word ſometimes ſignifies wrath, which is ſhewed by the foreſaid breathing. Iſai.30. 33. Pſal. 27. 12. & 95. 10. 2 Sam.22.16. And it may be read, by the breath of his anger, that is, By his angry breath. As in fire of flame, that is, in flaming fire, 2 Theſ.1.8. He alludes to the manner of the death of Jobs children, by a mighty wind, ſo ſtrong, as if God himſelf had breathed it out, Chap.1.19. Wicked men are as eaſily deſtroyed by God, as a flye is blown away by a man. For Breath. See on chap.15.2. on Vain. For Noſtrils ſee on chap.14.13. on VVrath conſumed] Not weakened only, but utterly deſtroyed. For Conſumed ſee on chap.36.11. upon Spend.

V.10. The roaring of the Lion, and the voice of the fierce Lion, and the teeth of the young Lions are broken] Wicked and cruell tyrants, who by their power oppreſſe others and perſecute them, are in Scripture compared to devouring beaſts, and eſpecially to Lions, who by threatnings terrifie men, as Lions make beaſts afraid, by roaring and preying upon them, Pſal.57. 4. & 58. 4, 6. Ezek 19. 2, 3. Prov. 28. 15. 2 Tim.4.17. It may be he meant Job, and accuſeth him of cruelty and impatience, in regard of his former life and complaints, and ſo makes him like a devouring, or roaring Lion, and his ſons like young Lions. There are ſeven names of Lions obſerved in Scripture, whereby ſome Writers conceive their ages to be diſtinguiſhed. 1. גור a Lions whelp, Gen.49.9. 2. כפיר a young Lion, Ezek. 19. 3. 3. ארי and אריה a grown Lion; of ראה to ſee; becauſe Lions are quick-ſighted; and as ſome ſome affirm, ſleep with their eyes open, as watching for a prey. Or, of ארה to tear in pieces, ſignifying a Lion that begins to prey upon cattel: or of ירא to fear, becauſe then men begin to fear him, that were not afraid of him when he was little, or young, Iſai. 11. 7. & 38. 13. 4. לביא of לב a heart: and it notes out an hearty ſtout Lion, becauſe it is the moſt couragious of all the creatures, Iſai. 30. 6. Numb. 23. 24. 5. ליש an old Lion full of yeares, Prov. 30. 30. 6. שחל an huge Lion, Job 28. 8. 7. שחץ a proud Lion, that goes proudly. Many of theſe are together, Job 28. 8. Gen. 49. 9. Nah. 2. 11, 12. Others make אריה a common name to all Lions, as homo in Latine a man. גור as an infant: כפיר, as a young man: לביא, as a male: ליש, as a man at full growth, and perfect age.

the voyce] This word in Scripture, ſometimes ſignifies a ſound, where no intelligible words are, as Job 15.21. and thunders are called, in the Originall, voices, Exod. 9.28. Rev.4.5. For Voice ſee on chap. 15.21. on Sound.

the teeth of the young Lions] The ſtrength of oppreſſours, who grind others as young Lions tear their prey with their teeth. For Teeth ſee on cap. 16. 9.

are broken] Or, pulled out. Though they be young, and the time not yet come, that their teeth ſhould ſhed for age, yet they ſhall be pulled out, that they may no more prey on the beaſts. The ſenſe is, That God by his judgements, weakens oppreſſours in the midſt of their dayes, and takes away their ſtrength and craft, that they may no more hurt others, Pſal.3.7. & 58.6.

V.11. The old Lion periſheth for lack of prey, and the ſtout Lions whelps are ſcattered abroad.

The old Lion] See on ver.10.

periſheth] See on ver.7.

for lack of prey] What oppreſſions have gotten, is taken from them, and they and theirs periſh, becauſe they can get no more; as Lions ſtarve themſelves and theirs, when they cannot prey abroad, Pſal.59.14,15. & 109. 10, &c.

the ſtout Lions] See on ver. 10. VVhelps, Heb. Sons. See on chap. 14. 21.

are ſcattered abroad] To get food, yet can find none, which is the cauſe why the old Lions die, becauſe they cannot go to ſeek food themſelves, nor their young ones find any for them, or themſelves. Or are ſcattered abroad, that is, driven from their dens, ſo that they cannot come there to feed themſelves, or the old ones.

V.12. Now a thing was ſecretly brought to me, and mine ear received a little thereof] He had endeavoured before to prove out of his own obſervation, that none but wicked men were ſo puniſhed, now he goes to prove it by viſion.

Now] Heb. And. So this particle is tranſlated, Dan. 10.14.

ſecretly brought] Heb. brought by ſtelth. Unſeen or heard by others, as theeves ſteal, and convey their ſtoln goods away by dark. Such was this viſion, in the night, as follows, ver.13. So Chriſt comes to judgement unlooked for, as a thief in the night, 1 Theſ.5.2.4. 1 Pet. 3.10. Rev.3.3, & 16.15. If thou wilt not believe me, believe the viſion, wherewith God hath honoured me, in conveying ſecretly to me, a thing I knew not before, and not affording it to others. So Paul heard the voice of Chriſt, which his companions did not, Act, 22. 9 Whether this viſion appeared to Eliphaz now, (upon occaſion of Jobs troubles, muſing that a man, eſteemed ſo good, ſhould be ſo afflicted) or formerly, the Scripture hath not revealed.

mine ear received] A periphraſis of hearing, I heard it. The ear is ſaid to receive what it hears. So a man receives meat, when he eats it, Act 9 19. & 27.34,35,35. For Ear ſee on chap.15.21. For Received on chap. 15. 12. on Carry away.

a little thereof] Chap.26,14. a ſmall part, not all. Either becauſe it was like a low voice, which he could not perfectly hear, or becauſe it ſuddenly paſſed away, ſo that he could not have time to lodge it all in his memory. See his modeſty: He doth not ſay it was fully revealed to him, but in part, being mindfull of mans weakneſſe, who ſees but in part in this life, 1 Cor. 13.12.

V.13. In thoughts from the viſions of the night, when deep ſleep falleth on men] The former verſe ſhewed the manner how, this verſe ſhewes the time when this viſion came to him.

In thoughts] Heb. boughs, Iſai.17.6. Thoughts ſhoote out from the ſoul in great variety, as boughs from trees. And when ſtore of thoughts trouble mens heads, God ſpeaks to them, ſometimes by dreams and viſions, Dan.2.29. & 4.5.

from the viſions] Ariſing from the viſions. Or, after the viſions. So this particle is tranſlated, Hoſ. 6. 2. after two dayes. Or theſe words may be knit to the words following, and the meaning be, not that theſe thoughts, here mentioned, came from the viſion enſuing, but from the fear mentioned, ver.14. Viſions did differ from bare revelations, becauſe what was in them revealed, came from ſome viſible ſhape, preſented to men.

of the night] To diſtinguiſh them from ſuch viſions, as were ſeen in the day. God did ſometimes appear in ſome viſible repreſentation to his ſervants, when they expected it not. And that ſometimes in the day, Gen.18.1.& 19.1.and ſometimes in the night, for then are mens minds more free to receive revelations, and contemplate of them, being free from the noiſe and buſineſſes of the day. So Dan.2.19. Numb. 22. 19, 20.

when deep ſleep] An exact deſcription of the dead of the night; and the word ſignifies an extraordinary ſleep, or dead one, as they call it, Gen.2.21. Jon.1.5. It ſeems to be in the former part of the night, for the firſt ſleep is the deep ſleep, eſpecially to men wearied with cares, or labours of the day. The meaning may be, either when other men were faſt aſleep, and I awake and muſing; or when I was aſleep, as well as they. So that he might ſee this viſion either ſleeping, or waking.

falleth] For vapours, as they firſt go up to the head, and make it drowſie, ſo they fall from thence like a great weight upon all the members of the Body, and oppreſſe all the ſpirits and ſenſes, and caſt men into a ſleep.

on men] Heb. on ſorrowfull men, as the derivation of the word imports. Men wearied with the labours of the day paſt; for it is obſerved, that poor labouring men ſleep ſoundeſt, Eccl.5. 12.

V.14. Fear came on me, and trembling, which made all my bones to ſhake] Now he ſets down what effect this viſion had upon him, before he heard any words. A kind of terrour lights on men in the beginning of divine revelations, partly to make them reverence the ſpeciall preſence of Gods ſpirit, and partly to make them acknowledge their own inability to diſcern ſuch myſteries, Iſa. 6. 5. Dan.10, 8. Rev.1,17. Job.7. 14, 16,19.

Fear came on me] Heb. met me. Inwardly in my ſoul, ariſing from the unuſuall ſight of a ſpirit, mentioned ver, 15. For Met ſee on chap. 13. 22. on Call.

and trembling] Outwardly in the members of my body, which ſhewes the fear of the mind to be great, that made all the body ſhake, Pſal.2.11.Exod.15.15.Dan.10.11. Hab.3.16.

all my bones] Heb. the multitude of my bones. And ſo it is tranſlated, Chap.33,19. The moſt of them. Or, All my bones, being many. See Rom.5.15. 18. My fear was ſo great, that it ſtaid not in my fleſh, but pierced into, and wrought upon my very bones, and made thoſe firm pillars of my body to ſhake. So God terrifies men in the beginning of viſions, to humble them, that they may reſpect his Majeſty, and receive his meſſage with the more reverence; and afterwards he comforts them, Luk. 2.9,10. For Bones ſee on chap.2.5.

V.15. Then a ſpirit paſſed before my face, the hair of my fleſh ſtood up] He goeth on to deſcribe the terrour this viſion brought upon him, that Job might give the more credit to it, as coming from God.

Then] Or, VVhen. For it ſeems to be the cauſe, as well of his former fear, verſ.14. as of this here. So this particle ſignifies, Dan. 10. 4. as, or, when I was by the ſide of the great River.

a ſpirit] An Angell. The Angels are ſo called, Pſal. 104. 4. A good Angell, for God uſeth not to imploy evill ones in acquainting his ſervants with his Will: yet was this Spirit in ſome bodily ſhape, elſe could he not have ſeen it, Luk. 24. 37, 38,39. Or, a wind. So the ſame word is tranſlated, Chap.1. 19. & 1 King 19. 11. yet not likely to be ſo here, becauſe the wind neither ſtands ſtill, nor hath any image, as this apparition did and had, ver. 16. For Spirit ſee on Chap.15.2. on vain.

paſſed] Went ſuddenly away, as a fore-runner of the following Viſion, yet came back, ver.16. Or, changed. The word may import a variable motion, forward, backward, upward, downward, like a wind wheeling about. Eccl.,1.6. not progreſſive like a mans motion. Firſt it moved up and down, and then ſtood ſtill. This made him fear the more.

before my face] In my ſight. For Face ſee on chap. 14. 20. on Countenance. of my fleſh] Of my body. So fleſh is taken, Gen.2. 24. Pſal. 119. 120. or, of my head, which is a part of the body, by a Synecdoche of the whole for the part; as man is mortall, that is, his body muſt die. For Fleſh ſee on chap.14.22.

ſtood up] By reaſon of his great fear, and the coldneſs of his external parts ariſing thence, and ſtraightning and preſſing the roots of his haires, they ſtood upright.

V.16 It ſtood ſtill, but I could not diſcern the form thereof; an image was before mine eyes, there was ſilence, and I heard a voyce, ſaying] This is a deſcription of the preparation for the revelation enſuing.

It ſtood ſtill] To wit, the Spirit, ver. 15. It went not preſently quite away. It paſſed up and down before, verſ. 15. now it ſtands ſtill, as preſenting it ſelf to him to be ſeen, or as ready to ſpeak ſomewhat to him. Men make a ſtand, when they ſpeak. So do Preachers and Oratours. An ambulatory voice is not ſo eaſily heard.

I could not diſcern the form thereof] There ſtood as it were an obſcure ſhadow before me, whoſe form I could not fully and diſtinctly diſcern, nor judge well of the whole frame of it. Or, it may be his former fear did ſo aſtoniſh him, that he obſerved not this Image, nor could make nothing of it diſtinctly, yet he could hear the words.

an image] Some kind of bodily likeneſſe, but not ſo exact, that I could take full notice of it.

there was ſilence] I kept ſilence, being a little freed from my fear, and when all things were quiet, I attended to hear what the Spirit would ſpeak, Rev.8. 1, 5.

and I heard a voice] Uttering the following words to the end of the Chapter. Others joyn both parts of the ſentence together, and read it thus, I heard a ſtill voyce. Heb. I heard ſtillneſſe and a voyce, 1 King. 19. 12. for, a ſtill voyce: as, a cloud and ſmoke, for, a ſmokie cloud, Iſai. 4. 5. For Hear ſee on chap. 13. 17.

V.17. Shall mortall man be more juſt than God? ſhall a man be more pure than his Maker?] The voyce ſpake the words following for Eliphaz his inſtruction.

Shall?] Certainly he ſhall not. An affirmative queſtion often includes a negative anſwer, Math. 16.26.

mortall man] Wretched man ſubject to ſins and miſeries. The word ſignifies mans weakneſſe and inability, to ſtand before God.

be more juſt then God] Or, be juſt rather then God, Luke 18.14. If a man would call God to account, and charge him with injuſtice in laying too heavy puniſhments upon him, and God ſhould permit that man himſelf to be judge, if he would judge by the rule of right reaſon, God would get the day, and his juſtice be cleared from all brands of injuſtice, that that man could charge him with, and the man himſelf would be forced to confeſſe, that he ſuffers for his ſin, and was unjuſt in accuſing God. This was Gods ſenſe in likelyhood, who ſpake to Eliphaz, but it may be Eliphaz might miſapply it, (as himſelf, and his companions do many other grounds) to prove Job an hypocrite. As if he meant, that he muſt be forced to think Job more juſt than God, if God ſhould lay ſuch great plagues upon one that was not an hypocrite or an oppeſſour.

Shall man] A word that imports ſtrength, in the Originall, by the derivation of it. The ſtrong man can no more ſtand before God than the weak one. This is added, leſt any one ſhould think weak men indeed cannot ſtand before God, but ſtrong men may.

be more pure then his Maker?] If he lay the fault of his ſufferings on his Creatour, he ſhould be like a Servant, that ſpeaks ill of his Maſter, or ſues him for injury done to him, when as he ought to ſubmit to him; much more man, to God his Maker. Pſal. 39.9. Rom.9 20. For Make ſee on chap.14.9. on Bring forth.

V.18. Loe, he put no truſt in his Servans; and his Angels he charged with folly] He ſhewes, that there is no compariſon between Angels, and God; much leſſe between man and God, Or Behold, A note of admiration: Look at it as a wonder. See on chap. 1. 12. A thing worthy to be noted, to confute thy inſolency, who accuſeſt God. Or, Behold if: A note of certainty. So Deut. 13.14. & 19.18. If the thing appear certainly true upon inquiry. See on v. 3. of this Chapter. No marvell, if he find great matter of correction in thee, who found it in his beſt Servants the Angels.

he put no truſt] Or, He could put no truſt. He did not, nor could not credit, nor confide in thoſe perſons mentioned. So the word ſignifies, Prov.31 11. Job 15.15. And the Greek word anſwerable to it, Joh.2.23,24. He ſaw ſome of them would be diſloyall, not to be truſted on: And found ſome of them afterwards not faithfull, (as the word ſometimes ſignifies, Num.12.7. Heb. 3 5. 1 Cor. 4. 2.) and ſuch as would have failed him if he had truſted in them; for they fell afterwards. 2 Pet.2.4.

His Servants] Not the Prophets, or beſt men, as ſome think, becauſe theſe Servants are oppoſed to men, who have earthly bodies, in the next verſe. It muſt needs therefore be meant of Angels, who are called Gods Servants, wait on him, and are imployed by him, Pſal.103.20,21. & 104.4.

He charged] Heb. Put. That is, he accuſed them judicially, and found them guilty.

with folly] Or, with madneſſe. The word ſignifies ſhining light. Thence, praiſing men for their virtues ſhining in them. And on the other ſide boaſting of a mans own good parts, and ſo folly and madneſſe. Or, Nor in his Angels in whom he put light. Or, Though he put light in his Angels. If the Angels whom God made in ſo glorious a condition fell from it, man made in a lower condition, cannot juſtify himſelf before God. Or, Though he put praiſe in his Angels; That is, matter of much praiſe, by making them ſo excellent.

V.19. How much leſſe in them that dwell in houſes of clay, whoſe foundation is in the duſt, which are cruſhed before the moth?] The three following verſes ſhew the oppoſition between Angels and men, conſiſting in two differences. Angels are ſpiritual ſubſtances, men are bodily. Angels are immortall, men are mortal. No wonder then, if men cannot ſtand, where Angels fell.

How much leſſe] It agrees with the former part of the former verſe. If he put no truſt on Angels, much leſſe on men. Or, How much more. And then it depends on the latter words of the verſe precedent. If he charged his Angels with folly, then much more men.

that dwell] That abide and remain.

in houſes of clay] In bodies made of a corporeal and baſer matter than the Angels, and therefore leſſe truſt to be put in them. The body is called the houſe and tabernacle of the ſoul, 2 Cor. 5. 1. And it is made of clay or earth, Eſai 64.8. Job 10.9. & 13.12. & 33.6. The ſoul is the man that inhabits this houſe of clay. The mind is the man. And we read in Scripture of the inward man, 2 Cor. 4.16. and the inward man of the heart, 1 Pet.3.4. Others interpret it of thoſe houſes we dwell in here, which are made of an earthly matter, and nothing like the glorious heavens wherein the Angels dwell. So the Angels ſin is aggravated by their habitation, Jude verſ. 6. Others take it for graves, wherein we lye long, when we are dead. The grave is called an houſe, Job 17.13. & 30.23. Iſa. 14.18,19. The Egyptians called graves eternal houſes; and other houſes here Innes, becauſe we abide much longer in them, then in theſe, Diodor. l.1. p.33. For Houſes ſee on chap.15.28. The Heb. word חמר ſignifies 1. An heap. Hab.3,15. 2. A meaſure called an Omer. Exod. 16.16. 3. Clay, or duſt. Job 13.12. So here.

whoſe foundation is in the duſt] This is true of men themſelves, in reſpect of their bodies, which were made of duſt at firſt, Gen. 2. 7. and therefore called duſt, Gen.3.19. Pſal. 103.14. and ſaid to return to the duſt, Gen.3,19. Job 34.15. to go down to the duſt, Pſal. 22.29. to ſleep in the duſt, Dan.12.2. If mans body were made of clay, yet had it a good foundation, it might ſtand longer, as a weak houſe may, Matth.7.25. but the foundation is weak here: Light duſt, (not ſolid earth) which is more ſubject to ſcattering than clay. Therefore having ſo weak a foundation, it cannot laſt long. True alſo of their houſes, which have as an earthly matter, ſo an earthly foundation. For Duſt, ſee on chap.14.8. on Ground. which are cruſhed] Heb. they cruſh them. Imperſonally. So Luk. 12. 20. They ſhall require thy ſoule, that is, it ſhall be required.

before the moth] Sooner then a moth can be cruſhed between a mans fingers; which is killed only with a touch, and a very light one alſo. Or, in preſence of a moth. He is not able to ſtand out againſt the weakeſt creature, but waſtes inſenſibly, and by degrees, as a garment moth-eaten. So verſ. 20. God gives them up as food for vile creatures. See the phraſe, Pſal.39.11. Iſa.50.9. & 51.8. Hoſ. 5.12. Or, Before conſumption. So the root of this word is tranſlated, Pſal.6.7. & 31.9, 10. They die for the moſt part, before their natural ſtrength be ſpent. Moſt men by ſome inward diſeaſes, or outward calamities, periſh in the ſtrength of their age, or before: Few live to be very old, Pſal.90.10.

V.20. They are deſtroyed from morning to evening, they periſh for ever, without any regarding it] Some underſtand the former verſe of a natural death, and this of a violent one: yet both may be true of either kind of death.

They are] Or, Which are; and ſo the text may go on in the ſame tenour with the former verſe.

deſtroyed] Heb. beaten to pieces; as in a Morter.

from morning to evening] Suddenly, or quickly, within the compaſſe of an artificiall day. Or from Sun to Sun; that is, between Sun-riſing, and Sun-ſetting, Pſal, 90.5,6. Iſa.38.12. Their life is very ſhort, like thoſe creatures that begin and end their life in a day. Or, every day, or, all day long, ſome die, Pſal.44.22. Rom.8.36.

they periſh for ever] The are quite taken out of this world, never to return hither again, while the world laſts; Chap.16.22. Pſal. 39.13. They ſhall dwell no more in this world, Job 14.14. Pſal. 103.16.

without any] Scarce any conſider of it, ſo few, that they are ſcarce worthy to be named, in compariſon of them that do it not. See the like phraſe, Joh.1.10,11,12. & 3.32. Iſa.57.1.

regarding it] Heb. putting. To wit, his heart to it, or laying it to heart. So Iſa.41.20. it is tranſlated, conſider. No man perceives their end ſo nigh. It is beſide the opinion, and beyond the expectation of all men. Or, No man, no not themſelves take notice of this fleeting condition, to repent in time: or, No man is troubled at their death, or looks further after them, to ſee what is become of them, Iſa.57.1. Or, it may be read thus, without any conſidering, that they die for ever.

V.21. Doth not their excellency, which is in them, go away? they die even without wiſdom] In this verſe is declared the great power of death over us, in that it ſpoyls us of our beſt parts.

Doth not] Certainly it doth. A negative queſtion, often includes an affirmative anſwer, 2 Sam,11.3.

their excellency] Gen. 49.3,4. whatſoever is eſteemed excellent in them. Some take it for the reaſonable ſoul dwelling in the houſe of clay, verſ.19. Luk.12.19,20. Pſal.146.4. It may be called their excellency, becauſe by it they are made more excellent than the beaſts. Others take it for wiſdom, or beauty, ſtrength, riches, or honour, or any good thing wherein one man exceeds another. The goodlineſſe of them, Iſa.40.6. Not only the houſe of clay, and foundation of duſt, but alſo all the adorning, painting, and poliſhing of it, with the rich hangings, and precious furniture thereof, decayes, Pſal.39.11. & 49.12.

go away] Or, remove, Numb.13 11. The journies; That is, the ſeveral removes of the people. Or, Is taken away, to wit, by God, or by death; for it is in a paſſive form in Hebrew, Iſa.38.12. Mine age is departed, or taken away: Suitable to that which followes there, and is removed from me.

and not with wiſdome] Their wiſdom cannot keep them from death. They have no more priviledge againſt death then fooles, Pſal.49.10. 2 Sam.3.33. Or, not wiſely, that is, with abundance of folly; as, not holding guiltleſſe, for holding very guilty, Exod.20.7. Or, they cannot carry ſo much as their wiſdome away with them, Chap.36.12. Or, They prepare not wiſely for death, but die, as if they had no wiſdom, nor knew not what belonged to life or death, Pſal.49.20. If by excellency, be meant riches; then by wiſdome, may be meant skill to get wealth in another world, as they did in this.

CHAP. V.

Verſ.1. CAll now, if there be any that will anſwer thee, and to which of the Saints wilt thou turn?] Hitherto were the words ſpoken to Eliphaz in the former Viſion, contained in the five laſt Verſes of the fourth Chapter: now he returns to his former diſcourſe, and to what he moved Job to, Chap.4.7. to ſee, if ever any Saint were ſo afflicted. This is confirmed by that which followes; as if he had ſaid to Job, Thou ſheweſt thy ſelf an hypocrite by thy impatience under troubles, verſ.2. And God confirms it by laying ſuch troubles on thee, as he doth on wicked men, verſ.3. &c. See if ever any Saint were ſo impatient, or ſo afflicted. Many wicked men have.

Call now] Not by exclamations, as Iſa. 58. 1. nor by invocation, as Pſal.50.15. but by nomination, Matth. 20 8. Search the records, and take notice of the name of every Saint departed, or alive, and ſee if any be like thee. Call any good man that ever lived by his name, and if he would anſwer thee, he would confeſſe that he was never ſo afflicted, and that God never deales ſo with any as he hath done with thee, except with hypocrites, and ungodly men. For Call ſee on Chap. 13. 22. For Now ſee on Chap. 4. 7. on, I pray thee.

that will anſwer thee] That will reſolve thee of the truth in this matter. Or, that is anſwerable to thee. So the word is uſed, Prov. 27. 19. Eccl. 10. 19. whoſe condition is like thine. And if there be none like thee in ſufferings or carriage, then thou art no Saint, but an hypocrite. For Anſwer ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

Of the Saints] Perſons ſeparated from the world, and ſet apart to ſerve God. So the word is uſed, Lev. 27.10,14,15,16. Such are the Saints, Joh.15.19.

wilt thou turn?] Or, on which of the Saints wilt thou look? As a Painter turns often from the Picture to him, whom he is to ſet out, to ſee if it be like him. Not bare turning about is here meant, but turning to obſerve the countenance of another; for the ſame word פנה, ſignifies to look on a thing: and thence comes פנים, a face. On what Saint wilt thou fix thine eyes to find a parallel for thy ſelf? Among wicked men or fools thou mayeſt, verſ.2.

V. 2. For wrath killeth the fooliſh man, and envy ſlayeth the ſilly one] None of the Saints will be of thy mind, but they will all acknowledge, that Gods wrath lights on ungodly men onely.

For] Beſides the teſtimony of the Saints, the thing it ſelf appears to be ſo. Or, Surely. It is a thing generally known, and needs no proof. So this particle is uſed, Prov.1.17.

Wrath] Impatience under Gods Judgements, and fretting at them, as thou, O Job, haſt done in an high nature, Chap.3. Or, Gods wrath. Wicked men by their ſins give God cauſe to make them miſerable; good men do not.

killeth] Uſeth to kill. God commonly by ſome extraordinary death deſtroyes ungodly men; eſpecially ſuch as being under Gods judgements for their ſins, condemn God of injuſtice, and therefore he deſtroyes them. Or, Their own vexing ſpends their ſpirits and kills them: or, Their impatience thruſts them on things unlawful or dangerous, that have death attending on them.

the fooliſh man] Him that doth things raſhly for want of wit. Wicked men are in Scripture often called fooles, Pſal. 107. 17. Prov. 1.32. & 8. 5. & 9. 13. & 14. 1.17. The Hebrew word is the ſame with the Engliſh in ſound, Evill. Such uſe not their knowledge well, and therefore are as if they had none, Zech. 11.15. Eccl.7.9. It is an argument of folly to hurt themſelves by ſinning, and not to underſtand the cauſes of their puniſhments, that ſo they might amend, and be freeed from Gods judgements. Such an one Eliphaz accounts Job to be, though others accounted him wiſe. As wicked men are fools in print, ſo on the contrary in our old Engliſh books, a righteous man is printed, a right wiſe man; and righteouſneſſe, right wiſeneſſe. For it is true wiſdome, Pſal. 111. 10. Prov.1.7. as ſin is meer folly, Gen. 34. 7. 2 Sam.13. 12,13.

envy] At other mens proſperity. As if this Judgement had come upon Job for envying other mens proſperous condition. Or, jealouſie; That is, Gods wrath, who is a jealous God, Exod.20.5.

the ſilly one] Who like a child is eaſily perſwaded to wickedneſſe for want of judgement in himſelf. So much the word imports, as comming from a word that ſignifies to perſwade, or allure, Hoſ.7. 11.

V. 3. I have ſeen the fooliſh taking root; but ſuddenly I curſed his habitation] He proves the former propoſition of the downfall of ungodly men, from his own obſervation.

I have ſeen] Or, I my ſelf have ſeen. It was a thing I took ſpeciall notice of, Chap.4 8. Pſal.37. 35. I hope I may truſt mine eyes, Numb.16.14. Leſt any man ſhould object againe, Chap.4. 8. that wicked men flouriſh ſometimes, he anſwers, I have ſeen that alſo, that ungodly men have thrived and carried themſelves loftily, as thou haſt done, but they have ſoon been caſt down. For Seen look on Chap. 19. 27.

the fooliſh] See on verſ.2. Luk.12. 20. Or, a fooliſh man. Meaning ſome one man of note.

taking root] Like a great tree that hath in a long time taken deep rooting, ſpread its root far and wide, and ſo faſtened it ſelf, and flouriſhed the more, Pſal.37. 35. Hoſ.14.5. So have I ſeen wicked men, ſettled in their habitations, having gotten a great, ſure and firm eſtate, as themſelves and other worldly men thought, and put out children as fair branches, verſ. 4. He could not ſee the roots of the trees: But his meaning is, that as a man that looks on a ſtately tree ſhooting forth plenty of boughes, knows it hath firm rooting, elſe it could not ſo ſpread it ſelf: So wicked men could not live in ſuch ſtate, if they were not very rich; nor would they, if they thought their wealth would not abide. See Iſa. 11. 1.

ſuddenly I curſed] Even when he was in his height, and no evil like to befall him, I judged him unhappy for all his wealth, and foretold his ſudden deſtruction, which I knew God would ſpeedily bring on him, and his, Prov. 3.33. The word קבב literally ſignifies to ſtrike through one, as with a dagger, Hab.3,14. Iſa. 36. 6. Metaphorically it ſignifies to ſtrike one through with a curſe. Yet it rather ſignifies foretelling of evill, then wiſhing it, as Numb. 22. 17. & 23. 8,9,11. Curſing there, is foretelling evill; as bleſſing is foretelling good. The event alſo is included. It came ſo to paſſe. So Pſal. 4.6. & 85.8. Rom.1.17,18. Gen.22. 12. And as here foretelling is put for the event, ſo elſewhere the event for the prediction, Jer. 1.10. Lev.13. 3,8, Pronounce him unclean. Heb. defile him, Iſa. 6. 10.

his habitation] So the word נוה ſignifies, Chap.8.6. Iſa.32.18. Jer. 23.31. & 33.10. Sometimes it is put for a place of paſture, Pſal. 23. 2. Joel 2.22. Sometimes for the cottages of ſhepherds, where they dwell quietly, Zeph.2.6. Jer. 25.37. It includes not only his dwelling-houſe, but his family alſo, and his children, verſ,4. and his proviſions for his family, verſ. 5. Prov. 3. 33. Dan. 11.4. He thought himſelf ſurely ſeated, which made his deſtruction the ſorer, Pſal. 30. 6,7.

V.4. His children are far from ſafety, and they are cruſhed in the gate, neither is there any to deliver them] Now he ſets out the curſe what it was, and that it was not idle, or in word onely, but reached both himſelf and his poſterity. It may be ſome of his children lived then in miſery, for he ſeems to ſet out a particular man for an example, and that within the compaſſe of his own obſervation, verſ. 3.

far from ſafety] In extreme danger. As Far from light is, In extreme darkneſſe; ſo Far from Gods Law, is, Extremely wicked, Pſal.119. 150. Far from peace, in a moſt deſperate condition, Lam. 3.17. Far from oppreſſion, in a moſt ſafe condition, Iſa 54. 14. As wicked men are far from ſafety, ſo ſafety is far from them, Pſal. 119. 155. Iſa.59.11. By ſafety, is here meant, help, and things needfull to preſerve mens lives, or keep them out of danger.

they are cruſhed] As a moth between ones fingers See on Chap. 4. 19. 2 King.7.20.

in the gate] Publickly and openly all men looking on. For what is done in the gate, is known to all, becauſe of the multitude of paſſengers, that go in and out, Pſal 9.14. Prov.31. 52. Gen. 23. 10. & 34. 20. Jer.7.2. & 22.2. Or, They are called to an account, and caſt in judgement, and loſe the cauſe and the day. For judgement was given in the gate, that all might hear it, Ruth.4.1. Deut. 22. 15. Amos 5. 10. Prov.22.22. Pſal 127.5. Job 29.7. & 31.21. Iſa.29.21. They have many troubleſome ſuits, and alwayes are condemned, which is a great miſery and curſe, Pſal. 1. 5. & 109.7. The word שער ſignifies, 1. The gate of city. Gen 34.20. 2. The city it ſelf. Jer.15.7. 3. The place of Judicature which was uſually in the gates. Deut. 17.5, any to deliver them] They are forſaken of all, and have neither advocate to plead for them, nor Judge to deliver them, nor any friend to ſue for a pardon, which other men have, Pſal. 109. 12. Either to ſhew, that none can reſiſt, where God will puniſh men for wickedneſſe, as Hoſ.5.14. Pſal.50. 22. Or, that all men will turn away from thoſe whom God leaves; or, that the power of the Judges was ſo great, that none durſt help thoſe whom they condemned. Thus they, whoſe fathers pitied none, find none to pity them, Pſal. 109. 13, 14.

V,5. Whoſe harveſt the hungry eateth up, and taketh it even out of the thornes, and the robber ſwalloweth up their ſubſtance] In this verſe he ſets out the curſe of God both upon the fooliſh man, mentioned verſ.3. and on his children mentioned verſ.4. For whoſe, is ſingular in the Original, and their, plural. He muſt loſe his harveſt, and his children their ſubſtance.

whoſe harveſt] All the income of his labours. As devouring widowes houſes, Matth.23.14, It coſt him much labour in plowing and ſowing, and he expected a great crop, but it was ſuddenly taken from him. For Harveſt ſee on chap.14. 9. on Boughes.

the hungry eateth up] Some underſtand it of his heires, who being kept ſhort while their father lived, waſte all when he is dead: ſo that ill gotten goods ſeldom come to the third heir. Others, of men oppreſſed, and impoveriſhed by him, who when he dies, come and take all away by force, which he intended to leave to his heirs, and ſo make themſelves amends for their goods taken away by him. But it may well be underſtood of any ſpoylers in general, who come like hungry people, devouring all, and leaving nothing to the poſſeſſors. As greedy, as if they never had enough. Like fire that devoures all, Chap.1.16. Iſa.29.6. or like the ſword, that ſweeps all away, Deut. 32.42. Or like wild beaſts, that eat up all, Gen,37.33. Or like perſecutors, who eat up Gods people as bread, Pſal. 14.4.

taketh it even out of the thornes] His hunger makes him fear no ſcratching nor danger, but takes it by force, as if a man ſhould gather corn out of the midſt of thornes without fear of pricking. Or he may allude to the cuſtom of their times, and of ours alſo, to make hedges both about ſtanding corn, and about ricks of gathered corn, Exod.22. 6. Hoſ.2.6. Prov. 15. 19. Iſa.5.5. Mic.7.4. Pſal. 80. 12. & 89. 40. And then the ſenſe is, Though he make hedges of thornes to keep his corn from robbers, yet hungry perſons will break through thoſe hedges to get it. They will have it whatever it coſt. We ſay in the Proverb, Hunger breaks through ſtone walls. Or, Taketh it to a place out of the thornes. Where he may quietly eat it. Or, It cometh to him that taketh it out of the thornes. And ſome words may be omitted, becauſe it not being written in proſe, the verſe would be too long elſe. For Taketh ſee on Chap.15.12. on Carry away.

the robber] Chap. 18.9. The word is taken from another word, which ſignifies long hair; becauſe theeves living in deſerts, and not regarding their dreſſe, let their hair grow like wild men; or, to hide their faces, that they might not be known. Or, the thirſty; who are in want, and thirſt naturally, or after other mens goods, as hungry before, in this verſe. Neither wet nor dry proviſions, vineyards, nor corn-fields, could eſcape theſe robbers.

ſwalloweth up] With great greedineſſe, as thirſty men drink up all to the bottome in one breath: or as wild beaſts, or whales ſwallow up leſſer creatures, Pſal.56.2. Jon.1.17.

their ſubſtance] The word ſignifies power, ſtrength or activity, Gen.47.6. and ſo an army, which is ſtrong; and laſtly riches gotten and kept by ſtrength, and counted mens ſtrength, Prov. 10. 15. and making them powerfull. For Subſtance ſee on chap. 15.29.

V. 6. Although affliction cometh not forth of the duſt, neither doth trouble ſpring out of the ground] He now directs Job to look up to God for help; becauſe afflictions have an higher cauſe, then men ordinarily look at, and are not to be avoided by humane policy.

Although] Or, Becauſe; as 1 Chr. 13. 9, 11. 2 Chr. 6. 24. Or, ſeeing; as Chap.28.21. Affliction; the fruit of ſin. Or, Iniquity; the cauſe of puniſhment. For ſo alſo the word ſignifies, Pſal. 5. 5, Hoſ.4.15. For Affliction, ſee on chap. 18. 7. on Strength.

cometh not forth of the duſt] A proverbial ſpeech in likelyhood uſed in thoſe dayes, and in that place, to ſhew that troubles came not by chance, nor was to be imputed to ſecondary cauſes, but ſome greater reaſon might be given of them: Either that they came from our ſins as the meritorious cauſe, or from God as the efficient. Both which conſiderations ſhould make men ſeek to God as offended with their ſins, and inflicting thoſe puniſhments upon them. For Cometh forth ſee on chap.15.13. on go out, and on chap. 20.25. For Duſt ſee on chap. 14. 8. on ground.

Trouble] Or, Labour, Toyl ariſing from ſin. For the word ſignifies both labour, and pain; as both the Greek and Latine alſo anſwering to it. Out of the ground. As weeds do that grow out of the ground without mans work or care. Gods hand ſends them, and mans ſin brings them.

V. 7. Yet man is born unto trouble, as the ſparks flye upward] Having ſhewed in the former verſe whence mans troubles do not come; now he ſhewes, whence they do come. The word אדם ſignifies. 1. The firſt man, Gen. 2. 20. 2. Any man, Prov. 3.13. So here.

Yet] Or, becauſe; or, ſeeing. See on verſ. 6.

Man is born] Breeds himſelf trouble, as eaſily and ordinarily, as if he were born for that end, as he is born in ſin, Pſal. 51. 5. which breeds all his troubles. They miſtake the ſenſe and ſcope of the place that apply it to mens working in their particular callings, though it be true that men are born not to idleneſſe, but to imployment. The like miſtake is of that paſſage, Gen.3.19.

unto trouble] Or, labour. See verſ. 6.

As] Heb. And. So this particle is uſed, Chap. 16. 21. & 34. 3. It is ſometime put for a note of likeneſſe, and then it couples things moſt ſtrictly together; ſhewing not only that they are both true, but alſo one like another. It is as naturall for man to work himſelf trouble, as for ſparks to fly upward.

The ſparks fly upward] Heb. The ſons of the quick or live coal lift up to fly. So we find a ſon of the bow, for an arrow, Job 41. 28. ſons of the quiver, for arrowes, Lam. 3. 13. the ſon of the floor, for the corn, Iſa.21. 10. And the next word tranſlated, quick or live coal, Iſa.1.6. If ye blow the coal, the ſparks will fly upward. So man, if he be once born, he will have trouble, Job 14. 1. עוף ſignifies. 1. To fly. Deut. 4.17. 2. To be faint. 1 Sam. 14. 31. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

V. 8. I would ſeek unto God, and unto God would I commit my cauſe] Having ſhewed that afflictions take not their riſe from ſecondary cauſes, he exhorts Job to return to God by repentance, who being powerfull, and mercifull would pity him then, and reſtore him to his former happy condition. To this purpoſe, in the reſidue of the Chapter, he ſpeaks much of Gods power and wiſdom, both in the works of nature, in generall; and eſpecially in his works about mankind.

Surely] This word is in the Hebrew; but is omitted in the Tranſlation. See on Chap. 1. 11.

I; I my ſelf] For beſides the perſon included in the verb, the pronoun is added to ſet an emphaſis on it. See on verſ. 3. He propounds it in his own perſon in a friendly manner, that it might the better go down with Job. So doth Paul, 1 Cor. 3. 6. with 4. 6. propound his own example, that other Miniſters might not think much, if their labours were fruitleſſe ſometimes when the Apoſtles would be ſo alwayes, if God did not give the increaſe. So Eliphaz, here; If I were in thy caſe and theſe corrections lay on me, I would ſeek to God.

would] I would not have fretted, nor curſed my day as thou haſt done (Chap. 3.) but I would chuſe a better way. Think thou of thy holineſſe as thou pleaſeſt, I would acknowledge Gods providence in theſe troubles, and confeſſe my ſins, and ſeek to God for delivery.

Seek to God] By prayer, for counſel, help, deliverance, as to one higher and ſtronger then I, that ſo I might find favour with him, 2 Chr. 16. 12. Pſal. 9. 10. & 34. 4. & 77. 2. Iſa. 9. 13. Zeph. 1. 6.

unto God] One name uſed for God in this verſe before, is taken from ſtrength: the other here uſed is that which is communicated to Judges, Exod. 21. 6. Pſal. 82. 1, 2. To ſhew, that God had juſtly inflicted theſe troubles on Job, and none could deliver him out of Gods hands; as verſ. 4. and therefore God muſt be pacified by prayer, and intreaty, and it is in vain to fret againſt his proceedings with us, though they be harſh to us, Prov. 25. 15.

commit my cauſe] Or, Put my words, That is, pray.

V. 9. Which doth great things and unſearchable: marvellous things without number.] He ſets out Gods wonderfull power, either to terrifie Job (who as he thought, was grown inſolent againſt God) by confirming Gods providence in puniſhing wicked men, as he had ſaid before. Or to comfort him in his miſeries, by ſhewing him a preſent remedy, from Gods ability to deliver him out of the greateſt troubles, and his wiſdom to find an iſſue, when men cannot. He that is moſt powerfull is moſt worthy to be feared, and to be ſought to. Gods powerfull works are ſet out here in generall, and afterwards in many particulars in things natural and civil, to the advancing of the poor, that their ſpirits may be raiſed, and their enemies daunted.

which doth] At preſent, and continually, Joh. 5. 17. For Doth ſee chap. 14. 9. on Bringeth forth.

great things] Not like men, who with much art and labour produce trifles. Mens greateſt works are nothing in compariſon of Gods. Great things in quantity; as Hills, Seas, Whales, Elephants: but eſpecially in quality, and excellency. Jer. 10. 6. Pſal. 136. 6, 7. So the Moon is called a great light, Gen. 1. 16. though ſome Stars be bigger, becauſe in regard of the nearneſſe of it to the Earth, it looks bigger, and gives more light. Some interpret theſe great things, of Gods ordinary works in the courſe of Nature, and oppoſe them to the wonders following. Others take both words promiſcuouſly; for wonders above Nature are called great things, Luke 1. 49. and there are wonders in the courſe of Nature, Pſal. 36. 6. Pſal. 136. 4, 5, &c.

And unſearchable] Heb. And there is no ſearch. They may be ſearched into, but not with any expectation to find out the cauſes of them, or the manner of doing of them by the wit of man, though he ſearch never ſo ſtrictly. That labour is in vain. Therefore unſearchable is expounded by paſt finding out, Rom. 11. 33. It ſignifies alſo high, deep things, and ſecret things, which men cannot come at; as the height of heaven, the bottom of the ſea and of the earth, the heart of Kings, Prov. 15. 3. Job. 38. 16.

Marvellous things] Such things as we cannot underſtand the cauſe of, becauſe it goes above the capacity of our natural reaſon. The word ſignifies not only things that we admire, as not knowing the cauſes of them, but alſo any thing hidden, or above the reach of our underſtanding, Judg. 13. 18. Pſal. 131. 1. It is derived from a word that ſignifies dividing, or ſeparating. Exod. 33. 16. It imports things divided from our underſtanding, as miracles are, which are above the courſe of Nature; and many things alſo in the courſe of Gods ordinary providence, for he ſpeaks not here of creation, as appears by the inſtances following. Theſe are difficult things, and ſuch as we uſe to wonder at, Deut. 17. 8. Gen. 18. 14. God doth moſt magnificent works, which do far exceed our ſtrength and capacity.

without number] Heb. till there be no number. There is ſuch a multitude of Gods marvellous works, that they cannot be numbred by man, Gen 15. 5. Rev. 7. 9. but God can number them; as he can the ſtars, Pſal. 147. 4. Or, it may be ſpoken by a figure called Hyperbole, to ſhew that they are very many. See the like; Exod. 3. 8. Deut. 1. 28. Pſal. 107. 26. Joh. 21. 25.

V. 10. who giveth rain upon the earth, and ſendeth waters upon the fields] He ſhews Gods power firſt in the works of Nature.

who] He puts the demonſtrative Article before in the Hebrew; as if he would ſay, I mean that God, who giveth rain. He did not ſo in the former verſe; nor doth not in the verſes following, becauſe here he begins to enumerate Gods particular wonderful actions.

giveth] He inſtanceth in ſuch works, as none can do but God. The earth would be fruitleſſe, if God did not ſend rain, Jer. 5. 24. For Giveth ſee on chap. 14. 4. on Bring.

Rain upon the earth] He begins with this as a wonderful and profitable work; not abiding at all times, as the Sun, Moon, and Stars; for then the world would be drowned, but ſent by God at divers ſeaſons; and in divers places, eſpecially where rivers are ſcant, as they were in thoſe hot Countries: and this was a ſpecial ſign of Gods providence; for the refreſhing of the earth, and earthly things, that elſe would be dried up. And it is more obſerved and admired, then the conſtant light of the Sun; and it is called the husband of the earth by the Hebrew Writers, becauſe the Earth can no more bear fruit without rain, then a woman children, without company of a man. It is therefore reckoned among Gods mighty works, Chap. 28. 26. Jer. 10. 13. Amos 5. 8. Act. 14. 17. For Earth ſee on chap. 9. 24.

ſendeth waters] Rain from heaven, as before. Or, floods, by rain falling abundantly, or by rivers overflowing their banks. And that either in judgement to deſtroy the fruits of the earth, or in mercy, where rain is not uſual to fructify the land, as in Egypt by Nylus overflowing, Deut. 11. 10, 11. Gen. 2. 5, 6. For Sendeth ſee on chap. 14. 20. For waters on chap. 14. 9.

upon the fields] Heb. upon the out-places, Pſal. 144. 13, 14. that are to the towns, as ſtreets are to the houſes, more open places. Such as have no covering over head to keep the rain from falling on them; nor no walls to incloſe them, as houſes and towns have. So bountiful is God, that he not onely waters the tilled grounds, but alſo, wilderneſſe and deſerts, where no man comes, nor no husbandman looks for fruit. This ſhews Gods magnificence; whoſe bounty takes care for vileſt things, and makes wilderneſſes, and inacceſſible hills green, that wild beeaſt may have food, as well as men, Job,38 25. 26. For Fields ſee on chap. 18. 17. on Street.

V. 11. To ſet up on high thoſe that be low, that thoſe which mourn, may be exalted to ſafety] This is added to encourage Job to humble himſelf before God, who was able to reſtore him to his former proſperous eſtate again.

to ſet up] The connexion ſhews the meaning, that God by ſending rain gives plentiful crops, and ſo making their fields fruitful, raiſeth the poor husbandmen, firſt to riches, and then to honour. Or the ſentence may begin here. To ſet up, &c. He diſappointeth. &c. verſ. 12. God makes room for the preferment of the poor, by ruining the mighty.

on high] An alluſion to Judges and Kings, who ſit on ſeats and thrones higher then others, 2 Sam.3.10. 1 King. 1. 30,35,48. So higher ſeats in feaſts and publick places, were provided for, and given to perſons of greateſt eminency, 1 Sam,20.25. Prov.25.6 Matth. 33.6. Mark 12.39. Luke 1.52. & 11. 43. & 14. 8. So on the contrary, to be in a low eſtate, or humbled, is ſet out by ſitting in the duſt, 1 *S*am.2.2.8. 1 King.16.2. Pſal.113.7. *I*ſa.47. 1. or in a low place, Eccleſ.10.6. Jam.2.3. The meaning is, to prefer mean men to riches, honour, and authority.

thoſe that be low] In their outward eſtate, Luke 1.48.52. Pſal. 107. 41. and accordingly of low eſteem among men, and ſet below others. He may mean poor husbandmen, who for want of rain are well nigh undone.

thoſe which mourn] Heb. thoſe which are black; to wit, in face: for ſorrow will make men look ſwart, Jer.4. 28. Lam. 4. 8. Or in apparel, for mourners uſed to wear black, as a ſign of ſorrow, Ezek. 31.15. As on the contrary, men in proſperity, and joyfull times, did wear white, Eccl.9.8. Eſth.8.15. He may have reſpect alſo to husbandmen, who mourn for want of rain, and make their faces ſwart by hard labour in the Sun.

exalted to ſafety] Lifted up into an high place, where they may be ſafe; as if they were lifted into an high tower, where no weapons could reach them. Hereby is intended delivery out of their former wants; freedom from them for time to come, and open and laſting honour, that cannot be taken from them, Prov.29.25.

V. 12. He diſappointeth the devices of the crafty, ſo that their hands cannot perform their enterpriſe.] He ſhews how he makes low ones ſafe: by croſſing plots of mighty ones, invented for their ruine. It is alſo a further inſtance of Gods power in things civil, which was ſhewed before in things natural. He had ſhewed Gods power before; now he ſets out his wiſdom.

He] Or, who: That it may run on in the ſame phraſe, and anſwer to the ninth and tenth verſes.

diſappointeth] The word, in another form, ſignifies breaking, but in the form here uſed, making void, fruſtrating, diſappointing. Pſal. 119. 126. Ezr. 4. 5. & 9. 14. for when the engine is broken, men cannot effect their plots. God diſappoints the devices of politick men, one while by hindring them from bringing their devices to the end they aym at, and deſire: as follows in this verſe. They cannot perform their enterpriſes. So that all their endeavours and purpoſes are to no purpoſe, Iſai.14.24,25. Pſal.33. 10. Otherwhile, by contradicting and reſiſting them, Numb.30. 8. 1 Pet. 5. 5. Jam. 4. 6.

the devices] Concluſions in mens minds, after long and ſerious thoughts. Curious devices, as the word imports; like curious the girdle, Exod. 28. 8. So that not bare thoughts are here intended, but plots, and deceits, and witty inventions reſolved and concluded upon in their mindes, which they thought could not be hindered from execution, and by which they thought to raiſe themſelves, and pull down others. As God lifts up ſome, who were ſo low, that they looked for no preferment, verſ. 11. ſo he diſappoints thoſe that plot for it by the ruine of others, Gen. 50. 20. Pſal. 56. 5, 6,7. Eſt. 9. 24, 25.

of the crafty] Sometimes the word is taken in a good ſenſe, Prov. 1.4. & 8. 12. & 22. 3. but moſt commonly in a bad ſenſe, for ſuch as uſe their wiſdom to hurt others, Gen.3. 1. Pſal. 83. 3, and ſo here. Some think the word ſignifies, one that hath many turnings and windings in his mind, as the ſerpent had in his body, Gen. 3. 1. It comes from a word that ſignifies naked, becauſe ſuch as ſhew tricks of activity, uſe to ſtrip themſelves naked. The ſame word ſignifies naked, and ſubtill, Gen. 2. 25. & 3. 1.

ſo that] Heb. and. It is uſed in this ſenſe, Chap. 7. 15, 20. & 41. 16.

their hands cannot perform] The hands are the inſtrument to act, as the tongue is to ſpeak what the heart invents. For Hand ſee on chap.15. 23. For Perform. on chap. 14. 9. on bring forth.

their enterpriſe] Which they had craftily contrived, thinking it could not be diſappointed, yet they could not effect it, Neh.4.15. Iſai. 8. 10. They could not give their plots an actuall being, or ſubſtance; for ſo the word ſignifies. For Enterpriſe ſee on chap. 26. 3. on The thing as it is.

V. 13. He taketh the wiſe in their own craftineſſe: and the counſell of the froward is carried headlong] In the former verſe he ſhewed, that God did ruine the plots of ungodly men; now he ſhewes how, to wit, by making their own devices to recoyle on their own heads; and not only work liberty to good men, but alſo ruine to themſelves.

He] Or, who. See on verſ. 12. taketh] When they think that they have, by their policy, entrenched themſelves in the caſtles of their craft, ſo ſure, that no man can touch them, God takes them by a greater policy, as men do ſtrong caſtles, or as hunters do wild beaſts in gins, and carries them away, as priſoners taken in war, Numb.21. 1, 32. Deut. 2. 34. 2 Sam. 12. 27. Gen.31. 26. Iſa.20. 4.

the wiſe] Wiſe to do evill, for craft is aſcribed to them here, and ver.12. They may be called wiſe, becauſe they think themſelves ſo. Such as can work out any thing, as they think; and that none can prevent them. So the Greek word ſignifies, 1 Cor. 3. 19. where the Apoſtle quoting this verſe, as Scripture, ſhewes the whole book to be Canonicall.

in] That is, by. It notes the inſtrument, as Pſal. 33. 6. Heb. 1. 1, 2.

their own craftineſſe] In their witty devices, whereby they thought to ruine others. So did Haman periſh, Eſth. 9. 25. God uſeth their craft to their own deſtruction, as if a ſtrong man ſhould beat back the enemies weapons upon himſelf, whereby he intended to hurt others, Jer.21. 4. Or it may be a metaphor taken from catching of birds in nets, or ſnares. God uſeth their crafty devices, intended as nets to catch others, for to catch themſelves, Pſal. 7. 15, 16. & 9. 15, 16. & 35. 7,8. & 141. 10.

the counſell] Device, as ver. 12. Pſal. 81. 12. Or, plot deviſed by many, laying their heads together, Pſal. 1. 1. & 2. 2. Iſai.19.11. Counſels are ordinarily taken for reſults of ſerious debates with others. Crafty devices may be the fruit of one mans brain.

of the froward] Deceitful perſons, who have one crafty device twiſted within another, like a rope. The word ſignifies to wreſt or turn a thing, and then to wreſtle. Such as can turn themſelves every way, as wreſtlers do to get advantage of others, and wind themſelves within them, to overthrow them by policy, when ſtrength faileth, Gen.30.8. Deut.32. 5. Pſal.18.26. Prov.8.8.

is carried headlong] It comes from a word that ſignifies haſte; for haſty folks take not time enough for advice, but do things very raſhly, and with precipitation, and ſo not only miſſe what they intend, but alſo have ill ſucceſſe, Iſai. 19. 14. and 32. 4. The word מהר ſignifies. 1. To do a thing ſpeedily. Pſal. 16. 4. 2. To give a dowry. Exod. 22. 16. 3. To do a thing raſhly, as haſty men uſe to do, Iſa. 32. 4.

V. 14. They meet with darkneſſe in the day time, and grope in the noon day, as in the night] The reaſon is here ſet down of their bad ſucceſſe; want of knowledge, though they think themſelves wiſe.

they meet with] Or, run into. It meets not with them, but they bring troubles upon themſelves by their raſhneſſe: or find inexpected difficulties hindring the ſucceſſe of their counſels.

darkneſſe] Some take it for troubles, which are often ſet out in Scripture by darkneſſe, as proſperity is by light. But by darkneſſe, we may rather underſtand ignorance how to effect their deſigns.

in the day time] They meet with trouble in their proſperity. Or rather, God ſends a ſpirit of giddineſſe upon them, Iſai 19.3,14. ſo that with all their ſearch and counſel, they cannot ſee things that are clear, and might eaſily be diſpatched, but go on ſlowly, and fearfully, as men in the dark. They have light without, but want light within.

grope in the noon day, as in the night] They are like blind men, who at high noon, when the Sun ſhines brighteſt, grope for doors and walls, as other men do in the darkeſt nights, Gen.19. 11. Judg. 16. 26, Deut.28. 29. Iſai.59.10. Lam.4.14. The meaning is, that theſe crafty men meet with troubles, in the midſt and height of their proſperity. Or rather, in things moſt clear, they ſeek out for ſome way to execute their wicked devices, and are ſo beſotted, that they can find none.

V. 15. But he ſaveth the poor from the ſword, from their mouth, and from the hand of the mighty] The Scripture uſeth preſently after threatnings, to annex promiſes, leſt men ſhould think, that God were more ready to kill, then to ſave, Pſal. 34. 16,17, 21,22.

But] See on Chap. 1. 11.

he ſaveth] Keepeth from troubles, or delivereth out of them.

the poor] Such as are in great want, and ſo are forced to make known their wants by uttering their deſires. For it comes from a word, that ſignifies willing, or deſiring.

from the ſword] From war, and the miſeries attending it, which threaten their life, verſ.20. Gen. 31. 26. Pſal. 144. 10.

from their mouth] From the mouth of thoſe crafty ones, mentioned, verſ. 12,13. From their plots, who like wild beaſts would ſwallow them up, Pſal. 124. 3,6. Or from the ſword, that is, from their mouth; or, that cometh out of their mouth. That is, from falſe witneſſes, or ſlanders, that may endanger their life, or credit, Prov. 12. 6. & 18.8. & 26. 22. Or, from ſentence of death given againſt them by unjuſt Judges Or, from bad counſels given aginſt them by ungodly men, and virulent words, whereby they are pierced, as with a ſharp ſword, Pſal,57.4. & 64.3. Jer.9.8. & 18. 18. Or, out of their mouth: The oppreſſours cannot keep cloſe their plots, but reveal them to others, whereby they come to be diſappointed. For Mouth ſee on chap.15. 5.

From the hand] God not onely defends them from their reproaches; but alſo from their violent attempts to take away their goods, life, or liberty. For Hand ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

of the mighty] Of the oppreſſour, who being more powerful then he, would overcome him, if God did not aſſiſt him.

V. 16. So] By this meanes he concludes the diſcourſe of Gods wonders, with the fruit of them. They breed hope in the oppreſſed, and ſhame in the oppreſſours.

the poor] One that is exhauſted or drawn dry, as Rivers, when men take the fiſh, or turn them from fenced Cities, Iſa. 19. 6. One that had means and ſtrength, but now hath loſt them. And ſuch are worſt able to bear poverty.

hath hope] He that is now delivered, in another triall when he ſhall be forſaken of all men, hath hope that God will deliver him again, 1 Sam. 17. 37. 2 Cor. 1. 9, 10. Or, another poor man ſeeing God hath delivered this man, will hope for the like, Pſal. 32. 6, 7. Or, Being delivered, he hath the thing he hoped for, that is, ſafety or deliverance, Pſal. 32. 10. See hope, for the thing hoped for, Rom. 8, 24. Col. 1. 5.

iniquity] Every wicked and ungodly man; as pride, for the proud man, Jer. 13. 9. and on the contrary, righteouſneſſe, for righteous men, 2 Pet. 3. 13. Ungodly men, who are unjuſt and unequall in all their ways, and oppreſſe the poor, Pſal. 71. verſ. 4.

ſtoppeth her mouth] Shuts it, and ſpeaks not proud and high words, as formerly. They ſhall bluſh, and be confounded, wonder and be aſtoniſhed, when they ſhall ſee poor men, whom they thought none could deliver out of their hands, ſtrangely delivered, and taken away from them, and ſhall not dare to murmure againſt God, having nothing to ſay againſt the juſtice of his proceedings; and therefore he doth not ſay that God ſtops their mouth, but themſelves, Pſal. 107. 42. Mic. 7. 16. Jer. 8. 14.

V. 17. Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth: therefore deſpiſe not thou the chaſtening of the Almighty] Here Eliphaz proceeds to another argument, to move Job to ſubmit to Gods hand, and acknowledge his ſin, in regard of thoſe deliverances that God gives to ſuch, as make a good uſe of afflictions.

Behold] A note of attention, and admiration, that men in trouble ſhould be happy, contrary to the judgement of the world, that counts them miſerable. See on chap. 1. 12.

Happy is] Heb. The bleſſedneſſes of the man. They conſiſt in theſe deliverances and favours that follow. So Prov. 3. 11, 12. Jam. 1. 12. Heb. 12. 5. 6. Rev. 3. 19. Yet thoſe places ſeem to ſpeak of thoſe croſſes, whereby good men are tried; but this of ſuch troubles, as bring wicked men home to God. Pſal. 94. 12, 13.

The man] The word ſignifies ſorrowful, or miſerable man, according to the Original of it. He is miſerable by Nature, and in himſelf; but made happy by Gods grace.

whom God corrects] Sometimes the word ſignifies reproving, which is a verball correction; as Lev. 19. 17. But here it imports a reall correction by ſtripes and troubles, Chap 33. 16, 19. Either he means, that Gods correcting wicked men for their ſins, is a way to bring them to bleſſedneſſe, by driving them to repentance: or elſe he includes the uſe of corrections. The man, whom God by affliction, brings out of his wicked ways, ſhall be bleſſed. For Correct ſee on chap. 15. 3. on Reaſon.

therefore] Heb. and; It is a concluſion out of the former premiſes; If it be a happy thing to be afflicted, that we may be drawn from our ſinful courſes, then thou muſt not deſpiſe Gods corrections. So this particle is uſed as a word of inference, Chap. 21. 14. Dan. 9. 11.

deſpiſe not thou] Prov. 3. 11, 12. Heb. 12. 5, 6. Do not ſet light by it, or contemn it, as a thing of no uſe, Numb. 11. 20. Pſal. 53. 6. & 118. 22. Iſa. 8. 6. & 30. 12. but make great account of it, as of an excellent means of happineſſe, Pſal. 51. 17.

the chaſtening] It is not the Sword to cut off, but the Rod to correct: therefore deſpiſe it not.

Almighty] Or, All-ſufficient, Gen. 17. 1. who is able to turn afflictions to our good, and ſufficient to himſelf, and to all creatures without the help of any of them, Chap. 6. 4.

V. 18. For he maketh ſore, and bindeth up: he woundeth, and his hands make whole] He giveth a reaſon, why Gods corrections ſhould be highly eſteemed; becauſe, though they ſeem hurtful, yet they are for our good: and ſo it may be tranſlated, Though he maketh ſore, yet he bindeth up. For the comfort is not in ſmiting, but in healing. So is this particle uſed, ver. 5, 6. Dan. 9. 9. and the other it tranſlated, yet, Dan. 9. 13.

He maketh ſore] Or, Though he make ſore, yet his hands, &c. as before. So Though, is added out of the former branch, Job 16. 6. Hoſ. 6. 1. A ſimilitude taken from a Chyrurgion, who though he could forbear making an inciſion; yet doth it for the healing of the Patient, and afterward cures the wound. So doth God wound our bodies, to heal our ſouls, and then heales our bodily wounds alſo.

bindeth up] As a skilfull Chyrurgion carefully binds up a wound; as a broken arm or leg, to heal it, Iſa. 30. 26. Ezek. 34. 4. Pſal. 147. 3. The word חבש is uſed. 1. For binding on ornaments. Exod. 29. 9. 2. For binding on plaiſters. Ezek. 34. 16. 3. For keeping back, as it were by a band. Job 28. 11. 4. For ſadling or binding horſe-trappings, Gen 22. 3. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe for binding on plaiſters to heal.

he woundeth] Deut. 32. 39. Heb. ſmiteth. He ſtrikes hard, ſo that he makes a wound. Wounding is more, then making ſore; and making whole, is more then binding up; Pſal. 68. 21.

his hands] He goes on with the ſimilitude of a Chyrurgion; who makes his plaiſters, and layes them on with his hands; and ſo may be ſaid to heal with them. For Hand ſee on chap. 15. 23.

make whole] Do not only give eaſe, but perfect the cure.

V. 19. He ſhall deliver thee in ſix troubles; yea, in ſeven there ſhall no evill touch thee] Now he deſcribes the bleſſedneſſe aforeſaid, by particular deliverances out of ſundry troubles.

He ſhall deliver thee] He ſhall ſnatch thee out of the enemies hands, or out of danger.

in ſix] In many troubles: a certain number, for an uncertain; according to the uſual phraſe of Scripture, Amos 1. 3. Luke 17. 4. Iſa. 4. 1. 1 Sam. 2. 5. Jer. 15. 9. Prov. 30 15, 18. & 6. 16. & 24. 16. Others underſtand it of the particular dangers enumerated afterwards. Famine, War, Slander, Deſtruction by other means, wild Beaſt, ſtones of the field, tame Beaſts: ſeven in all. Some take it for deliverance out of them. They might come on him, but not deſtroy him; becauſe he ſaith in ſix, not from ſix, 1 Cor. 10. 3. Others take it for keeping him from thoſe troubles that fell on other men, Pſal. 91. 7. Rev. 3. 10. 2 Pet. 2. 7. Neither could they be delivered out of deſtruction, which is one of the kinds mentioned, but muſt be kept from it. For there is no help for them that are deſtroyed: and it follows, No evill ſhall touch thee.

Troubles] The word ſignifies ſtraights. A ſimilitude from a man, whoſe body girt too ſtrait, puts him to much anguiſh and pain, 2 Sam. 24. 15.

yea] Heb. and, So it is tranſlated, Prov. 6. 16. and 30. 18.

in ſeven] If a ſeventh trouble come, he will keep thee out of that alſo. He will not only free thee from many, but from all troubles, Pſal. 91. 3. & 34. 19. & 18. title.

Touch thee] It ſhall not hurt thee. See Chap. 11. 1. Pſal. 105. 15. Or, It ſhall not ſo much as lay hold on thee; but thou ſhalt be free, when others are oppreſt with famine, &c. Pſal. 91. 10.

V. 20. In famine he ſhall redeem thee from death; and in war from the power of the ſword] He comes from the general, to particulars, to aſſure the truth of it.

In famine] A ſore judgement, Ezek 6. 11. Jer. 24. 10. and the firſt great evill here mentioned. In time of famine, when it falleth on others, thou ſhalt have food enough, Pſal. 33 10. & 34. 19. & 37. 19. Famine ariſeth ordinarily from the barrenneſſe of the earth, or too much, or too little rain, or from war, which hinders ſowing, and carries away the crop from the Owners.

Redeem thee] Make a difference between thee, and others, Exod 8. 22, 23. Thou ſhalt be free from the wants; that others feel in famine; as a captive redeemed with a price, is free from thoſe bonds, that others feel. Or, reſcue, in general; as Pſal. 107. 2.

from death] Thou ſhalt not ſtarve, as others do.

In war] In time of war. This is the ſecond trouble: War and Famine often go together, Jer. 18. 21. For in War, proviſions are waſted, and ſowing is neglected. It comes from a word that ſignifies to eat, for the ſword devoures, 2 Sam. 11 25. Jer. 2. 12. & 46. 10, 14.

from the power] Heb. From the hands. For as mens ſtrength is ſhewed by their hands; ſo alſo, what we have in our hands, is in our power, Jer. 18. 11, Pſal. 63. 11. So, Pſal. 49. 15. Hoſ. 13. 14. 1 Sam. 17. 37. Pſal. 22. 20.

of the ſword] It ſhall have no power to kill thee, as it doth others.

V. 21. Thou ſhalt be hid from the ſcourge of the tongue; neither ſhalt thou be afraid of deſtruction when it cometh] He proceeds to the third and fourth troubles, ſlander, and violent death.

Thou ſhalt be hid] When ungodly men accuſe others, they ſhall forget to accuſe thee. Or, Thou ſhalt be as ſafe, as if thou wert in an hidden place, where none could find thee. God ſhall protect thee, ſo that a lying tongue ſhall not hurt thee, Pſal. 31. 20.

from] Heb. in, Or, when the tongue ſcourgeth. When it ſcourgeth other men.

the ſcourge] From ſlanders and reproaches, by which other mens credit is wounded, as the body is by ſcourging, Prov. 14. 3. of the tongue] From thence comes a word in the Originall, that ſignifies to ſlander, Pſal. 101. 5. and to accuſe, Prov. 30. 10. For Tongue ſee on chap. 15. 5.

ſhalt thou be afraid] So as to diſtract thee, or make thee deſpair, or give over looking after means of deliverance, Heb. 11. 7. Exod. 9. 20. Iſa. 7. 2. Jer. 20. 3. Or, Thou ſhalt not be in any danger at all, ſo much as to fear any hurt.

of deſtruction] By theeves or robbers breaking in, and killing others, or of any violent death.

when it cometh] Upon others. God will keep thee, that thou ſhalt not be deſtroyed, when thy neighbours are; as he did Noah and Lot. And if not afraid when it cometh, much leſſe before, at the rumour of it, Matth. 24 6. Luke 21. 9. For Come ſee on chap. 15. 21.

V. 22. At deſtruction and famine thou ſhalt laugh: neither ſhalt thou be afraid of the beaſts of the earth] He repeats two of the former troubles, as being moſt terrible, yet with a phraſe that imports a greater freedom from the fear of them; and then goes to the fift trouble. For thoſe that would make theſe diſtinct calamities from the former, bring in needleſſe ſubtilties, which the text affords not.

At deſtruction] See on verſ. 21.

and famine] See on verſ. 20.

thou ſhalt laugh] An higher priviledge then redemption from the one, ver. 20. or not fearing the other, verſ. 21. Thou ſhalt be ſo far from that, that thou ſhalt laugh at them. It is not a laughter of deriſion of Gods judgements, but of joy, that God preſerves us, when he deſtroyes others. Yet emphatically expreſſed, to ſhew the great ſafety and confidence of Gods people; as if a Souldier ſhould ſee the bullets kill many by him, and ſtand it out fearleſſe and joyfull, perſwading himſelf they ſhall not hurt him. Or like one contemning and laughing at his enemies preparations, or not thinking them worthy to be regarded. Or one in a dry houſe ſmiling in a great ſtorm, that makes others without doors mourn, Chap. 39. 7. 21, 22, 25. Pſal. 2. 4. & 37. 13. Prov. 31, 21, 25. Hab. 1. 10.

ſhalt thou be afraid] See on verſ. 21. Iſa. 11. 6 7 8, 9.

of the beaſts of the earth] This is the fift trouble from which a penitent ſinner ſhall be free. Beaſts of the earth, may include all beaſts, as made of the earth, and living on the earth. But being here diſtinguiſhed from the beaſts of the field, ver. 23. it may be taken for wild beaſts, as it ſeems to be, Deut. 28. 26. Jer. 7. 33. for ſuch uſe to eat mans fleſh. Wolves nor Lions ſhall not hurt thy flock nor thee, Pſal. 91 13. 1 Sam. 17. 34, 35, 36 Theſe may well be called beaſts of the earth, becauſe they range all the world over to ſeek for prey; whereas tame beaſts are kept in paſtures, and may therefore be called beaſts of the field. For Earth. See on chap. 9. 24.

V. 23. For thou ſhalt be in league with the ſtones of the field; and the beaſts of the field ſhall be at peace with thee] The ſixth and ſeventh troubles are here mentioned, which might ariſe from ſtones and tame beaſts.

For] Or, Surely. As this particle is tranſlated, Chap. 8. 6. & 20. 20. For it is a new deliverance, and not a reaſon of the former. Leſt he ſhould think, the wild beaſts are far off, and I need not much fear them, but I may be hurt by ſtones, and tame beaſts, He ſaith, Surely, theſe ſhall not hurt thee neither.

thou ſhalt be in league] Thou ſhalt not need to fear hurt from the ſtones, no more then men do from ſuch as are at league with them, though they be ſtronger then they. See this phraſe, Iſa. 28. 15. Hoſ. 2. 18. Ezek. 34. 25.

with the ſtones of the field] Thou ſhalt not be hurt by ſtumbling at them, Pſal. 91. 12 nor by going barefoot on them, as many did at that time in thoſe ſtony Countries. Much leſſe ſhalt thou be ſlain by them, as Abimelech was, Judg. 9. 53. & Goliah, 1 Sam. 17 49 and many malefactors under the Law ſtoned, Lev. 20. 2. & 24. 14 16, 23. For Stones, ſee on chap. 14. 19.

the beaſts of the field] The tame beaſts that uſe to graze in the field. See on verſ. 22. Such creatures though made to ſerve man, and not ſo wild as others, yet by reaſon of mans ſin, do oft forget their duty, and do him hurt. Some have been ſlain by horſes, bulls, dogs. Mens corn and vineyards have been much hurt by them. But they ſhall not hurt thee.

ſhall be at peace with thee] Carry themſelves peaceably to thee, and do thee no harm, although ſome of them want not ſtrength to do it, and do hurt evill men. Or, ſhall be made to be at peace with thee. For ſo much the word in that conjugation it is in the Original, may import. Although by mans ſin, they be in ſome ſort ſet at liberty, yet they ſhall be ſo overruled by Gods providence, that they ſhall do thee no harm at all.

V. 24 And thou ſhalt know, that thy Tabernacle ſhall be in peace, and thou ſhalt viſit thy habitation, and ſhalt not ſin] Freedom from evils went before; now follow promiſes of good. A comfortable life, in this verſe; a numerous poſterity, verſ. 25. A long life and happy death, verſ. 26.

thou ſhalt know] By ſenſe and experience. Thou ſhalt finde it ſo indeed to thy comfort, Eccl. 8. 5. ſhall feel no evill. Heb. know. See in the margine there, 2 Cor. 5. 21. Phil. 3. 10. Numb. 14. 34.

Thy Tabernacle] It is called a Tabernacle, becauſe they dwelt commonly in tents fit for removing, according as they needed paſture for their cattel, and the heat of that country was ſo great, that men could endure ſuch dwellings. Or, becauſe men dwelt in Tents at firſt, before they had art to build houſes, and therefore their houſes afterwards were called Tabernacles, Chap. 8. 22. Pſal. 84. verſ. 1. with verſ. 4. & 78. 51. & 67. Herein is included his houſe, houſhold, and houſholdſtuffe.

in peace] Thy family ſhall live peaceably with thee, and one with another. Or. All thine ſhall be ſafe, and all thou haſt ſhall proſper. So the word is taken, Gen. 29. 6. Is he well. Heb. Is peace to him. See the margine there. 1 Sam. 25. 6. 2 Sam. 20. 9. Iſa. 42. 3, & 32. 17, 18. Or, That peace is thy Tabernacle, Thou ſhalt as it were dwell in peace.

thou ſhalt viſit thy habitation] The word viſiting, is taken ſometimes for taking eſpecial care of one, and beſtowing ſome ſpeciall favour on him; as Gen. 21, 1. Ruth 1. 6. Pſal. 8. 4 & 80. 14. Sometimes for puniſhing men for their ſins, Exod. 32. 34. Pſal. 59. 5. But here it is looking into the ſtate of his family, requiring an account of his children and ſervants, (as maſters of families uſe to do) how they have carried themſelves, and how all things commited to them proſper, Pſal. 17. 3. Job 31. 14. as a ſhepherd viſits his flock, Prov. 27. 23. Zech. 10. 3 Such a viſit Paul gave the brethren, Act. 15. 36. And God viſited Sodome, Gen. 18. 20, 21.

ſhalt not ſin] Or, ſhalt not erre, or, miſſe. See Judg. 20. 16. Thou ſhalt not be deceived of thy expectation, but ſhalt find things, as thou thinkeſt, and as thou wouldeſt have it, and that thine have been faithfull, and thy affaires proſperous.

V. 25. Thou ſhalt know alſo, that thy ſeed ſhall be great, and thine off-ſpring as the graſſe of the earth] From preſent bleſſings in his life, he proceeds to bleſſings that would laſt after his death alſo. Thou ſhalt know. By experience. Thou ſhalt live to ſee thy childrens children, and leave a great poſterity behind thee, Pſal. 128. 6. Gen. 50. 23. See on ver. 24.

alſo] Thou ſhalt have more bleſſings then one, Pſalm 128.

thy ſeed] Thy Children that come immediately out of thee. They are called ſeed, becauſe they come of the parents ſeed. Thou haſt loſt many children, thou ſhalt have many again, if thou be reconciled to God, Chap. 21. 8. & 27. 14. Iſa. 48. 19. For Seed ſee on chap. 39. 12.

great] Come to great preferment. Or, much. Thou ſhalt have many children.

thine off-ſpring] The Hebrew word ſignifies twigs, or ſprouts; for poſterity ſprings from predeceſſours, as branches from trees, or vines, Pſal. 128. 2, 3. Hereby are meant childrens children, and all their poſterity, except their own immediate ſons and daughters, which are ſet down before under the name of ſeed, Chap. 21. 8. & 27. 14. Iſa. 22 24. & 48. 19.

as the graſſe of the earth] A numerous poſterity is ſet out ſometimes by the graſſe, that covers all the field, and which no man can number. Thou ſhalt have a large poſterity, which ſhall dwell here and there, and fill the earth like graſſe, Pſal. 45. 16. & 72. 16. This is ſet out ſometimes alſo by the ſand of the Sea, Gen. 15. 5. & 22. 17. Iſa. 48. 19.

V. 26. Thou ſhalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a ſhock of corn cometh in, in his ſeaſon] From bleſſings in life, he comes to ſet out his bleſſed death at length, after the ſight of his childrens children.

thou ſhalt come] Or, thou ſhalt go. So the word ſignifies, Jon. 1. 3. Gen. 10. 19. & 25 18. For Come ſee on chap. 15. 21.

to thy grave] Heb. to the grave. See on Chap. 7. 9. Thou ſhalt die in peace, 1 King. 14. 12, 13. Job 21. 32.

in a full age] Not taken away by a violent death before thy naturall ſtrength be ſpent, Gen. 25. 8.

as a ſhock of corn] As the corn ſtands out againſt all ſtorms of wind and rain, and at laſt is made up into ſhocks.

cometh in] Heb. aſcendeth, Pſal. 102. 24. For the corn cut off the earth, is firſt ſet up in ſhocks, and then carried into the barn. For Aſcend ſee on chap. 20. 6.

in his ſeaſon] When it is full ripe, and not before, as wicked men are taken away in their ſins, Pſal. 129. 6, 7. & 102. 24. Iſa. 38. 10.

V. 27. Lo this, we have ſearched it, ſo it is, heare it, and know thou it for thy good] He began with a fair preface, to win Job to hearken to his counſell, and now concludes with a fair hortatory perſwaſion to the ſame purpoſe.

Loe this] See on chap. 1 12.

we] He calls his friends to witneſſe the truth of what he had ſaid, who by their preſent ſilence, and future ſpeeches ſuitable to his, do confirm it. My friends here know it as well as I. So he began in the plurall number, Chap. 4. 2.

have ſearched it] We have carefully enquired into Gods providence, and found it to be ſo, Deut. 13. 14. Judg. 18. 2. As Judges; or Spies; ſo far were we from taking it up by tradition from our parents, or upon truſt from other men, that we did not believe it, till we had found the truth of it out our ſelves.

ſo it is] Or, it is right. Thus this word is tranſlated, Num. 27. 7. and ſhould be ſo, Eccl. 8. 10. See notes there. We find it true, That good men periſh not by Gods Judgements, none but bad men do. If ill men flouriſh awhile, yet they and their poſterity are ſoon cut off: but if they be patient and repent, they ſhall flouriſh afterwards in the world. We are ſure this is right.

hear it] We have done our part in acquainting thee with Gods proceedings, we can do no more, thy part remains to be ſo perſwaded, and to make a good uſe of what we have ſaid. Job had heard all this already with his bodily ear, but now he is exhorted to hear it with his mind, by believing it, Joh. 9. 27. with Joh. 3. 12. and yeelding and conſenting to it, Gen. 3. 17. and by obeying it, Iſa. 55. 3. Pſal. 81. 11, 13. For Hear ſee on chap. 13. 17.

know thou it] Or, do thou thy ſelf know it. See on verſ. 8. Regard not what others do, but do thou take notice of it, and apply it to thy ſelf.

for thy good] Heb. for thy ſelf. For things that men learn for themſelves, are for their own good; as ſick men learn medicines for their own diſeaſes; and young Gentlemen ſtudy law, not to practiſe it, but to preſerve their own eſtates. Prov. 9. 12. Job 19 27. Pſal. 49. 18. Repent, that thou mayeſt be free from this trouble, and flouriſh more then before.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. BUt Job anſwered, and ſaid,] Now followes Jobs anſwer to Eliphaz, in the ſixth and ſeventh Chapters.

But] Heb. And. Though Eliphaz concluded, Chap. 4. 27. with that which he thought unanſwerable, yet Job found ſomewhat to ſay againſt it. So this particle is uſed, Prov. 20. 5, 6. Or, Then; as Chap. 4. 1. & 8. 1. & 9. 1. & 15. 1. & 16. 1. See on Chap. 1. 11. when Eliphaz had done ſpeaking, Job anſwered him, in theſe words following. Chap 32. 4. 5.

Job anſwered] To anſwer, is taken properly here: he anſwers to Eliphaz his charge and objections. and ſaid] Spake the words following. See on Chap. 3. 2. For all the words in this ver. ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

V. 2. O that my grief were throughly weighed, and my calamity laid in the ballances together] Whereas Eliphaz accuſed him of impatience, he anſwers, that it ought to be imputed to the greatneſſe of his grief, which was more then he could bear; and to Eliphaz his harſhneſſe, who inſtead of comforting him, had condemned him for an hypocrite. Oh that. For לו ſee on Chap 16. 4.

my grief] My inward hearty ſorrow, ariſing from my calamity. So the word is uſed, Chap. 17. 7. Or, my wrath. So Eliphaz himſel uſeth the ſame word. Chap. 5. 2. whence that variety of reading, Eccl. 7. 3. & 11. 10. Thou thinkeſt I complain too angerly, but I am not ſo angry as I have cauſe.

were throughly weighed] Heb. were weighed by weighing. From the Hebrew word here uſed, comes our Engliſh word ſcales, and the ſhekel, for monies were weighed then. See Chap. 28. 15. By a metaphor it ſignifies conſidering throughly of a thing in the minde, as men weigh gold, even to a grain. As if he had ſaid, It is an eaſie thing to ſlight what men do not underſtand: Ye have but gueſſed at my ſorrows, and not well conſidered of them, elſe would ye not have cenſured me ſo deeply.

my calamity] My outward troubles, the cauſe of my inward ſorrow, Chap. 30. 13. Prov. 19. 13. The word הוה or הוות, as it is written in other places, and ſeems by the Maſorites note over it, ſhould be here, ſignifies. 1. Subſtance, Prov. 10. 3. 2. Miſchief, Mic. 7. 3. 3. Calamity, Chap. 30. 13. So here.

laid] Heb. lifted up. For ballances are lifted from the ground, when things are weighed in them. For Lifted up, ſee on Chap. 21. 3. on Suffer.

together] As things to be weighed are put in the ballance together. Thou complaineſt of my impatience, and leſſeneſt my trouble, eſteeming it but a light touch, Chap. 4. 5. but I wiſh my trouble and grief conceived thereby, were accurately laid the one againſt the other, to try whether I grieve more then I have cauſe, or no. It would appear, that my complaint is leſſe then the cauſe thereof. Or my trouble without, and ſorrow within, laid in one ballance, would be heavier then the ſand of the Sea laid in the other. So men of high degree and low, laid both together in one ballance, are lighter then vanity it ſelf laid in the other, Pſal. 62. 9. See on Chap. 34. 29. for Together on the word Only.

V. 3. For now it would be heavier then the ſand of the Sea, therefore my words are ſwallowed up] Thou that accounteſt my grief lighter then a feather, wouldſt, if it had its juſt weight with thee, find it exceeding heavy.

heavier then the ſand] And therefore inſupportable; and no wonder then if I complain. In Scripture phraſe, the ſand ſometimes ſets out a multitude, Gen. 22. 17. Pſal. 78. 27. And otherwhile it intimates the large extent of a thing, ſo that it cannot be meaſured, as Jer. 33. 22. for the ſand is wider then the Sea, and bounds it; 1 Kings 4. 29. It alſo ſets out the weight of a thing, to wit, that it is moſt heavy; for who is able to weigh the ſand of the Sea, Prov. 27. 3? So here, but in a figurative ſenſe, it imports that which troubles the mind, as an heavy weight afflicts the body.

of the Sea] Heb. of the Seas. The ſand of the Sea is heavier then that of rivers, or which is digged out of the earth. Yet to make his ſorrows ſeem the more grievous, he counts it heavier then the ſand of all the Seas ſhovelled up together. It is no wonder to hear a man groan, that hath a burden on him heavier then the ſand of all the Seas. For Sea, ſee on Chap. 14. 11.

my words are ſwallowed up] So the word ſignifies, Obad. ver. 16. Prov. 20. 25. I cannot pronounce my words diſtinctly, but they ſeem to be ſwallowed down, and my grief makes my voice to fail. Or I want words to expreſſe the greatneſſe of my grief, which is inutterable. I could ſay much more for my ſelf, if grief did not hinder me.

V. 4. For the arrowes of the Almighty are within me, the poyſon whereof drinketh up my ſpirit; the terrours of God do ſet themſelves in array againſt me] No marvel if I complain ſo much, for my afflictions are not ordinary, but like poyſoned arrows ſhot from an almighty hand, or like an army ſtanding in battel array before me, to fright and deſtroy me.

the arrows] The word in the Original is derived from a verb that ſignifies to cut; (and not much unlike our Engliſh word in ſound) for arrows cut where they enter, Pſal. 58. 7. Arrows in Scripture, are figuratively taken for bitter words, Pſal. 64. 3, 4. or for miſchievous purpoſes intended to the hurt of others, Pſal. 11. 2. Or for Divine chaſtiſments, or Judgements, Ezek. 5. 16. Pſal. 91. 5. & 144. 6. 2 Sam. 22. 15. Deut. 32. 23, 42. Or for afflictions outward and inward, as here, and Pſal. 38. 2. Theſe are fitly compared to arrows, which are ſwift, ſecret, ſharp, killing inſtruments.

of the Almighty] See on Chap. 5. 17. They are called arrows of the Almighty, becauſe God, who ſends them ſhews his Almighty power in driving them to the head, yea to the feathers, in the ſoul, which none elſe can do.

are within me] They do not onely hit me, but alſo enter into me, and ſtick ſo faſt, that no fleſh can pull them out. His meaning is, that no man could take away his trouble and ſorrow.

the poyſon whereof] The word ſignifies heat and anger, which proceeds from heat, and breathes fire, Acts 9. 1. Iſa. 42. 25. Thence it ſignifies poyſon, becauſe it heats and burnes. He aggravates his ſorrows, by comparing them to poyſoned arrows, ſuch as the Perſians uſed in war, that they might kill certainly and ſpeedily.

drinketh up my ſpirit] Dryes up my ſpirits, or devours them, as men do drink. My calamity goes to my heart, grieves me to the ſoul, and ſucks out my vital ſpirits. Poyſoned arrows dry up the ſpirits with their burning heat, and corrupt the blood, in which the ſpirits are. Gods great anger againſt Job is hereby ſet out, which had wel nigh brought him to the grave. For Spirit, ſee on Chap. 15. 2. on Vaine.

the terrours] Terrible things preſent themſelves to my imagination, and threaten further miſchief to me, though I be very low already. Or, My preſent troubles are terrible to me. And then what he called arrows before, now he calls terrours, from an effect; for Judgements terrifie men. Or, He may intend, that God did fright him within in an extraordinary manner, which made his outward troubles the more heavy. Job 7. 14. & 9. 34.

of God] Sent from God, Gen. 35. 5. Pſal. 88. 15. 2 Cor. 5. 11. God terrifies the ſoul, either immediately, or by outward afflictions, Lev. 26. 16. Deut. 32. 25. Joſh. 2. 9.

Do ſet themſelves in array againſt me] God ſhews that he fights againſt me, in that he hath ſet ſo many terrible things like ſouldiers in battel array againſt me, all ready to deſtroy me; Jer. 50. 9. Joel 2. 5. 1 Sam. 17. 21. So men order their ſpeeches in diſputation, Chap. 32. 14. and in prayer, Pſal. 5. 3. They ſpeak methodically and exactly; as ſouldiers are placed for the battel, ſo do they place their words. The word ערך is uſed. 1. For ſetting the ſacrifices in order, Levit. 6. 12. 2. To ſet ſouldiers in order for a battel, Jer. 50. 9. 3. To furniſh a table, or to ſet diſhes of meat in order on it, Prov. 9. 2. 4. To ſet words in order in a prayer, Pſal 5. 3. 5. To ſet arguments in order in a diſputation, Chap. 32. 14. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, for ſetting afflictions in array like ſouldiers to deſtroy men.

V. 5. Doth the wild aſſe bray when he hath graſſe? or loweth the oxe over his fodder?] I do not complain without a cauſe, for then ſhould I be worſe then the bruit beaſts, who will not cry out, when they have what they deſire.

Doth the wild aſſe] The Hebrew word פרא is anſwerable in letters, to the Latine word Fera, wild beaſts.

bray] Uſe to bray, Job 30. 7.

when he hath graſſe] Heb. over the graſſe; as the ſame word is tranſlated in the end of the verſe: When he wants graſſe, then he doth bray, Jerem. 14. 6. So may I complain, when I have cauſe.

or loweth the oxe] The former inſtance was taken from wild beaſts, this from tame. Neither complain without a cauſe, and then tame beaſts will complain, as well as wild. This is added, leaſt they ſhould object, that Job ſought to juſtifie his wild complaints, by the courſes of wild beaſts.

over his fodder] The word ſignifies mixt food: and ſuch do we give cattel at this day, Iſai. 30. 24.

V. 6. Can that which is unſavoury be eaten without ſalt? or is there any taſte in the white of an egge?] Nature will complain though it have meat, if it want ſavour or ſauce, much more if it be extreme bitter. Then ſhould I be ſenſleſſe, if I ſhould not complain of theſe ſharp afflictions, Heb. 12. 11. Others conceive, that he ſtrikes at Eliphaz his words, and intends that he could finde no ſavour of right reaſon in them, Lam. 2. 14.

Can] Do men uſe to eat unſavoury things without ſalt? Or, Do they take any pleaſure in doing ſo? For it is not impoſſible to do it.

that which is unſavoury] See on Chap. 1. 22.

be eaten without ſalt] Or, Can that which is unſavoury, for want of ſalt be eaten? If meat be putrified for want of ſeaſoning, can men take any delight in eating of it?

Is there any taſte in the white of an egge?] Of it ſelf it hath no pleaſing taſte. Or, it delights not the palate, if it be eaten without ſalt; as before in this verſe. Yet I am forced to bear heavy afflictions, and hear fooliſh words: and do ye wonder then that I complain ſo much? The Heb. word טעם ſignifies. 1. The taſte of a thing, Exod. 16. 31. 2. Behaviour, Pſal. 34. in the title. 3. Adviſe, 1 Sam. 25. 33. 4. A Decree, Jon. 3. 7. 5. Judgement, Pſal. 119. 66. 6. Diſcretion, Prov. 11. 22. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe For Taſte. The word ריר ſignifies. 1. Spittle, 1 Sam. 21. 13. 2. The white of an egge: As here.

V. 7. The things that my ſoul refuſed to touch, are as my ſorrowful meat] Here is the application of the two ſimilitudes in the former verſe. As it is a trouble to a man to be forced to eat ſuch things as he would be loath to touch, and he cannot eat them without ſorrow; ſo it is a great grief to me to be forced to bear ſo great troubles, and hear ſuch bitter words, and yet I may not complain. Or the words may be taken literally, as a farther aggravation of his ſorrows. As if he had ſaid, Beſides my pain and loſe, which is very great, I am forced with an heavy heart, for want of better proviſion, to eat ſordid things; ſuch as I would have thought ſoul ſcorn to have touched in the dayes of my proſperity.

my ſoul refuſed to touch] Inward and hearty diſlike of them, would not ſuffer my hand to touch them, much leſſe my mouth to taſte of them. For the ſoul cannot touch any thing. Not to touch a thing, noteth the greateſt averſation, Gen. 3. 3. For Soul, ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

are as my ſorrowfull meat] It may be an alluſion to mourners, and men in a ſad condition, who uſed to eat courſe and polluted food, Pſal. 102. 9. & 127. 2. Hoſ. 9. 4. Ezek. 4. 13. and 24. 17. For Meat, ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

V. 8. O that I might have my requeſt, and that God would grant me the thing that I long for!] In this verſe, Job ſets out more plainly his deſire of death, which he intimated, Chap. 3. 21. and by repeating it, ſhews his longing for it.

O that] Heb. who will give. The Hebrews manner of wiſhing: whereby they intimate the deſire of having the thing wiſhed for to be ſo ſtrong in them, that they would be glad to take it of any one that would give it. See Num. 11. 29. Deut. 5. 29. Exod. 16. 3. Job 11. 5. & 13. 5. & 14. 13. & 19. 23. & 23. 3. Pſal. 14. 7. For Give, ſee on Chap. 14. 4. on Bring.

I might have my requeſt] I might obtain that which I ask, and deſire importunately. From this word in the Original, comes שאול, the grave, one of the things that are never ſatisfied, Prov. 30. 15, 16. Heb. That my requeſt might come. For Come, ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

that God would grant me] Heb. give me. Yet it is well tranſlated granting, becauſe it was a thing much deſired by Job. But a thing may be given, that is not asked.

the thing that I long for] Heb. my hope. Or, my expectation, Chap. 4. 6. & 5. 16. Longing is a vehement deſire of a thing, ſo that a man cannot be ſatisfied without it, Chap. 3. 21. 2 Sam. 23. 15.

V. 9. Even that it would pleaſe God to deſtroy me, that he would let looſe his hand, and cut me off] In vain doſt thou, O Eliphaz, exhort me to hope for reſtitution (Chap. 5. 24.) for my ſtate is altogether deplorable, and I long for nothing more, then for diſſolution.

O that it would pleaſe God] He ſeems to take delight in my afflictions; would he would kill me outright. The word יאל ſignifies. 1. To be content, Joſh. 7. 7. 2. To be willing, Joſh 17. 12. 3. To aſſay, 1 Sam. 17. 39. 4. To begin, Deut. 1. 5. 5. Adjure, or make to ſwear, 1 Sam. 14. 24. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, for being willing or pleaſing.

to deſtroy me] To beat me to pieces, as herbs are beaten to powder, or mothes cruſhed, Chap. 4. 19. & 22. 9. Pſal. 143. 3. Iſai. 57. 15. Pſal. 71. 17. The deſtruction here meant is death, Pſal. 90. 3.

that he would let looſe his hand] It now ſeems tied, becauſe he doth not put it out far enough to make an end of me. A metaphor from a man whoſe hands are bound, ſo that he can do nothing till they be looſed. He deſires, that God would ſhew his great power in deſtroying him. For Hand, ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

and cut me off] As trees are cut off, and then die. Or, finiſh my life, and make an end of it. So the word is uſed, Iſai. 10. 12. Zech. 4. 9. Lam. 2. 17. His wealth and health were taken away before, now he wiſheth, that God would take away his life alſo, and finiſh his dayes, before the time that he might live to, in the courſe of nature: which the Jews call the killing or cutting off, when a man is taken away before he be fifty years old. The word בצע ſignifies. 1. To cut off, Am. 9. 1. 2. To be covetous, or greedy of gain, Prov. 15. 27. Here in the firſt ſenſe.

V. 10. Then ſhould I yet have comfort, yea, I would harden my ſelf in ſorrow: let him not ſpare, for I have not concealed the words of the Holy One] Or; For it ſhould yet be my comfort, (and I would ſtrengthen me in my grief, if he would not ſpare me) that I have not concealed the words of the Holy One.

Then] If I had this ſuit granted, the hope of an end of my pains, by death, would refreſh me.

I would harden my ſelfe] I would lay aſide all fear of death.

in ſorrow] I would quietly bear the greateſt ſorrows in the world, ſo they would kill me quickly.

let him not ſpare] I am at a point: let God lay what he will on me, ſo he kill me. The word imports ſparing of thoſe whom one might deſtroy, Ezek. 5. 11.

I have not concealed the words] I have revealed them to others, for Gods glory and their good, Pſal. 40. 8, 9, 10. & 119. 13. Act. 20. 20, 27. For Conceale, ſee on Chap. 15. 18, 28.

of the Holy One] Of God: ſo called, becauſe he is perfectly holy, yea holineſſe it ſelfe, Hab. 3. 3. Iſai. 40. 25. Hoſ. 11. 9. 1 Sam. 2. 2.

V. 11. What is my ſtrength, that I ſhould hope? and what is mine end, that I ſhould prolong my life?] Ye put me in hope of a long life, but my troubles are ſo great, that I can bear them no longer: if they continue but a while, they will certainly make an end of me. And therefore as I have no hope of eſcaping, ſo have I no deſire of living any longer.

What is my ſtrength] My ſtrength of body is gone: I am ſo weak and ſpent, that I cannot expect long life. Or, my ſtrength of mind is ſo decayed, that I begin to faint already under my troubles. The word כח ſignifies. 1. Force, Jer. 48. 45. 2. Subſtance, or wealth, v. 22. of this Chap. 3. A Lyzard, Lev. 11. 30. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe, for Force, or Strength.

that I ſhould hope] Ever to get out of theſe troubles, or to ſee ſuch good dayes, as thou ſpeakeſt of, O Eliphaz, Chap. 5. 16, 25. I am too farre ſpent to look for ſuch a reſtauration.

what is mine end] My death, the end of my life. Why ſhould I be afraid of that, which will put an end to all my ſorrows? Eccl. 7. 2. Pſal. 39. 4. Or, the latter part of my life: It is not likely to be more comfortable than the former, Luk. 11. 26. 2 Sam. 19. 34. &c. Or, the end of my troubles. I am old, and am likely to ſee few good days, if my troubles were ended. And therefore the end of them is not likely to be worth my ſtaying for.

that I ſhould prolong my life] That I ſhould deſire long life. Heb. my ſoul. Why ſhould I deſire that my ſoul ſhould live any longer in this fraile body? The ſoul is often put for the life in Scripture. See on Chap. 2. 4. Or the ſoul may be put here for the deſire, as Prov. 23. 2. Pſal. 27. 12. Eccl. 6. 9. For Life, ſee on Chap. 14. 22. on Soul.

V. 12. Is my ſtrength the ſtrength of ſtones? or is my fleſh of braſs?] He goes on to illuſtrate what he mentioned in the beginning of the former verſe: Think ye that I am made of ſo hard metal, that I can endure any thing? No, I am not made of ſtone or braſſe, that can bear blows, and never feel pain, or complain; but of fleſh and blood, as ye are, and cannot hold out long under theſe troubles, nor forbear complaining.

the ſtrength of ſtones] Equal to the ſtrength of ſtones. The note of ſimilitude is omitted; as Pſal. 11. 1. Chap. 7. 9, 12. For Stones, ſee on Chap. 14. 19. Fleſh, ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

of braſſe.] Heb. braſen.

V. 13. Is not my help in me? and is wiſdom driven quite from me?] Or, What if my help be not in me; is wiſdom therefore driven quite from me? The Chaldee paraphraſe reads it thus: Becauſe there is no help in me, is wiſdom alſo driven quite from me? Do ye count me a fool, becauſe I cannot rid my ſelf out of thoſe great troubles? ye ſhould rather pity me; as verſe 14.

Help] To deliver me out of theſe troubles. He had no ſtrength left to bear his troubles any longer, ver. 12. nor to help him out of them in this verſe.

And is wiſdom?] Or, is wiſdom therefore? So this particle is tranſlated, Dan. 9. 11. By wiſdom, he means ability, to ſpeak for himſelf, and maintain his juſt cauſe. For Wiſdom, ſee on Chap. 26. 3. on The thing as it is.

driven quite from me] Expelled out of me by my troubles: a ſimilitude taken from baniſhed men, Jer. 40. 12. & 43. 5. ye think I have loſt all my wiſdom, becauſe of my bitter complaints; but ye are deceived.

V. 14. To him that is afflicted, pity ſhould be ſhewed from his friend; but he forſaketh the fear of the Almighty] Here follows Jobs accuſing his friends of uncharitableneſſe: ye have not dealt kindly with me, as ye ought to do with a man in my caſe. The law of friendſhip requires, that men ſhould pity their friends in adverſity, and comfort and relieve them by all good means they can, eſpecially when they are well nigh conſumed with troubles; but my friends fear not God, and therefore regard not me in my miſeries.

afflicted] Heb. melted. Becauſe affliction diſſolves a mans ſpirit, and as it were melts his heart, Pſal. 22. 14. Joſh. 7. 5. Therefore it is compared to fire, Pſal. 66. 12. & 68. 2. Not onely affliction; but fear of afflictions alſo melt mens hearts, Joſh. 2. 11. & 5. 1. Job's heart was melted with preſent troubles, and fear of more.

pity ſhould be ſhewed] Bounty ſhould be extended to him. More then we owe him; for to pay that we owe, is but juſtice. He ſhould be commiſerated.

But he hath forſaken] That is, his friend, who doth not pity him. It is likely Job ſtrikes at Eliphaz, who had ſo much diſheartned him, Chap. 4 & 5.

the fear of, &c.] See on Chap. 1. 1. For Fear, ſee on Chap. 15. 4.

the Almighty] See on Chap. 5. 17. Or the whole verſe may be read thus; To him that is afflicted ſhould reproach be given, that he hath forſaken the fear of the Almighty? Should ye revile me becauſe of my troubles, and proclaim me a wicked man: as if I had loſt the fear of the Almighty? So the word is tranſlated reproach, Lev. 20. 17. Prov. 14. 34. So Job anſwers to Eliphaz, accuſing him of want of the fear of God, Chap. 4. 6.

V. 15. My brethren have dealt deceitfully as a brook, and as the ſtream of brooks they paſſe away] Job ſets out the deceitful dealing of his friends, by a compariſon taken from a brooke, which ſeems to promiſe much in the Winter time, and in open weather, having abundance of water in it, when there is leaſt need, and when the rain falling plentifully, might ſerve to water the earth, and refreſh trees, herbs, and travellers; but in froſty weather it is hidden; and in heat of Summer, when there is moſt need, it is dryed up, and ſuffers herbs and trees to wither, and failes the expectation of travellers. A great hurt in thoſe hot countries, where rain is more rare then elſewhere; Deut. 11. 10, 11. So did his three friends here promiſe much comfort to him in time of his proſperity; but in his miſery, though they ſeemed to come to comfort him, yet they afforded him no refreſhment. That he meant them, appears by the application of the ſimilitude, ver. 21.

My brethren] They were not of the ſame womb, or kindred, for ought appears, but are called his brethren, either by way of friendſhip, or as living in the ſame region, as profeſſing the ſame religion, 2 Sam. 1. 26. Gen. 19. 7. Rom. 10. 1. Yet it appears that ſome of his kindred failed him alſo, Chap. 19. 14. as they did David, Pſal. 38. 11. For Brethren, ſee on Chap. 19. 13.

have dealt deceitfully] Perfidiouſly, treacherouſly. They pretend to come to comfort me, Chap. 2. 11. but they adde to my ſorrows. So the word is uſed, Iſa. 21. 2. Jer. 3. 20. בגד a garment, is of the ſame root; becauſe our firſt parents had no garments, till they dealt perfidiouſly with God. Their firſt garments were a cover and a ſign thereof.

as a brook] Not a River that ariſeth from a Spring; for Rivers are ſeldome frozen, by reaſon of the ſwiftneſſe of the ſtream; and never dryed up, becauſe they are perpetually fed by Springs: but ſuch brooks as ariſe from rain, or melted ſnow; as follows, ver. 16, 17. The word נחל ſignifies 1. A Vally, Gen. 26. 17. 2. A Brook, or River, Am. 6. 14. So here. Sometimes it is uſed metaphorically: As, 1. To ſet out plenty, as there is plenty of water in a ſtream, Iſa. 30. 33. 2. Some ſudden evil carrying away all like a Flood, Pſal. 124. 4. 3. The failing of friends, as Brooks faile in Summer. So here.

as a ſtream] Ariſing from a land-flood, or ſtore of rain, which runs violently; and as it comes ſuddenly, ſo it is quickly down again, Iſa. 30. 28. The Heb. word אפיק ſignifies. 1. A ſtrong man, Chap. 12. 21. 2. A ſtrong ſtream, or river, Pſal. 126. 4. So here.

of brooks] Of ſtanding waters, which run out of their bounds, when abundance of rain comes.

they paſſe away] Either covered by Ice, under which they ſteal away unſeen, and ſo become unuſeful; or after a thaw, by a violent motion, they paſſe into a conſumption. Their motion ſpends them, whereas the motion of a River doth not waſte it; for the Spring ſtill ſupplies it; or at the fartheſt, they are dryed up in Summer. So do my friends fail me in my adverſity. For Paſſe away, ſee on Chap. 15. 19.

V. 16. which are blackiſh, by reaſon of the Ice, and wherein the ſnow is hid] The ſum of this verſe, and thoſe that follow, to the end of the 20. ver. was given in the notes on the former verſe. He ſhews here what is the deceitfulneſſe of the waters ſpoken of verſe 15. They are blackiſh, &c. And ſo deny drink to the paſſengers in Winter for Ice. Or, which being full of Ice and Snow, promiſe water to laſt all the year, when theſe are melted; but deceive men in Summer. Here is the deceit, for men look not for drink from them, when they are frozen.

blackiſh] So the word ſignifies, Jer. 4. 28. Though elſewhere it ſignifie to mourne, Pſal. 35. 14. For ſuch go in black.

by reaſon of the Ice] Or, froſt; as Gen. 31. 40. We alſo call the Froſt that freezeth hardeſt, a black froſt.

wherein] In which brooks. For the words are plural in the Original.

the ſnow is hid] The black Froſt brings ſtore of ice, which ſwallows up the ſnow, which otherwiſe being melted, would afford drink to paſſengers.

V. 17. what time they wax warm, they vaniſh: when it is hot, they are conſumed out of their place] You would think in Winter, they were laſting waters, the ſtream is ſo great; yet in Summer they fail. So do my friends pretend much kindneſſe; but fail in performance.

they] The brooks ſpoken of, ver. 15.

wax warm] When milder weather comes, and brings a thaw with it.

they vaniſh] Heb. They are cut off. Then Ice and Snow are all gone; for the warmth and change of the weather unfreezeth, and diſſipateth them.

when it is hot] Heb. In the heat thereof. When the brook is heated in Summer. Or, when the ſeaſon of the year is hot. In the midſt of Summer.

they are conſumed] Heb. extinguiſhed. Put out like the light of a candle, or quenched like fire. They have no more being. The heat dryes the brooks quite up, whoſe waters remained in part after the thaw.

out of their place] They are not where they were; yea their former being is quite ceaſed; for ſo much this phraſe imports in Scripture, Chap. 7. 10. & 8. 18. & 27. 21. Pſal. 103. 16.

V. 18. The paths of their way] One high-way may have many paths go out of it. So may a brook have many out-lets. And when the waters of theſe brooks overflow, and run out in many by-paths, they eaſily periſh in the midſt of the fields, and come to nothing; for they are not like the Rivers that run into the Sea, and return with the tide, and ſo continue, Eccl. 1. 7. For Way, ſee on Chap. 17. 9.

are turned aſide] So the word ſignifies, Ruth 3. 8. They run out of the ordinary way, and ſo decay.

they go] Heb. they aſcend. See on chap. 5. 26. Water deſcends naturally, and rain falls on the earth; but when by the heat of the Sun vapours are drawn up out of brooks, the brooks are ſoon dried up.

to nothing] As if the World were come to the old Chaos again, Gen. 1. 2.

periſh] Are clean gone, as if they had never been, Job 3. 3.

V. 19. The troopes of Tema looked, the companies of Sheba waited for them] He proves what he had ſaid before; to wit, that the brooks were dried up quite, by the failing of the expectation of travellers, who having ſeen ſtore of water there in the Winter, expected refreſhing there in the Summer; but were deceived.

the troopes] The word ſignifies paths ſometimes; as ver. 18. but here it notes out ſuch as travelled in them in companies together for fear of danger, as the Turks do in Caravans, Gen. 37. 25. Iſa. 21. 13. & 33. 8. Judg. 5. 6. Job 31. 32.

of Tema] Some conceive this place to be in Arabia the deſert, and Sheba in Arabia Fœlix. However they ſeem to be places far from the Sea, where they did traffick by land, and through deſert places, where waters were ſcant. Some ſuppoſe Tema had the name from Teman, the ſon of Eſau, Gen. 36. 11. of whom came Eliphaz, Job 2. 11. Others, more probably, from Tema, one of the ſons of Iſhmael, Gen. 25. 15. and ſo we find that the ſons of Iſhmael were Merchants, and travelled by troopes, Gen. 37. 25. This place is mentioned, Iſa. 21. 14. Now theſe troopes of Tema were either ſuch as travelled from Tema to other places, or from other places to it. Or it may be they were ſuch as went from Tema to Sheba; and the troopes of Sheba ſuch, as went from thence to Tema: They might be places of mutual traffick.

looked] To thoſe brooks for water, to quench their thirſt, and their cattels. See the word, Pſal. 34. 5.

the companies] That travelled together. The former word troopes had its name in the Original from the way, this word from walking in it.

of Sheba] See above in this verſe, and on Chap. 1. verſe 15.

waited] Till they might come thither to quench thier thirſt, hoping to find water there. For it is not likely they would make any long abode there, when once they ſaw there was no water. Or, expected; as Jer. 29. 11.

for them] For the brooks; that is, for the water in them: as the cup, for the wine in it, Jer. 49. 12. Or, For themſelves. That they might drink. They deſired drink for their cattel; but for themſelves in the firſt place, Gen. 24. 14, 18, 19. And they were more troubled to want water for themſelves, then for their cattel.

V. 20. They were confounded, becauſe they had hoped: they came thither, and were aſhamed] But ſee what followed. They finding no water there, according to their expectation, were aſhamed. See the like Jer. 14. 3.

They] The travellers mentioned verſ. 19.

were confounded] Their ſpirits were inwardly deaded, and they bluſhed outwardly.

becauſe they had hoped] To find water there, and could not. Or, becauſe they had truſted: had relyed on thoſe Brooks, and made ſure account to quench their thirſt there. Heb. becauſe he had hoped; That is, every one of the paſſengers hoped for a draught. Or, becauſe it had hoped; that is, their heart.

they came thither] Heb. to it. To the place where they had ſeen water before, and hoped to find it now. For the Hebrew particle agrees not in gender with נחל, a brook, but with מקום, a place, which is feminine, Job 20. 9. And the place is mentioned verſ. 17. as remaining when the water was gone. For Come, ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

and were aſhamed] So it is well tranſlated, becauſe it is joyned with confounded, in the ſame verſe, as alſo Pſal. 71. 24. yet ſometimes it ſignifies to dig, Gen. 26. 19, 21. And then the ſenſe is, that finding no water in the brooks, they were forced to dig Wells by the way, elſe they and their cattel might have periſhed. See the like, Exod. 7. 24. Pſal. 84. 6.

V. 21. For now ye are nothing; ye ſee my caſting down, and are afraid] In this verſe is laid down the application of the former ſimilitude.

For] He gives a reaſon, why he charged them with deceitfulneſſe ver. 15. and it is fitly brought in after the ſimilitude, that it might ſink the deeper into them. So Nathan dealt with David, 2 Sam. 12. 1, 7.

now] In this time of my adverſity. Ye ſeemed friends in proſperity, but now ye fail me.

ye are nothing] Heb. not. To me. Ye are not little, but nothing at all to me, Job 13. 4. Ye afford me no comfort at all in my miſery: For all your great ſhew of kindneſſe, it had been as good for me ye had not come, for any good I have gotten by you. Or, as the Hebrew Bibles adviſe us in the margine to read, ye are like to it; that is, to the brook forementioned. Ye afford me no more ſtreams of comfort, then it did of water to the thirſty travellers: See the like various reading in the Notes, Pſal. 100. 3. Job 13. 15. Iſa. 63. 9.

ye ſee my, &c.] Ye think God hath caſt me down for my wickedneſſe. For See, look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

caſting down] Affliction ſo called, becauſe it dejects a mans ſpirits, makes his body weaker, and his eſtate poorer. All this it did to Job.

and are afraid] Ye are afraid to come nigh me, Pſal. 38. 11. & 88. 18. leſt I ſhould infect you, or the like trouble ſhould befall you for keeping company with me. Or, ye are afraid to ſpeak the truth of my condition, and judge me to be a wicked man, becauſe I am thus plagued, and therefore will afford me no comfort in my extremity.

V. 22. Did I ſay, Bring unto me? or give a reward for me of your ſubſtance?] If I had looked for relief from you, or mony to redeem me from my miſeries, whereby to put you to expences, ye might have had ſome occaſion to cenſure me thus. But all I looked for, was comfort, which ye ſeemed to offer to me, by your voluntary coming, (for I ſent not for you) yet ye have added to my ſorrows.

Did I ſay] Or, Is it becauſe I ſaid? Did any ſpeech of mine occaſion ſo hard a cenſure of me? ye did it without any provocation, and therefore your ſin is the greater. For Say, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

Bring unto me] Heb. give unto me, Prov. 30. 15. Hoſ. 4. 18. How would ye have helped me with your money, that deny me good words?

a reward for me] Or, gift, or, bribe. To free mee from my troubles, if they may be bought out; or to ranſome me from the enemy, ver. 23.

of your ſubſtance] The word ſometimes ſignifies ſtrength, but here riches, which is a mans civil ſtrength, Prov. 18. 11. So the word is uſed, Prov. 5. 10. For Subſtance, ſee on v. 11 on Strength.

V. 23. Or deliver me from the enemies hand, or redeem me from the hand of the mighty?] Did I make any motion of coſt to you at all?

deliver me] Set me free.

from the enemies] It comes from a word that ſignifies to beſiege, or ſtraiten; for enemies bring men into great ſtraits, Neh. 9. 27.

hand] From the power of the enemy, Chap. 1. 12. For Hand, ſee on Chap 15. 23.

redeem me] By price, or force.

of the mighty] Or, terrible ones. For they that have ſtrength, are terrible to others, and fright them with their great power.

V. 24. Teach me, and I will hold my tongue; and cauſe me to underſtand wherein I have erred] Though I think I have juſtly defended my ſelf all this while, yet you ſhall ſee, that I am not indocible, if you will ſhew me my errour.

Teach me] The word ירה ſignifies to caſt a dart, or ſtone, and to dart the rain from the cloudes; and laſtly, to teach, which diſtills knowledge from heaven into mens hearts, as rain doth moiſture into the earth, Ezek. 20. 46. & 21. 2. Deut. 32 2. Heb. 6. 7, 8. Hence the law and doctrine have their derivation in the Original, and are called תורה, Pſal. 1. 2. Thence a teacher hath his name מורה and I will hold my tongue] The word ſignifies to plow, and thence to meditate, or invent, to ſearch out things hidden, as the plow doth; and laſtly, to be ſilent, becauſe muſing men ſpeak leaſt. I will complain no more of my ſorrows, but hear you quietly; and not contradict you, but learn of you. Or, I will by my ſilence confeſſe my former errour, when I am better informed, Chap. 40. 4, 5. Prov. 30. 32. For Holding the tongue, ſee on Chap. 1. 14. on Plowing.

cauſe me to underſtand] Convince me by arguments: Think not to beat me down with reproaches and threats, but overcome me with ſolid reaſons.

wherein I have erred] The word ſignifies bodily and local errours, and wandrings, Ezek. 34. 6. and by a figure, the errours of the mind, Prov. 5. 19, 20. but eſpecially ſuch as ariſe out of ignorance, not out of wilfulneſſe, Lev. 4. 2. & 5. 18. & 22. 14. Pſal. 19. 12 Job means here his ignorance in judgement, or in carriage under his afflictions.

V. 25. How forcible are right words? but what doth your arguing reprove?] I confeſſe there is much force in ſolid reaſons, neither could I have contradicted you all this while: but what advantage hath your cenſorious diſcourſe gotten of me?

How forcible] He ſpeaks by way of admiration, ſhewing that he cannot expreſſe the force of ſtrong arguments, how perſwaſive they are. See the like phraſe, Pſal. 31. 19. & 84. 1.

right words] Sound and ſolid arguments brought to prove the truth.

but what] Your words have no ſuch ſolidity in them. They prove nothing at all. At leaſt not what they were brought to prove. They are vain, and cannot convince me.

doth your arguing reprove] Arguing contains both replying, and anſwering, Chap. 13. 3. your words are ſo weak, that ye can neither make good your own aſſertions, nor overthrow mine. For Arguing, ſee on Chap. 15. 3. on Reaſon.

V. 26 Do ye imagine to reprove words, and the ſpeeches of one that is deſperate; which are as wind?] In this and the next verſe, Job expoſtulates with them about their former words. At the 28. verſe he adviſeth them to more moderation for time to come.

Do ye imagine to reprove words?] Think ye that I have ſpoken nothing but words, without weight, which ye may eaſily confute? Or, Do ye think that words reprove? Do ye think to confute me with bare words, without any reaſon in them. So it is fitly knit with the words foregoing. Ye have got nothing of me, for empty words cannot convince me: yet ye ſuppoſe that your words are all ſentences, and invincible arguments againſt me, becauſe ye are in proſperity.

and the ſpeeches] Think ye that ye have no ſolid reaſons from me to anſwer but onely deſperate words?

of one deſperate] That thinks his miſerable ſtate to be incurable, Jer. 2. 25. He means himſelf, who by reaſon of the weight of his miſery, had no hope of delivery.

which are as wind] Or, And that the words of one deſperate are wind? Becauſe my ſtate is hopeleſſe, think ye that my words are brainleſſe? Chap. 15 2. & 16. 3. Eccl. 5. 16. Jer. 5. 13. Hoſ. 12. 1. Prov. 11. 29. Eph. 4. 14. Endeavours, without ſucceſſe, and words without ſubſtance, are in the places quoted compared to wind. For Wind, ſee Chap. 15. 2. on Vaine.

V. 27. Yea ye overwhelm the fatherleſſe, and you dig a pit for your friend] He ſhewes their open cruelty, by ſeeking to undo one helpleſſe like a fatherleſſe childe, and their ſecret plots to effect it, by digging a pit, not for an enemy, but for a friend, that might expect better uſage from them.

ye overwhelm] Heb. ye make to fall upon. Ye make gins to fall on me, as men make traps to fall on vermine, which kill them with their weight. Or, ye throw your ſelves on me with all your ſtrength, that ye may be ſure to hold me faſt till ye have deſtroyed me, as hunters and wild beaſts fall on their prey.

the fatherleſſe] Me, whom, being like a fatherleſſe childe, ye ſhould defend; Chap. 22. 9. & 24. 3, 9. Pſal. 94 6. Lam. 5. 3. So he means himſelf, by one deſperate, verſ. 26. It is not enough that ye comfort me not, as I thought ye would have done, who are ſo wiſe, and came ſo readily without calling, but ye fall violently on me, an helpleſſe man, with reproaches.

and dig a pit] As men dig pits to catch wild beaſts, ſo ye frame falſe arguments to catch me, and drive me into the pit of deſpair, by charging me with hypocriſie. For the phraſe, ſee Pſal. 7. 15. & 64. 5. Jer. 18. 20. Or, And make a feaſt on, &c. Ye are not content to deſtroy me, but ye feed on me alſo, and devour me. and inſult over me in the midſt of my miſeries, Chap. 41. 6. 2 Kings 6. 23. So the Philiſtines dealt with Sampſon, Judg. 16. 23.

for your friend] For me, whom ye profeſſe much friendſhip to, and who ever loved you, and never deſerved any ſuch dealing from you.

V. 28. Now therefore be content, look upon me, for it is evident unto you, if I lye] Though ye have been ſo harſh to me hitherto, yet now at length be kinder to me. Deal more calmly with me.

be content, look upon me] See the like, verſ. 19. View me well, as a Judge doth a malefactour, you ſhall ſee I can endure it without bluſhing, becauſe I am not guilty of what you accuſe me, Pſal. 11. 4. Rev. 6. 16. Prov. 20. 8. Conſider my cauſe, and you will find that I ſpeak as one over-laden with ſorrow, and am not an hypocrite. Or, Be well pleaſed to look on me. So the latter of two verbs of the ſame tenſe is tranſlated in the infinitive, 1 Sam. 2. 3. Eccl. 8. 3. And the meaning is, Caſt a loving countenance upon me, and be not ſo hot, and ſo averſe as before. Turn not your eyes away from me, as men do from one whom they will not vouchſafe to look upon, or cannot endure to behold, Pſal. 10. 1. & 44. 24. Iſa. 53. 3. Or, Be content to turn to me. So the word is uſed, Chap. 5. 1. and it ſuits well with the following verſe. Think better of me then you did before: Or, Attend well to what I ſay, for I will declare my mind plainly. For Content, ſee on v 9. on Pleaſe.

it is evident unto you] Heb. before your face. It will quickly appear by that which I have ſaid, or ſhall ſay, that I ſpeak truth, if ye be not prepoſſeſſed with prejudice againſt me becauſe of my troubles. Or, to your face. I ſhould be impudent, if I ſhould ſpeak falſly before you. See on Chap. 1. 11. For Face, ſee on Chap. 14. 20. on Countenance.

if I lye] If I ſpeak falſly, or maintain a bad cauſe to favour my ſelf, you will eaſily find it. Or, the matter lies plain before you; if I lye, let God plague me. See on Chap. 1. 11.

V. 29. Return I pray you, let it not be iniquity, yea, return again; my righteouſneſſe is in it] He goes on to perſwade his friends to a more careful and kind attention for the future, or a more candid interpretation of his former words.

Return] The word ſignifies literally a local return, metaphorically a return from anger, or change of reſolution; ſo here, Return from your cruel ſpeeches againſt me. Or, weigh the matter better, look it over again more ſeriouſly, and you will ſee your errour, and my righteous cauſe, Chap. 17. 10. For Return, ſee on Chap. 14. 13. on Paſt.

I pray you] See on Chap. 4. 7.

let it not be iniquity] Object not iniquity againſt me, as before: I may be weak, but am not wicked; as follows, my righteouſneſſe is in it. Or, Deal not ſo unjuſtly with me in your after-ſpeeches, as before, leſt God lay iniquitie to your charge.

yea, return again] He repeats it again, to ſhew the weight of the matter, and neceſſity of hearkening to it, Cant. 6. 13. Phil. 4. 4.

my righteouſneſſe is in it] I am righteous in this matter, Chap. 19. 28. Or, my righteouſneſſe is, or ſhall be made plain in my defence, as verſ. 30. Conſider of the ſame things again and again, ye will come to this concluſion at laſt, to wit, that I am no hypocrite.

V. 30. Is there iniquity in my tongue? Cannot my taſte diſcern perverſe things?] In this laſt verſe, Job clears his former ſpeeches from untruth, by a ſimilitude, taken from the palate. And ſo prepares his friends to hear further with patience, what he had to ſay in the next Chapter.

Is there iniquity in my tongue?] Can ye ſhew any unjuſt or untrue thing in all that I have ſaid? For Tongue, ſee on Chap. 15. 5.

Cannot?] Certainly it can.

my taſte] Heb. my palate, The inſtrument of taſting, and it is exquiſite therein.

diſcern] Heb. underſtand. That is, perceive a difference between ſound food, and unſound. So underſtanding is attributed to the tongue, Pſal. 52. 2. To the mouth, Joſh. 1. 8. To the hands, Pſal. 78. 72. To the eare, Job 12. 11. & 34. 3. To pots, Pſal. 58. 9. Before your pots can feel. Heb. underſtand.

perverſe things] Harſh meats, ſuch as are unpleaſing to the palate, and unfit for nouriſhment. All this is ſpoken metaphorically; and Jobs meaning is, that the ſoul hath her taſte, as well as the body, that is, her reaſon, whereby ſhe diſcerns truth from falſhood, as the palate doth wholeſome and ſavoury meat, from unwholeſome and unſavoury: And he affirms, that his ſpiritual palate hath ſkill herein: and that he could perceive that they had ſpoken perverſly and falſly of him; and abuſed good grounds to condemn him. Or, They ſhould ſee, that he could avoid falſe ſpeeches, and knew how to ſpeak right things, and had, and would ſpeak accordingly. For Perverſe things, ſee on v. 2. on Calamity.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ. 1. I*S there not an appointed time to man upon the earth? are not his dayes alſo like the dayes of an hireling?*] Some think Job confutes that which Eliphaz contended to prove, that he was puniſhed for his wickedneſſe, by ſhewing that affliction is common to all men. Others, that he confutes that promiſe, Chap. 5. 20. by ſhewing, that men cannot look for uninterrupted happineſſe here. Others, that he confirms what Eliphaz had ſaid of mans troubles, and ſeeks to God, as he directed him, that they might ſee that he was not unteachable; as Chap. 6. 24. But the right coherence is, that having confuted Eliphaz in the former Chapter, in this he confirms his deſire to die, by arguments taken from the condition of man in general, verſ. 1. of ſome men in ſpecial, verſ. 2. of himſelf in particular, verſ. 3. and ſo on to the ſeventh.

an appointed time] Or, a warfare The word צבא ſignifies, firſt, warfare, as 1 Sam. 28. 1. Iſa. 40. 2. from thence it is uſed for an hoſt, or army, Nehem. 9. 6. Zeph. 1. 5. and then for an appointed time, becauſe there was a ſet time for ſouldiers to fight, and a ſet time alſo for them to ſerve. Therefore the Levites are compared to an hoſt. and muſt begin their ſervice at thirty years of age, and end it at fifty, Num. 4. 3. So we have a ſet time here to grapple with miſeries. Thus the word ſignifies, Chap. 14. 14. Seeing I have a ſet time of abiding here, why may I not enjoy that time, but am deprived of the comfort of it?

to man] Every mans time is ſet, and his dayes numbred, Chap. 14. 4. yet he hath an eye more particularly to himſelfe; as Chap. 3. 3. pſal. 39. 11. & 109. 16. The word ſignifies ſorrowful, or miſerable man. His ſorrows end not, till his life end, ver. 17. Chap. 5. 17.

upon the earth] To live upon the face of the earth. For as for his condition in heaven or hell, there is no end of it. For Earth, ſee on Chap. 9. 24.

his] Every mans, maſters, and ſervants; great mens, and meane mens.

dayes] He reckons by dayes, not by years, to point out the ſhortneſſe of mans life. For Day, ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

like the dayes of an hireling] Hirelings were ſometimes hired for years, as Iſai. 16. 14. & 21. 16. but ordinarily by dayes, Job 14. 6. Matth. 20. 1, 2. and at night their labour ends. Mans dayes of his life are certainly determined, and ſhort like an hirelings. Therefore I may well wiſh for an end of mine. If an hireling have a time ſet for his painful ſervice, and look for it daily, may not I wiſh for death, the end of my troubles?

V. 2. As a ſervant earneſtly deſireth the ſhadow, and as an hireling looketh for the reward of his work.] Job further ſets out his deſire of death, by the ſervants and hirelings deſire of refreſhing, and end of their labours, that they might have reſt, and reward.

a ſervant] The word properly ſignifies one taken in war, or bought with money, yet it is extended to all kind of houſhold ſervants.

earneſtly deſireth] Or, that earneſtly deſireth. So the Chald. Paraphraſe reads it. Heb. gapeth after, or gaſpeth for. Which is more emphatical. Like a man gaſping for life. It argues a very great deſire of a thing. So the word is uſed, Chap. 36. 20.

the ſhadow] In thoſe hot countries, the heat of the Sun was very burdenſome to day-labourers in the fields, which made them very deſirous of ſhady places to work in, or reſt under at noon. A thing uſual in harveſt time. But it is more likely, that Job means the ſhadow of the night, the time when his life ſhould end, as the ſervants work doth for that day, Chap. 36. 20. when the ſhadows declining, or extending themſelves, give warning of the ſetting of the Sun, to the joy of the ſervants, who long for the end of their dayes work. See on Pſal. 102. 11. & 109. 23. Or, by the ſhadow, may be meant the houſe, where the Sun ſhines not, as abroad, and which is a ſhelter from heat and ſtorms, Gen. 19. 8. Pſal. 17. 8. & 27. 5. and 31. 20. & 19. 1. And then the ſenſe is, As a ſervant that works in the hot Sun without, deſires that the night would come, that he might go into the houſe to reſt; ſo have I reaſon to deſire death, to be eaſed of my pain, Iſai. 4. 6. & 16. 3. and 25. 4, 5. & 32. 2. Pſal. 57. 1.

an hireling] See on ver. 1.

looketh for] With his eyes ſtill towards it, as a thing much deſired, Pſal. 25. 15. & 123. 1, 2.

the reward of his work] As deſire of reſt makes the ſervant long for night, ſo deſire of reward moves the hireling to wiſh the day were done: for they were daily to be paid, Lev. 19. 13. Deut. 24. 14, 15. The work, in Hebrew, is put often for the reward, for they ſhould not be parted, Jam. 5. 4. See Levit. 19. 13. Pſal. 109. 20. Iſai. 40. 10. & 49. 4. So the petition is put for the thing prayed for, 1 Sam. 1. 27. And ſin, for the puniſhment of ſin, Gen. 4. 13. Deut. 24. 15. No hireling longs more that night were come, that he might receive his reward then I do for death, that I might be eaſed of my troubles.

V. 3. So am I made to poſſeſſe moneths of vanity, and wearisome nights are appointed to me] The ſervant if he work ſome dayes, may reſt others, but I have moneths without reſt. If he work every day, yet he reſts every night, but my troubles laſt day and night. I am worſe then a ſervant, no marvel then if I deſire an end of my life.

So] A compariſon, not in quantity, but in quality. There was ſome reſemblance between them; but Jobs ſtate was worſe then a ſervants or hirelings. The compariſon may be made full, thus; as ſervants and hirelings, becauſe of their painful labours in the day, deſire the night were come, ſo do I deſire death, that I might have an end of my moneths of vanity, and weary nights.

am I made to poſſeſſe] Heb. am I made to inherit for my ſelfe. Some take it as ſpoken of all men in general, who receive a troubleſome condition from their parents, Chap. 5. 7. and it remaines with them, as inheritances do. But Job rather ſpeaks of himſelfe, as if he had ſaid; I have had more vain moneths then others, as if vanity had been mine inheritance. He may intimate alſo, that his troubles came from God, who gives men inheritances.

moneths of vanity] I have had pleaſant moneths, but they are gone, and vain ones come in their room, Chap. 29. 2. He inſtances in moneths, and not in dayes, becauſe his troubles were laſting troubles: And he calls them vain or empty moneths, becauſe they were empty of comfort; like the dull Winter moneths, that afford no light to cheer mens ſpirits, or fruit to refreſh them, Gal. 2. 21. Or, they afford not that comfort I looked for, and ſo made my expectation vain; as the Iſraelits hope was, when they were ſlain in the wilderneſſe, and not permitted to enter into Canaan, Pſal. 78. 33, 34.

and weariſome nights] My dayes which ſhould be ſpent in profitable labour, are ſpent in vain; and the nights that ſhould be times of reſt to me, afford nothing but wearineſſe and diſquietneſſe, ſo that I cannot ſleep. In moneths of vanity, a man might reſt in the nights; but Job did not, or onely ſo little as might keep him alive to bear miſery. Strong men labour in the day, Pſal. 104. 22, 23. Sick men have moſt pain in the night, Pſal. 6. 6. & 77. 2.

are appointed to me] The word is uſed commonly for numbring, but here it ſignifies appointing by God; yet ſo exactly, as if he had numbred them to a day. So Dan. 1. 10. Or, are prepared for me: as the word is tranſlated, Jon. 1. 17. In the Original it is, They have appointed weariſome nights for me. But it is to be underſtood imperſonally, as it is tranſlated: Such nights are appointed to me.

V. 4. When I lie down, I ſay, When ſhall I ariſe, and the night be gone? and I am full of toſſings to and fro, unto the dawning of the day] An exact deſcription of a weariſome night, when one wiſhes for day, as ſoon as he is laid in bed, and toſſes till morning, and ſleeps not at all in the night.

when] Heb. if. But here it notes not out any condition, but the time of lying down. So it doth, Gen. 38. 9.

I lie down] In my bed, in the evening to take reſt and ſleep. For it appears by the words following, that it is not meant of ſleep in the day time. When others ſlept ſweetly in their beds, I lay awake. For Lie down, ſee on Chap. 14. 12.

I ſay] In my heart: I think with my ſelf, Pſal. 39. 1. For Say, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

When ſhall I ariſe] When will it be day, that I may ariſe? For there is no comfort in riſing in the night, neither do men uſe to leave their beds till the morning. For Riſe, ſee on Chap. 14. 12.

and the night] Heb. the evening. From ערב, becauſe it is mixed of light and darkneſſe. We call it twilight: but here it is put for the whole night, whereof it is but the beginning, for Job wiſhed the whole night paſt, that he might riſe at the dawning of the day. The word ערב. ſignifies, 1. A Mixture or mingled people, Jer. 50. 37. 2. Arabia, 1 King. 10. 15. 3. The Evening, wherein darkneſſe and light are mingled, 1 King. 22. 35. So here.

be gone] Heb. be meaſured out. All the hours of it be gone. He ſpeaks like a ſick man, that when he cannot ſleep for pain, tells the clock all night, and wiſheth the laſt hour paſt. Or, be meaſure out the night. That is, God, who metes out the houres of day and night, which they cannot paſſe. Or, it: that is, Jobs heart, which all this while was wiſhing for the morning.

I am full] The word ſignifies ſatisfaction in the Original. I am as full of toſſings, as a man is of meat, when he hath filled his belly: ſo full of confuſion, Chap. 10. 15. & 14. 1. Pſal. 88. 3. & 123. 3. Prov. 1. 31.

of toſſings] From one ſide of the bed to the other. So ſick men uſe to do in hope to find eaſe, yet find it no where.

unto the dawning of the day] All night long. So the word is uſed or the beginning of light in the morning, 1 Sam. 30. 17. Pſal. 119. 147. Though more ordinarily it ſignifies the beginning of the evening, as 2 King. 7. 5. compared with ver. 9. Iſai. 5. 11. Prov. 7. 9. which gave occaſion to ſome, to read the later end of the verſe thus, And when the night is gone, I am full of toſſings to and fro untill the twilight; to wit, of the evening. I take no reſt by night, nor by day. See the like, Deut. 28. 67. The word נשף. ſignifies. 1. Darkneſſe, Jer. 13. 16. 2. The twilight of Morning, or Evening, or Dawning, Prov. 7. 9. So here.

V. 5. My fleſh is clothed with worms and clods of duſt; my skin is broken, and become loathſome] If ye conſider what a caſe I am in, and look well upon my body, ye will think I complain not without a cauſe.

my fleſh] My body, whereof the fleſh is a principal part. For Fleſh, ſee on Chap.14.22.

is clothed] Covered all over as with a garment, Pſal. 104. 2. & 93. 1. & 109. 29. & 35. 26. Job 29. 14. Ezek. 7. 27.

with worms] Which bred in his ſores, Chap. 21. 26. Iſai. 14. 11.

and clods of duſt] Scurf that came off from his ſores by ſcraping them, or duſt contracted by ſitting on the ground, which was like clods of earth, Chap. 2. 8. A ſtrange diſeaſe, yet a fit dreſſe for a dying man to be full of worms and duſt, like a garment covering his whole body, which was finely clad before. For Duſt, ſee on Chap. 14. 8. on Ground.

my skin is broken] Or, cleft. So the word is uſed for cleaving the Sea, Iſai. 51. 15. Jer. 31. 35. With ulcers, boiles, and running ſcabs, holes are made in my ſkin, and it is as it were, cleft aſunder.

and become loathſome] Or, melted, Pſal. 58. 7. By reaſon of ſtincking matter that ran out of his ſores, which made his body yeeld a noiſome ſavour to himſelf and others, and conſume away.

V. 6. My dayes are ſwifter then a weavers ſhuttle, and are ſpent without hope] He mixeth his deſire of death, with complaints of the troubles and ſhortneſſe of his life. Why ſhould I deſire to live, ſeeing my dayes are troubleſome, and likely to be but ſhort at the beſt? Chap. 14. 1. For Dayes, ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

my dayes] The dayes of my proſperity, for his ill dayes went not away ſo faſt, but tarried too long, Chap. 3. 11. &c. Others take it for the dayes of his life, which paſſed away apace. See on ver. 1. Chap. 16. 22. Pſal. 90. 6. & 102. 11. & 103. 15. & 144. 4. Iſai. 40. 6. Jam. 4. 14.

ſwifter] It comes from a word that ſignifies light, becauſe light things are ſwift, and heavy things ſlow. So we ſay, light of foot, that is, ſwift, Hab. 1. 8. Job 9. 25. Iſai. 5. 26. & 18. 2. Jer. 2. 23.

then a weavers ſhuttle] Which paſſeth ſuddenly from one end of the web to the other, and is uſed proverbially to ſet out ſwiftneſſe. The Heb. word ארג ſignifies. 1. A weavers ſhuttle. As here. 2. The web, Judg. 16. 14.

are ſpent] The word ſometimes ſignifies finiſhing, or conſummating a thing, as Gen. 2. 1. but here it imports a conſumption, or ending, as Jer. 14. 12. Exod. 33. 3. For Spend, ſee on Chap 36. 11.

without hope] Heb. in not hope. See the like phraſe, Prov. 14. 28. Dan. 8. 25. without hope of recovering of my proſperity, or of returning to life again, as ver. 7. He intimates, that he had no hope of thoſe things which Eliphaz foretold him, Chap. 5. 24. for his ſores would ſoon kill him.

V. 7. O remember that my life is wind: mine eye ſhall no more ſee good] He turns his ſpeech now, from his friends, to God, as Jacob did from his ſons, Gen. 49. 18. He ſpeaks not to Eliphaz, as before, but to God the author of life and death, as appears by his petition, which none elſe could grant, to wit, the abating of his ſorrows in regard of the ſhortneſſe of his life.

Remember] God cannot forget; but he is ſaid to remember a thing, when he doth ſomething, that may make men to ſee, that he takes notice of it. So God remembred his covenant, Exod. 2. 24. when he ſent Moſes to deliver his people, Exod. 3. 8. So Pſal. 74. 2, 3. & 78. 38, 39. & 137. 7. Gen. 8. 1. So here. Thou ſeemeſt, O Lord, to forget my frail condition, by laying more load on me, then I can well bear. Shew that thou remembreſt me, by eaſing me; and deal with me, as with a weak ſhort-liv'd creature.

my life is wind] The word ſignifies a ſpirit, and the wind; becauſe it is like a ſpirit, inviſible and powerful. He means that his life was like a wind, ſpeedily paſſing away, and not returning; as Pſal. 78. 39. Chap. 8. 9. & 14. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 24. The note of ſimilitude is here omitted, to make the ſentence the more emphatical; as ver. 12. & Chap. 6. 12. Prov. 11. 22. The Chaldee Paraphraſe reads it, My life is as wind. For Wind, ſee on Chap. 15. 2. on Vaine.

Mine eye] I my ſelf ſhall no more, with mine eyes, behold good, Chap. 19. 27. For Eye, ſee on Chap. 2. 12.

ſhall no more ſee] Heb. ſhall not return to ſee. Seeing, is not here taken for looking on a thing, that a man hath nothing to do withal; but for enjoying it, or, having a part in it, Pſal. 16. 10, 11. & 128. 5, 6. Chap. 20. 17. & 21. 20. Lam. 3. 1. Jer. 17. 6. Pſal. 88. 48. & 27. 13. Chap. 9. 25. & 33. 28. Joh. 3. 36. 1 Pet. 3. 10. Pſal. 34. 12. for the eye brings much comfort both here, and in heaven, Iſa. 38. 11. Pſal. 27. 4. Mat. 5. 8. For Return, ſee on Chap. 14. 13. on Paſt. For See, look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

good] Worldly proſperity (as Pſal. 4. 6.) which I have had ſo great a ſhare in; for he made account to ſee God in heaven, Chap. 19. 27. I ſhall no more return to my former proſperity; or, when I am dead, I ſhall not return hither any more to my poſſeſſions. For Good, ſee on Chap. 21. 13. on wealth.

V. 8. The eye of him that hath ſeen me, ſhall ſee me no more: thine eyes are upon me, and I am not] In the former verſe he had excluded his own eye from ſight of good: in this verſe he excludes others from ſight of him. I ſhall have no comfort in ſeeing men, nor honour from them.

the eye] That is, the man that hath eyes. No man can faſten his eyes upon me. For ſeeing is the action of the man, though performed by the eye. See on ver. 7. For Seene, look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

of him that hath ſeen me] Heb. that ſeeth me. As the word is tranſlated, Gen. 16. 13. That looks upon me now. None of mine acquaintance ſhall ſee me any more. Or, of ſight; meaning the quickeſt ſighted eye.

ſhall ſee me no more] A deſcription of death, which takes men away from the ſight of their friends and neighbours, Chap. 20. 9. And as here it is ſet out by others not ſeeing us; ſo elſewhere, by our not ſeeing others, Iſa. 38. 11. Death takes away all controverſe here between man and man. The Heb. word שור ſignifies. 1. To ſing: As in the Title of Pſal. 7. 1. 2. To ſee, or behold, Numb. 24. 17. 3. To go, Iſa. 57. 9. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe for Seeing.

thine eyes are upon me] As ſoon as thou ſetteſt thine eyes upon me to deſtroy me, I ſhall be dead. See the like phraſe, Pſal. 104. 29. I cannot endure thy flaming eyes ſparkling forth wrath againſt me. See Chap. 16. 9. Pſal. 17. 11, 12. Amos 9. 4. 1 Sam. 18. 9. where ſetting the eyes upon one is for evil, though elſewhere it be for good; as Gen. 44. 21. Jer. 39. 12. & 40. 4. & 24. 6. Or, though I ſee not worldly proſperity, when I am in the grave; nor others ſee me, yet thou wilt ſee me there. Or thou mayſt ſeek me then to do me good; but it will be too late, when I am dead, which will be ſhortly, if theſe afflictions be not quickly taken away. See ver. 21. The firſt Interpretation is the beſt; and moſt ſuitable to the text. and I am not] I can live no longer in this world; I ſhall not be alive here. See the like phraſe, ver. 21. Gen. 5. 24. & 42. 13. with 44. 20. Pſal. 103. 16. Jer. 31. 15. Matth. 2. 18. See on Job. 3. 16.

V. 9. As the cloud is conſumed and vaniſheth away; ſo he that goeth down to the grave, ſhall come up no more] Before he had compared his life to a paſſing wind, ver. 7. now to a vaniſhing cloud; and all to move God to pity him.

As] This word is not in the Original; but is well added; becauſe the words following ſhew, that it is brought for a ſimilitude. See the like, Prov. 11. 22. Mic. 3. 12. Pſal. 119. 119. Deut. 28. 23. Yet ſometimes this note of ſimilitude is not added in the Tranſlation. See on ver. 7.

the cloud] Which is made of vapours ariſing from the earth, and hangs in the air by the power of God. This ſimilitude is brought, not to ſhew how ſuddenly mans life may be taken away, (which yet is true, and may fitly be ſhadowed out by the vaniſhing of a cloud) as it is, Chap. 30. 15. but to ſet out the irrecoverableneſſe of our life here, when it is once gone; as appears by that which goes before, ver. 7, 8. and by that which follows in v. 10. The Heb. word ענן is uſed; 1. To ſet out a Cloud, 1 King. 8. 10. 2. Smoke, Lev. 16. 13. 3. Calamity, Ezek. 34. 12. 4. Multitude, Jer. 4. 13. Here in the firſt ſenſe.

is conſumed] Scattered by the wind, or dried up by the heat of the Sun. Or, is ſpent; as v. 6. it is emptied and diſſolved into rain. For Conſumed, ſee on Chap. 36. 11. on Spend.

vaniſheth away] Is clean gone out of ſight; no foot-ſteps or memorial of it remaining, Jam. 4. 14. So our ſins vaniſh out of Gods remembrance, Iſa. 44. 22. Heb. goeth. Not to ſome other place; but being turned into air, or water, goes clean away out of ſight; ſo man, by death, goeth out of this world, and out of the ſight of men, v. 8. A metaphor from living creatures, that remove from place to place. See on Chap. 1. 19. The word הלך ſignifies. 1. To go about a thing, Chap. 34. 2. To walke, Gen. 35. 19. 3. The paſſage of Ships, Pſal. 104. 26. 4. Paſſing out of the world, or dying, Chap. 14. 20. 5. Conſtancy in a condition, Gen. 15. 2. 6. A courſe of life, Pſal. 1. 1. 7. Vaniſhing or not appearing, Pſal. 58. 8. So here.

He that goes down] A proper deſcription of burial; for the grave is in the bowels of the Earth. So Gen. 37. 35. & 42. 38. Ezek. 26. 20. See how it is called aſcending, Chap. 5. 26.

to the grave] The word in the Original comes from שאל to ask or deſire. For the grave is never ſatisfied; but alwayes deſiring, Prov. 30. 16. שאול is taken variouſly in Scripture: as firſt, for hell, Prov. 15. 11. pſal. 9. 17. Secondly, for miſeries that ſeem to us irrecoverable, pſal. 86. 13. Jon. 2. 2. pſal. 30. 3. Thirdly, for the lower parts of the Earth, pſal. 139. 8. Fourthly, for the ſtate of the dead, Iſa. 38. 18. Gen. 37. 35. For Jacob did not think that Joſeph was buried; but devoured by a wild Beaſt. Fifthly, for the grave; as Prov. 30. 16. So here: but, as the grave in general, is conſidered, as common to all men; for each mans particular grave is called קבר.

ſhall come up no more] Into this World, to live among men, or to enjoy his houſe and goods he had before; as ver. 10. Chap. 16. 22. pſal. 39. 13. 2 Sam. 14. 14. Iſa. 38. 11. for it appears, that Job denied not the Reſurrection, (as ſome of the Jewiſh Rabbins gather out of this text) by what he profeſſeth, Chap. 14. 12. & 19. 26, 27. Lazarus by a miracle was raiſed up to live again among men for a while; but that was extraordinary, and he is long ſince dead again, and muſt abide ſo till the Reſurrection.

V. 10. He ſhall return no more to his houſe: neither ſhall his place know him any more] He ſhall have no more to do with worldly labours, or domeſtical comforts.

return no more to his houſe] To dwell there where he did before, or to order his domeſtical affairs. The ſame cloud returnes no more; though others come in the room, Eccl. 12. 2. ſo the ſame men return not into the world after death; but their children ſupply their room. For Return, ſee on Chap. 14. 13. on Paſt. For Houſe, on Chap. 15. 28.

his place know him any more] Some take it for his office and dignity; as Prov. 25. 6. Eccl. 3. 16. If he were a great man in his life-time, now his office is clean gone: another enjoyes it, pſal. 109. 8. Others, for the men of the place; as the houſe before, for his children and ſervants. Others, the place here for his friends and neighbours, Chap. 20. 9. Gen. 18. 26. & 20. 11. ſo the city is put for the men of the city, Gen. 18. 28. & 19. 15. Neither his family nor his friends ſhall take any further notice of him; but as clean forget him in a little time, as if they had never known him. But neither of theſe ſeem to be the ſenſe of the place. Not the former; becauſe it is joyned to the houſe, which is nothing to his office. Not the latter; becauſe it is intimated before, ver. 8. And this ſeems to be an higher expreſſion of the forgotten eſtate of the dead. His houſe and place are but a metaphor ſet out as living creatures, that were wont, as it were, to welcome him home, and receive him cheerfully after travels, or buſineſſe abroad, when he returned; but now would not own him, if he could return. See the like metaphor, Chap. 1. 19. and the phraſe, Pſal. 103. 16. The ſum of all, is, that within a little time after his death, he ſhould be utterly forgotten.

V. 11. Therefore, I will not refrain my mouth, I will ſpeak in the anguiſh of my Spirit, I will complain in the bitterneſſe of my ſoul] Becauſe I muſt ſhortly die, and then I and my miſeries ſhall both be forgotten, and I deprived of all liberty of complaining; therefore I will ſatisfie my ſpirit with complaining now: I will do it abundantly to eaſe my ſelf. Men in trouble think it ſome refreſhment to have liberty to complain. For grief kept in, like fire, burns the more.

Therefore] Heb. Alſo. Seeing thou wilt not leave puniſhing me, I will not leave complaining of thy harſh dealing with me. For Therefore, ſee on Chap. 16. 4. on Alſo.

I will not refrain my mouth] Heb. I will not prohibit my mouth. I will not ſtop it, nor hinder it from ſpeaking. I will not ſuppreſſe my grief in ſilence, nor my ſighs, which would kill me, if I ſhould not utter them. For griefe ſtrives in a man to get utterance, and to pour out it ſelf in words. I will not ſpare words, but let all come out. So the word is uſed, Iſa. 58. ver. 1. For Mouth, ſee on Chap. 15. 5.

in the anguiſh of my Spirit] The Hebrew word ſignifies ſtraitneſſe I am ſtraitned with keeping in my grief, and much pained, like a man girt in with a cord. I will give my ſorrow a vent. What I ſhall ſpeak, is not from the lips outward, but comes from a ſorrowful heart. Or, of the anguiſh of my Spirit. I will declare what ſorrow I feel within, far more then others do imagine. So this particle is uſed, Eſth. 3. 12. For Spirit, ſee on Chap. 15. 2. on Vaine.

I will complain] The word ſignifies firſt to meditate, then to produce ſuch things in words, as lay hid in the mind. Job had many ſad thoughts in him, and now he meant to utter them, Pſal. 142. 2. it is called, pouring out a complaint. It was firſt conceived in the heart, and then poured out of the lips, 1 Sam. 1. 15, 16.

in] Or, becauſe of. So it is uſed, Neh. 5. 3. Or, of; as before.

the bitterneſſe] As bitter things are diſpleaſing to the palate; ſo are troubles to the ſpirit; and therefore heavineſſe of heart, is often in Scripture, ſet out by bitterneſſe, Ruth 1. 20. Exod. 1. 14. See on Job 3. 20.

of my ſoul] The pains were in his body; but the grief in his ſoul; and that he complains more of, then of bodily pains. For Soul, ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

V. 12. Am I a ſea, or a whale, that thou ſetteſt a watch over me?] Here begins his new complaint; mentioned ver. 11.

Am I] Tell me whether I be ſo or no. Too bold a ſpeech to God from a creature. See the like, Chap. 6. 12. He turns his ſpeech to God, and in his impatience, layes all his troubles upon him.

a ſea] As a ſea. See on v. 7. Am I as unruly as a ſea; that is unruly, and can hardly be kept quiet, Pſal. 65. 7. & 93. 3. Or, rather, Am I as ſtrong as the ſea, that can bear all winds and ſtorms, and yet ſubſiſt? For Sea, ſee on Chap. 14. 11.

or a whale] Can I bear all troubles, as the Sea receives all waters, and the Whale bears all tempeſts? The word תנין ſignifies any great or terrible creature. Sometimes it is put for ſome great land creature, as Dragons, Ezek. 29. 3. Jer. 9. 11. & 51. 37. Sometimes for ſome great fiſh in the ſea, ſuppoſed to be the Whale; as Gen. 1. 21. and ſo here; becauſe it is joyned with the ſea; as Pſal. 74. 13.

that thou ſetteſt] Or, That thou ſhouldſt ſet. What need is there of ſuch a guard?

a watch over me] Priſons are fitter for wild beaſts of the Earth, then for fiſhes of the Sea; yet the ſea is impriſoned by the land, Pſal. 104. 9. Jer. 5. 22. Job 38. 8, 10. and the Whales are ſhut up in the ſea. Thinkeſt thou that I would do miſchief, if I were not kept in by violence, as the Sea and Whale would, if they were let looſe? My former carriage in my proſperity ſhews the contrary. So ſome interpret it; but Job intended not a keeping of him in from doing hurt; for the Whale is not ſo kept in, but it may hurt the leſſer fiſhes. The thing that Job intended was, that he was kept in his troubles by Gods mighty power, as a priſoner by a watch or guard, that he could no way eſcape. So the ſea is kept within its bounds, and the whale ſurrounded, when they go to take him. So good men ſet a watch over their lips, that no ill word eſcape them, Pſal. 39. 1. & 141. 3. Thus have Gods ſervants been ſo compaſſed about with troubles, as priſoners with walls, and with a guard, that they could ſee no way of getting out, Pſal. 18. 4, 5 & 116. 3. Jon. 2. 5, 6. Chap. 13. 27. Lam. 3. 7. Job deſired death very much as an end of his troubles, Chap. 3. 21, 22. but could find no way to eſcape at that door.

V. 13. When I ſay, My bed ſhall comfort me, my couch ſhall eaſe my complaint] He goes on to ſhew the greatneſſe of his grief, and his unquiet condition, and to amplifie his ſorrows, in that they gave him no intermiſſion, or time of reſt. He was full of pain in the day, yet had ſome hope, that the night, which afforded ſweet ſleep to others, would afford him ſome little eaſe alſo; but he could find no ſuch favour. The uſual means of refreſhing, by lying in bed, or on couches, failed his expectation. In the fourth verſe he had ſhewed that his reſtleſneſſe in the night, made him wiſh for day. Here he ſhews, that when day was come, his pains made him wiſh for night again: ſo he had no ſatisfaction day nor night. He wiſhes for change, as Princes deſire to go from one ſtately palace to another; not that they find ſatisfaction where they go, but becauſe they find it not where they were.

when I ſay] When I think within my ſelf, and make account of it, Pſal. 39. 1. & 53. 1. Gen. 20. 11. and ver. 4. of this Chapter. For Say, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

my bed] The reſt I ſhall find in my bed. My ſleep. Though the day would yield me no eaſe, yet I was perſwaded, that the night, when it came, would yield me quiet ſleep.

ſhall comfort me] Shall afford me matter of comfort. For the bed could not ſpeak to him; yet it might eaſe him; as follows in this verſe.

my couch] Some take it for a place to reſt on in the day; but it may well be all one with the bed; becauſe, both here, and in the verſe following, he ſpeaks of ſleep, which is moſt uſual in the night. So the bed and the couch are uſed for the ſame, Pſal. 6. 6. and there, with manifeſt relation to the night.

ſhall eaſe] Heb. ſhall lift up or bear, or take away. It ſhall lift up, or take away my pain from me, that lies as a burden upon me, and makes me to compain. Sleep is an eaſe to ſorrows for the time, and the bed an uſual place of ſleep, and, by conſequence of eaſe. I lie down with an heavy burden of ſorrow and care, hoping to get a little breathing. Such a burden Cain had, Gen. 4. 13. For Eaſe, ſee on Chap. 21. 3. on Suffer.

my complaint] Or, Eaſe me in my complaint. Repeating Me, out of the former part of the verſe, which is not unuſual in the Scripture. Or, Give eaſe in my complaint; Or, To my complaint. So this particle is uſed, Ezra 9. 7. To the ſword, &c. Or, Eaſe of my complaint; that is, take away part of it at leaſt, if not all. So it is uſed, Exod. 12. 43. & 14. 28. Lev. 8. 32. & 22. 4.

V. 14. Then thou ſkareſt me with dreames, and terrifieſt me through viſions] It falls out far otherwiſe then I expected. I find my ſelf not onely quite diſappointed of the reſt I looked for; but alſo am ſkared moſt, where I expected moſt comfort.

Then] Not in the day, when he ſaid ſo within himſelf; but in the night following, when he made account of reſt; as he had ſaid, ver. 13.

thou] Thou, O God. Satan might be the inſtrument of ſending theſe dreams, as he was of taking away Job's goods; yet that alſo is attributed to God, Chap. 1. 21. And it was within his Commiſſion to affright Jobs mind, as well as to afflict his body. Any trouble he might bring upon him, ſo he ſaved his life, Chap. 2. 6. All inferiour cauſes are ordered by God; and to Him good men look up in time of trouble; and Him they accuſe in paſſion, as Job doth here, becauſe they know none can affright or hurt them without his leave.

ſkareſt me] Caſteſt me down to the ground with affrightments, or breakeſt me, as it were, in pieces. What ſleep I have, terrifies me; but eaſes me not at all, rather affrights me. All my comforts prove croſſes.

with dreams] The Original comes from a word that ſignifies to be thick, and to be in health. Men in health dream of thoſe things in the night, which they are buſied about in the day; and thoſe dreams ariſe out of thick vapours, flying up into the head. But theſe dreams of Job were extraordinary, ariſing out of the bad humours bred in him by his diſeaſe; for ſick men are moſt prone to dream of terrible things. It may be alſo Satan had an hand in it, as was noted already.

terrifieſt me] Repreſenteſt terrible Objects to me in my dreams, which ſkare me. Terrifying is the cauſe, ſkaring the effect. See on Chap. 6. 4.

through] Or, with. So is this particle uſed, Cant. 1. 1.

viſions] Not Revelations of heavenly Myſteries; as Chap. 4. 13. but apparitions of horrour. Every dream had ſome kind of viſion in it, ſomewhat repreſented to the phantaſie, Gen. 28. 12. & 37. 5, 7. & 41. 1, 2. Dan. 2. 1, 31. & 4. 5, 10. This viſion might appear to him when he was awake; as Peters did, Act. 10. 9, 11. with Act. 11. 5. but it is moſt likely it came when he was aſleep, becauſe it is joyned to dreams. Either he could not ſleep for pain, or had very unquiet ſleep.

V. 15. So that] This is inferred out of the former. I am ſo terrified with theſe night-viſions, that I wiſh my ſelf dead.

my ſoul] It may be taken properly for the ſoul; for the choice of things is in it, and the body follows the dictates of it, and cannot chuſe any thing when the ſoule is gone out of it. Or it may be be taken for the perſon; for actions are attributed to perſons. So it is taken, Exod. 1. 5. For Soul, ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

chooſeth] Not that he deſired death for it ſelf, for all things naturally deſire the preſervation of themſelves; but he had rather be ſtrangled, then live in that miſerable condition. Not that he had any thought of ſtrangling himſelf; but he intimates, that his pain was ſo great, that if he were put to his choice, he would chuſe a ſudden death, rather then to remain in ſo troubleſome a life.

ſtrangling] He ſhews his bitterneſſe of ſpirit, in preferring a violent ignominious death before his life. Strangling was one of thoſe kinds of death uſed among the Jews, for the puniſhment of capital offenders, ſuch as ſtrook father or mother, or ſtole an Iſraelite, falſe prophets, and ſuch as propheſied in the name of an idol, adulterers, ſuch as committed folly with a prieſts daughter, Elders who contradicted the Conſiſtory. And when the Romans overcame the Jews, they brought in crucifying in ſtead of it, which was their manner of putting to death malefactors.

And death] To be ſtrangled till I die: or rather, any other kind of death; ſo that he might be gone out of the world, and be eaſed of his pain.

rather then my life] Heb. rather then my bones. Rather then to abide in my bones; for the bones uphold the body, which is the houſe of the ſoul. I had rather be dead then have ſuch rotten bones full of ſores and ulcers. He mentions his bones, becauſe his ſores and pains pierced to his very bones; and he had little elſe left in likelihood, his fleſh being conſumed, and skin cracked with ſores, and therefore not worth the naming. For doubtleſſe Satan, according to the extent of his commiſſion, had afflicted his very bones. Job had rather die, then live ſuch an anatomy. Or the bones are put for the life; becauſe without bones a man cannot live; for the bones uphold the body: without them no member could do his office; but the whole body would fall to the ground. Or, by a figure, the greatneſſe of his pains is ſet out by the wearing of his bones; as it is, Pſal. 6. 2. & 51. 8. Lam. 1. 13. Prov. 14. 30. & 17. 22. Iſa. 38. 13. It goes ill with a man, when his skin is broken with running ſores, worſe when his fleſh conſumes, worſt of all, when his bones are waſted. Others read it, Death out of my bones. That I had ſome deadly diſeaſe breeding in my bones, that would kill me quickly. Or that death would take my ſoul out from within my bones, which now keep it in, as in a priſon. Others read it, Death is deſired, or choſen by my bones. Repeating the word chuſing out of the former part of the verſe; and attributing deſire, or choice, to the bones by a metaphor, becauſe they would deſire it, if they had underſtanding as the ſoul hath. So ſpeech is attributed to the bones, Pſal. 35. 10. becauſe they had great cauſe to break out into the praiſe of God, if they could ſpeak. But the firſt reading is moſt proper, as beſt expreſſing the depth of Jobs miſery. For Bone, ſee on Chap. 2. 5.

V. 16. I loath it, I would not live alway: let me alone, for my dayes are vanity] Job further amplifies the greatneſſe of his terrours, and pains, in that they make him not onely weary of his life, but alſo to loath it, as a thing abominable, that he could ſcarce think of with patience.

I loath it] I loath my life, ver. 15. This kind of life is very tedious and noiſome to me. I utterly deteſt it; I care not what becomes of it; I deſpiſe it. So the word is uſed, Chap. 5. 17. & 9. 21. Pſal. 53. 5. Amos 5. 21. Or, I loath them; that is, his bones mentioned, v. 15.

I would not live alway] In this world; for he was willing, doubtleſſe, to live for ever in heaven. Heb. to eternity. I were forever miſerable, if I ſhould live ever in this condition. Or, alway, may be taken for a long time; as for ever is, Pſal. 132. 14. He knew that no man could live alway, and therefore the word had need be ſo qualified. Or, it may be read, I cannot live for ever. Therefore ſpare me while I do live; let me have a little reſt before I die. Or, as good die now, as at another time, for die I muſt ere long, and then my ſorrowes will end. For Alway, ſee on Chap. 22. 15. on Old.

let me alone] Heb. ceaſe from me. Give over afflicting me, Pſal. 39. 13. Do not handle a man full of ſores ſo roughly. See chap. 10. 20. & 14. 6. This is called removing of Gods ſtroke, Pſal. 39. 10. Or, ceaſe from preſerving my miſerable life. Do not prolong my wretched dayes. I am near death; let me go quietly to my grave.

my dayes] The dayes of my life. Reckoned by dayes, not by moneths or years, to ſhew the ſhortneſſe of mans life. See on ver. 1. For Dayes, ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

vanity] Moſt vain. Like to vanity it ſelf. See on ver. 3.

V. 17. What is man, that thou ſhouldſt magnifie him? and that thou ſhouldſt ſet thine heart upon him?] It is a very unequal match for the great God to contend with a weak man as I am.

what is] Man is nothing, not worth the looking upon. The queſtion makes it the more emphatical; as if Job had ſaid, I have been ſeriouſly pondering what is in man, and I find nothing in him, to make him worthy of ſo great eſteem. See the phraſe, Pſal. 8. 4. & 144. 3. Heb. 2. 6. 2 Sam. 7. 18.

man] Miſerable, ſickly, ſorrowfull man. A fit name for ſo vile a creature. See ver. 1. How little, how mean is man, how unfit to grapple with God?

that thou ſhouldſt magnifie him] Not to declare his greatneſſe; as Luk. 1. 46. Pſal. 34. 3. but to prize him greatly, Rom. 11. 13. Act. 5. 13. To account him as one worthy for thee to look after, or to conteſt with thy ſelf, Chap. 14. 3. Or, to eſteem him able to bear any afflictions by his great ſtrength. It ſeems that thou accounteſt ſo of me, in that thou laieſt ſo much trouble on me. This ſenſe the verſes following that ſpeak of trials and afflictions, do require.

thou ſhouldſt ſet thine heart upon him] Value him ſo highly, 1 Sam. 4. 20. 2 Sam. 18. 3. by accounting him as one fit to contend with thee. Or, That thou ſhouldſt ſet thine heart againſt him. To deſtroy him; as Chap. 34. 14. So Gods eyes are ſet upon or againſt men to ſlay them, ver. 8. of this Chapter. What credite is it for the great God to overcome a weak man? See the like, 1 Sam. 24. 14. Man is ſo vile, that he is not worthy to be looked after, or puniſhed by thee. He can do thee no harme, nor is no fit enemy for thee to grapple withal. It is too much honour to him for thee to contend with him. Thus Job uſeth all kind of arguments to perſwade God to mitigate his ſorrows. For Heart, ſee on Chap. 15. 12.

V. 18. And that thou ſhouldſt viſit him every morning, and try him every moment?] Here he explains what he meant in the former verſe, by Gods magnifying man, and ſetting his heart upon him; namely, thinking him a fit object for him to afflict and ſubdue.

thou ſhouldſt viſit him] Not in mercy, as Exod. 3. 16, 17. & 4. 31. Ruth 1. 6. Gods people think God neglects them when they want, and viſits them, when their wants are ſupplied. But this viſitation, here ſpoken of, is in anger; as appears by the word of trying, joyned to it. So the word is taken, Exod. 32. 34. & 20. 5. & 34. 7. Job 35. 15. Jer. 5. 9. & 48. 44. Hoſ. 9. 7. what man hath ſtrength to bear ſuch great afflictions? The word פקד ſignifies. 1. To viſit, Exod. 20. 5. 2. To miſſe, 1 Sam. 25. 15. 3. To want, Iſa. 34. 16. 4. To number, Numb. 7. 44. 5. To charge, or command, 2 Chron. 36. 23. 6. To ſet over, or make overſeer, Gen. 39. 4. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for viſiting.

every morning] Heb. at mornings. There are two mornings in the Original; One dark and duskiſh, from whence it hath his name in Hebrew, שחר, A little before Sun-riſing. The other after it, called בקר, from inquiring. For after Sun-riſing men begin to look after their buſineſſes, and the morning is the fitteſt time to ſtudy, when mens wits are freſheſt. By this phraſe is intimated, firſt the certainty of theſe viſitations. They are as ſure to come, as the Sun to riſe, and day-light to follow after darkneſſe. Secondly the ſpeedineſſe of them: they tarry not till noon, but as good husbands take the morning light to go about their affairs, and neglect not the firſt occaſion; ſo God did call Job to account, and inquire into him, as ſoon as he did awake and behold the day-light, Pſal. 46. 5. Jer. 35. 14. See the phraſe, Pſal. 73. 14. Lam. 3. 23.

and try him] With afflictions, to ſee how he can bear them, Pſal. 73. 14. So God uſeth to try the ſons of men, Jer. 9. 7. Zech. 13. 8, 9. Job 23. 10. and afflictions are called trials, eſpecially to Gods people, becauſe they are not ſent to deſtroy them, but to prove them, Chap. 9. 23. Ezek. 21. 13. Jam. 1. 12. 1 Pet. 1. 6, 7. Job aimes at his own particular trials, although he ſpeak of men in general. Thus thou haſt dealt with me. As the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks more expreſly, Pſal. 73. 14. And ſo Job explains himſelf, ver. 19.

every moment] Thou doſt not onely frequently, but continually afflict me. Thou beginneſt in the morning to ſcourge me for my ſins, and holdeſt on all the day long. This is more then to do it certainly and early, which was ſignified by every morning. It is the ſame with all the day long, Pſal. 44. 22. and 73. 14.

V. 19. How long wilt thou not depart from me? nor let me alone, till I ſwallow down my ſpittle?] What he ſpake of man in general, now he applies to himſelf in particular. Why doſt thou lay ſo much load on a creature ſo weak as I?

How long] Thou haſt given me no intermiſſion of pain a long time, When wilt thou do it?

wilt thou not depart from me?] Look away from me, as the word is tranſlated, Iſa. 22. 4. and then take thine afflicting hand off from me. How long will it be ere thou give me a little interim of reſt? My pain is perpetual. He ſpeaks to God, as a man would to an enemy, to deſire him to be gone, never thinking himſelf free from blows or hurt, while he is preſent. So the Gadarens deſired to be rid of Chriſt, Mark 5. 1, 17. He doth not wiſh to be without Gods comfortable preſence, but without his afflicting preſence, Pſal. 39. 10. Job 14. 16. So it follows; Let me alone. The Heb. word שעה ſignifies. 1. To look on one, or reſpect him, Gen. 4. 4. 2. To look to one ſo as to truſt in him, Iſa. 17. 7, 8. 3. To look off one, or turn away from him, Job 14. 6. So here.

nor let me alone] Not ceaſe from ſupporting me, but from ſtriking me. The word ſignifies to unlooſe a thing tied, and give it more liberty, Chap. 12. 21. Deut. 9. 14. Judg. 11. 37. How long will it be ere thou looſe the bands of mine affliction? Pſal. 4. 1. & 116. 16. & 146. 7. See ver. 16. of this Chapter.

till I ſwallow down my ſpittle] Some take it to be a proverbial and hyperbolical ſpeech intimating, that God gave him not ſo much time of eaſe, as a man may ſwallow his ſpittle in, which may be done in leſſe then a minute. God gave him not a breathing time, Chap. 3. 24. & 9. 18. Others take it to have reſpect to Jobs pain, whoſe ſorrows grew upon him ſo faſt, that they had like to choak him, and God gave him not power to ſpit out the corrupt matter that run down his throat, nor time to ſwallow it. It certainly argues Jobs continued ſorrows without the leaſt intermiſſion.

V. 20. I have ſinned, what ſhall I do unto thee, O thou preſerver of men? why haſt thou ſet me, as a mark againſt thee, ſo that I am a burden to my ſelf?] Be it ſo, that theſe judgements come on me for my ſins, is there no meanes left to pacifie thee? Doſt thou obſerve my ways ſo ſtrictly, that thou pickeſt me out from all the reſt that have ſinned againſt thee, to ſet me before thee, as a mark to ſhoot all thine arrows in, and to afflict with ſo many loſſes, ſores, and ſorrows?

I have ſinned] Or, Have I ſinned? as the Dutch tranſlation reads it. Be it ſo that I have committed ſome notorious ſinne, (which yet I do not grant) what wouldſt thou have me to do? Is there no way to eſcape thy wrath, without ſuffering ſo heavy troubles? This ſeems to be the ſcope of Jobs words, If I be a notorious ſinner, as my companions accuſe me. He doth not grant himſelfe to be ſo, for he ſtands to maintain his innocency. The word is erring, or miſſing the mark, Judg.20.16. We ſhould all ayme at an holy life, and make that our ſcope; but when we ſin, we go beſide the mark.

what ſhall I do unto thee] If I have ſinned againſt thee, what wouldſt thou have me to do to thee to appeaſe thy wrath? Have I ſo much hurt thee, that thou ſhouldeſt be ſo ſharp upon me? Or, what can I do unto thee? as Pſal.11.3. what can the righteous do? If I have ſinned, can I do thee any harm, or work thee any ſorrow? Chap. 35. 6,7,8. Why doſt thou work me ſo much trouble then?

O thou preſerver of men] Thou who uſeſt to keep men from hurt, and doſt preſerve others, why doſt thou lay ſo great a burden upon me? God preſerves beaſts; Pſal 36. 6. but eſpecially man, 1 Cor.9.9,10. Thus the word is uſed for keeping out of dangers, Deut. 32. 10. Pſal. 31.23. Or, O thou keeper of men. Who keepeſt me in afflictions, as in a priſon, that I cannot eſcape, Lam.3.5,6,7. I am kept in as a priſoner to judgement. See ver.12. Or, O thou obſerver of men. Thou that haſt ſhewed, by continual plaguing me, that thou in thine anger obſerveſt all mens miſcarriages to take advantages againſt them, to bring plagues on them. As a watchman watcheth on a tower to ſee if the enemy be coming, Nah. 2.1. 2 King.17.9. & 18. 8. Job. 27. 18. Prov.24.12. or as Keepers watch a field, and beſiegers a City, to reſtrain going in or out, Jer.4. 16. Thus God obſerved Jobs ſins, chap. 13.17. & 14.16. & 31. 4.

as a mark againſt thee] Heb. to thee. But this particle is tranſlated againſt, Chap. 8. 4. Pſal. 51. 4. Thou haſt ſet me right oppoſite againſt thee, as a man ſets a mark againſt him to ſhoot all his arrowes at. Muſt my boſome receive all thy arrowes? Chap. 6. 4. & 16. 12. Pſal. 21. 12. & 38. 2. 1 Sam. 3. 12. Thou toucheſt not others, but pickeſt me out; as if I were the greateſt ſinner in the world. Suppoſe I have ſinned, yet not ſo, as to deſerve ſo great evills. Or, as one that thou meeteſt withall. As an enemy, whom thou meeting in thine anger art ready to devour, as a Lion his prey, Chap. 13. 24. & 19. 11. Therefore the verb from which this word is derived in the Original, is tranſlated falling on one to deſtroy him, Judg.8.21. Amos 5.19.

ſo that] Heb. and. But it is well tranſlated, ſo that, becauſe Gods arrowes ſhot unto him made him burdenſome to himſelf, Pſal.38 3,4. See the like, ver. 15.

I am a burden] I am weary of my life, as of an heavie burden.

to my ſelf] Heb. upon my ſelf, that lies heavie upon my ſhoulders, makes me troubleſome to my ſelf, and quite tires my ſpirits. Others read it, to thee. Thou wouldſt gladly be rid of me, as a man would of an heavie burden he is weary of, and can no longer bear, Amos 2. 13. Iſa. 1. 24.

V. 21. And why doſt thou not pardon my tranſgreſſion, and take away mine iniquity? for now ſhall I ſleep in the duſt: and thou ſhalt ſeek me in the morning, and I ſhall not be] Seeing my ſins are no greater then other mens, why am I made a ſpectacle to others? why cannot my ſins be paſſed by without ſuch a load of troubles, that are likely to make an end of me?

And] Or, Yea. As it is tranſlated, Dan.11.26. It rather becomes thee a gracious God to pardon my ſinne, if it be ſo bad as they ſay, and to ſhew that thou haſt done it, by removing theſe plagues, then to continue them thus long, and to encreaſe them daily.

Why doſt thou not] See the like expoſtulation, Chap.3.11,12. and the phraſe, Chap. 31. 1. As if he ſhould ſay, I am unequally dealt withall, who cannot be ſpared as well as others, that have ſinned as much as I, and yet are as it were, pardoned, for they bear not the puniſhment of their ſins ſo heavily as I do.

pardon] Heb. lift up; or, take away. For pardon takes away the burden of our ſins; and the knowledge thereof gives peace to our conſciences, by lifting the burden off from them, that did oppreſſe them before. Sometime the word ſignifies lifting up a burden or yoke to eaſe the oppreſſed; as verſ. 13. Hoſ. 11.4. And it may be an alluſion to the ſacrifices and gifts that were lifted up, Ezr. 1. 4. ſee the margine there. The ſacrifices were lifted up upon the Altar. Lev.1.7,8. And thence the burnt ſacrifice had his name עולה in the Original, from aſcending, Lev.1. 3. Sometimes it ſignifies taking away, Exod. 10. 19. And therefore it is uſed for pardoning ſin, which is a lifting up, and taking away the greateſt burden in the world. So it is uſed, Pſal.85.2. Exod.34.7. Pſal.32. 1. Hoſ.14. 2. And the Greek word anſwerable to it is ſo uſed, Joh.1.29. For Pardon ſee chap. 21. 3. on Suffer.

my tranſgreſſion] Or, rebellion; as 2 King.3.7. It is uſed in Scripture to ſet out great offences, as Iſa. 57. 4. It is a degree beyond ſin, Job 34.37. If I had committed ſome great ſin againſt thee, as my friends ſay I have, yet it were fit, thou ſhouldſt forgive me, that cannot ſee it, and ſerve thee ſincerely.

and take away] Heb. make to paſſe away. Take away guilt and puniſhment, as 2 Sam. 12. 13. Leave it untoucht and unpuniſhed: Paſſe by it, as a thing thou takeſt no notice of, Amos 5. 23. & 7. 8. So the Greek word is uſed, Matth.26.33.

mine iniquity] The word properly ſignifies a thing bowed down, and crooked, Iſa. 21. 3. And metaphorically crooked and ſinful actions, Dan.9.5. And it is alſo uſed for the puniſhment of ſin; as Gen. 4.13. Pſal.31. 10. & 49.5. Gen.19. 15. And ſo it is uſed here, for Job in this diſtemper caſt his eye more upon his puniſhment, then his ſin. His meaning is, Why doſt thou not take away this heavie puniſhment laid upon me for ſome notorious ſin; as my friends conceive, and the world will judge?

for now] If help come not quickly, it will come too late. Theſe afflictions will ſoon make an end of me.

ſhall I ſleep] Or, lye down; for men lye down to ſleep. I ſhall be dead. So the word is uſed, Chap.3.13. Pſal.13. 3. Joh. 11. 11. Dan.12.2. For Sleep ſee on Chap.14. 12. on Lieth down.

in the duſt] So the Hebrew particle ל is tranſlated, Neh. 13. 27. I ſhall ly in the grave the place of duſt. Or, I ſhall ſleep being brought to duſt; as Gen.3.19. Pſal.22.15. Iſa.26.19 See one verb included in another, in the Notes on Chap. 2. 4. For duſt ſee on Chap. 14. 8. on Ground.

thou ſhalt ſeek me] If thou ſhouldſt ſeek me then, either to do me good, as thou doſt employ the creatures next day, when the darkneſſe of the night is over, or to afflict me more, it would be too late; therefore ſpare me now.

in the morning] Though thou ſhouldſt ſeek me diligently, as men follow their affaires in the morning. So this word is uſed, and tranſlated diligently, Prov. 7.15. Or, Though thou ſhouldſt take the fitteſt opportunity, and liklieſt to find me out, as the morning is fitteſt for moſt ſerious affairs. So the morning is uſed, Chap.8.5. Pſal. 5. 3. & 63. 1. Or, Though thou ſhouldeſt ſoon miſſe me, and quickly look for me; as men do for their friends next morning, who were laid on ſleep over night, yet all were to no purpoſe, I could not be found alive, ver. 18.

and I ſhall not be] See verſ.8. and on Chap.3. 16. & Pſal. 39. 13.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1. THen anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid] Job had as little reſt now in his diſputes, as Chap. 1. in the relations of his troubles. No ſooner had he anſwered one friend, or rather enemy, but another ſets upon him to vex him. It ſeems that Bildad was weary of hearing Job ſpeak ſo much againſt Gods proceedings, and therefore breaks him off before he had quite done ſpeaking, as appears by his queſtion in the next verſe, How long, &c.

Then] See on Chap.4. 1.

anſwered] Bildad that he may defend God from all injuſtice, endeavours to defend Eliphaz his ſpeech; and to confute Jobs, and to ſhew, that both he and his children were puniſhed for their wickedneſſe: and that ſudden deſtruction will come upon all hypocrites, unleſſe they repent, and then they may look for happineſſe, and all good things, as he confirms it, and proves by divers reaſons. See more on Chap. 3. 2. & 4. 1. For Anſwered ſee on chap. 16. 1.

Bildad the Shuhite] See on chap. 2. 11.

and ſaid] See on chap.3.2. & 4.1. For Said ſee on chap. 16. 1.

V. 2. How long wilt thou ſpeak theſe things? and how long ſhall the words of thy mouth be like a ſtrong wind?] He ſhewes his great diſlike of Jobs ſpeeches in the two former Chapters, and ſeems to be very zealous for God, whom he conceives Job had much diſhonoured in his words.

How long] An angry beginning expreſt by a queſtion, (as Chap. 7. 19.) accuſing Job of impudency, in continuing ſo long in ſuch ſtrange ſpeeches. He admires Job could be ſo large in ſuch diſcourſes, and ſhewes his indignation at it, as if he could no longer bear it. See the like, Pſal.4. 2. Prov. 1. 22. where, as here, the queſtion intimates a pertinacious and obſtinate perſiſtance in a way or opinion, ſo that one will not be altered by any ſound reaſon, that might convince him.

wilt thou ſpeak theſe things?] Theſe words may have relation to all that Job had ſpoken in the ſixth and ſeventh Chapters. Or they may look more nearly to what he ſaid in the concluſion of the former Chapter; verſ. 19, 20, 21. as being the ſharpeſt ſpeeches againſt Gods proceedings with him. Which ſoever it be, it argues a great admiration in Bildad, that ſuch high words againſt God ſhould come out of Jobs mouth. Or, it may ſhew forth, what a low account he makes of Jobs words; as if he had ſaid, How long wilt thou trouble us with ſuch ſorry ſtuffe, as this?

the words of thy mouth] Thou art not content to nouriſh evill thoughts of God in thy heart, but thou art ſo bold, as to bring them forth to corrupt others, and to make them think ill of God. For Mouth ſee on chap. 15.5.

like] This note of ſimilitude is added, as often elſewhere in Scripture. See on Chap.7.6. and it is often underſtood, where it is neither in the Originall, nor in the tranſlation, as Chap.6. 12. & 7.7.

a ſtrong wind] He reproves the vehemency of Jobs oration, which coming out of a ſtrong paſſion of mind was ſo pathetical, and of ſo high a ſtrain, as if he would have blown down God, and all his proceedings at a breath: ſuch a bluſtering noyſe did his words make, as if they were like a vehement wind, that bears down all before it; which he might the more wonder at in Job, that ſuch great words ſhould come out of ſo weak and worn a carcaſſe. So falſe teachers with ſwelling words blow down whole houſes, Tit. 1. 11. and ignorant perſons are carried away with every wind of doctrine, Eph.4. 14. Such ſtout words the wicked Jewes ſpake againſt God, Mal.3.13. Or it may be underſtood of the length of Jobs ſpeech, which was like a long laſting bluſtrous wind, and ſo it anſwers fitly to the beginning of the verſe. How long wilt thou ſpeak? Thy ſpeech is ſo fluent in this argument, and thou art ſo full of words, that thou wilt not give any man leave to confute thee. For it ſeems Bildad was fain to interrupt him, or elſe he could not have been heard. See on ver. 1. The word will bear either of theſe ſenſes, for it imports both magnitude and multitude, big words, or many words. See Chap.35.16. and 15.10. For Wind ſee on chap.15. 2. on Vain.

V.3. Doth God pervert judgement? or doth the Almighty pervert juſtice?] In this verſe is laid down the ground of Bildads following diſcourſe, which afterwards he applyes to Job in particular. He labours to prove that God deals uprightly in giving good things to good men, and puniſhing evill men; and concludes from this generall courſe of Gods dealings, that Job was juſtly afflicted. Thy words run, as if thou, O Job, didſt accuſe God of doing thee wrong, in laying theſe plagues upon thee. Thy ſpeeches look that way, as if thou didſt didſt think ſo, though thou dareſt not ſay ſo in plain terms. But though God be אל ſtrong and שדי almighty, yet will he not do any man wrong.

Doth] The queſtion intimates a great admiration in Bildad, that Job ſhould have ſuch a ſtrange conceit of God, and a vehement negation of the thing. Certainly God will not wrong any man. Thou maiſt take this for a grounded truth, although thy afflictions may blind thee, and make thee to think otherwiſe. If it were another mans caſe thou wouldeſt confeſſe it. Or, canſt thou give any inſtance, that ever God did any man wrong? If not, (as I know thou canſt not) why doſt thou then think ſo hardly of him? Or, Should God, &c, Is it a thing becoming God to wrong any man? Is it not ſinfull to have ſuch a ſuſpition of ſo holy a God? Should he not then ceaſe to be God, if he ſhould not keep the rule of juſtice and equity? See Gen. 18. 25. Deut.32. 4. 2 Chr. 19.7. Rom.3. 5,6. Dan.9.14.

God] This name is taken from ſtrength in the Originall, and is fitly applyed to God, in whom and from whom is all ſtrength. And eſpecially in matters of juſtice, which men for want of ſtrength, cannot adminiſter at ſometimes; as David could not on Joab and Abiſhai, 2 Sam.3. 39. But God cannot be hindered from doing juſtice on the greateſt, becauſe he is ſtrong, yea Almighty; as followes in this verſe.

pervert] Heb. make crooked. So the word ſignifies, Eccleſ.1. 15. It is impoſſible that God ſhould not proceed according to the ſtreight rule of juſtice. Or, overthrow. So the word is tranſlated, Chap.19.6. Lam.3. 36. When judgement is overthrown, a man is wronged in his cauſe, which God will not do, to whom men appeal, when they are ſo wronged by others, Lam. 3. 59.

judgement] The word is ſometime put for doing men right, as Iſa. 5.7. and ſometime for the law, the rule of judging, Pſal. 19.9. and otherwhile for moderation, as Jer.10. 24. But when it is joyned with juſtice, (as here) it imports care in finding out the equity of the cauſe. God doth as ſurely take notice of the buſineſſe before he paſſe ſentence, as Judges do by hearing, or witneſſes by ſeeing, Exod. 3. 7. Gen. 18. 21. God is ſo carefull to proceed warily in judging the cauſe, that he will never wrong any any man. For Judgement ſee on chap 22 4.

the Almighty] See on Chap.5. 17.

pervert] See before in this verſe.

Juſtice] Judgement and Juſtice go often together in Scripture. See 2 Sam.8. 15. 1 King.10. 9. Pſal. 119. 121. As judgement is diſtinguiſhed from juſtice; judgement is uſed in finding out the right; juſtice, in paſſing ſentence according to it. God will ſearch out the equity of the cauſe, and proceed accordingly. He hath no need to receive ought of men to corrupt him, who is all-ſufficient. It were ſin to think he would do ſo.

V.4. If thy children have ſinned againſt him, and he have caſt them away for their tranſgreſſion] God doth not pervert judgement, for thy children were overthrowne for their ſin: elſe they had eſcaped. And he would proſper thee, if thou wert righteous, verſ.5,6.

If] Or, Although, as Chap.27.16. Though thy children periſhed for their tranſgreſſion, yet God hath been more mercifull to thee, in giving thee time to humble thy ſelf: which if thou do, thou ſhalt eſcape and proſper. It is not a ſuppoſition, but a true ſtory, Chap. 1. 19. And therefore it ſhould the rather be read, Although. For it was done, and for their ſin done, as Bildad thought.

thy children] Heb. thy ſons: Yet the daughters are comprehended, who periſhed with them, Chap. 1. 18,19. For Children ſee on chap. 14. 21. on Sons.

have ſinned] See on chap.7.20. againſt him] Heb. to him. See on chap. 7. 20. or, unto him. As this particle is uſed, Nehem.3.7. Though men ſaw not how they carried themſelves in their feaſts, nor were not hurt by it, yet God ſaw it, and was offended for ſome great evill in their meetings, elſe Bildad conceives he would not have deſtroyed them with ſo heavie a judgement.

and he have caſt them away for their tranſgreſſion] So this particle ב is tranſlated, for, Eſt.4.7. Pſal. 150. 2. Iſai. 57. 17. Gen. 18. 28. & 29.25. & 31.42. In Hebrew it is, for the hand of their tranſgreſſion. That is, for their iniquities; as ביד is uſed, Iſai.64.7. and it may further intimate their actual wickedneſſe, That they were not onely evill in heart, but alſo in life. Hands do often, in Scripture phraſe, intend mens actions: as Pſal.58.2. Iſai.1. 12,15. Job 11. 14. Bildads meaning is, that God had deſtroyed Jobs children, as a man breaks an earthen veſſel, and daſhes it to pieces, by caſting it violently to the ground; and that God did this for their extraordinary ſinfull courſes known to God, though hidden from the world. He thought that God did all this out of wrath againſt Jobs children only, never imagining that Satan had any hand in it, by Gods permiſſion to try Job. Sometimes the particle ב ſignifies the inſtrument, and is tranſlated By. And By the hand, is by the means; as Pſal. 77. 20. And then the ſenſe were, that Jobs ſons would be deſtroyed by ſome wicked plot of their own, as Haman was. But that cannot be, becauſe they were deſtroyed by a ſtorm of wind: and that Bildad knew well: and therefore that is not his meaning. It may be read, And he have ſent them forth into the hand of their tranſgreſſion. And then ſending forth, is putting them out of his protection, as Adam was ſent forth out of paradiſe, Gen. 3. 23. and delivering them over to be puniſhed for their ſins. So one verb or action is included in another, Pſal.89. 39. Thou haſt profaned his crown to the ground, that is, by caſting it to the ground, as it is in the tranſlation. So Iſai.38. 14. Looking, added; and verſe 17. delivered, added, as included in the former words, and ſo the ſenſe is made plain. So it would be here, if it were read, And he have ſent them forth, delivering them into the hands of their tranſgreſſions. See more on Chap. 7. 21. Into the hand; for, into the power. See Neh. 9. 27. Joel. 3. 8. And hand for power, Gen. 16. 6. & 39. 6. Job 1. 12. & 2. 6. Of their tranſgreſſion: or, Of their rebellion. It properly ſignifies a ſervants receding from the will of his maſter, out of pride, 2 King.3. 7. & 8. 20. Some underſtand this later part of the verſe, of Gods giving them over to their own hearts luſts, that they might go on in ſin with greedineſſe; as Pſal. 81. 12. But that cannot be Bildads meaning here, for he points at the violent death of Jobs ſons, which cut them off from going on in their ſinfull courſes. Rather ſin is here compared to an executioner, and God to a judge, who gives men over to ſuffer condigne puniſhment for their ſin: and that is called, Sending them forth into the hand of their ſins, as if their ſins did execute that ſentence on them, which they deſerved by their ſins, Pſal. 140. 11. Prov. 1. 32. For Caſt away ſee on Chap. 14. 20. on Sendeſt. For Hand ſee on Chap.15. 23.

V. 5. If thou wouldeſt ſeek unto God betimes, and make thy ſupplication to the Almighty] God hath indeed puniſhed thy children for their ſins, and delivered them over to the laſt and laſting judgement, without hope of mercy, becauſe of thoſe enormous wickedneſſes they have have committed againſt him. It ſeems thou haſt not committed ſo great tranſgreſſions againſt God; and therefore he hath ſpared thee hitherto, that the light of our wholeſome counſel, might bring thee to ſeek unto God for mercy; and then he that deſtroyed thy ſonnes, will not only ſpare thee, but reſtore thee to thy former proſperity.

If thou wouldeſt ſeek betimes] The Hebrew word ſignifies ſeeking early in the morning, making it his chiefeſt, and moſt ſerious work; as men that have buſineſſe of weight, neglect no time, but go about it in the morning, as ſoon as they are up. For the phraſe, ſee on Chap. 7. 18, 21. For the matter, ſee Chap.5.8. & 11.13. Acts 17. 27.

unto God] See on verſ.3.

and make thy ſupplication] The Hebrew word ſignifies praying for mercy out of free-grace alone. He counſels Job not to ſtand upon terms of his own innocency with God, much leſſe to plead any merit, but to throw himſelf at Gods feet, and to ſue to him for mercy, for the pardon of his ſins, and taking away his heavie judgements, deſervedly inflicted upon him. So the word is uſed, Deut.3.23. It is the language of the poor, that have no merit to plead, but ſue for relief out of meer favour, Prov.18. 23.

to the Almighty] See on verſ.3. & Chap.5.17.

V.6. If thou wert pure and upright, ſurely now he would awake for thee, and make the habitation of thy righteouſneſſe proſperous] If having obtained pardon for thy ſins paſt, by humble and earneſt prayer to God, thou wouldeſt amend for the time to come, God would deal better with thee.

If thou wert] Or, If thou wouldeſt be. If thou wouldeſt joyn reformation to thy ſupplication, and didſt reſolve, and wouldeſt endeavour to alter thy courſe for time to come, God would ſurely bleſſe thee. So the phraſe would ſuit well with what went before in the fifth verſe; if thou wouldeſt ſeek unto God, and with that which follows after, He would awake for thee.

pure] Clean. Shining like gold purified from the droſſe, Lam.4. 7. Levit. 24.2. Matth.5. 16. Free from filth and ſpots of great ſins, either open or ſecret, and unrepented of, Chap.9. 30. & 15. 15. Pſal. 73. 13. Therefore ſin is called filthineſſe, 2 Cor.7.1. Eph.5.4. Jam. 1.21. 1 Pet.3.21. Rev.17.4. It is alſo compared to ſpots, Eph.5.27. 2 Pet.2.13. Jud.verſ.12.

upright] Or, right. Not crooked. Didſt walk according to the ſtrait rule of Gods word, and not according to thy own crooked affections. See on Chap.1. 1. Purity here may ſignifie ſincerity of heart, and uprightneſſe, integrity of life.

ſurely] So this particle כי ſignifies, Numb. 22. 33. Ruth 1. 10. without any doubt it is ſo. God would certainly ſhew thee mercy, if thou didſt repent and reform. There is no queſtion to be made of it. The words might be more fully expreſt, thus; It is certain that he would awake for thee.

now] Preſently, ſpeedily, as ſoon as thou repenteſt, Jer.31. 18, 19,20. Luke 15. 20.

he would awake] Though now he ſeem to be aſleep unto thee, and not to regard thy prayer, yet if thou didſt adde reformation to it, he would quickly hear thee, and grant thee the good thou prayeſt for. God never ſleeps, Pſal. 121. 4. But when he lets his people lye in troubles, and ſeems not to regard them, he is compared to a man aſleep: and then his people do, as it were, awake him with their prayers, as Chriſt was awaked in the ſhip, Matth. 8. 25. Pſal. 7. 6. & 44. 23.

for thee] To help thee, deliver thee, and do thee good. Not awake againſt thee to do thee hurt as he hath formerly done, and thou mighteſt juſtly fear, he might do ſtill for thy ſins, Dan. 9. 24.

and make] He would not awake for nothing, but for thy good, not only to free thee from thy trouble, but alſo to make thee proſper, Chap. 5. 24.

the habitation] Some take it for the ſoul, in which righteouſneſſe dwells. Others, for the body, wherein the righteous ſoul dwells. But it is to be underſtood plainly of the place where he dwelt, with the perſons and goods belonging to him, and buſineſſe there to be done; all which God would proſper. For Habitation ſee on Chap. 5. 3.

of thy righteouſneſſe] That is, thy righteous habitation: as O God of my righteouſneſſe, Pſal. 4. 1. that is, O my righteous God. Thy habitation, which thou ſhalt have righteouſly gotten, and not by rapine and extortion, as thou didſt thy former: (for ſo Bildad thought:) or, the habitation wherein thou ſhalt exerciſe duties of righteouſnes to God and man for time to come, for it is not here oppoſed to holineſſe, but containes holineſſe under it. So the word is uſed, Prov 8. 8, 18, 20, & 16, 31. Eccl. 7. 15.

Proſperous] The Original word in the firſt ſignification of it, is, peaceable. Now becauſe proſperity follows peace, as ruine follows war; therefore the word, at the ſecond hand, ſignifies proſperous. He will make it a comfortable habitation, and all that thou haſt in it, or about it, to proſper, Pſal. 1. 3. Thy family ſhall live peaceably among themſelves, and thou ſhalt have abundance, and not be robbed by others, as formerly. Thy habitation hath been filled with goods gotten by oppreſſion, and ſubject to ſpoyl. If thou repent, it ſhall be ſo no more; but be filled with ſtore of goods righteouſly gotten. Laſtly, becauſe in peace, buildings and trades are brought to perfection, that are ruined by war; the word ſignifies perfect, or compleat. And then the ſenſe may be, Thy habitation is now ruinous, thy children, cattel and goods loſt, but upon thy returning to God, he will not only begin to build it again, but make it as compleat as ever it was. He will finiſh it, ſo that nothing ſhall be wanting to it.

V. 7. Though thy beginning was ſmall, yet thy latter end ſhould greatly increaſe] God will not only awake to thee, and make thy ſtate proſperous, as he did before; but he will alſo increaſe it very much; as afterwards he did. See Chap. 42.

though] Heb. and. But it is often put for though; as Pſal. 78. 23. Prov. 28. 6.

thy beginning] Not the beginning of his life, but of his riches: the firſt part or head of thy eſtate. The Hebrew word ראשית ſignifies 1. A beginning in time. Gen. 10. 10. 2. Firſt in dignity. 1 Sam. 15. 21. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for firſt in time.

was] In former times; or, were; or, ſhould be. Now after thy repentance.

ſmall] In quantity or quality, riches or honour; for greatneſſe and ſmallneſſe are applyed to both in Scripture, Pſal. 119. 141. Jer. 30. 19. & 49. 15. & 42. 1, 8.

yet] So ו is tranſlated, Pſal. 119. 109, 110. The ſmallneſſe of thy beginnning ſhall be no hinderance to thy increaſe in riches and greatneſſe. But thou ſhalt grow apace, when once thou beginneſt to thrive again.

thy latter end] Not of thy dayes, but of thy wealth. Thou ſhalt grow to a great height of riches and honour before thou dieſt. The word אחרית ſignifies, 1. An end in time, Deut. 4. 30. 2. The reward which is given, when the work is ended. Prov. 24. 14. 3. Poſterity, which come after, and ſucceed their parents, Pſal. 109. 13. 4. The loweſt, or laſt in honour, moſt contemptible, Jer. 50. 12. Here it is put in the firſt ſenſe.

ſhould greatly increaſe] Some take it for a compariſon between his paſt and future proſperity, as if Bildad ſhould have ſaid; Thy former riches ſeemed to be great, but they were nothing in compariſon of thoſe that are to come, if thou truly return to God. But it is more likely to be a deſcription of the greatneſſe of his future proſperity, notwithſtanding the ſmallneſſe of his hopes: as if Bildad had ſaid; Thou haſt nothing left now, all is gone; yet if thou be reconciled to God, he will enrich thee to admiration. So it came to paſſe, Chap. 42. Each of his friends gave him a ſmall pittance to begin withall, and God increaſed it to the double of his former poſſeſſions.

V. 8. For enquire I pray thee of the former age, and prepare thy ſelf to the ſearch of their fathers] I do not deſire that thou ſhouldeſt ground thy belief on my words; but enquire of the wiſeſt and beſt men in former ages, whom thou haſt no reaſon to diſtruſt, although thou mayeſt ſlight me. They will by many and daily examples prove, both what I ſaid before, that God will make good men to proſper after their afflictions; and what I ſhall ſay after, that he will deſtroy the wicked, though they flouriſh for a time.

For] This particle uſhers in a reaſon of that which went before from the experience of former times.

enquire] Heb. ask; Seek to be reſolved out of the Writings of predeceſſours, or the inſtructions and informations they have left to their poſterity by word of mouth. The Hebrew word שאל ſignifies 1. To ask, or enquire. Gen. 38. 71. 2. To borrow. Exod. 12, 35. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

I pray thee] He deales gently with him, as Eliphaz did, Chap. 4. 7. whom Bildad imitates in matter, and manner, in arguments and expreſſions.

of] Ask them how things went then. So ל is uſed, Gen. 43. 27. or concerning: Enquire how matters were carried then. So it is taken, Pſal 64. 5. & 91. 11.

the former] Some take it for the firſt age of the world: as the word is tranſlated, Exod. 12. 2. But that cannot be the ſenſe here, becauſe their fathers are mentioned, which agrees not with the firſt age of the world. It muſt therefore be underſtood of the age immediately before them, whoſe ſayings and doings were yet freſh in the memory of their children yet alive. So the word ſignifies, Deuter. 4. 32. & 10. 14.

age] An age ſignifies a multitude of men, that lived long together at one time: and is tranſlated ſometimes a generation; as Pſal. 12. 7. & 109. 13. & 145. 13. Numb. 32. 13. Learn from the men that lived then, whether I ſay true or no. Sometimes it ſignifies the time in which men live together; as Gen. 6. 9. & 9. 12. Search the Chronicles of thoſe times, and they will confirm what I ſay.

prepare thy ſelf] Or, Fit thy ſelf. Go not raſhly about it, but lay a good foundation of thy ſearch, and fix thy heart on it; Pſal. 108. 1.

to the ſearch] To ſearch out what they believed in this point Chap. 11. 7. or to conceive that which they have found out by diligent ſearch.

of their fathers] The Fathers of the immediate forepaſſing times, and ſo upwards to the beginning of the world. But theſe onely named, becauſe mens informations and memories will reach better to two generations, in regard of the long life of ſome particular perſons in each, then further backward: Go backward from one Generation to another, and thou ſhalt find it to have been ſo alwayes, by that which was done in their Fathers time, and in every age obſerved by them. Now the Fathers who lived before, had more means to get knowledge of the truth, in regard of the length of their lives, whereby they were filled with experience; and alſo becauſe God himſelf ſometimes ſpake unto them, and thoſe truths they received from their parents were kept purer, becauſe they were nearer to the Fountains, and therefore they appealed often to them before the Scriptures were written, as our Laws refer to ruled caſes long ſince determined, Deut. 4. 32. & 32. 7. Job 4. 7. & 5. 1. & 32. 7. But now the word is the rule, and not revelations nor traditions, Iſa. 8. 20. Rev. 22. 18, 19. For Father ſee on chap. 15. 24.

V. 9 For we are but of yeſterday, and know nothing, becauſe our dayes upon earth are a ſhadow] In this verſe Bildad anſwers a ſecret objection, which Job might have made to this purpoſe; What need you ſend us back to our predeceſſors to ſchool? Why cannot you teach us your ſelf? He anſwers, we know not what was done formerly, we have had but a ſhort time of obſervation; and therefore we refer thee to thoſe that lived long ſince, and longer, and ſo might know more then we.

we] We who live now in this age: or I and my fellowes, who reaſon with thee. See on Chap. 4. 2.

of yeſterday] Sometimes the word תמול in Scripture, is put for the day immediately before; as Exod. 5. 14. Joh. 4. 52. Sometimes it ſignifies all time paſt; as Heb. 13. 8. In this place it ſignifies time newly paſt. We are but of late time. And therefore it is well tranſlated, But of yeſterday, to point out the ſenſe the more fully. We were born lately, and have lived but a while in the world, and therefore cannot know much, nor are not to be compared with our Fathers, who were born before us, and lived longer then we, Gen. 47. 9. Thus yeſterday is put for time lately paſt, 2 King 9. 26. 2 Sam. 15. 20. and ſo the ſame word is tranſlated of late, Mic. 2. 8. or, we are as ignorant, in compariſon of thoſe wiſe men that lived in former times; as children, that were born yeſterday, that know nothing.

and] Or, therefore. Being ſo lately born, we have not time to get knowledge by ſtudy or experience. So this particle ו is tranſlated, Ezek. 23. 31. Job 11. 6.

know nothing] Heb. know not. Not that they were beaſts, or ſilly idiots, that had no underſtanding of the truth; but little, in compariſon of what their predeceſſours knew. So much, in Scripture phraſe is ſometimes ſignified by a negation; as Hoſ. 6. 6. I deſire mercy and not ſacrifice; that is, I delight more in mercy, then ſacrifice.

becauſe] Another reaſon of the ſhortneſſe of their knowledge taken from the ſhortneſſe of their dayes. As they lived not in former dayes to know what was done then; ſo they had lived but a while, nor could not live long to get any great ſtore of knowledge now.

our dayes] The dayes of our life. See on Chap. 7. verſ. 1, 6. For Dayes ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

upon earth] While we live here in this world. See on Chap. 7. 1. For Earth] ſee on Chap. 9. 24.

are a ſhadow] They are like to a ſhadow. The note of likeneſſe is often omitted in Scripture to make the ſpeech the more emphaticall, as verſ. 2. See on Chap. 7. 7, 9. It may be underſtood of their dayes paſt, which were ſoon gone; or of the whole courſe of their life, which was very ſhort; not like a day that conſiſts of many hours, but like a ſhadow that laſts but a ſmall part of a day, and is gone as ſoon as the Sun hides his head under a cloud, 1 Chr. 29. 15. Job. 7. 6. Pſal. 144. 4. & 102. 11. & 39. 5, 6.

V. 10. Shall not they teach thee, and tell thee, and utter words out of their heart?] Thou ſhalt not enquire in vain, nor loſe thy labour, thou ſhalt learn much from them. They will teach thee the ſame things thou heareſt of me.

ſhall not] Certainly they ſhall inform thee in what thou couldſt not inform thy ſelf. This is the force of the queſtion, Gen. 13. 9. See on verſ. 3.

they] The fore-fathers ſpoken of, verſ. 8. to which coherence he now returnes, having digreſſed in the ninth verſe, in a parentheſis.

teach thee] Diſtill their precepts into thee gently, as the rain falls upon the earth to make it fruitfull; for ſo the word ſignifies in its primary uſe; Prov. 11. 25. Hoſ. 10. 12. Deut. 32. 2. They ſhall acquaint thee with Gods wiſdome, and juſtice, in his proceedings, by thoſe inſtructions they have left with their poſterity; for they themſelves were dead. For Teach ſee on Chap. 6. 24.

and tell thee] Or, and ſay to thee; to wit, the words in the verſes following. They ſhall not hold their peace, and engroſſe their knowledge to themſelves. For Tell ſee on Chap. 16. 1. on Said.

and utter words] Heb. and make words to come forth. To flow as from a fountain, or come out of the heart, as rain out of the clouds.

out of their heart] A wiſe mans heart is his treaſury, wherein he layes up abundance of knowledge to bring forth upon all occaſions, Mat. 12. 35. & 13. 52. and old men have moſt time to lay up this treaſure: they will not ſpeak raſhly, or at randome, as thou haſt done, but what they have well weighed in their hearts, before it comes out of their mouthes. They will ſpeak judiciouſly and ſolidly to you: they will teach you really and ſincerely, what they think themſelves. For Heart ſee on Chap. 15. 12.

V. 11. Can the ruſh grow up without mire? can the flag grow without water?] Now he ſets down what the Fathers had obſerved, and would impart unto them; and that by ſimilitudes taken from natural things, ſhewing thereby that the ſame God is the authour both of nature and grace, when the myſteries of the later are expounded by the works of the former. And as David and Solomon were excellent in this way of teaching; ſo likewiſe were Job and his friends. By three elegant ſimilitudes, one taken from a ruſh; another from a Spiders web; and a third from a tree, he ſets out the flitting proſperity of ungodly men: and ſtrikes at Job and his children for want of ſolid piety, and cloſely intimates, that therfore Gods judgements came upon them.

can] Certainly it cannot. See on verſ. 3. and 10.

the ruſh] It is as ordinary for God to deſtroy great men, that have no piety in them; as for a ruſh to wither, when the mire in which it growes, is dried up. The word is tranſlated, a bull-ruſh, Exod. 2. 3. Iſa. 18. 2. It hath the name from drinking, becauſe ruſhes and flags cannot ſubſiſt without moiſture. It ſeems to be ſome bigger and ſtronger matter, then our ruſhes; becauſe veſſels to keep children out of the water, and for paſſengers to go by ſea, were made of it, as appears in the places quoted.

grow up] The growing here is meant in heighth. Lift up its head ſtately, For the word is often uſed for pride in Scripture, Prov. 15. 25. Iſa. 16. 6. A ruſh cannot pride it ſelf without moiſture; nor a wicked man lift up himſelf long above others, for want of Gods favour to uphold him.

without mire] The word is tranſlated fens, Chap. 40. 21. Miry places, Ezek. 47. 11. wet and ſoft grounds produce and nouriſh ruſhes.

the flag] Some take it for a leſſer reed. Others, for a Meadow; as Gen. 41. 2. meaning the graſſe that is on the Meadow, on which cattel feed. The word hath its originall from אח, a brother; becauſe flags, and ſo alſo graſſe in a Meadow, grow together as in a brotherhood.

grow] Multiply, as flaggs and graſſe do. So much the word imports, verſ. 7. Pſal. 73. 12. or grow in heighth and bigneſſe; as Iſa. 17. 11.

without water] It cannot grow, nor thrive in dry places. No more can ungodly men proſper long, though they may flouriſh for a time. For Water ſee on Chap. 14. 9.

V. 12. Whileſt it is yet in his greeneſſe, and not cut down, it withereth before any other herb] He goes on with the ſimilitude, to ſhew that as Ruſhes when they are greeneſt, and ſpared by men, and permitted to grow; yet wither often for want of moiſture: ſo the proſperity of wicked men, when it ſeemes moſt flouriſhing, if it be not ruined by others, yet for want of Gods bleſſing, it moulders away of it ſelf: which hath been often ſeen in our dayes, in great eſtates unjuſtly gotten, and conſumed, no man knowes how, Hag. 1. 6. This verſe may be joyned to the former, and be read thus; If the Ruſh grow up without mire, or the flag without water, while it is yet in his greenneſſe, though it be not cut down; yet it will wither before any other herb. So ה is put for if, Chap. 4. 2. And then the ſenſe is, Suppoſe a Reed or Flag ſhould grow green, where no moiſture is, yet it is ſo far from continuing, that if no violence be offered to it, yet it will decay of it ſelf; and ſo will wicked mens wealth, though God ſuffer them to thrive for a time.

whileſt it is yet in his greenneſſe] That is, while it flouriſheth moſt, before the beauty of it be gone. Hence the moneth Abib, or March, had his name in the Hebrew, becauſe in thoſe Eaſtern Countries, corn did then begin to appear green.

and not cut down] It is tranſlated, cutting up, Chap. 30. 4. cropping off, Ezek. 17. 4, 22. plucking, Deut. 23. 25. The Jewiſh Writers conceive it to be a gathering with the hand; not a cutting down with any iron inſtrument. However, it imports, that it was not cropt by any violence, but decayed of it ſelf.

it withereth] It is dryed up for want of water, which is the drink thereof, Pſal. 129. 6. Jer. 17. 6.

before] The Hebrew word uſually ſignifies, Before in place, that is, in ſight. And ſo it may be here, it decayes while other herbs, growing about it, do as it were ſtand looking upon it, admiring at the ſudden decay of it. So actions of life are attributed to liveleſſe creatures. See on Chap. 1. 19. yet it is commonly underſtood, here, of withering before other herbs in time: Lev. 18. 27. the word is ſo uſed.

any] See on Chap. 1. 11.

other] This word is not in the Original; but is added to make the ſenſe the plainer.

herb] It properly ſignifies ſuch things as ſpring out of the earth of themſelves for food for the beaſts, 1 King. 18. 5. though it may hold up the head higher, and flouriſh more, yet it ſooner decayes then any other green thing growing out of the earth in a drought.

V. 13. So are the paths of all that forget God; and the hypocrites hope ſhall periſh] He now applyes the former ſimilitude: As it is with the fore-mentioned Ruſh, juſt ſo it is with wicked men: though for a time they proſper, and ſeem to be upheld by Gods favour, as the ruſh by moiſture; yet not having it, they fall of themſelves, before any violent death ſeize on them.

ſo are the paths] A metaphor from travellers, to ſet out the beginning, progreſſe, and end of ungodly men. He means it not of their actions, as the word is uſed, Pſal. 1. 6. & 119. 1. but of their life, riches, power, ſtate, flouriſhing condition, ſudden death, and diſſolution, ver. 19. Though they grow from a low eſtate to an high one, and flouriſh for a time; yet their eſtate ſuddenly changes, and they are deſtroyed before others.

of all] No difference: God is alike in his proceedings, and is no accepter of perſons, Deut. 10. 16, 17, 18.

that forget God] That forget him in their thoughts, and think ſeldom of him, Pſal. 10. 4. or ſhew, that they remember him not, by diſobeying him in their actions, and in the courſe of their lives, Pſal. 10. 4, 5. & 14. 1. & 36. 1, 2. Deut. 8. 11. Pſal. 50. 22. Or, that eſteem lightly of God; for ſuch things as we eſteem lightly of, we quickly forget, Jer. 2. 32. & 30. 14. Or, ſuch as depart from God; for we ſoon forget our friends that are gone. Out of ſight, and out of mind, Eph. 2. 12. Heb. 12. 5. Forgetfulneſſe of God is a mark of a wicked man in Scripture, Pſal. 9. 17. Such, if they thrive, truſt not in God, but in their own wit, power, and riches, Deut. 8. 14, 19. For the name of God, ſee on verſ. 3.

and] Or, for. Here is a reaſon of the likeneſſe of the wicked mans hope to the ruſh or flag, becauſe it ſuddenly decayes, as they do. So this particle is tranſlated, Chap. 21. 14. & 28. 18.

the hypocrites] Such as are covered with fair ſhewes, though they be foul within; as Chap. 13. 16. Iſa. 9. 17. & 10. 6. And then he ſecretly accuſes Job and his children of hypocriſie, that they were like painted ſepulchres, fair without, but very foul within, Mat. 23. 27. For they knew that Job was not a groſſe wicked man. So Zophar preſſeth Job with hypocriſie, Chap. 20. 5. as if he had been one that was wicked before God in heart, but counterfeited piety before men to deceive them.

hope] He ſhall give over hoping, when he ſees, he cannot get what he hoped for; to wit, ſtability and firmneſſe in his proſperous condition, which ſeemed to himſelf, and others, likely to abide. Or, he ſhall not have the thing he hoped for. See on Chap. 4. 6. תקוה ſignifies. 1. Line. Joſh. 2. 18. 2. Hope. Zech. 9. 12. So here.

ſhall periſh] When a man cannot attain what he hopes for, his hope is ſaid to periſh, though he may expect ſtill, but to no purpoſe, verſ. 14: & 14. 19. So ſhall wicked mens hope vaniſh, Chap. 11. 20. & 18. 14. Prov. 10. 28.

V. 14. whoſe hope ſhall be cut off, and whoſe truſt ſhall be a ſpiders web] He goes on to give a reaſon, why the hope of the wicked ſhall periſh, becauſe God will fruſtrate it, and ſets it out by another ſimilitude, taken from that which all men know to be brittle, a ſpiders web.

whoſe] He ſpake of them in the plurall number before; now in the ſingular: intimating, that the hope of every hypocrite flouriſhing ſhall be cut off. None ſhall eſcape, or fare better then others. Others read it, For his hope, &c. So the word is uſed, Jer. 32. 3. And then he proves the former aſſertion by a new argument, and doth not barely proceed in the relation.

hope] So the word כסל ſignifies, Job 31. 24. Prov. 3. 26. and it anſwers well to the former verſe: where ſee the ſenſe of it, though the word differ in the Originall. Others read it Folly; as the ſame word is tranſlated, Pſal. 49. 13. Eccl. 7. 25. Not that they ſhould ceaſe to be fooliſh (for that were a bleſſing, not a curſe) but that proſperity, which they in their folly thought would laſt ever, ſhall be cut off. The word is alſo tranſlated Flanke. Chap. 15. 27. But not ſo here.

ſhall be cut off] So קוט is rendred, Job 10. 1. in the margine. And then it points at Gods judgement upon Job, whoſe children and goods did not moulder away by little and little; but were ſuddenly taken from him by Gods judgements. But the word is moſt commonly tranſlated loathing, as Ezek. 6. 9. & 20. 43. And ſo this place may be read, Whoſe hope ſhall loath him; or, be loathſome to him. He ſhall be weary of looking for the thing he hopes for; or it ſhall go away from him, as from an abominable thing.

and whoſe truſt] Hope conſiſts in expectation of ſome good. Truſt in depending on ſome other for it. The hypocrite hoped that his proſperity would continue, and truſted in his riches and power for the continuance of it. But both theſe would fail him. He ſhall truſt in vain. The thing he truſts in will deceive him, and then his expectation muſt needs periſh.

ſhall be a Spiders web] Heb. a Spiders houſe. For the ſpider builds it to dwell in, as men do houſes. He doth not ſay, it is as a ſpiders web, but leaves out the note of ſimilitude, to ſet out the vanity and brittleneſſe of it the more. See on Chap. 7. 9. Though his ſtate ſeems to be very ſtrong and ſtable, yet it is very frail and weak, and eaſily broken. As ſpiders cannot defend themſelves from wrong in their web, no more can wicked men prevent deſtruction by their wealth. See Iſai. 59. 5, 6. Spiders webs are ſwept down, ſo ſhall they be deſtroyed by Gods judgements. For Houſe, ſee on Chap. 15. 28.

V. 15. He ſhall lean upon his houſe, but it ſhall not ſtand: he ſhall hold it faſt, but it ſhall not endure] In this verſe is laid down the application of the former ſimilitude, taken from the ſpiders web. As it fails the ſpiders confidence, ſo ſhall the hypocrites habitation fail him.

He] Some underſtand it of the ſpider; but it is to be underſtood of the hypocrite himſelf.

ſhall lean] He ſhall think to lie hid ſafely in his habitation, or poſſeſſions, and therein to be free from perils; but it will fail him, as a man that leans on a weak ſtaff or reed, falls to the ground, Iſa. 36. 6. Ezek. 29. 6, 7. Bildad might think Job had put too much confidence in his poſſeſſions, which had been very great, and therefore the former loſſes came upon him.

upon his houſe] The hypocrite hath an houſe to lean on, as well as the ſpider. But the ſpiders leaning is with the body, the hypocrites with the mind. Hereby is meant his truſt, mentioned, ver. 14. And by his houſe, is meant his riches, and whatever he hath in his houſe, as Eſth. 8. 7. for hypocrites truſt not in bare walls, but in their treaſure hid in their houſes.

but it ſhall not ſtand] Not abide: as the word is uſed, Pſal. 119. 90. It ſhall fall it ſelf, and therefore ſhall not be able to uphold him. He ſhall loſe his poſſeſſions he truſts in, and himſelf periſh with them. The ſpiders web will fall with the weight of the ſpiders leaning on it, though there be no wind to blow it away. And hypocrites ruine their own houſes by their ſins, and particularly by relying on them.

he ſhall hold it faſt] Or, he ſhall lay faſt hold on it. He ſhall not onely lean on it, as a weary man leans againſt a wall, but alſo lay faſt hold on it, as a man ready to be drowned, doth on a bough of a tree to ſave his life, as if he would never let it go, but meant alwayes to be upheld by it. A man may lean, and not lay hold on the thing he leans on; but by laying hold on it, he means, accounting to make it firm to him, and him to it: retaining it to uphold him, Job 2. 9. & 27. 5. The hypocrite thinks he hath his proſperity ſafe, and ſhall be ſure to continue in it.

but it ſhall not endure] Heb. not riſe, or not ſtand; to wit, in judgement, as Pſal. 1. 5. So Eſth. 9. 29, 31, 32. To confirm: Heb. to make to riſe, or, ſtand. Laws are for continuance, and men keep their poſſeſſions by law. But the hypocrite hath, in regard of God, no right to his, and ſo ſhall loſe it. For Riſe, ſee on Chap. 14. 12.

V. 16. He is green before the Sun, and his branch ſhooteth forth in his garden] Here the hypocrite is compared to a flouriſhing tree, which is ſtronger then a ruſh, or ſpiders web, yet cannot continue long. This verſe ſets out the height of the hypocrites proſperity: the next points at his ſecurity: the 18. at his ruine, under the ſimilitude of a tree, as appears in the 19. verſe.

he is green] Or, moiſt: full of juyce, as Chap. 24. 8. So the hypocrite ſeems ſtrong.

before the Sun] Before the Sun riſeth. So the word is uſed for precedency in time, verſ. 12. and Exod. 10. 14. The hypocrite thrives extraordinarily, as a tree that grows without the help of the Sun: or, before the Sun; that is, by the benefit of the Sun-beams, and heat of it. So hypocrites thrive ſo faſt, as if Gods bleſſing did wonderfully attend upon them. Or in deſpight of the ſcorching beams of the Sun; as being ſo full of juyce, that the beams of the Sun cannot dry it up. So hypocrites ſeem to thrive, as it were, againſt Gods will, whom they daily blaſpheme: and in ſpight of all the plots of their adverſaries to ruine them, Pſal. 37. 35. Or, in the ſight of the Sun, that is, openly, ſo that all men take notice of their wonderful proſperity. So this phraſe is uſed 2 Sam. 12. 12. The word in the Original, put here for the Sun, is taken from a word that ſignifies to miniſter or ſerve, becauſe the Sun is a publick ſervant to miniſter light and heat to all the world, Pſal. 19. 6.

and his branch] This ſhewes plainly, as alſo the place following, the garden, that there is a compariſon taken from a tree, though it be not named expreſly. יונק comes from a word that ſignifies to ſuck, becauſe branches, new ſhot forth, are tender, like to ſucking children: and alſo they ſuck moiſture from the root, as children do milk from their mothers breaſts. We call ſome kind of branches ſuckers. And by the hypocrites branch is meant here, his off ſpring, honour, and riches, Chap. 14. 7. & 15. 32. Ezek. 17. 22. Hoſ. 14. 6.

ſhooteth forth] Heb. goeth forth. But ſo, that it argueth an increaſe and multiplication of riches, as boughes ſprout plentifully out of a tree. For Shooteth forth, ſee on Chap. 15. 20. on Go out. And on Chap. 20. 25. on Cometh out.

in] As Iſa. 24. 22. Or, over. To ſhew his abundant proſperity, like trees, whoſe branches ſhoot forth beyond the fence of the orchard, and bear abundance of fruit.

his garden] The place where trees uſe to grow. So doth the hypocrite thrive in his habitation, which is his encloſed place, where he hath fenced himſelfe in, as in a garden, and thinks he cannot be hurt in it, or pulled out of it. So much is imported in the derivation of the word, from גנן, to protect, Cant. 4. 12. Eccl. 2. 5, 6. He makes a very glorious ſhew in his outward pomp, and lives as in a paradiſe, Gen. 2. 8. Some think he begins to ſpeake of the godly man here, and read the 18. verſe; Shall any man deſtroy him out of his place, ſo that it will deny him, &c? No it cannot be: His proſperity will hold, when the hypocrites decayes. And ſo the iſſue of both is ſummed up in the 20. verſe; from whence the antecedent to He, in this 16. verſe, to wit, the perfect man, mentioned there, is taken.

V. 17. His roots are wrapped about the heap, and he ſeeth the place of ſtones] He goes on to ſet out the proſperous eſtate of the hypocrite for a time, whoſe deſtruction is mentioned in the following verſe.

His roots] That whereby he thinks himſelf to be faſtned, as a tree is by the roots. For he not onely ſeems glorious to others, but thinks himſelf firm and ſafe alſo in his habitation.

are wrapped] Fold themſelves to and fro; or, are wreathed in with the heap.

about] Compaſſing the heap round about on the outſide. Or, in: as the word is uſed in ver. 16. & Dan. 11. 20. Or, with: as Job 38. 32. The branches are folded in with the heap, as thornes in a hedg, one within another, ſo as they can hardly be parted. This ſhews the ſeeming firmneſſe of the hypocrites proſperity.

the heap] An heap of ſtones: as followeth in this verſe. So it ſignifies, Gen. 31. 46, 47. Some take it for a tree, growing by the wall of the houſe; and by folding the roots in with the foundation, weakning the houſe, and therefore pulled down by the maſter of the houſe, as verſe 18. Others, for a tree that is not rooted in looſe earth, where it ſoon may be blown down, but among ſtones and rocks incorporating it ſelf into them; and yet grows in ſpight of ſtones, to ſignifie the ſtability and growth of the hypocrites proſperous condition for a ſeaſon. Or, The Spring, or fountain; as Joſh. 15. 19. A place where ſprings ariſe, and ſpring out, and winde about the roots of the tree, or run between them, where no water is wanting. So alſo this word is tranſlated, Cant. 4. 12. For a ſpring hath plenty of water in it, as an heap hath ſtones. And ſo it ſets out the thriving condition of the hypocrite. The word גל ſignifies 1. An heap, Gen. 31. 46. 2. A fountain, Cant. 4 12. 3. A wave of the ſea, Iſa. 48. 18. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

and he ſeeth] The hypocrite diſcerneth it: Or, it ſeeth. That is, the tree, which ſpreads its roots among the ſtones under ground, and might ſee them, if it had eyes, though they lie hid under the earth out of the ſight of men. A metaphor: See on Chap. 1. 19.

place] Heb. houſe. So it is put for a place, 2 Sam. 15. 17. For Houſe, ſee on Chap. 15. 28.

of ſtones] They that underſtand it of the tree, take it for the place where ſtones lie buried under ground, or the vault about a fountain, which the roots of trees will reach to. They who underſtand it of the hypocrite, take it for a ſtony place to build an houſe in, where he may lay a ſure foundation, or for a houſe of ſtone to dwell in, that is, a ſtrong houſe, or for a ſtone wall to fence in his houſe, goods and cattel; or for an high palace to overlook all his neighbours. All tending to ſhew forth the greatneſſe of his pride, ſecurity, and proſperity. For Stones, ſee on Chap. 14. 19.

V. 18. If he deſtroy him from his place, then it ſhall deny him, ſaying, I have not ſeen thee] Bildad goes on from his deſcription of the great height of the hypocrites proſperity, to his ſudden and irrecoverable puniſhment, and utter ruine.

If he] They which take it of the tree, underſtand the Sun, mentioned ver. 16. which by his ſcorching beams, dryes up the moiſture about the tree, and makes it wither. Others, according to the uſual phraſe of the language, underſtand the deſtroyer, the nominative caſe being included in the verb; as Gen. 50. 26. They embalmed Joſeph, that is, the embalmers embalmed him. So here, If he deſtroy him, that is, If the deſtroyer of hypocrites deſtroy him, meaning God, who onely judgeth of, and puniſheth hypocrites. Others would have the word God, to be underſtood without any ſuch including or reference. See on Chap. 3. 3. But it may be underſtood imperſonally, If he be deſtroyed. For there was no antecedent mentioned before. See the like phraſe, This night do they require thy ſoul, that is, It ſhall be required, Luke 12. 20.

deſtroy] Heb. ſwallow up. And ſecondarily it ſignifies for to deſtroy; for things ſwallowed up are deſtroyed. And as it argues a total, ſo likewiſe a ſpeedy deſtruction, as an hungry man ſwallows his meat without chewing, Iſa. 28. 7. Pſalm. 35. 25.

him] The hypocrite compared to the green tree: Or, It; that is, the tree it ſelfe; like to the deſtruction whereof, is that of the hypocrite.

from his place] The tree out of his garden, ver. 16. The hypocrite out of his habitation and poſſeſſions, Chap. 27. 21.

then it ſhall deny him] The place where it grew ſhall deny him. An elegant metaphor from living creatures; as Chap. 1. 19. Or from men that will not know their friends in adverſity. He ſaw his place in his proſperity, ver. 17. but it will take no notice of him in his deſtruction. It ſhall deny that ever any ſuch tree grew there, it hath ſo clean forgotten it. This argues a deſtruction of root and branch, ſo that no ſign remains of any ſuch tree ever growing in that place. So the men of the place ſhall as clean forget the hypocrite after his deſtruction, as if he had never dwelt among them. See on Chap. 7. 10. The word כחש ſignifies. 1. To deny, Gen. 18. 15. 2. To faile, Hoſ. 9. 2. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

ſaying, I have not ſeen thee] He brings in the place it ſelfe ſpeaking to the tree for the greater aſſurance, and emphaſis, Pſal. 37. 35, 36. Or, I ſee thee not. Thou haſt been here, but I know not what is become of thee. So the preterperfect tenſe is tranſlated by the preſent tenſe thrice, Pſal. 1. 1. For See, look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

V. 19. Behold this is the joy of his way, and out of the earth ſhall others grow] Here he applyes the former ſimilitude of the tree, ſet out verſ. 16, 17, 18.

Behold] This word as in Scripture it is uſed to ſet out ſome great unuſual matter worth the noting; ſo it is alſo put before ironical ſpeeches, that the tartneſſe of them may the more be obſerved; as Gen. 3. 22. For Behold, ſee on Chap. 19 7.

this is] All his joy is come to this, It ends in deſtruction. No doubt he ſtrikes at Jobs loſſes herein, whom he accounted an hypocrite.

the joy] This is the joy, in which he pleaſed himſelf in his greatneſſe. Behold what is become of it! Some conceive the word imports a great inward joy, and ſo great, that it cannot be kept in, but will be ſhewed forth by leaping, triumphing, and ſuch like outward expreſſions, Chap. 3. 22. An alluſion to dogs, who leap on their maſters for joy to welcome them home. Here is an end of all the joy that an hypocrite hath: and what good hath he by his former joy, when he is deſtroyed? Luk. 12. 19, 20.

of his way] Not of his converſation, as the word is often uſed in Scripture, but of his ſtate or condition; as Pſal. 1. 6. So pathes ſignifie, ver. 13. For Way, ſee on Chap. 17. 9.

out of the earth] Heb. out of the duſt. Out of them that have been ruined, or are very poor, Pſal. 113. 7. 1 Sam. 2. 8. Pſal. 107. 41. For Duſt, ſee on Chap. 14. 8.

others] He and his poſterity ſhall be utterly deſtroyed. He ſhall leave none of his to be his heir, but a ſtranger ſhall inherit all his wealth, Chap. 27. 16, 17. Eccl. 4. 8. As other trees grow where ſome are cut down, ſo other families ſhall as it were ſpring out of the earth, and live where he did, and ſhall enjoy his poſſeſſions.

ſhall grow] As plants or trees do; for ſo the word ſignifies: and he goes on elegantly with the ſimilitude. Others read it, And out of another land ſhall they grow. To wit, who ſhall inherit his poſſeſſions. They ſhall come out of remote places, to ſhew the more cleerly, that his ſubverſion, and the diſpoſition of his ſtate afterwards is from God. So trees and flowers are brought out of other Countries, and thrive here, to ſhew, that it is God, and not the earth, that makes them to grow.

V. 20. Behold God will not caſt away a perfect man, neither will he help the evil doers] Hitherto were the words of the Ancients repeated by Bildad, from ver. 11. to inſtruct Job. Now Bildad concludes from thence in his own words, that the eſtate of the godly is happy, and the condition of the wicked helpleſſe. From thoſe things which the Elders had taught him, he infers that which he had formerly propoſed to himſelf to prove, to wit, that though Job had impatiently fretted againſt God, yet God was juſt, and loved the righteous, but hated the wicked. And leaves it to him to apply to himſelf; intimating, that if he repented, God would raiſe him to proſperity again; if not, he muſt look for no help from God.

Behold] Lo I have cleerly proved, that which I firſt propounded, that God will not fail good men, nor help bad. See on ver. 18. & Chap. 1. 12.

God] A name taken from ſtrength. God will not uſe his power to cruſh them that are good, nor to raiſe them that are bad. See on ver. 3.

will not caſt away] The word ſignifies to deſpiſe, as Chap. 19. 18. to loath, as Chap. 7. 16. to refuſe, as Chap. 34. 33. And as a thing deſpiſed, yea loathed, not onely to refuſe it, but alſo to caſt it away. But here is more intended, to wit, that God will not ſuffer a good man to periſh for want of his help, as appears by that which follows, he will not help the wicked out of trouble.

a perfect man] A ſincere-hearted upright man; for no man on earth is perfect in the ſtrict ſenſe of the word. All have their failings, even the beſt. See on Chap. 1. 1.

neither will he help] Heb. lay hold upon the hand, or, take by the hand. To hold them up, when they are falling into miſery, or to lift them up, when they are fallen into it. But he will do it to good men, and ſuch as return to him, ver. 6. Gen. 19. 16. Iſa. 41. 13. & 42. 6. Pſal. 73. 23. See on Chap. 1. 11. The ſenſe is well expreſſed in the word, Helping. For Hand, ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

the evil doers] God doth not refuſe to help every one that doth evil, for then he ſhould help no man; but ſuch as profeſſedly, and ſtudiouſly do evil, that make a trade or work of it, 1 Joh. 3. 8, 9. wicked men, ver. 22. Theſe words, Neither will he help the evil doers, ſhould be in a parentheſis, if it be meant of all wicked men, as ſeems by the oppoſition to a perfect man; for the words following give a reaſon of the former part of this verſe; and not of the latter, unleſſe by evil doers, be meant Jobs enemies, who ſought to deſtroy him, as ver. 22.

V. 21. Till he fill thy mouth with laughter, and thy lips with rejoycing] He ſpeaketh to the perfect man, whom he mentioned verſ. 20. for more aſſurance of Gods bleſſing him. Or he turns his ſpeech to Job in particular, as if he had ſaid, I ſpeak this to thee: if thou turn to him, as ver. 5, 6. he will not leave thee till he fill thy mouth, &c. Or it may be knit to the former verſe, thus; Apply to thy ſelf what I ſay, that God will help good men, and aſſure thy ſelf, that if thou be one of thoſe perfect ones, God will bring thee out of thy troubles, and not leave thee till he have given thee exceeding great cauſe of joy.

Till] Nor after neither: It is not excluſive. God will not give his people cauſe of joy, and then leave them, but give them cauſe of perpetual joy. So the word Till, is uſed, Gen. 28. 15. Pſal. 110. 1. Matth. 1. 25. If God would bring him out of his miſery to abundance of joy, queſtionleſſe he would not leave him after.

he] God who gives his people joy; mentioned verſ. 20.

fill] Give thee abundance of matter of joy, Pſal. 81. 10. & 126. 2. Phil. 1. 11. Col. 1. 9. 1 Joh. 1. 4.

thy] He applyes to Job in particular, what he had ſaid in general, ver. 20. Thou mayeſt be afflicted for a while, but if thou turne, God will fully reſtore thee.

mouth] Thou ſhalt have ſo great cauſe of joy, that thy heart cannot conceal it, but it will break out at thy mouth, and appear in thy words. For Mouth, ſee on Chap. 15. 5.

with laughter] With matter to laugh at, and to rejoyce; for the mouth doth not laugh, but the face: The mouth utters our joy in ſpeaking; the face in laughing, Gen. 17. 17. and 21. 6.

and thy lips] The lips are the inſtruments of uttering matter of joy, as well as the mouth. For Lips, ſee on Chap. 15. 6.

with rejoycing] Heb. ſhouting for joy. With loud ſounds of joy, and cheerful acclamations. So the word ſignifies, 2 Chr. 15. 14. Pſal. 89. 15. & 100. 1. Such a ſhout as conquerours make, when the enemies fly, or their walls fall, Joſh. 6. 5. Exod. 32. 18. Or, as people make at the coronation of a King, Num. 23. 21. 1 Sam. 10. 24. 1 King. 1. 40. Or, as harveſt-men make, when the harveſt is brought in, Iſa. 9. 3. All this ſhewes the greatneſſe of that proſperity, that Bildad conceived would befall Job upon his repentance.

V. 22. They that hate thee ſhall be clothed with ſhame, and the dwelling place of the wicked ſhall come to nought.] When thou ſhalt have gotten the victory over thine enemies, and are reſtored to thy former proſperity, then they that rejoyced at thy adverſity before, ſhall be aſhamed, and thou ſhalt ſee all ungodly men come to nothing.

They that hate thee] That bear ill will to thee. Or, Till they that hate thee. God ſhall heap up proſperity on thee ſo long, till thy mouth be filled with joy, and till thine enemies ſeeing thee raiſed beyond their expectation, ſhall be filled with ſhame. Or, Becauſe they that hate thee. For that might be one cauſe of his joy.

ſhall be cloathed] Filled with ſhame, as if they were covered all over with it, as with a garment, Pſal. 35. 26. & 109. 18, 19. & 132. 18. Ezek. 7. 27. They ſhall be wonderfully aſhamed, 1 Pet. 5. 5. Or publickly, and viſibly. Their ſhame ſhall be as apparent, as their clothes. Or, Daily ſhamed, as duely, as they put on their clothes every morning. See on Chap. 7. 5.

with ſhame] Oppoſed to laughter, verſ. 21. for they who laugh, hold up their heads; but they that are aſhamed, hold them down, Chap. 6. 20. becauſe they have loſt their comforts, or hopes.

and the dwelling place] Heb. Tabernacle, or Tent. See on Chap. 5. 24. of the wicked] See on Chap. 3. 17.

ſhall come to nought] Heb. ſhall not be. Shall not remain any longer. It ſhall be quite conſumed, as if it had never been, verſ. 18. It ſhall be deſtroyed by ſome ſpecial judgement, Num. 16. 29. for all mens Tabernacles muſt decay in time. Their houſes, and goods, and all they have, ſhall be utterly ruined.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ. 1. THen Job anſwered and ſaid] In this Chapter, and the tenth, Job gives a larger anſwer to Bildads oration in the former Chapter, intermixing withal, divers ſad complaints of Gods heavy proceding againſt him, and reneweth his ſuit to be freed from his miſeries by death, and preſſeth it earneſtly with new arguments. For all the words of this verſe, See on Chap. 16. 1.

Then] See on Chap. 4. 1.

Job] See on Chap. 1. 1.

anſwered] See on Chap. 6. 1.

and ſaid] See on Chap. 3. 2.

V. 2. I know it is ſo of a truth, but how ſhould man be juſt with God?] Job here acknowledges, that God often puniſheth wicked men, as Bildad had affirmed, but did ſo aſtoniſh him with his power, that he could not defend his own innocency before him. Others take this ſpeech of Job in this and the following Chapter, to be an humble acknowledgement of Gods juſtice, and his own ſinnes. But that cannot well agree with the unruly paſſages that follow afterwards; for in the whole book Job ſpeakes not more againſt Gods proceedings with him, any where then in thoſe two Chapters; and in ſome places ſo high, as can hardly be mollified by any unforced interpretation. It becomes us therefore not to confound things, but to acknowledge his ſinful paſſions, when they appear, and his graces when they manifeſt themſelves.

I know it is ſo of a truth] Or, Indeed I know it is ſo. I know God doth uſually bleſſe the godly, and puniſh the ungodly, as you ſay; I confirm it for a truth. The Heb. word כן ſignifies. 1. The Foot, or loweſt part of a thing, Exod. 30. 18. 2. A Place, or office, Gen. 40. 13. 3. Right, or true, Numb. 27. 7. 4. So. Iſa. 55. 9. So here.

but how ſhould, &c.] Or, but how ſhall, or, can. So the future is interpreted, Chap. 8. 10, 11. If God will afflict a righteous man, there is no way for him to cleer his innocency, God is ſo powerful an adverſary.

man] The word ſignifies a ſickly, weak, miſerable creature, Chap. 5. 17. & 7. 17. A fit name to ſhew his weakneſſe, and by conſequence his inability to plead with God.

be juſt] That is, be juſtified or cleer himſelf; as Pſal. 143. 2. & 51. 4. Job 13. 18. Gods power will ſo awe him, that he cannot ſpeak in his own cauſe.

with God] Or, before God. In Gods account, who will overpower him. Or, in compariſon of God, as ſome would have it. But it ſuits not well with Jobs ſcope, who ſtands too much here upon his own innocency.

V. 3. If he will contend with him, he cannot anſwer him one of a thouſand.] Job goes on to ſhew upon what unequal terms man muſt plead with God, if he deſire it.

If he] If man would plead his cauſe before God. Or, if God be pleaſed to call man in queſtion.

will] Heb. delight. Take pleaſure to conteſt with men. So the word ſignifies, Numb. 14. 8. If it be Gods pleaſure to queſtion me, I muſt be condemned, be I juſt or no. He profeſſedly ſpeaks to this purpoſe, ver. 21, 22. For Will, ſee on Chap. 22. 3. on Pleaſure. Alſo it ſignifies ſometimes to move, Chap. 40. 17.

contend] By way of arguing. If he have a controverſie againſt man. So the word is uſed for juridical pleading, Hoſ. 2. 2. & 4. 1. Mic. 6. 1. Hence Gideon had his name Jerubaal, Judg. 6. 31, 32. And ſtriving with the Maker, is not by force, but by way of argument, Iſa. 45. 9. And that appears to be the meaning here, by that which follows. he cannot anſwer him.

with him] God with man, or man with God.

he cannot anſwer him] God is ſo powerful, that he will ſtop mans mouth, and not ſuffer him to ſpeak for himſelfe; as followes in ver. 4.

one of a thouſand] Or, to one thing of a thouſand. If man deſire to cleer himſelf before God, he may call a thouſand times for a hearing, but God will not give him audience once. Or, Man may hear many crimes objected againſt him by God, but ſhall not have liberty to purge himſelfe from one of them by Apology. Or, Though he have much to ſay for himſelfe, yet God will ſuffer him to ſay nothing. God the Judge will eſteem mans condition ſo vile, that he will not vouchſafe him an anſwer to one word of a thouſand. If man contend with him, God will not anſwer him. So this number is uſed indefinitely for a very great number, Lev. 26. 8. Deut. 32. 30. Joſh. 23. 10. Others interpret this as the former verſe, for a further juſtification of Gods Juſtice, and acknowledgement of Jobs ſinfulneſſe, and inability to plead with God in point of equity. But this agrees not with what followes, where he brings not God in as a juſt Judge, that would heare him with patience; but as one that would go beyond him in policy and power, ſpeaking altogether of Gods Wiſdome and Might, but nothing at all of his Juſtice. For Thouſand, ſee on Chap. 1. 3.

V. 4. He is wiſe in heart, and mighty in ſtrength; who hath hardned himſelf againſt him, and hath proſpered?] God is too politick and ſtrong for me to deal with, verſ. 32, 33. Therefore I cannot plead my cauſe before him with expectation of a good iſſue.

He is] God; mentioned verſ. 2.

wiſe in heart] An alluſion to men, whoſe wiſdome is attributed to the heart, which is the ſeat of wiſdome, Prov. 2. 10. And the heart is put for wiſdome, and underſtanding, Chap. 34. 34. Prov. 6. 32. & 19. 8. Hoſ. 4. 11. Luk. 24. 25. and hearty, in the Original, is tranſlated wiſe, Chap. 11. 12, where both theſe are added, it argues a fulneſſe and excellency of knowledge above others, as if the ſame word were doubled, Exod. 35. 25. The wiſe-hearted are ſuch as God hath filled with the Spirit of wiſdome, Exod. 28. 3. For Heart, ſee on Chap. 15. 12.

mighty in ſtrength] Almighty. Therefore the word is doubled, as alſo Iſa. 40. 26. See the former note. This greatneſſe of Gods wiſdome and ſtrength, mentioned not ſo much to ſhew the integrity of Gods Judgements, who wants not Wiſdome to judge, nor power to execute his ſentence; but rather to ſhew, that God will alwayes be too hard for man, let man plead as well as he can for himſelfe. For Strength, ſee on Chap. 6. 11.

who hath hardened himſelf againſt him] Who ever reſolved to ſtand it out with God, that was not overthrown, though his cauſe were never ſo juſt? Or, who ever preſſed him hard; as 2 King. 2. 10. Or, who ever oppoſed him in diſputation. So the word is commonly taken by the Rabbines, becauſe in diſputations hard and difficult queſtions are produced, and arguments preſſed.

and hath proſpered] Heb. hath had peace, Chap. 22. 21. Whoever did it, hath wrought himſelfe perpetual trouble. By peace, here, is meant proſperity, as Chap. 8. 6. Who ever got the better of God, or was not overcome by him, or brought his cauſe to perfection? See on Chap. 5. 24. This clauſe alſo is ordinarily interpreted, as a cleering of Gods Juſtice againſt all oppoſers: But it ſeems rather to be an acknowledgement of his power, which kept Job from pleading with him; though he wiſh elſewhere that he might do it upon equal terms, verſ. 34, 35. and thinks God deals too rigidly with him. The word שלם ſignifies. 1. To be full, Gen. 15. 16. 2. To have peace, or proſper, Job 22. 21.

V. 5. Which removeth the mountains, and they know not: which overturneth them in his anger] He goes on to ſet forth Gods infinite wiſdome, and power, by many particular acts of his, to ſhew, that there is no contending with him. Better ſit down with loſſe. He ſets it out firſt by his acts upon unreaſonable creatures in earth, ſea, heaven, to the 12. verſe; and afterwards upon reaſonable ones, that it may appear, that neither can reſiſt God, and proſper.

which] God, ſpoken of, ver. 2. for theſe following are not acts of men.

removeth the mountains] Some underſtand it of Kings, who build Palaces and Forts upon mountains, as it were hills upon hills: but ſeeing the things following are to be literally underſtood, it is fit this paſſage ſhould be ſo underſtood alſo. It likewiſe croſſeth the former diſtribution, which ſhews, that God begins to deal with reaſonable creatures, at the twelfth verſe. They which underſtand it of the hills themſelves, differ. Some read it, which can remove the mountains. Becauſe that which follows ver. 6. of ſhaking the earth out of her place, was never performed, and ſeems to croſſe Pſal. 96. 10. & 119. 90, 91. But ſeeing the things following have been done, the words rather ſhew what God hath done, then what he can do; and that ſhaking the earth out of his place, ver. 6. muſt be underſtood of a partial, not total remove. This removing of the mountains, ſome take to be done in their firſt creation, when God made hollow places in the earth to lodge the Sea and Waters in, and of the rubbiſh caſt up, made the mountains, Pſal. 104. 8. Others take it to be done by earthquakes. And they alſo differ. Some think it to be by removing them from one place to another, as ſome have been in an earthquake, Rev. 6. 14. Others, for taking them quite away; which ſuits well with that that follows, of overturning them. But the removing of them from one place to another, ſeems to be the meaning of theſe words; for ſo the Hebrew word עתק ſignifies, Chap. 14. 18. & 18. 4. Gen. 12. 8. & 26. 22. Iſa. 28. 9.

and they knew not] They neither could perceive it before, nor feel it, when it was doing. He compares the hills to men, who if in their ſleep they ſhould be removed into another place, would much admire at the ſtrangeneſſe of the fact, when they awake, Hoſ. 7. 9. Iſa. 45. 8. Prov. 23. 35. Such metaphors are frequent in Scripture; Pſal. 114. 3, 4. See on Job 1. 19. & 6. 30. So knowledge and ſpeech are in Scripture often attributed to places, Chap. 7. 10. & 28. 14. Others refer it to the men that dwell in the mountains, or by them, who wonder to ſee in an earthquake mountains removed; and thought it a thing impoſſible, Pſal. 30. 6, 7. Nah. 1. 5. But the context requires it to be underſtood of the mountains themſelves.

which overturneth them] Some read it, ſo that he overturneth them. Making it one act with the former. But it is rather an aggravation of Gods anger, ſetting forth a further proceeding of it, in that he doth not onely remove hills out of their places by an earthquake; but in his anger with the ſinful inhabitants, doth pluck them up by the roots, and ſometimes burn them up with flames, and lay them equal with the vallies, as hath been done in Sicily, and other parts of Italy, and lately in the Canary Iſlands. See Pſal. 18. 7, 8. & 144. 5. Rev. 8. 8. & 16. 18, 20. Or, That he overturneth them. They wonder how it comes to paſſe, they know it not to be Gods act.

in his anger] Heb. in his noſe. For the noſe, by the high colour of it, and ſhortneſſe of the breath, ſhews anger, Chap. 4. 9. As God hath no face, nor noſe, ſo neither is he ſubject to anger; but doth as a man angry, overturn all in his way. So he repented that he made a world, when he deſtroyed it, Gen. 6. 6, 7. Such ſpeechs ſet out Gods effects in the world, not any ſubjection to paſſion, nor changeable affection in God. For Anger, ſee on Chap. 14. 13. on Wrath.

V. 6. Which ſhaketh the earth out of her place, and the pillars thereof tremble] He proceedeth to ſhew the greatneſſe of Gods power, by his working upon the earth it ſelfe, which is greater then the mountains, and the pillars of it, which no man can make to ſhake. Both are joyned together, Pſal. 46. 2.

ſhaketh the earth] The word imports, making to tremble: A ſimilitude from men frighted inwardly ſo much, that all their joynts are looſned, and members ſhake, Dan. 5. 6. Deut. 2. 25. Prov. 30. 21. & 2 Sam. 22. 8. Jer. 51. 29. Pſal. 104. 32. For Earth, ſee on v. 24.

out of her place] Out of the place ſhe was in, Job 8. 18. But this muſt be underſtood of ſome part of the earth, for the whole was never removed. See on verſ. 5. Thus God hath removed part of it, in the firm land, by earthquakes, and parted ſome Iſlands from the maine land, and buried ſome parts of the land in the ſea, Amos, 9. 5.

and the pillars thereof] Or, ſo that the pillars. For the earthquake is the cauſe of the ſhaking and trembling of the pillars of the earth. It muſt needs be a very great wind, that makes not onely the walls of the houſe, but alſo the pillars of it to tremble. So ו is uſed, Job 7. 20. And it is more emphatical, to ſhew the cauſe of the trembling, then another diſtinct work upon the pillars of the earth. The word pillar is derived from עמד to ſtand. 1. Becauſe they ſtand upright themſelves, and that in the midſt of ſtorms, 1 King. 7. 21. Gen. 35. 14, 20. 2 Sam. 18. 18. 2. Becauſe they uphold Temples, Thrones and Houſes, and make them to ſtand, 1 King. 10. 12. Judg. 16. 26. According to the firſt ſenſe, ſome interpret the pillars of the earth to be the mountains, which ſtand above the reſt of the earth like pillars, for ornament, not for upholding. But that cannot be the meaning here; for Job proceeding in commendation of Gods power, and having mentioned a greater work of God upon the mountains, verſ. 4. removing and overturning them, he would not now return to a leſſe, of making them tremble. It muſt therefore be meant of pillars for upholding. Meaning thereby the loweſt parts of the earth, which are as the pillars to uphold the reſt, 1 Sam. 2. 8. Pſal. 75. 3. So ſome take the pillars of heaven, mentioned, Job 26. 11. to be the higheſt mountains, which ſeem to uphold the heavens. Others take it for the equal poizing of the earth, whereby it ſeems to be upheld, and kept in his conſtant poſture, having nothing elſe to ſupport it, Pſal. 104. 5.

tremble] They are not removed out of their place, but tremble in it, ready to caſt down their load, like men affrighted, Job 21: 6.

V. 7. Which commandeth the Sun, and it riſeth not, and ſealeth up the Stars] God doth great things, not in earth onely, but in heaven alſo, where no man can come to work. God doth what he pleaſeth in heaven, Pſal. 135. 6. Dan. 4. 35. As he makes the earth to move, ſo he makes the Sun not move, and the Stars to hide their heads, when he pleaſeth.

commandeth] Heb. Speaks to. God ſpeaks like a King, by command, Pſal. 33. 9. & 147. 15. Gen. 1. 3. 2 Cor. 4. 6. 2 Chro. 29. 24. And the Ten Commandements, are called ten words, Exod. 34. 28. in the margin. For Commandeth, ſee on Chap. 16. 1. on Said.

the Sun] A name taken from the heat of it, as the Learned conceive.

it riſeth not] Some take it to be a deſcription of the night; as that which follows is of the day. God forbids the Sun to riſe in the night, and the Stars in the day. Others take it for an alluſion to the three dayes darkneſſe in Egypt, wherein, neither Sun nor Star appeard, Exod. 10. 21. &c. Others would have it an alluſion to the Suns ſtanding ſtill, Joſh. 10. 13. and going backward, Iſai. 38. 8. For in the former, the Sun roſe not with the antipodes one morning, and the Stars were ſealed up part of the night; and in the latter, the Sun did not appear in the other part of the world ſo ſoon as was expected. But it is likely, that both the Egyptian darkneſſe, and the Suns ſtanding ſtill and going back, were after Jobs time. But it is rather a deſcription of cloudy dayes and nights, wherein the Sun appears not by day, nor any ſtar by night; and then it is all one to us in Eclipſes and Fogs, as if the Sun did not riſe; for we ſee it not, nor other things by the light of it. God keeps the morning dark ſometimes, as if it were ſtill night, Amos 4. 13. He ſends many miſty dayes, wherein the Sun is not ſeen, Joel 2. 2. and nights ſuitable, that ſhew no ſtars, Ezek. 32. 7. Act. 27. 20. Job 3. 4, 5, 6. Amos 5. 8. & 8. 9. Iſa. 13. 10 Hindering then the Sun from riſing, is, from ſhining in the day, as it doth other dayes; as ſealing up the Stars is, hindering them from ſhining in dark nights. Thus God croſſes the ordinary courſe of things when he pleaſeth, keeping the Sun and Stars from giving light in their ſeaſons, although made by him to that end, Gen. 1. 14.

and ſealeth up the ſtars] Heb. ſets a ſeal upon the ſtars. There is a twofold uſe of ſeals: one to keep things ſafe, that no man may meddle with them: as Dan. 6. 17. Matth. 27. 66. So the ſtars are ſealed, or ſet faſt in their orbs, where no man can take them away. Another uſe of a ſeal is, to keep things ſecret, that none may know them. So letters and treaſures are ſealed up, Job 14. 17. Eſth. 3. 12. Iſai 29. 11. Dan. 9. 24. & 12. 4. 9. Deut. 32. 34. Rev. 10. 4. This is that which here is intended. God makes the ſtars hide their heads, ſealing them up with the Sun-beams in the day, or clouds, or darkneſſe in the night; as the Chaldee Paraphraſt hath it. He doth, as it were, command them, under his hand and ſeal, not to ſhine: and this ſeal of God no man can open. Some underſtand it of thoſe ſtars that never appear to us, but are as it were ſealed up from us, though viſible to the Antipodes, 37. 7.

V. 8. Which alone ſpreadeth out the heavens, and treadeth upon the waves of the Sea] He ſearcheth every where for evidences of Gods power, from earth unto heaven; thence down to the ſea, Pſal. 104. 3, 5, 6, 25.

which alone] Either the ſenſe is; None can do it but he, or he can do it without the help of any other. Both are true, and argue the infinite power of God.

Spreadeth out] There are divers ſorts of ſpreading in Scripture and common ſpeech. As by beating, gold is ſpread, Exod. 25. 18, 19. The Cherubims beaten out of a lump of gold, ſpread their wings abroad, 1 King. 8. 7. By melting; as bell-mettal, and looking-glaſſes, Job 37. 18. By opening, as curtains are ſpread, Pſal. 104. 2. And things are ſpread ſometimes for a covering, 2 Sam. 17. 19. The word נטה ſignifies. 1. Stretching out, or ſpreading a thing, Exod. 6. 6. 2. To Decline, or go downward, Pſal. 102. 11. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

the heavens] Not the third heavens, where the Angels are; nor the ſecond, where the ſtars are; but the firſt, where the clouds are: God ſtretcheth, or ſpreadeth a covering of clouds over them, when he intends to ſend rain. For he ſpeaks not here of works of creation, but of providence; and heaven is put for the clouds. Compare, Pſal. 68. 4, 8. with Dan. 7. 13. Act. 1. 9. Judg. 5. 4. Job 36. 28, 29, 32. Pſal. 147. 8. or it may be underſtood of ſpreading the air with light in the day, and darkneſſe in the night, Job 36. 30. Pſal. 104. 20. The word alſo ſignifies bowing down, as Pſal. 18. 9. and when the clouds ariſe all over the heaven, it ſeems to be bowed down. For Heavens, ſee on Chap. 1. 16.

and treadeth upon] Or, Spurneth. Sheweth his power over the Sea, by doing what he pleaſeth there, though the waves ſeem to ſwell againſt him. As a man that walkes on dry land can do what he pleaſeth there, but not ſo on the waters. God onely can do that. But it is rather to be underſtood of ſtilling of tempeſts. When the Sea rages, God doth as it were trample under foot the ſwelling waves thereof, and lay it ſmooth again, as if he would walk upon it, Pſal. 89. 9. & 93. 3, 4.

the waves of the ſea] Heb. heights, or high places. Waves are high, and as it were the mountaines of the Sea, Iſai. 58. 14. Amos 4. 13. Pſal. 107. 25, 26. They are lifted up by the winds. For Sea, ſee on Chap. 14. 11.

V. 9. which maketh Arcturus, and Orion, and Pleiades, and the Chambers of the South] Having mentioned the heavens, he goes on to ſpeak of ſome principal ſtars, which diſtinguiſh the ſeaſons of the year, and ſome of them bring tempeſts. The whole ſky from the North Pole, which lieth in our ſight, to the South Pole beneath us, which is hidden from us, is decked by his power with many glittring ſtars, which he makes to appear at ſeveral Seaſons, as governours, and diſtinguiſhers of the ſeveral quarters of the year.

maketh] Maketh to ariſe at ſet times, and to appear in ſeveral places to do him ſervice. So God made Moſes and Aaron, 1 Sam. 12. 6. and in the margin, that is according to the tranſlation, advanced them to be the deliverers of his people out of Egypt. And as was obſerved before, works of providence are here ſpoken of, not of creation. So Chap. 38. 31, 32. God convinces Job of weakneſſe, and demonſtrates his own power, by regulating theſe ſtars. See the like Amos 5. 8. For Makes ſee on Chap. 14. 9. on Bring forth.

Arcturus] The Hebrew word is derived from a verb, that ſignifies to meet together: and hereby is ſignified a company of ſtars meeting in one conſtellation, wherein many leſſer ones are gathered about one great one, and are called Arcturus his ſons, Chap. 38. 32. Arcturus is a Greek word ſignifying the Bears tail, ſo called by the Aſtronomers, becauſe thoſe ſtars are like a Bears tail; or as others think, are neer, and behinde another conſtellation, called the great Bear: Theſe ſtars ariſe in the beginning of September, at which time the ancient Eaſtern people began the year. This was eſteemed the beginning of Autumn. The Heb. word עש ſignifies. 1. A Moth, Chap. 4. 19. 2. Arcturus: As here.

Orion] The Original word כסיל ſignifies a Fool ſometimes: and here it is applied to this ſtar; becauſe as fools are inconſtant, and one hour in one mind, and another hour in another, ſo this ſtar ariſing in the beginning of December, and beginning the Winter, produceth much variety of weather. Hence alſo one of the moneths hath his name in Hebrew, Zech. 7. 1. becauſe it produceth diverſity of weather; which ſome think to be November; others, December, in which this ſtar ariſeth. But they (as moſt agree) beginning their moneths in the midſt of ours, it may well agree with the ariſing of this ſtar, and the beginning of Winter. Orion is a Greek word, and comes from a verb, that ſignifies to ſtir or trouble; becauſe this ſtar troubles the air, and men alſo, by bringing alterations of weather, by his great inconſtancy.

Pleiades] The native ſignification of the Hebrew word is not to be found among the Jewiſh Writers; But it appears to be the ſeven ſtars called Pleiades, ariſing in the beginning of March, and giving the beginning to the Spring, becauſe it is ſet here between thoſe ſtars that begin the Winter, and thoſe that begin the Summer; and Chap. 38. 31. it is oppoſed to Orion, that by his froſty bands binds up the earth, and it on the contrary ſets it at liberty to bring forth delicate fruits. The Greek word Pleiades here uſed in our Tranſlation, is taken ἀπὸ τῦ πλεῖν; from a word, that ſignifies to ſail, becauſe after the rough Winter paſt, in the beginning of the Spring, ſailers uſe to put forth to ſea.

Chambers of the South] Hereby is, ſome think, meant thoſe ſtars, which are hidden from us, who live under the North Pole, and are ſeen by them, who live under the South Pole. And that they are called Chambers, becauſe they are hidden from us in this part of the world, as if they were lodged in ſecret chambers; Prov. 7. 27. Judg. 15. 1. Cant. 3. 4. The Chaldee Paraphraſt reads it, The chambers of the ſtars, the conſtellation of the planets in the South part. And that he names not thoſe ſtars, becauſe they are hidden from us, though they appear to other parts of the world, as the former do to us. But it may probably be deemed, that he rather means thoſe ſtars that ariſe about the beginning of Summer, in the heat of the year, as if they came then out of certain Southern chambers, or cloſets; as the Dog-ſtar, and others. He intimates that God orders all ſeaſons, and motions of the ſtars, including the reſt under theſe by a figure of the part for the whole. There being the ſame reaſon of all: and that being too great a work for man to do, ſets out Gods omniſcience, and omnipotency. This verſe ſhews, that the godly men in thoſe times had much ſkill in Aſtronomy and Aſtrology: though they did not abuſe that ſkill to the predictions of future events, as ſome now do; but uſed it, to convince men of the mighty power of God, as Job doth here.

V. 10. which doth great things paſt finding out, yea and wonders without number] Here he breaks off the enumeration of Gods wonderfull works in particular, with a generall concluſion; as if he had ſaid, Theſe are but a ſmall part of Gods wonderous works, which I have reckoned in the heaven, the earth, and the ſea: there are many more about meteors, metals, and other ſecret things, which our eyes never beheld: Which as they are more then any man can find out, or reckon up; ſo when God doth reveal them to us, are ſufficient proofs to convince the moſt blockiſh perſons, of Gods eternal power and wiſdom, Pſal. 72. 18. & 77. 11, 12, &c. & 86. 10. Rom. 11. 33. See on Chap. 5. 9. out of which this verſe is repeated word for word: and therefore needs no notes here.

V. 11. Lo he goeth by me, and I ſee him not: he paſſeth on alſo, but I perceive him not] God is a ſpirit inviſible, and therefore I cannot find him out to plead my cauſe with him, when I deſire it; nor have any warning to defend my ſelf, when he purpoſeth to call me into queſtion. He hath all advantages againſt me, and therefore I muſt needs be caſt; though I could ſay much for my ſelf, if I were upon equal terms with him. Such a deſire of pleading with God, Job expreſſeth, and the impoſſibility of obtaining it, Chap. 23. 3, 4, 8, 9.

Lo] Or, Behold. As it is tranſlated, ver. 12. See on Chap. 1. 12. For Lo, ſee on Chap. 19. 7. on Behold.

he goeth by me] Not that God moves from place to place, as men do; but he being ſpiritual, is as inviſible and incomprehenſible to the eye and mind of man, as a man that paſſeth by unſeen, and unthought of. He is nigh, yet I cannot come to plead with him, I cannot perceive him ready to that purpoſe. For the word, ſee Exod. 34. 6. For Go, ſee on Chap. 15. 19. on Paſſed.

and] Or, yet. Though he be ſo neer me, yet I cannot ſee him, for he is inviſible, Act. 17. 27. So this particle is tranſlated, 2 King. 8. 19, 22.

I ſee him not] Or, I cannot ſee him. For See, look on Chap. 19 27. on Behold.

he paſſeth on] See Chap. 4. 15. Or, repaſſeth: Goes forward and backward by me. He is round about me, Pſal. 139 5. Act. 17. 28. Heb. He changeth; to wit, his place.

perceive him not] Or, diſcern him not; as the ſame word is tranſlated, Chap. 6. 30. See notes there: as alſo on ver. 5. of this Chapter.

V. 12. Behold, he taketh away, who can hinder him? Who will ſay unto him, what doeſt thou?] In this verſe, and the next, Job ſhews mans great weakneſſe, that if God ſhould take away all he hath, be it deſervedly or no, yet he cannot hinder him, nor dare not ask a reaſon of it, nor cannot look to have help from any friend; becauſe Gods power is ſo great, that he would confound the ſtouteſt, that ſhould take part with any, whom he ſpoiles. All tends to this purpoſe, that Job in this diſcontented paſſion he was now in, perſwaded himſelfe that God would overpower him, and not give him a juſt hearing. Not that he thought he was no ſinner, or had deſerved no corrections; but that he was not ſo great a ſinner, as to be made an example of Gods anger to preſent and future ages, by ſo great judgements inflicted upon him; contrary to Gods proceedings in thoſe times, wherein God uſed to proſper the godly, and afflict the wicked moſt grievouſly: We find the Pſalmiſt ſubject to the like tentation, Pſal. 73. Jer. 12. 1.

Behold] See on Chap. 1. 12. Or, If; as Jer. 2. 10. 2 Chr. 7. 13. Or, if it be Behold, yet the verſe may be read conditionally; as often in Scripture, where two things, one depending on another, come together; a condition is implyed in the firſt, as Iſa. 8. 10. Take counſel together, and it ſhall come to nought: which is not an injunction to do ſo, but a prediction, that if they did ſo, it ſhould be to no purpoſe, for God would hinder it. And this agrees with what followes here; for if is added in the beginning of the next verſe. See the like ſentences, Pſal. 109. 28. Mal. 1. 4.

he taketh away] The word ſignifieth a ſudden and violent taking away, as wild beaſts or robbers do their prey, without any order of law. The word is uſed no where elſe in Scripture, but here, and Prov. 23. 28. And therefore the one place muſt give light to the other. So Chriſts coming is likened to the coming of a thief, 1 Theſſ. 5. 2. But there is more intended here; for Job in his paſſion caſts ſome aſperſions, of ſome kind of injuſtice upon God. Elſe why doth Elihu, in his long ſpeech, and God in his, towards the end of the book, charge Job with ſuch a fault, and cleer Gods juſtice exceedingly? which ſhews, that Job had taxed God unjuſtly; and if any were, certainly moſt in this, and the next Chapter. The ſpeech is ſomewhat conciſe, and ſhort, as Rabbi Levi obſerves on the place, and may be filled up thus; Behold he ſpoils a man when he will, and none can be found, that can hinder him from ſo doing. Some underſtand it of taking away a mans goods or poſſeſſions from him, as he had done Jobs, Chap. 1. 14, &c. And it may be Job might aim at that, for naturally we are too ready to repine at our own loſſes. Others, of taking away life, which Job might well expect in ſuch miſeries. And ſo the Chaldee Paraphraſt reads it, Behold he will take a man out of the world, and who will there be, that can bring him back? Job's meaning is in general, that whereas a man ſpoiled by others, may ſome way be helped, none can help thoſe whom God will ſpoile.

who can hinder him?] Heb. who can make him to turn back? or, aſide; to wit, from ſpoyling: or, who can reſtore it? or, bring it back, Gen. 14. 16. & 42. 25. Meaning, that which God hath taken away. There is no dealing with God, nor hope of reſtitution, though he do deprive us of what we enjoy; yea, though it were cauſeleſly; as Job complains God dealt with him, ver. 17. For Hinder ſee on Chap. 15. 13. on Turne.

who will ſay unto him] Who dare ask him a reaſon of his ſo doing? Or, Who can compell him to give one? He is too ſtrong to be queſtioned for any thing. For Say ſee on chap. 16. 1.

What doſt thou?] Or, why doſt thou ſo? Or, why doſt thou do it? as Chap. 15. 12. & 19. 28. See the like phraſe, 2 Sam. 16. 10. Iſa. 45. 9. Rom. 9. 20. For Doſt ſee on Chap. 14. 9. on Bring forth.

V. 13. If God will not withdraw his anger, the proud helpers do ſtoop under him] If a man had never ſo ſtrong help from others, yet all this cannot help him, if Gods anger continue: which is ſo fierce, that it will ruine not only them, but their helpers.

If] Some read it without, If. God will not withdraw, &c. and then the ſenſe is; As no man can compell God to give in account of his anger, ver. 12. ſo none can hinder him from executing his wrath: He is reſolved not to be hindered by any creature.

God] See on Chap. 4. 9.

withdraw] Keep back his anger. Heb. Turn away, or, turn back; ver. 12. None can keep God from executing his wrath, unleſſe he pleaſe to withdraw it himſelf. He will never do it for fear of any man, nor be forced to it by the power of any Creature, Chap. 23. 13, 14. Pſal. 78. 38. Prov. 15. 1.

his anger] See on Chap. 4. 9. By anger, is meant the afflictions he layes on men in his anger, Pſal. 39. 10. For Anger ſee on Chap. 14. 13. on wrath.

The proud helpers] Heb. the helpers of pride. Or, ſtrong helpers: Thoſe who in the pride of their hearts think themſelves ſo ſtrong, that they can help others, yet cannot keep themſelves from falling. Hence Egypt had the name of Rahab, becauſe the Egyptians truſted in their ſtrength, and encouraged others to truſt in them, yet were deſtroyed themſelves, Iſa. 31. 1, 2, 3. Pſal. 87. 4. & 89. 10. Iſa. 51. 9. Ezek. 29. 6, 7, 16.

ſtoop under him] Are bowed down, and fall under the weight of Gods anger, which they are not able to bear. Or, under it. That is, under Gods wrath. They have taken too great a load on their ſhoulders, which muſt needs cruſh them. Thus an utter deſtruction in ſcripiture is ſet out, under the ſimilitude of one falling under a burden irrecoverably, Pſal. 38. 4, 5, 6. Hab. 3. 6. Judg. 27. Others interpret theſe three laſt verſes, as if Job ſpake reverently of Gods works, which none could ſufficiently underſtand, or reſiſt, and therefore he would humble himſelf before him. But what makes all this to Jobs ſcope, who ſhewes leſſe humility no where, nor ſpeaks more ſtrangely of Gods proceedings with him any where, then in this Chapter? Could he ſpeak well and ill of Gods dealing with him at the ſame time? Jam. 3. 10, 11.

V. 14. How much leſſe ſhall I anſwer him, and chooſe out my words to reaſon with him?] If men in ſtrength, and ſtrongly befriended cannot deal with him, how ſhould I do it, that am weak and friendleſſe? Either he would not let me plead my cauſe, or would not be moved by the choyceſt words I could ſpeak.

How much leſſe ſhall I anſwer him?] Or, Can I anſwer him, as Chap. 8 11. I cannot have liberty to anſwer him, and to plead for my ſelf, although I could ſay much for my ſelf. Or, if I ſhould be called in queſtion by him, and ſuffered to ſpeak, his power would ſo daunt me, that though I were never ſo well prepared, yet I could not ſpeak one word for my ſelf. For the word Anſwer, ſee on ver. 3. For Anſwer ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

and chooſe out my words] I could uſe choiſe words for my ſelfe, if I might be heard to ſpeak, but that liberty is denied me, Chap. 13. 3. For the word chooſe, ſee Exod. 17. 9. 2 Sam. 6. 1. For VVords ſee on Chap. 15. 3. on, Talke. And on Chap. 19. 28. on Matter.

to reaſon with him] Or, againſt him. So עם is uſed, Deut. 9. 7. Pſal. 94. 16. Prov. 30. 31. To anſwer his objections againſt me, or to urge my arguments againſt his proceedings with me. Broughton reads it, Much leſſe can I anſwer him: can I wiſh to have pleading againſt him. I am ſo diſcouraged with conſideration of his great power and policy, that though I could deſire liberty to plead my cauſe againſt him, yet I know not how to wiſh it, for I am ſure to be overborne.

V. 15. VVhom though I were righteous, yet would I not anſwer, but I would make ſupplication to my Judge.] Or, VVhom though I be righteous, I may not anſwer, but muſt make ſupplication to my Judge. I cannot have liberty to anſwer for my ſelf, though my cauſe be juſt, but muſt be forced to ſue to him, as a Judge that hath power over me, and will not hear me. This appears to be the ſenſe by the following verſe; wherein Job ſhews no will to pray to God, or hope of being heard any more, and gives a reaſon of this diſtruſtfulneſſe, ver. 17. becauſe God cauſeleſſely afflicted him more and more, and what hope could he have then, that God would hear him? others interpret this verſe and the former, as Jobs acknowledgement of his ſins, and deſert to be ſo puniſhed, and of Gods juſtice in afflicting him, and that he had no reaſon nor deſire to plead with God, though he were innocent, but would rather in all humility ſeek to him for favour. But it were a very ſudden change in Job to be ſo ready to pray in one verſe, and ſo averſe in the next: to lye ſo low before God in this verſe, and to flye ſo high againſt his proceedings in the next ſave one. Eſpecially Job going on in a continued ſpeech, and not as in ſome Pſalms mentioning different carriages, ſome ſavouring of fear in trouble, and ſome of joy in deliverance, becauſe being compoſed after the deliverance, they mention the Pſalmiſts carriage both in and after trouble.

whom] Or, who. It may have relation either to Job, or God, both being mentioned in the former verſe. I would anſwer any other but him: Or, Though I were righteous, I would not anſwer.

though] An uſual manner of reaſoning in Scripture upon ſuppoſition, as 1 Cor. 13. 1, 2, 3. yet here may be no ſuppoſition, as was noted before, if it be read, Though I be righteous. This good opinion of himſelf, Elihu chargeth Job with, Chap. 32. 2. and God ſeconds it, Chap. 40. 8.

I were righteous] I had a juſt cauſe to defend. Or, I be righteous. My cauſe is juſt, yet I cannot come to plead it. Ye think I have an unjuſt cauſe in hand, and have deſerved to be afflicted more then other men. But I know the contrary. So the preter tenſe in the Original is thrice tranſlated in the preſent time, Pſal. 1. 1. That walks not, nor ſtandeth, nor ſitteth.

yet would I not anſwer] I durſt not ſpeak before him, being terrified by his Majeſty. Or, I may not anſwer. God will give me no hearing. See on ver. 3.

I would make ſupplication] Or, I muſt, &c. So great is his force, power, and authority over me, that I muſt be forced to ſtoop to him, or periſh. Though I be right in this cauſe, yet I may not be ſuffered to plead my right. For the word making ſupplication, or, beſeeching, that it ſignifies earneſt ſeeking for favour, ſee Hoſ. 12. 4. Gen. 42. 21. But I would make ſupplication. Or, Nor would I (or, might I) make ſupplication. Taking the negative out of the former part of the verſe; as Pſal. 1. 5. I durſt not ſo much as ſue for favour, ſo great is his Majeſty: much leſſe look for a full hearing. Rabbi Levi reads it by way of queſtion, Should I make ſupplication to my Judge? No. I ſhould have a fair hearing. Or, I have no hope to find favour with him any more, as verſ. 16. therefore I will not pray to him for it.

to my Judge] To God, who is my Judge; for he is the Judge of all the world, Gen. 18. 25.

V. 16. If I had called, and he had anſwered me, yet would I not believe that he had harkened unto my voyce] Or, as it is word for word in the Original, without altering tenſes, as this tranſlation doth, If I have called, and he hath anſwered me, I will not believe that he will hearken to my voyce. I have had favour with God heretofore, and he hath heard me, and granted my requeſt, but he layes ſo great load on me now, that I am out of hope of being heard hereafter by him. This agrees with the verſe following. What hope can I have, that he will hear me, that layes ſuch a load of troubles on me? Or, according to the former tranſlation, Though God ſhould anſwer my prayers now, yet I am ſo terrified with my pains, and his Majeſty, that I cannot perceive it. For after my prayer, I am in as bad caſe, as before, and ſeem to have a repulſe from God.

If] Or, Though; as it is tranſlated verſ. 15. and Amos 5. 22. Hoſ. 4. 15. I confeſſe I have been in favour with God, and had many a petition granted, but I am out of hope of having any more. Here the particle, that often ſignifies a ſuppoſition, that may be falſe, intimates a true poſition.

had called] Had prayed to him; as Pſal. 50. 15. For Call ſee on Chap. 13. 22.

had anſwered me] Granted my requeſt. So anſwering is expounded, Gen. 35. 3. Pſal. 118. 5.

believe] The word ſignifies to be eſtabliſhed; and then to believe, becauſe Faith muſt lean upon ſure grounds out of Gods Word, and then it will eſtabliſh the heart.

that he had hearkened] Lovingly attended to what I had to ſay, as they do, that are willing to grant petitions.

to my voyce] To my prayer, that I not only conceived in my heart, but alſo in the extremity of my grief could not conceal from uttering with my tongue. Others read it thus; If I cry, will he anſwer me? I cannot believe that he will give ear unto my voyce. Underſtanding the whole verſe of ſuch prayers as he ſhould now put up unto God. Others underſtand by calling, challenging God, or provoking; calling upon him for a day of hearing: and they underſtand Jobs meaning thus; If I ſhould require of God, and obtain a time, in which I might plead with him, yet I cannot believe, that he will paſs ſentence on my ſide, how juſtly ſoever I plead for my ſelf. And this interpretation ſuits with Jobs ſcope in theſe two Chapters, as appears by his many complaints of Gods harſh dealing with him, and deſire to plead with God, verſ. 18, 19, &c. For Voyce ſee on Chap. 15. 21. on Sound.

V. 17. For he breaketh me with a tempeſt, and multiplyeth my wounds without cauſe] Here it appears, by Jobs accuſing God of too much ſeverity againſt him, that he did not ſpeak reverently of God before, as many Commentors conceive he did. For there can be no reaſon to think that he intends to humble himſelf before God, where he complains ſo vehemently of him.

For] As it is tranſlated, Deut. 3. 24. Or, Becauſe; as 2 Chron. 15. 16. The cauſe, why I think God will hear me no more, is becauſe he afflicts me ſo heavily. Or, who breaketh me, &c. With what heart can I pray to him, who goes about to ruine me?

he breaketh me] Or, bruiſeth me; as Gen. 3. 15. And wounds often come with bruiſing. Others read it, He would break me. But Job ſpeaks of his preſent pains, not of future ones, which he feared not, who wiſhed for death. Unleſſe he mean, I ſhould live in a worſe condition, then now I am, if I ſhould pray for mercy, or ask for juſtice.

with a tempeſt] That is, as with a tempeſt; for Job was not now in a ſtorm. So the note of ſimilitude is omitted, Chap. 7. 7. He uſeth two hyperbolical expreſſions, one taken from a tempeſt, the other from wounds given in war, to ſignifie the greatneſſe of his outward ſores, and inward ſorrowes, ariſing from them, which came ſo thick and violently on him, as a tempeſt threatening to overthrow him, Joſh. 10. 11. 1 Sam. 7. 10. Pſal. 83. 15. Iſa. 25. 4. Jer. 23. 19. Ezek. 13. 11, 13, 14. Amos 1. 14. Nah. 1. 3. This Hebrew word שערה, ſignifies. 1. A ſtorm, or tempeſt. Nah. 1. 3. 2. Haire. chap. 4. 15. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

multiplieth] *I*nflicts many wounds on me. Not wounded me in one or two places, but heaped blowes upon blowes, till he have left no ſound part in me, Pſal. 38. 3, 5.

my wounds] My ſores and ſorrowes, which are inflicted on me by God, as wounds are by an enemy in battel, till the blood iſſue.

without cauſe] I having not committed any ſuch great wickedneſſe, for which ſo great plagues ſhould be inflicted upon me above other men. See on Chap. 1. 9. & 2. 3. Pſal. 35. 7. Some, who would excuſe this paſſionate ſpeech of Job, interpret it, without ſhewing me the cauſe. But the word never ſo ſignifies. Neither can theſe be made the words of one humbling himſelf before God, (as they interpret them) but of one in a great diſtemper, unleſſe they be violently drawn drawn from their ordinary conſtruction. For Without cauſe ſee on Chap. 19. on Nought.

V. 18. He will not ſuffer me to take my breath: but filleth me with bitterneſſe] I have not onely many and great afflictions, but alſo continual ones without intermiſſion, Chap. 7. 19. I am ſo far from a period, that I have no pauſe of my troubles.

not ſuffer me] Heb. not give me. That is, not give me leave. For Suffer ſee on Chap. 14. 4. on Bring.

to take] Heb. to make to return. For breath muſt be drawn back, as well as put forth. He will not ſpare me a breathing while. For Take ſee on Chap. 15. 13. on Turneſt.

my breath] So it is rendred, Chap. 19. 17. I have no reſpite, nor lightening of my pain between whiles, Chap. 7. 4. but I am filled with plagues, as if God meant quite to overthrow me. For Breath ſee on Chap. 15. 2. on Vaine.

but] As it is uſed, Numb. 27. 3. Deut. 29. 15. He is ſo far from giving me any time of reſt, that he continually addes abundance of new troubles to the old. Or, For he, &c. as Deut. 29. 16. And then it gives a reaſon of the former part of the verſe. The reaſon why I can ſcarce fetch my breath, is the daily acceſſe of new troubles.

filleth me] Heb. ſatisfieth me. Not that his troubles gave him any ſatisfaction or content, but to intimate, that he was as full of troubles, as men are of good things, that are fully ſatisfied with them. He had abundance of afflictions, Chap. 8. 21. Prov. 14. 14. The Hebrew word השביע when ſpoken of good things, ſignifies to ſatisfie. Pſal 107. 9. when of bad things, to be filled. Lam. 3. 15.

with bitterneſſe] Heb. bitterneſſe. That is, with many and great plagues, which are as diſpleaſing to the ſoul, as bitter things are to the palate. He had moſt bitter troubles, that is, extreme afflictions, Chap. 3. 20. 1 Sam. 15. 32. Ruth 1. 20. 2 Sam. 2. 26. As ſweetneſſe is uſed to ſignifie pleaſant things, wherein nature delights; (Hoſ. 9. 4. They ſhall not be pleaſing to him. Heb. ſweet, Gen. 8. 21.) ſo bitterneſſe, to ſet out diſpleaſing things, as troubles and ſorrows; as by gall, Deut. 32. 32, 35. and wormwood, Lam. 3. 15.

V. 19. If I ſpeak of ſtrength, loe he is ſtrong; and if of judgement, who ſhall ſet me a time to plead?] If I ſhall betake my ſelf to force, queſtionleſſe God is too ſtrong for me; and if to law, who ſhall make him to appear, or bring him to his anſwer? He is every way too hard for me. I cannot deal with him by might, nor by right.

If I ſpeak of ſtrength] Or, If I have recourſe to ſtrength. If I think to right my ſelf that way, I ſhall be deceived. For Strength ſee on Chap. 6. 11.

loe] Or, behold. See on Chap. 1. 12.

he is ſtrong] Strongeſt of all, and far too ſtrong for me or any creature. We are all weaklings to him. See on verſ. 4.

if of judgement] Or, if I have recourſe to judgement; as before. By judgement, is meant a courſe of law, wherein right may prevaile againſt might, as appears by the oppoſite in the beginning of the verſe. For Judgement ſee on chap. 22. 4.

who ſhall ſet me] God will not let me have any time to queſtion his proceedings, nor no man can force him to give an account thereof.

a time to plead] Heb. who ſhall make me to come together with him? Who can appoint a time or place for us to meet in judgement, and tye God to hold it? ver. 32, 33. For the word ſignifies both appointing places and times; as appears by מועד, derived from it, which ſignifies both the ſet Feaſts and meeting places, as Chap.30.23. 2 Sam.20. 5. Lam. 2.6. & 1.4. Exod. 27.21. & 40.22. And both are needfull in Judicature, that the perſons diſſenting may know when, and where to meet. So this word is tranſlated, Jer. 49. 19. who will appoint me the time? And in the margine, who will convent me in judgement? Or, to plead, as Jer. 50.44. In the margine.

V. 20. If I juſtifie my ſelf, mine own mouth ſhall condemn me: If I ſay, I am perfect, it ſhall alſo prove me perverſe] Thoſe who would here excuſe Jobs paſſion, offer a double violence to the Original words. Firſt they tranſlate אצדק, I juſtifie my ſelf. Which is not found in that form ſo tranſlated any where; and the learned know, that there is in the Hebrew a peculiar form for ſuch expreſſions, called Hithpael Secondly, they adde I ſay. Whereas the words run plainly thus; Though I be juſt, mine own mouth ſhall condemn me: though I be perfect, it ſhall alſo pronounce me perverſe; That is, If I ſhould prevail to have an hearing, God would ſo over-awe me, that I ſhould be forced to condemn my ſelf. This agrees well with the verſe following, and with Jobs ſcope, who though he thought himſelf not free altogether from ſinne, yet thought he was afflicted more then he deſerved, and is therefore juſtly reproved both by Elihu, and by God afterwards.

If] Or, Though; as verſ. 15, 16, 21. Chap. 8.4.

I juſtify my ſelfe] Heb. I be juſt. So it is tranſlated verſ. 15. Though I were righteous. See there. Though I have a juſt cauſe to plead, as I conceive I have.

mine own mouth] I ſhall be ſo terrified with Gods preſence, that I ſhall falter in my ſpeeches, though my cauſe be juſt, and I come never ſo well prepared, and he will pick matter out of mine own words to condemn me. Or, God will ask me ſo many queſtions, that he will find matter againſt me, though there be no witneſſes to accuſe me. For Mouth ſee on Chap. 15. 5.

ſhall condemn me] Heb. ſhall make me wicked. That is, ſhall pronounce me ſo; as to make juſt in the Original, is to pronounce juſt, Prov. 17.15. for indeed not the fact not proved, nor the accuſation makes a man wicked in the eye of the law, but the ſentence of the Judge. For Condemn ſee on Chap. 34. 29. on Make trouble.

If I ſay, I am perfect] If, Or, Though, I be perfect; That is, upright. They are uſed promiſcuouſly, Chap. 1. 1. If my cauſe be juſt, as I think it is.

it ſhall] My mouth, as before. Or, He ſhall. God ſhall, ſpoken of verſ. 19. God is reſolved to condemn me, ſay I what I can for my ſelfe.

alſo] As Chap. 32. 10. Or, even, Chap. 11. 18, 19. Not barely condemn me, but of a grievous crime.

prove me] Or, pronounce me.

perverſe] One that walkes in crooked pathes, Iſa. 59. 8. Mic. 3. 9. A very ungodly man. God can make me to ſay I am ſo, though I be not.

V. 21. Though I were perfect, yet would I not know my ſoule, I would deſpiſe my life] Or, Though I be perfect, I will not know my ſoul, I will deſpiſe my life. Or, I am perfect; ſhould I not know my ſoul? ſhould I deſpiſe my life? I would rather deny mine own innocency, and caſt away my life, then come to plead with God, whoſe greatneſſe would ſo affright me, that I ſhould not be mine own man. Or, whatever ye my friends think of me, I am upright. I think I ſhould know my ſtate better then you do, for I know mine own heart, and ye know it not. Would ye have me confeſſe my ſelf wicked, that ſo God might juſtly cut me off for my lewdneſſe? I will not make ſo light account of my life. It is likely theſe are the words that Elihu faſtens on, Chap. 33. 9. though he miſ-underſtand them, as if Job had denied, that there were any ſin in him at all. Yet was Job juſtly to be blamed, as denying any ſuch ſin in him that ſhould deſerve ſuch exemplary Judgments, not conſidering that though he were not ſo wicked as others, yet his ſins deſerved worſe plagues, even hell it ſelf, and therefore God did him no wrong in inflicting theſe, which were leſſer. Two things Job propounds here, the defence of his uprightneſſe, which he proſecutes in this Chapter; and his deſire of death, which he urgeth in the next. As if he had ſaid, I am free from theſe evils ye object to me, my conſcience acquits me of them, yet neverthelеſſe I am compaſſed about with ſo many troubles, that I am weary of my life.

Though I were] Or, Though I be.

perfect] See on Chap. 1. 1.

not know my ſoul] Not take notice of mine own innocency, nor be ever the more confident of my cauſe, Chap. 10. 15. Or, not know my ſelf, or, my life. As if I were brought to nothing through the fear of Gods Majeſty, and well nigh ſtruck dead. So the word is uſed, Gen. 19. 17. 1 King. 19. 4. Jer. 51. 14. For Soul ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

I would deſpiſe my life] Or, loath it. See Chap. 7. 16. I ſhould be weary of my life for fear of him. Or, I had rather die, then come to contend with God in judgement. See ſuch compariſons included in abſolute ſpeeches, Pſal. 40. 6. & 51. 16, 17. Hoſ. 6. 6. where God doth not ſimply forbid ſacrifices, (though the words ſeem to run ſo) but lay them low before knowledge, and obedience.

V. 22. This is one thing, therefore I ſaid it: he deſtroyeth the perfect, and the wicked] The conſideration of what I have ſaid before, and what I have felt my ſelf, doth evidently prove, that God ſhews no more favour to good men, then to bad.

This is one thing] One remarkable thing in the world: Or, one thing that I purpoſe to maintain againſt you. Or, this is uniform. It is Gods way of proceeding. Or, this caſe of mine is a ſingular caſe. God hath not ſo afflicted any other man that fears him. Or, all I have ſaid, tends to this one end. Or, all is one, whether I be juſt or unjuſt, I muſt be puniſhed. Or, this is one thing that troubles me, that God puniſheth me that am upright, like a guilty perſon. They that excuſe Job here, interpret it thus; In that which I have ſpoken before of Gods power, I conſent with you, but in that which follows, I differ, and affirm, that God deals alike with good and bad in this world. But this will not ſtand with the conſtruction of the words, unleſſe they be forced. The words refer to what was ſaid before, and infer a concluſion of them, as appears by the word therefore. Inſtead whereof he would have ſaid, but, if he had intended to begin a new matter, wherein he diſſented from them. It is therefore a concluſion on the former premiſes, which Job further illuſtrates afterwards, to ſhew that God dealt as hardly with him, as with ungodly men.

therefore] Becauſe I think ſo, and have found it by obſervation, and am like to feel it by experience, if theſe judgements continue but a while on me.

I ſaid] Or, I ſay. Now, and will not hide my mind from you, but conſtantly affirm it for a truth. For it appears not, where Job had ſaid ſo before. For Say ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

he deſtroyeth] Heb. conſumeth. He not only layes pains on them, but makes an end of them. For Deſtroy ſee on Chap. 36. 11. on Spend.

the perfect] See on Chap. 1. 1.

and] As well the one, as the other; or no leſſe the good, then the bad.

the wicked] See Chap. 3. 17. & 8. 22. Iſa. 48. 22. & 57. 20, 21. Some Writers mollifie Jobs ſpeech, as if he intended only to ſhew, that it was no argument his friends uſed, that he was wicked, becauſe God ſo afflicted him, for he afflicts good men as much as bad: as Eccl. 9. 1, 2, 3. Mal. 3. 14. Ezek. 21. 3. But that interpretation, agrees not well with thoſe phraſes of deſtroying the perfect, in this verſe, and laughing at it in next verſe. Out of which it appears, that Job in his diſtempered paſſion, goes higher then his friends, and complains of God. And from hence ſome conceive, that Elihu gathered that accuſation againſt him, that he had ſaid, He found no profit in piety, Chap. 35. 3. becauſe here in this verſe, he chargeth God to deal as harſhly with pious men, as with impious.

V. 23. If the ſcourge ſlay ſuddenly, he will laugh at the triall of the innocent] When troubles come abroad in the world, God is ſo far from exempting, or upholding good men, that he takes pleaſure to ſee them fall among the reſt. Some Writers conceive this ſentence to be one of thoſe ſpeeches, which Job profeſſeth his ſorrowfulneſſe for, and ſhame that ever he uttered them, Chap. 40. 3. and the other to be that, Chap. 7. 15. that his ſoul choſe ſtrangling; becauſe they perceived that Job never ſpake more hardly and ſharply of God. And that therefore he was reproved of God, in the verſes following, to wit, Chap. 40. 6, 7. This ſeems to be an anſwer to Bildads ſpeech, Chap. 8. 18, 20. He had affirmed, that God deſtroyed wicked men with his judgements, but not good men. Nay, ſaith Job, in common plagues good men find no more favour with him, then the wicked.

If] Or, when. For he ſpeakes not by ſuppoſition of a thing that may be done, but affirming it to be ſo ordinarily in publick judgements. So this particle is uſed, Numb. 35. 20. Gen. 38. 9. Judg. 21. 21.

the ſcourge] It comes from a word that ſignifies going about, or compaſſing about; and ſignifies a common calamity that goes through a country, and compaſſeth it, ſcarce leaving an houſe untoucht, as a ſcourge or whip compaſſeth a mans body round about, and as the Devil compaſſed the earth, and went all over it, Chap. 1. 7. & 2. 2. By the ſcourge, here, may be meant, any of thoſe common and ſpreading calamities, as wild beaſts, the ſword, the plague, the famin, which go over Cities, and Countries, when they ariſe, Iſai. 10. 26. & 28. 15. Ezek. 14. 12, &c. Job might have reſpect here to his own ſcabs, which like a whip came round about his body. The Hebrew word שוט ſignifies. 1. A ſcourge for the back. Prov. 26. 3. 2. Slander, or the ſcourge of the tongue, Chap. 5. 21. 3. Oppreſſion, or the ſcourge of the purſe. 1 King. 12. 11. 4. War, or any calamity, the ſcourge of the body. Iſa. 10. 26. So here.

ſlay] Heb. Make to die. If deſtructive afflictions come, for all are not ſuch, but thoſe forenamed are. Plague, Sword, Famine, wild beaſts deſtroy multitudes, and the good among the bad.

ſuddenly] Neither are all deſtructions ſudden, but ſome let men linger long ere they die. God takes good men away by plagues, as well as bad, and that without the leaſt warning given, ſo that it is not perceived, till the thing be done, Prov. 6. 15.

he will laugh at] As if he took ſingular pleaſure in the deſtruction of good men; elſe would he free them, and let wicked men periſh alone in common calamities, as becomes the Judge of all the world to do, Gen. 18. 25. Or, He will deride, or ſcoffe at; as if he were ſo pleaſed with it that he had no compaſſion of them at all, Pſal. 2. 4. Prov. 1. 26. Spoken after the manner of men; for God hath no face, nor cannot laugh nor weep.

the triall] Thoſe afflictions that ſhould but try good men, Gen. 21. 1.

22. 1. but do indeed deſtroy them with the wicked. Or, the melting away; that is their deſtruction; as it is called, verſ. 22. and ſlaying, in this verſe; for things melted, periſh: ſee Chap. 6. 14. in the margin.

of the innocent] If it were of nocent perſons only, or groſſe ſinners, it were ſomewhat ſtrange, that the mercifull God ſhould take pleaſure in their deſtruction: but much more ſtrange is it to think, what he can find to take pleaſure in, in the deſtruction of godly men. None are quite innocent, but he means ſuch as fear God, and are free from thoſe groſſe tranſgreſſions, that bring deſtroying judgements; as Lot was in Sodom, and Noah in the old world.

V. 24. The earth is given into the hand of the wicked; he covereth the faces of the Judges thereof: if not, where, and who is he?] God not only takes away ſome good men by ſudden judgements; but alſo gives others over to be oppreſſed by ungodly tyrants, to whom he gives authority to rule in the world with all licentiouſneſſe, and that over men better then themſelves, and God bears them out in it, elſe they could not uphold their unjuſt ſentences, as they do. None elſe could uphold them againſt the fury of multitudes oppreſſed by them.

The earth] The earth it ſelf, and all earthly honours and authority in it, and power over the inhabitants of it, Pſal. 24. 1. or the men of the earth; as the city is put for the citizens, Pſal. 97. 1. & 67. 2. or, the land. For it is likely, that Job had obſerved ſuch things in the place, where he lived, and better knew the condition of that place, then of other parts of the world. For Earth ſee on Chap. 3. 14.

given] By God, who only can diſpoſe of it; for in this diſtemper Job complaines of God; as appeares by the end of the verſe, and chap. 12. 19. For Given ſee on Chap. 14. 4. on Bring.

into the hand] Into the power. They rule it, as they pleaſe. See Chap. 1. 12. wicked men have ſo much power on earth, that men may think the oppreſſours have conquered the world, and forbidden the oppreſſed to live in it. For Hand ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

of the wicked] Some underſtand it of Satan, as ſome do the laſt petition of the Lords prayer, Deliver us from that evill one; whoſe power, in the world, is ſet out, Eph. 2. 2. & 6. 12. 2 Cor. 4. 4. But Job ſpeaking of outward preſſures, not of ſpiritual temptations, intends evill men, that by their power oppreſſed good men; and it may be, ſeeing he ſpeaks in the ſingular number in the Originall, he aimes at ſome famous tyrant in thoſe parts, known both to himſelf, and to his friends, that ſo he might convince them, and they have nothing to ſay againſt it.

He] Some underſtand it of the wicked man, who, by briber, blindeth Judges, and makes them paſs ſentence for him, to uphold him in his cruelty, Prov. 17. 23. Eccle. 7. 7. Exod. 23. 8. Others, of the wicked Prince, who blinds his Judges with preferment, and makes them oppreſſe the ſubjects in judgement to pleaſe him. But is is to be underſtood of God, and none elſe, as the words following declare.

covereth the face of the Judges thereof] God blinds them, by giving them over to errour, or permitting them to take bribes, ſo that they cannot diſcern right from wrong; but as if their faces were covered, they take no notice of oppreſſours to puniſh them, nor have no pity on the oppreſſed to relieve them. The Chaldee Paraphraſt reads, He hides juſtice from the face of the Judges thereof. Or, he defends them in their unjuſt ſentences, ſo that no man can queſtion them for any wrong done in judgement. So covering or hiding is taken for defence, Gen. 20. 16. Pſal. 27. 5. & 31. 20. & 91. 1. Or, He giveth power to tyrants to condemn juſt Judges, that would do right. So covering the face, is a ſign of a condemned perſon, or one to be condemned, Eſth. 7. 8. For Face ſee on Chap. 14. 20. on Countenance.

If not, where; and who is he?] It is out of queſtion, that this power to oppreſſe others, and to uphold themſelves in it, is given them from God. Where is any one elſe that could do ſo, or who durſt undertake it? Amos 3. 6. Therefore by a vehement interrogation, he affirms it to be done by God; unleſſe men would attribute the government of the world to ſome other, or to blind fortune, which were not only abſurd, but alſo impious. Ye can therefore attribute theſe diſorders to no other, but the providence of God. The phraſe argues a kind of admiration of the doer, and of indignation at the deed; as Gen. 27. 33. Hoſ. 13. 10. Or, If not, who then doth it? If it be not God, who then doth it? where is any other in the world that can do it? So it inferres a conſequence, Chap. 17. 15. where is now, or then my hope? And Gen. 27. 33. what ſhall I do now unto thee? For in both places there is an inference from theſe words, foregoing. Or, If it be not he, who is he that doth it now? So the word is uſed for the preſent time, Iſa. 22. 1. Job 19. 6, 23. It is done at this time. I can find none elſe to be the cauſe of it now but God; If ye know any other, ſpeak. A kind of challenge, ariſing out of Jobs confidence, that it was ſo, and could not be diſproved.

V. 25. Now my dayes are ſwifter then a poſt: they flye away, they ſee no good] He confirms, what he had ſaid, by his own example; and ſets out the vanity of his days by a threefold ſimilitude, out of three ſeverall Elements; one taken from the earth; another from the water; and the laſt from the air.

now] Heb. and; It is ſo with me, as well as with others; and therefore I ſpeak not without a cauſe.

my dayes] My days of proſperity: If I have had any comfortable days, they are quickly gone; but the proſperity of wicked men laſts long, Pſal. 73. 4. Or, the days of my life; as Chap. 7. 1. Why ſhould I feel ſo much miſery, that have ſo little a time to live? For Dayes ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

are ſwifter] Heb. lighter. A figure of the cauſe for the effect; for lightneſſe of body is the cauſe of ſwiftneſſe, Chap. 7. 6. Iſa. 19. 1. Heavie bodies move ſlowly. The Hebrew word קל ſignifies. 1. To be ſwift, Hab. 1. 8. 2. To be light, or leſſened. Gen. 8. 8. 3. To be vile, or lightly eſteemed. Job 40. 4.

then a poſt] Heb. one that runs. But it is uſed in Scripture for one imployed in publike ſervice, to carry letters, or meſſages, from city to city, or kingdom to kingdom, on foot or on horſeback, Eſth. 8. 10. Such an one muſt make haſte. My days are ſwifter then his running, or riding, for they ſtay not, nor give me no reſt; which a Poſt hath ſometime, for food, or ſleep. My former life repleniſhed with ſo many comforts, is ſo ſuddenly paſſed away, that no Poſt may, in ſwiftneſſe, be compared to it: and all theſe things were taken from me, almoſt before I had any enjoyment, or ſenſe of them.

they flye away,] As one that flyes away in danger of his life. He makes haſte, and ſtayes no where. He would be ſwifter then a poſt, if he could, becauſe his life lies at ſtake. So the word is uſed, 1 Sam. 19. 11, 18.

they] My days have ſeen no good. He attributes it to his dayes; but means it of himſelf, who lived in thoſe days. He ſaw no good in his dayes. So ſight is attributed to places, Chap. 8. 18.

ſee] Or, have ſeen; that is, enjoyed, Pſal. 34. 12. So, to ſee death, is to die, Joh. 8. 51. To ſee life, to live. Joh. 3. 36. For See look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

good] Proſperity, Worldly comfort, Pſal. 4. 6, 7. My days paſſed away ſo ſwiftly, that I could not enjoy the comfort of any thing I had. And now my good days are gone, and I have none, but uncomfortable ones left, Eccleſ. 12. 1. He ſpeaks as one that had forgotten all his former comforts, by reaſon of the preſſure of his preſent ſorrows. I have had none, or very light experiment, or ſenſe of humane felicity. A Poſt that rides in haſte, or a man that flyes to ſave his life, may ſee many good things, but cannot ſtay to taſte of them. I could not ſo much as look upon them, which might be done in little time. For Good ſee on Chap. 21. 13. on Wealth.

V. 26. They are paſſed away as the ſwift ſhips: as the Eagle that haſteth to the prey] The former ſimilitude was taken from a Poſt, or one flying to ſave his life on the land: here the next is taken from a ſhip at ſea, haſting to the haven, which is ſwifter then a Poſt; and the laſt, from a Bird flying in the ayre, which is conceived to move ſwifter then a ſhip. All to expreſſe what little or ſhort content Job now thinks he hath had in his life. He had had a large portion of outward proſperity; but preſent miſery had taken away the ſenſe and remembrance of any comfort he had in it.

they] My days, with all the comforts of them.

are paſſed away] Glide away inſenſibly. Heb. are changed; go ſwiftly away.

as] Heb. with. They go away, as if they kept pace with a ſwift ſhip under ſayle. Hence it appears, that a ſhip is ſwifter then a Poſt: for in the verſe before he had made them ſwifter then a Poſt; and here he doth but equall them to a ſhip.

the ſwift ſhip] A ſhip goes faſter then a Poſt: but a ſwift ſhip exceeding faſt. So do our days paſſe away. Heb. ſhips of deſire. From אבה to will, or deſire. That ſail ſo ſwiftly, that they ſeem to have a great deſire to be at the place appointed. Thus ſenſe is attributed to ſenſeleſſe things. See on Chap. 1. 19. Ships are ſaid to deſire, as days to ſee good, verſ. 25. and the ſhip thought to be broken, Jon. 1. 4. Or, whoſe Mariners at ſea deſire to be at home; or Merchants at home, expect their quick paſſage, that they may eſcape ſea dangers, and loſſes, and they may make gain of their rich loading, if they come home, or to the mart in time, or before others. Or, ſhips that carry choyce fruits, as the Chaldee Paraphraſt reads it. From אביב: which ſignifies fruits beginning to be ripe. Such are by ſhips carried in haſte from one port to another, leſt they ſhould rot by the way; and the voyage be loſt. Or, Pyrates ſhips. From איב, which imports enmity. For Pyrates, are ſea-enemies, and chuſe the lighteſt ſhips, that they may ſoon overtake loaden ones, and having robbed them, may ſoon get away, leſt they ſhould be purſued. For the ſame reaſons, theeves on the land get the ſwifteſt horſes. Or, ſhips of Ebeh, which ſome take to be the name of ſome ſea-port, where the ſwifteſt ſhips were in uſe; or of a river in Arabia, running very ſwiftly, which though the ſhips there be light of themſelves, yet carries them by the ſwift ſtream thereof much ſooner to the haven.

as the Eagle] My days are as an Eagle, which in flight is conceived to be ſwifter then any other fowl, Hab. 1. 8.

that haſteth to the prey] Heb. to food; or, that flyeth upon the prey] The Eagle is ſwift of himſelf; but hunger compells him to be ſwifter, when he flies to his prey. The Eagle mounts high, yet being quick-ſighted, ſpies a prey below, and comes upon it ſuddenly, like a thunder-bolt, before it can ſhift for it ſelf. No Eagle can ſeize more ſwiftly on her prey, then ſorrows do on me. By theſe ſeveral ſimilitudes of things, ſwifter one then another, Job ſets out the quick paſſing away of his comforts before, or his life now, and the likelihood of a ſpeedy approach of his death, if his pains were not ſoon taken away.

V. 27. If I ſay, I will forget my complaint, I will leave off my heavineſſe, and comfort my ſelf] As my proſperity was quickly gone, ſo on the contrary my afflictions bide by me, and will not be ſhaken off. For when I determined, and ſet my ſelf to bear my afflictions ſtoutly and patiently, and laid aſide all unquietneſſe; then new torments and fears aſſailed me, and made me lay aſide that reſolution. Or, If at ſome time I think to comfort my ſelf with hope of deliverance, then my ſorrows grow ſo great, that they daſh that hope ſuddenly. See the like complaint, Chap.7.13,14.

If] Or, when; as Chap.7.4. See on verſ. 13. of this Chapter.

I ſay] If I think, or determine fully in my mind to complain no more, Pſal.39.1.

I will forget] I wil not think any more of my ſorrows to complain of them, but be as if I had forgotten my paſt and preſent miſery, and had clean forgotten to complain. So this phraſe is uſed, Pſal. 137.5. If I reſolved to be very patient, and never to complain any more of Gods harſh dealing with me.

my complaint] Becauſe of my affliction, and miſery, Chap.7.11. The Hebrew word שיח ſignifies. 1. A buſh. Job 30.4. 2. Talk, 1 King.18.27. 3. Thought, or meditation. Amos 4.13. 4. Complaint. Job 10.1. So here.

I will leave off my heavineſſe] Heb. my face. I will not only ceaſe complaining; but alſo change my ſad countenance into a cheerful one, 1 Sam.1.18. For a ſad look ſhews the grief of the heart, Neh. 2.1,2. Mat.6.16. The face is the Index of the heart, and the whole man is ſeen in it, as in a glaſſe, Iſa.3.9. Eccl.8.1. Hence it is, that the face is put ſometimes for anger, which appears in a ſudden change of the countenance, Gen.31.2. Ezek.14.8. Lev.17.10. Pſal.34.16. Lam.4.16. See the margin there. And ſometimes for ſorrow and heavineſſe of heart, as here. For that cannot be kept in no more then anger, but will appear in the countenance. The word עזב ſignifies. 1. To leave, or forſake. Chap.10.1. 2. To fortifie. Neh.3.8. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

And comfort my ſelf] Heb. ſtrengthen; as Amos 5.9. Pſal.39.13. For ſorrow weakens the ſpirits. He would ſo comfort up, and ſtrengthen his ſpirits, that no complaint ſhould come from him.

V. 28. I am afraid of all my ſorrowes, I know that thou wilt not hold me innocent] When I think to be eaſed, my ſorrows will not ſo be thruſt out of my mind, but an army of moſt bitter torments make me afraid. And though ye tell me, that God will not cut off the righteous, yet I am perſwaded he will never heal me.

I am afraid] It ſignifies a ſtrong fear, that makes a man ſhake and tremble.

of all ſorrows] My pains, the cauſes of my ſorrows. It ſignifies ſore pains, ſuch as women bear in travel, Gen.3.16. a vexing ſorrow, Iſa.63.10. when I go about to comfort my ſelf, all ſuch heavie things as I have felt, come into my mind, vexe and grieve me, and make me afraid, that they will return on me; as Chap.3.25. Pſal. 119.36. and let me not have any reſt or comfort, but make me break my reſolution, and fall to freſh complaints, Pſal.39.1,3.

I know] By experience. I have been ſo kept under already, and dealt withall as a guilty perſon, that I know it will be ſo ſtill. And though I ſhould not murmure, or complain; yet thou art reſolved to continue my afflictions. Thus the word is uſed for experimentall knowledge, Gen.22.12. By Abrahams offering up Iſaac, God had an experiment of his fear of God. And the Greek word anſwerable is ſo uſed, Act.10.34. By the converſion of Cornelius and his, Peter ſaw by experience, that God would receive the Gentiles to favour. And ſo here Job gathered by the continuance of his troubles, that ſilence would not eaſe him, I look for no clearing from thee, and this addes to my ſorrows.

thou] Thou, O God; Though he reaſon with Bildad, yet his mind ran ſtill upon God, as the impoſer of all his troubles upon him. Or, Thou, O Bildad: Thou thinkeſt I am very impatient, and complain without a cauſe; but I know that thou wilt not be perſwaded to clear me by any thing that I can ſay for my ſelf. But it appears, that he ſpeaks to God by the like ſpeech, ver.31.

wilt not hold me innocent, or guiltleſſe] The word ſignifies to make clean, and by a metaphor, to account or pronounce clean. And, by conſequence, to free from all thoſe puniſhments, that light upon guilty perſons; as Exod.20.7. 1 King.2.9. Thou wilt not free me from trouble; as an innocent man ſhould be freed; but keep me under preſſures ſtill, like a guilty perſon. He ſaw no likelyhood of an end, and therefore concludes there would be none; and ſo was afraid to comfort himſelf.

V. 29. If I be wicked why then labour I in vain?] The coherence and ſcope of this verſe, is variouſly delivered by Interpreters. Some thus; If I were an hypocrite, or guilty of groſſe ſins (though ſecret) as ye conceive me to be, why ſhould I ſpend breath to no purpoſe to maintain my innocency, or deſire ſo earneſtly to be brought to trial? No Malefactour deſires the Aſſizes, that he may be convicted. And I were a vain man to ſtand thus in defence of my cauſe, if I knew my ſelf to be a wicked man. Others thus; ye are reſolved to eſteem me an ungodly man, and ye will not be perſwaded to think otherwiſe of me; and therefore I ſhall loſe my labour to go about to purge my ſelf to you, who will believe nothing that I ſay. Others thus; God is reſolved to condemn me, and to deal with me, as with a wicked perſon, to lay load on me ſtill; and therefore let me clear my ſelf as well as I can, or ceaſe complaining, yet God will paſſe ſentence againſt me. I am perſwaded by Gods carriage to me, not only that I ſhall not be delivered, that I may appear to be godly; but that I ſhall be dealt withall like a wicked man, and have more troubles laid upon me: why ſhould I then pleaſe my ſelf with a vain hope of deliverance?

If] The ſame particle is alſo added, verſ.13. though it be not in the Original there, nor here.

I be wicked] If I be an ungodly man and fear not God, as men may think, that ſee me ſo extraordinarily afflicted. Others leave out If, and read it, I ſhall be wicked. When I have ſaid what I can; or carried my ſelf more patiently, ye will not have a good opinion of me. Neither ſpeech or ſilence will obtain it. Others read it, I ſhall be culpable, or, held a wicked man; or, I ſhall be condemned: So the Chaldee paraphraſe reads it: To wit, by God, who will pronounce me ſo, and deal with me, as with ſuch an one, do what I can, verſ.30, 31. So the contrary word, That thou mighteſt be juſt, in the Original, is tranſlated, That thou mighteſt be juſtified, Pſal.51.

why then] Heb. why is this. Or, why at this time. Why ſhould I go againſt my conſcience, and labour to no purpoſe?

labour I] The word imports hard labour. Why take I ſo much pains to make Apologies for my ſelf, or in ſeeking arguments to defend my cauſe? Or why ſtrive I to have audience before God? I do not long to be condemned. Or why have I laboured in my proſperity to keep my ſelf from ſinfull courſes? as Pſal.73.13. Or why labour I to ſuppreſſe my grief and complaints? Or why do I vex my ſelfe thus at theſe troubles, if I have pulled them upon my ſelf by mine own wicked life? 1 Pet.2.20. Or, why am I not cut off? why bear I ſo much trouble in this life? The firſt interpretation is moſt natural.

in vain] To no purpoſe. Without any hope of ſucceſſe, for ſay I what I will, or ſuppreſſe my ſpirit as much as I can, I ſhall be condemned. The Chaldee Paraphraſe reads it, for nothing. See the ſame phraſe, Pſal.73.13,14. and a reaſon like this, Becauſe his troubles continued, notwithſtanding his care of avoyding evill ways.

V. 30. If I waſh my ſelf with ſnow water, and make my hands never ſo clean] He gives a reaſon why his labour to clear himſelf would be in vain, and ſets it out by a ſimilitude, Though I ſhould make my cauſe as clean, as he that is waſhed with ſnow water, yet thou wilt make me moſt foul and miſerable.

If] Or, Though; as Hoſ.4.15.

I waſh my ſelf] Seek to make or declare my ſoul clean, by pleading my cauſe. An alluſion to the heathen, and Jewiſh manner of waſhing their bodies after any externall defilement, before they came to do ſervice unto God.

with ſnow water] With the cleareſt water like to ſnow. Or it may be ſome might uſe ſnow water in their ceremoniall ablutions, as cleareſt water falling from heaven, and having no earth mixed with it.

and make my hands never ſo clean] The hands in Scripture uſed for actions, becauſe they are the principal inſtruments of acting, Pſal. 18.20. Iſa.1.15. Jam.4.8. Heb. Waſh my hands in innocency. Make them as clean as if they were waſhed in purity it ſelf. Though I could juſtifie all my actions. Others read it, waſh my hands with ſope; as Jer.2.22. Mal.3.2. For that ſcoures more then water. It is an alluſion to the cuſtom of former times, wherein men ſuſpected or accuſed of ſome hidden crime, did uſe to waſh their hands to declare their innocencie, Deut.21.6,7. Matth.27.24. Pſal.26.6. & 73.13. Others read it, VVaſh my hands in a Well. Though I ſhould make my innocencie as plain, as a mans hands may be made clean by waſhing in a whole Well of water.

V. 31. Yet thou ſhalt plunge me in the ditch, and mine own clothes ſhall abhor me] Not only my labour in clearing my ſelf will be loſt, but alſo I ſhall be more odious.

Yet] Heb. Then. When I think I have waſhed my ſelf very clean.

ſhalt thou] O God, ſee on ver.28.

plunge me] Put me into the filth over head and eares, and ſtain me all over, as Dyers colour their cloth, Ezek.23.15.

in the ditch] Make me all over filthy, like a man fallen into a dirty ditch. Thou wilt condemn me, ver.20. and account me as ſinfull, as a man is dirty, that falls into a foul kennel. Or, Thou wilt look away from me, as a man turns his face away from one that is all over filthy and loathſome. Or, Thou wilt make me all over filthy ſtil with noyſom ſcabs and ſtinking ſores, though I ſhould purge my ſelf. Or, in the pit; Thou wilt not leave afflicting me, till thou haſt killed me, and laid me low in the grave.

and mine own clothes ſhall abhor me] Some take it literally. My clothes ſhall leave me like an abominable thing. I ſhall go naked to the grave. Or, I ſhall be ſo noiſome then, that my winding ſheet, if it had life, would flye away from me, as from a loathſome carcaſſe. Or, I ſhall continue ſo ſore and full of ſcabs while I am alive, that my clothes would flye from me if they could, and refuſe to cover me, as ſcorning to touch ſuch a filthie body. This ſhews the greatneſſe of his miſeries, ſo extraordinary, that the ſenſeleſſe creatures are brought in, as taking notice of it. So the ſtones are brought in as takeing notice of the Jews ingratitude, and the earth of Cains cruelty, Luke 19,40. Gen.4.10. As if Job ſhould have ſaid, I ſhall be ſo loathſom, that thoſe creatures that have no ſenſe, ſeem to ſent and abhor my naſtie condition. So the Prophets, to ſhew the height of joy or grief, call ſenſeleſſe creatures to take notice, Iſa.1,2,3. 1 King.13.2. Jer. 2.12. Others take it figuratively; My friends and they that are neer to me, as my clothes are to my body, ſuch as theſe three are, that pretend to comfort me, ſhall take part with thee; and ſay, That I ſuffer all this miſery juſtly, and ſhall abhor me as a grievous ſinner. All this elegantly ſhews the little hope that Job had to be acquitted by God, or eaſed of his pains. Thus good men in paſſion ſometimes wrong God himſelf.

V. 32. For he is not a man, as I am, that I ſhould anſwer him, and we ſhould come together in judgement.] If I were to plead with a man like my ſelf, I could make my cauſe good, but being to plead with God, I cannot come off clear, becauſe he is too ſtrong for me, and will over-power me in judgement. I could plead with my equall, and free my ſelf, but Gods Majeſty will ſo oppreſſe me, that it will ſtrike me dumb, ver. 4. Eccl. 6. 10. Jer. 49. 19.

For] He ſhewes the reaſon why he could not be righted before God; not for want of equity, but becauſe of Gods greatneſſe above him, and his great weakneſſe in compariſon of God.

He] Now he turns his ſpeech from God, to his friends, ſeeking to give them ſatiſfaction, why he could not clear himſelf before God, although his cauſe were juſt. For change of the perſon, ſee Chap. 8. 18.

a man as I am] A mortal weak man, fit for me to contend withall; but an immortal powerfull God, able to overwhelm me, Numb. 23. 16. For Man ſee on Chap. 1. 1.

that I ſhould] Or, then I could. I want not matter, but power to plead. And ſo it ſhould appear, if we ſtood upon equall terms.

anſwer him] In judgement, or in a judicial way, as verſ. 3. For he ſpeaks not here of anſwering hard queſtions, which ſhews wiſdome, but of anſwering things objected againſt him, which ſhews innocencie. For Anſwer ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

and we ſhould] Or, and we would. I would then be willing to maintain my cauſe.

come together] He and I come face to face, as the plaintiffe and defendant uſe to do. For Come ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

in judgement] To plead one againſt another, ver. 19. Chap. 8. 3. The Rabbines obſerve, that the Hebrew word משפט, is put ſometimes for pleading the cauſe, which is the beginning of judgement, and ſometimes for the ſentence pronounced, which is the middle of it, and ſometimes for an authentical writing, expreſſing the puniſhment to be inflicted, and the filthineſſe of the fact, to give power to the executioner to execute the ſentence, and ſatiſfaction to others, which was the end of the judgement in thoſe times. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe; for Job durſt not ſo much as hope for liberty to plead his cauſe with God, much leſſe that God would clear him, and declare as much to his friends. For Judgement, ſee on Chap. 22. 4.

V. 33. Neither is there any dayes-man betwixt us, that might lay his hand upon us both] Though there be very great difference between God and me, yet if there were an equall Judge before whom we might plead, that had power over us both for the time, as a Judge may judge between the King and a ſubject, I might make my cauſe good; But God will judge himſelf, and let none elſe judge between us. Therefore I cannot ſcape, though I might have a time to plead for my ſelf granted to me.

neither] He complains, firſt, that God and he were not equall. Secondly, that there was none that had ſufficient power to judge between them.

is there any dayes-man] Or, umpire. Heb. one that ſhould argue, or reprove. So the word is uſed, Pſal. 105. 14. And ſo God did to Laban, Gen. 31. 24, 29, 42. One that might blame us, if we wronged one another in pleading, and might hear us argue the caſe with patience, and afterwards reprove or paſſe ſentence againſt him that did the wrong. For Dayes-man, ſee on Chap. 15. 3. on Reaſon.

betwixt us] That might hear us both indifferently, without inclining to either ſide.

that might lay his hand] By his power keep us both in order. For both ſides uſe to grow exorbitant in pleading. So that laying on the hand here, is not to ſtrike, as Gen. 22. 12. & 37. 22, Or to bring into judgement, or impriſon, as Neh. 13. 21. Luke 20. 19. Nor for bleſſing, as Mark 10. 16. Act. 8. 17. & 19. 6. Nor to work a miracle, as Matth. 9. 18. not for ordination to an office, as Numb. 8. 10. 1 Tim. 4. 14 But have power to hear the cauſe, and decide the buſineſſe. See hand, for power, Chap. 1. 12. Pſal. 89. 25. For Hand ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

upon us both] Upon God, as well as upon me, that I may neither do, nor ſuffer wrong.

V. 34. Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his fear terrifie me. Seeing God is ſo far above me, and none is above him, that may judge between us, I wiſh that God would give me ſome reſpite from my pain, and lay aſide his Majeſty for a while, that I might plead my cauſe without fear, and then I ſhould be freed, Chap. 6. 4. & 13. 20, 21, 22. Here Job ſhews plainly that he thought, in this paſſion, that he could clear himſelf, if he might be ſuffered to ſpeak freely for himſelf, and could prove, that God dealt too hardly with him. Elſe why do both Elihu and God blame him for juſtifying himſelf too much, and injuring God in his ſpeeches, which he doth no where more plainly, then in this Chapter. Yea theſe very words are laid in Jobs diſh by Elihu, Chap. 33. 6, 7. and that he here requires, is granted by God, Chap. 38. 3. & 40. 7. that Job might ſee, that he had done God wrong, and charged him unjuſtly.

take away] Heb. Remove. It is now upon me, and hinders me from pleading my cauſe ſo freely, as I could do, if it were removed, and taken off from me.

his rod] The word שבט ſignifies, 1. a ſtaffe cut off from a tree; or rodde, wherewith men ſtrike others; as Exod. 21. 20. 2. it is put for a Scepter, for Scepters were wont to be made of wood, and are like ſtaves or rods, Gen. 49. 10. Pſal. 45. 6. 3. for a tribe, which come out of one father, as many rods out of one tree, Judg. 18. 19. 4. for a dart, made of a rod with iron on the end, 2 Sam. 18. 14. 5. for a pen, which is ſomewhat like a rod, and it may be in old time might be made of ſome kind of wood as well as of iron, Judg. 5. 14. 6. for a ſtroke given by a rod, or the wound made by it, and metaphorically for any diſeaſes or ſores inflicted by God, Pſal. 89. 32. Prov. 29. 15. Mic. 6. 9. 2 Sam. 7. 14. Chap. 21. 9. & 37. 13. So it is taken here. Take away from me thoſe ſores thou haſt inflicted on me.

from me] Heb. from upon me. That is, from abiding upon me any longer.

his fear] The fear I have of him, and the dread of his great power and majeſty. His formidableneſſe, that makes me afraid, Exod. 15. 16. The word ſignifies a very great fear or affrighting. Thence came the word Emims, Deut. 2. 10, 11. Gyants, ſo called, becauſe of their extraordinary bulk of body, which affrighted men, who thought their ſtrength to be proportionable. So God had terrified Job with fearful apparitions, Chap. 7. 14. Beams of Majeſty in God make men afraid. Judg. 13. 6, 22. Gen. 15. 12. Dan. 10. 8. Let not God appear ſo formidable to me to make me afraid.

terrifie me] The word ſignifies a great terrour, ſuch an one as puts a man almoſt beſide himſelf, 1 Sam. 16. 14. Job deſires that he may not be thus terrified, becauſe he knew that men kept in awe could not plead their own cauſe well. Fear hinders them. Many have loſt the day being terrified by the Judges, though their cauſe were juſt. This is that Job fears in this place; and this being removed, he profeſſeth, in the next verſe, he both could and would ſpeak for himſelf.

V. 35. Then would I ſpeak, and not fear him: but it is not ſo with me.] Now he ſhews what he would do, if he were freed from the former fears, and pains. He would maintain his own cauſe againſt Gods proceedings.

then would I ſpeak] In my own defence to maintaine my innocency.

and not fear him] I would do that which now I dare not do, being overcomed with Gods majeſty and power. I would not be afraid to plead my cauſe before God. I would do it confidently.

but it is not ſo with me] So כי is tranſlated but, verſ. 18. And the ſenſe is, It is far otherwiſe with me, for I am daunted; and kept under with ſores and fears. I have not that liberty of ſpeech. I am yet terrified. Or, But I am not ſo with my ſelf. As it is word for word in the Original. That is, Fear hath put me clean out of my ſelf, as verſ. 21. 34. And I am not yet come to my ſelf, Luke 15. 17. So that I know not what I ſay, and therefore am no way fit to plead my own cauſe. Or, For it is not ſo with me: As Gods ſcourge ſeems to make me, and your ſpeeches would make others think of me. So כי is tranſlated for, Chap. 33. 13. Or, For I am not ſo with my ſelf. My conſcience tells me I am not the man you take me to be. It is not inward guilt, but outward pains and affrightments, that keeps me from ſpeaking in mine own defence. If they were gone, my innocency would miniſter boldneſſe to me, and ye ſhould ſee what I could ſay for my ſelf. Some read it, Becauſe it is not ſo with me. And knit it to the words following, as if Job had ſaid, Seeing ye will not pity me, nor God relieve me, I will no more complain to him nor you, but ſmother my grief in my own ſoul. But this interpretation croſſes the diviſion of the Chapters, ſpoils the ſenſe, and makes Job a liar, who complains again very bitterly in the next Chapter.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. MY ſoul is weary of my life, I will leave my complaint upon my ſelf; I will ſpeak in the bitterneſſe of my ſoul] The coherence depends upon the end of the former Chapter. As if Job had ſaid, I cannot get leave to plead my cauſe with God; and if I could, his majeſty would ſo daunt me, that I could not ſpeak to him: I have nothing left now in theſe miſeries, but to eaſe my heart, by giving free vent to my complaints, ſeeing God doth not ceaſe to puniſh me nor my friends to condemn me.

My ſoul is weary of my life] Life is pleaſant in it ſelf, but when it grows full of troubles, it is wearisome. I loathe it, deſpiſe it, would be rid of it, (as the word imports, Ezek. 36. 31.) that ſo I might be rid of trouble, which lies very heavie upon me. ב is tranſlated of, Deut. 3. 26. Or, My ſoul is cut off while I live. So the word is uſed, Chap. 8. 14. And בחיי tranſlated, while I live, Pſal. 146. 2. And then the ſenſe is, My ſoul ſeems to be cut off, and divided from this filthy and ſtinking carcaſſe, as if I were already dead, Pſal. 88. 4, 5. Or, I cannot live long: My pains and ſores will kill me, I am as good as dead already. For Soule ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

I will leave my complaint upon my ſelf] I will bear the burden of my complaint. I will ſuffer for it, if I complain without a cauſe, Chap. 13. 13. Eſth. 4. 16. Or, I will let looſe my complaint concerning my ſelf. So ſome underſtand that place, Exod. 23. 5. that a man ſhould not forbeare to looſe his neighbours aſſe lying under a burden. And על concerning, is uſed, Num. 8. 22. The ſenſe then is, I will give way to it, and not hinder my ſoul from complaining. Sick men, and men in miſery think it an eaſe, if they may enumerate their ſorrows, and vent them to others, Chap. 7. 11. Or, I will fortifie my complaint. I will complain more firmly, and ſtoutly then I did before.

So the word is uſed for fortifying. Neh. 3. 8. Or, I will leave my ſighing for my ſelf. I will no longer fret inwardly, and forbear to ſpeak out, but I will ſpeak of all my trouble, which lies ſo heavie upon me. So the word is uſed for thought, Amos 4. 15. And על ſignifies for, 1 Chro. 16. 21. And this agrees well with what follows. I will not muſe upon my miſery, to make it burn inwardly, but give it a vent to eaſe my ſpirit. I will ſpeak, &c. For Leave, and complaint, ſee on Chap. 9. 27.

I will ſpeak in the bitterneſſe of my ſoul] In ſo great grief of mind, I will not be ſilent, but will, in words, utter all that is in my breaſt, Pſal. 32. 3, 4, 5. It notes the cauſe of his ſore complaint, 1 Sam. 1. 10. And the ſame particle is ſo uſed, to ſet out the cauſe of a thing, 2 Sam. 13. 27. Eſth. 1. 10. The words that I ſhall ſpeak, are not ſo much mine, as the words of my bitter calamity. They are extorted from me by my ſorrows. See the like phraſe Chap. 3. 20. & 7. 11. Exod. 1. 14. Or, I will ſpeak of the bitterneſſe of my ſoul. Ye know not what bitter things I endure inwardly: elſe would ye pity me. Therefore I will declare them to you. So this particle is uſed in the beginning of this verſe, of my life, Or, according to the bitterneſſe of my ſoul. So ב is uſed, Lev. 25. 15. My words ſhall be as bitter and ſharp, as my inward ſorrows, and griefs are. The ſumme of all is, to lay down the extremity of his outward troubles, and inward perplexities, that he may make way for his following complaints of Gods harſh dealing with him.

V. 2. I will ſay unto God, Do not condemn me; ſhew me wherefore thou contendeſt with me] Job in theſe words, looks upon himſelf, as a man condemned without triall, becauſe he was caſt into ſuch miſeries, and ſubject to ſuch cenſures of others, as men juſtly condemned uſe to be. And knowing no cauſe, why he ſhould thus be dealt withall like an hypocrite, he deſires God not to uſe his abſolute power in condemning him, but to let him know the true cauſe of his miſeries.

I will ſay] I am reſolved to ſpeak thus openly. I can hold it no longer, my miſeries are ſo great. For Say ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

unto God] My friends condemn me; but I will try what God will ſay to me, who hath power to judge me.

Do not condemn me] Heb. Do not make me wicked. For the Judge paſſing ſentence on a malefactour, makes him liable to the ſentence of the law, as a wicked man. Do not afflict me as an evill doer. Thy dealing with me is as if I were ſuch an one. Deal more kindly with me. See Chap. 9. 20. Deut. 25. 1. 1 King. 8. 32. Pſal. 94. 21. Prov. 17. 15. Rom. 8. 34.

Shew me] Heb. Make known to me. Make it plain to my underſtanding: thy proceeding with me ſeems to be very ſtrange: I deſire to know the true ground of it. Before thou condemneſt me, ſhew the cauſe, that thy judgement may appear to be juſt, Pſal. 51. 4.

wherefore] Heb. For what. Shew me what great ſin I have comitted, that I ſhould be thus heavily afflicted more then other men. Have I not feared thee, and walked with a good conſcience before thee? yet thou haſt let all theſe evills come upon me.

contendeſt with me] I have given thee no cauſe of ſo hot a contention, much leſſe of ſo heavie a condemnation. The word ſignifies contending with a man, as an enemy in a ſuit, or cauſe. See Chap. 9. 3. Hoſ. 4. 1. Iſa. 57. 16.

V. 3. Is it good unto thee that thou ſhouldeſt oppreſſe? that thou ſhouldeſt deſpiſe the work of thine hands? and ſhine upon the counſell of the wicked?] Doſt thou delight to lay load on me, as theſe my friends do, and to juſtifie their proceedings againſt me, and encourage them to wrong me? It ſeems by theſe afflictions continuing ſtill on me, that thou doſt countenance my friends that condemn me for an hypocrite, and thoſe that robbed me of my goods. Thus Job ſtretches all the veins of his wit in an eloquent way, to expreſſe the greatneſſe of his grief, and to draw God to a removall of his ſorrows.

Is it good] Good is taken ſometimes for pleaſing; as 2 Sam. 19. 27. & 18. 27. ſometimes for profitable; as Deut 6. 11. & 30. 5. ſometimes for right and juſt, 2 Sam. 15. 3. Prov. 2. 9. For Good ſee on Chap. 21. 13. on Wealth.

unto thee] Is it pleaſing to thee; or doſt thou get any profit by it? or rather, ſeems it a juſt and equall thing unto thee? How doth this proceeding againſt me, agree with equity?

that thou ſhouldeſt oppreſſe] The word ſignifies to take away mens goods without juſt cauſe, either by fraud, as 1 Sam. 12. 3. Hoſ. 12. 7. or by violence, as Prov. 28. 3. Pſal. 119. 122. It may be Job had reſpect to the taking away of his goods, Chap. 1. He ſpeaks here, as if he thought that God did him wrong, in laying ſo great loſſes and pains upon him; as appears more plainly; ver. 6, 7.

that thou ſhouldeſt deſpiſe] Make light account of; as Pſal. 15. 4. That thou wilt not ſo much as look upon me in mine afflictions, or hear my prayers. Or, reject; as 2 King. 17. 20. that thou haſt clean caſt me off, and letteſt mine aderſaries triumph over me, and giveſt me no aſſiſtance againſt them, nor deliverance out of my troubles. See Chap. 5. 19.

the work of thine hands] Heb. the labour of thy palms. Not that God takes pains, and is weary of his work, as men are; but to ſhew, that we are as ſurely made by God, as houſes are by builders, that ſweat and toyle in the work. Though God do not labour, yet his work is made as well as if he did, and better then that on which men beſtow moſt labour and pains. By labour is meant the fruit of Gods work, the thing made by him, as Pſal. 128. 2. Why ſhouldeſt thou deſpiſe me, whom thou haſt made? as ver. 2. God hath no hands, but is ſpoken of here after the manner of men, who work with their hands; as Pſal. 119. 73. Iſa. 64. 8. See Chap. 6. 9. Builders uſe not to ruine what they have built. But thou goeſt about to ruine me whom thou haſt made. This making is ſet out largely, ver. 8. &c. The Hebrew word יגיע ſignifies. 1. Labour. Gen. 31. 42. 2. Goods gotten by labour, or the thing wrought. Pſal. 128. 2. So here.

and ſhine upon] Seem to favour them in their wicked counſels, and to approve of their plots againſt me, as if thou didſt look cheerfully on them, to encourage them, Numb. 6. 25, 26. Pſal. 67. 1. & 80. 7. Or, make their plots againſt me to proſper, and confirm the bad opinion my friends have of me, by continuing theſe great afflictions on me. So the Sun by ſhining on the earth, brings the fruits thereof to maturity; Pſal. 80. 19. & 90. 16, 17. Job 39. 3, 4.

the counſel] The advice my friends take one from another; and their joynt concluſions againſt me, Pſal. 1. 1.

of the wicked] Ungodly men, ſuch as fear not God, as my friends ſhew they do not, by condemning me for an hypocrite, becauſe of my ſore afflictions; which would rather make thoſe that fear God pity and comfort me.

V. 4. Haſt thou eyes of fleſh? or ſeeſt thou as man ſeeth?] Thou needeſt not afflict me thus, to find out my wickedneſſe; for thou knoweſt my heart, and ſecret wayes, which men do not, and thou knoweſt that I am not a wicked man, ver. 6, 7.

haſt thou] Certainly thou haſt not.

eyes] Eyes and ears, and mouth, are attributed to God in Scripture after the manner of men; not that he hath any bodily members, being more ſpirituall then the Angels; but becauſe he knowes all things, and can fully reveal his Will to us without theſe members, better then men can with them; Pſal. 34. 15, 16. Joſh. 9, 14. Eyes here may be put for the judging facultie of the ſoul. The Eye being the moſt excellent of the Senſes, is put ſometimes for the other Senſes; as for feeling, Job 3. 10. for Seeing, Gen. 42. 1. and ſo alſo for the underſtanding and ſight of the mind, which is therefore ſaid to be opened, as the eyes are to ſee, Acts 16. 14. For Eye ſee on Chap. 2. 12.

of fleſh] Fleſhly Eyes. Such as men have. Bodily Eyes made of fleſh. God needs not the help of ſuch eyes. He ſees not as man doth, 1 Sam. 16. 7 He knows the heart, and needs no further triall. Fleſh is put for Man in Scripture, Iſa. 40. 6. Joh. 1. 14. For Fleſh ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

or ſeeſt thou as man ſeeth] Why ſhouldeſt thou continue to afflict me thus, as Judges do, that know not the right, and therefore are forced, by racks and torments to bring Malefactors to confeſſion? and ſometimes, out of malice, condemn and torture men, looking more on the perſon, then on the cauſe; but thou knoweſt all things, and art moſt juſt. How can I then, being godly, be thus afflicted by thee; as if thou wert a man that either knew not my righteous juſt cauſe, or would never be reconciled to me? For See look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

V. 5. Are thy dayes as the dayes of man? are thy years as mans dayes?] Haſt thou need of much time of enquiry before thou canſt judge, as earthly Judges have? Art not thou eternall, and knoweſt things paſt, preſent, and to come in a moment? Thou needeſt not then ſpend time to enquire into me, as men do; but knowing my integrity, mayeſt clear me preſently, and ſet me at liberty.

are thy dayes as the dayes of man?] Thou art not of ſhort continuance, as man is, Chap. 7. 1, 6. nor ignorant of things, as he is, till in proceſſe of time, he have learned the truth of them. Man is a miſerable creature, ſo the word imports; as Chap. 5. 17. & 7. 17. For Dayes ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

are thy years as mans dayes?] Gods time is ſet out by years, mans by dayes: for man continues but a while; but God lives for ever. Leſt therefore any man ſhould think their continuance alike (though one might be greater then another) becauſe in the beginning of the verſe, he had attributed days to both: in the end of it, he attributes years to God, and days to man. The word for man in the beginning of the verſe was אנוש. Frail, or ſorrowfull man. Here he changes the word into גבר. Strong powerfull man. If any man ſhould object, A ſickly mans dayes are nothing to Gods, he lives uncomfortably, and may quickly die; but a ſtrong mans days may be ſomething. No, neither, ſaith Job, are the ſtrongeſt mans days any thing to Gods years. Others interpret the whole paſſage thus; Art thou of ſo ſhort a continuance, and ſo full of malice and revenge, that thou ſhouldeſt ſeek to find out occaſions to execute thy ſpleen againſt me quickly, as men do, leſt they ſhould die before they be revenged. Sure it is not ſo with thee. So Davids ſervants perſwade him to take his time for revenge upon Saul; and not to let it ſlip, 1 Sam. 24. 4. and Abiſhai doth the like, 1 Sam. 26. 8, and the Devill rageth againſt the Church, becauſe of abundance of malice, and ſhortneſſe of time, Rev. 12. 12. But this interpretation cannot fit well with the two verſes following, which carry theſe words rather to enquiry of wickedneſſe in Job, then to ſtudy of revenge.

V. 6. That thou enquireſt after mine iniquity, and ſearcheſt after my ſinne?] Is there any need, that thou who knoweſt all things, and art not ignorant of my integrity, ſhouldeſt torment me thus continually, to make me confeſſe my ſelf a wicked perſon?

that thou inquireſt] It ſhould ſeem by thy rough dealing with me, that thou haſt ſome ſuch purpoſe; for thou layeſt one affliction upon me after another to make me confeſſe my ſelf guilty, as a man ſeeks earneſtly after another mans life. So the Hebrew word ſignifies, Exod. 4. 19. 1 Sam. 22. 23. Jer. 50. 20.

after mine iniquity] Or, for mine iniquity; as Pſal. 84. & 85. in the titles. The word properly ſignifies crooked or perverſe dealing, Chap. 7. 21.

and ſearcheſt] As if thou wouldſt make me to confeſſe by torments, and broughteſt in theſe pains and ſores as witneſſes againſt me, and curiouſly and ſtrictly proceededſt againſt me, omitting no kind of affliction that might make me accuſe my ſelf, as Judges invent new torments to find out ſecret treaſons.

after my ſin] Or, for my ſin, as before in this verſe. The word ſignifies a lighter errour, or miſſing of the mark, Chap. 7. 20. Thou doſt ſeek all advantages againſt me, as if thou wouldeſt be glad to find any little hole in my coat. So ſharp is thy proceeding againſt me.

V. 7. Thou knoweſt, that I am not wicked, and there is none that can deliver out of thine hand] There is no need of torments to find out this buſineſs, for thou thy ſelf canſt clear me. Seeing therefore thou knoweſt I am not wicked, why am I tortured, as if I were moſt wicked; eſpecially ſeeing there is none can take off this load, thou haſt laid upon me?

thou knoweſt] Heb. it is upon thy knowledge. Thou knoweſt it of thy ſelf, not by intelligence from others. See the like phraſe, Hoſ. 10. 10 that I am not wicked] He doth not ſay, that I have not ſinned, but that I am not an ungodly man. See verſ. 3. Chap. 9. 29.

and there is none] Or, yet there is none; as Pſal. 119. 109, 110. It is a comfort, when a man is unjuſtly condemned by earthly Judges, that there is a ſuperiour Judge in heaven, to whom we may appeal, and he will right us. But Job ſets out how hard he conceived his caſe to be, that was as it were condemned or puniſhed like a wicked man by God, and ſo could look for no deliverance from any other. As if he had ſaid, Why doſt thou lay ſuch load on me? Wouldſt thou have me to ſink under it? Thou knoweſt no man can deliver me, Chap. 9. 12.

that can deliver] It ſignifies pulling a man out of troubles, or from enemies; as Eſai 20. 6. Prov. 6. 5. like ſnatching out of the fire, Jude ver. 23. or out of the Lions mouth, 1 Tim. 4. 7. 1 Sam. 17. 35. None can deliver me, though thou ſhouldeſt deal never ſo harſhly with me.

out of thine hand] Out of thy power; as Chap. 1. 12. 2 King. 18. 30. 33 Dan. 3. 15. Or, out of theſe pains, which thy hand hath inflicted upon me, Pſal. 39. 10. 1 Sam. 6. 9. Exod. 9. 3. For Hand ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

V. 8. Thine hands have made me, and faſhioned me together round about, yet thou doſt deſtroy me.] Some give the coherence thus; Thou needeſt not afflict me to find out my ſins, and make me confeſſe my wickedneſſe, for thou didſt make my ſoul, with all the faculties of it, and my body with all the members, and knoweſt what is in every one of them, Pſal. 94. 9. Others thus, and more rightly, Why wilt thou go on to afflict me, till I be deſtroyed, ſeeing thou haſt taken ſo much pains in making of me? Men uſe to preſerve their works, and not to ruine them. And ſo he proſecutes his argument, mentioned verſ. 3.

thine hands] Not that God hath any hands or members, but they are attributed to him after the manner of men, to ſhew that God did as ſurely make us, as men do thoſe things which they work with their own hands.

have made me] Some read it, thy hands have put me to pain. But that agrees not well with what followes immediately, And faſhioned me. It ſignifies to make a thing with much pains and labour. Not that God doth weary himſelf in making man, but to ſhew the excellency of the work; for ſuch things as men take pains about, uſe to be accurately done. Hence comes עצב, an idol, becauſe they uſe to be curiouſly made to draw men to worſhip them. So is man made, Pſal. 139 14, 15. as exactly, or more then thoſe things wherein men take moſt pains, and ſhew moſt skill.

and faſhioned me] Trimmed me up. Set all my parts in order, and compleated me, Gen. 1. 31. Pſal. 119. 73. Eſay 43. 7. For Faſhioned ſee on Chap. 14. 9. on Bring forth.

together round about] At one time, and wholly. No part of me made by any other. An alluſion to a potter, who makes his work by turning it round, till it be all finiſhed, Jer. 18. 3. Or, to a ſtatuary, who looks round about his work, to ſee if all be exact and compleat, Joh. 7. 23. Luke 11. 40. Broughton reads it, in every point: Some joyn it to the words following, yet thou wilt deſtroy me together round about; That is, thou wilt make a ſpeedy end of me by theſe troubles. For Together ſee on Chap. 34. 29. on Only.

yet] Heb. and. See on ver. 7.

thou doſt deſtroy me] The word ſignifies to ſwallow, as greater fiſhes do leſſer, and ſo they are conſumed ſuddenly, and altogether, Chap. 2. 3. & 8. 18. & 9. 22. Pſal. 52. 5. 1 Cor. 15. 54. 2 Cor. 5 4. 2 Sam. 20. 19. Others read it, And wilt thou deſtroy me? The interrogation carries an admiration with it, as Amos 3. 4, 5, 6. Wilt thou deſtroy me, as thou haſt done my eſtate, though I be thy creature? The former tranſlation carries a complaint with it, as if Job thought it an unfit thing for God to deal ſo harſhly with him, as if he would undoe what he had done, Gen. 6. 7. And ſome obeſerve a double emphaſis in it; one in the word yet; the other in the word me. Though thou haſt made me, yet thou wilt not ſpare me, Even me, who have been carefull to pleaſe thee in the courſe of my life. How wouldeſt thou have dealt with me then, if I had been made by another, or had been an ungodly man? God uſeth the ſame argument to convince Jonah, Jon. 4. 10. and the Church to perſwade God to mercy, Eſay 64. 8, 9. God made man in a better condition then the beaſts, and as the principal creature on earth to whom he would do good, and planted his own Image in him, and therefore it ſeemed ſtrange to Job, that God ſhould delight in the deſtruction of ſuch a creature, as he ſeemed to do in his dealing with him.

V. 9. Remember, I beſeech thee, that thou haſt made me as the clay, and wilt thou bring me into duſt again? The argument in the former verſe was taken from the Maker; in this verſe, from the matter. Doſt thou make me ſo brittle to deſtroy me with pains? Brittle things ſhould be gently dealt withall.

Remember] Remembrance attributed to God, who cannot forget, implies a ſerious thinking of what he ſeemed to ſlight before, and a ſpeedy ſupply of the wants of his people, or delivering them out of trouble, Pſal. 20. 3. & 132. 1. & 136. 23. & 9. 18. 1 Sam. 1. 19. Chap. 4. 7. & 7. 7.

I beſeech thee] Chap. 4. 7. Or, now, as Chap. 5. 1. for Job in his paſſion doth not uſe intreaties, but complaints, as if he would ſay, At preſent thou haſt forgotten my frail condition; elſe thou wouldeſt not deal ſo roughly with me.

that thou haſt made me as the clay] Some underſtand it of our creation, and conceive mans body was made of duſt mingled with water, which is clay, and that here is an alluſion to Gen. 2. 7. & 3. 19. But the words following ſeem rather to carry it to the forming of man in the womb, which he goes on to deſcribe curiouſly. And it may be read, Thou haſt wrought me like clay. As the potter tempers the clay, and works it into an earthen veſſel, ſo doth God frame and form our bodies in the womb, though not out of earth, as at firſt. This ſhewes our brittle condition; we are like earthen pots quickly and eaſily broken, Pſal. 2. 9. Rev. 2. 27. and ſo Job thinks it were fitter that he ſhould be ſpared, becauſe he cannot bear much more, Pſal. 103. 14. Eſay 45. 9. & 64. 8. Jer. 18. 4. Rom. 9. 21. For Clay ſee on Chap. 4. 19.

and wilt thou bring me into duſt again?] Wilt thou by grievous torments bring me ſuddenly to the grave? Wilt thou not leave afflicting me till I die? Pſal. 50. 9. & 90. 3. Or, it may be read, And that thou wilt bring me into duſt again. It will not be long ere I ſhall die, and therefore it were fit that I ſhould find ſome reſt awhile before, Pſal. 39. 12, 13. For Bring again ſee on Chap. 15. 13. on Turneſt. For Duſt ſee on Chap. 14. 8. on Ground.

V. 10. Haſt thou not poured me out as milke, and crudled me like cheeſe?] He goes on to deſcribe Gods great care in making him in the womb, that he may the more wonder at Gods harſh dealing with him now. He ſets out his firſt conception by a modeſt ſimilitude taken from the making of cheeſes.

Haſt thou not?] Certainly thou haſt. An interrogation negative makes a ſtrong aſſeveration affirmative; as Numb. 22. 30.

poured me out] As men pour out metals melted, Ezek. 22. 21, 22. So bells are made, and coyn. So by Gods wonderfull work the ſeed whereof we are made in the womb is parted, and as it were poured out of the ſubſtance of our parents, as out of a veſſell.

as milk] As the good huſwife poures out the milk to ſtrain it to make the cheeſe. The ſeed whereof we are made, may well be compared to milk, being not much unlike it in colour, as naturaliſts report. The word חלב ſignifies, 1. Milke. Deut. 14. 21. 2. Fat. Levit. 7. 3. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

crudled me] Thickned the ſoft matter and liquid ſubſtance whereof I was made. The word ſignifies gathering together. Exod. 15. 8. Zeph. 1. 12. For moiſt things muſt be gathered cloſer together into a narrower room, before they can be made dry and firm; as appears in making bells, coyn, cheeſe.

like cheeſe] As the woman preſſeth the milk with her hands, and with weights, to make it cleave together, and harden, till it become curds, and afterwards cheeſe; ſo God by the natural heat of the mother, makes the ſeed in the womb more dry, hard, and firm, till it become a fleſhly maſſe, and after frames it into a body. An elegant ſimilitude to ſet out mans conception in the womb, and ſuch an one as the Philoſophers can ſcarce equall. Some underſtand it of mans creation at the firſt, but that anſwers not to the ſtory in Geneſis, where no liquid matter is mentioned, only he is ſaid to be made of the duſt of the earth, Gen. 2. 7. and ſo repeated, Gen. 3. 19. But it moſt evidently agrees with our framing in the womb.

V. 12. Thou haſt clothed me with skin and fleſh, and haſt fenced me with bones and ſinewes.] Here Job proceeds to ſhew what a wonderfull and firm work God makes of that little and liquid matter, whereof we are made. He mentions not all the parts of man, but leaves the excellency of the inward parts to be underſtood by the curious working of the outward ones, which are but as a garment and fence unto them. And he follows not the order of nature, but ſets out firſt the skin and fleſh, which are more apparent to us; and then the bones and ſinews, which are more hidden from us. A ſtrange work, that out of ſuch liquid matter ſhould be made not only a thin skin, and firm fleſh, but alſo hard bones, and knitting nerves.

thou haſt cloathed me] Skin and fleſh are our natural cloathing to cover the inward and more noble parts, which do as it were keep ſtate within, as not fit for the eye to look upon, and ſo are kept from cold as the body by the garments. And not without great need; for the brain, heart, liver, and other inward parts, being more tender then the outward, if they ſhould lie open to all weathers, would ſoon ruine the whole fabrick, and bring the body to the grave. The excellency of theſe inward parts appears, in that he accounts them to be the man, and the ſkin and fleſh but the garment, for ſo he ſaith, Thou haſt clothed me, Matth. 6. 30.

with ſkin and fleſh] Skin is the external clothing of the inward parts; fleſh, the internal, as the body is clothed with upper and under garments to keep out cold. For Fleſh, ſee on Chap. 14. 22.

and haſt fenced me] Secured my inward parts, as a field with a fence. Heb. hedged me, Chap. 1. 10. The outward hedge of ſkin and fleſh, though it might keep out cold, yet it was not ſtrong enough to keep out all other dangers, therefore God adds an inward fence of bones and ſinews, as in fenced Cities, Walls, and Rampires are made one within another, that if one be pierced, the other may keep out the enemy. So hath God taken care for preſervation of mans life, by guarding his internal parts with a double fence. Some read it, Thou haſt covered me. For theſe alſo help to cover the inward parts, as well as fleſh and skin. Others, Thou haſt ſowed me together; Which is alſo true. But the firſt reading is beſt.

with bones and ſinews] With bones for ſtrength, and ſinews for motion: and under theſe, as the more noble, are the griſles, muſcels, and nerves, contained. Bones make the body go upright. Sinews convey ſenſe and motion to it. The whole verſe may be read interrogatively as the former, Haſt thou not clothed me, &c? And ſo may the next, Haſt thou not granted me life, &c? And the reading will go on in one phraſe, and the words be more emphatical. And it is uſual in Scripture to underſtand the ſign of the queſtion in the following ſentences, having put it before the firſt, Job 3. 11, 20. with 23. Deut. 32. 6, 34, 37, 38. For Bone, ſee on Chap. 2. 5.

V. 12. Thou haſt granted me life and favour, and thy viſitation hath preſerved my ſpirit] He proceeds from mans formation to his quickning and preſervation in life, and to the infuſion of the ſoul, the beginning of life, ſenſe and reaſon, and the wonderful work of God, in keeping man from being ſtifled in the womb, and from many dangers after his birth.

Thou haſt granted me] Heb. Thou haſt wrought with me. Made as it were a covenant with me of life and favour. For Wrought, ſee on Chap. 14. 9. on Bring forth.

life] Thou haſt given me a ſoul, whence comes life. A figure of the effect for the cauſe; as on the contrary, ſometimes, the ſoul is put for the life: as it is interpreted, Pſal. 7. 5. Thou haſt quickned me in the womb, and brought me alive out of it.

and favour] Some underſtand it of a reaſonable ſoul, which is a ſpecial favour beſtowed upon man above the beaſts, though they alſo have life. Others underſtand it of Gods mercy, in preſerving the infant alive in the womb, after that he hath quickned it; for it might eaſily be ſtrangled in the narrow priſon of the womb. This was a great favour; for if he had died in the womb, he had been little the better for his life, Chap. 3. 16. Eccl. 6. 3. Pſal. 22. 9. Others take it for a continuall courſe of bleſſings and comforts beſtowed upon him in his life for the good of ſoul and body. Or comfortable proviſions to keep him alive. As it is taken, Gen. 21. 23. & 24. 49. Exod. 15. 13. Ruth 1. 8. Others take it for one thing intended in two ſeveral words. Thou haſt given me life, which is a great favour; as continuance of life is promiſed as a great bleſſing, in the fifth Comandment. There is no comfort in any thing without it, and men would give any thing for the retaining of it, Chap. 2. 4. Eccl. 9. 4. The third is the moſt likely. The word חסד ſignifies. 1. Mercy, or favour, or kindneſſe, Judg. 8. 35. 2. Reproach, Prov. 14. 34. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

thy viſitation] Or, overſight. Thy providence and care of me. This viſitation is not to condemnation, as Jer. 5. 9. Hoſ. 9. 7. nor for correction, as Pſal. 89. 32. nor for deliverance out of trouble, as Exod. 4. 31. but for preſervation from thoſe evils, that might have taken away his life before now. So maſters overſee their families, that no man may hurt their children or ſervants.

hath preſerved] Thou didſt not leave me to ſhift for my ſelf, when thou hadſt made me, but kepſt me from what might endanger my life. Hereby Gods watchfulneſſe over him is intended, and uſing his Almighty power, to keep him from deadly dangers, Pſal. 121. all over. A ſimilitude taken from ſhepherds, that watch over their flocks, Jer. 31. 10. For Preſerved, ſee on Chap. 2. 6. on Save.

my ſpirit] Not meant of ſoul or courage, as ſometimes, but of life it ſelf, which is gone when the ſpirit departs, Gen. 25. 8, 17. So that in this verſe, he ſets out God, firſt, as the giver of life; ſecondly, as the provider of things needful for continuance of life; thirdly, as the protectour of men, againſt deadly dangers. For Spirit, ſee on Chap. 15. 2. on Vaine.

V. 13. And theſe things haſt thou hid in thine heart: I know that this is with thee] Though thou haſt thus accurately made me, and carefully preſerved me, yet thou haſt kept cloſely within thee, a purpoſe to afflict me. How are theſe two ſutable? So men purpoſing revenge, watch for a fit time, and make ſhew of good will in the mean while. Though thou didſt me much good, yet haſt thou a ſecret purpoſe to plague me, as now thou ſheweſt. This coherence ſuits beſt with the following verſes. This is a grievous complaint, and ſhews how far Job was tranſported in his paſſion, that compares God to an enemy, watching for a fit time, to take him unawares, to moleſt him.

And] Or, Yet. So it is uſed, ver. 7, 8.

theſe things] Intentions of bringing evil upon me thy creature.

haſt thou hid] Laid up cloſely, ſo that I could never perceive it, till theſe ſorrows overtook me: Or, it may be read with an interrogation, And haſt thou hid theſe things in thine heart? The anſwer followes, I know thou haſt.

in thine heart] Kept them cloſe from my knowledge, as men do things they keep in mind, but utter not. For Heart, ſee on Chap. 15. 12.

I know that this is with thee] I am ſure, that thou haſt dealt thus cloſely with me. Or, I know it by experience, and by feeling theſe ſorrows upon me. They make it plain to me. So the word is uſed for experimental knowledge, Hoſ. 9. 7. Others, underſtand it of Gods eternal purpoſe to make Job in that accurate way, ſpoken of before; but that agrees not well with Jobs ſcope, nor the words following.

V. 14. If I ſin, then thou markeſt me, and wilt not acquit me from mine iniquity] It appears by thy harſh dealing with me, that thou hadſt a purpoſe to afflict me, for I cannot any ſooner commit a ſin, though but out of humane infirmity, but thou preſently layeſt load upon me, and wilt not leave puniſhing me, till I be deſtroyed.

If] Or, When. As Amos 7. 2. Job 7. 4. As oft as I ſin, thou noteſt it, as it were in table-books, to puniſh me for it afterwards, Chap. 14. 16. & 31. 4.

I ſin] I erre, or go never ſo little out of the way, that thou haſt ſet me. The word ſignifies miſſing a mark, Judg. 20. 16. And ſo metaphorically ſinning, which is miſſing the mark God ſets before us.

then] Heb. and It is rendred then, Chap. 1. 20. & 2. 9.

thou markeſt me] The word ſignifies, firſt, to preſerve, by keeping out of evil and trouble, Pſal. 141. 9. So it ſignifies, ver. 12. of this Chapter, Pſal. 18. 23. Secondly, to keep in priſon, Chap. 7. 12. 1 King. 20. 39. Thirdly, to watch exactly what we or others do, Pſal. 39. 1. Jer. 20. 10. So here, Thou doſt watch over me, and obſerve all my thoughts, words and deeds, to get an advantage againſt me. For Markeſt, ſee on Chap. 2. 6. on Save.

and wilt not acquit me] Not pronounce me innocent. See Chap. 9. 28.

from my iniquity] The word ſignifies crooked actions, ſuch as run not level with the Law of God, but turn aſide from it, Chap. 7. 21. Others read it by way of queſtion, thus, If I have ſinned, wilt thou keep me in priſon, and not acquit me from mine iniquity? As if Job had ſaid, Suppoſe I had committed ſome great offence, which I do not confeſſe my ſelf to be guilty of, is it therefore fitting that thou ſhouldſt keep me in priſon ſtill, as if I were a wicked man; or rather that thou, who knoweſt that I hate wickedneſſe, ſhouldeſt pronounce me upright, and declare me to be ſo, by taking away theſe plagues from me? And ſo he confirms his former complaint, renewed in the former verſe. Iniquity, is put for the puniſhment of iniquity, as Chap. 7. 21. Eſay 53. 6. 1 Sam. 28. 10.

V. 15. If I be wicked, wo unto me; and if I be righteous, yet will I not lift up my head: I am full of confuſion, therefore ſee thou mine affliction] He ſhews by a pathetical dilemma, that he is every way miſerable, and that whether he be a wicked man or no, he hath no hope of eſcaping this miſery that is upon him. Be I bad or good I muſt be puniſhed.

If I be wicked] If I be an ungodly man, as theſe my friends accuſe me to be, Chap. 9. 22, 29.

wo unto me] Then let me be puniſhed more by God, and forced to cry out, Wo is me, Jer. 4. 31. Let me feel worſe torments then I have. Or, I ſhall be quite undone. The word imports ſome great and extraordinary miſery likely ſuddenly to fall upon him, Mic. 7. 1. 1 Cor. 9. 16. Some derive it from ילל, to howl; as men do in wo, Eſay 13. 6. & 23. 1. Hoſ. 7. 14.

and if I be righteous] If I be ſo, it is all one, I can look for no eaſe. By the word righteous, he means a godly man, as appears by the oppoſition to a wicked man, Chap. 9. 15, 20.

yet will I not] Or, yet can I not. So the future is tranſlated, Chap. 8. 11. See alſo on Chap. 9. 15. I am ſo broken with pain and grief, that I cannot look up with any comfort, though I were never ſo righteous; as verſe 16.

lift up my head] Men lift up their heads ſometimes out of pride, Pſal. 83. 2. And hang them down out of humility, as Iſa. 58. 5. Sometimes the head is lifted up out of joy for ſome exaltation or deliverance had or promiſed; as Pſal. 27. 6. Luk. 21. 28. And hanged down for trouble threatned or inflicted, Lam. 2. 10. So Job here. He hangs down his head by reaſon of continual pains, and conceives no hope of freedome from them, that he might rejoyce, but rather expects to ſink under them. For Lift up, ſee on Chap. 21. 3. on Suffer, For Head, ſee on Chap. 19. 9. and 20. 16.

I am full of confuſion] The word full, or ſatisfied, argues abundance. I am as full of confuſion, as men are of meat, that deſire no more. So the word is uſed, Gen. 25. 8. Job 14. 1. The word confuſion, in the Original, comes from קלה, to roſt, Jer. 29. 22. which is the greateſt of torments. None like fire. He had ſhame, and burning heat within, which made him to bluſh outwardly. Confuſion filled him becauſe of his afflictions, and the hard cenſures of his friends. Confuſion is more then ſhame. It diſtracts the mind, and makes a man not know which way to take. So it was now with Job.

Or,it may be meant in reſpect of the ſhame that fell upon him in regard of his fall from ſo great riches, to ſo poor an eſtate, which made him to be contemned by thoſe that honoured him before. Some read it, Be thou ſatisfied with my confuſion. As if he had ſpoken to God to intreat him not to lay more trouble on him, but to reſt ſatisfied with the confuſion his friends had brought upon him already. But the firſt reading is better; neither is the word my, in the Original. Men are ſaid to be full of confuſion, that are overwhelmed with ſhame and contempt, Hab. 2. 16. Pſal. 123. 4. For Full, ſee on Chap. 7. 4.

therefore] So this particle is uſed, Chap. 11. 6.

ſee thou mine affliction] If thou wilt not credit me, look round about me, and thou ſhalt ſee nothing but affliction. Thou ſhalt finde my eſtate altogether as bad as I have reported it, Pſal. 25. 18. & 119. 153. There David ſpeaks it to move God to mercy; but Job here, to accuſe God of cruelty in his diſtempered paſſion, as appears both by the words before and after. Thou knoweſt I am afflicted, but thou takeſt no compaſſion on me; but ſeemeſt rather to hide thy face, or look another way, Pſal. 10. 1. By affliction, he means the weakneſſe ariſing out of affliction, that lay as an heavy burden upon him: yet God ſeemed not to pity him, nor grace him with a good look. Some read it, Being full of confuſion, and ſeeing my affliction. As if Job laid down the cauſes of his hanging down his head, to be confuſion within, and affliction without. But the Original words will not bear that tranſlation. The former is more ſuitable to them. For See, look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

V. 16. For it increaſeth: thou hunteſt me as a fierce Lyon; and again thou ſheweſt thy ſelfe marvellous upon me] Here Job ſhews the cauſe why he did complain ſo much of Gods ſharp dealing with him before, to wit, becauſe of the increaſing of his pains.

For] So is this word uſed, to ſhew a reaſon of a thing, Chap. 11. 4. Though commonly it couples things together, and ſignifies, And.

it] My affliction.

increaſeth] Heb. is lifted up; or, lifts up it ſelfe. As an enemy it lifts up it ſelfe againſt me, or raiſes it ſelfe high, and domineers over me. The word when it is uſed of God or good men, it ſignifies excellency or glory, as Exod. 1. 51. when of ill men, it notes out pride, Job 40. 11, 12. when of ſenſeleſſe things, it ſignifies growing or encreaſing; as Chap. 8. 11. and ſo here.

thou hunteſt me] Thou, O God, followeſt me, as cloſe with plagues, as an hunter followes his prey with dogs. Sometimes he complains of his diſeaſes, ſometimes of God, as men in pain uſe to do, ſometime blaming one cauſe, and ſometime another.

as a fierce Lyon] One more cruel then ordinary, Chap. 4. 10. As a Lyon rampant hunts his prey, followes it cloſe, lets it no where be quiet, till he hath taken it, and torn it to pieces, ſo thou giveſt me no reſt between my plagues, nor for ought I ſee, wilt give me any till I be utterly deſtroyed, Iſa. 38. 13. Lam. 3. 10. Hoſ. 5. 14. Or, as men hunt a fierce Lyon, which leave not till they have killed him, leſt he do more miſchief; ſuch an one thou eſteemeſt me, and uſeſt me accordingly. See on Chap. 7. 12.

and again] Heb. and thou returneſt. When one affliction ſeems to grow toward an end, thou preſently clappeſt on another upon me. For Returneſt, ſee on Chap. 15. 13. on Turneſt.

thou ſheweſt thy ſelfe marvellous] Thou doſt not correct me in an ordinary way, but layeſt extraordinary plagues upon me, that men may wonder at me, Num. 16. 29, 30. above that which is common to men, 1 Cor. 10. 13. in extremity, above meaſure, 2 Cor. 1. 8. Thou doſt ſo preſſe me with new and exquiſite ſorrows, as if thou wouldſt ſhew all thy power in afflicting me, that the world might ſee what a wonderfull workman thou art in my troubles, Lev. 26. 21. Deut. 28. 59.

upon me] Who am already half dead, like a weary beaſt lying down before a Lyon. Or, againſt me. As if I were thy mortal enemy, ſo that thou couldſt never lay plagues enough upon me.

V. 17. Thou reneweſt thy witneſſes againſt me, and increaſeſt thine indignation upon me; changes and war are againſt me] The greatneſſe and frequent return of his troubles is further ſet out in this verſe.

Thou reneweſt] Still he attributes his troubles to God, though Satan had an hand in it. Thou giveſt new ſtrength to thy witneſſes againſt me, that they may not give over. Or rather thou bringeſt in freſh witneſſes againſt me one after another. Which agrees beſt with the words following.

thy witneſſes] Some underſtand it of Bildads following Eliphaz in pleading againſt Job. But it is rather to be underſtood of new and freſh plagues coming one after another upon him, which men would judge to be ſent by God as witneſſes of Gods indignation againſt Job, to force him to confeſſe ſome great wickedneſſe committed againſt God; for great judgements uſe to attend upon great ſins, and are eſteemed by men to be open witneſſes of ſecret wickedneſſe. And are ſo often, though not alwayes. So that Job complains, that God brought new witneſſes againſt him like new Moons, but alwayes watery. As angry men, when one witneſſe will not ſerve to condemn him, whom they accuſe, bring more ſtill, till it be done. So the Jews dealt with our Saviour Chriſt, Matth. 26. 60. So witneſſes are taken for plagues, Ruth 1. 21. Chap. 16. 8. And it agrees well with that which followes here, Mal. 3. 5.

againſt me] To prove me a wicked man. Or, Before me. To my face, as witneſſes to convince me openly, Gen. 31. 37.

and increaſeſt thine indignation] Thou ſendeſt me daily more and greater plagues, as if thine anger did not decreaſe, but increaſe againſt me daily.

upon me] They preſſe me down, as an heavy burden on a weary man. Or, within me, as Chap. 6. 4.

changes] Divers afflictions, one coming after another, like waves in the Sea.

and war] Job had no open war now againſt him, but he means a multitude of troubles ſetting upon him like ſo many enemies. And as in beſieging a town, freſh troops ſucceed thoſe that are weary, till it be taken; ſo his troubles came daily upon him. See Chap. 6. 4. For War, ſee on Chap. 7. 1. on Appointed time.

againſt me] 2 King. 13. 12.

V. 18. Wherefore then haſt thou brought me forth out of the womb? Oh that I had given up the ghoſt, and no eye had ſeen me] Seeing thou takeſt no pity of me in theſe ſore afflictions, and wilt not hear my complaints to deliver me; why didſt thou give me life at firſt, was it of purpoſe to make me miſerable? This is worſe, then if he had wiſhed for preſent death; for it argues ingratitude for his life and the former comforts, diſreſpect of Gods honour, which he had formerly promoted, and diſcontent with God his Creatour.

Wherefore then] For what good end or purpoſe didſt thou bring me into the world? It ſeems not to be for any good to me, I am now ſo miſerable.

haſt thou brought me forth out of the wombe?] Why didſt thou give me ſtrength to come alive into the world? Was I born onely to ſuffer thoſe evils, that I could not have ſuffered in the womb? See the ſame complaint, Chap. 3. 11. and one ſuitable to it, Num. 14. 2, 3. where the people of Iſrael make as light account of Gods bringing them out of Egypt, as Job doth here of his birth.

oh that I had given up the ghoſt] The ſame wiſh, in effect, with the former; for if he had not died in the womb, but a little after, then ſome eye would have ſeen him, though but a while: Or, why died I not in the very birth, for then no eye could have ſeen me alive? Others read it, Then had I given up the ghoſt, &c. It had been much better with me then now it is. Giving up the ghoſt is often uſed for dying, Gen. 25. 8, 17. For when the ſoul goes out of the body, and breath failes, the body is dead.

and no eye had ſeen me] No man had ſeen me alive; as follows ver. 19. See Chap. 7. 8. & 13. 1. & 20. 9. & 28. 10. & 42. 5. Luk. 2. 30. 1 Cor. 2. 9. Rev. 1. 7. He ſhews here what little account he made of all his former proſperity. He could have been content never to have enjoyed it, ſo he might have eſcaped his preſent troubles. Thus the ſervants of God, ſometimes in heavy trials ſhew themſelves unthankful to God for all former favours. But this is their infirmity, Pſal. 77. 10. For Eye, ſee on Chap. 7. 7. For Seen, look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

V. 19. I ſhould have been as though I had not been, I ſhould have been carryed from the womb to the grave] Though I had been conceived in the womb; yet if I had not been born alive, I ſhould have eſcaped all theſe miſeries.

I ſhould have been as though I had not been] I ſhould have been as free from theſe afflictions, as one that never had a being. My name would not have been heard among men, no more then theirs that never were. See Chap. 3. 16. Obad. ver. 16.

I ſhould have been carryed from the womb to the grave] I had not lived one moment to have felt the leaſt ſorrow; but ſhould have gone immediately to the grave, the place of reſt, Chap. 3. 18. He mentions the grave, as if that were likely to be the place of beſt reſt to him; but afterwards he ſets it out in a far other manner, ver. 21, 22. So are good men tranſported with paſſion ſometimes in their miſeries, that they wiſh for things contrary to Gods glory, and their own good. For Wombe, ſee on Chap. 15. 2. on Belly.

V. 20. Are not my dayes few? ceaſe then, and let me alone, that I may take comfort a little] Job having formerly vented his paſſion, now begins to recollect himſelf; and conſidering his ſore troubles, and likelihood of ſhort coutinuance in this life, prayes to God for ſome refreſhing before he die; as Pſal. 39. 13.

are not my dayes few?] Certainly they are. So much is inſerted in this queſtion; as ver. 3, 4, 5. He reckons by dayes, and not by years, to ſhew, that his life was like to be very ſhort, Chap. 7. 1, 6. & 8. 9. They are a ſmall little thing, as the Hebrew word ſignifies, and ſo it is tranſlated in the end of the verſe. For Dayes, ſee on Chap. 14. 14. The word מעט ſignifies. 1. Small, Gen. 30. 15. 2. Few, Deut. 7. 7. So here.

ceaſe then] Or, ceaſe therefore: as this particle is tranſlated, ver. 15. ceaſe from afflicting me any more.

let me alone] Leave afflicting me: Lay aſide thy Rod for a while, Chap. 7. 16, 19. & 9. 34. Heb. Ceaſe and lay on. That is, Ceaſe from laying on.

that I may take comfort a little] If thou wilt not take my plagues quite away, yet give me a little breathing time, that I may taſte once more of the comforts of life a little, before I die, which is likely to be ſhortly, Chap. 9. 27.

V. 21. Before I go whence I ſhall not return, even to the land of darkneſſe, and of the ſhadow of death] If comfort come not quickly, it will come too late. If I have it not before I die (which is like to be quickly) I ſhall never return into the world to have it.

Before I go] Before I die, and ſo go out of this world; for death is a going into another world, Joh. 16. 7. and a going from all our friends and acquaintance here. Or, Before I go into the land of darkneſſe. And thoſe words, Whence I ſhall not return, may be put in a parentheſis. For Go, ſee on Chap. 1. 4. and on Chap. 7. 9. whence I ſhall not return] In this, and the reſt of this verſe, and the following, is a deſcription of the grave, or ſtate of death; That it is a place, or ſtate, from which there is no returning into this world, a place of darkneſſe, &c. Not a deſcription of hell, for Job never meant to come there, no more then Jacob, who uſeth the like ſpeech, Gen. 37. 35. & 42. 38. He meant it of not returning into this world to enjoy thoſe comforts he once had, and by death ſhould loſe. He deſires therefore to have a little comfort in them, before he leave them for ever. And it is ſuitable to his friends diſcourſe, who ſay nothing to him of happineſſe; but uſe arguments of worldly proſperity to perſwade him to repent. Job did firmly believe the reſurrection of his body, Chap. 19. 25, 27. And therefore muſt needs ſpeak here of not returning into this world. See the like, Chap. 16. 22. Pſal. 39. 13. 2 Sam. 12. 23. For Return, ſee on Chap. 14. 13. on Paſt.

even to the land of darkneſſe] Having deſcribed death by a journey, he deſcribes the grave, the houſe of death. Not a lightſome place, with a Sun ſhining in it, but a dark land, Chap. 3. 5. & 17. 13. For Land, ſee on Chap. 9. 24. on Earth.

and of the ſhadow of death] Moſt thick ſhadows, ſuch as might make men to die for fear. Or ſuch as the grave affords, if a man could ſee it, where there is a greater darkneſſe then that of the night, even the darkneſſe of death it ſelf, Pſal. 23. 4.

V. 22. A land of darkneſſe, as darkneſſe it ſelfe, and of the ſhadow of death, without any order; and where the light is as darkneſſe] He heapes up divers words of the ſame ſignifications, as if no words could ſuffice to ſet out the horrid condition of death.

a land of darkneſſe, as darkneſſe it ſelfe] He means the thickeſt darkneſſe, and nothing but darkneſſe, where no light at all is to be ſeen; as in the end of the verſe.

and of the ſhadow of death] See on ver. 21.

without any order] Without any diſtinction between day and night, light and darkneſſe, between Summer and Winter, heat and cold, ſeed time, and harveſt, which continue here while the world laſts, Gen. 8. 22. No diſtinction between rich and poor, Kings and beggars, great men and mean, which is a great part of the beauty of this world. No difference between proſperity and adverſity, labour and reſt: all is confuſion. Mens bones are mingled in the grave, Chap. 3. 14, 15, 18, 19. Heb. No orders. No order at all in any thing, but all confuſion.

and where the light is as darkneſſe] The light is nothing but darkneſſe. There is no light there at all, as no night in heaven, Rev. 21. 25. Heb. The ſhining. Not that there is any thing in the grave, that ſhines; but that which is beſt there, is but darkneſſe. No hope of any light, or comfort there. This is the higheſt expreſſion of all. Darkneſſe; as darkneſſe it ſelf, there being no worſe thing to compare it to, and the beſt of it is but darkneſſe; as 1 Cor. 1. 25. Gods fooliſhneſſe is wiſer then men. God is not fooliſh, but in that action, in which men think God ſhews leaſt wiſdome; he ſhews more then any man doth in his wiſeſt action. See the like phraſe, Mat. 6. 23. or it may be read, And when it ſhines here, it is darkneſſe there: where, to conclude, there is palpable darkneſſe, when the Sun ſhines in all the world beſides. Like Egypts diſmal darkneſſe, when it was light in Goſhen, Exod. 10. 23.

CHAP. XI.

Ver. 1. THen anſwered Zophar, the Naamathite, and ſaid.] Zophar inſiſts in the foot-ſteps of his two former companions, both for matter and manner of ſpeech. But as it uſeth to come to paſſe in contentions, that mens ſpirits grow hotter and hotter, ſo he ſets upon Job more fiercely then the two former had done.

Then anſwered] See Chap. 4. 1. & 6. 1. & 8. 1. And on Chap. 26. 1.

Zophar the Naamathite] See on Chap. 2. 11.

and ſaid] See on Chap. 4. 1. And on Chap. 16. 1.

V. 2. Should not the multitude of words be anſwered? and ſhould a man full of talk, be juſtified?] Before Zophar begins, ver. 4. to confute what Job had ſaid; he objects three faults to him in the ſecond and third verſes. The firſt is multitude of words, in this verſe. The ſecond, Lying; and the third, Mocking, in the next verſe.

Should not the multitude of words be anſwered?] An Interrogation full of indignation, wherein Job is accuſed by Zophar of loquacity. Thinkeſt thou that none will anſwer thee, becauſe thou art ſo full of words? Oftentimes men are ſilent, when they could anſwer; becauſe they that begin to ſpeak will never leave talking. And in ſuch a caſe, it is fit men ſhould be anſwered; yea, and interrupted alſo, if they will not give way to others to ſpeak. See on Chap. 8. 2. For Words, ſee on Chap. 15. 3. on Talke.

and ſhould a man full of talk] Heb. a man of lips. A man that uſeth his lips immoderately in talking, as if he were made all of lips, and had no other members. So we call a great fighter, a man of his hands. Or lips may be taken for ſpeech, or language; as Gen. 11. 1. and then he may either accuſe Job of ſpeaking too much, or too eloquently in his own cauſe; as if he would bear out a bad cauſe by many words, or cover it with elegant ſpeeches. For Man, ſee on Chap. 1. 1. For Lips, ſee on Chap. 15. 6.

be juſtified] He ſpeaks not of the juſtification of a ſinner before God; but of a man in his cauſe. Is it fit that a prating fellow ſhould carry away his cauſe? Arguments muſt be attended, and not empty words. Thus he ſeeks to ſtop Jobs mouth with his own words uttered to the ſame purpoſe, if rightly tranſlated, Chap. 6. 26. See the notes there. And ſhews withal, what juſt cauſe he conceives he had to anſwer Job, leſt he ſhould be puffed up after his long and eloquent Oration, as thinking that no body could anſwer it. The Heb. word צדק ſignifies. 1. To be juſt, or righteous, Gen. 38. 26. 2. To be juſtified, Pſal. 51. 4. So here.

V. 3. Should thy lyes make men hold their peace? and when thou mockeſt, ſhall no man make thee aſhamed?] He taxeth Job of a ſecond fault here, that fearing his multitude of words would not carry his cauſe, he had intermixed divers untruths to win the day by falſhood.

Should thy lyes] The word ſignifies ſuch things, as men frame in their own heads; which being for the moſt part falſe, it is uſed for lyes, Jer. 48. 30. It is uſed alſo for lyers, Jer. 50. 36. He means thoſe ſpeeches that Job had uſed in his own defence, affirming himſelf to be innocent; as appears by his charge in the next verſe. He alludes to his affirmation hereof, Chap. 6. 29, 30. and appeals to God as a witneſſe, Chap. 10. 7. Theſe Zophar accounts to be lyes, and of ſo high a nature, that he could not hold his peace, but muſt needs reprove Job for them; as follows. The Heb. word בד ſignifies. 1. Alike, Exod. 30, 34. 2. Linnen, 1 Sam. 2. 18. 3. A ſtaffe or bar, Exod. 27. 6. 4. A lye, Iſa. 16. 6. 5. A lyar, Jer. 50. 36. Here it is uſed in the fourth ſenſe, for a lye.

make men hold their peace] The word Men, in the Original, is taken from Death: Mortal creatures. So God puts us in mind of our mortality by our name מתים of מות. Thou doſt not ſpeak divine revelations, neither canſt thou boaſt that authority which thou hadſt in the time of thy proſperity, that all men ſhould hear with ſilence, and never reply, whether thou ſpeak true or falſe, Chap. 29. 21, 22. The word החריש ſignifies. 1. To practice ſecretly, 1 Sam. 23. 9. 2. To be ſilent, or hold ones peace, Pſal. 28. 1. 3. To be deafe, Mic. 7. 16. 4. To make one hold his peace; as here.

and when thou mockeſt] When thou derideſt both God and us, ſeeking to perſwade us to believe abſurd things, Chap. 10. 3. & 34. 7. charging us with deceit, Chap. 6. 15.

ſhall no man make thee aſhamed?] Now he chargeth Job with a third fault; that ſeeing neither multitude of words, nor lying would uphold his cauſe; he ſought to uphold it, by mocking thoſe that ſhould diſprove him, and ſo damping their ſpirits, that they might not ſpeak boldly to confute his lyes, and cauſe him to bluſh for ſhame, and hang down his head, and cover his face, that he might be aſhamed to ſpeak any more ſo untruly, Num. 12. 14. 2 Sam. 19. 3.

V. 4. For thou haſt ſaid, My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in thine eyes.] Zophar goes to work, as if he would deal more candidly with Job, then his fellows had done, and therefore names the queſtion, which he would diſpute, and cites Jobs words for it, that he might not deny it. He doth not out of malice feign theſe things, and father them falſly upon Job; for that would not become ſo wiſe and godly a man; but gathers them out of Job's words miſunderſtood. The places he refers to, are Chap. 6. 10. & 9. 22. & 10. 7. Out of which he would, by a wrong conſequence, gather this double charge of Jobs maintaining the abſolute truth and purity of his doctrine and life; whereas in the firſt place he did not maintain a freedom from all errour, but a willingneſſe to ſpeak the truth, according to his knowledge. In the ſecond he maintains that truth, that God did afflict good men in this world, as heavily as bad men: Which is a truth, though Zophar thought otherwiſe. In the third, he onely calls God for a witneſſe, That he was no wicked man, whatever his friends thought of him; but he no where affirms, that he had never ſinned againſt God. Zophar therefore wrongs Job in putting other words in ſtead of his, which not ſo much as by a juſt conſequence, could be collected out of them. And ſo he condemnes Job unjuſtly, and fights with his own ſhadow.

For] The word commonly is tranſlated, And; But it is often uſed to expreſſe a reaſon of a thing, or ſaying, and tranſlated, as here, Prov. 8. 32. & 23. 3.

thou] Thou, O Job, haſt ſpoken thus highly of thy ſelf. If another had done it, we ſhould have given more credit to it.

haſt ſaid] Not onely haſt ſpoken theſe words; but haſt ſeriouſly affirmed them for truth: as Pſal. 116. 11. and that before God; as appears by the words, In thine eyes. For Said, ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

my doctrine] The word comes from לקח to receive, intimating the way of inſtruction, by receiving knowledge from parents, or teachers. And it is put ſometimes for the things that are to be known; which indeed are worthy of all acceptation, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, 1 Tim. 1. 15. So it is uſed, Deut. 32. 2. Prov. 4. 2. Sometimes for the knowledge of thoſe things that are taught, as it is wrought in the mind of the learner: and it is uſed here in the firſt ſenſe. Job had ſpoken the truth, and thought it worthy to be received, though his friends deſpiſed it. Some take it for manners, and good rules of life, received from others by counſel or example, and practiced by Job. But that ſeems rather to be intended in the following cloſe.

is pure] It is unmixed, and clear like fair water: a man may ſee to the bottome of it, and ſee no mud there of errour.

and I am clean] The word ſignifies pure from defilement, Pſal. 24. 4. or a choice one, Neh. 5. 18. Cant. 6. 9. Job meant, that he was ſound in doctrine, and upright in life; but Zophar takes him, as if he meant, that he was free from all errour and ſin.

in thine eyes] In thy ſight. My friends take me for an hypocrite; but thou knoweſt, that I am none. This was Jobs meaning, to comfort himſelf with Gods teſtimony againſt the falſe accuſation of his friends. But they underſtood him, as if he did challenge God to declare any ſin, whereof he was guilty. This phraſe is often uſed in Scripture, to ſet out Gods account of men and things, 1 Sam. 1. 15. 2 Sam. 11. 27. 1 King. 11. 33. For Eyes, ſee on Chap. 2. 12.

V. 5. But O that God would ſpeak, and open his lips againſt thee] Zophar conceiving that Job did maintain, that he was free both from errour and ſin, goes now about to confute that Opinion. And becauſe he knew not Jobs heart, and thought he would not be convinced by any man, though he ſpake never ſo much reaſon, he wiſhes that God would, according to Jobs deſire, Chap. 9. 34, 35. interpoſe, and take his own cauſe into his own hand, and confute Job himſelf. And then he doubts not, but Jobs mouth would be ſtopt.

But] This particle is ordinarily tranſlated, And; Yet ſometimes, But; as here. See Job 6. 1. And in the Original it is, But ſurely; as Chap. 1. 11. See there.

O that] Heb. who will give. Zophar wiſheth earneſtly, that God would take the cauſe into his own hand, Chap. 6. ver. 8.

God] The name comes from אל power. He is able ſo to ſpeak, as to convince thee; but we cannot do it.

would ſpeak] Would lay aſide his authority, as thou deſireſt, and would reaſon the caſe with thee, Pſal. 50. 7.

and open his lips] A ſimilitude taken from men, who cannot ſpeak without opening the lips. The ſame thing is intended that was meant before in the word Speak: But with a farther emphaſis. For God could have ſpoken to Job by ſome ſecret ſign, or by his Spirit; ſo as no man might hear, but Job himſelf: but Zophar deſires that God would ſo ſpeak, as a man that opens his lips; that not onely Job the party ſpoken to, might know his meaning; but himſelf, and his friends alſo that ſtood by; for he was very deſirous to have Jobs mouth ſtopt in his preſence. The word פתח is uſed. 1. For opening the mouth, eyes, or eares, to ſpeak, ſee, or hear, Chap. 3. 1. 2. For drawing out a ſword out of the ſheath, Pſal. 37. 14. 3. For untying a knot, or ſack, Gen. 44. 11. 4. For plowing or opening the earth, Iſa. 45. 8. 5. For graving, 1 King. 7. 36. 6. For the appearing of grapes at firſt on the Vine, Cant. 7. 12. 7. For opening a book to read, Neh. 8. 5. 8. For opening a gate, or door, Iſa. 26. 2. Here it is uſed the firſt way. For Lips, ſee on Chap. 15. 6.

againſt thee] Heb. with thee. That he would diſcourſe and argue with thee: yet it is ſometimes tranſlated Againſt; as Chap. 20. 27. And that was Zophars deſire, That God would plead againſt Job. And he made no doubt, but if God would but once open his mouth, and begin to ſpeak, he would take his part, and his friends, againſt Job.

V. 6. And that he would ſhew thee the ſecrets of wiſdome, that they are double to that which is: Know therefore, that God exacteth of thee leſſe then thine iniquity deſerveth.] In this verſe he expreſſeth what is the end of his wiſh, that God would plead with Job; to wit, a perſwaſion that God would convince him of his great iniquity, and make him leave fretting againſt his proceedings with him.

And that] Or, For; as including a reaſon of his former deſire. So it is tranſlated elſewhere. See ver. 4.

he would ſhew thee] Teach thee ſo clearly to know this thing ſo exactly, as if it had ſtood before thine eyes.

the ſecrets of wiſdome] The hidden wayes of his providence, wherein he walks in his dealings with mortal men, which thou thinkeſt thou art well acquainted withal; but wouldſt find then, that thou art very ignorant of them. Secrets are called hidden things, becauſe men cannot underſtand them, no more then they can ſee things hid from their eyes.

That they are double to that which is] Double, in Scripture, is put for a great exceeding, Iſa. 40. 2. & 61. 7. Jer. 17. 18. Zech. 9. 12. Rev. 18. 6. Some underſtand it of Gods wayes, that man cannot underſtand half the wiſdom that is in Gods wayes, and ſo take it as a ſecret reproof to Job, that was as Zophar thought, too much conceited of his own wiſdom. Others read it, That they ſhould be double to that which is. And they underſtand it of Jobs plagues; as if Zophar had ſaid, That Job had no reaſon to be impatient, ſeeing God did not lay half the ſorrows upon him that he did deſerve; but his ſins were far more then his ſufferings, Ezra 9. 13. For That which is, ſee on Chap. 26. 3.

know therefore] Thou ſeemeſt to forget how gently God deales with thee; take notice of it therefore upon my admonition. The word is tranſlated, therefore, Chap. 10. 15.

That God exacteth of thee leſſe then thine iniquity deſerveth] He doth not lay upon thee all the puniſhment thy ſins have deſerved; but layes far leſſe load upon thee. Others read it thus, That God forgetteth thee in compariſon of thine iniquity. That is, that he puniſheth thee ſo little, that he ſeems to have forgotten the greatneſſe of thy ſin; and therefore thou haſt no cauſe to think, that he deals hardly with thee. The word נשה ſignifies. 1. To forget, Jer. 23. 39. 2. To borrow, or require a debt, Jer. 15. 10. So here.

V. 7. Canſt thou by ſearching find out God? Canſt thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?] Here Zophar confirms what he had ſaid before, That Gods ſecret providence was far above the reach of man; and labours to convince Job of it by his own infirmity, and inability to conceive the nature of heaven, hell, earth, and ſea; all which are eaſier to be fully underſtood, then Gods nature, or the courſe of his dealings with men. Theſe things had Job ſet out excellently, Chap. 9. 4. &c. yet here Zophar vilifies him; Canſt thou find out God: what canſt thou know?

Canſt thou?] Aſſuredly thou canſt not: a vehement negation under an affirmative queſtion; as Chap. 8. 11.

by ſearching] By uſing the greateſt skill thou haſt, and thine utmoſt endeavours to find out Gods nature, or the courſe of his providence.

find out God] Come to the full knowledge of God, as follows in the end of the verſe: or find out the reaſons of his proceedings. Thou mayeſt think he deals unjuſtly with thee, in laying ſuch load upon thee, when he knows cauſes to lay more on thee, though he do not think fit to reveal them unto thee. Others read it, Canſt thou find out the ſearching of God? That is, his admirable wiſdom, whereby he knows all things more excellently, then men do thoſe things, which they have ſpent their brains moſt in ſearching out, Chap. 28. 27. 1 Cor. 2. 10. For God needs not ſearch into any thing, that knows all things exactly from eternity.

Canſt thou finde out?] He repeats the ſame queſtion, as knowing that Job could not anſwer affirmatively: and alſo explains it, by adding the degree of knowledge. For Finde, ſee on Chap. 17. 10.

the Almighty] Another title of God uſed frequently in Scripture, and fitly here to draw Job from reſiſting God, as Zophar thought he did.

unto perfection] Till thou know him, and his counſels perfectly. This is too great a task for thee, or any creature to do. It goes beyond all created underſtanding. The word ſignifies the height, or greateſt accompliſhment of a thing. Thou mayeſt know ſomething of God, and of his Will. But nothing perfectly. Broughton expreſſeth the former word by depth; and this by ſcope. Canſt thou tell the utmoſt he aymes at in afflicting thee? No ſurely, Eccl. 3. 11. Rom. 11. 33.

V. 8. It is as high as heaven, what canſt thou do? deeper then hell, what canſt thou know?] Thou art not able to comprehend the higheſt heavens, loweſt hell, nor the length of the earth, or breadth of the ſea, much leſſe the perfection of Gods wiſdom, which is higher then heaven, deeper then hell, longer then the earth, broader then the ſea. If thou couldſt attain to them (which is impoſſible) yet muſt thou needs fall ſhort of the perfection of Gods wiſdom, which is far beyond all theſe. See the like dimenſions, Eph. 3. 18.

It is] Gods wiſdom, ver. 6. or, They are; that is, the ſecrets of Gods wiſdom, ver. 6. or, He is; that is, God: the Almighty, ver. 7.

as high as heaven] Heb. The heights of heaven; that is, as the higheſt heavens, which mans eyes cannot ſee, nor his underſtanding comprehend, Prov. 25. 3. It may be read, It is higher then the higheſt heaven. And then it anſwers well to that which follows, Deeper then hell, &c. So the defect in the former part of the verſe is ſupplyed out of the latter, Pſal. 70. 1. Make haſt, is added out of the end of the verſe, to make the former part of it full and clear. For Heaven, ſee on Chap. 1. 16.

what canſt thou do?] Heb. what canſt thou work? as Chap. 7. 20. Pſal. 11. 3. all labour about impoſſible things is in vain. If thou wert called to give an account of the cauſes of things in heaven, as of the motion of the Sun, Moon, and Stars, or rather of things in the higheſt and inviſible heaven: What canſt thou ſay to it? Nothing at all. Why doſt thou then toil thy ſelf in vain, to finde out the hidden reaſons of Gods proceedings, which are far higher? It ſeems that he means the higheſt heavens, becauſe he oppoſeth it to hell.

Deeper then hell] The word ſignifies the grave ſometimes; but here it is put for hell, as appears by the oppoſition to heaven: as alſo, Mat. 11. 23. Hell therefore ſeems to be in the loweſt parts of the earth. For Hell, ſee on Chap. 7. 9. on Grave.

what canſt thou know?] Or, How canſt thou know it? So the word is tranſlated, Chap. 9. 2. Deep things are hard to be found out, and ſometimes impoſſible. Therefore Gods Judgements are compared to a great deep, Pſal. 36. 6. How is it poſſible that thou which canſt not comprehend the depth of hell, ſhouldſt attain fully to the cauſes of Gods proceedings with men, which are more abſtruſe?

V. 9. The meaſure thereof is longer then the earth, and broader then the ſea] He did not conceive that there were any dimenſions or bounds of Gods wiſdom, but ſets it out comparatively, making it to reach beyond the higheſt, deepeſt, longeſt, and broadeſt things that are, and ſo beyond all dimenſions, to ſhew that it is infinite, exceeding not onely all things that are, but alſo all things that can be imagined.

the meaſure thereof] The extent of it. Spoken after the manner of men, who know not the length of things, but by meaſuring them. But Gods wiſdom cannot be meaſured, Rom. 11. 33.

is longer then the earth] As the heaven is ſet out, as the higheſt thing in Scripture, Prov. 25. 3. and hell for the loweſt, Deut. 32. 22. ſo the earth for the longeſt, In this place. And the ſea for the wideſt, Pſal. 104. 25. See Pſal. 139. 8. &c. Some Kingdomes are exceeding long. How long then is the earth it ſelfe? For Earth, ſee on Chap. 9. 24.

and broader then the Sea] The Sea appearing more large to our eyes, then any part of the earth that we can ſee at once, becauſe our ſight is hindred by hills, trees, houſes, that may be the reaſon why it is ſet out by breadth, and the earth by length; for narrow things ſeem long, and great things ſeem rather wide. Gods wiſdom goes beyond all theſe. For Sea ſee on Chap. 14. 11.

V. 10. If he cut off, and ſhut up, or gather together, then who can hinder him?] Thou muſt know that God doth not only govern all things wiſely, and is able to give a good reaſon of all his proceedings, though thou be not able to find it out, but alſo may juſtly uſe his power and will to diſpoſe of things as he pleaſe, and no man hath liberty to contradict him, though his wayes ſeem ſtrange to mans reaſon.

If he cut off] The word ſignifies to change, or alter the condition of perſons or things, and ſo by conſequence to deſtroy.

and ſhut up] Sometimes the word is taken in a good ſenſe, for ſhutting one up to protect him and keep him from danger, that he may be ſafe, when others periſh; as Deut. 32. 36. Sometimes in an ill ſenſe, for ſhutting up in priſon, 2 King. 17. 4. or delivering into the enemies hand, ſo that there is no eſcaping, Deut. 32. 30. Pſal. 31. 8. So here.

or gathering together] Set men at liberty, ſo that they may dwell together freely, and thrive and increaſe, Zeph. 3. 18, 19. and then it is contrary to the former. Then the ſenſe is, Whether God deſtroy or uphold, do hurt or good, no man can queſtion him for it. If he ſhould do and undo, confound all things, yet he were blameleſſe. But it may rather be applied to afflictions. If God cut off men by the ſword, or ſhut them up in priſon, or bundle them up like ſticks for the fire, or gather ſeverall afflictions into an army together againſt any man, he hath no cauſe to complain. This ſuits beſt with Zophars intention, to ſhew that Job complained without a cauſe. Neither will any man demand a reaſon why God proſpers him, but why he afflicts him.

then who can hinder him] Heb. turn him away. To wit, from what he intends to do. See on Chap. 9. 12. For Turn ſee on Chapter 15. 13.

V. 11. For he knoweth vain men: he ſeeth wickedneſſe alſo; will he not then conſider it] Though he might uſe his abſolute power to deſtroy men without a cauſe, yet he doth not uſe to do ſo, for he can eaſily ſee vanity and wickedneſſe in the hearts of them that appeare Saints to men, as thou, O Job, haſt done. This thou canſt not deny. Tell me therefore why ſhould not God puniſh iniquity, where he ſees it?

For] Though it may ſeem ſtrange to men, yet God afflicts not without a reaſon.

he knoweth] By a knowledge of intuition, not of approbation, as ſometimes the word is uſed, Pſal. 1. 6.

vain men] Heb. mortals of vanity. By vain men, are meant raſh and inconſiderate perſons, or liers and unjuſt men, as the word ſometimes imports, Exod. 20. 7. Pſal. 24. 4. & 62. 9. Or ungodlie men; as Pſal. 26. 4. For Vain ſee on Chap. 18. 7. on Strength.

he ſeeth] Knowledge and ſight may differ in men, the one being an act of reaſon; the other of ſenſe. But in God they are all one. Leſt any man ſhould think God doth not know ſecret wickedneſſe, he explaineth the former word knowing, by ſeeing, that is, he doth as perfectly know thoſe things which are hid from the world, as men doe things which they ſee with their eyes. We count ſight the ſureſt ſenſe, and therefore prefer one eye-witneſſe before ten ear-witneſſes. For See look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

wickedneſſe] He not only knows men, but all their ſinnes alſo. Pſal. 10. 11, 14. & 35. 22. The word ſometimes ſignifies grief; for ungodly men, as they bring much grief to others by their unjuſt courſes, ſo alſo much trouble and ſorrow upon themſelves, Pſal. 10. 7.

will he not then conſider it?] View it diligently, ſo as to take full notice of it, Pſal. 37. 10. ſo as to put a difference between it, and goodneſſe, Lev. 10. 10. 1 King. 3. 21. Certainly he will take notice of it, take it to heart, and make men to ſee that he doth ſo by exemplary puniſhments, Hoſ. 6. 10. Gen. 18. 20, 21. He cloſely taxeth Job of hypocriſie, and wiſheth him not to truſt to vain ſhews; for God would aſſuredly find him out.

V. 12. For vain man would be wiſe, though man be born like a wild aſſes colt] Zophar goes on tacitly to accuſe Job of fooliſhneſſe and pride.

For] Or, Yet; as Pſal. 119. 109, 110. Though he be not able to reach to the depth of Gods judgements, yet he would be thought to be a wiſe man, and will cenſure Gods proceedings.

vain man] Heb. Hollow man. That is, empty man; for hollow things have nothing but wind within. So the word is rendred, Exod. 27. 8. He means, that man is naturally empty of knowledge. For Man ſee on Chap. 1. 1.

would be wiſe] Heb. would be hearty. The heart is the ſeat of wiſdom. See on Chap. 9. 4. therefore poſſeſſing an heart, in the Original, is tranſlated, getting underſtanding; Prov. 15. 32. And fools are ſaid to be heartleſſe, Hoſ. 7. 11. The meaning is, though there be no true reall wiſdom in man by nature, yet he would be eſteemed wiſe by others, and thinks ſo of himſelf, and therefore will be medling with Gods ſecrets, which he cannot underſtand; ver. 6, 7, &c.

though man be born] He ſhewes whence this ignorance in man proceeds. Not from creation, for God made him wiſe, but from his birth. Ignorance of ſpiritual things is a part of Original corruption. The Hebrew word אדם ſignifies 1. A man in generall, Pſal. 49. 20. 2. It was the name of the firſt man. Gen. 4. 1. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe; For Adam was not born; nor made fooliſh.

like] It is neceſſarily added, to ſet out the ſimilitude, though it be not in the Original, as appears by the diſtinction of the character. So as is added Chap. 7. 9. though not expreſſed, Chap. 7. 7. neither in the Original, nor tranſlation.

a wild aſſes colt] To ſet out mans ignorance the more, he compares him to an aſſe, the ſillieſt of all beaſts, and therefore we call a fool, an aſſe. Nay to a wild aſſe, which is more fooliſh then a tame one; Nay to a wild aſſes colt, which is moſt fooliſh of all. Man is often compared to beaſts in Scripture, Pſal. 49. 20. & 73. 22. & 92. 6. Eccl. 3. 18. yea we are ſent by Job himſelf to the beaſts to learn, as if they were wiſer then we, Chap. 12. 7.

V. 13. If thou prepare thine heart, and ſtretch out thine hands towards him] Zophar goes on in the ſame method that his two fellows had done: Having laid load upon Job, and endeavoured to ſhew him his wickedneſſe; now he perſwades him to ſupplication and reformation, by many ſpecious promiſes of reſtauration of peace and proſperity to him in abundance.

If thou] The pronoun is not included in the verb, but plainly expreſſed in the Hebrew text. As if he had ſaid, I ſpeak to thee, O Job, in particular. Though thou haſt been a grievous ſinner, yet if thou pray to God aright, and reform thy life according to his Will, thou ſhalt be reſtored to a flouriſhing condition again before thy death.

prepare thine heart] By the heart, here, is meant not that fleſhy part of the body, which lives firſt, and dies laſt, but the ſoul; as Pſal. 45. 1. By preparation, putting the faculties in tune to ſeek and pray to God; as 2 Chr. 12. 14. & 19. 3. Pſal. 57. 7. & 108. 1. He doth not ſay, If thou prepare thy lips, but thy heart. Noting, that his prayer muſt be ſincere, and come from the heart, elſe God will not regard it. For Heart ſee on Chap. 15. 12.

and ſtretch out thine hands] That is, If thou pray to God for pardon of thy ſins, and ſtand no longer to juſtifie thy ſelf. It was the geſture of thoſe that prayed in thoſe times, not to hold their hands together, or lift them up a little way, but to ſtretch them out as far as they could toward heaven, as if they would pull down a bleſſing from thence, Exod. 17. 11, 12. 1 King. 8. 22. Pſal. 141. 2. Thereby they ſhewed, that their hearts were lifted up to God, and that they expected all help and ſuccour from him, Lam. 3. 41. Stretching out of hands was alſo uſed as a geſture of ſorrow, Jer. 4. 31. and as a ſign of pity and bounty, Iſa. 65. 2. But here, as a geſture of prayer, wherein we with ſorrow for ſinne ſtretch out our hands to God, and he ſtretches out his to us in pity to pardon us, and bounty to relieve us. For Hands ſee on Chap 36. 32. on Clouds.

towards him] Towards God. Mentioned in verſ. 5, 6, 7. That is, towards heaven, which in Scripture is called Gods throne, Iſa. 66. 1. and whither we are directed to ſend up our prayers to him, Matth. 6. 9.

V. 14. If iniquity be in thine hand, put it far away, and let not wickedneſſe dwell in thy tabernacles] If thou ſhouldeſt prepare thy heart aright, and pray earneſtly to God at preſent for pardon of ſins, yet that will do thee no good, unleſſe thou reform thy life and converſation.

If iniquity] It may be meant of any kind of ſin; but it is likely Zophar meant it here of cruelty and oppreſſion of others; as if God by laying theſe ſore afflictions upon him, did as it were from heaven teſtifie againſt him, that he had gotten his former great eſtate by oppreſſion; which is the thing that Jobs other friends do caſt in his diſh, Chap. 4. 8, 9. & 11. 14. For Iniquity ſee on Chap. 18. 7. on Strength.

be in thy hand] The ſeat of iniquity is in the heart, but it is often attributed to the hands, becauſe they are the inſtruments of action in the courſe of our lives. See Pſal. 7. 3. 1 Sam. 26. 18. 1 Chr. 12. 17. Pſal. 26. 10. Chap. 16. 17. Iniquity, and eſpecially violence, is like dirt or ſpots ſticking on mens hands, which makes them unfit to be lifted up to God in prayer; Iſa. 1. 15. Jon. 3. 7, 8. He intimates, that it is vain for Job to pray for mercy, till his hands be cleanſed from ſpots of violence in Gods ſight. He may either mean the guilt of violence remaining upon Job unrepented of, or things gotten by violence kept ſtill in his poſſeſſion, and not yet reſtored to the right owner. For Hand ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

put it far away] Keep thy hands from violence at a very great diſtance for time to come. Let it not come near thee. Or, be far from keeping ill gotten goods; and if ever God make thee able, make full reſtitution to thoſe thou haſt wronged.

and let not wickedneſſe] That is, injuſtice. Or, things unjuſtly gotten, Lev. 19. 15. Pſal. 7. 3.

dwell] Let it not abide. Thou canſt not, it may be, keep it clean out, but haſten it away, by reformation or reſtitution, Prov. 3. 28. Pſal. 5. 4.

in thy tabernacles] In the men of thy houſe. A good man muſt not only reform himſelf, but his houſhold alſo. Or, let nothing gotten by fraud and violence abide in thy dwelling, but ſhew thy repentance by ſending it home to the right owners. See Chap. 5. 24. He may ſpeak in the plurall number, with alluſion to Jobs former eſtate. For rich men have divers tents or tabernacles, or at leaſt divers rooms in their tabernacles. So Gods houſe is called Tabernacles, Pſal. 84. 1.

V. 15. For then ſhalt thou lift up thy face without ſpot, yea thou ſhalt be ſtedfaſt, and ſhalt not fear.] In the two former verſes, Zophar had exhorted Job to ſubmiſſion, and reformation: now he gives him arguments of encouragement to perſwade him ſo to do, from the full deliverance from preſent miſeries, and full fruition of future proſperity.

For then] When thou haſt truly humbled thy ſelf before God, and put away thine iniquity.

ſhalt thou lift up thy face] A phraſe ſomething like that before, of lifting up the head. See Chap. 10. 15. The lifting up of the face betokens, 1. Cheerfulneſſe, when a mans conſcience being pacified, and he aſſured of pardon of ſin, may not only look man, but God in the face with comfort, Chap. 22. 26. 2. ſtrong confidence, whereby a man is confident he ſhall be upheld by God againſt all enemies ſpiritual and corporall, and need not fear hurt from God himſelf, 2 Sam. 2. 22. 3. reverence to our betters, Deut. 28. 50. not regarding the perſon of the old, is in the Originall, not lifting up the face to or of the old man. Here it may be taken in the two former ſenſes. Thou ſhalt be full of comfort, but eſpecially of confidence, as appears by the oppoſition in the end of the verſe. A guilty conſcience makes the countenance fall. Gen. 4. 6, 7. A clear conſcience makes a man look up boldly. For Lift up ſee on Chap. 21. 3. on Suffer. For Face ſee on Chap. 14. 20. on Countenance.

without ſpot] Or, out of ſpot. Being delivered from all the ſores, and plagues and puniſhments of thy ſins, which have defiled thy face, and made thee hang down thine head for ſhame and grief. Spots are literally bodily blemiſhes, Jer. 13. 23. metaphorically ſinnes which defile the ſoul, Jude verſe 12. But here it ſignifies a freedom from the leaſt plagues or troubles, which are as it were ſpots in a proſperous eſtate. As appears by the verſes following, which do not ſet out freedom from ſin, but from miſery.

yea thou ſhalt be ſtedfaſt] Thou ſhalt be ſo free from the leaſt trouble, that thou ſhalt not only get, but alſo enjoy a conſtant proſperity. The word ſignifies moulten. Things that are melted are afterwards very ſtrong, as pillars, 1 King. 7. 15. 1 Sam. 2. 8. Thou hadſt a good eſtate once, O Job, but now it is gone, chap. 29. 6. But if thou truly turn to God, thou ſhalt have a better, and it ſhall be conſtant.

and ſhalt not fear] Thou ſhalt be ſo far from having any ſenſible loſſe of thy proſperity, that thou ſhalt be freed from the fear of any evill or change, as long as thou liveſt. Thou ſhalt not need to hang down thine head, as now thou doeſt; by reaſon of thy ſorrows, nor to fear any more or greater troubles coming on thee, which now thou complain of ſo much, Chap. 10. 15, 16, 17. The Scripture uſeth to ſet out compleat felicity, by expulſion of fear. For a rich man is not fully happy ſo long as he may fear poverty. But when either there are no more troubles, or none that can befall us, then our proſperity may be ſaid to be compleat. See Zeph. 3. 13. Iſa. 17. 2. A bad conſcience makes men afraid, but a clear conſcience drives out fearfulneſſe. He tells Job that he ſhould not need after his true repentance to fear any more a revolution of any troubles.

V. 16. Becauſe thou ſhalt forget thy miſery, and remember it as waters that paſſe away] He goes on in ſetting out the aſſurance of Jobs conſtant proſperity after his repentance.

Becauſe] He gives a reaſon, why Job ſhould not fear any future troubles. What need a man, or how can he fear that which is forgotten?

thou ſhalt forget] Here alſo the pronoun is expreſſed for emphaſis ſake, as ver. 13. Though thou be thus miſerable, and almoſt paſt hope of recovery, yet thou ſhalt be happy, if thou repent. He doth not mean, that it ſhould not be poſſible for Job ever to think of his former troubles at all; for troubles paſt are thought of with delight, and make preſent proſperity the more pleaſing; but he intimates; Firſt, that there ſhall be no ſcar of his wounds left, nor footſtep of his troubles, to put him in mind of them to renew his grief, Gen. 41. 30. Secondly, that he ſhall have a long time of freedome from ſorrows, which ſhall help much to make him no more affected with the remembrance of them, Jer. 50. 6. Iſai. 54. 4. Thirdly, that he ſhould have ſuch abundance of bleſſings, that they ſhould blot out the remembrance of his former ſorrows, and give him no time to think of them, Iſai. 54. 13, 17. As Joſeph, in his height of proſperity in Egypt, forgat all his former miſeries, in regard of any trouble of mind, ariſing from the remembrance them, although he thought of them, ſometimes with thankfulneſſe to God for delivering him, and therefore called his eldeſt ſons name Manaſſe, Gen. 41. 51. Joh. 16. 21.

thy miſery] Or, thy labour. All thy heavie pains thou now endureſt and complaineſt of ſo grievouſly.

and remember it as waters that paſſe away] Or, that are paſſed away. If at any time they come into thy mind, thou ſhalt think of them very ſlightly, as a man would think of waters that have overflown his ground, when afterwards he ſee a great burden of graſſe upon it, and much cattel feeding there. This thought will not afflict ſuch a man, no more ſhall the thought of thy former ſorrows ever afflict thee more, Chap. 6. 15. 2 Sam. 14. 14. Or, Thou ſhalt quite forget thy miſery, and remember it no more, then men do waters, that are quite gone away. For Water ſee on Chap. 14. 9. For Paſſe ſee on Chap. 15. 19.

V. 17. And thine age ſhall be clearer then the noon day; thou ſhalt ſhine forth, thou ſhalt be as the morning] As he had encouraged Job before, to return to God by the certainty of future proſperity, ſo now by the extent and greatneſſe of it.

And thine age] So the word is tranſlated, Pſal. 39. 5. The remainder of thy days ſhall be full of proſperity.

ſhall be clearer then] Heb. ſhall riſe above. That is, ſhall exceed the noon-day in brightneſſe. For Riſe ſee on Chap. 14. 12.

the noon-day] Which is moſt lightſome, the Sun being then in his greateſt height, and ſhining moſt bright. Thy dayes ſhall be moſt comfortable and honourable. It is an uſuall thing in Scripture, to ſet out joy and glory, under the words of light and brightneſſe, Pſal. 37. 6. & 112. 4. Iſai. 58. 10, 11. Eſth. 8. 16. Prov. 4. 18. Job. 5. 14. & 118. 5, 6. & 38. 15. Amos 8. 9. The word in Hebrew is of the Duall number, becauſe the Noon, is between the Forenoon, and Afternoon.

thou ſhalt ſhine forth] Thou ſhalt appear honourable to others, and full of comfort. All men ſhall take notice of thy proſperity. For Shine, ſee other ſignifications of the ſame Hebrew word. Chapter 5. 7.

thou ſhalt be as the morning] Iſai. 58. 8. Some take it, as ſetting forth the ſudden end of his troubles, and ſpeedy turning his ſorrow into joy, Pſal. 30. 11. As the day-light comes ſuddenly after a dark night, whereas the noon-light comes by degrees, though, at length, it be clearer then the morning-light. Others conceive, that it ſets out an increaſing proſperity. Though it be great at firſt, yet it ſhall grow greater and greater ſtill, as the morning-light doth, whereas the noon-light is at the higheſt, and grows leſſer and leſſer till night. His meaning is, Thou ſhalt not only have great joy, honour, but thou ſhalt have it ſuddenly, and it ſhall encreaſe daily. As the Sun riſing in the morning is very welcome to men, after a dark night: So ſhall thy proſperity be to thee, after all thy troubles.

V. 18. And thou ſhalt be ſecure, becauſe there is hope; yea, thou ſhalt dig about thee, and thou ſhalt take thy reſt in ſafety] Jobs future proſperity intimated in the former verſe, is branched into divers particulars in this verſe and the next; as ſecurity, ſafety, reſt, fearleſſeneſſe, and preheminence above others. And laſtly, it is illuſtrated by the contrary condition of ſuch as perſiſt in ſin, without repentance, in the laſt verſe.

And thou ſhalt be ſecure] It is not to be underſtood of carnal ſecurity, as Judg. 18. 10. Job 12. 6. but of an holy and confident reſting upon God, as Pſal. 21. 7. & 27. 3.

becauſe there is hope] He doth not mean an hope of getting out of theſe miſeries, for that is already ſuppoſed in the former verſes. He ſpeaks here of a further hope, which he ſhould have, when his proſperity ſhould be renewed. And that hope may be double; Firſt, Of continuing that happy condition to which he ſhould be reſtored. Secondly, Of daily increaſe of happineſſe. God would, by giving new favours, daily ſtrengthen his hope of not returning into this ſad condition, in which he now was, and of expectation of greater favours from him.

yea, thou ſhalt dig about thee] Some interpret it of laying the foundation of an houſe, by an alluſion to the Arabians, who uſing to change habitation, often digged holes, to faſten ſtakes to uphold their tents, where they found good paſture for their cattell. Others, of digging of Wells, which was the firſt thing they uſed to do, where they meant to pitch their tents, that they might not want water for themſelves, nor their cattel; as Gen. 26. 18, 21, 22. Others, of digging, or tilling the earth, and exerciſing himſelf in a lawfull calling, with the hope of thriving. So the word is uſed, Luke 16. 3. Others, of entrenching himſelf, as cities, and armies uſe to make trenches round about, that they may not be ſuddenly ſurpriſed by the enemy. This ſenſe agrees beſt with the words that follow, and with Gods former dealing with Job. Chap. 1. 10. For Dig ſee on Chap. 39. 21. on Paveth.

and thou ſhalt take thy reſt] As thou ſhalt dwell ſafely, ſo thou ſhalt take thy reſt quietly in the night, not diſquieted with cares, becauſe God hath given plenty. This bleſſing God gives to his beloved, Pſal. 127. 2. For Take reſt ſee on Chap. 14. 12. on Lie down.

in ſafety] The word ſignifies both confidence within, and ſafety without, to ſhew, that Gods people are not confident in vain. It ſhall be to them according to their faith, Matth. 8. 13. & 15. 28. Thou ſhalt ſleep, as without care, ſo without fear, as being compaſſed about with a ſtrong trench, to keep thee from all thine enemies, Lev. 26. 5. Pſal. 3. 5. & 4. 8.

V. 19. Alſo thou ſhalt lie down, and none ſhall make thee afraid; yea, many ſhall make ſuit unto thee] He ſhewes, that God would not give him one bleſſing alone, but would clean forget all his ſinnes, and adde one mercy to another.

Alſo thou ſhalt lie down] A metaphor taken from beaſts, that couch and lie on the earth, when they go to ſleep, Ezek. 19. 2. Pſal. 23. 2.

and none ſhall make thee afraid] Thou ſhalt ſleep as ſafely, as ſheep in a fold under a vigilant ſhepherd, where no wilde beaſt dare come neare them. Thou ſhalt have no enemy that dare interrupt thy quiet eſtate, no not when thou art aſleep, Gen. 49. 9. Lev. 26. 6. Prov. 3. 24. In the former verſe there was a promiſe of freedome from cares and inward fears, that might diſturb his reſt, here, from outward enemies, that might come upon him in the night, and fright him, and diſturb his reſt, which is not unuſual in times of war.

yea many ſhall make ſuit unto thee] Heb. ſhall entreat thy face. They ſhall not deſpiſe thee, as they do now, becauſe of thy troubles, but thou ſhalt be ſo rich, and in ſo great authority, and ſo full of power, that not ſome few, but multitudes ſhall ſeek unto thee for counſel, help, right, or preferment. So Zophar himſelf was fain to do, Chap. 42. 8. For the phraſe, ſee Exod. 32. 11. 1 Sam. 13. 12. 1 King. 13. 6. Pſal. 27. 8. & 45. 12. & 119. 58. Prov. 19. 6. Zech. 7. 2. The Hebrew word רב ſignifies. 1. Much, or Many. Pſal. 34. 19. 2. Great. Numb. 11. 33. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe. But it may be tranſlated Great ones. And then the meaning is, Not only mean men, but great ones alſo ſhall need thy help, and apply themſelves unto thee for favour, which is a very great honour. See the like. Pſal. 45. 12. 72. 10, 11. The word חלה ſignifies. 1. To make ſick. Deut. 29. 22. 2. To make ſuit to one, or intreat him. 2 Chron. 33. 12. So here. For Face ſee upon Chap. 14. 20. upon Countenance.

V. 20. But the eyes of the wicked ſhall fail, and they ſhall not eſcape, and their hope ſhall be as the giving up of the Ghoſt.] Having before ſet out the happy condition of ſuch as return to God, to encourage Job to do ſo, now he declares the miſery of them that continue in impenitencie, to diſcourage Job from continuing in that evill way, where Zophar thought he walked. The miſery of ſuch he ſets out in three particulars: 1. The tedious expectation of good. 2. No eſcaping out of evill. 3. Hope ending in deſpair.

But the eyes] The eye is a principal member, and great judgements in Scripture are ſet out by ſome plague upon the eyes which are very tender and uſeful, Chap. 3. 10. Pſal. 38. 10. Prov. 30. 17. For a blind man is in a ſad condition, and the more ſad, if he once enjoyed the benefit of ſight. For Eyes ſee on Chap. 2. 12.

of the wicked] Chap. 3. 17. & 8. 22. & 10. 3.

ſhall fail] Shall wear away like a cloud that vaniſheth, Job 7. 9. They ſhall be ſo weary with expecting good, which they ſhall never enjoy, that they ſhall be able to look up no longer, Lam. 4. 17. Chap. 31. 16. For Faile ſee on Chap. 16. 11. on Spend.

and they ſhall not eſcape] Heb. flight ſhall periſh from them, Amos 2. 14. They ſhall be beſet with ſo many miſeries, as ſo many enemies, that they ſhall have never an hole left to flie out at. As they ſhall not obtain the good they expect, ſo they ſhall never be able to eſcape the miſeries they feel or fear. Or, Refuge ſhall periſh from them; as Pſal. 142. 4. There ſhall be no ſhelter or place of refuge for them to fly to, to eſcape thoſe ſtorms. They ſhall in vain ſeek for help of God or man; as Saul did, when he had forſaken God, 1 Sam. 28. 6, 15.

their hope ſhall be as the giving up of the Ghoſt] There ſhall be no more hope of proſperity for them, then of a mans life, that is giving up the ghoſt. Their hope is dying and decaying, Chap. 8. 13, 14. & 18. 14. Or, Their hope ſhall be the giving up of the ghoſt; They ſhall ſee themſelves ſo quite of hope of any good, that they ſhall wiſh themſelves dead, Chap. 3. 21, 22. Jer. 15. 9. It is tranſlated, loſing of life, Chap. 3. 39. This latter interpretation is beſt, there being no note of ſimilitude in the Originall. For Hope ſee on Chap. 8. 13. For Ghoſt ſee on Chap. 14. 22. on Soul.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ. 1. AND Job] In the three following Chapters Job anſwers Zophar, and to take away that imputation of ignorance which his friends laid upon him, he ſhews Gods proceeding in governing the world, more excellently then they had declared it. For Jobs name and perſon, ſee on Chap. 1. 1.

anſwered and ſaid] See on Chap. 3. 2. & 4. 1. And on Chapter 16. 1.

V. 2. No doubt, but ye are the people, and wiſdome ſhall dye with you] Here Job ſets out that great opinion his friends had of their own wiſdom, and ſcoffes at it in an ironicall way. Though ye think ye only know the courſe of Gods providence, and cenſure me as boldly as if ye were of Gods privie Counſell; yet I ſhall ſhew you your errour and folly.

No doubt but] Or, Of a truth, as it is tranſlated, Chap. 9. 2. It is of the ſame root with Amen, and imports certainty. I know ye think ſo highly of your ſelves, and would have others to think ſo of you alſo.

ye are the people] He ſpeaks to all three; for they all agreed in condemning him. Ye conceive that ye are a wiſe people, and more excellent then others for knowledge, Deut. 4. 6. And others are but beaſts in compariſon of you. Ye think ye are a ſelect people. So, a man, is put for a good man, Jer. 5. 1. Or, ye imagine, that you three are as an whole Nation, and all the wit in the Nation, is in your heads.

and wiſdom ſhall die with you] Ye think that when you are dead, all the wiſdome in the world dies with you, none being left, that are able to inſtruct others. Thus Job ironically ſcoffes at his friends pride, who had laid him ſo low, and ſet up themſelves ſo high; and payes them with their own coyn, Chap. 11. 12.

V. 3. But I have underſtanding as well as you; I am not inferiour to you: yea who knoweth not ſuch things as theſe?] Though ye think ſo highly of your ſelves, and contemn others, yet I may come into the ballance with you for wiſdom, and claim as great a ſhare in it as you. Nay the vulgar ſort of people know theſe things as well as you.

But] Heb. Alſo. Ye need not appropriate all wiſdome to your ſelves: ye may take me alſo into your number. For Alſo ſee on Chap. 16. 4.

I have underſtanding] Heb. I have an heart, The heart is put for the underſtanding ſometimes, becauſe it is by many conceived to be the ſeat of underſtanding. But becauſe moſt think the brain to be the ſeat of knowledge, the heart may be taken here metaphorically, for the ſoul, as Pſal. 45. 1. & 49. 3. Prov. 4. 23. & 23. 26. And then by another figure of the whole for the part, the ſoul for the underſtanding faculty, which is a prime one, and the light of the whole ſoule. See on Chap. 9. 4. & 11. 12. See the word thus uſed, Chap. 34. 34. Jer. 5. 21. It is heart in the Original in both places, but tranſlated underſtanding, as here. Yet the heart is put ſometimes for courage, as 2 Sam. 17. 10. Jer. 48. 41. But that ſuits not well with the ſcope of this place. For Heart ſee on Chap. 15. 12.

as well as you] I underſtand the courſe of Gods providence, as much as you do. For that is the knowledge here ſpoken of.

I am not inferiour to you]. Heb. I fall not lower then you A metaphor from men conquered, who fall down before the conquerours. So the word is uſed, Neh. 6. 16. The enemies ſeeing how God dealt with his people, they fell in their own eyes. They thought more meanly of themſelves then they did before. So Eſth. 6. 13. I am not fallen from the knowledge of theſe things no more than you. See the ſame phraſe, Chap. 13. 2. But there is yet more in this phraſe. For Job did not mean, that he thought himſelf equall to them in the knowledge of Gods providence, whoſe errours herein he goes about to confute, but that he was beyond them in this point, and underſtood it better then they did, though in his modeſty he would not ſay ſo much of himſelf, as he might have done. A figure called Meioſis, and often uſed by godly men in Scripture; as 1 Cor. 7. 40. 2 Cor. 7. 10. & 11. 5, 21, 23. & 12. 11. with 1 Cor. 15. 10.

yea, who knoweth not ſuch things as theſe? Heb. and with whom are not ſuch as theſe? Ye think ye have a great treaſure of knowledge more then I, and yet, not I onely, but many meaner then I, yea, every common man underſtands Gods way, in his dealing with good and bad men, as well as (if not better then) your ſelves.

V. 4. I am as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon God, and he anſwereth him: the juſt upright man is laughed to ſcorn] As before he had objected to his friends too ſlight an opinion of him. For men think very meanly of them, whom they deride.

I am] Ye need go no further for an example to confute your opinion, that God alwayes upholdeth and countenanceth godly men: ye may ſee the contrary in me, whom God, not onely afflicts with heavy plagues, but alſo gives over to be derided by you.

as one mocked] Heb. a laughter, or, deriſion. Mocked in the higheſt degree, as one fit for nothing, but to be made a laughing-ſtock. There is no as in the Original, and no queſtion but Job meant it of himſelf, Chap. 16. 10. & 17. 2. & 21. 3. & 30. 1. Pſal. 35. 16. & 44. 13. For Laughter ſee on Chap. 29. 24.

of his neighbour] Before he ſpake in the firſt perſon; I am: Now in the third, of his neighbour. As not willing to fall foul upon his friends directly; but giving them an hint, under another perſon, how unkindly they dealt with him. The word ſignifies, as a neighbour dwelling near one, ſo a friend or companion brought up together with one at the ſame table. For it comes from a word that ſignifies to feed, as cattel feed together, Pſal. 35. 14. & 41. 9. Prov. 27. 10. This aggravates Job's miſery, for mocks and taunts from friends, from whom we expect countenance and comfort, are moſt bitter, and hardeſt to be digeſted.

who calleth upon God] Some underſtand it of the party mocked, or Job himſelf, who being wholly ſlighted by his friends, hath no refuge to flye to, but God, to right him; and perſwades himſelf that God will do it. But this agrees not with Chap. 9. 16. It is rather to be underſtood of the mocker, who was one that made a profeſſion of the true Religion, which is ſet out by that phraſe of calling upon God, Pſal. 79. 6. Jer. 10. 25. And it was a great addition to Jobs miſery, to be mocked not by Gentiles; but by ſuch as profeſſed the ſame true Religion with him. Or it may be meant, that the mocker was ſo bold, that he durſt pray to God to confirm his mocks, and to proſper him in his wicked courſe. For Call ſee on Chapter 13. 22.

and he anſwereth him] God anſwers him really, by making the mocker to proſper in his evill way, and ſo encouraging him to deride others. His meaning is, that he had heaven and earth againſt him, and his deriding friends were heard of God, when he could not be heard. For Anſwer ſee on Chap. 16. 1.

the juſt upright man is laughed to ſcorn] Job ſpeaks modeſtly of himſelf in the third perſon, as if he ſpake of another. So doth Paul, 2 Cor. 12. 2, 3, 5. A man that is truly juſt, and not ſeeming ſo onely, is ſubject to contempt and ſcorn.

V. 5. He that is ready to ſlippe with his feet, is as a lamp deſpiſed in the thought of him that is at eaſe] Here Job couches a ſecret reaſon, why hee was deſpiſed and mocked by his friends; to wit, becauſe he was brought to a low condition, which uſeth to be accompanied with contempt; and they were in a flouriſhing eſtate, which ordinarily carries pride along with it.

he that is ready] The word is fixed, or prepared. He that cannot chuſe but fall, and is near to deſtruction, Pſal.108.1.

to ſlip with his feet] To catch a fall, or to halt; as Pſal. 38. 17. Jer.20. 10. He that is brought ſo low by afflictions, that he is ready to periſh, Deut.32.35. Pſal.94.18. Jer.13.16. Pſal.73.18. So on the contrary, the firmneſſe of an eſtate, is ſet out by the unmoveableneſs of the foot, Pſa.121.3. There is a falling into ſin, ſet out by the ſlipping of the feet, Pſa.73.2. But that agrees not with the coherence of this place.

is as a lamp deſpiſed] He that is going down the wind in the world, is like a lamp that once made a fair ſhew, and was much eſteemed, while men might guide themſelves by the light of it; but when it is well nigh out, it begins to ſtink, is ſlighted and caſt away.

in the thought] Heb. to the thought. It is ſo repreſented to their mind by their corrupt judgement. It comes from a word that ſignifies clearneſſe, or brightneſſe, in the Original; becauſe as bright beams are ſhot forth by the Sun, ſo ſelf-pleaſing thoughts come from the mind. The word is uſed, Pſal.146.4. Dan. 6.3. Jon.1.6.

of him that is at eaſe] That is rich, and hath the world at will, and therefore is not ſenſible of the miſeries of other men. The word doth not ſignifie all ſitting ſtill, or being quiet, but ſuch eaſe as rich men take that need not labour, but can live upon their means without it: as if he had ſaid, Such an one as I, full of affliction, and near to deſtruction, am now deſpiſed like a lamp going out, and that by you my friends, who have the world at will, and live in eaſe, while I am in want, and full of pain. I had a ſhining time of proſperity, but now it is gone, and I am ſlighted by you.

V.6. The tabernacles of robbers proſper, and they that provoke God are ſecureſt, into whoſe hand God bringeth abundantly.] As it often goes ill with the godly; as ver. 5. contrary to what thou, O Zophar, haſt affirmed, Chap 11.17. ſo it often goes well with the ungodly, contrary to thy aſſertion, Chap.11.20. This Job proves by obſervation, or experience, ver. 5,6 by teſtimony of the creatures, ver. 7,8,9,10. Of the Senſes, and ancient men, ver. 11,12.

the Tabernacles] See on Chap 5.24. & 11. 14. By Tabernacles, is meant all they have, in, or about their dwellings, as their children, cattell, goods, and all their affaires.

of robbers] It comes from a word that ſignifies to lay waſte, as Robbers do where they come, and as the Chaldeans and Sabeans had done to Job, Chap.1. To which he may here allude. He means, ſuch as deal moſt unjuſtly with men; yet they thrive wonderfully in the world.

proſper] Or, Are quiet. They thrive by their ſtolne goods, and no body moleſts them, Chap.3.26. Pſal.30.6. For the proſperity of the wicked men, ſee Chap.21.7. Pſal.37. 1,35. & 73. 12. & 92.7. Jer. 12.1. Hab. 1.3,4. Mal.3.15.

and they that provoke God] The word הרגיז in the original, ſignifies, to move bodily, or ſhake: as Job 9.6. Iſa.23. 11. And ſecondarily, to move to paſſion, or diſtemper, or anger, which unſettles the mind of man, 2 King. 19. 28. it is called rage. God is not ſaid to be provoked by infirmities, or ordinary ſins; but by heinous ſins, or ſins done with an high hand, and with aggravating circumſtances, Pſal. 106. 7. Not only ſuch as offer violence to men (as in the beginning of the verſe) but alſo ſuch as ſin immediately againſt God, and that with an high hand, proſper.

are ſecure] Heb. Confidences are to them. They are not only quiet when others are in trouble; but alſo moſt confident of the continuance of their proſperity. The plural number notes out abundance of confidence; as of bleſſedneſſe, Pſal. 1. 1. Or the bleſſedneſſes of the man, &c. And, Wiſdomes, Prov. 1. 20. in the Original, notes out abundance of wiſdom. Or, It may be meant of ſtrong places, or ſtore of wealth, whereon a man builds confidence.

into whoſe hand] The number is changed to the ſingular, to ſhew, that God dealeth ſo not with ſome few, but with many particular wicked perſons; as by hand, is meant, power, or poſſeſſion; as Chap.1. 12. & 2.6. For Hand ſee on Chap. 15. 23.

God bringeth] Robbers get their goods unjuſtly; yet God is ſaid to bring them into their power, becauſe without his leave they could not meddle with them. See on Chap.1.21. Others read it, To whom God hath brought by his hand, Others, Becauſe God hath brought, &c. The firſt reading is the beſt.

abundantly] This word is added by the interpreters, in a diſtinct letter, to ſhew the right meaning of the text, that God doth not give ſparingly to them, as to ſome others; but much more than to many good men.

V.7. But ask now the beaſts, and they ſhall teach thee, and the fowls of the ayre, and they ſhall tell thee.] For the greater conviction of his friends, he brings his proofs from the loweſt creatures. You need not think you have taught me ſuch rare things, or ſend me to anceſtours to to learn (Chap.8. 8,9,10.) that which bruit beaſts can teach. I need not prove by Reaſon, or Scripture, what I ſay: I ſhall bring the beaſts for witneſſes againſt you.

But] Heb. And ſurely: See on Chap. 1. 11. & 2.5. There is no queſtion, but the beaſts may teach you ſo much.

ask] Enquire how things are carried among the bruit beaſts. For Ask ſee on Chap. 8 8. on Enquire.

now] Or, I pray thee: Do not think much to be informed by them. For Now ſee on Chap.4 7. on I pray thee.

the beaſts] It may ſignifie any kind of beaſts, wild or tame: but it is commonly put for wild beaſts, and the ſenſe is the more full; There is no beaſt ſo wild in the wilderneſſe, that never came near man to learn any thing of him, but can inform thee in this point. Becauſe men uſe not reaſon well, God to ſhame them doth often in Scripture ſend them to the beaſts to learn. Prov.6.6. Iſa. 1. 3.

and they] Heb. and it. That is, every one of them. None ſo vile, or bruitiſh, but can inform thee. The like phraſe of joyning a noun plurall, to a verb ſingular, is often found in the Original, in the ſame ſenſe; as Eccl.10. 1. Gen.49. verſ.22.

ſhall teach thee] If they could ſpeak they would inform thee in the truth of what is in controverſie between us. Or, Thou mayeſt, by enquirie into their carriage, learn the truth herein, for there is matter enough from thence to be had to ſhew thee. So the heavens teach, Pſal. 19. 1. It is true of Gods providence in general. But here it is to be applied to the buſineſſe in hand. Thou ſhalt ſee the great beaſts devoure the little ones, the hurtfull fowls deſtroy the harmleſſe, the great fiſhes eat the ſmaller: a lively type of Gods providence among men, ſuffering the bad to oppreſſe the good, Hab. 1. 13,14. For the word teach, ſee on Chap.6 24. & 8. 10.

and the fowles] The word includes all flying birds great and ſmall. Any of them can acquaint thee with this.

of the ayre] Heb. of the heaven. Not of the third heaven, wherein are the Angels; nor of the ſecond, wherein are the Stars; but of the firſt, And therein not of the upper or hot region of the air, wherein ſome place the Element of fire, nor of the middle region, wherein are the clouds; but of the lower Region of the air, wherein the birds uſe to flie, Chap.28. 21. Pſal.8.8. For Heaven ſee on Chap. 1. 16.

and they ſhall teach thee] They ſhall ſet it out plain before thee, ſo that thou mayeſt, as it were, ſee it with thine eyes. So the Hebrew word ſignifies. It comes of נגד. Before, or in ſight. They will make thee to underſtand it clearly and fully.

V.8. Or ſpeak to the earth, and it ſhall teach thee; and the fiſhes of the ſea ſhall declare unto thee.] He proceeds to bring other Witneſſes of the truth of what he ſaid; and that from the earth and ſea.

Or ſpeak to the earth] Others read it; Or ask the ſprig of the earth. Adding the word ask, out of the former verſe. The words may bear it, and it is a diſtinct teſtimony from the reſt, to demonſtrate the point in queſtion. As the great trees overthrow the ſmaller, and drop upon them, and keep the ſun-ſhine from them, and by reaſon of the greatneſſe of the roots, afford the leſſer ones no room to root in the earth, and ſuck away the moiſture of the earth from them, and by all theſe means kill them, and that by Gods diſpoſing; ſo God permits the wicked to oppreſſe good men in the earth. From the Hebrew word ארץ comes our Engliſh word Earth. It is uſed ſometimes for the whole body of the earth, as Gen. 1. 1. Sometimes for a land, as 2 Sam. 3.12. Sometimes for the inhabitants of the Earth, Pſal.67. 2. Or of ſome particular land, as Gen.41. 57. Sometimes for fields, or arable grounds, as Exod.23.10. Here in the firſt ſenſe. For Speak, or ſprig, or buſh, ſee on Chapter 9. 27. For Earth, on Chap.9. 24.

and it ſhall teach thee] See on ver.7.

and the fiſhes of the ſea] Theſe alſo, although more dumb than beaſts, making not ſo much as a ſound, yet may acquaint thee, that as great fiſhes devour ſmall, ſo tyrants oppreſſe good people. For Sea, ſee on Chap.14.11.

ſhall declare unto thee] The Hebrew word ſignifies to reckon up, or declare particularly: as 2 Sam. 24 10. Pſal. 26. 7. They are able to produce many ſuch particular examples of violence in the ſeas.

V.9. Who knoweth not in all theſe, that the hand of the Lord hath wrought this?] Now he comes to a concluſion out of the former premiſes, that it appears by all theſe teſtimones, that God brings forth all thoſe troubles of good men in the world, as well as thoſe among the beaſts.

who knoweth not] Who is ſo ſilly, as not to underſtand this courſe of Gods providence, which is held out ſo plainly in every mean creature? Becauſe Zophar, Chap. 11. 8. had with high words ſet out Gods providence by unſearchable things, and Job had ſaid, ver. 3. of this Chapter, that in this point controverted between them it was obvious to all, now he ſhews it by earthly creatures near at hand, and commonly ſeen by vulgar eyes. Ye need not ſeek it ſo far, that may be informed by thoſe violences, which God permits in other creatures, and ſee how he deals with men. This he doth to humble his friends, who were proud of their wiſdom, as if they could bring forth ſuch things as none elſe could.

in all theſe] That God ſhews the footſteps of his providence in all theſe creatures at ſea and land. Or, by all theſe. They are inſtruments to make it known. So ב is uſed twice in one verſe, Pſal. 33. 6.

that the hand of the Lord] His divine power, by which he works, as men do, with their hands, Chap. 10, 8. For Hand ſee on Chapter 15. 23.

hath wrought this] Ravening Fowls, and Beaſts, and Fiſhes, could not thus prey upon others; nor bad men on good, unleſſe God had an hand in it. For the phraſe, ſee 2 Sam. 14. 19. For wrought ſee on Chap. 14. 9. on Bring forth.

V. 10. In whoſe hand is the ſoul of every living thing, and the breath of all mankind] It muſt needs be, that God hath an over-ruling hand in all theſe confuſions in the world, for the life of all creatures is at his diſpoſing. He can take it away when he pleaſe, and ſo cauſe the ſtronger creatures to ceaſe from oppreſſing the weaker, and bad men from oppreſſing good.

In whoſe hand] In whoſe power or diſpoſing. See on Chap. 1. 12. & 2. 6. Gen. 16. 6. Dan. 5. 23.

is the ſoul] Or, life. The word נפש is put ſometime for the ſoul it ſelf; as Ezek. 18. 4. Sometime for the whole man; as Gen. 46. 26. Sometimes for life, the effect of the ſoul, for, it goes away from the body, when the ſoul departs, Gen. 9. 4, 5. Sometimes for a dead body, out of which the life is gone, Lev. 22. 4. Here it is taken for the life of a beaſt flowing from a ſenſible ſoul, Lev. 17. 10, 11. The life of a beaſt is in his blood. If that be let out, the beaſt dies. For Soul, ſee more on Chap. 14. 22.

of every living thing] Of every unreaſonable and ſenſible creature. For it is oppoſed to mans ſpirit in the end of the verſe, and the Jews do not attribute ſouls to trees, Pſal. 145. 16. It is ſometime reſtrained to man; as Gen. 3. 20. But it cannot be ſo here, for the reaſon before given.

and the breath] Sometimes it is put for the reaſonable and immortal ſoul in man, as Eccl. 12. 7. Sometimes for the breath, as Pſal. 146. 4. His breath being gone, life is gone withal. So it is taken here. For Breath, ſee on Chap. 15. 2. on Vaine.

of all mankind] Heb. of all fleſh of man. That is, of every man. Fleſh is taken ſometimes for man, as Iſa. 40. 6. All fleſh is graſſe, that is, all men are mortal. Sometimes for the ſubſtance of the body, as Gen. 17. 13. Lev. 19. 28. Heb. 12. 9. Sometimes for the original corruption of nature remaining in men, Gal. 5. 17. Here it is taken for the body of man. Though the word איש, be uſed ſometimes for an eminent man, and ſometimes for a male, as we have ſhewed on Chap. 1. 1. yet here it comprehends both men and women. So alſo Exod. 19. 13. & 21. 16. Chap. 15. 16. & 34. 11. As God can take away the life of every beaſt, ſo the life of every man, and ſo end all oppreſſion: and therefore he muſt needs have a hand in theſe diſorders by his providence. For Fleſh, ſee on Chap. 14. 22. For Man, ſee on Chap. 1. 1.

V. 11. Doth not the eare try words, and the mouth taſte his meat?] The intent of Job in theſe words is, that the truth of the thing in controverſie between him and his friends might eaſily be known, if men would but examine the things that were ſpoken on both ſides by himſelf, and by his friends. For there is as ſure a way to judge of truth and falſhood by the ear, as there is of judging of pleaſant and bitter things by taſte. See the like, Chap. 6. 30. & 34. 3.

Doth not] Spoken by way of admiration, and interrogation, as Chap. 6. 5. & 8. 10, 11. Certainly the ear can try words. A ſtrong aſſeveration.

the ear] The hearing faculty, yet not ſeparated from the judging faculty of the ſoul; but as an inſtrument of it. Hence comes a word in the Original, that ſignifies a pair of ballances. For they are like the head with one eare hanging on the one ſide, and another on the other. And the underſtanding judgeth of the truth of words by the two ears, as the beam determines the juſt weight of things by the two ſcales. For Ears, ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

Try] Throughly examine whether they be true or falſe, well proved or not, conſequent out of the grounds they are built upon or not. Thus Job wiſheth his grief to be weighed, or tryed, whether he had not juſt cauſe to complain heavily, Chap. 6. 2.

words] That is, ſpeeches, or ſentences, and that ſo exactly, that it calls every word of the ſentence to account. Words are the proper object of the ear, as colours of the eye.

and] This word is often tranſlated, as. See Chap. 5. 7. & 16. 21. and ſo it may here. And the meaning is, A man may give as true judgement of words by his ear, whether they be true or falſe, as of meats by his taſte, whether they be ſweet or ſoure.

the mouth] Heb. the palate. For it is thought to be the proper inſtrument of taſting, rather than the whole mouth.

taſtes his meat] Heb. taſtes meat for it ſelf. That is, as a man by his palate taſts of meat offered to him, and if it be good receives it: if not, refuſes it; ſo muſt I with your words, and you with mine, try them by the ear, and if they be found true, receive them; if not, reject them. And by this careful examination of reaſons on both ſides, we ſhall come to a true reſolution of what is in controverſie between us. For Taſte, ſee on Chap. 6. 6.

V. 12. With the ancient is wiſdom; and in length of dayes, underſtanding.] If the ſoul can by the ear judge of the truth of words, then doubtleſſe they may beſt know the truth of things, that have lived long, and had much time to weigh the things they have heard.

With the ancient] In the ancient. The Hebrews have three words to ſet out an old man; 1. זקן, a man of ſixty years old, and upward. 2. שב, a man of ſeventy and upward. 3. ישיש, a man of fourſcore years and upward. This is the word here uſed. It is derived from יש, To be. And Job hereby intimates, that they which live longeſt, and have the longeſt being here, have a fair opportunity to know truth beſt.

is wiſdom] The knowledge of Divine truths gathered out of long obſervation, and experience.

and in length of dayes] That is, in men that have lived long, and ſeen many dayes. For Dayes, ſee on Chap. 14. 14.

underſtanding] As they have gotten wiſdom by experience to know more than others, ſo likewiſe underſtanding to draw other things out of thoſe they have obſerved, and ſo may well know much more than the younger men. Job herein grants what Bildad had affirmed, Chap. 8. 8. &c. yet with a ſecret retortion upon his friends, ſome of whom might be ancienter then he, Chap. 15. 10. yet underſtood not what he ſpake concerning Gods providence. And therefore ſome read it by way of interrogation, Is wiſdom with the ancient, and underſtanding in the length of dayes? It ſhould be indeed, but it appears not in you. Ye have loſt much time, and want much underſtanding of Divine truths.

V. 13. With him is wiſdom and renſtgth, he hath counſel and underſtanding.] It may be old men may want underſtanding, but God doth not. And whereas old men decay in ſtrength, if they do increaſe in wiſdom, God is infinite in both.

With him] Not with the old man ſpoken of laſt, but with God, of whoſe providence all this diſpute is, and who is mentioned often before in this Chapter, verſ. 4. 6, 9. ſo that he needed not be named again, but his friends might eaſily perceive whom he meant.

is wiſdom and ſtrength] See on Chap. 9. 4. where both theſe are mentioned, and attributed to God, as here.

he hath] Heb. his is. Leſt any man ſhould think, becauſe he ſaid before, ver. 12. that wiſdom and underſtanding were in old men, and now in this verſe, that they are with God, that therefore there is no difference between Gods wiſdom and mans, now he tells them that it is properly his: Men borrow their wiſdom from him, and theirs is not worthy of the name of wiſdom, in compariſon of his: but God is infinitely wiſe of himſelf.

counſel and underſtanding] The words may be taken promiſcuouſly, to ſhew the abundance of wiſdom that is in God. Yet ſome diſtinguiſh them thus; God hath underſtanding to find out all ſecrets and counſel, to know fit means to bring all his purpoſes to paſſe, and wiſdom to order the means for attaining thoſe ends, and ſtrength to carry them on to execute all his will.

V. 14. Behold he breaketh down, and it cannot be built again: he ſhutteth up a man, and there can be no opening] Now he proceeds to ſhew the great wiſdom and power of God, mentioned in the former verſe, and that unto the end of the Chapter. He not onely ſhews Gods wiſdom and power to be great, but alſo greater than the wiſdom and power of all the creatures, in that what he doth, none can undo; and what he undoes, none can repair. And becauſe men are very blockiſh in the things of God, he gives many high demonſtrations of Gods Wiſdom and Power to convince thoſe that ſlight the courſe of Gods ordinary providence.

Behold] Or, If. See on Chap. 9. 12. & 11. 10.

he breaketh down] He deſtroyes Cities, Caſtles, Houſes, Provinces, as in the flood, and deſtruction of Sodome, and of the Tower of Babel. It may be underſtood alſo of deſtruction of Families, which are compared to buildings, Exod. 1. 21. Thus God had broken down Jobs Family, by deſtroying his children, which are in the Hebrew phraſe, builders of the houſe, Gen. 16. 2. & 30. 3. Ruth 4. 10, 11.

and it cannot be built again] It cannot be repaired. But this is to be underſtood of thoſe things that God purpoſeth utterly to deſtroy; for Houſes and Churches deſtroyed by thunder and lightning, have been built again. For Build, ſee on Chap. 20. 19.

he ſhutteth up a man] Heb. upon a man. As if he were in a pit, and had a great ſtone rolled on the mouth of it; that he might not get out, as was on Chriſts grave, Matth. 27. 66. It ſignifies ſhutting up into priſon, or into ſome dangerous diſeaſe, as Gen. 20. 17, 18. or putting into bands; for the contrary word in the end of the verſe ſignifies looſing, as well as opening; as ver. 18.

and there can be no opening] Unleſſe he pleaſe. See the like phraſe, Iſa. 22. 22. Rev. 3. 7. For Open, ſee on Chap. 11. 5.

V. 15. Behold he withholdeth the waters, and they dry up: alſo he ſendeth them out, and they overturn the earth.] Gods great power, which he had ſet out before by his over-ruling men in civil affaires, now he ſets out by his powerful diſpoſing of natural things, not as men would have them, but as he pleaſe.

Behold] Or, If, as ver. 14. & Chap. 9. 12. & 11. 10.

he withholdeth] Sometimes עצר ſignifieth keeping back a thing by force, hindering or ſhutting it up; as 2 Chr. 13. 20. Sometimes reſtraining it by command, as Lawes reſtrain men from many enormities. So it imports rule, 1 Sam. 9. 17. Sometimes to ſtop the courſe of a thing by prayer, as 2 Sam. 24. 21. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe. So God by his power reſtrains the waters.

the waters] Some underſtand it of keeping the rivers within their bounds, but that though it may hinder them from hurting the earth, yet it makes them not to dry up. Others, and more rightly, interpret it of rain water, which God withholds when he keeps it in the clouds, and will not let it fall down to water the earth. See an example, 1 King 17. 1. &c. Gen. 8. 2. For Water, ſee on Chap. 14. 9.

and they dry up] Some underſtand it of the waters themſelves, as Gen. 8. 2, Nah. 1. 4. Zach. 10. 11. Others, of the trees and herbs, which decay for want of water. Such things as live by moiſture, muſt needs dry up, if rain fail, 1 King. 18. 5. Jer. 12. 4. Joel 1. 18. It may be underſtood the firſt way. And then it doth the better illuſtrate, and more fully ſet forth the great power of God. He can keep the rain back ſo long, till the very rivers be dry. So it anſwers to the oppoſition, They overturn the earth. And the ſecond muſt needs follow upon it: If rivers be dry, herbs and plants will decay. The word יבש ſignifies, 1. To be dried up, Joel 1. 20. 2. To be aſhamed, Hoſ. 10. 6. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

alſo he ſendeth them out] It is uſed ſometimes for ſending a meſſenger with ſome errand, or command, to do ſomething. As Joſeph ſent his brethren to fetch his father, Gen. 45. 24. So God gives the waters a commiſſion to overflow the earth, Pſal. 147. 18. But the word hath a further emphaſis, and ſignifies a giving liberty to the waters, that before were, as it were, impriſoned in the clouds, to break through them, and fall upon the earth. So Noah ſent the Dove out of the Ark, Gen. 8. 12. The Heb. word שלח is uſed. 1. For ſending a meſſenger, Gen. 19. 13. 2. For putting away a wife by divorce, Deut. 24. 1. 3. For trees putting forth branches, Pſal. 80. 11. or roots, Jer. 17. 8. 4. For letting the hair grow long, Ezek. 44. 20. 5. For ſetting a place on fire, Hoſ. 8. 14. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe. God ſends the waters out as his meſſengers to overturn the earth. For Earth, ſee on Chap. 9. 24.

and they overturn the earth] They do change the face of the earth; for the word ſignifies turning, as well as overturning. See Levit. 13. 3. The earth was dry, firm, green before; now, after a deluge, it is moiſt, ſoft, ill coloured. Or, they overturn houſes and cities, and trees that are on the earth. See on ver. 8. See an example in the flood, Gen. 7. 11. &c.

V. 16. With him is ſtrength and wiſdom: the deceived and the deceiver are his] Job repeats what he had ſaid before, verſ. 13. of Gods wiſdom and power, though in other words in the Original, and in another order. This he doth, becauſe he had other things to ſpeak of Gods wiſdom and power, and intended to ſet them forth, by his ordering mens manners, both good and bad. A thing that might ſeem ſtrange to his friends. And therefore Job, by way of exclamation, cries out the ſecond time, that power and wiſdom is with God, to ſhew how much he was affected with it himſelf, and how earneſtly he deſired his friends might be more affected with it.

with him] See on ver. 13.

is ſtrength and wiſdom] Some think the ſame things to be intended, that were ſet out by other words in the Original, verſ. 13. Others conceive ſome difference between them: and think that עז, ſignifies Gods prevailing power, that cannot be reſiſted. גבורה: Gods eſtabliſhing power, whereby he upholds all things. חכמה: Gods wiſdom, in decreeing things. תושיה: in execution. For the laſt word, ſee on Chap. 5. 12. & 6. 13. Strength and wiſdom are both joyned together, to ſhew, that God can do whatſoever he will. For ſome things men can do by ſtrength: others, that cannot be effected by force are comprehended by policy. God hath both theſe, and therefore can do any thing. For Wiſdom, ſee on Chap. 26. 3. on The thing as it is.

the deceived and the deceiver are his] He doth not mean, that they are both Gods by creation: that ſuits not with his ſcope. But they are both ſubject to his authority. He could by his wiſdom and power, if he pleaſed, keep the one from deceiving, and the other from being deceived, and that both in religious and civil affairs. And therefore he doth as it were, countenance them, in that he doth not hinder them when he may. This ſuits with that, which Job went about to prove. See on ver. 7.

V. 17. He leadeth counſellours away ſpoiled, and maketh the Judges fools] He had before ſhewed how God over-rules men in things civil and moral; now he intimates, how God over-rules in things political, and ordering Kingdoms and Common-weaths, wherein are many confuſions, and he inſtances in Counſellours and Judges, and Kings, the chief pillars of a State; and all to ſhew, what he undertook before to prove againſt his friends, that wicked men do often thrive, when good men are kept low. And that appears, becauſe all along, from the fourteenth verſe to the end, all his inſtances are of ruining men and States, but none at all of bleſſing them.

He leadeth away] Heb. He maketh to walk.

counſellours] Wiſe men that give advice in publick affairs, to Kings or Rulers, as being beſt able to order things preſent, and prevent miſchiefs to come. That ſit at the ſtern of the State to guide it.

Spoiled] Of their wiſdom, ſo that they give bad counſel, to the ruine of themſelves and others. Or, ſpoiled of the honour and wealth they have gotten. For ſuch eminent men are uſually rich. See verſ. 19. God defeats their counſels, and leads them away, like captives, in triumph, having deprived them of wit, wealth, and honour, 2 Sam. 15. 31. & 17. 14, 23. Iſai. 19. 11. 1 Cor. 1. 19.

and maketh the Judges] Judges differ from Counſellours, for they ſit in judgement, to determine cauſes between man and man, according to the law. Theſe ſhould be wiſe to do right, but God often makes them fools, and then they do much wrong.

fools] Or, mad as Eccl. 7. 7. Iſai. 44. 25. God will deprive them of underſtanding, or ſo go beyond them, that he will croſſe all their ſentences.

V. 18. He looſeth the bond of Kings, and girdeth their loyns with a girdle] Now he goes higher, and ſhews that God, not onely over-rules Counſellours and Judges, but alſo diſpoſeth as he pleaſeth of the ſupremeſt Magiſtrates, as Kings and Emperours. Three things uphold their greatneſſe, the wiſdom of their Counſellours, authority of their Judges, and the majeſty of their own perſons. All theſe God can pull down. So much is intimated in the former verſe, and this.

He looſeth] Heb. openeth. For bonds are tied with knots, or buckles, which when they are opened or untied, the bond is looſe, and falls off. It will hold the things, or perſons bound no longer.

the bond of Kings] The Chaldee Paraphraſt takes it for chains. As if the meaning were, God takes them out of priſon, and ſets them on the throne, 2 King. 25. 27. Others underſtand it of thoſe, whom Kings have impriſoned; God ſets them at liberty, and brings the Kings, their impriſoners, into their room. Others, of taking them away by ſome great judgements, whereby their ſubjects are ſet at liberty from the yoke of obedience. But it is rather to be underſtood of Gods taking away that honour and authority they had in the hearts of their ſubjects, whereby their people are kept in obedience: which being looſed by God, people ſhake off all obedience to their Rulers. And indeed, it is a wonder that ſo many men of ſo many different minds, ſtates and degrees, ſhould ſubmit to the government of one man. And on the contrary, that being once brought under, and kingly authority ſettled, and upheld by wiſe Counſellours and prudent Judges, the people ſhould dare to caſt it off. But both are of God, who ties the bond as faſt as he pleaſe, and looſeth it when he pleaſe, Pſal. 2. 3. Dan. 2. 21. 1 Sam. 2. 4. Pſal. 18. 33, 40. Chap. 30. 11. Iſai. 45. 1. 5.

and girdeth their loyns with a girdle] Some underſtand it of giving authority and power, and ſtrength to Kings, which is ſet out ſometimes, in Scripture, by this ſimilitude of a girdle, as Iſai. 11. 5. Jer. 13. 1, 7. So ſouldiers going to battel, to uſe their ſtrength, have their loins girt, Eph. 6. 14. But this cannot well agree with Jobs ſcope, for he ſets out Gods judgements upon great ones to bring them down, not his mercy to eſtabliſh them. Others, therefore take it, of bringing Kings into a ſervile condition, that they which were attended by great ones before, now ſhould wait upon others. For ſervants are girt as well as ſouldiers, that they may be ready for their work or attendance. So the Perſian Kings gave girdles to thoſe they had conquered, and made them attend upon them, Luk. 12. 37. & 17. 7, 8. Joh. 13. 4. 1 Pet. 1. 13. Laſtly, others bring it yet lower; God brings Kings from the throne to the priſon, to be bound with chains as with a girdle. So the word אסר girding, or binding is uſed, Pſal. 118. 27. & 105. 22. Hoſ. 10. 10. Joh. 21. 18. 2 King. 25. 7. This is laying affliction upon mens loines, Pſal. 66. 11. And this agrees beſt with Jobs ſcope, mentioned before. The word אסר ſignifies. 1. To bind, or tie, 1 Sam. 6. 7. 2. To bind from a thing, Numb. 11. 38. 3. To bind to a duty or oblige, Num. 30. 2. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

V. 19. He leadeth Princes away ſpoiled, and overthroweth the mighty] Having ſhewed Gods judgements on Kings, he now comes to ſhew it on Princes, and men of great eſtates, who are next to them.

He leadeth away] See on ver. 17.

Princes] The word כהן moſt commonly ſignifies Prieſts, in Scripture: but it is uſed alſo for Princes, and ſuch as are about Kings, and next in honour to them, as 2 Sam. 8. 18. with 1 Chr. 18. 17. 2 Sam. 20. 26. and Joſephs father in law, Gen. 41. 45. and Moſes his father in law, Exod. 2. 16. are thought to be temporal rulers of thoſe places, for it is not likely, that they would marry the daughters of idolatrous Prieſts. The word came thus to be uſed in both ſenſes, becauſe the ſame perſons at firſt, were both Prieſts and Rulers, as the firſt-borne before the law. Moſes under the law, Pſal. 99. 6. Eli and Samuel. And the Prieſts were then attending upon God, as Princes attend upon Kings. But here it is uſed for Princes, becauſe it is moſt likely, that Job lived before the prieſthood was ſetled in Aarons family, and therefore he offers ſacrifice for his children, Chap. 1. and is commanded by God to do it for his friends, Chap. 42. Whereas Saul, after the Prieſthood eſtabliſhed, loſt his Kingdom for ſuch an act, 1 Sam. 13. 13, 14. Of Jobs time, ſee on Chap. 1. 1.

Spoiled] See on ver. 17.

and overthroweth] This word imports an utter deſtruction, as of a tree that is plucked up by the roots, Prov. 21. 12. & 22, 12.

the mighty] Such as are potent men in a Kingdom, and ſtrongly ſeated as it were on a rock, and think none can remove them, Num. 24. 21. But think they can carry all before them, like the ſtream of mighty rivers, and none can withſtand them, Amos 5. 24. He may mean, either ſuch as are mighty in a State, or ſtrong Warriours. The word איתן ſignifies 1. Strong, Num. 24. 21. 2. Strength, Exod. 14. 27. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

V. 20. He removeth away the ſpeech of the truſty, and taketh away the underſtanding of the aged] Skilful Oratours, and ancient wiſe men, are a great ſtay to Kingdoms, if publickly imployed: and if not, yet ſuch men think they can ſave themſelves and their families in troublous times. But God can pull them down alſo.

He removeth away] The word properly ſignifieth to take a thing out of its place, and ſo by conſequence, taking a thing quite away: for things removed, are not to be found where they were.

the ſpeech] The lip. Becauſe the lip is the inſtrument of ſpeaking. See Chap. 2. 10. So one language, is called one lip, Gen. 11. 1. Hereby is meant, not making them dumb, but taking away that extraordinary faculty they have of ſpeaking underſtandingly, or eloquently. For Lip, ſee on Chap. 15. 6.

of the truſty] The word נאמן is by ſome tranſlated eloquent, from נאם, to ſpeak. And ſuch men are of great uſe in a State. By others, ſuch as ſpeak truly. For ſuch will rightly inform in publick affairs. By others, the confident. For they that ſpeak truly and elegantly, as they are of great uſe in the publick, ſo they may well be confident in what they adviſe, and look to be believed. Such was Achitophels counſel, 2 Sam. 16. 23. By others, the truſty: as in our tranſlation; for ſuch men are moſt worthy to be truſted, both by Governours and people, in places of greateſt conſequence, who can ſpeak well, and will ſpeak truly and confidently, as becomes Oratours, Lawyers, Embaſſadours. And in theſe three laſt ſenſes, the word is taken from אמן: which, in ſome Conjugations, ſignifies to be true of ſpeech, faithful, confident. Such God can take away, or take thoſe qualities from them, Iſai. 3. 3. The word is tranſlated faithful, Prov. 25. 13.

and taketh away] Heb. taketh. For it is his. He giveth, and he taketh, Job 1. 21. And becauſe the Hebrews have no compounds, it ſignifieth alſo to take away: as 1 King. 19. 14. Hoſ. 4. 11. An expoſition of the former word, removing. For Taketh, ſee on Carryeth, Chap. 15. 12.

the underſtanding] Heb. the ſenſe, or, ſavour, or, taſte. As it is tranſlated, ver. 11. And Pſal. 34. 8. And by a metaphor, it is tranſlated to the mind, and uſed for the underſtanding, whereby a man knows what is true or falſe, as by the palate, what is ſweet or ſour. Thus it is uſed, Pſal. 119. 66. Prov. 11. 22. & 31. 18. 1 Sam. 21. 13. Pſal. 34. in the title. For Underſtanding, ſee on Chap. 6. 6. on Taſte.

of the aged] It ſignifies often men aged in years, and becauſe ſuch have, or ſhould have moſt underſtanding (as ver. 12. Chap. 32. 9.) it is ſometimes uſed for men of great underſtanding, although not old in years: and ſo it is tranſlated Senatours, Pſal. 105. 22. Theſe alſo God can take away, and doth, when he intends to ruine a Kingdom; as Iſa. 3. 2, 3, 4. The word זקן ſignifies. 1. An old man, Gen. 25. 8. 2. A Ruler, 2 King. 10. 1. For age brings experience, and makes men fit to rule others. And the words anſwerable in Greek and Latin ſignifie both theſe. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

V. 21. He putteth contempt upon Princes, and weakneth the ſtrength of the mighty.] He goes on to give us more ſigns of Gods ruining Kingdoms, by taking away honour from Princes, and ſtrength from mighty men, which were their peculiar ornaments, and whereby they do moſt further the publick good.

He poureth] The beginning of this verſe with the end of the 24. verſe, make up one compleat verſe, Pſal. 107. 40. which makes ſome think, that Job took it out of David, and ſo was of later time then he. But why might not David take it out of Job? And the rather, becauſe he puts them together, that are ſcattered in Job. Or, Why might not the Spirit of God uſe the ſame words by divers men, though they ſaw not one another write? The word pouring, argues abundance; as Iſa. 44. 3. Zech. 12. 10. Act. 2. 17. God will lay abundance of ſhame and ſcorn upon them.

contempt] Makes them to be deſpiſed, that were highly honoured before. So the word is uſed, ver. 5. Chap. 31. 34.

upon Princes] The word נדיב ſignifies ſuch as are free and bountiful, and ſo are in great eſteem among the people, like Princes, although they have no authority over them. No marvel, if mean men, that cannot do good to others; or great men, that will not, be contemned. But it is a wonder that men great and bountiful ſhould be deſpiſed, and it is a fore-runner of the deſtruction of a Kingdom. For the word, ſee Exod. 35. 5. Pſal. 83. 11. Prov. 19. 6. Luke 22. 25. For the thing it ſelf, ſee Dan. 2. 21. Men are not ſo high and honourable, but God can make them as low and contemptible.

and weakneth] Maketh them remiſſe, or looſe, Jer. 38. 4.

the ſtrength] Heb. מזיח the girdle. Men girt, are more ready to fight, then men ungirt, and much of mens ſtrength lies in their loines; and therefore girding the loines, is taken for exerciſing ſtrength; and ungirding, or looſing them, for inability, and weakneſſe, Dan. 5. 6. In thoſe Eaſtern Countries where their garments were long, they uſed to gird them, when they went to put out their ſtrength in labour or battel, 1 King. 20. 11. For the word, ſee Pſal. 109. 19. Iſa. 23. 10.

of the mighty] Valiant ſouldiers, and men fit for War, which are very needful to uphold a Kingdom. And when ſuch are weakned, a Kingdom is ſoon over-run by enemies. The word ſignifies rivers and torrents, which run with a mighty force, and bear down all before them. So do ſouldiers in war. See 2 Sam. 22. 16. Pſal. 42. 1. Job. 6. 15.

V. 22. He diſcovereth deep things out of darkneſſe, and bringeth out to light the ſhadow of death.] Having formerly given great demonſtrations of Gods power, now he ſets out his infinite wiſdom by many ſtrange effects of it.

He diſcovereth] The word ſignifies, to unfold a thing, and lay it open to the ſight of men, which was hid from them before; and that by bringing it out of darkneſſe.

deep things] Hidden things, that are as far from mens underſtanding and knowledge, as things deep buried in the earth, are from mens eyes. It may be underſtood of prophecies of times to come, conſpiracies againſt Princes; but eſpecially of the privy counſels, and deep reaches of Kings to maintain their authority, which God often by his wiſdom brings to light. For Job goes on in ſetting out the ruine of Kingdoms.

out of darkneſſe] Deep things lie in dark holes unſeen of men: ſo do counſels of great men; but God can bring them forth to the light; as follows in this verſe.

and bringeth out to light] This ſhews the manner of revealing them, namely by taking them out of their dark holes, and ſetting them in the light for all men to ſee. For Light, ſee on Chap. 17. 11.

the ſhadow of death] Thoſe things that are as it were buried in the grave, and hid in eternal darkneſſe, which no man hoped or expected ever to have ſeen brought to light in this world. For ſuch ſtrange diſcoveries, ſee Chap. 28. 3. & 34. 22. 2 King. 6. 11, 12. Mat. 10. 26. Dan. 2. 22. 1 Cor. 2. 10. & 4. 5. For the phraſes of deep things, darkneſſe, and ſhadow of death, ſee Chap. 3. 5. & 10. 22. Prov. 9. 18. Rev. 2. 24. Pſal. 107. 10, 14.

V. 23. He increaſeth the nations, and deſtroyeth them: he enlargeth the nations, and ſtraitneth them again] God not onely ruines great and wiſe men, but alſo whole Nations, when he pleaſeth.

He increaſeth] God increaſeth Nations in number of people; as he did before, and after the flood; and in the land of Canaan, Pſal. 107. 38. Alſo in wealth, as he promiſeth to deal with his obedient people, Deut. 28. 5, 6. &c. Laſtly, in honour and reputation, Deut. 28. 12, 13.

the nations] The word גוים is ſometimes uſed for the Gentiles, and idolatrous people; as Pſal. 2. 1. & 79. 1. But here it may be taken for any, whom God doth multiply, be they good or bad.

and deſtroyeth them] Or, that he may deſtroy them. So this particle is uſed, Chap. 13. 13. For Jobs intention is to make good, what he undertook before, that afflictions may light on good men, as well as bad. This God doth ſometimes ſecretly as a moth, and ſometimes openly, as a lyon, Hoſ. 5. 12, 14. It may be underſtood of increaſing one Nation to deſtroy another, as the Iſraelites to ruine the Canaanites. But it is better to underſtand it of the ſame Nations raiſed by God, that they may have the greater fall, Exod. 9. 16.

he enlargeth the Nations] As they do increaſe in number, ſo he doth inlarge their borders, and ſpreads them abroad upon the face of the earth, that all may live, and not one be a burden to another. So he did after the flood, Gen. 10.

and ſtraitneth them again] Heb. leadeth them. Now becauſe the Hebrews have no compounds, it may ſignifie leading in, or leading back; as the ſhepherd in the morning leads his ſheep out into a large paſture, and at night brings them into a narrow pinfold. So God after that he hath inlarged a people in the day of their proſperity, brings them to ſtraits in a night of adverſity. And it may be read, That he may ſtraiten them again; as before in this verſe. The word וינחם ſignifies. 1. To lead, Pſal. 8. 2. To put, or place, 2 King. 18. 11. Here it is uſed in the firſt ſenſe.

V. 24. He taketh away the heart of the chief of the people of the earth, and cauſeth them to wander in a wilderneſſe, where there is no way.] Job now in the concluſion of this Chapter, ſets down the way, how God doth ruine Nations, by fruſtrating the counſels of the Governours, whereby both themſelves, and the people under them, come to deſtruction.

he taketh] Heb. he removeth. See on ver. 20.

the heart] The underſtanding, ſo that the cannot give good counſel for the preſervation of the State. See on ver. 3. and ver. 17. For Heart, ſee on Chap. 15. 12.

of the chief] Heb. of the heads. Men ſet over others to guide, and direct them, as the head doth all the members of the body; as Exod. 6. 14. Num. 1. 16. Deut. 1. 13. Judg. 11. 8. &c. For Head, ſee on Chap. 19. 9. and 20. 16. on Poiſon.

of the people of the earth.] Of the common people, who are to be guided by their heads and rulers. For Earth, ſee on Chap. 9. 24.

and cauſeth them to wander] See Pſal. 107. 4, 40. Gen. 20. 13. Makes them for want of underſtanding to give fooliſh counſel, to miſlead themſelves and others. See ver. 16. Pſal. 119. 176. Iſa. 63. 17.

in a wilderneſſe] Or, into a wilderneſſe. The word ſignifies ſuch a confuſed eſtate, that they know not which way to turn. Like to the dark Chaos, where no light was, Gen. 1. 2.

where there is no way] Not into a place, where many wayes are, and it is hard to deſcry the right, but into ſuch a wilderneſſe, where there are no ſteps of any way at all to be ſeen, which is much worſe. To a place, where there is no path directing to any houſe, or town, or place of ſafety. So theſe rulers are ſo puzzled with ſtrange events, beyond expectation, threatning ruine to them, and their people, that they are as it were in a wilderneſſe, not knowing which way to expedite themſelves or theirs. For Way, ſee on Chap. 17. 9.

V. 25. They grope in the dark without light, and he maketh them to ſtagger like a drunken man.] The inability of theſe heads of the people, to extricate themſelves, or theirs out of trouble, is ſet out further by two ſimilitudes; one, of a man groping in the dark for want of light; another, of a drunken man ſtaggering for the lightneſſe of his head.

they grope in the dark] Men that cannot ſee their way muſt feel for it. So muſt blinde men at noon dayes, Job 5. 14. Gen. 19. 11. and ſeeing men in the dark night, Iſa. 59. 10.

without light] Where there is not the leaſt beam, or ſpark, of light to direct them. The doubling the thing in other words encreaſeth it, Amos 5. 18. Joh. 1. 3, 20. Iſa. 38. 1. The meaning is, that theſe Rulers try for wayes to help themſelves and their people out of miſery, but can find none at all.

and he maketh them to ſtagger] Heb. to erre, or to wander; as ver. 24.

like a drunken man] As he is uncertain in his pace, leaning firſt to this ſide, then to that, ſo are they. Firſt they try one way, and then another, but none will releaſe them. Their heart is intoxicated with folly, as the drunkards with wine, ſo that they know not what they do. See Iſa. 19. 14. & 24. 20. Pſal. 107. 27.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ. 1. L*Oe, mine eye hath ſeen all this, mine ear hath heard and underſtood it.*] What Job had formerly declared in the Chapter before, now he confirms by the teſtimony of two principal ſenſes moſt uſed in getting of knowledge; to wit, Seeing and Hearing.

Loe] O, Behold. A word uſually put before great matters in Scripture, to procure attendance to them. See Chap. 1. ver. 12.

mine eye hath ſeen all this] The eye is the inſtrument of Seeing, and the Soul receives much light by the Eye. It obſerves many things in the World, which the Eye preſents unto it. So had Job, by his own obſervation, collected what he ſpake before of good and bad mens outward condition in the world. He begins with the Eye, as the ſurer ſenſe. We ſay, one Eye-witneſſe is better then ten Ear-witneſſes; and ſo is his teſtimony in legal trials. Job therefore goes a ſure way, that ſpeaks what he ſaw. For this kind of proof, and the certainty of it, ſee 1 Joh. 1. 1, 3. Act. 1. 21, 22. & 10. 39, 40, 11. For the phraſe, ſee Job 7. 7, 8. & 10. 18. For Eye, ſee on Chap. 2. 12. For Seen, look on Chap. 19. 27. on Behold.

mine ear hath heard] Leſt his friends ſhould think it was but his own fancy, he calls in others to bear witneſſe with him. He had heard as much from godly and wiſe men, who had obſerved the ſame as well as he, Chap. 12. 11, 12. Chap. 8. ver. 8. For Ear, ſee on Chap. 15. 21. For Heard, ſee on Chap. 15. 17.

and underſtood it.] This he addes, to take away that which his friends might object. If they ſhould ſay, you heard, it may be, wiſe mens words, but miſunderſtood them. Nay, ſaith he, I underſtood them well, and rightly. All this is to ſhew, that he was fully aſſured of the truth of what he had delivered, though his friends contradicted it.

V. 2. What ye know, the ſame do I know alſo: I am not inferiour unto you.] Job doth not in theſe words confirm the truth of all his friends had ſaid before; but rather intimates, that whereas they thought themſelves more skilful in the courſe of Gods providence then he, and able to inſtruct him therein, he knew as much in that way, as they; nay more. See on Chap. 12. 3.

What ye know, the ſame do I know alſo. Or, rather thus, I alſo know as much as you. The Hebrew words are, According to your knowledge I alſo know.

I am not inferiour unto you.] See on Chap. 12. 3. where theſe very words are, and are in the Notes expounded. It ſeems by Jobs repeating them ſo ſoon, that his friends had a very high opinion of their own knowledge, and a very low one of Jobs.

V. 3. Surely, I would ſpeak to the Almighty, and I deſire to reaſon with God.] In this verſe Job ſhews himſelf weary of reaſoning with his friends, and that he had rather deal with God then with them, and ſo joyns with Zophar in his wiſh, Chap. 11. 5.

Surely] A word of aſſurance. I do earneſtly and ſeriouſly deſire it, Chap. 12. 7. & 1. 11.

I would ſpeak] I would plead with God in a judiciary way. So the word ſpeaking, is uſed, Pſal. 51. 4. for ſpeaking in judgement, as it is there expounded.

to the Almighty] For this name of God, ſee Chap. 5. 17. & 6. 4, 14. & 8. 3, 5. & 11. 7. Some underſtand it of pleading before God, as a Judge between him, and his friends, becauſe they would excuſe Job as much as they could. But it appears by many Arguments, that Job intended to plead with God, as with a party that had dealt too hardly with him, and countenanced his friends againſt him. For 1. He deſires not to ſpeak to his friends in Gods preſence, but to the Almighty. 2. He deſires to ſpeak by way of reaſoning with God himſelf; not with them before God. 3. His plea afterwards proves it. It is a maintaining of his own cauſe, ver. 15. And he pleads directly with God; not with his friends before God, verſes 21, 22, 23, 24.

and I deſire] It is a thing I much wiſh for, and would take great pleaſure in, becauſe I know I could clear mine own innocency, and ſhew my ſelf to be no hypocrite, as ye take me to be, and as God ſeems to do by his ſo rough handling of me, ver. 23, 24. So the word is tranſlated, Delight, Num. 14. 8. Pſal. 40. 8. For Deſire, ſee on 9. 3. on Will, and on Chap. 22. 3. on Pleaſure.

to reaſon with] To plead my cauſe, by bringing reaſons to cleer my innocency, and anſwering objections made by God againſt it, as the manner of diſputing is. I would God would leave beating me, and would diſpute the cauſe with me. This boldneſſe is that, which both Elihu and God blame Job for in the end of the book, though neither of them condemn him for an hypocrite: and that ſhews, that Job did ſpeak amiſſe of God in his paſſion, and is not altogether to be excuſed, much leſſe in every thing to be commended. For Reaſon, ſee on Chap. 15. 3.

God] For this name of God, ſee Chap. 5. 8. & 8. 5, 13, 20. & 9. 2. & 12. 6.

V. 4. But ye are forgers of lyes, ye are all Phyſicians of no value.] In this verſe Job ſhews that his friends came with a purpoſe to comfort him in his miſeries, as Phyſicians come to heal ſick people; but they did him no good, becauſe they judged amiſſe of his diſeaſe, and uſed Corraſives inſtead of Cordials.

But] This word argues an oppoſition, either between himſelf and his friends, as if he ſpake the truth, but they uttered lyes; or elſe between God, and his friends, attributing truth to God, and falſhood to his friends. It may be tranſlated For; as Chap. 11. 4. And then it includes a reaſon, why Job will reaſon no more with his friends, but rather with God, becauſe God though he be angry, yet will hear and ſpeak truth, and will be appeaſed: but his friends would not. In the Hebrew it is, But ſurely. The ſame word that is uſed in the beginning of the 3. verſe, and is omitted alſo Chap. 12. 7. See on Chap. 1. 11.

ye are] It appears here, as alſo ver. 2. that Job ſpeaks not to Zophar alone, who ſpake laſt, but to all his three friends, who had now all ſpoken againſt him: and therefore he might well take liberty to confute other mens ſpeeches as well as Zophars, eſpecially ſuch things as he had not anſwered before.

forgers] So it is tranſlated, but the word טפל, never ſignifies ſo, but חרש, is uſed for to invent lyes, as a workman frames a building. The word is uſed but twice more in Scripture, and it ſignifies ſowing, whereby one piece of cloth is ſowed to another; as Chap. 14. 17. Some take it as an accuſation of his friends, that they had as it were ſowed one lye to another to diſgrace him, that is, had multiplyed many lyes againſt him. But it rather intimates faſtning lyes upon God or him, as one piece of cloth is faſtned upon another: As it ſhould be tranſlated, Pſal. 119. 69. The proud have ſowed, or, faſtned a lye upon me. He accuſes his friends that they did go about to wrong God and him, by ſpeaking falſly of both.

of lyes] Heb. of a lye. For the word hath a plural in the Original. And ſo it is tranſlated ſingularly, Pſal. 119. 69. And as it is likely David did intend ſome ſingular ſlander of him there, ſo Job here intends that main accuſation of him, whereby they accuſed him for an hypocrite, becauſe they could not ſee how God ſhould be juſt elſe, that dealt more ſeverely with him, then ever he did with any that feared him, and ſo by one falſe opinion wronged both God and Job. This God chargeth them withal, Chap. 42. 8.

ye are all Phyſicians of no value] Ye are every one of you like unskilful Phyſicians, that not knowing the diſeaſe aright, do either give things hurtful, or miſ-apply good things, and ſo inſtead of healing him, make the ſick man worſe. So do ye to me. Ye are miſerable comforters, Chap. 16. 2. Ye pretend that ye come to comfort me, and whereas ye knowing my piety, ſhould uphold my ſpirits in my affliction with Gods promiſes, ye adde affliction to affliction, telling me, that God laies load on me for my impiety. Some read it, Idol Phyſicians, as the Idol ſhepherd, Zech. 11. 17. Taking no more care of Job, then Miniſters of their flocks, or Idols of their worſhippers. Phyſicians. Heb. Healers. The word רפא ſignifies. 1. To heale the body, Deut 32. 39. 2. To heale the ſoul by forgiveneſſe of ſins, Pſal. 41. 4. 3. Mending things out of order, Pſal. 60. 2. Here it is uſed in the ſecond ſenſe, for they were not profeſt Phyſicians; Neither did Job look for cure of his body from them, but comfort for his ſoul, which yet they would not afford him, but rather diſcouraged him.

V. 5. O that you would altogether hold your peace, and it ſhould be your wiſdom.] Job finding no comfort in the words of his friends, but much diſcouragement, perſwades them, in this verſe, to ſave a labour, and be ſilent; and in the next, to give him audience, that they may ſee their errours.

O that you] Heb. who will give that you, &c. See on Chap. 6. 8. & 11. 5.

would altogether hold your peace] Heb. in being ſilent would be ſilent. The word החריש ſignifies, 1. To dig the ground, or plow it, as Deut. 22. 10. 2. By a metaphor, to think, or deviſe; for actions are prepared by thoughts, as the ground by plowing, is fitted to receive the ſeed. So it is uſed, Chap. 4. 8. Prov. 3. 29. 3. By an Antiphraſis or contrariety, (which is frequent in the Hebrew tongue, for the ſame word to ſignifie contraries for want of compounds, whereby they are ſet out in Greek and Latine) it ſignifies to ſay or do nothing, to be idle or ſilent, as Gen. 34. 5. And ſo it is taken here. The doubling of the word in the Original, addes to the ſignification; as dying the death, Gen. 2. 17. He would not have them ſpeak a word more in this buſineſſe. It may be he alludes to Zophars ſpeech, Chap. 11. 3. as if he had ſaid, Ye would have me to hold my peace, but ye had more need to do it your ſelves, for ye ſpeak more fooliſhly then I. Or to their former ſilence, Chap. 2. 13. Ye had done well, if ye had kept your former ſilence, for then had ye not diſcomforted me, nor ſpoken ſo many falſhoods concerning Gods proceedings.

and it ſhould be your wiſdom] Heb. and it ſhould be to you for wiſdom. There neither is, nor appears wiſdom in ſilence properly, but in ſpeech. It may be taken comparatively; Ye would ſhew more wiſdom, that is, leſſe folly; for you would not diſcover the vanity of your hearts, if ye did hold your peace. So the fooliſhneſſe of God, 1 Cor. 1. 25. is put for that action, wherein God leaſt ſets out his wiſdom; for there is no folly in God. Or it may be meant in regard of other mens apprehenſion. Men would in charity judge you to be wiſe, if your own words did not bewray your folly. Suitable to Prov. 17. 28.

V. 6. Hear now my reaſoning, and hearken to the pleading of my lips] He doth not bid them be gone, though he bid them be ſilent: but would have them to ſtay, and not be aſhamed to learn the truth from him. Yet with reproof of their ill pleading for God, he mingles paſſionate and diſtempered ſpeeches; as ver. 13, 14. &c. So eaſie is it for us, eſpecially in affliction, to ſhew our own paſſion, where we have juſt cauſe to reprove others. As it is decent for you to hide your own folly by ſilence, ſo it is profitable for you to learn, by hearkening to me. Foraſmuch as I have heard your accuſations patiently, I beſeech you give me the hearing while I go about to diſprove them, and confute them, and ſee what arguments I can bring in defence of mine own cauſe, and to ſet out your errours.

Hear] It is not a command, for Job had no power to command their audience; but an earneſt and vehement perſwaſion to them to give audience to him. For Hear, ſee on v. 17.

now] At preſent. Defer it not. Or, I pray you. For ſo the word ſometimes is tranſlated, as Chap. 8. 8. For Now, ſee on Chap. 4. 7. on I pray thee.

my reaſoning] What I have to ſay by way of argument and diſputation, either to defend my ſelf, or to accuſe you. For the word includes both diſputation, and reprehenſion. And Job doth both, in the reſidue of this Chapter, ſometimes accuſing his friends, and ſometimes defending himſelf. The ſame word was uſed ver. 3. and is Chap. 23. 4. The Heb. word תוכחות ſignifies. 1. Reproving, or Rebuking, Hoſ. 5. 9. 2. Reaſoning by arguments, Chap. 23. 4. 3 Correction, Pſal. 39. 11. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe for Reaſoning.

and hearken] To hearken, is more then to hear. A man may hear a thing by accident, but he hearkens to it on purpoſe, as ſcholers do to their maſters inſtruction. Job expects not a ſuperficial hearing from his friends, but a ſerious attention both with ear and mind.

to the pleadings of my lips] The word pleadings, in the Original, comes from a word that ſignifies to contend, or chide. For when men plead for themſelves, or againſt others, they can hardly forbear angry words. For the word lips, ſee Chap. 2. 10. & 8. 21. & 11. 5. For Lips, ſee on Chap. 15. 6.

V. 7. Will you ſpeak wickedly for God? and talke deceitfully for him?] Here Job begins to anſwer the ſayings of his friends, and to confute thoſe arguments wherewith they pleaded againſt him. He compares them to corrupt Lawyers, that pleading for ſome wealthy or potent Clyent, care not what they ſay to oppreſſe others, be it right or wrong, ſo they may carry the cauſe for their Clyent, and procure or retain his favour. So Job chargeth his friends here, that they did not look into the cauſe it ſelf, nor ſearch what was right and true, elſe they needed not to have made him an hypocrite to cleer God. And yet this overmuch care would not be pleaſing to God neither. So well can we ſpeak in reproving others, but inadviſedly in our own ſorrows.

will you] The queſtion gives an Emphaſis to it. Dare you to ſpeak wickedly though it were for God himſelf? Or, ought you, or, ſhould you. Doth this become you? So the future is tranſlated, 2 Chr. 19. 2. Do ye think ye do well to do ſo? Can ye be ſo blind?

Speak wickedly] Heb. Speak iniquity; as Pſal. 7. 3. Or, unrighteouſneſſe, as Lev. 19. 15. The word ſignifies injury in or out of judgement. Will ye condemn me unjuſtly, to clear God? See for the word, Chap. 6. 29, 30. & 11. 14.

for God] In Gods behalf. So this particle is uſed, Judg. 6 31. Will ye plead for Baal? Some read it, of God. That is, concerning his proceedings. Others, to God. But Jobs friends did not direct their ſpeech to God, but to Job; neither did they ſo much ſpeak evil of God, as for God, to injure Job. The next verſe will cleer it. For they that accept Gods perſon, do not ſpeak evil of him, but of others for his ſake. Neither is it good ſenſe to ſay, Will ye contend of him, or to him, but for him.

and talk deceitfully for him?] The word רמה ſignifies literaly to ſhoot, or caſt down; as Exod. 15. 1. Pſal. 78. 9, 57. and metaphorically to to deceive, as Gen. 29. 25. For they that are caſt down by deceit, are ſhot at with calumnies, and caſt down from their hope. In theſe words he doubles the charge laid againſt his friends in the beginning of the verſe, and particularizes it, declaring what iniquitie he charged them withal, namely, fraud or deceit. The thing he aims at was this, That they dealt very deceitfully with him, in that they went about to prove him an hypocrite, that they might cleer Gods juſtice in laying ſo great plagues upon him. He counts them flatterers of God, Chap. 17. 5. & 32. 21. & 36. 3, 4.

V. 8. Will ye accept his perſon? will ye contend for God?] In this verſe he ſhews the cauſe, why his friends were ſo forward to condemn him to pleaſe God, as they imagined, to wit, becauſe they accept Gods perſon, and looked not at the equitie of Jobs cauſe, and that made them plead ſo earneſtly againſt him.

Will ye accept his perſon?] Heb. will ye take, or lift up, his face? Some underſtand it thus; Will ye take Gods perſon upon you, and be his deputies to plead for him againſt me, as if ye repreſented his Perſon? Others thus, Do ye take upon you to be Gods, that ye judge my heart, and pronounce me an hypocrite? Other thus, Will you take upon you to plead Gods cauſe, ſo as he may lift up his face with boldneſſe, as one that hath the better of me? So the phraſe is uſed, Chap. 11. 15. Gen. 32. 20. Deut. 28. 50. Iſa. 3. 3. But it is rather an alluſion to judgement, wherein the Judge or pleader looking too much upon the face or perſon of one party, (that is, upon his birth, place, riches, or friendſhip) pleads for, or judges for him againſt another, whoſe cauſe is juſter. And Job condemns his friends, that they looked ſo much on Gods greatneſs, that they did not weigh the equitie of his cauſe, but condemned him for a wicked man, and that under colour of juſtifying God, who had ſo ſorely afflicted him. For the phraſe, ſee ver. 10. Mal. 2. 9. Lev. 19. 15. Prov. 18. 5. & 24. 23. & 28. 21. He would not have them think to gratifie God with oppreſſing him, as flatterers uſe for preferment to gratifie Princes, by wronging the ſubjects. For Accept, ſee on Chap. 21. 3. on Suffer. For Perſon, or Face, ſee on Chap. 14. 20. on Countenance.

will ye contend for God?] It is no fault to contend for God, but a thing commendable. Some paraphraſe it thus; Do ye think that God hath need of your help to maintain his cauſe? Is he like Baal, that needs one to plead for him, Judg. 6. 31? God can plead his own cauſe well enough. Others knit it better to the words before; Will ye in this manner contend for God by wicked and deceitful ſpeeches, and oppreſſing me, to clear him? This carriage doth not become you. Thus Paul was made all things to all men, that is, conformed to all men, in ſuch things as were ſpoken before, 1 Cor. 9. 22. for he would not ſin to pleaſe any. The word contending, is the ſame that is tranſlated pleading, ver. 6. See there.

V. 9 Is it good that he ſhould ſearch you out? or as one man mocketh another, do ye ſo mock him?] Job proceeds with his charge againſt his friends, for wronging both God and him; and preſſeth it with divers arguments, 1. From the unprofitableneſſe of this courſe, in the beginning of this verſe. 2. From the uncomelineſſe of it, in the end of this verſe. 3 From Gods reproof that would light on them, verſ. 10. 4. From Gods Majeſty, verſ. 11. 5. From their own brittle condition, ver. 12. and then concludes with a new deſire of ſilence, and audience, ver. 13.

Is it good] Is it profitable for you? you look it may be for ſome great reward for pleading Gods cauſe againſt me, but you will find it hurtful to you in the end. For the ſeveral ſignifications of the word good, ſee on Chap. 10. 3. For the phraſe, Is it good? that is, it is not; ſee the like, Gen. 18. 17. Chap. 8 10. For the aggravation. It is not good, that is, it is very bad; ſee the like, Exod. 20. 7. 1 Sam. 2. 24. Pſal. 51. 17. For Good, ſee on Chap. 21. 13. on Wealth.

that] Or, Will it be profitable for you when he ſhall ſearch you out? For ſo this particle ſignifies, Deut. 4. 25. Pſal. 32. 3. Though ye think ye do well now, the time will come when ye ſhall know ye have done ill, So it did, Chap. 42. 8. So that Job proved herein a true Prophet.

he ſhould ſearch you out] He ſpeaks of God after the manner of men, who take much pains to find out the truth of hidden things, eſpecially in matters of judgement, Chap. 29. 16. Deut. 13. 14. God need not ſearch, who knows all things. But he is ſaid to ſearch out a matter, when he declares by Word or Works that he knows it, Pſal. 17. 3. & 139. 23. Jobs meaning is, that God would reveal their evil intentions, and cloſe carriage, as fully as a Judge doth ſecret murders, when he hath throughly ſearched into the cauſe, and fully knows the truth, and then they muſt look for reproof from God, ver. 10. if not for puniſhment.

or as one man mocketh another, will ye ſo mock him?] The word התל doth not ſignifie to deride, or ſcoffe at, as we commonly take mocking, but to delude or beguile, as Gen. 31. 7. Judg. 16. 10. The word אנוש, imports a weak or ſorry man. The thing Job accuſeth his friends of, is not deriding of God, but dealing with him, as corrupt Lawyers do with their Clyents, pleading their cauſe by bad arguments, and ſo making them loſe the day. So they laboured to maintain Gods juſtice by defending, that God did afflict none but hypocrites in that heavy manner, as he did Job, which was an untruth; and had Gods Juſtice had no better pillars, it muſt have fallen to the ground. Weak men may be thus deluded by their advocates, but the all-ſeeing God cannot. Or it may be read thus; Or as ye mock a man, will ye mock him? That is, though ye might ſo delude a weak ſorry man like me, yet do not think that God can be ſo mocked. Ye will find the contrarie in the end, Gal. 6. 7.

V. 10. He will ſurely reprove you, if ye do ſecretly accept perſons.] Ye look for ſome great commendation from God, for pleading his cauſe ſo ſtoutly: but becauſe you do it in an ill manner, inſtead of thanks, ye ſhall meet with reproof.

He will ſurely reprove you] Heb. In reproving he will reprove you. That is, he will certainly do it. So this doubling the word is uſed, Gen. 2. 17. The word ſignifies reproving by words or deeds, blaming or puniſhing, Prov. 9. 8. Pſal. 6. 1. 2 Sam. 7. 14. For Reprove, ſee on Chap. 15. 3. on Reaſon.

if ye do] It doth not argue a ſuppoſition, but a thing done, as Chap. 8. 4. If ye go on to condemn me, as ye have done already.

ſecretly] As deceitful perſons uſe to do, who pretend on thing, and intend another. It is the ſame with, deceitfully, verſ. 7. Making ſhew, that ye condemn me to honour God, although your conſciences tell you, that I am not an ungodly man.

accept perſons] Though it be Gods own perſon. He is ſo juſt, that he cannot endure that you ſhould wrong me, no not to defend him. See how well we can defend Gods juſtice againſt others, when we cannot ſee it ſo cleerly in our own afflictions. This was Jobs caſe at this time. He could ſee, how his friends wronged Gods juſtice in cenſuring him for an hypocrite, becauſe of his afflictions, but could not ſee how he wronged Gods juſtice, in complaining of overmuch preſſure.

V. 11. Shall not his excellency make you afraid? and his dread, fall upon you?] Now he preſſeth them to ſee their errour, from the greatneſſe of Gods Majeſty, compared with their low condition and weakneſſe. If the matter it ſelf affect you not, let Gods excellencie do it, that may well affright ſuch ſorry creatures as you are.

Shall not] A prediction of a further revelation of Gods Majeſty, to their terrour and confuſion, if they repent not. Others read it, Should not; and then it is an intimation of their duty, ſhewing that there was Majeſty enough in God, to make them deal ſincerely, if they did well weigh his greatneſſe. Others, thus, Doth not : and ſo it ſhews the cauſe why they dealt ſo deceitfully, to wit, becauſe they did not caſt their eyes upon Gods greatneſſe, who would not endure to be thus deluded, though weak men might.

his excellency] His glorious Majeſty, whereby he is lifted above all men and Angels. So the word is uſed, Chap. 31. 23.

make you afraid] It ſignifies a great fear, or affrighting, as 2 Sam. 22. 5. Eſth. 7. 6. Iſa. 21. 4. Gods greatneſſe is inviſible, but if it were manifeſted to you, it would affright you.

and his dread fall upon you] The word פחד ſignifies a fear, ariſing from ſome outward danger. Therefore it is joyned with the pit, and the ſnare, as intending ſome outward terrible object, affrighting a man, Iſai. 24. 17. See more of this word, Chap. 3. 25. It is ſaid to fall upon a man, becauſe God doth, as it were from heaven, throw down great ſtones in his wrath to overwhelm men, Pſal. 11. 6. God is above, and his wrath falls upon us below, Rom. 1. 18. Rev. 11. 11. Pineda on the place, mentions a Spaniſh Proverb; The hill and the ſtones are Gods. Wherein God is compared to one that hath a Fort on a great hill, and ſtones enough to tumble down, to deſtroy all that oppoſe him. There is no reſiſting things that fall on us from above, nor no flying from them: whereas dangers that meet us in the face, are no higher then we, and may be reſiſted. Some read it, When his dread ſhall fall upon you; Then his Majeſty will affright you, though it do not now. So this particle is tranſlated, 1 Sam. 13. 1. Pſal. 139. 16. Others read the whole verſe thus, Shall not this acceptation of him make you afraid, ſeeing his dread will fall upon you ? For the word ſignifies to accept, as well as to lift up, and therefore may be tranſlated acceptation, as well as excellency. It is the ſame word that is uſed for accepting of perſons, ver. 8, 10. And then he puts them in mind, both of their ſin, and of the judgement, that ſhould fall upon them for it.

V. 12. Your remembrances are like unto aſhes, your bodies, to bodies of clay] In this verſe, he oppoſeth their weakneſſe to Gods greatneſſe, to affright them the more. Majeſty is terrible to all, but eſpecially to mean perſons.

Your remembrances] Thoſe things for the which you are ſo often remembred, and mentioned by the ſons of men, as your wealth, honour, ſtrength, &c. Your monuments that ye ſet up, and in which ye pride your ſelves. Or, your fame will go away and be clean forgotten: as the word is uſed, Prov. 10. 7.

are like unto] Heb. are parables (or ſimilitudes) of. That is, are very like to aſhes. The word משל ſignifies. 1. A Proverbe, Prov. 1. 1. 2. A ſimilitude, or likeneſſe, or Parable, Ezek. 16. 44. & 17. 2. So here.

aſhes] They are not compared to aſhes, to ſhew the vaniſhing of them, as aſhes are ſcattered with every wind, but to ſet out the baſeneſſe of their beſt endowments; they are in compariſon of Gods excellency, but as aſhes, that are trod under foot of man, as things of no value. And ſo it is fitly oppoſed to Gods excellency ſpoken of ver. 11. This word אפר is uſed in Scripture language. 1. To ſet out the frailty, and vileneſſe of our bodies, Gen. 18. 27. 2. Sorrow, 2 Sam. 13. 19. 3. Vaine labour, Iſa. 44. 20. Here it is uſed to the firſt end mentioned.

your bodies] The word ſignifies any thing, that is higher then other things joyned to it. As the higheſt place of the Altar, Ezek. 43. 13. the ey-brows, Levit. 14. 9. And it is put for the whole body of a man, becauſe it ſtands upright, and is higher then the bodies of beaſts. For Bodies, ſee on Chap. 15. 26. on Boſſes.

to] Are like to bodies of clay. The word of likeneſſe, is to be taken out of the beginning of the verſe.

bodies of clay] Like to ſuch images of men, as are made of clay or earth. They are of no value, how highly ſoever ye think of your ſelves. So the word is uſed, to ſet out a baſe matter, Chap. 4. 19. & 10. 9. Exod. 1. 14. Iſai. 64. 8. and it is fitly oppoſed to Gods excellency, ver. 11. For Clay, ſee on Chap. 4. 19.

V. 13. Hold your peace, let me alone that I may ſpeak, and let come on me what will] Job having ſet before his friends Gods Excellency, and their own baſeneſſe to humble them, now requires what he wiſhed for before, verſ. 5. that they would be ſilent.

Hold your peace] Do not interrupt me, but hear me quietly, as I have heard you. Heb. be ſilent: as 1 Sam. 7. 8. Pſal. 28. 1 Jer. 38. 27. For Hold your peace, ſee on Chap. 11. 3. and on v. 5. of this Chap.

let me alone] Heb. from me. There wants the word ceaſe, which is expreſſed, Chap. 7. 16. Ceaſe from me, in the Original: Let me alone, in the tranſlation. The meaning is, Let me ſpeak alone, till I have fully eaſed my mind, and have ſaid all I have to ſay for my ſelf. Seeing your words neither comfort me, nor profit me, nor are right in themſelves, let me ſpeak, and be ye ſilent awhile. It may be they began to take him off, as if he had ſpoken impertinently, and therefore he again preſſeth for audience.

that I may ſpeak] That I may declare my mind freely, and fully.

and let come on me] Heb. let paſſe on me. To wit, by way of puniſhment, as 2 King, 16. 3. 2 Sam. 12. 31. For Paſſe, ſee on Chap. 15. 19.

what will] I muſt ſpeak, whatever become of me: and what I do, I will do at mine own peril. I hope God will be more favourable to me, then ye are. But if God ſhould, for my ſpeaking, lay more troubles upon me, yet would I not ceaſe to maintain, that I am no wicked man. So 2 Sam. 18. 23. But howſoever let me run, ſaith Cuſhi; come what will, I will venter to deliver the meſſage to David.

V. 14. Wherefore do I take my fleſh in my teeth, and put my life in my hand ?] Having exhorted them to attention, he ſets out the greatneſſe of his grief, and maintains his innocency; ſometimes turning his ſpeech to them, and ſometime to God, as a man perplexed, or conceiving he had wrong from both.

Wherefore] What ſin have I committed ſo great, that I ſhould be thus ſeverely puniſhed? Some think it to be a challenge to his friends, to tell the cauſe of it, if they could. As our Saviour challenges the Phariſes, John 8. 46. Others, for a turning of his ſpeech from them to God, (as Jacob doth, Gen. 49. 18.) deſiring God to ſhew him, why he was ſo ſorely afflicted, and in his diſtemper, conceiving no juſt cauſe could be given.

do I] If God afflict none but ungodly men, as ye ſay, why am I then ſo heavily afflicted, that fear God ?

take my fleſh in my teeth] Why have I ſuch great pains put upon me, which are enough to make me not onely tear my garments, but alſo my very fleſh. Not that Job did ſo, or was thus cruel againſt himſelf, but alluding to the impatient geſtures of others, to ſet out the greatneſſe of his own miſeries. See Joel 2. 13. Rev. 16. 10. Chap. 18. 4. Or, he intimates, that his fleſh and skin was ſo worn, that he might eaſily tear them by bits; or ſo full of holes, by reaſon of ſores, as if he had bitten himſelf all over, Chap. 19. 20. The firſt interpretation is beſt, and moſt agreeable to Scripture language. For Take, ſee on Chap. 21. 3. on Suffer. For Fleſh, ſee on Chap. 14. 22. For Teeth, ſee on Chap. 16. 9.

and put my life in my hand] Why am I ſo ſorely afflicted, that I am every moment in danger of death, as if I had my life in my hand, ready to be taken away from me? A thing in the hand, may eaſily be let fall, or taken away: So Jobs extreme pains, might make him think himſelf neer death. So we ſay of a man in a great fear, His heart is at his mouth. For the phraſe, ſee Judg. 12. 3. 1 Sam. 19. 5. & 28. 21. Pſal. 119. 109. For Life, ſee on Chap. 14. 22. on Soul. And on Chap. 12. 10. For Hand, ſee on Chap. 36. 32. on Clouds.

V. 15. Though he ſlay me, yet will I truſt in him : but I will maintaine mine own wayes before him] As if he had ſaid, Ye go about to drive me to deſpair, becauſe of the great plagues that God hath laid upon me: but be it known to you, if God ſhould double his files, and lay greater afflictions upon me, yea, if he ſhould take away my life, yet would I, in the midſt of death, expect a better life from him, how hardly ſoever he dealt with me here. And yet on the other ſide, I would maintain my ſincerity, and that I have not deſerved more then other men, to be thus extraordinarily plagued. Here ye ſee plainly in Job, an extraordinary combat, between the ſpirit and the fleſh.

Though he ſlay me] He ſpeaks of God, mentioned, ver. 8. and ſpoken of in the verſes following. Though he bring judgement after judgement upon me, till he make an end of me, yet my confidence ſhall not fail. This argues a ſtrong faith in Job, notwithſtanding his impatient ſlips in his heavy trials. See the like, Pſal. 23. 4. Prov. 14. 32. For Though, ſee on Chap. 12. 14. on Behold.

yet will I truſt in him] I will not caſt off my confidence in God, while I have one minute to live. An heroical reſolution in a man in Jobs condition. Others read it thus, Though he ſlay me, and I ſhould have no hope : To wit, of living any longer, yet I would ſtand to my innocency to the death. But this takes away the demonſtration of Jobs faith.

but I will maintain] Or, plead for; as ver. 3, 6. Heb. prove, or, argue. For Maintain, ſee on Chap. 15. 3. on Reaſon.

mine own wayes] The courſe of my life, conſiſting of many actions, as ſo many ſteps, Chap. 8. 19 Pſal. 1. 1. & 119. 1. I would prove my life to be upright without hypocriſie. For Way, ſee on Chap. 17. 9.

before him] Heb. to his face, This phraſe argues confidence.

V. 16. He alſo ſhall be my ſalvation; for an hypocrite ſhall not come before him] In this verſe Job gives a double reaſon of his forementioned confidence in God. The one, from Gods readineſſe to help ſuch as are afflicted. The other, from the ſincerity of his own heart, and freeneſſe from hypocriſie.

He alſo ſhall be my ſalvation] Heb. He himſelf alſo ſhall be to me for ſalvation.] God himſelf, ſpoken of before, ver. 15. Salvation may be taken for temporal deliverance from his paines, and the unjuſt cenſures of his friends. But it is rather to be interpreted of eternal life, which would befall him after death, as ver. 15. and which no hypocrite ſhall enjoy; as followes in this verſe. Others read it, That alſo ſhall be to me for ſalvation. This truſting in God, in death, ſhall bring me to eternall life. Or, This maintaining my cauſe, ſhall further my deliverance out of theſe ſtraits. For Alſo, ſee on Chap. 16. 4. The word הוא ſometimes ſignifies the ſame, as Pſal. 102. 27.

for] This ſhews mine innocency, that I dare thus plead my cauſe before God himſelf, which no hypocrite dares do, though he can do it before men. Thus he anſwers to Eliphaz, and Bildad charging him with hypocriſie, Chap. 4. 6. & 8. 13.

an hypocrite] One that carries out his cauſe with a bold face before men, but knows that he is guilty, and that God knows it alſo, and therefore dares not refer the matter to God, who cannot be deceived. See on Chap. 8. 13.

ſhall not come before him] In heaven, as I hope to do: or, to plead his cauſe with confidence, as I am ready to do, before Gods judgement ſeat. For Come, ſee on Chap. 15. 21.

V. 17. Hear diligently my ſpeech, and my declaration with your eares] He had called for audience once before, in verſ. 6. and diſſwaded them from interrupting him, verſ. 13. It ſeems the things he ſpake, were ſuch as his friend had no mind to hear, and did ſeem impatient and willing to interrupt him, and yet were things needful to be heard; both for his defence, and their informations; and therefore now again he calls for audience, and that more earneſtly then before, Hear diligently, &c. It may be conceived that they thought, that a man in ſuch miſery as he was, could not have ſo much confidence in God as he had expreſſed, ver. 15, 16. and therefore he calls on them, to mind his words.

Hear diligently] Heb. Hearing hear. The doubling the word increaſeth the ſignification: ſee on verſe 5. The Hebrew word שמע hath many ſenſes in Scripture. 1. It ſignifies to hear, as in hearing a report, Gen. 42. 2. Obad. ver. 1. 2. To underſtand, as Gen. 42. 23. for they that underſtand not what is ſpoken, get no more good by it, then they that do not hear it at all, 1 Cor. 14. 8, 9, 10, 11. 3. To mark what is ſaid, or to attend to it, Gen. 29. 33. 4. To grant what is aſked, Gen. 17. 20. 5. To believe a thing reported to be true, Exod. 6. 9. 6. To obey, Gen. 26. 5. Here it is taken in the third ſenſe for marking; for they did hear before, but did not mark Jobs words, that they might underſtand the meaning of them.

my ſpeech] My continued oration.

and my declaration] Either he means the declaration of his ſorrowes to move his friends to pity him, or elſe of the arguments he had to maintain his innocency, to keep them from condemning him.

with your ears] Heb. in your ears. That is, which I now purpoſe to ſpeak in your hearing. But it is better tranſlated, with your ears; for the ears are the ſenſe of hearing, and he would have them to imploy their ears altogether in hearing him at this time. So the particle ב is uſed, Exod. 21. 18. Job 7. 14. & 9. 30.

V. 18. Behold now I have ordered my cauſe, I know that I ſhall be juſtified] Here Job prepares for his tryall before God, which he begins, verſe 23. and holds on to the end of the fourteenth Chapter. In this preparation, he firſt ſets out his care to ſet his plea in order, and his confidence of prevailing, in this verſe. 2. His deſire of an enemy that would plead againſt him, and the neceſſity of his pleading, verſe 19. 3. His deſire of removall of hinderances, that ſo he might have a fair triall, verſ. 20, 21, 22. 4. An offer of the choice to God, whether he would reply or anſwer: or as the Lawyers ſpeak; whether he would be plaintiffe, or defendant: ſo confident was he of prevailing. In all this preparation, and likewiſe in the whole plea, to the end of the fourteenth Chapter, Job in his impatience, pleads againſt Gods harſh dealing with him; for all his ſpeech is directed to God, and nothing charged upon his friends.

Behold] See on Chap. 1. 12.

now] At preſent I have done it, and am ready to plead. Or, I pray you; do ye I beſeech you take notice of my readineſſe.

I have ordered] I have ſet all my arguments in order; as ſouldiers are ſet in battel array, to produce them orderly one after another: See on Chap 6. 4.

my cauſe] Heb. my judgement, ſee on Chap. 9. 32.

I know] I am ſure before hand, that I ſhall cleer my ſelf.

that I ſhall be juſtified] This word in Scripture ſometimes ſignifieth making juſt, as Dan. 12. 3. where it is tranſlated turning many to righteouſneſſe: ſometimes it ſignifies, declaring one to be juſt, and that either in a particular cauſe; as Pſal. 51. 4. Deut. 25. 1. or declaring the perſon to be juſt, and that either comparatively, in reſpect of others more wicked, as Ezek. 16. 51. or abſolutely, that he is truly juſt, Iſai. 53. 11. Job 25. 4. Here it may be taken either, that he ſhould prove himſelf (if he might be heard at large) juſt in this cauſe, or a man truly fearing God.

V. 19. Who is he that will plead with me? for now if I hold my tongue, I ſhall give up the ghoſt] He ſpeaks as one confident; who dare accuſe me? I defie all men that ſhall charge me with wickedneſſe. And withal, it declares an earneſt deſire of a preſent adverſary to plead with him, ſo earneſt was he to be cleared.

who is he] I would there were any ſuch, and that he would appear preſently to make good his charge, if he can.

that will plead with me?] See on ver. 3, 6.

for] This word uſhers in a reaſon, from the impatience of delay.

now] If it be not diſpatched preſently, I can ſtay no longer.

If I hold my tongue] See on ver. 5.

I ſhall give up the ghoſt] I ſhall die preſently. See on Chap. 3. 11. & 10. 18. & 11. 20. Either Job intends to ſhew the greatneſſe of his paſſion, that could no longer endure ſuch an aſperſion to lie upon him, but had provided ſuch ſtore of matter in his own defence, that his paſſion would make an end of him, if he could not vent it, as Chap. 7. 11. Or elſe to ſet out the greatneſſe of his pains which would quickly make an end of him, if they continued, and then he ſhould not be cleared before he died. It would be too late then to plead his cauſe. See the like, Chap. 16. 21, 22. The firſt ſenſe is the beſt.

V. 20. Onely do not two things unto me; then will I not hide my ſelf from thee] In this verſe he puts up a general Petition to God for a fair triall, and to that end deſires that two things might be removed, before he begins to plead for himſelf, which were likely to hinder him much in his plea, and which he names in the next verſe.

Onely do not two things unto me] I have no more to deſire but theſe two things. If they may be granted to me, I will go on in my plea; otherwiſe I muſt make a ſtop, as being out of hope of any fair triall. And here he begins to turn his ſpeech to God, to make way for his enſuing plea.

then will I not hide my ſelf from thee] Heb. from thy face. Two things make men hide themſelves when they ſhould plead their cauſe: The one is, their own guilt; and the other, their enemies power. The firſt, Job ſpeaks as if it did not move him at all. All that he feard was the laſt, leſt being in this miſerable condition, he ſhould be over-powred by God, and ſo daunted, that he could not follow his cauſe with any comfort. When he ſaith, he would not hide himſelf out of Gods ſight, he means, that he would come boldly into Gods preſence to plead his cauſe, whenſoever God ſhould call for him. So he ſpeaks, Chap. 9. 35. It is a Meioſis, as Chap. 12. 3. See there.

V. 21. Withdraw thine hand far from me: and let not thy dread make me afraid] Here Job ſpecifies the two things that lay ſo ſore upon his ſpirit, that he could not freely plead his cauſe; To wit, Gods afflicting hand, and Majeſtical apparition. And he prayes that theſe might be removed, that he might go on freely in pleading his cauſe. The ſame things he deſired before, Chap. 9. 34. See there for the ſenſe of this place. We ſhall here note the ſenſe of ſuch words, as differ. It is alſo worth the obſerving, That Elihu, Chap. 33. 6, 7. ſhewes that he underſtood Job thus, and therefore offered to plead for God with him, having neither power to afflict him, nor majeſty to affright him.

Withdraw far] Heb. Remove far off. In Chap. 9. 34. it is but taking away: here it is, putting far away. And it ſhews, that Job had been ſo ſorely handled, that he ſhould not be free from feare, though his pain ſhould be taken away, unleſſe he were aſſured, that they were ſo far removed, that they might not return, till he had quite done pleading his cauſe. The removal of his pains could not remove his fears, unleſſe they were removed far away, as the ſins of Gods people are, Pſal. 103. 12.

thine hand] The plague which thou haſt laid upon me. A metaphor with a trope of the cauſe for the effect. It is his rod, Chap. 9. 34. for men ſtrike ſometimes with their hands, and ſometimes with rods, when they make wounds. For the phraſe here, the hand for the ſtroke, or plague, ſee Exod. 9. 3. Judg. 2. 15. Ruth 1. 13. 1 Sam. 5. 6, 7, 11. Pſal. 81. 14. Lam. 2. 8. Act. 13. 11. The reſt of the verſe was interpreted on Chap. 9. 34. See there.

V. 22. Then call thou, and I will anſwer: or let me ſpeak, and anſwer thou me.] He now goes on to ſet out his fearleſneſſe of appearing before God upon the former terms, and his readineſſe to plead his cauſe, and preparedneſſe on both ſides to object or anſwer; elſe would he not have offered the choice to God.

Then] Heb. And. But this particle ו is often tranſlated then, as Gen. 28. 21. Chap. 1. 20. & 7. 14. when thou haſt granted me the two former requeſts, (mentioned verſ. 21.) then I am ready to plead for my ſelf. I have no other obſtacle to hinder me, for I know my cauſe is juſt.

call thou] This word is a moſt fruitful word, having a multitude of ſignifications in Scripture. The word in the Original is קרא. It ſignifies, 1. To cry, Iſa. 58. 1. 2. To proclaim, or publiſh a thing, Iſa. 40. 3, 6. 2 King. 23. 16, 17. 3. To exclaim, or cry out, Gen. 39. 15. 4. To read, Joſh. 8. 34. 5. To impoſe a name, Gen. 29. 32, 33, 34, 35. 6. To call one by his name, 1 Sam. 3. 4, 6. 7. To call upon or pray to God, Pſal, 50. 15. & 116. 4. 8. To call one to him, Hoſ. 11. 2. 9. To call men together, Exod. 12. 16. Joel 1. 14. 10. To invite to a feaſt, Eſth. 5. 12. 11. To call into judgement, or call to account, Gen. 3. 9. 1 King. 2. 36. 12. To meet with one, Gen. 46. 29. 13. To happen or come to paſſe unexpectedly, 2 Sam. 1. 6. & 20. 1. Here it is taken in the eleventh ſenſe, for calling into judgement, As if he had ſaid, Call thou me to account, and plead againſt me.

and I will anſwer] I will not onely anſwer to my name called, as men do in Courts of Juſtice, but alſo be the defendant, and give a particular anſwer to all things which thou objecteſt againſt me, and maintain, that I have given thee no ſuch cauſe to lay ſo heavy afflictions upon me, to make me an example of thine indignation in the eyes of the world.

or let me ſpeak] Heb. Or, I will ſpeak. That is, I will be the plaintiffe, and object all my pains and ſorrows laid ſo heavily upon me, to ſee what anſwer thou wilt give, why I am thus afflicted more then others.

and anſwer thou me] Do thou give anſwer to what I ſhall object. This appears by the beginning of Jobs charge in the next verſe, to be his meaning. And Mercer, a learned Commenter on the text, layes a great charge on Job in this place, that he was Omnino ſemper immodicus, Altogether alwayes immoderate; to wit, in defending himſelf, and charging God ſo highly in this and the next Chapter.

V. 23. How many are mine iniquities and ſins? make me to know my tranſgreſſion, and my ſin.] Becauſe God will not begin, Job will, and ſo he complains of Gods hard dealing with him, and deſires to know the cauſe of it. Do not condemn me unheard. Let me know the cauſe why I am thus tortured. Unparallel'd plagues ſhould proceed from unparallel'd ſins. And many plagues ſhould come from many ſins. Shew me therefore what and how many my ſins are, that require ſo many and great puniſhments. Yet I know none ſuch by my ſelf, neither can my friends convince me of ſuch. Let me know them, or let my plagues be taken away. This is the ſum of Jobs plea in this verſe.

How many] The word properly intimates enquiry after a great number, as Zech. 7. 3. Chap. 21. 17. Pſal. 78. 40. & 119. 84. As if Job had ſaid, My friends and the world judge me guilty of many ſins, becauſe of thy extraordinary dealing with me. Cleer the matter before me and them.

are mine iniquities] See on Chap. 7. 21.

and ſins] See on Chap. 5. 24. & 7. 20. & 10. 6.

make me to know] Shew me. See on Chap 10. 2.

my tranſgreſſion] See on Chap. 7. 21. It ſeems by the alteration of the number, that Job aimes at ſome great enormous ſin or rebellion. As if he had ſaid, If thou canſt not accuſe me of many great offences, then ſhew me that one grievous ſin, that hath provoked thee to lay ſuch load upon me.

and my ſin] See on chap. 5. 24. & 7. 20. & 10. 6. If not many ſins requiring ſuch an exemplary puniſhment, yet at leaſt produce one.

V. 24. Wherefore hideſt thou thy face, and holdeſt me for thine enemy?] Seeing therefore thou canſt not bring forth any hainous crimes againſt me, that I am guiltie of, for which I ſhould be ſo ſeverely puniſhed, why doſt thou like angry man turn thy face away from me, and handle me, as if thou didſt hate me? Chap. 7. 20. Thus he ſets out the ſeveritie of Gods diſpleaſure by degrees; firſt, in not ſhewing any countenance to him: ſecondly, in laying heavie load upon him.

Wherefore] Shew me the cauſe of this great alteration. Thou waſt wont to ſhine upon me, Chap. 29. 2, 3. Why doſt thou deale otherwiſe with me now? what ſo great cauſe have I given thee of ſo great a change?

hideſt thou thy face] God is ſaid to hide his face from his people, when he regards not their praier in their miſeries; like an angrie man, who by turning his face away, ſhews, that he neither pities, nor purpoſes to relieve. See Deut. 31. 17. Pſal. 10. 1. & 13. 1. & 69. 17. & 102. 2. Iſa. 54. 8. Mic. 3. 4. As on the other ſide, he is ſaid to turne his face to his ſervants, or ſhine upon them, when he delivers, or keeps them out of trouble, or bleſſes them extraordinarily. See Pſal. 31. 15, 16. & 67. 1. & 80. 3, 7. & 119. 135. Num. 6. 25, 26.

and holdeſt me] Heb. thinkeſt me; or, accounteſt me Gen. 31. 15.

for thine enemy] Woundeſt me, and plagueſt me, as if thou didſt eſteem me an enemie, and hadſt a purpoſe to torment, and to deſtroy me. See Chap. 16. 9. & 19. 11. & 33. 10. Lam. 2. 4, 5. God did not onely withdraw help from him in theſe his great trials, but alſo lay greater troubles on him daily.

V. 25. Wilt thou break a leaſe driven to and fro? and wilt thou purſue the dry ſtubble?] He ſets out his own weakneſſe, compared with Gods greatneſſe, by two ſimilitudes. The one, of the leaſe, and the wind; the other of the ſtubble and the fire. Intimating, that God would get no great glory to himſelfe, by afflicting ſo weak a creature as he was. No man would account it an honour to a ſtrong Champion, to overcome a weak bed-rid man.

Wilt thou] Doth it become thee ſo to do? Doſt thou think to get any honour by it? Surely thou wilt not. The affirmative queſtion makes the more vehement negation.

break] Or, terrifie. For the word ſignifies both: and thence comes a word, which ſignifies men in great power, Pſal. 37. 35. Such as by their greatneſſe terrifie and break others.

a leaf] It hath his name in Hebrew from aſcending, becauſe it comes up out of the tree, and grows upon high trees. A leaf is a ſlight thing. So was Job in this his weak condition.

driven to and fro] To wit, by the wind, which ſhakes it to and fro, when it is on the tree, quickly blows it off, and then gives it no reſting place.

and wilt thou purſue] Either it may be meant of blowing ſtubble away by the winde, as Pſal. 1. 4. or caſting it into the fire.

dry ſtubble] Stubble is light of it ſelf, but being dry, it is the eaſier blown away, or the quicklier burnt. So was Job as weak as a leaf on a tree, or ſtubble, in regard of his humane nature, and like a leafe blown up and down, or ſtubble caſt into the fire by reaſon of his afflictions. See the like ſimilitudes, Iſa. 42. 3. Two things are intended by theſe two ſimilitudes: Firſt, that God did ſet his great power againſt a weak man, which was no honour to him, as Job conceived. Secondly, that he did adde affliction to his affliction, which he thought to be ſome diſhonour to him, that having blown him off from the tree of his proſperity, like a leaf, and dried him like ſtubble with afflictions; yet he gave him no reſt, but blew him from one trouble to another, and threatens him with death, which might now as eaſily be inflicted on him, as a leaf of a tree be blown away, or as any ſtubble be caſt into the fire and burned.

V. 26. For thou writeſt bitter things againſt me, and makeſt me to poſſeſſe the iniquities of my youth] In this verſe, and the reſt to the end of the Chapter, Job goes on in a judiciary way, comparing himſelf to the party accuſed, and God to the Judge, who ranſacketh all his life, cauſeth all his faults to be written down, and ſevere puniſhments for them, pronounceth him guilty, paſſeth an heavie ſentence upon him, and ſees it executed without mercy.

For] He ſets down the reaſon why he thought that God did intend to ruine him, to wit, becauſe he did proceed ſo ſharply againſt him, as if he meant to make him anſwer for all the ſins of his life at once.

thou writeſt] Some take it to be underſtood of the Book of Gods Decrees: but that is from eternity, and Job ſpeaks here of Gods preſent proceedings againſt him, taking notice of all things objected againſt him, and determining now to execute a ſharp ſentence upon him, as ſure as Judges do their ſentences written down and pronounced againſt malefactors. This phraſe of writing, ſhews alſo the unalterableneſſe of the ſentence, as Joh. 19. 22. Pſal. 149. 9. Dan. 6. 8.

bitter things] Or, bitterneſſes. My good deeds are all forgotten, but my ſins are all written down, that thou maieſt produce them to condemn me; as follows in this verſe. Sin may be called bitterneſſe, as Deut. 29. 18, 19. Iſai. 5. 20. Jer. 2. 19. Act. 8. 23 Rom. 3. 14. Heb. 12. 15. Jam. 3. 11, 14. becauſe it is diſpleaſing to God, as bitter things are to us, and brings bitter and diſpleaſing things upon us. But here it is rather to be underſtood of puniſhments and afflictions; for his ſins are mentioned diſtinctly in the end of the verſe. And afflictions may be called bitter things, becauſe they make our lives bitter, Exod. 1. 14. For as bitter things are moſt diſpleaſing to the taſte, ſo are afflictions both to ſoule and body, Ruth 1. 20. Eſpecially ſharp afflictions may be meant here, ſuch as bring death with them; for bitterneſſe and death, often go together in Scripture, 2 King. 4. 39, 40. Bitter herbs in the pot threaten death, 1 Sam. 15. 32.

againſt me] To be executed upon me.

and makeſt me to poſſeſſe] Or to inherit. For poſſeſſions come moſt commonly by inheritance from parents. Thou laieſt on me the puniſhments of my former ſins, as if they came to me by inheritance, for thou makeſt them ſtick as faſt to me, as a poſſeſſion doth to the purchaſer. Thou bringeſt them to my remembrance on freſh, and laieſt them now to my charge, having concealed them for a long time in ſparing me hitherto, but now thou laieſt ſuch heavy load on me, as if thou hadſt watched a time to be revenged on me for all together.

the iniquities] For this word, See on Chap. 7. 21.

of my youth] It is not enough for thee to puniſh me for the ſins of my age, but thou proceedeſt againſt me alſo, for my youthful ſins long ſince out of ignorance committed, and not ſince renewed, and which I thought by thy kind dealing with me, had been long agone forgiven, and forgotten. So ſharply doſt thou deal with me, and take all advantages againſt me. The word in the Original is youths, in the plurall number; becauſe it contains not onely manly years, but alſo childhood, boyiſh time, youthful time, and all a mans dayes from his birth, till he come to a manly age. The word comes from נער, to ſhake out, Neh. 5. 13. for infants are as it were ſhaken out of the mothers womb into the world. And young men are ſet at liberty from maſters, and tutors, and left to themſelves, and then for want of experience they do many things amiſſe: and it may be Job had done ſo: See the like, Chap. 20. 11. Pſal. 25. 7.

V. 27. Thou putteſt my feet alſo in the ſtocks, and lookeſt narrowly into all my paths; thou ſetteſt a print upon the heels of my feet] Here begins the execution, which uſeth to follow the ſentence given, and it is a very ſtrict one.

thou putteſt my feet alſo in the ſtocks] An alluſion to an uſual kind of puniſhment, of putting men in the Stocks; either to ſhame them for ſome evil done, or to keep them ſafe for greater puniſhment: the latter ſeems to be meant here. as if he had ſaid, Thou keepeſt me in on every ſide with pain, as a priſoner in the Stocks; and art reſolved to keep me ſo, till thou haſt made an end of me. As appears, verſ. 28. See Chap. 33. 11. & 36. 8. Jer. 20. 2, 3. & 29. 26. Others read, In the chaulk. Thou noteſt all my ſins, as men do their foot-ſteps, that walk in chaulky, or clay ground, Chap. 14. 16. But the former interpretation ſuits beſt with the ſimilitude of a priſoner.

and lookeſt narrowly] Heb. obſerveſt. As men uſe to watch thoſe that are put into the Stocks, that they may not eſcape; ſo doſt thou take away from me all means of eſcaping theſe troubles. They will certainly conſume me: Others read; It keeps in: The Stocks keep in the priſoner, ſo that he hath no way of eſcaping; and ſo do theſe afflictions keep me faſt. For the word, See on Chap. 7. 12, 20. & 10. 14.

into all my pathes] Some underſtand it, of obſerving all his miſdemeanours; both before his troubles, and under them: That God enquired into them ſtrictly, to take advantage againſt him, and puniſh him the more. But it is rather meant of all wayes of eſcaping. If I ſhould think of any way of getting out of theſe troubles, thou findeſt it out alwayes, and preventeſt me, and ſo keepeſt me in ſtill, in the priſon of theſe afflictions. For the word, See on Chap. 6. 18, 19.

Thou ſetteſt a print] Or, Engraveſt thy ſelfe. Thou not onely doſt as it were ſet a watch on me, or ſtand aloofe off to obſerve me, but alſo followeſt me ſtep by ſtep; as hunters follow wild beaſts in the ſnow, by their foot-ſteps. Some take it, of obſerving all his ſinful actions. But it is rather meant of wayes of eſcaping. If I tread but one ſtep towards delivery, thou followeſt me cloſe to prevent me, as if thou didſt tread in every ſtep after me, and wouldeſt not be one ſtep behinde me, ſo that I cannot poſſibly eſcape. Others read, It engraveth it ſelfe; That is, as a narrow pair of ſtocks leaves the print of the wood upon the priſoners heel, ſo my afflictions leave ſad marks upon me. But the former is better.

upon the heeles of my feet] Heb. upon the roots of my feet. Which may better be underſtood of the ſoles of the feet, then of the heels, becauſe they are the loweſt part of the feet, as the roots are of the trees. And by a figure may be meant the footſteps, which the heels make. As in the laſt Note before.

V. 28. And he as a rotten thing conſumeth, and as a garment that is moth-eaten] Here is the concluſion of this ſimilitude, wherein Job hath proceeded by an elegant and paſſionate gradation, to ſet forth Gods harſh dealing with him, as he conceived. Firſt thou denieſt favour to me, hiding thy face from me. Then thou ſheweſt enmity againſt me, ver. 24. And that having no reſpect to my frail condition, but ſhewing thy great power in perſecuting me without mercy, ver. 25. And like an angry Judge reſolved to condemn, thou ranſackeſt all my life, and paſſeſt an heavie ſentence upon me for ſinnes long ſince committed, verſ. 26. Not ſo onely, but thou clappeſt me faſt in priſon, tyed up in the chains of afflictions, like a malefactour; and art become the Jaylour thy ſelf, to obſerve every ſtep I make, and to follow me cloſe, that I may be ſure not to eſcape, till thine anger have ſeized fully upon me, verſ. 27. And in this ſad condition do I ſtill lye, conſuming and mouldering away under thy heavie indignation, verſ. 28.

And he] Or, It. Some underſtand it of the leaf or ſtubble ſpoken of before, verſ 25. Some take it to be meant of the heel, or foot, hurt by the narrowneſſe of the hole in the ſtocks, verſ. 27. and ſo putrifying. Others read it, This. That is, This body of mine, as Chap. 19. 26. Job pointing to it, as it is like he did there, and Paul, 1 Cor. 15. 53, 54. They which read it, He, underſtand it of a man in ſuch a wretched condition, as is before deſcribed, yet with relation to Job himſelf, as Chap. 7. 1. & 14. 1.

as a rotten thing] Heb. as rottenneſſe. The abſtract for the concrete, to increaſe the ſignification. As the moſt rotten thing that is. Others read it, As with rottenneſſe. For the rot conſumeth the ſtrongeſt cattel, if once it ſeize upon them.

conſumeth] Heb. waxeth old. So the ſame word is tranſlated, Pſal. 102. 26. Now becauſe old age doth conſume ſtrength and beauty, and bring men to the grave, it ſignifies alſo to conſume. But rottenneſſe makes men old before their time, and ſorrow and affliction bring men into a conſumption, and kill them before old age come.

and as a garment] As a moth-eaten garment grows old, Pſal. 102. 26. and quickly wears quite away. For the word בגד, a garment. See Chap. 6. 15.

that is moth-eaten] That is food for moths, and devoured by them, as meat is by men. Hereby a ſecret and inſenſible conſumption, by great paines and ſorrowes is intended; as Pſal. 39. 11. See on Chap. 4. 19.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ. 1. MAn that is born of a woman is of few dayes, and full of troubles.] Job takes occaſion from the concluſion of the former chapter, to ſpeak of mans miſery, with a ſpeciall relation to himſelf, and ſets it out by the original of it, in his birth, the progreſſe in a miſerable and ſhort life, the iſſue of it in his death.

Man] Adam. An earthly creature, born of one that was made of the earth at firſt. So much the word originally imports, and God objects to him after his fall, to humble him, Gen. 2. 7. & 3. 29. It was the proper name of the firſt man, Gen, 2. 20. but afterwards affixed to the nature, and communicated to all his poſterity. So was not Eve, the firſt Womans name communicated to women, becauſe ſhe her ſelfe, and ſo by the conſequence of all that came from her, came out of Adam.

that is born of a woman] Of a weak woman full of ſorrows in breeding and bearing, and bringing forth an iſſue like her ſelf, Gen. 3. 19. Thus man is often deſcribed in Scripture, Chap. 15. 14. & 25. 4. Matth. 11. 11. Luke 7. 28. And he is ſaid to be born of a woman, rather then of a man, becauſe the womans pains are great in bringing him forth, and he comes immediately out of her womb into the world: The word אשה, woman, is taken from איש, a man, becauſe the firſt woman had both her nature and her name from the man, Gen. 2. 23.

is of few dayes] Heb, ſhort of dayes. That is, of a ſhort life, Gen. 47. 9. Pſal 90. 5, 6, 9. & 102. 11. & 103. 15. & 144. 4. Jam. 4. 14. So length of dayes, imports a long life, Exod. 20. 12. Prov. 3. 2. 16. His dayes are ſhort in themſelves, ſhorter in regard of his troubles, which afford little comfort to him, and ſmall time worthy the name of life, and threaten death to him daily.

and full of trouble] Heb. ſatisfied with commotion. For the word full, ſee on Chap. 7. 4. & 10. 10. 15. For the other word, trouble, ſee the force of it, on Chap. 3. 17. & 9. 6. & 12. 6. It imports, that troubles, as they move the mind with paſſion, ſo they cauſe men oftentimes to remove from place to place for ſafety, Pſal. 105. 13. Heb. 11. 37; 38. The ſumme of this verſe is, that man leads but a ſhort and miſerable life here, eſpecially ſuch men as are in Jobs condition. See Chap. 7. 1, &c. Eccleſ. 2. 23.

V. 2. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down; he flyeth alſo as a ſhadow, and continueth not.] Here he ſets out the ſhortneſſe of mans life, by two elegant ſimilitudes frequently uſed in Scripture. The one taken from a flower, which is no ſooner ſeen grown, but it withereth: the other from a ſhadow, that never is of any long continuance. See Chap. 8. 9. Pſal. 102. 11. & 103. 15. & 144. 4. 1 Chr. 29. 15. Iſa. 40. 6. 1 Pet. 1. 24.

He cometh forth] Man cometh forth out of his mothers womb, as a flower out of the bowels of the earth, Chap. 3. 11. He comes forth into the light to be ſeen of men, that lay hid before, as a flower in the ſtaulk.

like a flower] He makes a fair ſhew in the world, when he is born, as a flower doth in the garden, when it is ſhot forth.

and] That is, as ſoon as he is born, he tends towards death, as a flower to decaying. See on Chap. 3. 11.

is cut down] Heb. cut round; or circumciſed. It is gathered or cropt with hand, or the leaves are beaten off quite round with the wind, or wither and fall away of themſelves in a little time. So man is ſubject to many dangers, that every day threaten his life, and if they diſpatch him not, will ſoon die of himſelf.

he flyeth alſo] The word imports haſte; as Jon. 1. 3. Nah. 3. 17. Iſa. 48. 20. Mans dayes go away as faſt as one that flyes for life. See on Chap. 9. 25.

as a ſhadow] Moſt ſwiftly; for nothing is more fleeting then a ſhadow. See on Chap. 8. 9.

and continueth not] Heb. ſtandeth not. To wit, in the ſame ſtate and condition. So the word is uſed, Eccl. 1. 4. The ſhadow is ſuddenly withdrawn from the ſight of man, either by ſome clouds interpoſing in the day, or by the night approaching and ſwallowing it up in darkneſſe. So mans life is either taken away by ſome unexpected perils, or ends when nature hath ſpent her ſtrength. It ſpends apace, and cannot tarry long.

V. 3. And doſt thou open thine eyes upon ſuch an one, and bringeſt me into judgement with thee?] Doth it become ſo great a God to oppoſe himſelf to ſo vile a creature, and to obſerve all his courſes to find matter againſt him, as if it were a great glory to thee, to trample under feet ſuch a worm as I am? See much to the ſame purpoſe on Chapter 7. 17, 18.

And doſt thou] Spoken with a kind of indignation and admiration, and therefore expreſſed by way of interrogation, to ſhew the vehemencie of Jobs diſturbed paſſion. Seeing man is ſo ſhort-lived and miſerable, wilt thou look upon ſo vile an object?

open thine eyes] Some underſtand it barely of Gods providence taking notice of ſo vile a creature; as opening the mouth or lips; is no more but ſpeaking, opening the eares, hearing: but it is rather to be interpreted of Gods opening his eyes in anger, to obſerve all Jobs faults, and to ſpye out ſome exquiſite way of puniſhment. See on Chap. 7. 8. Zech. 12. 4. To look on ſuch a wretch ſo much as to obſerve his faults, and puniſh him thus for them, is beneath thy care. As to open the hand, is to be bountifull; ſo to open the eye, is to obſerve mens faults ſtrictly with a purpoſe to puniſh them ſeverely. As on the contrary, he that intends not to puniſh a fault, ſhuts his eyes, that he may not ſee it.

upon ſuch an one] Heb. upon this man. Upon ſo ſhort-lived miſerable a creature.

and bringeſt me] Heb. and makeſt me to come. Now he ſhews, that though he ſpake of man in general, yet he had relation to his own condition, more miſerable at preſent then other mens.

into judgement] Deal with him ſummo jure, and moſt rigidly, Pſal. 143. 2. He had deſired before to plead with God, Chap. 13. 3. but with condition of removing his plague, and Gods terrour from him, Chap. 13. 20, 21. which not being done, he is afraid to come into judgement. For the word judgement, ſee on Chap. 8. 3. & 9. 32.

with thee] Me ſo frail and miſerable man, with thee ſo great and powerful a God. Here it appears that Job did not intend to plead with his friends before God, but with God himſelf, as one that had dealt too harſhly with him. See more to this purpoſe on Chap. 13. 3. The text may be read thus, without an interrogation; Yet thou doſt open thine eys upon ſuch an one, and bring me into judgment with thee. Though I be thus ſhort-lived and miſerable, and ſhould rather be pittied then afflicted, yet thou dealeſt extremely with me. So this particle ו is uſed, Pſal. 78. 56. Or thus, And doſt open thine eyes for this, that thou ſhouldeſt bring me into judgement with thee? As if this were the main thing that God looked at in his providence, to afflict poor Job. See the like phraſe, Exod. 13. 8. Amos 1. 3-6. And for ו that, ſee Numb. 8. 19. And for the future tranſlated ſhould, ſee Gen. 34. 31.

V. 4. Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean? not one] Why wilt thou puniſh man ſo ſeverely for ſin, who is naturally corrupt, and cannot avoid ſin, being born in a ſinfull condition? And why am I ſingled out from among others, to endure ſuch exquiſite torments, who was no better by birth then they, nor am no worſe in life? To avoid ſuch a rigid judgement, he objects the common infirmity of nature. I ſhould rather be pitied, then thus ſharply puniſhed, becauſe I am naturally inclined to ſin.

Who can bring] Heb. who will give. For the future tranſlated can, ſee on Chap. 8. 11. The word נתן hath many ſignifications in Scripture. Firſt, for delivering a thing into ones hand, not to poſſeſſe, but to guide, as Gen. 39. 4, 22. 2. To put or place, as Gen. 1. 17. 3. To ſuffer, as Exod. 12. 23. 4. To make, as Ezek. 6. 14. 5. To ſet over, as Gen. 41. 41. 6. To teach, as Prov. 9. 9. 7. To account, as Gen. 42. 30. 8. To ſignifie wiſhing, as Numb. 11. 29. 9. To bring forth one thing out of another, as Pſal. 1. 3. and ſo here.

a clean thing] The word, literally, ſignifies bodily cleanneſſe,

Freedome from filth, ſcabs, leproſie, 2 King. 5. 10. Figuratively, yet more frequently, it imports a freedom from ſin, Pſal. 19. 9. & 51. 7. Here it may be meant, as a common proverb, As no man can bring a clean ſtream out of a dirty puddle, ſo can no man bring a man free from ſin into the world, ſo long as his parents are tainted with Originall ſin. This doctrine is held out in many Scriptures, Gen. 5. 3. Pſal. 51. 5. Joh. 3. 6. Rom. 5. 12. Eph. 2. 3.

out of an unclean] It literally ſignifies an unclean thing, or place, ſoiled with rubbiſh, or dead carcaſſes, as 2 King. 23. 10. and figuratively, though more commonly one that is polluted with ſin, which defiles the ſoul, Rev. 21. 27. See Gen. 34. 5. Lev. 18. 23, 24. So it is juſt contrary to the former word. And intimates, here, our Originall corruption, received from our parents. Mans ſeed is not unclean in it ſelf, as it was created, but became ſo by the fall, and ſo we are unclean, being born of it.

not one] No man on the face of the earth can do this. It is too great a work for any creature to undertake. See the like phraſe, Pſal. 14. 3. & 53. 3. Others read it, Canſt not thou alone? It may be the reaſon that moved them, might be, becauſe Chriſt was born clean of a ſinfull mother. But the former tranſlation will clear that well enough, No earthly father could have begotten him in ſuch a condition. He was ſo conceived in an extraordinary way, by the power of the Holy Ghoſt, Luke 1. 34, 35. It is not likely that Job, in this paſſionate fit, looked ſo far, but onely gave an anſwer to his own queſtion, ſignifying, that no meer man could bring forth a clean child, out of unclean ſeed.

V. 5. Seeing his dayes are determined, the number of his moneths are with thee, thou haſt appointed his bounds, that he cannot paſſe] Seeing thou haſt ſet him a ſhort time in the world, and when that time comes, he can live no longer, nor ever return into this world any more, it is very fitting he ſhould enjoy ſome time of refreſhing here, before he be taken out of the world.

Seeing] Heb. If. But it doth not ſignifie here an uncertain condition, as often elſewhere, but a certain poſition of a known truth, and a concluſion deduced from it, verſ. 6. So it is tranſlated ſith. Ezek. 35. 6. and the ſenſe requires it ſo to be underſtood, 2 King. 20. 19. Eſth. 6. 13.

his dayes are determined] See on Chap. 7. 1. & verſ. 1. of this Chapter; his dayes, verſ. 1, &c. Determined; to have a certain end, or to be cut off; as this word imports, Joel 3. 14.

the number] Rather, and the number. So this particle is added, Chap. 38. 40. The ſum of them is determined.

of his months] Of the months he is to live. It comes from a word that ſignifies to renew, and it is uſed for the new moon, at which the Jews began their months, and by a figure of the part for the whole month.

is with thee] Thou onely knoweſt it, or rather, thou haſt determined it. And ſo it agrees well with the beginning, and end of the verſe.

thou haſt appointed] Heb. thou haſt made. It may be read, and thou haſt appointed; as was noted before, for all theſe things hang together, and the inference follows in the next verſe.

his bounds] Heb. his ſtatutes. The bounds of his life, and thoſe far ſhorter, then men lived before the flood. Thou haſt ſet the beginning and end of his life, when it ſhall be. Theſe are the two bounds of mans abiding in this world, Chap. 7. 1.

that he cannot paſſe] Gods decrees, concerning the time of mans life, are ſo certain, that he cannot go beyond them, but muſt certainly die, when his time comes. As the Sea, for all her raging, cannot paſſe her bounds, Chap. 38. 8, &c. Prov. 8. 29. Pſal. 104. 9, The word of paſſing, agrees well with a bound, or ſtatute, Heb. 9. 27. Act. 17. 26. For ו that, ſee Chap. 23. 13. Paſſing, here, is put for going beyond, as Prov. 8. 29. Pſal. 104. 9, There is no paſſing over the bounds, which God hath ſet. Kings and Emperours muſt dye, when their appointed time comes.

V. 6. Turn from him that he may reſt, till he ſhall accompliſh, as an hireling, his day] Seeing his time of life here is by thee determined, and is not long neither, and will bring ſorrow enough with it, adde not more, by puniſhing him ſo ſharply for ſin, as thou doſt now. It is a ſmall thing to let him live without pains. Old age will come ſhortly, and make him deſire death.

Turn from him] Heb. Look away from him. For the word, ſee on on Chap. 7. 19. For the ſenſe, ſee on Chap. 7. 8. and on the 3. verſe of this Chapter. Look not ſo angerly on me to afflict me thus heavily, but turn thy angry countenance ſome other way. He ſpeaks to God, as verſe 5.

that he may reſt] Or, ceaſe, to wit, from his afflictions. Or that it may ceaſe, to wit, his plague and heavie affliction. See on Chap. 7. 16. & 10. 20. For ו that, ſee on ver. 3. Or, and he will ceaſe. Thou needs not trouble thy ſelf, thus to afflict him, he will dye ſhortly, and ceaſe from living any longer here. So the word is uſed, Deut. 15. 11. 1 Sam. 2. 5. Judg. 5. 6.

till he ſhall accompliſh] The word ſignifies, properly, to acquieſce and reſt in a thing, or deſire it, and the meaning may be, till he be weary of his life, as an hireling of his work, and be willing to dye. Yet becauſe the hireling deſires not the day, wherein he labours, but to have it ended, that he may reſt at night, it may well be meant, till he have accompliſhed his time here, and growing old, be weary of his life, and willing to dye. So the word is by ſome tranſlated, accompliſhing Sabbaths, Lev. 26. 34. 2 Chron. 36. 21.

as an hireling, his day] See on Chap. 7. 1, 2.

V. 7. For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will ſprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not ceaſe] Here Job begins to preſſe God to ſpare him by a new argument, not taken, as the former, from the ſhortneſſe of his life, and determined time of his death, but from the impoſſibity of returning hither, after his death, to enjoy any comfort here. See the like Chap. 7. 6, 7, 8. & 16. 22. Pſal. 39. 12, 13. And this Argument he illuſtrates, firſt, by a ſimilitude, ſhewing mans condition to be worſe then a tree, which may grow again in the ſame place, though it be cut down, but man once dead, appears no more in this world. Secondly, by a ſimilitude of waters, drying up, verſe 11.

For] A reaſon of the petition, verſe 6. Either I ſhall have comfort in this world, before I dye, or never here: therefore grant me reſt now.

there is hope] The word ſignifies ſomewhat remaining, that may make men expect a renovation. See on Chap. 5. 16. & 7. 6. & 11. 18.

of a tree] Men have ſome hope, when they cut down a tree by the ground, that it will grow again. Or, to a tree. Or, a tree hath hope. A metaphor taken from a man, to make the ſentence the more emphatical. See the like, Judg. 9. 8, &c. where ſpeech is attributed to trees, as hope is here. See Job 31. 38. For the word עץ, it ſignifies, 1. wood, Gen. 22. 6. 2. a tree, Gen. 2. 9. 3. a thing made of wood, Ezek. 37. 17. 4. a wooden idol, Jer. 2. 27. 5. a gallows, a thing to hang men on, Gen. 40. 19. 6. a veſſel of wood, Exod. 7. 19. 7. a ſtaff of a ſpear, 1 Sam. 17. 7. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, for a tree, as often elſewhere.

If it be cut down] Or, though it be cut down. So אם, is tranſlated, verſ. 8. though it be cut even by the ground.

that it will ſprout again] Heb. that it will change; to wit, its condition, and being cut off will put forth again. Or, it will change, or renew its ſtrength, Iſai. 40. 31. Thus the word is tranſlated changeing, verſ. 14. of this Chapter.

and that the tender branch thereof] See on Chap. 8. 16.

will not ceaſe] See on verſ. 6.

V. 8. Though the root thereof wax old in the earth, and the ſtock thereof dye in the ground] Some conceive, that this verſe ſets out another way of deſtroying trees, to wit, by of old age, though they be not cut down. But it is likely, that he goes on in the ſame ſimilitude, taken from the ſame tree, and aggravates the matter by other circumſtances. Suppoſe this tree being cut off by the ground, the root of it left in the earth be old, and ſo the more unlikely to ſhoot forth again, and the trunk of it cut off, lying upon the ground by it, give men occaſion to think, it will never put out more branches, yet water will revive it.

Though] See on verſ. 7.

the root thereof] So much of it as grows within the ground, 2 King. 19. 30. It literally ſignifies the root of an herb or tree, and metaphorically, ſuch as remain of a nation, to give hope of encreaſing it again, after a great deſtruction: as in the place cited. See on Chap. 5. 3.

wax old] He doth not ſay, die, for then there were no hope of it, but wax old, and ſo be like to decay utterly. Trees have a growing time like men, and a decaying one alſo, which may well be compared to old age.

in the earth] See on Chap. 9. 24. From the Hebrew word Erets, comes our English word Earth.

and the ſtock thereof] It is oppoſed to the root, and ſignifies the body of the tree above the ground, which divides it ſelf into branches, Iſai. 11. 1. & 40. 24. The ſtock that was cut off, verſ. 7.

die] As it muſt needs do, being cut off from the root. Trees are ſaid to be dead, when all the moiſture is clean gone out of them. So Pſal. 78. 47. He deſtroyed their vines: Heb. He ſlew them.

in the ground] Heb. in the duſt. It being cut off, and lying in the duſt, upon the top of the ground, dieth; yet the moiſtned earth, can put forth other branches out of the root remaining, as verſ. 9. The word עפר ſignifies; 1. the earth it ſelf; as it is tranſlated, Chap. 8. 10. 2. the duſt that lies upon the face of the earth, 2 Chron. 1. 9. Pſal. Pſal. 18. 42. 3. a mean rank, or condition of men, deſpiſed like the duſt that is trod under mens feet, Pſal. 113. 7. 4. an innumerable multitude, Pſal. 78. 27. 5. a dead man in the grave, Pſal. 30. 9. 6. it ſets out a low ſubmiſſion, as if the head were bowed down to the duſt, Pſal. 44. 25. 7. a dejection into a very miſerable condition, Iſai. 47. 1. 8. a ſign of ſorrow, Job 2. 12. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, as was before expounded.

V. 9. Yet through the ſent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughes like a plant. Though the ſtock be dead, and caſt away, and the root little better, yet water will revive it.

Yet] Or, That. There is hope, that notwithſtanding the cutting off, and dying of the ſtock, and the old age of the root, it will put out freſh boughes, and flouriſh again, as it did before. So this verſe is knit to the ſeventh verſe.

through the ſent] Heb. from the ſmell: An uſual thing in Scripture, to attribute ſenſe to ſenſeleſſe things; as ſmelling to the fire, Judg. 16. 9. for ſo it is in the Originall there, when it ſmelleth the fire. As man being refreſhed with the ſmell of ſweet flowers, is cheered in his ſpirits, ſo this decaying tree puts out freſh branches after moiſture received, as if it had felt ſome inward comfort.

of water] The Hebrew word מים hath many ſignifications, 1 It ſignifies water, as Gen.1.9. 2. The clouds, the receptacles of rain waters, Pſal.104.3. 3 It is put for the rain water that comes out of the Clouds, Pſal.77. 17. 4. For any kind of drink, as bread is put for any kind of food, Hoſ.2.5. 5. For a multitude, as there are many drops in the water, Pſal.79.3. 6. For troubles and afflictions, Iſai.43. 2. 7. For the ſeed of which men are conceived, Iſai.48.1. 8. For tears, Jer.9.1. Lam.1.16. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, when this root of the tree, left in the ground, is watered, either by the moiſture of the earth, or by the overflowing of Rivers, or by the labour of men, or by the dew or rain from heaven, it will ſprout out afreſh. See on Chap.5. 10. & 11.16. & 12. 15.

it will bud] It will ſend out buds firſt, and branches afterwards.

and bring forth] Heb. make. The word עשה ſignifies, 1. To work, make, or do a thing, Gen. 1. 31. 2. To bring forth corn, or fruit, or buds, or branches, or the like, Gen. 41. 47. 3. To dreſſe or prepare, Ezek.46. 2. 4. To keep, or obſerve, Joſh.5. 10. 5. To get, or procure, Gen 31. 1. Deut.8. 17. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe.

boughes] The word קציר ſignifies, 1. The time of harveſt, when the corn being ripe is cut down, Iſa.6. 3. 2. It is put for the corn, then to be cut down, Joel.3.13. 3. For war, wherein men are cut down by the ſword, as corn by the ſickle, Jer.51. 33. 4. For boughs, which trees put forth, as the earth puts out corn in harveſt, Iſai. 27. 11. Pſal. 80. 11. So here, When this root is watered, though it ſeemed dead before, it ſhall ſend forth abundance of boughs, as the earth doth corn in harveſt.

like a plant] As if it were new planted, or as a tree new planted, or as another plant; to wit, that was never cut down. It ſends out boughs ſo plentifully, that you can ſee no difference between it, and another tree that remained untouched. See the like addition, Chap. 8. 12.

V. 10. But man dieth and waſteth away; yea, man giveth up the ghoſt, and where is he?] Here is the other part of the diſſimilitude expreſſed with a pathetical interrogation. A mans condition is worſe then a trees: It may be cut down to the ground, and grow again in the ſame place, and your eyes may ſee it. But man dying, is pluckt up by the roots, and carried clean out of the world, and who can tell what is become of him? There is not ſo much as any memorial of him left here, Chap.7. 8,9,10.

But] Heb. And; Yet it is often ſo tranſlated, and muſt be ſo here, becauſe it uſhers in an unlikeneſſe between a man and a tree. So this particle ו is uſed, Prov 5.4. & 8. 36. and whereſoever it is uſed to ſet out a diſſimilitude.

man] A name taken from ſtrength, as as Enoſh from infirmity, See on Chap: 3. 3. & 4. 17. & 10. 5.

dieth] Although he be never ſo ſtrong, yet he muſt die. Death ſpares none.

and] Some read it, when. So this particle ו is uſed, Pſal. 139. 16. 1 Sam. 13. 1. And they put his waſting away before his death, as the cauſe of it. But it is better read, And. It is to be underſtood, as a conſequent of his death, making him unable to appear any more; and ſo it agrees beſt with the end of the verſe.

waſteth away] Or, is weakened. So the word ſignifies, Iſa. 14. 12. Joel 3. 10. And the meaning is, that all his ſtrength being taken away by death, his weak body waſtes away, and conſumes in the grave. Or, is cut off. As ſome tranſlate it in Exod. 17. 13. Iſa. 14. 12. He is cut off worſe then a tree; for he growes no more. The word is tranſlated by our Interpreters, diſcomfiting, or being overcome, Exod.17. 13. & 32. 18. and it holds well with the ſcope here. For as men overcome, are carried away captives from their own land, never to return thither again, ſo are men overcome by death carried clean out of this world.

yea] So it is tranſlated, Chap. 21. 19. Some underſtand it thus; If man be killed by ſome violent death, he waſtes away; yea, though he ſhould die but a natural death, and gently give up the ghoſt, yet he appears no more here in the world. Others read it, And. They conceive that the two words, of dying, and giving up the ghoſt, knit together by this particle, ſignifie the ſame thing, and ſerve only to ſet out the copiouſneſſe of the tongue, and the certainty of his utter extirpation out of this world by death.

man] See on verſ. 1.

giveth up the ghoſt] See on Chap. 3. 11. & 10. 18.

and where is he?] He is not to be found any where among the living. See on Chap. 7. 8. & 3. 16.

V. 11. As the waters fail from the Sea, and the floud decayeth and drieth up] Having before by a diſſimilitude ſet out mans hopeleſſeneſſe of returning into this world after death, and ſhewed his condition to be worſe then a trees cut down; now he goes on to ſet out mans nonappearance after death, by an elegant ſimilitude of the drying up of waters.

As] This word is not in the Original; and therefore ſome make this a diſſimilitude alſo, and read this verſe by way of interrogation. Do the waters fail from the ſea, or the floud decay and dry up? yet man lyeth down, and riſeth not, &c. Intimating, that man is in a worſe condition then the ſea and rivers, for they keep their place ſtill, and are to be ſeen, where they were; but men drop out of the earth one after another, and appear here no more. But the former interpretation by way of ſimilitude is better.

the waters] See on verſ. 9.

fail] Heb. are gone. See the word in this ſenſe, 1 Sam. 9. 7. Deut. 32. 36.

from the ſea] The word ים ſignifies, 1. Any great place of water, or lake; as Gen. 1;10 Numb.34.11. The ſea of Cinnareth is thought to be the lake of Gennezareth. 2. The ſea it ſelf, the greateſt receptacle of water. Either the Mediterranean, Joſh.23. 4. or the red ſea, Pſal. 114.3. 3. The Weſt, because the great ſea ſtood Weſtward from Jeruſalem, Gen.12.8. 4. The South, becauſe the Sea ſtood Southware from Jeruſalem, Pſal. 107.3. 5. For a great veſſel made to hold much water, 1 King 7. 23.

and the floud] A ſtream having ſtore of water in it, and running ſwiftly.

decayeth and dryeth up] Two words of one ſignification, to adde emphaſis to it, and ſet out a total drying up. See the like on verſe 10. 1 Pet. 1. 7. Some underſtand it thus; As the Sea or River receive not the ſame water back again, that is drawn out of them by vapours, or overflowes the earth, ſo man dying, returns no more into the world. But the truth of the ſimilitude thus explained, may be doubted of. Others thus; as a lake, or a river, having broken into another channel, returns no more into the former, but leaves it dry and deſolate; ſo man once dead, returns hither no more: this is better. But the beſt is to read it thus; As when the waters from the ſea fail, the floud decayeth, and dryeth up. So, &c. verſ. 12. And the ſenſe is, that as rivers coming from the ſea are quite dryed up, when the Sea waters fail, that feed them, and no water appears any more there: ſo when mans life is taken away, it returns no more, while this world laſts. See on verſ. 10. And ו is ſo uſed, Prov. 11. 10.

V. 12. So man lieth down, and riſeth not; till the heavens be no more, they ſhall not awake, nor be raiſed out of their ſleep] This verſe is a bridge, or a tranſition from one matter to another. In the beginning of the verſe, he applyes the former ſimilitude, to ſhew, that man being once dead, returns no more into this world to dwell here again among the ſons of men. In the end of the verſe, leſt any ſhould miſtake his words, and think him an Atheiſt, that denies the Reſurrection, he doth as it were recall himſelf, and grant a reſurrection at the end of the world: and like a man in an ague, followes that matter in a good temper, till, verſ. 16. looking to his preſent preſſures again, he falls into another hot fit of unruly paſſion, which laſts to the end of the Chapter.

ſo] Heb. And. But it is often rendred ſo; as Prov. 25. 20. 23, 25, 27.

lieth down] Death is ſet out here by the ſimilitude of one lying down to ſleep: and the grave is as the bed. The word שכב ſignifies, 1. To lye down on the ground, Numb. 24. 9. 2. To lay himſelf down to ſleep, Deut.6.7. 3. To dye; for death is like to ſleep, Deut. 31. 16. 4. To be ſick; for ſuch lye in bed, Pſal. 41. 8. 5. To lye with a woman by way of carnal copulation, Gen. 26. 10. Here it is taken in the third ſenſe for dying.

and riſeth not] To wit, to live again in the earth among men. For Job did believe the reſurrection, and confeſſeth it in the words following; as alſo, Chap. 19. 27, &c. See on ver. 7, 10. The word קום in Scripture ſignifies, 1, To riſe, 1. King. 8. 54. 2. To come forth, or appear, Deut. 34. 10. 3. To ſtand, Joſh. 7. 12. 4. To prevail, Pſal. 1, 5. 5. To remain, Joſh. 2. 11. 6. To be firm or ſtable, Numb. 30. 5. 7. To ſtand ſtill, or be uſeleſſe, 1 Sam. 4. 15. His eyes were dim, Heb. ſtood ſtill Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe with the former limitation of not riſing to live here.

till the heavens be no more] Theſe words are to be knit to the words following, They ſhall not awake till the heavens be no more. Some interpret it, never; to wit, by their own ſtrength, or to live here; becauſe the heavens remain for ever in their ſubſtance, though they ſhall be changed in their qualities at the end of the world. But in regard that Job in the words following, falls upon the point of the reſurrection, the words are rather to be underſtood thus, They ſhall not riſe till the general reſurrection, when theſe heavens ſhall be changed and renewed, Pſal. 102. 25, 26. Iſa. 65. 17. & 66. 22. 2 Pet. 3. 7, 10, 11. Rev. 21. 1. For the word, Heavens, ſee on Chap. 9. 8. & 11. 8. It may here be meant of the ſtarry, cloudy, and aiery heavens.

they ſhall not awake] He changeth the number here. Before he had ſaid, He riſeth not; now he ſaith, They ſhall not awake: leſt any ſhould think he had ſpoken of ſome particular man only. He therefore now ſpeaks it of all men. By awaking here, is meant riſing from the ſleep of death; as appears by the words following.

nor be raiſed] Leſt any one ſhould object, It is true, the dead cannot awake of themſelves; but God can raiſe them up again, when he will, as men in a ſleep may be waked by others, before they would awake of themſelves, he addes, that God will not raiſe them neither till the reſurrection.

out of their ſleep] From death to life. It is no unuſuall thing in Scripture, to compare death to ſleep. See on Chap. 3. 13. Sleep is put ſometime for the ſleep of nature, Gen. 28. 11. Sometime for the ſleep of ſin, Eph. 5. verſ. 14. Sometime for the ſleep of death, as Chap. 3. 13. and ſo here: and Dan. 12. 2.

V. 13. O that thou wouldeſt hide me in the grave, that thou wouldeſt keep me ſecret, untill thy wrath be paſt, that thou wouldeſt appoint me a ſet time, and remember me. Job now being fallen upon the conſideration of the reſurrection, wiſhes for death, that in the grave he might be free from his pains, and afterwards enjoy an happy reſurrection.

O that thou wouldeſt] For the Hebrew words, and their manner of wiſhing, ſee on Chap.6. 8.

hide me] He compares himſelf to a man purſued by his enemies; and deſires, that God would hide him from them; that is, that he would free him from his ſore pains, that followed him ſo cloſe, that he could by no means eſcape them.

in the grave] See on Chap 7. 9.

that thou wouldeſt keep me ſecret] The ſame thing deſired in other words. See on verſ. 11. It ſhews Jobs deſire to be earneſt: as if one running from an enemy ſhould ſay, Pray hide me, pray hide me: Be ſure to keep me ſafe.

untill thy wrath] The word אף ſignifies, 1. The face, 1 Sam.25. 23. 2. The noſe, which is the higheſt part of the face, Cant. 7. 4. 3. Anger, which is ſhewed by the high colour of the face, and thick breathing of the noſe. So it is taken here, for anger. See more on Chap.4.9. & 9. 5, 13.

be paſt] Heb. turned back; to wit, into Gentleneſſe, and kindneſſe; as Pſal. 6.4. or turned away; as Iſa.12. 1. that is, Be quite and clean gone, and taken away from me. The word שוב ſignifies, 1. To return to a place, from which one went away before, Gen. 18. 33. 2. To return from anger, or to be friends again, Jer.2. 35. 3. To repent, or return to God, from whom we have all naturally gone aſtray, Deut, 30. 2. 4. To do the ſame thing again, Gen.26. 18. Iſaac digged again. Heb. returned and digged. 5. To make to return, or bring back, Deut.30. 3. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe. Till thou ceaſe to be angry with me. Till the reſurrection, when all thy wrath will be gone from me.

that thou wouldeſt appoint me.] Heb. that thou wouldeſt put for me, or, ſet for me. He knew that the time of his lying in the grave was determined from eternity, Verſe, 5. but his deſire is, that this appointed time might come quickly, that he might be at eaſe, and ſleep quietly in hope of a joyfull reſurrection. See the like wiſh, Pſal.39. 4.

a ſet time] Heb. a ſtatute. A certain time, when, and how long I ſhall lie in the grave.

and remember me] How God is ſaid to remember, ſee on Chap. 7. 7. & 10. 9. Here Job's meaning is, that God would raiſe him up again, for God ſeems to forget his people while he leaves them in trouble, in priſon, in the grave, Pſal.88. 5. and he is ſaid to remember them, when he delivers, or eaſes them, Gen. Gen. 8. 1. Exod. 2. 24. Others read it, That thou wouldeſt appoint me a ſet time, when thou wilt remember me; to wit, to raiſe me out of the grave. For ו when, ſee on verſ. 10.

V. 14. If a man die, ſhall he live again? all the dayes if my appointed time will I wait, till my change come] Job having now refreſhed his ſoul with a ſweet meditation of the reſurrection, ſtands admiring at that glorious work, and concludes from thence a willingneſſe to be diſſolved.

if] Or, when; as it is tranſlated, Gen. 38 9. Num.36. 4. For there is no doubt of mans dying at all.

a man] See on verſ. 10. & Chap.3.3.& 4.17.& 10. 5.

die] See on verſ.10.

ſhall he live again?] Some underſtand it as a flat denial, as affirmative queſtions uſually are interpreted in Scripture; and they give this ſenſe. Certainly he ſhall not live any more here; as ver, 10, 12. Elſe I would be patient till I die, hoping to be raiſed to a better ſtate here. But it is rather ſpoken by way of admiration. Hath God ſaid, he will raiſe up our bodies again? then I will willingly die in hope of a glorious reſurrection. See the like queſtion, Chap.15. 11. Gen.3.1. Hath God ſaid, &c. It is ſtrange he ſhould envie you the eating of ſo precious a fruit; and Gen, 17. 17. Shall a child be born, &c. It is very ſtrange, that a man and woman ſo old ſhould have a child: Our Divines take it to be a voyce of joy, and admiration; not of doubting, as Sara's was: and therefore ſhe is reproved, Gen. 18. 13. but Abraham is not blamed. So Chap.4.2. If we aſſay to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieved? It is ſtrange thou ſhouldeſt be troubled with the words of thy friends; yet we believe thou wilt. See on Chap.21. 17.

all the dayes] The word ימי ſignifies. 1. A naturall day of 24. hours, comprehending the night alſo, Eſth.4. 16. 2. An artificial day of 12. hours, oppoſed to the night, Eſth.4 16. 3. A great day, or a year of days, containing all days in it. Judg.17.10. 4. A certain time conſiſting of many days, Iſa.4.1. 5. A joyfull, or ſad time, Pſal.37.13. Iſa.13.22. Here it is taken in the fourth ſenſe, for the whole time of his life.

of my appointed time] See on Chap.7.1.

will I wait] Or, expect, Chap. 32. 16. I will gladly look for death every day, and be joyfull, if the time were come.

till my change] Till the time of my death, which is indeed a great change. A living body is changed into a dead carcaſe. Man goes out of this world to another. Prov.31. 8. appointed to deſtruction. Heb. children of change. Or, Till my paſſing away, Or, departure. For death is ſuch a change, that it carries a man clean out of the world, Eccl.1.4. Cant. 2. 11. 2 Tim. 4. 6. Others underſtand it of his reſurrection, which indeed is a great change: but how could Job wait for that in the grave?

come] For living actions attributed to dead things, ſee on Chapter 1. 19.

V. 15. Thou ſhalt call, and I will anſwer thee: thou wilt have a deſire to the work of thine hands] The ſame words, as here in the beginning of this verſe, that were in Chap. 13. 22. but to a far different purpoſe. For there Job in an impatient fit, deſires to plead with God, as appears by his following plea there. But here in a calm temper, he propoſeth his hope, to find mercy with God in the reſurrection, as appears by the end of the verſe.

thou ſhalt call] Thou ſhalt call me out of the grave, by the voyce of Chriſt, or the Archangels voyce at the end of the world, Joh.5.28,29. 1 Theſſ.4.16. For the various ſignifications of the word, ſee on Chap.13.22.

and I will anſwer thee] Or, I ſhall anſwer thee. Not that there is any readineſſe in dead bodies to come out of the grave, not that they ſhall be called every one by name, but they ſhall come up ſuddenly at Chriſts call, as a ſervant comes to his maſter at his call ſuddenly: and this is a reall anſwer. See the like of Hearing, Hoſ.2. 21,22.

thou wilt have a deſire] Thou wilt be very willing to ſee it again, after it hath lain ſo long in the grave, as a workman having been long abſent, is willing to ſee what he hath builded, or planted. Hence comes כסף, ſilver, which men are very deſirous to look upon.

to the work of thine hands] To me, who am made by thee. Though the work of thy hands ſeem to be blotted out in the grave; yet thou wilt ſhew, that thy love which moved thee to form me at the firſt, is not clean extinct, but ſhall appear in raiſing me up glorioully at laſt. See more on Chap. 10. ver. 3, 8.

V. 16. For now thou numbreſt my ſteps; doſt thou not watch over my ſin?] It will be well with me then, when I ſhall be raiſed up again; though now thou ſeemeſt to deal very hardly with me. Here Job begins another impatient fit, which holds him to the end of the Chapter.

for] Or, but; as it is tranſlated, Chap. 9. 9. 18. For here is an oppoſition of what went before, and not a confirmation of it.

now] As it goes with me now, it ſeems ſo, that thou takeſt all advantages to puniſh me.

thou numbreſt] Thou keepeſt an exact account of every ſin of mine, that thou mayeſt take occaſion to puniſh me for the ſame.

my ſteps] Every ſtep I fetch; that is, every ſin I commit. See Chap.31. 4. & 34.21. Pſal. 56.6. & 139. 2, 3, 4. Prov.5. 21.

doſt thou not watch over my ſin?] That thou mayeſt be ſure to number aright, and miſſe no one ſin; thou doſt watch all I do to take advantage againſt me. See Chap.7.12, 20. & 10. 14. & 13.27. And for the word, ſin, ſee Chap. 5.24. & 7. 20. & 10. 6.

V. 17. My tranſgreſſion is ſealed up in a bag, and thou ſoweſt up mine iniquity,] He goes on to deſcribe the ſharpneſſe of Gods proceedings againſt him, who doth not only watch what he doth amiſſe, and number all his errours, but alſo keep them all faſt in his mind, that none of them may be forgotten, and ſow them together, that he may puniſh him for all together.

my tranſgreſſion] See on Chap.7. 21.

is ſealed up] Shut up faſt, that no man may take it away, before I be puniſhed for it. See on Chap.9. 7.

and thou ſoweſt up mine iniquity] Thou wilt be ſure to make it faſt. We think tying a bag, and ſealing it, not to be ſufficient, when we would keep things very ſafe, and therefore we ſow up the bag, that nothing may fall out. Hereby is meant Gods exact care, not to forget any one ſin of Jobs, but to be ſure to keep all in mind, to puniſh him the more ſeverly. Or, And thou ſoweſt it unto mine iniquity. That is, Thou joyneſt my former tranſgreſſions, to my preſent, to be ſure to puniſh me for all. Or, Thou joyneſt my ſin to my puniſhment. So the word ſignifies, Iſai.56.6. Or, Thou ſoweſt it over mine iniquity, to wit, the bag for the word ſowing, ſee on Chap. 13.4. For the word iniquity, ſee on Chap.7. 21. As men ſow one piece of cloth to another, to make a compleat garment; ſo doſt thou call to mind all mine iniquities, at once to lay load on me, Chap.13. 26. Iſa.65. ver.6.7.

V. 18. And ſurely the mountain falling cometh to nought and the rock is removed out of his place.] In this verſe, by two ſimilitudes of the decay of mountains, and rocks, the higheſt and firmeſt things, he further ſets out mans mortality, and impoſſibility of returning into this world again. In the next by two others, by the decay of hard ſtones, and growing things. The application begins at the end of the next verſe.

and ſurely] See on Chap.1. 11.

the mountain falling] Falling away by little and little, by reaſon of ſome earth quake, or fiery mines under it, or the ſea undertaking it. See more on Chap.9. 5. Some read it, as the mountains falling, &c. ſo thou deſtroyeſt the hope of men, ver.10. Thus as, is added, ver.11.

cometh to nought] Heb. fadeth. It moulders and withers away like a leafe fallen off a tree, Pſal. 1. 3.

and the rock is removed out of his place] Either by old age decaying; as the word alſo ſignifieth, Pſal.6. 7. or by the means mentioned before. See on Chap.9. 5.

V. 10. The waters wear the ſtones: thou waſheſt away the things which grow out of the duſt of the earth, and thou deſtroyeſt the hope of man,] As in the former verſe he had ſhewed mans mortality, and irrecoverableneſſe into this world after death, by the decay of higheſt and firmeſt things, hills and rocks; ſo in this verſe, by the irreparable ruine of the hardeſt, and beſt-rooted things; as ſtones, and things growing out of the earth, which one would think, lay very ſafe, and had a ſure foundation for continuance.

the waters] It may be underſtood either of rain-water, or waters here below. For the various ſignifications of the word, ſee on verſ.9.

wear] By often falling upon them, or continual running over them they diminiſh them.

the ſtones] The word אבן is taken, 1. for ordinary ſtones, ſuch as lye on the ground, Chap.5.23. 2. a veſſel made of ſtone, Exod.7.19. 3. an Idol of ſtone, Jer.2.27. 4. a ſtone to weigh things by, for ſuch were the Jews weights, Prov.11.1. See the margin there. 5. a plummet, Zech.4.10 See the margin there. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe. Stones are hard and ſtrong, Chap.6.12. yet water will wear them away in time.

thou waſheſt away] Or, overfloweſt. He turns his ſpeech to God, to whom he attributes theſe devaſtations. So verſ.20. Thou prevaileſt, &c. See the like, Gen.49.18. To God he ſpake before, verſe 16,17. and ſo continues. Others read it, The duſt of the earth overflowes the things which grow out of it; That is, the ſand and rubbiſh which a floud brings, doth drown and kill things growing out of the earth. Others read it, The drops thereof wear the duſt of the earth; That is, they do in time not only wear away ſtones, but the earth it ſelf by little and little. The firſt reading is the beſt.

the things which grow] Heb. which grow out of it. It ſignifies ſuch things as naturally grow out of the earth without plowing or ſowing, or ariſe out of corn ſcattered the year before, Lev.25.5. 2 King.19.29. Iſa.37.30. one would think the earth ſhould preſerve its own brood, yet it cannot.

out of the duſt of the earth] Out of the earth it ſelf, which is nothing but duſt congealed, and crumbles to duſt. See on verſ.8. & Chap.9.24.

and] Or, ſo. See on ver,18. Here is the reddition of the ſimilitude. It is tranſlated, ſo, ver.12.

thou deſtroyeſt] Heb. thou makeſt to periſh. Though a man in proſperity think he ſhall abide ſo, yet thou doſt diſappoint him.

the hope] His hope of continuing longer in this world, or of ever returning into it again. Thou putteſt him quite out of hope by killing him. For the word, ſee on Chap,5.16. & 7.6. & 11.18.

of man] See on Chap.5.17. & 9.2.

V.20. Thou prevaileſt for ever againſt him, and he paſſeth: thou changeſt his countenance, and ſendeſt him away.] He goes on in the application of the former ſimilitude, and ſhews the manner how God diſappoints the hope of man, to wit, by ſending him out of the world by his mighty power.

Thou prevaileſt] Thou art ſtronger then he, and ſo prevaileſt againſt him by thy ſtrength, and overcomeſt him.

for ever] So that thou ſhutteſt him for ever out of this world by death. See on Chap.4.20. againſt him] Againſt ſorry and weak man, mentioned ver.19. And what great victory is this for the mighty God to uſe his great power to overcome a weak man?

and he paſſeth] As a Souldier overcome in battel by a potent adverſary flyes away, and is ſeen no more there, ſo doth man out of the world, being overcome by God. It intimates a violent, or at leaſt an untimely death. The word הלך ſignifies, 1. Going about ſomething, though men walk not; as Chap.1.4. 2. Going on in a continued way, or walking, Gen.31.19. 3. The paſſage of Ships and other liveleſſe things; Pſal.104.26. 4 Paſſing out of the world, or dying, Gen.15.15. 5. Conſtancy in a condition, as walking childleſſe, Gen.15.2. 6. It imports a courſe of life good or bad, Pſal.1.1. & 119.1. Here it is taken in the fourth ſenſe, for paſſing out of the world by death, and that by a violent one alſo, as was noted before. See on Chap,10.21.

thou changeſt] Or, changing. For it will agree with the former words, He paſſeth changing his countenance. But it is better to attribute this change to God, to whom ſending him out of the world, is attributed in the end of the verſe. The word שנה ſignifies ſometimes to do the ſame thing, or double; as Gen.41.32. 2. To do another thing quite different from it, or to alter or change a thing; as Mal.3.6. So here.

his countenance] The word שנים ſignifies, 1. The countenance of a living creature, Iſa.25.8. 2. The outſide of a thing, which is viſible like the face of man, Chap.5.10. 3. The perſon, the face being a principall part of the body, and a chief ornament of the perſon, chap.13.10. 4. The credit or reputation, which is open and publick like the face, Chap.9.24. 5. The preſence, which is diſcerned by the face, Chap.1.12. 6. The demonſtration of anger or ſadneſſe, or chearfulneſſe, which uſe to appear in the face, Gen.31.2. 1 Sam.1.18. Chap.9.27. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe. Death takes away the beauty of man, and makes his countenance pale and wan.

and ſendeſt him away] This word שלח hath many and various ſignifications, 1. To ſend a meſſenger, Chap.1.4,5. 2. To put forth the hand, Gen.3.22. Chap.1.11. 3. To hold out the finger, or point to one, Iſa.58.9. 4. To pour out, Chap.5.10. 5. To ſpeak or ſend out words, Pſal.50.19. 6. To ſend away, Gen.3.23. 7. To ſend forth, Pſal.43.3. 8. To let the hair grow, and not to cut it, Ezek.44.20. Here it is uſed in the ſixt ſenſe. God by death ſends a man clean away out of this world into another.

V.21. His ſons come to honour, and he knoweth it not; and they are brought low; but he perceiveth it not of them.] In this verſe he proves, that man by death is clean caſt out of the world, becauſe he knows nothing of what is done here, no not that which concerns ſuch as once were moſt near and dear unto him.

His ſons] Or, If his ſons. If they be preferred, or brought low, he is ignorant of it. He ſpeaks of the dead mans ſons mentioned in the former verſe. The word בן ſignifies, 1. A ſon by nature, Prov.1.1. and nephew or ſons ſon, Gen.29.5. Laban is called the ſon of Nahor, but was his grandchild. 2. An adopted ſon, Exod.2.10. 3. A child, whether male, or female, Gen.3.16. 4. A ſcholler is called the ſon of the teacher, 2 King.2.3. 5. An Inhabitant is called a ſon, as if the place or city were his mother, Iſa.11.14. 6. A thing contained in another, as the child in the womb, Lam.3.13. 7. One belonging or deſtinated to any thing, Pſal.102.20. 8. The young ones of birds or beaſts are called ſons, Lev.1.14. 9. To ſet out time or age, Gen.17.1. Abram was ninety years old, Heb. a ſon of ninety years. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for his ſons and poſterity.

come to honour] Or, are weighty. Loaded with wealth, and honour, Iſa.66.5. and he knoweth it not] The dead father can take no notice of it. So the word is uſed, Chap.5.10. & 9.21. Iſa.63.16. Eccl.2.19.

and they are brought low] Heb. are ſmall. yet not meant, that they are ſmall in number, but poor and contemptible, as appears by oppoſition to the former part of the verſe, and by the uſe of the word elſewhere, Chap.8.7. Pſal.119.141. Jer.30.19.

but he perceiveth it not of them] He is ſo clean eſtranged from all humane affairs, that he knows not what becomes of his own children, whether they be rich or poor, high or low. Some think it an anſwer to his friends words, Chap.5.25. that if he would repent, his poſterity ſhould proſper. Nay ſaith Job, that is no encouragement; for a dead man knows not what becomes of his poſterity, and therefore neither can receive comfort from their proſperity, nor ſorrow from their ruine.

V.22. But his fleſh upon him ſhall have pain, and his ſoule within him ſhall mourn.] The ſcope of this verſe is to ſhew, that dead men have no communion at all with thoſe that are alive, and that all bands of nature are ceaſed, when men are dead.

But] Or, Onely. If any man ask what he doth when he is dead, this is all that can be ſaid of him, that he takes no care for any left behind in the world.

His fleſh] The word בשר is taken; 1. for the ſoft part of mans body, oppoſed to bones, Gen.2.23. 2. for the whole body, oppoſed to the ſoul, Gen.2.24. 3. for any bodily living creature, Gen.7.16, 4. for the whole man, Deut.5.26. 5. for a kinſman according to the fleſh, Gen.37.27. 6. for a weak, or frail thing not to be leaned on, and therein like to fleſh without bones, Jer.17.5. Iſa.31.1,3. 7. for a thing ſoft and tractable, like fleſh, Ezek.36.26. 8 for the corruption of mans nature, Gen.6.3. 9. for the privie members, Gen.17.23. 10. for the skin, which is of a fleſhly ſubſtance, and covers the fleſh, Pſal.102.5. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, for it is oppoſed to the ſoul.

upon him] Or, for it ſelfe: Or, concerning it ſelf. It is ſaid to be upon him, becauſe it is the viſible part of man; as in the end of the verſe, the ſoul, which is the inviſible part, is ſaid to be within him, ſhall have pain] The word כאב ſignifies; 1. Pain of body, Gen.34.25. 2. Grief of mind, which oftentimes ariſeth out of bodily pain, by reaſon of the ſympathy between ſoul and body, Prov.14.13. 3. The marring or ſpoyling of a thing, becauſe, both the things men grieve for, and grief it ſelf, mar the body, and corrupt it. The Tranſlators here take it in the firſt ſenſe: but the third agrees better with the nature of a dead body, which is capable of corruption, but not of paine.

and his ſoule] The word נפש ſignifies; 1. Breath, Chap.41.21. 2. Life, Gen.9.4,5. 3. The ſoul, without which there is neither life nor breath in the body, Gen.2.7. 4. a living body, which hath a ſoul in it, Gen.1.20,24. 5. a man, Exod.1.5. 6. mans body, Pſal.105.18. He was laid in iron, Heb. His ſoul. As in the margin there, yet it was the body of Joſeph onely, for his ſoul could not be laid in iron. 7. a dead carcaſſe, that had once a ſoul in it, Lev.19.28. & 22.4. For the dead, Heb. for a ſoul. 8. For the heart, mind, or deſire of a man, Exod,23.9. 9. for the perſon, as for God himſelf, Amos 6.8. Here it is taken in the third ſenſe, for the ſoul it ſelf, for it is oppoſed to the fleſh.

within him] It is the ſame word, that was uſed before, for, upon him, in this verſe: but the Tranſlators, having rightly obſerved the difference between ſoul and body, as was there noted, have fitly tranſlated it here, within him. So it is uſed, Chap.18.6. & 8.16.

ſhall mourn] The word imports lamentation inward in mind, or outwardly expreſſed, and ſometimes is attributed to ſenſleſſe things, as to the earth, Iſai.24.4. Jer.12.4. becauſe they are in an ill condition, and are uncomely, and ſtrangely altered in their colour, or ruined, as men that mourn. So if the ſoul be taken for the life here, it may be meant, that as the body is corrupted, ſo the life is loſt. Some underſtand it of the man alive, and render the ſenſe thus, He was troubled while he was alive with his own miſery, and grieved for his own troubles; but now he takes no notice of what befalls his poſterity. Others, underſtand it of the dead man, ſet out like one alive, and brought in complaining of, and mourning for his ſorrows; but no more intended by it, but that he is not affected with any good or evill that befalls others; yea, like an hard-hearted man, regards not his own poſterity. So living acts are attributed to dead men, Chap. 21. 33. & 3. 17, 18, 19. & 17. 13, 14. Iſa. 14. 9, 10. This latter ſenſe is very emphatical, and agrees beſt with the ſcope of Job in this place.

CHAP. XV.

Verſ. 1. THen anſwered Eliphaz the Temanite, and ſaid] For this verſe ſee on Chap. 4. 1. & 2. 11. & 6. 1. & 16. 1. The firſt conflict of Job with his three friends being ended, the ſecond begins here, and ends at the end of Chap. 21. No new matter is added, but they confirm what they had ſaid before, and charge Job openly. Eliphaz had dealt more cloſely before, in general terms only, accuſing Job to be wicked, becauſe none but wicked men were ſo puniſhed. Now he charges him more particularly, as appears in the very beginning of his ſpeech, verſ. 2, &c. His charge againſt Job is in the 16. firſt verſes of this Chapter; and at the 17. verſe, and ſo on to the end of the Chapter, he goes on with his old theme to prove, that not good men, but wicked men are ſcourged and deſtroyed by Gods horrible judgements. And it is to be obſerved, that both Eliphaz, and Jobs other two friends, in the ſecond conflict, angred peradventure, by ſome harſh words of Job, do only lay load upon him, as upon a wicked man, but afford him not one exhortation to repentance, or one comfortable promiſe, as formerly they had done, Chap. 5. 17. & 8. 20. & 11. 13. as if they utterly deſpaired of his ever returning unto God.

V. 2. Should a wiſe man utter vain knowledge, and fill his belly with the Eaſt-wind?] Eliphaz having heard all that Job had ſpoken, What, ſaith he, Doth it become him, who would ſeem to be ſo wiſe, and well adviſed, to utter words that are vain, and lighter then the wind it ſelf, as if they contained great wiſdom? Yea, like the Eaſt-wind, to blow hurtful words out of his ſwelling breaſt? What he ſpeaks here by a ſimilitude, he declares in plain terms in the next verſe, and comes to the particular charge at the fourth verſe.

Should] He ſpeaks like one in choler, in a chiding way. Art thou not aſhamed to talk thus? Doth it become thee? Certainly it doth not. Such patheticall queſtions are frequent in this Book, Chap. 4. 2. & 8. 2. & 11. 2, 3. They are the common beginnings of the ſpeeches of Jobs friends, and argue much choler and confidence.

a wiſe man] As thou thinkeſt thy ſelf to be. For it appears, that he meant Job, verſ. 4. though he would not ſpeak particularly to him at firſt. There he charges him home, and declares, what theſe vain words were.

utter] Heb. anſwer. See on Chap. 4. 1. & 6. 1.

vain knowledge] Heb. knowledge of the wind. The word רוח: ſignifies; 1. the wind, Chap. 1. 19. 2. vanity, a thing of no ſubſtance, but empty like the wind, Eccl. 5. 16. 3. ſome one corner or quarter of the earth, where the wind ſometimes blowes, 1 Chron. 9. 24. 4. the breath of a living creature, which is a kind of wind, Pſal. 135. 17. 5. a ſpirit, or angel, Chap. 4. 15. 6. the ſoul of man, Gen. 45. 27. 7. the life of a living creature, which cannot be without ſoul or breath, Chap. 10. 12. 8. the Holy Ghoſt, the third perſon in Trinity, Gen. 1. 2. 9. the gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, Joel 2. 28. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, for vain and empty knowledge, as the tranſlation ſhews. Such knowledge as is good for nothing, nor gives no ſatiſfaction, as ver. 3. Chap. 6. 26. & 7. 7. & 16. 3. Prov. 11. 29. Jer. 5. 13. So light account had they of Jobs words.

and fill] The Hebrew word מלא when it is ſpoken of a veſſel, or place, it ſignifies filling, Gen. 1. 28. & 42. 25. when it hath relation to a time or word, it ſignifies fulfilling, Gen. 29. 21, 27. 1 King. 2. 27. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

his belly] בטן ſignifies; 1. the belly it ſelf of a living creature, Chap. 1. 21. 2. the bowels or entrals that are in the belly, Numb. 5. 22. 3. the middle of any thing, whereby the upper and lower parts are joyned together, as in man by the belly, 1 King. 7. 20. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe in the ſimilitude; but in the application, hereby is meant the heart, or ſoul, filled with frothy knowledge, ver. 35. Chap. 20. 20. & 32. 19. Prov. 20. 27. For the ſoul receives things, and digeſts them, in point of knowledge, as the belly doth meats.

with the Eaſt-wind] The word comes from קדם: before; coming as it were from the face, or fore-part of heaven, from the ſun-riſing, not from the back-parts, or Weſt, where the Sun ſets, and leaves darkneſſe behind it. Hereby is meant deviſing falſe and dangerous things, to feed their own fancies, and utter to the hurt of others. For the Eaſt-wind is deſtructive to herbs and fruits, Hoſ. 12. 1. Gen. 41. 6.

V. 3. Should he reaſon with unprofitable talk? or with ſpeeches wherewith he can do no good?] In this verſe he endeavours to make good the former part of his charge, cloſely intimating, that Jobs words were empty like wind: and in the next verſe he plainly charges him with deſtructive words, like the Eaſt-wind, that ſo he might confirm the latter part of his charge, in the former verſe.

Should he] See on ver. 2.

reaſon] The word יכח ſignifies. 1. To reaſon a caſe by anſwers and replies, Chap. 6. 25. 2. To convince, confute or reprove ſuch as are in the wrong. Chap. 6. 26. 3. To correct or ſcourge one for ſin, Pſal. 6. 1. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

with unprofitable] Heb. that profits not. He chargeth Job with uſing weak arguments, unable to prove the thing in queſtion.

talk] Heb. Heb. words. The Hebrew word דבר is uſed, 1. For a word, Hoſ. 1. 1. 2. For a thing; for as it is expreſſed by words, ſo it expreſſeth a mans meaning, when it is done, 1 King. 17. 17. 1 Sam. 15. 13, 14. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe for words uſed by Job in diſputing with his friends: yet not for a bare word, but for ſentences. So the ten commandements are called ten words, Exod. 34. 28. See the margin there.

or with ſpeeches, wherewith he can do no good] Bring no profit, Not be able to prove his cauſe, or do any good to others, but rather ſeduce them. The ſame thing uttered in other words for the more aſſurance, and to expreſſe the greater vehemencie. See on Chap. 14. 10, 11.

V. 4. Yea, thou caſteſt off fear, and reſtraineſt prayer before God] Thou doſt by conſequence teach men to caſt off all religion, and worſhip of God, as a thing that cannot profit them, becauſe thou mainteineſt, that God deals as ill with good men, as with bad, Chap. 9. 22, 23. Jobs friends ſpeaking by turns, anſwer ſometimes to what Job ſaid to their fellows, as it came to their mind, as well as to what he ſaid to themſelves.

yea] Thou doſt not only ſpeak vainly, but alſo wickedly, which is worſe. Or, How much more doſt thou caſt off fear? How much more wickedly doſt thou, in giving other men grounds of impiety? This is far worſe, then ſpeaking vanity. See on Chap. 4. 19.

thou doſt caſt off] Both from thy ſelf, and others. Heb. Thou makeſt void. Beſides the perſon included in the verb, the pronoun is added in the Original to brand Job the more, as if he had ſaid; None but ſuch an one as thou, would have ſpoken ſo vilely. The word פור here uſed ſignifies, 1. To break a thing aſunder, or divide it, Pſal. 74. 13. 2. To make void, and of none effect, Numb. 30. 8. So here. Now they that caſt off the fear of God from themſelves, or others, do as much as lies in them, make it void, Pſal. 119. 126.

fear] The fear of God: As the word, for the word of God, Jam. 1. 21. 1 Pet. 2. 2. So the law and teſtimony, Iſa. 8. 20. For theſe are moſt excellent in their kind, and therefore men will with moſt reaſon gueſſe them to be intended, though Gods name be not added to them. יראה is taken, 1. for a fear of ſinning againſt God, Exod. 14. 31. 2. for a fear of reverence, Mal. 3. 16. 3. for the true Religion, 2 King. 17. 25. Job 1. 1. So it is taken here; as appears by the end of the verſe. Thou wilt make men not to care for ſerving God at all, ſeeing no good is to be gotten by it, Mal. 3. 14, 15. Thou wilt deſtroy all Religion.

and reſtraineſt] Diſcourageſt men from praying by thy ungodly words.

prayer] The word שיחה ſignifies, 1. meditation, Pſal. 104. 34. 2. a prayer or complaint, which proceeds out of meditation, Pſal. 102. in the title. Job 7. 13. So it is uſed here, and caſt in Jobs diſh as a great fault (as indeed it were, had it been true) that he hindred men from praying to God.

before God] See on Chap. 8. 3.

V. 5. For thy mouth uttereth thine iniquity, and thou chuſeſt the tongue of the crafty] I need not prove the former charge, that thou diſcourageſt men from the worſhip of God, for thy own words have ſufficiently diſcovered it.

For thy mouth] The word, פה 1. ſignifies that member which we call the mouth of the body, Pſal. 115. 5. 2. The ſpeech, or words that come out of the mouth, Gen. 41. 40. Thy word, Heb. thy mouth. 3. The round top of a well, or garment, or veſſel, which is like a mouth, Gen. 29. 2. 4. The edge of a ſword, which devours, or deſtroyes men, as the mouth doth meat, Gen. 34. 26. 5. The end or corner of a place, 2 King. 10. 21. 6. A part or portion, as the mouth is a part of the face, Deut. 21. 17. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, for the words that come out of Jobs mouth; as the tongue is alſo uſed in this verſe, and the lips in the next. For theſe are the inſtruments of ſpeaking; and if Job had ſaid nothing, his mouth had not accuſed him.

uttereth] Heb. teacheth. The word אלף ſignifies, 1. by ſpeech, to inſtruct others; as Chap. 33. 33. 2. to ſhew one ſomething, he ſaw not, or obſerved not before; as Exod. 15. 25. So here, thy ſpeech bewrays this evill purpoſe of thy heart. I gather it out of thine own words. I need no other witneſſes. Thine own mouth hath uttered it. See on ver. 4.

thine iniquity] See on Chap. 7. 21. Others read it thus; For thine iniquity teacheth thy mouth. Thou couldeſt not ſpeak ſo wickedly, if thou hadſt not a very rotten heart. But the former reading agrees beſt with the coherence of this verſe with the former; as alſo with the following verſe.

and thou chuſeſt] Or, though thou chuſeſt. Thou doſt not directly ſpeak againſt piety, but doſt cloſely undermine it by thy words. See on ver. 4. For ו though: ſee 2 Chr. 30. 19. The meaning is, Thou delighteſt to ſpeak craftily, rather then plainly.

the tongue] This word, לשון 1. ſignifies that member, which we call the tongue, Pſal. 12. 3. 2. the ſpeech or words; for the tongue is the chief inſtrument of ſpeaking, Prov. 25. 15. 3. the language of a nation different from others, Eſth. 1. 22. 4. A nation that uſe one tongue or language, Iſa. 66. 18. 5. Any thing long like a tongue: a wedge of gold, Joſh. 7. 21. 6. A bay of the ſea that runs out of it like a tongue, narrower to the landward, as the tip of the tongue, put out of the mouth. Joſh. 15. 5. Iſa. 11. 15. 7. A flame of fire, which is alſo like a tongue, narroweſt at top, Iſa. 5. 24. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe for Jobs ſpeech, or words, as the mouth was before in this verſe.

of the crafty] See on Chap. 5. 12, 13.

V. 6. Thine own mouth condemneth thee, and not I; yea, thine own lips teſtifie againſt thee.] Thou mayeſt think that I deal too hardly with thee, in judging thee to be a wicked man, and an hinderer of piety; but I ſhall need no witneſſes to prove it for thy own words that have dropped from thee, have abundantly proved. See the like, Mat. 26. 65. Luke 19 22.

thine own mouth] See on ver. 5. condemneth thee] Of impiety, and hinderance of Religion in others. See on chap 9. 20.

and not I] I ſhall not need to ſearch for witneſſes to condemn thee: thine own mouth will do it ſufficiently. Or I am not thy chief condemner, but thine own words are. See the like phraſe, Joh. 5. 45.

yea thine own lips] This word שפה 1. ſignifies the lips themſelves, Iſa. 6. 7. 2. a ſpeech or words, for the lips are inſtruments of ſpeaking, Prov. 12. 13. 3 a language of a people, Gen. 11. 1. 4. the ſhore of the ſea, Gen 22. 17. or brink of a river, as the lips to the mouth. Here it is taken for ſpeech, as the mouth and tongue were, ver. 5.

teſtifie againſt thee] If Job ſhould object, How can my mouth condemn me without witneſſes? he anſwers, Thou thy ſelf are both Witneſſe and Judge. Thine own tongue guided by the conſcience, will both accuſe and condemn thee. The word ענה ſignifies 1. to anſwer to ſomething ſpoken before, chap. 6. 1. 2. to begin a ſpeech, eſpecially upon occaſion of ſomething done before, Chap. 4 1. 3, to hear prayer; for he that anſwers it, queſtionleſſe heard it, 1 Sam. 7. 9. 4. to bear Witneſſe; for Witneſſes ordinarily anſwer to queſtions propounded by the Judge, Exod. 20. 16. So it is here taken, as the tranſlation ſhewes.

V. 7. Art thou the firſt man that was born? or waſt thou made before the hills?] Theſe words ſeem to take their riſe from Job's words, Chap. 11. 12. wherein he did tacitly intimate, that he thought himſelf wiſer then they, becauſe he was elder. This is with much choler objected to him here by Eliphaz; as if he had ſaid, Thou doſt arrogate wiſdom to thy ſelf; as if thou hadſt been the firſt man in the world, and by obſervation of all occurrences, ever ſince the creation, hadſt gotten ſingular wiſdom to thy ſelf; ſo that thou needeſt not to be taught by any other; but all others had need to learn of thee. Thus in an ironical way he goes on to deride Job in this verſe, and the next, and concludes the contrary, ver. 9, 10.

art thou the firſt man] For the firſt, ſee on chap. 8. 8. It is taken here for the firſt of all in time. For the word man, ſee on chap. 14. 1.

that was born] The word ילד ſignifies, 1. to be born; as chap. 14. 1. 2. to be brought forth, for that gives a being to things, as well as birth, Pſal. 90. 2. So here. For the firſt man could not be born, but created. Or, Heb. And; yet it is often tranſlated, or, as Exod. 21. 15. and ſo it may here; for it differs from the former, and expreſſeth ſomething more. For the hills were made before man.

waſt thou made] the word חולל properly imports the bringing forth of children with pain by the mother, Pſal. 51. 5. and thence comes to ſignifie any other bringing forth of a perſon, or thing, Prov. 8. 24, 25. So here before the hills] A proverbial ſpeech, to ſet out antiquity, or rather eternity; for the hills were made at the beginning of the world, and in likelyhood appeared out of the Chaos before other parts of the earth; and he that was before the world, muſt be eternall. Hills being laſting creatures, are uſed to ſet out eternity. So much this phraſe imports, Prov. 8 25. Pſal. 90. 2. And ſo much is intimated in the next verſe. It is as much as if Eliphaz had ſaid, Doſt thou think that thou waſt before all men, and knoweſt more then any man, becauſe of thine age? or doſt thou think yet more highly of thy ſelf, that thou waſt from eternity, and knoweſt as much as God? Theſe are vain thoughts in thee. With the ſame argument God beats down the pride of Job, in the beginning of his ſpeech to him, Chap. 38 4, &c.

V. 8. Haſt thou heard the ſecret of God? and doſt thou reſtrain wiſdom to thy ſelf?] Here he doth more fully explain his meaning, that he intended not only to charge Job with a conceit, that he was wiſer then all men, but alſo that he knew Gods determinations from eternity.

Haſt thou heard] For the various ſignifications of this word, ſee on Chap. 13. 17.

the ſecret] Heb. in the ſecret. That is, haſt thou before the world was, been in Gods privie counſel, and heard what was ſecretly there determined? Jer. 23. 18, 22. One verb included in another. So Ruth 4. 1. Turn aſide, that is, turn back, and come hither. The word סוד ſignifies, 1. A thing kept ſecret, Amos 3. 7. 2. conſultation, which uſeth to be kept ſecret, leſt things agreed upon being made known, may be diſappointed, before they can be effected, Pſal. 55. 14. 3. An aſſembly, or councill of men met together ſecretly to conſult about matters of weight, Jer. 6. 11. Here it may be taken either in the firſt, or in the third ſenſe.

of God] See on Chap. 4. 9. & 11. 5.

and doſt thou reſtrain wiſdom to thy ſelf?] Doſt thou deny it to all others, and appropriate it to thy ſelf? One verb included in another. See before in this verſe, on the word ſecret. The like arrogancie Job had objected to them, Chap. 12. 2.

V. 9. VVhat knoweſt thou, that we know not? what underſtandeſt thou, that is not in us?] He proves that Job was not ſo full of knowledge, as he boaſted, nor was not of Gods privie counſell, for he knew no more then they. And ſo confutes Job with his own words, Chap. 12. 3. & 13. 2. For the meaning of this verſe, ſee the Notes on thoſe places; for the words differ little, and the ſenſe is the ſame.

V. 10. VVith us are both the gray-headed, and very aged men, much elder then thy father.] It is likely he hath reſpect to thoſe words of Job, Chap. 12. 12. with the antient is wiſdom. Thou needeſt not (ſaith Eliphaz) bid us mark thy words, as things unknown to us, and never heard of before, nor caſt youth in our faces to diſgrace us, as if all antiquity were on thy ſide; for we have received from our parents and teachers, who were elder and wiſer then thou, yea then thy father, things more excellent, and more hidden myſteries, then thou haſt told us, and therefore our knowledge is more ancient, and more gray-headed, then thine; and therefore by thine own argument, more ſure and certain.

with us are] Some think that he means, that himſelf and Bildad were ancienter then Jobs father, though Zophar might be younger then Job, as ſeems by Jobs anſwer to him, Chap. 12. 12. And they read it, There is a gray-headed man among us, (meaning himſelf) and a very aged man, (meaning Bildad) So runs the Chaldee Paraphraſe. But that is doubtfull, as appears by the notes there. And the Chaldee Paraphraſe makes Zophar elder then Jobs father. It may be meant ſimply. There are ancienter men then thy father now alive, and not in other Countries onely, but in ours, of whom we have learned what we ſpeak, and find them to be of our mind. And theſe ſhould know more then thou by thine own argument.

both the gray-headed, and very aged men] For theſe words, ſee the Notes on Chap. 12. 12. where both theſe words are expounded.

much elder then] Heb. more in dayes then. See on Chap. 8. 2.

thy father] The word אב in the original comes from אבה, to deſire, or to delight in a thing, becauſe moſt men deſire children, and parents take more pleaſure in them, then in all their poſſeſſions, Gen. 15. 2. & 30. 1. 1 Sam. 1. 8, 11. The word ſignifies, 1. An immediate father, Ruth 4. 17. 2. Anceſtours, Gen. 31. 3. 3. Rulers in a Common-Wealth or Family, 2 King. 5. 13. 4. Teachers, 2 King. 2. 12. 5. A reliever; for rulers and teachers, and relievers, take care of others, as parents do of children, Chap. 29. 16. 6. The firſt inventor of any thing, Gen. 4. 20. For children went not abroad then to learn, but were taught of their fathers, and continued ordinarily in the ſame trade, Gen. 47. 3. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for Jobs immediate father. For no doubt but Job had anceſtours as old as they.

V. 11. Are the conſolations of God ſmall with thee? is there any ſecret thing with thee?] Here Jobs friends go on in an ironicall way to deride and vilifie Job, as one that thought too highly of himſelf, and too meanly of them, and that in this verſe, and the two verſes following. He proves it by an effect of this pride, in the beginning of this verſe, contempt of divine conſolation. Which is ſet out by the cauſe of it, in the end of this verſe, and in the 12. verſe, to wit, blindneſſe of mind, and impotencie ariſing either out of too much confidence in himſelf, or too deep ſenſe of his miſeries. And this charge is made good from the effect of it, ver. 13. angry words uttered againſt God. The ſumme of the verſe is, as if Job ſhould have ſaid, Theſe comforts which we bring thee, as it were from God himſelf, they are too ſlender belike, and not for thy likeing: doubtleſſe there lyeth hidden in thee ſome greater and more profound wiſdome, then every man knoweth.

Are] It ſeems they are ſlighted by thee; but they ſhould not be ſo, and therefore we marvel at thy ſtrange carriage. See the like queſtion of admiration, and not of deniall, Chap. 14. 14. Look the Notes there.

the conſolations of God] Some underſtand it of thoſe comforts Job had had from God before in the time of his proſperity, as if Eliphaz went about to accuſe Job of forgetfulneſſe of Gods former proceedings with him, the remembrance whereof might have been a great comfort to him now in his troubles. But this was far from Eliphaz his ſcope, who endeavoured not to comfort Job, but to diſcourage him. It is rather to be underſtood of thoſe comfortable promiſes that Eliphaz, and his companions, had given to Job in their former diſpute with him, promiſing him from God much future proſperity, if he did repent. Others read it, the conſolations of theſe men. Meaning the two laſt that had ſpoken, and in modeſty ſaying nothing of himſelf. So he blames him for deſpiſing their counſels, and in a kind of arrogancy calls them, The conſolations of God. Men are eaſily in love with, and think highly of their own projects. For אל, God, ſee on Chap. 8. 3, 5.

ſmall with thee] Heb. too little for thee. Doſt thou ſlight them, as things beneath thee? Doſt thou expect greater promiſes from God to draw thee to repentance, then we have given thee? It ſeems thou doſt, becauſe thou art ſo ſlow in hearkening to us.

is there any ſecret thing with thee] Art thou by ſome ſecret revelation better acquainted with Gods mind then we? It ſeems thou thinkeſt ſo, and therefore deſpiſeſt our counſels. Eliphaz ſpeaks this with a kind of contempt. See the like ſpeech, 1 King. 22. 24. Others read it, And the word gently ſpoken to thee. So it is tranſlated, 1 Sam. 18. 5. But the former agrees beſt with the ſcope of the place. For the word דבר, a thing, ſee on verſ. 3. of this Chapter.

V. 12. Why doth thine heart carry thee away? and what do thine eyes wink at?] Tell me I pray thee what the reaſon is, that thou art thus ſtrangely tranſported and carried out of thy ſelf, beyond all bounds of reaſon and modeſty, to lift up thy ſelf againſt God, and mock us?

Why] So this word מה is tranſlated, Chap. 7. 21. But ordinarily it ſignifies What; as verſ. 9 of this Chapter.

Doth thine heart] The word לב is taken, 1. For that fleſhly member, which we call by that name, 2 Sam. 18. 14. 2. For the middle of any thing, becauſe the heart lyes in the middle of the body, Jon. 2. 3. 3. For the ſoul it ſelf, which brings life, and reſides firſt and laſt in the heart, 1 Sam. 26. 5. 4. For the thought of the heart, Chap. 1. 5. 2 King 5. 26. 5. For the affection, 2 King. 10. 15. 6. For knowledge or underſtanding, Prov. 15. 32. Here it is taken in the fourth ſenſe, for the thought of the heart.

carry thee away] לקח ſignifies, 1. To receive a thing given, Deut. 16. 19. 2. To take away a thing by violence, Chap. 9. 12. 2 Sam. 12. 30. 3. To take a thing bought, 2 Sam. 4. 6. 4. To receive inſtruction, or to learn, Chap. 22. 22. Prov. 1. 3. 5. To allure or take one with words, Prov. 6. 25. & 11. 30. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, for a violent tranſportation, or carrying a man out of himſelf.

and what] Or, why; as before in this verſe.

do thine eyes wink at] The Hebrew word here uſed, is not found elſewhere in Scripture. But the phraſe of winking with the eyes, is uſed to expreſſe a geſture of mocking, Pſal. 35. 19. Prov. 6. 13. & 10. 10. It may be that Job was forced by reaſon of his pain and ſores to wink in his own ſpeeches or his friends; and this they uncharitably interpret, as if he did it in contempt of God or them, as the words foregoing in this verſe, and the words following in the next verſe do import.

V. 13. That thou turneſt thy ſpirit againſt God, and letteſt ſuch words go out of thy mouth?] This verſe is an explanation of the former; for here he ſhews to what his heart did carry him away ſo violently, to wit, to ſpeak ſuch bitter words againſt God and his providence, as he had formerly uttered.

That] This particle hath many other ſignifications, but is thus tranſlated, 2 King 8. 13.

thou turneſt] The Hebrew word השיב in this conjugation ſignifies diverſly: 1. When it is ſpoken of a thing, it ſignifies reſtoring it to his place, or bringing it back again, Gen. 14. 16. 2. When of words, it ſignifies anſwering, or rendring of words back again, Gen. 37. 14. 3. When of good or evill, it is to repay, reward, or puniſh, Gen. 50. 15. 4. When of anger, it imports reſtraining of it, or reconciliation, Numb. 25. 11. 5. When of the face, it ſignifies rejecting, or denying his requeſt, 1 King. 2. 16. Deny me not. Heb. turn not away my face. See in the margine there. 6. When of the heart, it intends calling a thing to mind, or thinking of it, Iſa. 46. 8. 7. When of the ſoul, it ſignifies to bring it back out of ſin, or ſorrow, to convert, or comfort it, Pſal. 19. 7. Lam. 1. 16. 8. When of an action, it ſignifies turning out of a way we were in before, or come to ſome other; as a traveller turns his feet out of one path into another, Dan. 11. 18, 19. So here Job is taxed for leaving that patient and ſubmiſſive way he was in, Chap. 1. and going on in that bitter way of complaining againſt God and his proceedings, which he began, Chap. 3.

thy ſpirit] See on verſ. 2. Here it is taken for the ſoul. Thou ſpeakeſt as earneſtly againſt God, as if thy heart were clean turned againſt him.

againſt] Or, to God. Thou takeſt it off from men, as if thou hadſt nothing to ſay to them, but all againſt God. Yet אל is tranſlated Againſt, 2 Chron. 11. 4. And ſo it may well be here.

God] See on Chap. 8. 3 5.

and letteſt ſuch words] The word ſuch, is not in the Original, but well added, to expreſſe the ſenſe. For it is not a fault to ſpeak, but to ſpeak amiſſe. What manner of words theſe were, appears by Eliphaz his anſwer to them in the next verſe, to wit, impatient words, formerly uttered by Job againſt Gods proceedings with him. For words, ſee on verſ. 3.

go out] Heb. makeſt to go out. The like word ſometimes ſignifies a permiſſion in this conjugation, as Pſal. 119. 175. But Job did more then ſuffer ſuch words to go out of his mouth; for he willingly ſpake them. At leaſt is ſo charged by Eliphaz. For the word go out, יצא, It ſignifies, 1, Going out of one place to another, Gen. 8. 7. 2. It is uſed of the birth of living creatures, when they go out of them into the world, 2 King. 20. 18. 3. It is ſpoken of things growing out of the earth, Deut. 14. 22. 4. Of the riſing of the Sun, Gen. 19. 23. 5. Of ſpeech, which comes out of the mouth, and is ſpread and ſcattered abroad, Eſth. 1. 17. 6. Of ſome extaſie of the ſoul, when through admiration, grief, or fear, it is as it were gone out of it ſelf, Gen. 42. 28. 7. Of laying out in expences, 2 King. 12. 12. 8. Of going out armed for war, Gen. 14. 8. 9. Of eſcaping by lot, and ſo going out of danger, 1 Sam. 14. 41. Here it is uſed in the fift ſenſe, and Job is accuſed of ſpeaking evill words againſt God.

of thy mouth] See on verſ. 5. Here it is uſed for the mouth it ſelf, the inſtrument of ſpeaking.

V. 14. What is man that he ſhould be clean? and he which is born of a woman, that he ſhould be righteous?] Before he had reproved Job, now he falls to the work to prove that he had ſpoken vain words, as he had charged him, verſ. 3. He anſwers Jobs words of juſtification of himſelf, Chap. 13. 18, 19, 23. His proofs are taken from the corruption of mans nature, which might be true, though Job were not a wicked man. And Eliphaz ſhews himſelf an empty and troubleſom diſputer, becauſe he uſeth the ſame arguments here, verſe 14, 15, 16. that he did, Chap. 4. verſ. 17, 18, 19. The ſum of the verſe is, that Job being born in ſin as other men, cannot be innocent before God.

What is] Spoken with admiration, as in the like phraſe is uſed, Pſal. 8. 4. with what face canſt thou pronounce thy ſelf righteous, being born as ſinful as other men? No man is of that account with God, that he can clear himſelf, Chap. 14. 4. 1 King. 8. 46. 2 Chr. 6. 36. Pſal. 14. 3. Prov. 20. 9. 1 Joh. 1. 8.

man] See on Chap. 5. 17. & 9. 2.

that he ſhould be clean] See on Chap. 11. 4. to which place it is likely Eliphaz here alludes, See the like charged on him by Elihu, Chapter 33. 8, 9.

that is born of a woman] Chap. 14. 1.

that he ſhould be righteous] Or, juſtified; as Chap. 4. 17.

V. 15. Behold he putteth no truſt in his Saints; yea the heavens are not clean in his ſight.] Eliphaz proves by an argument from the greater to the leſſe, that Job cannot be clean before God, whoſe knowledge is ſo exact, that he can find obſcurity in the Saints and Angels, at leaſt in reſpect of his own brightneſſe and purity.

Behold] See on Chap. 1. 12.

he putteth no truſt] See on Chap. 4. 18.

in his Saints] In the Saints in heaven, or the holy Angels. See on Chap. 4. 18. See Matth. 18. 10. & 24. 36.

the heavens] See on Chap. 9. 8. & 11. 8. Some underſtand it of the viſible heavens. Others of the Angels that dwell in the higheſt heavens. And ſo it agrees well with the beginning of this verſe, and with Chap. 4. 18. So it is put for God himſelf, Dan. 4. 26. who is ſaid to be in heaven, Matth. 6. 9. to have his throne there, Iſa. 66. 1. to be the King of heaven, Dan. 4. 37.

are not clean] If it be underſtood of the viſible heavens, then the meaning is, they are not all alike clear and bright, but have in them ſtars, and ſome thicker parts or clouds, which are as ſo many ſpots in them. If, of the Angels of heaven, ſee how they are unclean, in the Notes on Chap. 4. 18.

in his ſight] Heb. in his eyes. So Prov. 1. 17. for the eye is the inſtrument of ſight. As if he had ſaid, Thou O Job, thinkeſt thy ſelf clean, becauſe men can find no fault with thee: but Gods eyes are clearer then mens. He can find out thy ſecret ſins. Others underſtand it, in compariſon of God. Which though it be true, yet the Phraſe in the originall will hardly bear it.

V. 16. How much more abominable and filthy is man, which drinketh iniquity like water?] The argument was in the former verſe taken from Saints and Angels. The concluſion is in this verſe brought down to men, who are in a far worſer condition.

How much more] Or, How much leſſe. According as it is knit to the former or latter part of the verſe. See the ſame on chap. 4. 19.

abominable] The word ſignifies a thing that men cannot endure to look upon, nor to have in their preſence, Exod. 8. 26. And that may well be ſet in oppoſition to the beautifull heavens, which though they be not clean in Gods ſight, verſ. 15. yet are delightfull to mens eyes. So is man abominable in Gods eyes, and like unto meat, which the ſtomack cannot endure, Chap. 33. 20.

filthy] Noiſome, ſtinking, like meat putrified for want of ſalt, diſpleaſing to the palate, and noſe. So are men in their natural condition filthy in Gods account, Pſal. 14. 3. and 53. 3.

is man] For the word, ſee on chap. 1. 1. It is like that he gives Job a privy nip here. Thou haſt been a man of great note, yet God ſhewes by theſe plagues laid upon thee, that thou art abominable in his ſight.

which drinketh iniquity like water] Who is naturally as greedy to commit ſin, as a thirſty man is to drink water. It ſeems Elihu underſtood this to be ſpoken of Job, and chargeth him with it in particular, Chap. 34. 7. Prov. 26. 6. A proverbial ſpeech to ſignifie plenty and abundance of ſin in man; who as he was born in ſin, ſo is as it were bred and brought up in it, For the word Drinking, ſee on chap. 6. 4. For the word iniquity, ſee on Chap. 13. 7. For the word water, ſee on chap. 14. 7.

V. 17. I will ſhew thee, hear me, and that which I have ſeen, I will declare] Eliphaz being now to begin a new matter, to wit, to prove, that God afflicts none, but wicked men ſo grievouſly, as he afflicted Job, he begins with a new preface, to get attention. And that in the 17, 18, and 19. verſes. And in ſome high terms, that Job might not contemn what he had to ſay, as a thing full of uncertainty. He tells him therefore, that he need not think ſcorn to be taught by him, for he would produce nothing, but what he had either ſeen with his own eyes, or received from wiſe men, and thoſe no ordinary ones neither, but ſuch as were very eminent for power, and Juſtice. And thus he ſeeks to raiſe in Job an expectation of no mean things, but of great matters from him, not received from contemptible men, but wiſe obſervations delivered by famous ones, who for their wiſdom had whole Provinces committed to their charge to be governed by them. So he boaſted before of his night viſion, Chap. 4. 12.

I will ſhew thee] I will ſet that before thee, and make it plain to thee, which yet thou knoweſt not. Now what it was, that he ſhould ſhew him, appears by the following diſcourſe. I will plainly demonſtrate to thee, that what I, and my fellows have ſaid before, that onely wicked men are thus ſharply handled, is true. This argument Eliphaz was upon before, Chap. 4. 7. and Bildad, Chap. 8. 13.

hear me] For the various ſignifications of the Hebrew word, and the right uſe of it here, ſee on Chap. 3. 17.

and that which I have ſeen] Which I have gathred in my time, by obſerving Gods judgements on ungodly men. And therefore what I ſhall ſpeak is a certain truth, and worthie of credit, as comming from an eye-witneſſe, 1 Joh. 1. 1.
